Now, these three groups that influence the unions have been united (more or less) under the leadership of the middle class LaFollette. But all three proclaim that their policies are unchanged. The truth is that all have changed, reflecting the rapidly changing world in which they operate, but their minds have petrified. The unions face an entirely new situation, and because all three groups under consideration are living in the past, they find themselves (without changing their minds) thrown into the same political bed together. La Follette, the representative of small capital, claims and secures their allegiance as the logical leader of those who fear the present and long for the good old days. The slogan "Back to 1776" is sufficient to unite LaFollette, Gompers, Spreckles, Rawleigh, Johnston, Stone, Hillquit, Berger, and Debs.

* * *

Is this the beginning of a new party? Will a 'third party" be formed, as the Socialists pray, after the election? While this cannot be answered categorically "yes" or "no," all signs indicate that a new party will not be formed by those now in control unless and until the "LaFollette movement" has been thoroly purged of all "class elements" and has repudiated all thought of a basic change in the capitalist system. This means that no new party is possible out of this movement except a "liberal" capitalist party, unless it comes thru an upheaval in the unions resulting in a mass split away from the LaFollette movement.

This statement is borne out by innumerable facts. The trade unions are relegated to the position of auxiliary "supporting committees." Individual leaders and groups are united behind LaFollette and at the same time in closest unity with "regulars" on the republican and democratic tickets who energetically support Coolidge and Davis (Wheeler supporting Walsh in Montana, union leaders supporting Small in Illinois, etc.). The LaFollette movement is bitterly hostile to organized Farmer-Labor parties in the various states and even sabotages the strongest (Minnesota, where LaFollette appoints Sinclair, a banker, as campaign manager and refuses to go on the Farmer-Labor ticket and many similar incidents).

* * *

The LaFollette campaign brings not the slightest expression to the rising class-consciousness within the trade unions. The organizations are, most of them, thru their officials, pledged to support of LaFollette, but that fact is not going to abolish the class struggle. It is going to throw the class struggle, instead, right into the union halls. That is what is going on now in the local union meetings where the issue of Foster versus La Follette is being debated.

The struggle of ideas within the unions, between the ideas of the middle class and those of the revolutionary workers, for the possession of the minds of the membership, was inevitable. Foster versus LaFollette is only another side of the fundamental problem that, in the railroad shop unions, for example, is expressed in the struggle of amalgamation versus the B. & O. plan of collaboration with the management. The election is a part of and involves all the basic issues of the labor movement, and is intimately connected to every trade and industrial question with which the unions are struggling. On wage questions it is the struggle for higher wages as against arbitration. The generalized formula for the whole intra-union battle is class struggle versus class collaboration.

* * *

Thus it should be clear to every Communist and to every revolutionary worker who stands for the principle of the class struggle that the presidential campaign offers a wonderful opportunity. It is an opportunity to clarify the minds of the rank and file upon the deep issues that divide the whole labor movement. It shows up the reactionary officialdom as part and parcel of the corrupt political machinery of the class enemies of the workers. It offers a forum before masses of workers for the revolutionary position to be stated in terms which cannot be misunderstood. The very thing which the conscious and unconscious agents of the petty bourgeoisie look upon as their main strength— the united front from Hearst to Debs against the Communists—acts as a powerful shock to the workers and forces them to think, to open the questions of policy and the class issue for consideration, and to listen to the revolutionaries.

The duty of each revolutionary worker is as clear and as important as his opportunity is great. In every local union, in all central labor councils and district bodies, in every meeting where workers gather to consider their problems, the banner of the class struggle must be raised, the issues must be stated, the presidential campaign must be shown to the workers as the great class struggle—the battle against the bourgeoisie, large and small, and all its agents within the labor movement. It must be connected up directly with the left wing program of amalgamation, organization of the unorganized, the building of a mass Labor Party, fight against the B. & O. plan and similar "company union" schemes, the struggle against wage cuts and lengthening of hours.

Political issues and campaigns are merely the concentrated and generalized issues arising from the industrial struggle, from the efforts of the proletariat to free itself from wage slavery and exploitation and the mental bondage of capitalism. In the United States from now until November, the dominant issue of the class struggle is symbolized and concentrated upon the issue—Foster or La Follette!

A PROLETARIAN FAMILY

By Rudolph Schlichter

REVOLUTIONARY UNIONISM

(Continued from page 5)

Profintern, the minorities within the reformist unions, and the red independent unions, among the broadest masses of the proletariat the world over, making them realize the necessity of unity and the revolutionary possibilities which it has to attain. The Profintern knows that once revolutionary unions are part of a general federation of unions, their influence will be much greater than when they stay out.

The question of the fate of the Profintern agitated many a comrade, especially of the German delegation. The German comrades who now occupy the extremest ideological position in the Comintern, gave their consent to the unity program of the Profintern with no enthusiasm, knowing that among their own ranks there are elements which would like a secession from the German reformist unions. They are anxious to retard the unity movements of the Profintern tho in principle they accept them. The German comrades warned emphatically against any attempt to liquidate the Profintern. The position of the Profintern is this: If a World Unity Congress is called; if at that unity congress all unions of whatsoever trend are represented in proportion to their numerical strength; if that congress creates a new World International of labor unions thereby liquidating the old internationals including Amsterdam, if Amsterdam agrees to disband in consequence of such decision, then the Profintern will also cease to exist. Until then, however, even should the Russian unions enter the Amsterdam International (thereby, naturally, leaving the Profintern) the Profintern will remain on its post.

If the demand for a World Unity Congress was the new word of the Profintern Congress in the realm of tactics, the formulation of the strike strategy was its new word in the realm of the theory and practice of actual class-struggle. It was for the first time in history that the labor movement took up the question of strike strategy simultaneously as a theoretical and a practical problem: theoretical, in that it requires a careful study of all experiences and forces of the working class on the one hand and of capitalist society on the other; practical, in that it must be reduced to a set of clear and comprehensible rules for the guidance of the strike leaders in their battles against the employers. The Congress has only outlined the problem. It requires study. Material will be collected and further inquiries made. One thing, however, was evident from all the discussion: only a body of men representing organizations that lead revolutionary struggles and know the inevitableness of a final revolutionary onrush of the working masses to overthrow capitalism, could take up the strike from such angle. Speaking generally, the problem is how to make the organization of the working class so perfect that every strike should turn into a revolutionary battle against the bourgeoisie, and every action—a new step towards the final goal,—overthrow of capitalism and establishment of proletarian dictatorships. In this aspect the working class is an army of actual or potential fighters, the aim is the conquest of power, the strike strategy is the ways and means whereby the revolutionary army can storm the stronghold of the enemy. Nobody should fail to read the speech of Comrade Lozovsky on this problem,—a speech showing what a strike ought to be and can be when leaders and masses are animated by a class revolutionary spirit. We, Americans, will be able to contribute to this discussion the most valuable material to show what the strike strategy should not be.

From revolutionary strike strategy to the revolutionary prospects of the East, the distance is not far. Of course, the Amsterdam International is not interested in the working class of the East. Why should it if it is not interested in the working class of the European countries. When such gentlemen as MacDonald and his henchmen deal with the colonial problem, it is only from the standpoint of keeping the colonial masses in subjugation. Meanwhile, the colonial and semi-colonial countries are charged with revolutionary electricity. Imperialism is crushing these large sections of the globe, and the spirit of rebellion is abroad. There is every prospect of revolutionary upheavals in the East, and the working class there may be one of the greatest factors in the not far distant future. The fact that the first international labor gathering of the East, the international transport workers' conference at Canton, was organized by the Profintern, shows that the Profintern is aware of those revolutionary prospects.

Moscow, Aug. 1.

Workers! Give Judge Gary Your Answer!

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

THE steel czar has spoken. Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, has expressed himself on the outlook for the 1924 presidential campaign. His optimism may be summed up in the three short words:

"I AM PLEASED!"

• • •

Nonpartisan in Politics.

The billion dollar steel trust is satisfied that the results of the November elections will not disturb the equanimity of the capitalist system. It indulges in this self-assurance two months before the elections.

But the reason for this optimism is readily understood when the non-partisanship in politics of the steel industry is analyzed.

• • •

For Donkey and Elephant.

Judge Gary is republican in politics. The Fascist, Charles Gates Dawes, republican candidate for vice-president, is Gary's ideal. When Dawes talks about getting the "common sense" vote, Gary knows that Dawes means the vote that will allow the steel trust to continue its heavy profit taking.

Charles H. Schwab, head of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, perhaps the largest among the independents, is also republican.

But down in Alabama, Oscar Underwood, of the Gulf Coast Steel Co., is the democratic senator from that state, and the perennial aspirant for the presidential nomination in democratic conventions. "24 for Alabama—24 for Underwood!" was one of the monotone exclamations repeated almost without ending at the Madison Square Garden convention of the democratic party.

The steel industry is republican in republican Pennsylvania. It is democratic in democratic Alabama. That's because the steel industry is non-partisan in politics.

• • •

Coolidge Talks Nonsense.

Big business will permit the two old parties to claim, in as loud tones as they desire, that they are the friends of labor. In fact, that has always been its policy.

The Republican Campaign Text Book for 1924, just out, issued by the Republican National Committee, devotes Chapters XVI, XVII and XVIII, in telling what the republican party has done for labor. The chapter headings are "Labor Record of the President," six pages; "Labor and the Republican Party," ten pages, and "Women and Children in Industry," seven pages.

But the whole philosophy of the republican party toward labor may be summed up in "Cautious Cal" Coolidge's own declaration, prominently featured, that "No progress was ever made by regarding mankind as cheap."

That was Coolidge's stand in vetoing the bonus for the soldiers. He wouldn't cheapen their patriotism by putting a cheap price on it. Perhaps that is why nothing is done for the unemployed. It would cheapen the jobless to be paid doles equal to their regular pay, to get a few crusts of bread. If Coolidge intended any other meaning for his silly nonsense, an alienist ought to be appointed to conduct an investigation and try to discover it.

• • •

Democrats Will Perjure Selves.

The democratic campaign book had not been issued at this writing. But it will carry the same bunk about the friendship of John "Wall Street" Davis and Charles W. Bryan, for the working class.

In order to make a case for themselves, the democrats will have to lie a little better than the republicans. This will be easy, for they are on the outside at the present time, looking in, and they would commit any brand of perjury in order to get on the inside.

Davis will claim again that he defended "Mother" Mary Jones and Eugene V. Debs, against the czarist rule of the West Virginia coal barons, whereas it has been shown that directly the opposite is true, he prosecuted and persecuted them to advance and safeguard the interests of the mine owners.

The democratic and republican candidates are, therefore, alike in their pretensions of friendliness for labor. All old party candidates are friendly to labor—before election day. They are just as friendly as they can be. Some of them even kiss the babies of the workers on their campaign tours. But that is before election day.

Even Benito Mussolini, the Fascist dictator of Italy, claims he is the friend of the working class of Italy. The assassin of the workers in Italy, with hands dripping blood, professes to be the friend of his victim. That ticket of the republican party in order to win a few straggling labor votes.

Both Berry and Lewis are as alike as two peas in that they have shown themselves good strikebreakers for the bosses. Berry's yellow leg activities in breaking the strike of the New York pressmen and the bosses' war that Lewis helped wage against Alexander Howat, in Kansas, are so well known to the readers of the DAILY WORKER, that they only need mentioning here.

The records of Berry and Lewis compare well with the strikebreaking records of the old party candidates they have endorsed. Coolidge's strikebreaking record in Massachusetts, where he smashed the policemen's strike, need not now stand out in such great prominence. It has the record of John L. Lewis, president of the Miners' Union, in Kansas, Nova Scotia and elsewhere, to keep it company.

• • •

This Smell Goes Far.

Just by way of parenthesis it may be mentioned that the strikebreaking records of both Berry and Lewis have been endorsed one hundred per cent by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who has come out for Senator LaFollette for president. The smell of a scab goes far, like that of a polecat. So there is omf for LaFollette, too. Perhaps Gompers thot that LaFollette's program for his so-called, imaginary "clean government" extended even to the cleansing of polecats. That might explain the strange alliance of the head of the American Federation of Labor with the Wisconsin senator.

• • •

"Big Biz" Knows Where to Go.

Steel is republican in Pennsylvania and democratic in Alabama. When Wall Street picks its labor lieutenants it gets its democrats, either among the Tammany Hall ranks in New York, or it goes into the "Solid South." "Majah" Berry comes from Tennessee. Wall Street gets its republican "labor" stool pigeons from somewhere in the north. Lewis comes from Illinois. T. V. O'Connor, of the shipping board, formerly of the Long shoremen's Union, is out for Coolidge. O'Connor is from the North.

• • •

Nonpartisan on Klan.

This nonpartisanship of Big Business, in the selection of its labor lieutenants, also extends to its support of the Ku Klux Klan. In a northern state, like Indiana, rock-ribbed republican, the Klan is also republican. The same is true in Maine, where "Brass Tacks" Dawes ran into this issue on his recent Eastern trip. Dawes, better than anyone else, sees the Fascisti possibilities of the Klan, and altho he apparently denounced its tactics he lauded it for its attacks on the workers, especially its attacks against the coal miners in Southern Illinois and elsewhere. When the time comes "Hell an' Maria" will invite all the Klansmen to join his "Minute Men of the Constitution."

But in the South, in Oklahoma and Texas, where the democratic party happens to dominate, there the Ku Klux Klan is democratic. Big Business doesn't care whether it wears the skin of the G. O. P. elephant, or the hide of the democratic donkey, as long as it dominates the local situation.

• • •

Mask May Be Torn Off.

It is possible that Big Business, after this years' campaign, will be compelled to throw its mask aside and come out into the open, definitely naming its political expression. It cannot always continue its Punch and Judy show.

There should be no doubt this year about who is to gain by the election of either the democratic or republican candidates. Coolidge is the figurehead of the biggest open shoppers. His campaign manager is William Morgan Butler, the textile multi-millionaire, proud open shop lord over New England's unorganized textile mills. Dawes is the head of the Central Trust Company, one of Chicago's biggest banks. A million hoops of steel couldn't tie the republican ticket closer to the predatory business interests of the nation.

On the democratic side it has already been shown that Davis is the lawyer of the House of Morgan. Davis says he has renounced his Wall Street connections for the purposes of the campaign. But that is easier said that done. Davis remains the corporation lawyer, the legal lackey of his class, the defender of the open shoppers of his own state of West Virginia, and of the great robber barons of his adopted New York City.

• • •

Face Oppressors Both Ways.

Whichever way the workers turn, as between the two old parties, they are face to face with their oppressors. Millions have discovered this fact this year, and are blindly turning to the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket. LaFollette, the republican! Wheeler, the democrat! Both the enemies of the class interests of the workers and farmers. Both the defenders of the present order of things. But the LaFollette candidacy has been ably dealt with in the series of articles by Jay Lovestone appearing in these columns. These articles should be read and reread.

• • •

Vote Communist in November.

It should be apparent to the millions of American workers this year that their interests are only championed by the Communist candidates of the Workers' Party: William Z. Foster, for president, and Benjamin Gitlow, for vice president.

This year the Communist standards are flung to the breeze for the first time in a national campaign in this country. Let the oppressed workers desert their enemies and their betrayers. Let them rally to the rapidly growing Communist ranks and give their support to the Foster-Gitlow ticket. Only in so doing will they make progress for their class in this election.

• • •

Give Gary Your Answer.

Only in so doing will they freeze the words, "I am pleased," upon the lips of the arch oppressor of labor, Judge Gary, head of the great American Steel Trust.

Workers! Give Gary your answer!

From the Communist Platform

"THRU theft, fraud, corruption, bribery and the capitalist system of profit taking, this capitalist class has become the owner of the land, raw materials and machinery of production upon which the workers and farmers are dependent for a livelihood."

• • • •

"THEY (the workers) are compelled to accept a low standard of living in order that the capitalists may amass ever greater fortunes for themmselves."

• • • •

"THE Workers Party declares its purpose to continue the struggle to mobilize the workers and exploited formers for independent political action thru a mass Farmer-Labor Party."

• • • •

"THE Workers Party calls upon the workers and exploited farmers to fight with it against the use of injunction in labor disputes, intimidation of strikers thru police and soldiers, and the use of criminal syndicalist laws to suppress the demands of the reolutionary workers, as well as other infringements on the rights of the workers."

• • • •

"WE demand the nationalization of all means of transportation and industries engaged in the preparation and distribution of farm products, with participation of the farmers in the management of these industries."

• • • •

"THE Workers Party is fighting for the rule of thirty millions of workers and their families in the United States. This rule will be established thru a Proletarian Revolution which will create a Soviet Government and the Dictatorship of the Proletariat."

• • • •

"VOTE against the three capitalist candidates and for the Communist candidates—Foster and Gitlow."

is about the position of the candidates of the democrats and republicans in this campaign.

• • •

Get "Labor Lieutenants" Cheap.

It is not surprising that there are labor officials endorsing both the political expressions of Wall Street in this campaign. It is an easy thing to buy up American labor leaders. They come cheap.

Major George L. Berry, the American Legion head of the Printing Pressmen's Union, continues to lick the boots of the democratic party. He has come out in support of the "Davis-Bryan" ticket, after being kicked in the face at Madison Square Garden and told to take his vice presidential aspirations elsewhere. But at least he was allowed to have his name placed in nomination.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, was merely mentioned, long before the republican convention met at Cleveland, as a vice-presidential possibility. His name was never considered, however, by the Cleveland convention.

Lewis, like Berry, nevertheless, would rather get kicked in the face by the bosses, than fight the bosses on behalf of the working class he is supposed to represent.

Lewis, the head of one of the most radical organizations of American labor, has done the well-high impossible thing of endorsing the "Coolidge-Dawes" candidacy. But he has committed that crime against the great membership of his organization. Lewis is now a member of the advisory committee of the Coolidge Campaign. Only the campaign itself can develop the kind of advice that Lewis intends handing the Fascisti

The Youth in the Elections

By BARNEY MASS

THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE and its Junior Section have entered the election campaign to support the Workers' Party candidates with its typical enthusiasm. The ever growing army of the young proletariat will hear of Foster and Gitlow thru the agitation the league will conduct. Present indications show that the youth are becoming more interested in politics as a result of the latest developments exemplified by Tea Pot Dome, open shop campaigns, etc. . . . The contrast between the activities of the Y. W. L. and the dead carcass the old Y. P. S. L. becomes obvious when judging the activity and influence of the two organizations.

Under the leadership of the Workers' Party and Young Workers' League, the American youth will be protected from the deadly effects of the shallow petty-bourgeoisie philosophy of the LaFollette sort. Getting names for petitions, selling literature is work fitting in with the qualifications of the league membership. Young Workers advocating Communism makes adult workers react favorably to our propaganda. The league membership is already mobilizing its forces for the coming campaign with interest and determination. In the school, as well as the shop, mill and mine, support for the Communist nominees will be solicited. The kindergartens and playgrounds will receive their share of Communist propaganda thru our Junior comrades. Militant enthusiasm, stamina and energy will be furnished by the Young Workers' League to develop this campaign successfully. In this campaign the Young Workers' League is afforded for the first time an opportunity of becoming active politically.

The open shop campaigns which succeeded in reducing the pay of the adult workers, created a swelling in the ranks of youth labor. The lowering of the living standard of the young worker has made him a little more politically conscious. The exposure of the government scandals in Washington has made him more skeptical of America's boasted democracy and less willing to lay down his life for it. Listening to discussions in the pool rooms, on street corners and other places where the youth congregates, one becomes convinced of this. This presents a fertile field for propaganda and the election campaign will be the best medium for accomplishing it.

We must prevent the germs of reformism from being planted in the minds of the youthful toilers. To convince them that under capitalism they will remain wage-slaves and experience its concomitant miserable effects, is our task. In proportion to their own growing political enlightenment, we must start the young workers on the correct road to victory, and make them relentless, uncompromising fighters for the Young Communist International. One of our chief slogans in the election speeches should call for a mass Young Workers' League. We must show the young workers that LaFollette upholds the capitalist system and as this order of society is robbing them of all opportunity in life, LaFollette, too, is responsible for their present intolerable condition.

While the Young Workers' League is busily engaged in furnishing political direction to the working youth, the disintegration of the stinking carcass of the old Young People Socialist League is proceeding. Only under the leadership of the Young Workers' League and Workers' Party, which says that the young workers form an integral part of the working class, in contradiction to the vulgar conception of the S. P. which endeavored to take them out of the class struggle and manufacture toys for them, can the American working youth abolish the causes responsible for its aggravating position.

The Young Workers' League is particularly qualified to perform the essential jimmie-higgins work in the coming election campaign. To get the maximum propaganda results will require much energy and effort. Who can lay more legitimate claim to these—than the revolutionary youth. Speakers to address meetings, petitions to be filled, selling literature and thru agitation getting many young workers on record favoring Communism, are some of the tasks to be accomplished by us. The membership is now engaging itself in this work very strenuously. It is obvious that young people can get signatures for our petitions much better than the adults. Each branch has elected its campaign committee to co-operate with the party's political groups. When visiting the branches and seeing how seriously they take themselves to this work, one cannot help but admit that the youth is being initiated in political activity. Each branch is lining up the territories, which they will canvass for names.

Hearing young workers advocate Communism on the soap box, and other meeting places, encourages and brings confidence back to many weary adult workers. Being approached by a young boy or girl soliciting his name for the petitions of Communist nominees, creates a different impression of the movement in the eyes of the American worker. I have heard it remarked many times, "The Communist movement has more active young people in it than any other organization of its kind in the country."

The school room will hear the names of Foster and Gitlow mentioned quite frequently this year. The teachers will be unable to spread the usual capitalist propaganda during the time of these elections—without meeting organized opposition from our school nuclei. In the mock elections to be held in the schools this year the Communist candidates promises to get many votes from the students. The nature of this work is important. This field falls directly under the jurisdiction of the Young Workers League and we can say confidently that the work will be well done.

Last but not least is our Junior Section. They will also contribute their share in the work. In the kindergartens and playgrounds, the names of Foster, Gitlow and Communism will often be heard. The young comrades are assisting in getting names for the party's petitions and they function very aggressively. Coolidge, Davis, LaFollette and other coteries of this ilk, will have their dirty hides ripped off, once the juniors get after them. No party can boast of receiving this kind of support but only the Workers' Party of America. Side by side with the Young Worker, and Daily Worker, the Young Comrade, official organ of the league's Junior section, will aim its editorial batteries at the enemies. The "Young Comrade" will explain in its simplified style to all the workers' children, the necessity of fighting for the Communist standard bearers and joining the Junior Section of the Young Workers' League.

The slogan of the league and its Junior Section is "Line up the youth and children for Communism in the coming elections." We have many accomplishments to our credit and now we have the chance of chalking down to our record another one. We can demonstrate our capability in taking equal responsibility of the campaign, in proportion to our resources, by doing the following tasks immediately: (1) Getting petitions filled with names to place our candidates in the field. (2) Speaking on the soap box, in front of the factories and in the halls for our ticket. (3) Selling The DAILY WORKER and other literature, wherever the workers gather. (4) Take the election to the factory, mill, mine and school room. The style of the movement is to become young Communist fighters.

The activity of the Workers' Party reflects itself in the Young Workers' League. The league members are becoming acquainted more intimately with American politics as a result of their activity. The demand of the party for practical Communist politicians will be supplied from the material that is being developed by the Young Workers' League. Let us make the following slogans resound thruout the country and enlist the healthy, lusty throats of the youthful toilers in this country to help us make ourselves heard:

Down with the exploiters of youth and child labor.

Down with the betrayers of the workingclass of the LaFollette type.

Down with Coolidge, the strikebreaker and Morgan's man, Davis.

Rally to the support of Foster and Gitlow who represent the only means that will do away once and for all with youth and child labor and that is the "Dictatorship of the Proletariat."

THE NEW WAR

By OSKAR KANEHL.

Hate songs are raging thru the streets.
On wide places the patriot-mob is crying.
For arms. War! And for new blood.
The president of republic is kingly behaving.
Minister-braggarts are beating up for recruits.
Swordmen are cleaning their orden-buckles.
Hirelings are fattened.
Machine guns, hand grenades, soldiery
Drills on peace-fanatical working people.
Power practices on faintness.
Takes prisoners. Besieges.
Storms. Marches in. Celebrates victories.
Shoots
Freedom-fighters are dying at flight-trial.
Prophets are slain.
Offering blood is streaming.
Murderers have charter.
But—
Man is coming upon you.
One morning you will not awake.
The skull of your chieftain will shatter
On the barrier of men.
The lances of his truest slave will split.
Your hell-heaven will be torn Across in two.
Stars are rising.

Transl. Paul Acel.

The White Mule

(Continued from Page 1.)

babies, altho he has been away many years. But Tony drinks his share of the mule, and parries the good natured crudities thrust his way by his comrades with his twinkling inscrutable smile.

Valie, the youngest of the quintet, has not yet learned to repress his thots. "God, what a waste of good drink! Not a woman around to kid with. Let's take a walk. Isn't there a woman in this town we can be brilliant with, until the effects of the moon pass off?"

Valie's honesty finally partially breaks down the reserve of the miners, and the talk centers on sex. It is for the same purpose as the intellectual, high-brow sex talk of the Greenwich Villager, but it is more raw. The men boast of hold-ups, of raping and whores. They discuss the notorious women of the town. They outdo each other with tales of daring escapades of perverts, of almost morbid incidents which are variations of the sex theme.

There is much in common to this circle of workers—much that has drawn them together on the grass beside the bottle of white mule. Deep in his heart each man has ideals, and each knows the others have ideals. Perhaps Kentucky Joe doesn't want to live in a "hatch shack" with men like himself—whom the civilized world of the big citizens would call "drunken roughnecks." Perhaps Louis fought in France because he still had illusions of democracy. No doubt Tony still thinks of his unfaithful wife abroad. And Valie—is he to travel the same road?

But there is a stronger passion binding these men together. They are the stuff of which revolutions are made. Each one, on numerous occasions, has demonstrated his fearlessness of the "boss" and of the system of bosses. Each one has worked from childhood in the bowels of the earth. Each has gazed on the death of a beloved comrade at the hands of neglect caused by profit worship. Each has seen his hopes for respectability—for a decent living, dashed. Each has taken part in the sacrifices of the early struggles for the miners' union, and each understands the treachery of modern union officialdom.

By gracing each others presence they grant each other the accolade—the honorary degree that belongs only to the revolutionary worker. Each man has poured out his few pennies to keep the movement going. Each has passed thru the measles of defiant individualism and of piqued isolation. Now they support their working class daily, and slowly absorb the tactics of revolutionary Communism.

But the group has given way too-freely to the moonshine. Their voices have been too loud for their own good. The Ku Klux Klan divides the working class, and Tony and Joe, Louis, Gus and Charlie have dared to fight the Klan. They know each cowardly atrocity of the Klan weakens that organization of cut-throats. They know that the sacrifice of a few individuals, shot in the back, solidifies the union workers and works them up to fighting pitch against the American Fascisti.

Now sixty red-faced men are crawling toward them, along the ditch in the coal dust road, behind the tall grass. Rifles point at them thru the wire grass, sliding toward them like silent serpents, with Maxim silencers attached. The rifles draw closer and closer. The beasts behind them close in. There are a few silent shots. The K. K. K. has paid its latest visit.

The one hundred percent Americans have delayed fire until less than ten feet from the group. They have fired so close that the gun wadding sinks into the hard flesh of the revolutionists along with the soft lead. Blood again stains the ground of the largest producing coal county in the world.

It is crimson blood.

BRITISH AUTHOR ATTACKS LABOR GOVERNMENT

The following was written to the Brisbane Daily Standard, Australian labor daily, by Professor W. T. Goode, former correspondent of the Manchester Guardian in Russia.—Ed. Note.

* * *

MEN don't matter; movements do. But movements find their expression by men. And when the mouthpiece is dirty, the expression fails and the movement suffers. If it were true (which I do not believe) that men make movements, then my conclusion above is even stronger. But great movements are the product of laws of energy and matter, only imperfectly comprehended. They throw up from time to time even as their expressive organs. And it behooves the organ of expression to be clean—above everything. If it be clean he'll be staunch, and staunch to the principles he has to express.

"And, alas! Of how many it can be said that they remain staunch? You have Longuet, Renaudel and Co. in France; Kautsky, Bedel Adler and Company in Germany; Plekanhoff, Martoff, Ichaikofsky, the Cadets, in Russia; Gompers[illegible] in U. S. A.; John Burns, Barnes, J. H. Thomas, Henderson, Hodges, a tribe of others, even Ramsay MacDonald, in England, all of whom have played, or are playing the game of the enemy of the workers. Many of them have made a good thing out of it for themselves, and the influence of that is wide spreading.

"A clean political life, a rigid adherence to principles, a ceaseless activity in the fight for the workers, the indispensable requisites where do you find them? What does it matter if you live and die, a pauper? The great prophets, the world-shaking expressive voices, were poor, stoned, despised. The modern would-be prophet wants to live softly, dress finely, be a society darling. And then the spectacle, outlined by de Leon in 'Parts of Roman History' is repeated again and again.

"This may sound like 'pure rhodomontade.' That it may sound is very significant of the prevalent ideas in the world of politics. But while with you and in New Zealand I never ceased preaching it. I can say quite simply that for me I prefer the stoning and the poverty so long as I can remain honest. But let that pass.

"Here we are going thru the formal phase—lip service to Socialism—and being told 'the rights of capitalists will be guarded.' This is textual—J. R. M.'s own words. It must be confessed that the position is unusual—office without power. In small ways attempts at mitigating misery are made; housing, wages, education, and unemployment. But—and it is a big 'but'—vast concessions have been made to capitalist feeling in the government appointments. Ridiculous acceptance of feudal ceremonial in the order of the day, kissing of hands, assumption of court dress, bobbing of department permanent functionaries [illegible] functions of [illegible] capitalism.

"The [illegible] those who are not [illegible] who [illegible] would have accepted [illegible] Moral Investors Society. And worst of all where there would have been no difficulty for the mere administration machinery suffered the falling down before the permanent officials. The head of the Russian Commission is Greenway, a fanatical anti-Russian of Curzon's office. Why? Consuls are named for appointment in Riga, drawn up by the permanent officials, every man a former White consul, and one at least nominated for one of the important Consuls-General, a man whose brutal uncontrolled action against the Soviet government is known, he also his colleagues. I mention merely things I know well. One can trace the capture of the so-called Labor Ministers by permanent officials in many quarters.

"Little wonder that I and many others are sore. We can make every allowance for the position they are in, none for what is base capitulation."

Ten-Second Quake.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 28.—An earthquake lasting ten seconds was reported from Reykjavik and Hafnfjord, Iceland, followed by a tidal wave.

Four Dead in Explosion.

WARSAW, Aug. 28.—Four persons were fatally injured and ten slightly by the accidental explosion of a hand grenade in a citadel fort today.

MANABENDRA NAT ROY
Leader of the Communist Party of India.

THE VIEWS OF OUR READERS ON LIFE, LABOR, INDUSTRY, POLITICS

Letter from South America.

City of Pradera, Republic of Colombia, Department of Valle del Cauca, Province of Palmira.
July 20th, 1924.

To the DAILY WORKER: Friendly greeting and wishes for many triumphs in the great struggle begun in your daily in favor of libertarian progress.

We who have been fighting for five years now in behalf of the sublime socialist ideas, are deeply pleased to learn that there is born in that land of monstrous capitalistic octipi, an intrepid standard bearer of freedom.

We assure you that in this land of priests and lackeys, we are fighting courageously and resolutely for the pure socialist principles which have to lead us to the swelling army of those of Communist doctrine, to which all humanity must go if it does not wish to become the slave of capitalism and all its ridiculous allies.

In this country we have not even one district daily, hardly managing to do more than spread leaflets for propaganda. For this reason we wish to establish correspondence with your daily, with the real champion of the proletariat.

Also we will inform you that in this Departmento del Valle del Cauca, we have obtained victories of great significance for the cause of the proletariat, and we reckon with a nucleus of more than 12,000 adherents to the socialist banner.

We trust that you will send us some samples of your daily which we desire to know better in order to take some subscriptions.

I remain your faithful friend and comrade.

MIGUEL A. QUINTERO,
Director of "El Tribuno," (Working class paper).

Wants Market Report.

To The DAILY WORKER:— You ask what the rural readers think about the value of market reports in the DAILY WORKER.

From the farmers' point of view, he usually looks for the market report at intervals when the question comes up as to what the market is.

The average farmer does not sell on a high market and buy on a low market, so to speak. But he sells when he can and buys when he can, and he always accepts the market that he is compelled to.

I think that a semi-weekly market report would serve that purpose well. Many of the farmer readers are too far away to rely upon the Chicago market alone for this information.

The market reports as written conceal much more than they reveal. If they were written from the workers' point of view, they should be as interesting and educational for the city worker as for the farmer and would show how they are both gouged when the farmer sells and when the consumer buys. But such a report would need to be written by a special writer and cost considerable. Will the readers give the price?

IRA LIEBRASSE,
Big Sandy, Mont.

To the DAILY WORKER: Enthusiasm is growing in the printing trade over the Foster-Gitlow ticket.

In my previous letter to the DAILY WORKER I said that a movement was on foot to form a Park Row Branch of the Workers Party. We have more than three times the necessary names now, all union members, who are for Foster and Gitlow.

Enclosed find subscription for the DAILY WORKER from a member of the S. P. who said. "I believe the Workers Party is right." I have three more subscriptions promised.

These new Foster-Gitlow-workers comprise pressmen, sterotypers and printers from the News, Times and Journal besides binders, etc., from commercial plants. — May O'Brien, New York, N. Y.

Greeks Have Blowout.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Many persons were reported killed and wounded by an explosion in a Greek naval arsenal, said a dispatch from Athens today.

LA FOLLETTE IN CONGRESS

(Continued from page 3)

before the last session of Congress LaFollette's progressives in the House, led in this debate by the Wisconsin Congressman Frear, joined forces with the reactionary Republican clique to vote for the multi-millionaire Longworth's bill. In doing so, the progressives did not get a thing from the administration and sacrificed even the insignificant demands they themselves had made towards shifting the burden of taxation to the rich.

Perhaps the most disgraceful behavious of LaFollette's so called insurgent group was shown in the disastrous sally it made in behalf of liberalizing the rules of procedure in the House of Representatives. Those progressives were in a position, thru their power to obstruct, to win recognition for their demands. But the progressive group refused to fight effectively. It surrendered to the reactionaries by agreeing to a postponement of constructive action for thirty days.

Progressivism Disappearing

Most of the legislation enacted in Wisconsin is no longer considered radical. As we have seen, twenty-one of the thirty-one planks that LaFollette has presented to the Republican convention, prior to the last one, are now law. Competent political observers like William Hard, have declared that LaFollette is growing less radical with time.

In this light it is interesting as well as instructive to consider the following written by Richard Barry, in the Hearst's International for Aug. 1922: "When early in the present Congress, some insurgents declared they would depose Penrose, from his Finance Committee chairmanship, LaFollette refused to join them. Penrose sought out his colleague from Wisconsin and expressed appreciation." Penrose, who is now dead, was one of the old guard reactionary senators from Pennsylvania. Mr. Carter Field writing in the 1924, said, apropos of LaFollette's New York Tribune of January 18th, friendship with Penrose: "It was 'Bob' and 'Boies' when they met, and that was not all. When LaFollette came up for reelection it was Penrose who hurried up to the hated Wall street and brought back money to help reelect 'Bob' every time."

Finally we call upon the Search light on Congress, an organ friendly to LaFollette, to dispel any illusions that may have been spread about the radicalism of the Wisconsin senator among workingmen and poor farmers. We quote from its issue of March 31st, 1921:

"There may be some who look with apprehension upon this strangely altered situation because of their fear that LaFollette may prove ultra radical. Let no one lose any sleep on that score. LaFollette is not ultra-radical. He is not even radical. On the contrary, he is decidedly conservative.

"His record proves that. When given authority, he slows up."

Oil and International Politics

(Continued from page 2)

Benson, speaking before the American Petroleum Institute, remarked: "to compete in the world markets with our ships it is necessary to continue the development of oil for the application of fuel oil to our motive power. It would be useless for us to try to compete with our foreign competitors by returning to coal." At the same time, the geological survey, on May 20, 1920, published statistical memoranda in which it said:

"These countries (all other) consume at present 2,000,000 barrels a year; at this rate they have reserves for 250 years. The U. S. consumes 400 million barrels a year; they have only enough for eighteen years."

Hypothetical statistics of this sort are of course an abomination to the prudent,—but they served the purpose of the moment, which was to arouse national emotions. The British Navy, argued the imperialists of the U. S., is sure of its supplies for oil for a century or more, while the position of the U. S. is such that it can avoid war only at the price of industrial servitude.

Accordingly, at the word of command from the U. S. government, "draw more and more on the oil in foreign countries," the Standard sent out prospectors all over the world But everywhere they ran up against an unforseen obstacle. An American prospector had the misfortune to appear on the shores of the Dead Sea in October, 1919. Without hesitation the British general who was governor of Palestine arrested him. The same thing happened in Messopotamia and in many other places.

Everywhere in the world, except possibly Canada, American capitalists for two years found the "closed door." Generally they were either completely excluded from oil bearing concessions in territory, the colonies, or even the sphere of influence of Great Britain, Japan and the Netherlands; or else they were authorized to establish themselves only under such conditions that they would lose the effective control of their undertakings.

In face of this situation, the Senate on March 10, 1920, passed a resolution calling upon the President to furnish information as to the discriminatory treatment of American oil interests in other countries.

In reply information was given showing that certain discriminating and some exclusive practices did exist in certain of these countries, to the disadvantage of American interests and efforts.

In the midst of this agitation, news reached the U. S. that France and England concluded the San-Remo Agreement. By it the French government voluntarily or no associated itself with Great Britain in order to drive out America from the Asiatic centers of petroleum production and delivered over to her the resources which might be discovered in the zones of influence reserved for France. The French government was so embarrassed about this agreement that for three months it dared not publish it

This news stirred up the jealousies of the American imperialists. A sharp diplomatic controversy arose. The secretaries of state, from Colby to Hughes, dispatched one note after another to the government of Great Britain in which they asserted the principle of the "open door" and equal business opportunities for the dollar Standard Oil, and the like.

In the years which have passed, the San Remo Agreement has not been put into effect. In the end America won her point. During the negotiations which were conducted in London at the end of July, 1922, the American government has been given assurances that American oil interests will be given opportunities to participate insofar as Great Britain and France are concerned in petrolenum development of Messopotamia.

The oil diplomacy of the U. S. government is just as unscrupulous as that of Great Britain. It seizes upon any "principle" or "policy," logical or not, to fight for the interests of its most powerful oil corporation. Compare the American government's "principle" for Mexico with its "principle" for Messopotamia. In either case the policy is, indeed, consistent—the policy of promoting American oil interests, but the principles are changed to suit the particular occasion. The New York World very ably characterized the diplomacy of Mr. Hughes: "Show Mr. Hughes an oil well and he will show you an oil policy."

In the struggle between the U. S. and England for oil, the part played by France is by no means negligible. France has never been an oil producing country. This is the reason why she was forced to conclude the San Remo Agreement by which she handed over to the British capitalists an important opening in her colonies which are still almost untouched. But will France be satisfied to remain dependent upon England?

Events prove that France is developing an oil appetite. Since the war she has tried desperately to get oil lands, so far with poor results. She concluded an oil agreement with Poland where 70 per cent of the capital invested in the oil industry is French; she is consolidating her investments in Roumania; she is increasing her interests in foreign oil companies; she has made a policy to befriend Turkey. She has furnished her officers to help in training her armies, sold her airplanes and sent engineers to assist in building munition factories. In return France expects concessions which the Turks have to offer.

Oily Conference.

So strong did the influence of oil on politics become, that most of the "international conferences" went on the rocks mainly because of oil intrigues. The international conferences of 1922 and 1923 are successive proofs that however much diplomats agree to silence oil, if they do not make peace without bribery, oil will not be kept out of diplomacy.

The Genoa Conference will be regarded by history, not so much as a great effort towards peace than as a Conference of Oil. While the Soviet delegates were discussing the great principles of international morality with the "official representatives" of the powers, scandalous concession hunting was going on behind the scenes of the conference.

In the midst of this oily atmosphere, the news dropped like a bombshell that Krassin had signed a contract conferring upon the Royal-Dutch a monopoly of the oil in the Caucasus.

This news, tho false, caused a great sensation. Standard Oil set its unofficial machinery in motion. It turned naturally, to the French and Belgian behind the backs of the British. Simultaneously in Paris and Brussels the politicians were warned against historic British greed. The delegates at the Conference influenced by the oil interests, could not agree on any terms and the Conference broke up.

Soon after the Conference the oil interests of the great powers formed an "International Defense Committee" and Royal Dutch was induced to join up with the little interests in one united family for the common protection of all former oil proprietors in Russia. The four points of this International Defense Committee, to which the oil companies pledged themselves in Paris on September 19, 1922, deserve to be recorded:

1. "That no members should acquire directly or indirectly the confiscated properties of other members.

2. "That the working of oil lands was only possible on the reinstatement or compensation of all parties concerned.

3. "That no member should accept oil lands belonging to the Russian state as a private concession without the sanction of all other members.

4. "That negotiations with the Soviet government should be conducted in common and by representatives unanimously elected."

These four points were soon broken in spirit, if not in letter. A report soon appeared in the press, that an "independent" English firm purchased 30,000 tons of Russian kerosene. This aroused the Shell group, the dictator of the British oil markets, to aggressive action. Immediately (April, 1923) one of its subsidiaries, the Asiatic Petroleum Company, closed a deal with the Soviet government for 70,000 tons of kerosene with an option on 120,000 tons more.

The "Defense Committee" roundly accused the Royal-Shell of bad faith. It claimed that if the Royal-Dutch Shell had joined in a general boycott of Russian oil, the Soviet government would have been compelled by "economic pressure" to restore the oil properties to their former owners, etc. Passions ran high. The egotistical interests of the former capitalist owners predominated over their common interests. And it turned out that at the Hague Conference, as at Genoa, "the Standard Oil had helped to nullify a conference for a petty and impermanent gain."

The story repeated itself at the following conferences supposedly called by the great powers to settle the problems arising from the last war. They were all oily. At Genoa—we had the question of Baku, at Lausanne—Mosul. The cartoons in European newspapers very aptly expressed popular opinion of the conferences. In one French paper appeared a sketch entitled "Les appetites." Diplomats are seated round a table in the center of which lies a large "bidon" of oil, and hovering over it three horny-fingered hands labeled "Royal Dutch," "Persian Oil," and "Standard Oil." In another paper is a picture: "Sur le lac of Lusanne" (On the lake of Lusanne). The lake is a lake of oil, a "bidon" of petrol floating thereon and, above, the flags of nations, France, England, America, Turkey and Russia. L'Oeuvre displayed a headline—"Europe for the Europeans, and oil for the Americans."

Thus we see that oil has become the paramount factor in political economics of the imperialist governments. Oil dominates the diplomacy of Europe and America. It has become perhaps the chief struggle of international rivalry. This struggle is no longer, as many believe, a question between commercial companies. It is a question of the control of a product "whose possession or lack can modify the always unstable equilibrium of nations," to get this product, or to keep it, the capitalist governments are ready to bring into play all the economic and military forces that they possess.

In the past years, the history of Mexico, Central America, Persia and Messopotamia—proved this truth. In the future, it is more than certain, that the imperialist governments, in their struggle for oil, will be following their old cut-throat tactics. It is enough to glance at an oil map of the world in order to know where the battles of the next war will be fought.

Send in that Subscription Today.
Get a member for the Workers Party.

Amalgamated Food Workers

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS

81 East 10th Street, New York, N. Y.

THIS IS OUR

EMBLEM

An Industrial Organization For All Workers in the Food Industry

Second Russian Co-operative Restaurant

760 MILWAUKEE AVENUE

Near Ogden Blvd. and Chicago Avenue

Phone Monroe 1239

Fresh Food at Reasonable Prices

Owned and Controlled by

THE RUSSIAN WORKERS CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY

MUSICIANS ATTENTION!

Cornetists, flutists, clarinetists, and other wind instruments, also cellists and drummers

WANTED

By the Young Workers League Orchestra

Come and join the only revolutionary working class orchestra in Chicago. Friday, 8 p. m., 823 Kimball Hall Bldg.

Class War Against Imperialist War

(Editor's Note—War and imperialism are important issues in this campaign. The capitalist parties are for it, we are against it. Together with the Communist International we shall continue to expose the bloody nature of imperialism, and to call upon the workers to fight capitalism to the finish. As part of our campaign we herewith publish the fifth section of the Anti-War Manifesto issued by the Communist International.

• • •

V.

If we ask ourselves once more what prevents the workers and peasants even now from rising against the militarism which is crushing them, the inevitable answer is—international social democracy, the mensheviks, the Second International and bureaucracy of the Amsterdam Trade Union Federation. This is the chief lesson of the imperialist war. Such are the deductions from the events of the last decade.

We, the workers organized in the Communist International, declare this to the whole world. We want to be heard by the workers of all countries. We want our voices to reach every working man and working woman in town and country. We want to sound the revolutionary alarm in the hearts of the oppressed, we want to tell them the bourgeoisie is preparing a new war, and the social democrats are demoralizing you in order to betray you.

Working men and women! Take heed, think and take counsel among yourselves. A few weeks ago in Vienna, the leaders of the Amsterdam Trade Union International discussed with the leaders of the Second International the question of the war peril. The organization, which is headed by Jouhaux, Grassmann, MacDonald, Ebert, Noske, Vandervelde and Co., was compelled to concentrate its attention on the question of war, only because the war peril again confronts us. And the whole world was given to understand that these gentlemen promised to make war on war by every means at their disposal, including the general strike. Will you really allow yourselves to be deceived by this contemptible force in which the same actors perform before you for the second time the same treacherous part? Do you not remember that at the Basle International Congress in 1912, they made even more solemn pledges than now not to shrink before any means to prevent war, and that very soon after this congress they became the most ardent and trusted supporters of the belligerent bourgeoisie. In the post-war period they served capitalism in the capacity of Ministers or loyal members of parliament or patriotic trade-union leaders. They have prevented and now prevent even purely economic strikes. They vote war credits. And after that, they pledge themselves to make war on war! Is it likely that Ramsay MacDonald, who with the workers' money constructs tanks and aeroplanes at the bidding of his bourgeoisie, will call a strike as soon as the bourgeoisie decides to set these aeroplane tanks and cruisers into motion. Is it likely that Vandervelde, who helped his king to carry on the war and who affixed his signature to the Versailles Peace Treaty, will call upon the Belgian workers to rise when the Belgian bourgeoisie will deem it necessary to plunge into war for the vindication of the provisions of the Versailles Treaty? Is it likely that Blum and Jouhaux, the leaders of patriotic socialism and trade-unionism in France, who today are supporting the occupation of the Rhur, will call a general strike tomorrow, if the French bourgeoisie is compelled to maintain the occupation by force of arms? The murderer is still standing by his victim, his knife is still dripping with his victim's blood, and yet he is making the solemn promise that he will avenge the murder! Are there people blind enuf and mad enuf to believe him?

Workers and oppressed of the world, take heed, look around you and think. On the tenth anniversary of the war, the social-democrats are organizing a travesty of a fight for peace, a protest against the peril of war, which will be nothing but a farce. They want to divert your attention, to lull you into security, so as to be able to tie you hand and foot and throw you to the moloch of militarism. Do not believe them, expose them. Confront them at every meeting with the question: will they want to fight against war, why do they vote war credits and for the bourgeois government, and why do they support the capitalist state?

The experiences of the last ten years must not be lost. During that period we had occasion to watch pacifists, both socialists and bourgeois, in all parts of the world. There is nothing to choose between them. Did we not have the example of American pacifists, who during the first part of the war, shed pious tears over the bloodthirsty evil doers of Europe, and subsequently helped Wilson to deal the final blow at Europe, in order to enable capitalist America to get fat and strong at its expense? Did not we see the French pacifists, radicals and socialists at work in the Masonic lodges preaching the brotherhood of man, and after August 4, 1924, preaching the dismemberment of Germany. Have we not had enuf of German socialists like Kautsky, Hilferding and others of that ilk who during peace time are waiting for war with tears in their eyes, and during war time are hoping for peace. These cowards even clutched at Wilson, just as they are clutching now at the mildly imperialist notes of Ramsay MacDonald who is practicing his pacifism on the backs of the people of Germany. Together with the French bourgeois pacifist Herriot, MacDonald has re-introduced Entente control over the armament of Germany, while continuing at the same time to strengthen and increase the armament of Great Britain. Pacifists for peace during peace time; but in war time they give whole hearted support to their governments. On an inernational scale they crawl before the strong and mighty and help them to crush the weak. Socialist pacifists have been completely demoralized by this decade of wars and revolutionary convulsions. There is nothing left of their former naivete. Today they are sharp business men closely connected with the ruling financial and military clique of every country; they are deliberately using pacifist phraseology for the deception of simpletons.

Today the main pacifist field of action is opposition to revolution, and particularly to the Red Army. Pacifists are against revolutionary violence, rebellions and civil war. But the bourgeoisie is armed, and the working class is not. By fighting against the arming of the workers, pacifists support capitalist militarism, and thereby pave the path for future wars. All the more disgusting are their references to humanity and culture. When pacifists are confronted with the accusation that they support the militarism of their respective bourgeoisie, they invariably refer to the Red Army. They mean to infer that the existence of the Red Army, which was created by the workers of Russia for defence against imperialism, is a justification for the armaments of the capitalist states for the purpose of annexations and for crushing the revolution. Pacifists remained silent when the armed force of France, Great Britain, the U. S. A. and other countries occupied Odessa, Murmansk, Archangel and Vladivostok. But they were very indignant over the violence of revolutionaries against their oppressors. Today the excuse of the pacifists is— that there is no longer military intervention and that one bourgeois state after the other is compelled to recognize the Soviet republic. But it would be foolish indeed to imagine that the danger of war no longer exists for the workers' and peasants' state. The growth of Communist Parties consolidates the international position of the Soviet Union, but on the other hand, it alarms and exasperates the imperialists. If the revolutionary peril were imminent, it would drive them into a military intervention on a very large scale.

Recently the German authorities, exasperated by the Communist peril, were ready to imperil the friendly relations between Germany and the Soviet republics. This is an augury of further developments. Between the capitalist world and the Soviet republic there can be only agreements, but not reconciliation. Just as the government of MacDonald and Herriot will have to make room at a given moment for a more open and definite reaction, the agreements of the capitalist countries with the Soviet Union can, nay even must be violated at a given moment by new interventions. That is why the Red Army and the Red Navy are absolutely necessary. They protest and guard the biggest place d'armes of the revolution. If the Soviet republic were to fail, the bourgeoisie would feel safe for many decades to come. There would be no obstacle in the way of the capitalist offensive against the proletariat. But this will not happen, for the workers and peasants of the Soviet Union are armed. The Red Army is the shield of the oppressed and the sword of the rebels!

COKOS BROTHERS

Groceries
Cigars — Cigarettes
Tobacco
and Candies

1111 W. WASHINGTON ST.

Res. 1632 S. Trumbull Ave.
Phone Rockwell 5050
MORDECAI SHULMAN
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
701 Association Building
19 S. La Salle Street CHICAGO
Dearborn 8657 Central 4945-4947
Get a "sub" for the DAILY WORKER.

ED. GARBER
QUALITY SHOES
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN
2427 LINCOLN AVENUE
CHICAGO
Telephone Diversey 5129

MITCHALL'S
INTERNATIONAL ORCHESTRA
Union Music Furnished
For All Occassions
Write for appointments to
M. MITCHALL,
(Teacher of Saxophone)
1640 W. Congress St. Chicago, Ill.

FOR INSURANCE OF ANY KIND
CARL BRODSKY
1123 Broadway, New York City
Tel. Watkins 3626.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
73 W. VanBuren St.
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

FURNISHED ROOMS, APARTMENTS AND BUNGALOWS.

REDS COMING TO WASHINGTON, D. C.
Furnished Rooms, $10 to $25 a Month.
Apartments, $25 to $60 a Month.
Bungalows, $45 to $75 a Month.
Mrs. Bateler, 32 G Street, S. W.
Washington, D. C.

Rich
Reputable
Reliable

RICH because of its richness in the true sugars of barley, malt and other valued constituents of the malted barley grain.
REPUTABLE because it is a product of acknowledged merit and the standard of highest purity.
RELIABLE because it can always be depended upon for best results.

HIGH-TEST
100% PURE BARLEY
MALT EXTRACT
WITH CHOICEST HOPS
FOR SALE BY LEADING DEALERS

High Test Malt Extract Co.
20 East Eighth Street, Chicago, Ills.
Phone, Wabash 2580

1917 North Western Avenue
6748 South Halsted Street
605 East 63rd Street
5062 Lincoln Avenue
1503 Roosevelt Road
Leiter Store Basement

YALE UNIVERSITY
NOV 22 1924
LIBRARY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Communist Candidates
For President:
WILLIAM Z. FOSTER.
For Vice-President:
BENJAMIN GITLOW.

Vol. II. No. 141. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1924 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

KLAN ASKS SMALL TO OUST SHERIFF

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THERRE is a town in the United States called Boulder. To get nearer to our quarry, it is located in the State of Colorado. It might escape our attention and live happily ever afterward but for the fact that the stormy petrel, Ella Reeve Bloor, took it into her gray head to pay the place a visit with a view to planting some ideas there. It happens that Sheriff Robert Blum can see beyond the stormy petrel, Ella Reeve Bloor, the domicile occupied by William Kerr and Oscar Runion, a letter from Ella Reeve Bloor saying that she was coming to town to hold a meeting, the Sheriff hit the ceiling.

• • •

THE letter talked about trying to create some sympathy for the workers' cause and mentioned Soviet Russia. The sheriff's donkey was given the job of translating the letter into Russian, and it popped out that in Russian the word "sympathy" means "inferno" which is a highbrow term only used by such ancients as Dante. In the vernacular it means "hell." In other words by a process of reasoning that any moron should be proud of, the sheriff came to the conclusion that Comrade Bloor was coming to town to "raise hell."

• • •

THE local sheet in which this important news appeared under three rows of headlines justified its existence by adding editorial comment to the verbal slops dished out by the sheriff. What good is an editor unless he can be just as foolish as the thug who does the strong-arm work for his masters. The editor learned that the notorious William Z. Foster, "red" candidate for the presidency of the United States had been dumping a lot of his literature into the place. The editor has a suspicion that Sheriff Blum has something up his sleeve in case the "reds" plan to capture Boulder. He may have something in his sleeve but it is safe to assume that he has nothing in his head, at least not inside.

• • •

WE are informed by The Federation News, official organ of the Chicago Federation of Labor, that the organized workers in this city are going to have the most impressive Labor day celebration in the history of the city. Visions of monster mass meetings and giant parades flitted across our mental vision. We read on breathlessly. Perhaps Samuel Gompers might come to town to tell us again the oft-repeated but always welcome tale of how he threatened to go to jail once in his life in a war against

(Continued on page 3)

Canada Uses Injunctions Too.

HAMILTON, Ontario, Aug. 29.—Judge Evans has issued an injunction restraining Motion Picture Projectionists' union, local 303, from picketing the open shop theaters, against which they are on strike.

SKY PILOT POCKETS DOUGH OF KU KLUX WOMEN AND VACATES

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

ELDORADO, Ill., Sept. 2.—Women of this town who are members of the Ku Klux Klan have presented a gift of money to the Rev. J. C. Orvine, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. In acknowledging the gift of money, Irvine announced to the Klan women, "I feel most grateful for the gift. I have been working hard lately and am going to take a vacation."

The minister told the women, who signed themselves "Women of the K. K. K." "My dear women of the K. K. K., you and I are fighting for the same thing. We are fighting to keep America American." Then he pocketed the money and started on his vacation.

Coal Miners! Demand Unemployment Action From All Illinois Labor

Statement by the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party.

FOR many months now the miners of the state of Illinois have been denied the opportunity to earn a living.

Thruout the state, scores of mines have closed down and left the miners to get a living as best they could, because the bosses could not make the profits for themselves at the present moment.

Tens of thousands of miners have not worked for months. In some places there has been no work for periods as long as six months and more.

This denial of the fundamental right to earn a living has brought misery and hardship to the miners and their families. Thruout the mining camps of the state, there is widespread suffering.

The unemployment among the miners of Illinois has reached that stage where they must have relief or go hungry and face even starvation.

Illinois labor meets in convention at Peoria on September the 8th. Unemployment among the miners is the biggest problem which Illinois labor faces today.

The United Mine Workers of America is the backbone of the State Federation of Labor. By sending delegates from the miners' union who will fight for relief for the unemployed, Illinois labor can be forced to take action to save the miners from further hardship and suffering.

During the war, the government and coal mine owners insisted that the workers produce coal. The miners and labor generally should insist now that if the mine owners cannot or will not give them work, that they pay them wages.

The miners of Illinois should demand that the Illinois Federation of Labor go on record to demand of the state of Illinois immediate appropriations for relief of the coal miners.

The miners of Illinois should demand that the Illinois Federation of Labor go on record demanding that the mine owners pay wages to the miners when they cannot give them work.

The Chicago Federation of Labor and the officials of the State Federation of Labor have issued public statements endorsing the candidacy of LaFollette for the Presidency. The miners of Illinois should demand of these labor officials that they show them what there is in the LaFollette program which will bring relief for the unemployed coal miners and should refuse to give their endorsement to a candidate who is unwilling to consider this fundamental problem of the mine workers of Illinois.

Miners, the State Federation of Labor Convention gives you the opportunity to voice your grievance. Do not permit the labor politicians who are climbing on the LaFollette band-wagon because they are hungry for jobs to silence your voices.

The Workers Party has made one of its most important demands in this political campaign that the government and the employers, if they cannot give work, shall pay wages to unemployed workers. The Workers Party candidates stand on that platform.

Make Illinois Labor take up that issue at Peoria.

Make your slogan "Work or wages without work for the unemployed!"

Central Executive Committee,
WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA,
William Z. Foster, Chairman.
C. E. Ruthenberg, Executive Secretary.

Is Governor Small Member of KKK?

States Attorney Delos Duty of Williamson County states that to the best of his belief not alone is General Carlos Black of the state militia a member of the Ku Klux Klan but that Governor Len Small also is a member of the hooded order.

What have you to say about this Mr. Small? You have secured the support of the labor fakers of Illinois in your election campaign. You have also secured the support of LaFollette's army. Both are officially on record against the Klan.

The workers of Illinois and the miners in particular are anxious to know whether Delos Duty's suspicions are well grounded. Speak up Mr. Small!

ENGDAHL BRANDS DAWES' PRAISE OF KLAN AS HERRIN RIOT CAUSE

"On the hands of the Fascist Charles Gates Dawes are the crimson stains of the blood of the dead, killed in the new Klan war at Herrin, Ill.," was the charge made yesterday at the Trade Union Educational League picnic by J. Louis Engdahl, editor of the DAILY WORKER and candidate for United States senator from Illinois on the Workers Party ticket.

"Only a few days after his eulogy at Augusta, Me., of the black order of the Ku Klux Klan, blood was flowing again in Williamson County, Dawes, the American Fascist leader, the head of the Minute Men of the Constitution is now the inspiration of the vile mob

(Continued on page 2)

NORTH DAKOTA IS FIRST TO PUT THE WORKERS PARTY TICKET ON BALLOT FOR THE FALL ELECTIONS

ALFRED KNUTSON, the field organizer of the Workers Party in North and South Dakota, reports that North Dakota is first to place Foster and Gitlow on the ballot.

The necessary 250 signatures to accomplish that in the state of North Dakota have been secured and an additional 200 to make the job absolutely secure are now being added by the petition circulators.

The Workers Party is therefore sure of a place on the ballot in North Dakota.

A state Farmer-Labor ticket will probably be nominated by the Farmer-Labor Party, which holds a meeting at Bismarck today, Sept. 3rd, and this state ticket will be supported by the Workers Party.

NEGROES FIGHT CONCESSION TO RUBBER TRUST

See Liberian Privileges Stolen From Them

By ROBERT MINOR
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—A bombshell of international political and financial intrigue was burst over the astonished heads of the delegates of the International Negro Convention, in session here, when the announcement was made from the platform that the government of the African Negro republic of Liberia, completely ignoring former concessions to an American Negro Co-operative Company, has suddenly granted a big concession covering practically the same field to the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., of Ohio, and that under admitted coercion of the French and British governments the Liberian state has barred all members of the Negro organization from landing on soil.

For several minutes after the announcement was read, the 1,500 colored visitors and delegates sat in dismayed silence.

Then pandemonium broke loose. Delegates from Negro communities of South America, the West Indies, Cuba and from American cities jumped to their feet to shout their anger and disgust.

N. G. G. Thomas, assistant secretary general of the Universal Negro Improvement Association, read to the assembly a large file of documents to establish the claim that the Negro association's plan to help develop the economic strength of the African republic thru a colonization and co-operative trading scheme had been officially recognized and accepted by the Liberian government.

One document read appears to be a formal grant to the Universal Negro Improvement Association of the right

(Continued on Page 6)

HERRIN MINERS MARCH BEHIND KLAN VICTIM

(Special to The Daily Worker)

HERRIN, Ill., Sept. 2.—The miners buried one of their dead, Bud Allison, this morning. Thirty-five cars filled to capacity followed the 250 members of Local Union No. 1248, United Mine Workers, who marched behind the hearse.

Officers of the Herrin local union, which conducted the funeral, acted as pallbearers.

Mike Flynn, member of pit committee; Scott Dedett, president; John Green, financial secretary; Rev. Albright, recording secretary; Joe Lynn, treasurer; William Engler and Will Pierce, trustees. The men marched behind the banner of the local union.

Reverend John Meeker, a Presbyterian, the only Protestant preacher in town, he told me, who has not lined up with the Klan, performed the ceremony. He pleaded for all Herrin citizens to come into the church as cure for bloodshed in Herrin.

When later I asked him how following the banner of preachers who allow the use of their churches as arsenals by Klansmen would bring peace, he was hard pressed for an answer. He said he believes Klan liquor raids were good for the town.

Bud Allison, up until six weeks ago, when he sworn in as special deputy, worked in mine 4 of the Chicago, Williamson and Franklin Coal Company, as we returned from Allison's funeral, we passed the funeral of Green Dunning, Klansman. Eleven cars were in the procession including two filled with robed Klansmen. John Smith, the garage owner, was in the first car in his regalia. Another occupant of the Klan cars was Carl Nielson, last week found guilty of assault by Judge Bowen. Doctor J. T. Black's hearing was continued until next Saturday.

Dawes Is Guilty!

CHARLES GATES DAWES, republican candidate for vice president, in his speech at Augusta, Maine, Saturday, August 23, declared that:

"A thousand members of the Ku Klux Klan without disguise—they were brave men—marched to the office of the sheriff of Williamson County to protest against the lawlessness in that section. IF A SECRET ORGANIZATION TO UPHOLD LAW AND ORDER IS JUSTIFIABLE ANYWHERE IN OUR COUNTRY, IT WAS JUSTIFIABLE THERE."

• • • • •

In those words, the Fascisti candidate for vice president on the republican ticket, placed the stamp of his approval on the lawlessness of the Ku Klux Klan in Williamson County.

The "law and order" of the night shirts in Williamson County, is the "law and order" of the war of coal barons against the coal miners. That is why Vice Presidential Candidate Dawes is in favor of it.

• • • • •

It was with these words of approval of the rep. candidate for vice president, spoken on August 23, still ringing in their ears, that the Ku Klux Klan inaugurated, just one week later, on August 30, another reign of terror, in Williamson County.

Even the Dawes, mouthpiece, the Chicago Tribune, confesses in its issue of Sunday, August 31, that:

"Today's fight is directly attributed to the ending of the murder trial of Carl and Earl Shelton, brothers, in city court, this forenoon. The brothers were freed after State's Attorney Delos, anti-klansman, nolle prossed the charges that they had shot to death Constable Caesar Cagle, klansman, in a free-for-all fight between klansmen and Flaming Circle men last February.

"Duty's action followed a dramatic appeal in the courtroom by the aged father of the slain constable, who arose and begged the judge to free the prisoners, because he was convinced they had not killed his son.

"Hostilities began when Sheriff Galligan, accompanied by Deputies 'Bud' Allison, Fred Berger, Henry Walker, and John Shafter, went to the garage, known as klan headquarters here, to attach an automobile owned by Jack Skiecher, anti-klansman.

"Followed by several men, said to be from St. Louis, the sheriff entered the garage. His story of what happened follows:

"Dewey Newbolt, a klansman, was seated in a chair leaning back against the wall. Several men were with him. A few words were exchanged and Newbolt jerked from its holster one of four guns he had strapped to his body and opened fire on us. Allison fell, shot thru the chest, and the other three deputies and I returned the fire.

"We retreated to the street followed by the klansmen, and the battle line stretched out for a block. It was over in a few moments, and a checkup showed that the score stands 4 to 2—four dead klansmen, one dead deputy, and one dead bystander, Roland, who was not a klansman.

"Dunning, Reid, Willard, and Newbolt were members of the klan, and from remarks them have made lately WE HAVE FEARED THIS OUTBREAK WAS COMING."

• • • • •

That is the kind of "law and order" that Dawes stands for; the kind of "law and order" that carries four guns in a peaceful working class community.

Out at his home in Evanston, "Hell an' Maria" Dawes sits crouching, evidently struck dumb with fear at the quick response, from the guns of the Williamson County Klansmen, to his speech one week before in Augusta, Maine.

The DAILY WORKER sought to reach Mr. Dawes over the telephone. His manager, Kilkenny, responded.

"All the newspapers have been trying to get Mr. Dawes to make a statement on the situation at Herrin," said Mr. Kilkenny. "Mr. Dawes has refused to make any statement to any newspaper."

The silence of Mr. Dawes is proof that he feels the guilt for the spilling of blood in Williamson County.

Let the workers remember the words of "Fascisti" Dawes, fearful of the growth of militancy among the Southern Illinois coal miners, when he said:

"If a secret organiation to uphold law and order is justifiable anywhere in our country, it is justifiable there (Williamson County)."

Dawes stands back of the Klan.

Dawes is guilty of the crimes of the Klan.

INTERNATIONAL DELEGATES WILL REPORT TO SPECIAL MEETING OF CHICAGO YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

All branch and other meetings of the Young Workers League of Chicago for Thursday evening, Sept. 4, have been called off. Instead there will take place a general membership meeting where the delegates to the 4th congress of the Y. C. I. will render their reports on the decisions and resolutions arrived at there, and the immediate problems of the Y. W. L. in the light of these decisions.

Comrade Carlson, who has been working for the E. C. of the Y. C. I. in Europe for the last 18 months, will be the chief reporter.

The decisions of the last congress are of particular importance to the work that must be done here. More attention was devoted to the Y. W. L. than was ever the case hitherto at an international congress. Furthermore, the valuable experiences gained in nucleus work in Germany, Britain and Checho-Slovakia; the Trade union-economic experiences of the French league; the Anti-militarist experiences in the Ruhr, in Bulgaria, etc., make possible a clearer and more concrete line of action in all of these fields.

Every member of the Y. W. L. of Chicago and suburbs, must attend this meeting. Admission will be by presentation of membership card only. Workers Party members are also invited to attend, but must show their party cards.

The meeting will take place at 722 Blue Island Ave., at 8 p. m.

Spaniards Losing Ground.

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 2.—Spanish soldiers in the Tetuan zone of the Moroccan battlefront have been compelled to retire after severe fighting with the Moroccan rebels.

Dawes Plan Officially Accepted.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—Formal announcement that the Dawes plan is now officially in effect was made today by the Inter Allied Reparations Commission.

League of Nations President.

GENEVA, Sept. 2.—M. Otta, former premier of Switzerland was elected president of the League of Nations Assembly this afternoon.

They Always Have Interests.

PEKING, Sept. 2.—The Italian cruiser Libya, is rushing to Shanghai to protect Italian lives and interests, especially interests, of course, the Italian legation announced today.

KLAN LEAVES DEATH TRAIL IN HERRIN, ILL.

Murderers Backed by Protestant Churches

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

HERRIN, Ill., Sept. 2.—Removal of Sheriff George Galligan as a means to peace in Williamson county will be asked of Gov. Len Small, by a committee representing the county ministers' association and other citizens, it was decided this afternoon after the same committee had called on the county beard to urge that body to use its influence to bring about the removal.

The committee is headed by Rev. I. E. Lee, of the First Baptist church. It is charged the Protestant churches are in alliance with the Ku Klux Klan.

The governor is the only person empowered to remove a sheriff. If is now charged the governor is also a Klansman.

The Christian church here, deputies charge, has been used as an arsenal to store ammunition for the Klan. It is rumored that the police cleaned it out of ammunition Saturday night.

• • •

(Special to The Daily Worker)

HERRIN, Ill., Sept. 2.—Six men dead and several wounded. This is the toll of the latest outrage perpetrated by the Ku Klux Klan in what the Illinois Chamber of Commerce is pleased to call "bloody Williamson County."

Sheriff Galligan and his deputies were served with warrants charging them with murders of three persons killed last Saturday. A warrant is issued for the arrest of State's Attorney Delos Duty, charging him with conspiracy in the murders.

Doctor J. T. Black, head of the Herrin Hospital, is released on a $15,000 bond. The Klan-controlled city administration charges him with being an anti-klan sympathizer.

Thirty automobile loads of ammunitions were unloaded at the rear of the city hall last night. All efforts to trace the autos were unsuccessful. Police and firemen were not giving out any information. Fear of whizzing bullets seals lips.

Started in 1922.

The people are in deadly fear of the next outbreak. Since the 1922 riot at the scab mine, during which several strikebreakers were killed, the county is divided into warring factions, one the Klan faction, backed by the operators and the Protestant churches, the other friendly to the miners' union.

Adj. Gen. Carlos Black announced that he would withdraw the troops, which were sent into Herrin on the request of Sheriff Galligan. State's Attorney Duty, charges Gen. Black with being a member of the Klan. People are beginning to think that Governor Len Small is also sympathetic to the hooded order. Not because Small believes in the purpose of the Klan, but for reasons of political expediency.

The latest death-carnival started last Saturday after the Shelton brothers were acquitted of the charge of murdering Constable Cagle, a Klan policeman, during the Glenn Young raids. The constable's death occurred on February 8.

Klan Killed Skelcher.

After the acquittal, a deputy sheriff, who had loaned a Dodge car to Jack Skelcher, another deputy, to hunt Glenn Young in the Ohaw bottoms last February, went to Smith's garage to recover his car. Smith is a prominent Klansman. Skelcher was murdered by the Klan and the Dodge carried bullet marks.

The Dodge was stored in Smith's garage by Klansmen after they had shot and killed Skelcher a few months ago. The immediate cause of the shooting was the attempt of deputy sheriffs to recover their car from the Klansmen. It is reported that an Essex, filled with Klansmen, drove past the deputies as they stopped in front of the garage and fired at them, killing Bud Allison.

Sheriff Galligan was in charge of the deputies. He was present during the trial of the Shelton boys.

The six dead men are: Bud Allison, deputy sheriff; Otto Roland, deputy sheriff; Charles Wollard, reputed Klansman; Chester Reede, a by-stand-

(Continued on page 2)

PROGRESSIVES DEMAND ACTION FROM U. M. W. A.

Militant Miners' Slate Gets Endorsements

By KARL REEVE
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

CHRISTOPHER, Ill., Aug. 29.—Illinois will be swept by a series of mass meetings of the miners protesting against unemployment, this fall, Arley Staples, candidate for International vice-president of the United Mine Workers in the December elections, told the DAILY WORKER today.

"The miners thru-out Illinois, where over 40,000 have been out of work for many months, and over the entire country, are already passing resolutions demanding more aggressive action on the part of the 'official family' against unemployment," Staples said. "I look for thousands of unemployed miners to form special unemployment councils, and to demand of the bosses that the industry take care of the unemployed workers."

Unemployment Grows.

"Every month that goes by means that the industrial crisis becomes more acute. In the large cities factories are closing down daily. There is less demand for coal. Unemployment is growing more acute and will not get better this winter, but worse.

"The miners in southern Illinois realize that the worst period of unemployment in our history is turning not into a period of prosperity, but into a period when the entire capitalistic economic structure is being shaken. They are waking up to the fact that the only way to completely solve their problems is to take over the mines and run them for the use of the working class and not for the profit of millionaires, as is done at present.

Farrington Idle.

"While the miners are starving in southern Illinois, while the coal operators are attempting to force a wage cut after starving the miners by closing down the mines, Frank Farrington and the entire reactionary officialdom of the miners' union is doing nothing to relieve the situation.

"I am running for international vice president on the program of the militant miners. The militant rank and file miners demand that a conference of all local unions on unemployment be called by the United Mine Workers' officials. They demand that a drive be immediately started to organize the unorganized coal miners of the south. They demand that the shorter work day be instituted as a solution for unemployment. They demand that the coal operators and the government pay unemployment benefits.

"The progressive miners of this country insist that the miners' officials take immediate action to solve unemployment and institute immediate, and organized measures for real relief of the suffering unemployed miners.

Vote for Progressives.

"There are two ways the rank and file miners can make their voice heard in Illinois. One is to instruct their delegates to the coming convention in Sept. 8, to fight for this program. Another is to elect officers in the December primary, who are pledged to this progressive program."

Staples declares that the miners have arisen in protest against inaction of the officials before and they are beginning to do it again. He referred to the time when Farrington mismanaged the affiars of the Illinois miners in the 1922 strike.

The five Christopher local unions, Nos. 1421, 2376, 2468, 232, 3613, and many other locals thruout the state, demanded of President Lewis the immediate removal of Frank Farrington as president of District 12. Farrington, who had been playing for a separate district agreement with the coal operators for the Illinois miners, because of opposition to his policies among the miners, took a right about face at the reconvened Peoria convention.

Indorsed in Nova Scotia.

Staples has been nominated by all the Christopher locals. He has just received the following letter from New Waterford, Nova Scotia:

"Dear Sir and Brother—I take great pleasure in informing you of the fact that this local union, No. 4527, No. 1 2miles, New Waterford, has nominated you for international office as vice president. Hoping that you have every success in your campaign, also to cheer you with the knowledge that District 26 will vote to a man, I remain.

Yours fraternally,
"(Signed) ROBT. McNEIL.
"New Waterford, N. S., P. O. Box 426."

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Special New York Issue

THE special New York-Gitlow-Campaign issue of the DAILY WORKER will be dated September 4th and will be on hand Friday morning, September 5th, in the Jimmie Higgins Book Shop, 127 University Place.

Every reader of the DAILY WORKER should call at the book shop for a bundle at 2c a copy, to help boost the New York campaign and particularly the meeting of Comrade Gitlow, our vice-presidential candidate. The entire front page of this issue will consist of special New York matter.

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES ON CAPITALIST TICKETS UNLOAD CARGO OF HOKUM ON LABOR DAY

MORGAN'S ATTORNEY

JOHN W. DAVIS, democratic candidate for president, arrived in Chicago today, on his way to take a jab at the agricultural vote. He held out his hat for the labor vote yesterday in his Labor Day speech, in which he tagged himself a "liberal labor" candidate.

He heartily supported the anti-child labor amendment, and denounced the Esch-Cummins law. He favored voluntary wage agreements and denounced the use of injunctions in strikes.

Had these promises been incorporated in the democratic party platform, Gompers might now be boosting the donkey instead of the Foolite ticket.

* * * *

MORGAN'S PRESIDENT

CALVIN COOLIDGE, strikebreaker president, also got on labor's bandwagon. Speaking to a collection of labor fakers, whose records are so black that even Sam Gompers would hesitate to shake hands with them in public, Coolidge declared that he thot the workers had a right to live as long as they worked hard and otherwise conducted themselves. He said the republican party put soup in the worker's dinner pail and oil in his lamp. He urged the labor fakers to "stick to the American brand of government, the American brand of equality and the American brand of wages."

The labor fakers promised not to accept any foreign ideas unless they came thru the League of Nations, Mr. Bahkmetef, Angelo Firpo or the Prince of Wales. Their price for the next four years would be higher than formerly owing to the raise in the cost of living and their growing taste for luxuries.

Samuel Gompers could not delives all the votes to LaFollette, they informed the president. They were thankful to the old man for deserting the two old parties, as his absence makes the bribers grow fonder.

Prominent labor fakers missing from the delegation were "Big Tim" Murphy and Robert P. Brindell. Their duties in Leavenworth and Sing Sing were too pressing.

* * * *

ANYBODY'S MAN

SENATOR ROBERT M. LaFOLLETTE spoke to an invisible audience on Labor Day. What he said was hard on the ears and still harder in the brain. He pictured the two old parties the abject slaves of wealth. But he has hopes in the people. "I believe," he said, "that if the people can once regain control of the machinery of government we can stem the tide toward economic absolutism.

"Fightin" Bob denied that he was a radical, said that the Dawes Plan was a Morgan Plan and insisted that he would rescue the people from Wall Street, if they would allow him.

In the meantime the official organ of Samuel Gompers is coming off the press, with an editorial denouncing the trust-busting philosophy of LaFollette and demanding the repeal of Bob's pet anti-trust Sherman act.

Workers' Blood Crimsons Hands of Dawes

(Continued from page 1)

of hooded cowards whose efforts are now directed toward the elimination of the miners' union in the interests of the open shop coal operators."

Engdahl, amidst enthusiastic applause, called upon the assembled picnickers to join the Communist movement and work in the revolutionary ranks of this country for the establishment of a Soviet republic.

Max Shachtman, editor of the Young Worker, also spoke on the significance of Mobilization Day, Sept. 12.

Despite the rain, a good crowd turned out to the annual picnic of the T. U. E. L. The spirits of the young in particular were far from being dampened.

* * *

Edwards Speaks for T. U. E. L.

John Edwards, recently returned from Soviet Russia, addressed the last meeting of the Trade Union Educational League of Chicago on the Communist youth movements in Europe, embracing Germany, France and Russia, and the lessons we should learn from them in developing our youth movement. Edwards attended the Third World Congress of the Young Communist International in Russia.

In his speech he particularly stressed the fact that these countries centered their intensive organization work on the youth of the working class.

He portrayed the life of the youth of Russia. They work only six hours a day. They attend the factory schools or colleges. Only workers at present are admitted to the colleges in Russia.

Sports and games play a big role in the Communist youth movements abroad and in Russia, too. The Youth Red Sport International of Russia has one million and a half members.

Resort for Workers' Sports.

Leninhills, once a restricted pleasure resort for the nobility and wealthy merchants of Russia (of course it was not known as Leninhills them), has been set aside for youth sport activities. The magnificent houses and hotels are used for schools.

Every six months workers receive a two weeks' vacation in Russia, and they are off to Leninhills to join in the sports.

"In no country does one see such healthy looking youths as in Russia," said Edwards. "Imagine thousands of robust, laughing, joyous sturdy youths headed for Leninhills in hundreds of boats bearing red flags and you will have the picture that greeted my eyes as I stood on the banks of Leninhills with revolutionists from other countries who spent a day there viewing youth festivities in Soviet Russia. When they come on shore, they went thru military drills and took part in healthful games. These youths work in the factories, attend the colleges and take an active part in the work of the Communist Party.'

Urges Youth Nuclei.

He urged the organization of youth nuclei in the unions just as they have in Russia, France and Germany. Youth nuclei in the unions have gained for them a better understanding between the adult workers and the apprentices in France and Germany. In Germany especially the apprentices are used against the mechanics by the owners, but the youth nuclei in the shops are bringing about a better working understanding between the workers.

He said that Europe has taught him that no country can hope to gain revolutionary power without winning over the youth to its cause and making youth its most active part.

In America the Y. M. C. A., the colleges and the press are the conscious effort to spread capitalist propaganda among the youth. In our factory towns thousands of dollars are contributed by big capitalists, such as John D. Rockefeller, for instance, for youth sports. Thru these sport activities they direct youthful imagination and enthusiasm for their own ends.

We must get behind the Y. W. L. of America and use the knowledge gained from other countries to organize the youth for the revolutionary movement.

Browder Hits Dawes Plan.

Earl Browder, assistant secretary of the T. U. E. L., before closing the meeting spoke briefly on the Dawes plan and how it is being received in Europe by the workers. Browder said that Morgan is working hard to get the leaders of labor to champion the Dawes plan because he knows that if labor refutes it, it will not succeed in Europe.

As a result, Ramsay MacDonald of England, the social-democrat Marx of Germany and the radical-socialist Herriot of France have been enlisted to assist Morgan control the whole world thru the Dawes plan, but these men by their deeds of betrayal are losing leadership in the trade union movement.

The left wing of the labor movements are not with the Dawes plan. They have expressed themselves against it at their conventions and meetings. This pressure from below is becoming greater every day. The fact that the left wing in the trade union movement is against the Dawes plan we can take as a guarantee that the Dawes plan will fail in Europe.

CHICAGO'S KOSHER BUTCHERS STRIKE FOR PAY INCREASE

Chicago kosher butchers went on strike yesterday, demanding an increase in salary and a shorter work day. The increase will bring their salaries up to $5 and their workday down one-half hour each day.

The strike call was issued at the headquarters of the butchers' union here, and all union butchers have answered the call and are out on strike.

Ku Klux Klan Leaves Trail of Death in Williamson County

(Continued from page 1)

er; Green Dunning, reputed Klansman, and Dewy Newbold, reputed Klansman.

Klan and Anti-Klan.

The Herrin officialdom is with the Klan. The county authorities are on the other side.

Chief of Police, Matt Walker, an appointee of Mayor Magee Anderson, stated that he wuld not be surprised if fifty people were arrested by night fall.

The police chief, who plainly showed his Klan sympathies, denounced the sheriff's forces and threatened to jail every deputy in Benton and Marion.

According to eye witnesses of Saturday's battle, the Klansmen bore down on Smith's garage in an Essex car, heavily armed, and started the shooting.

It is rumored that Sheriff Galligan intends closing up the garage on the ground that it is a public nuisance and Klan hangout.

The undertaking establishment where the bodies of the anti-Klan victims of last Saturday's battle are lying, is constantly crowded with miners who come to pay their last respects to the dead. The morgue where the Klansmen are lying, is practically deserted.

Another attempt to oust Sheriff George Galligan from office is to be made today, the county ministers' association announced, following a session at which Rev. I. E. Lee was appointed to call on the county board at its meeting this afternoon and ask that body to use its influence to force the sheriff to relinquish his position. The president of the board, is Samuel Sterns, who for many months was closely associated with S. Glenn Young, Williamson county's imported dry raider.

Several previous attempts to remove Galligan have proved fruitless.

NEW YORK CITY Party Activities

C. C. C. Meet September 5.

The City Central Committee will meet Friday, Sept. 5, 8 p. m., at 208 E. 12th St., Room 2.

The election campaign will be the chief question before the committee, as the problems of finance, circulating petitions, getting on the ballot in the various districts, etc. require immediate attention.

The DAILY WORKER agent will also report on the subscription drive which is started in the city, and on other plans for raising the circulation of our Daily.

Industrial Organizers Meet Sept. 8.

The Industrial Organizers will meet Monday, Sept. 8, at 208 E. 12th Street, Room 2, 8 p. m., sharp.

Plans for intensifying industrial work in line with the party program of action will be taken up.

This is the first meeting held since July. The summer is almost over, and we must prepare to double our efforts on the industrial field.

OPEN AIR MEETINGS.

Thursday, Sept. 4.

7th St. and Avenue C—Speaker to be announced.

30th St. and 8th Ave.—Ben Davidson and Hulswood.

Lenox and Lexington Ave.—Chorover and Markoff.

110th St. and Madison Avenue—H. M. Wicklaky.

Longwood and Prospect Aves.—Rebecca Grecht and others.

Friday, Sept. 5.

All meetings called off on account of Youth Day celebration of the Young Workers League in Central Opera House, 205 East 67th St.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

STREET MEETINGS IN CHICAGO.

Wednesday, Sept. 3.

32nd and Halsted Sts.—Auspices, 4th Dist. Committee, Lithuanian branches. Speakers, Max Shachtman and Lithuanian comrade.

27th and Wallace Sts.—Auspices, 4th Dist. Committee. Speakers, D. E. Early and others.

42nd and Morgan Sts.—Auspices, 4th Dist. Committee. Polish branch speakers, English and Polish comrades.

BRANCH MEETINGS, LOCAL CHICAGO

Wednesday, Sept. 3.

Italian, Cicero—Circolo Giovanillo Hall, 14th St. between 52nd and 50th Ct.

D. F. Jewish—3420 W. Roosevelt Rd.

Terra Cotta Italian—2425 Clybourn Avenue, c. comrade Bottarzi.

Czecho-Slovak, Cicero—Masaryk School, 52nd Ave. and 23rd P.

Mid-City English—Ogden and Taylor.

Englewood—6414 So. Halsted St.

Czecho-Slovak No. 2—2548 S. Homan Avenue.

Thursday, Sept. 4.

Finnish—2409 N. Halsted St.

11th Ward Italian—1218 S. Oakley Blvd.

4th Ward Italian—511 N. Sangamon Street.

Community Center, 3201 S. Wabash Avenue. S. Side English. (Look up if units there.)

Russian No. 1—1502 W. Division St.

Scandinavian Karl Marx.

FOR INSURANCE OF ANY KIND
CARL BRODSKY
1123 Broadway, New York City
Tel. Watkins 3626.

"Make War on War!" Labor's Slogan for "Goose-Step Day!"

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, the militarists of the nation speed up their efforts to arouse the masses in support of their rapidly approaching "Goose Step Day," Sept 12.

Secretary of War John W. Weeks, pal of General Leonard Wood in helping to maintain American imperialism's sway over Wall Street's growing colonial possessions, especially in the Philippines, is in the front rank of the mobilizers for "Defense Day." That is his job.

* * *

Secretary of War Weeks is pulling all the old, familiar tricks, that the militarists have always employed, to make the game of human slaughter, for the protection of the world-wide interests of capitalism, attractive to the youth of the nation.

Secretary of War Weeks looks over the statistics and finds that the mills, the mines and the factories, while they have been producing huge profits for the great trusts, they have at the same time turned out a population of mentally subnormal and physically unfit candidates for the murder machines of war.

* * *

For the masters of bread need strong, healthy, alert young men to fight their wars so that they can fight them successfully against the strong, healthy, robust, alert young men of foreign imperialisms, whether of Great Britain, France or Japan.

Secretary of War Weeks laments, for the purposes of war, that "about one-half of our population is subnormal" and that the country suffers annually a loss of $1,500,000,000 by preventable illness and curable physical defects of its citizens."

* * *

Secretary of War Weeks doesn't worry about developing a nation of intelligent, healthy men, women and children, for the purposes of peace, for the building a better civilization. He states his fears openly and frankly, that this population with its 50 per cent subnormals "places the nation in the position of having to defend itself with one arm tied behind its back," which, "is bad." Bad for Wall Street and its gold.

* * *

Weeks has no cure for this problem. He does not urge that the standard of living be raised. He does not demand that the children be taken out of the factories. He does not seek a shortening of the work-day, or the bettering of working or housing conditions.

All that this pitiful puppet of the Wall Street war-makers has to offer is to suggest that, "the medical men in each community, as a patriotic service, will issue friendly advise to their fellow citizens on Sept. 12, "Defense Test Day."

This is a confession that the wages of the workers will not permit them to have a doctor's care and advice when needed, that the workers must depend upon the charity of doctors on one day, six years after the great war ended, in order that they might prepare their bodies to become cannon fodder for the next war.

* * *

"It may be too late," confesses Weeks, 'for any constructive action on a nation-wide scale to eradicate the physical weakness of the present generation, but it is certainly not too late to prevent the oncoming generation from developing similar defects.'

Thus, evidently hopeless of the patriotism of the doctors, Weeks pleads that "fathers and mothers will have the physical condition of their children investigated," but he did not add, in order that they be better fertilizer for the blood-crimsoned soil of some foreign land in the next great war.

* * *

In the last great capitalist war the dead alone totalled nearly 8,000,000 young men; to be exact just 7,975,000. Including the wounded the casualities went up to "at least 35,000,000" says The Chicago Daily News Almanac and Year-Book, for 1919. And the only victory was the triumph of the profiteering dollars of J. Pierpont Morgan.

* * *

Thus the issue for "Goose-Step Day, Sept. 12, 1924," in the United States becomes quite clear. Will the masses, in the workshops and on the farms, help the big capitalists, the war-makers prepare for the next war? Or will the masses of workers and farmers prepare to make war on the next capitalist war?

* * *

William Howard Taft, now Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, was secretary of war in the cabinet of President Roosevelt, more than two decades ago. Taft and Roosevelt did what they could to put budding American militarism on its feet.

But it was Roosevelt's Secretary of War Taft, who as Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, only recently declared "unconstitutional" legislation restricting the labor of children. It is under the rule of Chief Justice Taft that an increasing number of children are being driven to labor, before their time, when they should be in school, developing in the mills and factories all those diseases and ailments that make the American population nearly 50 per cent, just 46.8, defective. And the only worry of the big capitalists is that these children will not make good murderers in the next war.

* * *

Thus capitalism is revealed in all its barbarism. When it does not feed the nation's youth to the war machine, it drives it into the equally deadly maw of capitalist industry.

Against the capitalist slogan of "Prepare the Youth of the Nation for the Next War!" the Communists raise the demand, "Arouse the youth of the nation for war against the wars of the great capitalists. Arouse the workers for the war to end war-breeding capitalism!"

Sept. 12, this next week, should be a mobilization of all workers and poor farmers to spread the call for a great struggle to sweep this barbarous and blood-thirsty social system called capitalism off the earth forever.

THE AMERICAN LABOR MOVEMENT

"AMERICAN labor is still asleep, drugged into insensibility by bourgeois propaganda. It is the only important labor movement in the world not yet aware of the revolutionary character of the fight that it is carrying on; it is the only one which has not declared for some sort of a socialist society as its ultimate goal."—William Z. Foster.

FOSTER'S TOUR MAKING LABOR SKATES UNEASY

Fake Progressives Are Placed in Pillory

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 2.—William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for president, arrived here today after delivering a Labor Day speech in Kansas City, Mo. He will speak tonight in Triangle Park, South Broadway.

Foster's speech, in Omaha, Nebr., received considerable publicity and his appearance was a bombshell in the camp of the fake progressives who are so anxiously trying to betray the workers and poor farmers for their own opportunist, material gain.

Progressives Disillusioned.

The progressive party of Nebraska, which for some time was a thorn in the side of the old party politicians like Bryan, has been almost destroyed by some of the weak-kneed Farmer-Laborites in it. The genuine progressives are very much disillusioned by the action of LaFollette's agents and some are unwilling to join with them in the rank betrayal of an independent party of the producers.

Now, more than ever, many of these genuine progressives are beginning to realize the correctness of the view expressed by the Communists, who said to them months ago at their former conventions that LaFollette would betray them.

Dawes Would Fool Farmers.

Into the midst of this confusion now comes Dawes with his famous plan, which he and Mr. Hoover and the entire republican party say will help the American farmer by bringing about great exports of American agricultural, particularly animal, products. This will be Dawes' big appeal to the farmers. In reality it means that, by declaring the German nation bankrupt, appointing the House of Morgan as receiver and fastening upon the German people a debt which they can never pay, Morgan will gain a few billion dollars, a very small portion of which may be used to purchase American products.

This cold-blooded exploitation of the German nation might make some appeal to a few "retired" farmers, but the "tired" farmers of Nebraska are beginning to realize that to force the Dawes' plan upon the German workers may mean another imperialist war. They are in no mood in Nebraska for war, and every day they understand more clearly these possible eventualities, and have a keener sympathy for the Communists and their program.

Worried About Foster.

On Sunday, August 31, William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for President, spoke in Omaha. Foster's appearance in Omaha caused consternation among the various tlabor fakers who are anxiously climbing on the band wagon plloted by LaFollette and Charley Bryan. Foster ruthlessly exposed all the capitalist politicians and their various nostrums—Dawes with his plan, Bryan with his fake pacifism, and LaFollette with his opportunist, horse-trading politics, masked with the name of "progressivism."

Foster, fresh from his recent trip to Europe and Russia, showed how the workers and poor farmers in those countries are led by the Communists in opposition to the imperialist bankers, headed by Morgan and his handyman, Dawes. Foster told his audience about the tremendous possibilities of a rehabilitated Russian agriculture, which, when combined with modern agricultural machinery, will enable the workers' and peasants' government of Soviet Russia to smash the international markets of Europe.

This meeting was a bombshell in the camp of the fake progressives who are so anxiously trying to betray the workers and poor farmers for their own opportunist, material gains."

Our Candidates

FOSTER'S DATES

Springfield, Ill.—Carpenter Hall, Adams and Seventh Sts., Thursday, September 4th, 8 p. m.

Elizabeth, N. J.—Turn Hall, 725 High St., Wednesday, September 10, 8 p. m.

Newark, N. J.—Labor Lyceum, 704 So. 14th St., Thursday, September 11, 8 p. m.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Musical Fund Hall, 8th and Locust Streets, Friday, September 12, 8 p. m.

Paterson, N. J.—Halvitia Hall, 58 Van Houton Street, Saturday, September 13, 8 p. m.

GITLOW'S DATES

Comrade Gitlow, candidate for vice-president, will address meetings at the following places:

Warren, Ohio—Hippodrome Hall, High Street, Thursday, September 4, at 7:30 p. m.

FAMINE TALES IN KEPT PRESS SHOWN FALSE

Disprove Lies of "Trib" and Others

By M. A. SKROMNY.

The capitalist press, especially the Tribune, is continuing to feed its readers with horrible Russian famine stories. A few days ago the Russian Cheka had shot in the Chicago Tribune a hungry mob. Now the same yellow sheet has obtained an "exclusive" map of the famine district which claims to show that the famine "in the land of Red menace" is "as severe as that in 1921."

When we remind ourselves that the same newspaper in 1921 published an "exclusive" photograph of the Bolsheviks actually shooting down a hungry mob (which happened to be the photograph of the July uprising of 1917 showing the Bolsheviks being shot down by the Kerensky troops) we don't wonder much about the 'proofs' of this paper.

Recall Acts of 1921.

When the Soviet government in 1921 apealed to the world for aid to save the starving because it was unable to save them without aid from abroad, the same press called it "Bolshevik propaganda." Only after the working class organizations all over the world began an active campaign to aid in the famine did the capitalist press take it seriously. The Soviet government was forced to spend in this country several millions of dollars for food before the Hoover administration agreed to help. They actually permitted thousands of people to die before they did anything to help.

Now, when the Soviet government states that it is able to take care of the famine districts without foreign aid, they are so anxiously advertising the "great" famine. Why are they so anxiously advertising the "great" famine. Why are they so good-hearted? What happened?

Since 1921 the Soviet government has been recognized by many important states. The Hughes' policy of splendid isolation in the Russian affairs has proven a failure. It contributed much to the unemployment in this country, to the lessening of exports and the general deflation of business. It was an aid to the British, German and other business interests as against the interests of Uncle Sam. Many countries, including the arch enemy, France, are now on the verge of recognizing the Soviet government.

Farmers Aimed At.

The farmers in this country as well as the workers are rebelling against the well "oiled" old parties. In order to still their voices by raising artificially grain prices, and at the same time prevent, if possible, further recognitions of the Soviet government, this campaign of lies about the Russian famine was brot about. In the cable in which the "killings of the hungry" are reported there is a paragraph which lets the cat out of the bag. It states that "M. Leshava (Commissioner of Interior Trade) reports that the crop failure has affected two-thirds of the grain-growing districts in Russia and that exports must be radically curtailed if Russia intends to feed itself this coming winter. This should prove welcome news to American farmers, whom the Bolsheviks undersold in Europe a year ago."

This is the main reason why there is such a "terrible" famine in Russia. It should prove welcome news even if it is a lie. This will help Cutten and other speculators to corner the grain markets and make a few extra millions of dollars while the farmer may forget his troubles at least until after election.

But what is the actual state of affairs!

Russ Situation Favorable.

Comrade Rykov, chairman of the Soviet Famine Committee, reported the actual situation recently at a Moscow meeting. It is much more favorable than expected previously. According to the latest statistics, together with the 150 million puds of grain left over from last year the government will have on its hands 2,700 million puds. After covering the needs of the famine districts there will be a surplus of over 100 million puds. Out this amount 75 million puds will be exported. Besides helping the population with grain, 35 million gold rubles have been appropriated to help the famine districts and all labor and peasant organizations of the country have been mobilized for this purpose. The district affected covers about one-fourth of that in 1921, and only about seven million people are affected against the 30 million of 1921.

These facts are very well known to the Tribune correspondents but to print them would not be such welcome news to the grain-speculators who are robbing the population as well as the farmers. The white guards and the counter-revolutionists in general are attempting to make good use of the "welcome" news of the yellow sheets. The local white guard Russian paper using the Tribune's "news" is telling its readers that the Bolsheviks are starving the peasants while exporting grain.

But the workers have learned many a lesson during the last few years and they know how "reliable" the news about Russia is in the capitalist sheets.

Advocate Night Work Abolition.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., September 2.—Coincident with a convention in Milwaukee of the Wisconsin Association of Master Bakers, local No. 205 of the Bakers' union advocated the abolition of night baking and appealed to housewives to buy union-made bread in the interest of health and better working conditions for their craft.

DEVER PLAYING TWO PONIES IN DEFENSE DAY PROCLAMATION

In the hopes that he would continue to maintain some of his foreign vote support, Mayor Dever continued to straddle both horses by issuing a proclamation to the people of Chicago to observe Defense Day, but at the same time deploring the inculcation of the war spirit in the minds of the populace.

In the proclamation he pointed out that he doesn't "believe in emphasizing at this time preparation for war, yet I have no sympathy with the sentimental pacifism which would leave this nation helpless."

Therefore, proclamates Mayor Dever, we shall observe Defense Day nevertheless. All the big corporations—non-unionized—will have contingents of their employes on the line of march and in the audiences listening to patriotic airs—hot.

HERRIN MINERS, JOBLESS, GO TO KU KLUX TRIAL

Thirty Mines Shut Down in Sub-District

Editor's Note: This article by Karl Reeve was written before the renewal of civil war in Herrin last Saturday.

By KARL REEVE
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker.)

HERRIN, Ill., Sept. 2. — Thirty mines in the entire Herrin sub-district, the second largest sub-district in Illinois, are completely shut down. Only 17 are working at all, and none of these are working full time. This was the statement made at the offices of the United Mine Workers in Herrin.

3,000 Are Jobless.

Sven mines are completely closed in Herrin, and three mines are working part time. Over 2,000 miners in this town are idling the streets, out of work. Mines Nos. 1, 2 and 3 of the Franklin County Coal Company have been abandoned. Mine B of the Chicago, Williamson & Franklin Coal Company, ordinarily employing 300 men, has been shut down for practically a year. Mine A of this company, which works better than any other mine around Herrin, employing 100 men, works at the most four days a week.

Many of the unemployed miners, with nothing else to do, are attending the trial of Carl Nielson and Walter Winsted, members of the Ku Klux Klan. They are being tried at the county courthouse in Herrin, charged with assault with deadly weapon.

Visitors Searched.

When Arley Staples and myself entered the courtroom we were searched by two deputy sheriffs, Delos Duty, the prosecutor, and A. O. Boswell, defense attorney, were having a hard time to pick jurors who had no fixed opinion of the Ku Klux Klan. Judge Bowen had his back to the courtroom and was reading the Chicago Tribune. He slid down the paper occasionally to dreamily gaze out of the window.

Boswell seemed unwilling to allow foreigners to serve on the jury. C. Barballa was removed from the jury altho he declared he had no fixed opinion on the case. Dennis Craig was also removed by the Klan lawyer.

Duty, the prosecutor, explained to the jurors that the charge grew out of the raids, "commonly known as the Ku Klux Klan raids in which Glenn Young was involved." He explained they were being tried on an indictment returned by the Grand Jury.

Mystery in Court Procedure.

Boswell suddenly asked for a private conference and the judge and the two lawyers went into another room. Upon their return Judge Bowen announced that court would be adjourned until four o'clock in the afternoon. He refused to divulge the subject of the conference.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

(Continued from Page 1.)

the injunction. Perhaps John H. Walker might use up a dozen handkerchiefs, telling the workers how he has repented of his sins, how he turned from the wicked path, trodden by him during the days when he was a member of the socialist party and believed there was such a thing as the class struggle. Perhaps——

• • •

BUT listen. "Quiet, thotful reflection is expected to hold full sway instead of the clamor of former labor days. The parade, the outings and the oratory of other labor days will not be in evidence. Instead there will be a more constructive, more beneficial and more substantial way of observing labor day—the silent reflection upon the past and its lessons and the future and its problems.' This from the Federation News.

• • •

SO if you read something like the following in the columns of the capitalist press this morning you need not be surprised, because you are forewarned: "One of the most remarkable labor celebrations ever held in the vicinity of the Windy City, took place here yesterday in Sleepy Hollow. Several thousand workers spent the day laying on their backs gazing into the little patches of blue sky that could be seen thru the foliage of the trees. There was a dead silence. Suddenly a heavy sobbing was heard, but the sleepers did not move. The reporter astonished by the strange scene made his way in the direction of the sobbing and found John H. Walker, John Fitzpatrick and Victor Olander sitting near a brook crying furiously into the water.

• • •

"WALKING up and down nearby was a tall old man who looked very much like the figure of Santa Claus that can be seen around Christmas in the Marshall Field store window. 'That is Rip Van Winkle,' Mr. Walker managed to tell me between sobs. 'We brot him here specially today to give our union members a lesson in the art of keeping quiet. They are too fond of fighting with the capitalists, and fighting gets them nowhere. This method takes the edge off the run and moonshine from the moon. Never mind about the present, that's Christian Science.'

• • •

"SUDDENLY, John Fitzpatrick jumped up and mounting a boulder, took off his hat and began: 'Brothers this meeting now comes to order. The situation is this—' Olander pulled his coattail and handed him a stick of chewing gum. Fitz got down and said: 'Oh, hell I was dreaming.' Walker continued: 'Fitz is not yet completely broken in. He gets those fits once in a while. He does not understand the new policy of giving the class struggle the absent treatment. Foster spoiled poor John and it will take him some time before he gets completely over his desire to go out and fight. But he is convalescing rapidly.'"

• • •

YOU may not read such a report in today's papers. The labor fakers have not taken the organized workers to Sleepy Hollow, in the physical sense. It would not be so bad if they could sleep for 21 years and wake up to find the capitalists wheeling hand trucks and sweeping streets and digging sewers. The labor fakers have given them a drug that has put them to sleep mentally. A labor parade, even on Sept. 1, was a class demonstration. The workers walked together and it was the custom to give the position of honor in the procession to whatever union had a strike on its hands. But this policy is to be dropped in preference for the Rip Van Winkle method.

• • •

IF the leaders of the American Federation of Labor have decided to sleep the class struggle away, not so the enemy. We read in the New York Times, that Judge Gary is to preside at a conference of industrial leaders on September 12, the day designated by the War Department to mobilize the man power of America, as a test to see how far the militarists can get their cannon fodder into action when the bugles of war again ring out upon our ears. An industrial advisory board is created with Gary at its head and among the other members of the board are railroad presidents and heads of big manufacturing concerns and banks. This presages industrial conscription of the most drastic kind and the American Federation of Labor appears to be in accord with the plan.

• • •

THE White House is decorated in honor of the visit of the Prince of Wales. How many of our readers remember the occasion of Prince Henry of Prussia's visit to this country? What a welcome he received! Pullman sleeping cars were named after him and hotel rooms in which the royal parasite slept were objects of interest and commanded higher prices because Henry patronized them.

• • •

ALICE ROOSEVELT publicly bestowed an osculatory favor on the prince. All in all the prince had a good time. One would never suspect that not so very long ago, the same moving pictures would be featuring the depradations of the terrible "Huns" and showing German princes in uniform, not being osculated by Alice Roosevelt but attempting to rape the occupants of a Belgian convent, and of course getting smacked in the left eye by an American doughboy.

• • •

TODAY the Prince of Wales is greeted by the American capitalist class and the multitudes who accept the headlines as their creed give him the glad hand. Girls who dance with him say "Oh, isn't he the elk's antlers?" and feel honored. What he will say to Coolidge over breakfast may not be published, if they say anything.

• • •

BUT grizzled American admirals who take their orders from Wall Street via Washington, will not let down in their efforts to elevate the guns on the American navy, that will some day show a clean pair of heels to the Statue of Liberty on its way to send the Royal Navy to Davy Jones' locker. Behind the smiles of princes and presidents are the scowls of competing capitalists and some day they will fight, when diplomacy can no longer settle the arguments. The guns will boom and the now smiling prince will become the leering roue. But the guns will be the workers, unless they wake up in the meantime. The diplomats and capitalists will not go where the bullets fly.

A. T. GRIGGS MANUFACTURING CO., OF DETROIT, MICH., IS A DEVIL'S OWN HELL-HOLE, WORKER WRITES

A human voice out of the pit of a dungeon known as the A. T. Briggs Manufacturing Company, in Detroit, Michigan, reached the DAILY WORKER today. In this dungeon automobile bodies are made for the Hudson and Essex cars.

Those who have visited automobile manufacturing plants will recall, as they read this letter, rows and rows of human flesh lined up close to each other, quickly picking up the metal parts dropped by the machines and sending them on to the next stage of production.

These human machines must be continually at their posts (not for one moment can they stop) to keep pace with the rapidly moving machines.

Rumors in Factory.

Here is the letter:

To the DAILY WORKER—On Monday, Aug. 18, at 6:30 a. m., a rumor went the rounds at the Briggs Manufacturing Company that 150 men were to be laid off. Fifteen minutes later another rumor. The plant has overproduced. It will be necessary to reduce production. An inventory is being taken and there may be a complete shut-down.

A ruse to frighten the workers. I know something was coming. And then the cat was let out of the bag. There will be a cut in wages. The men have already received a 10 per cent cut in wages only a month ago.

Conditions in this plant are horrible. Fifteen minutes for lunch. No one is allowed to leave his bench even to go to the toilet. Anyone caught resting during work is immediately discharged.

Workers Often Discharged.

Discharge is a familiar word. Men are discharged on the flimsiest pretenses.

Outside the plant every day, except Sunday, a long line of men are waiting for a chance to work. There are at least 200 in line each day and this line hangs like a sword over the heads of the men inside who never know when they will be forced to stand there waiting for a chance to get back into this hell. I stood in this line three times.

When you are discharged the company gives you another chance to stand in line. With each time you are taken back you get a harder and lower paid job.

Endless Line of Jobless.

The men in line are a bad looking bunch. Broken down in body and spirit, hungry, sleeping in alleys, ragged and diseased they stand there waiting.

The A. T. Briggs Manufacturing Company is next to the largest body making firm in Detroit. They employ 15,000 men. They have four large plants and run night shifts.

The plant runs 12 hours a day and night. This factory is known all over Detroit as the Devil's Hell Hole. The workers call it "The Home of Blood Poisoning." It is horribly unsanitary in hundreds of ways which it would take too much space to describe.

Workers Only Hope.

I hope the day is not far off when the workers will be set free from this slavery to the money kings.

The Dictatorship of the Proletariat is the workers' only hope for a better world.

Enclosed find a subscription for four months and $2.00.

A COMRADE.

MEN, WOMEN, BOYS AND GIRLS
Learn at Home
A Refined, Healthy, Money-Making Business
During the Long Fall & Winter evenings.
Address,
The American Artificial Flower Co.
7925 So. Halsted St., Chicago, Ill.
CHICAGO, ILL.

EIGHT AND NINTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS LEAD

Young Workers League Members on Job

Under the impetus of the drive launched at the recent Chicago Workers Party membership meeting, party workers are sending in more enthusiastic reports on signatures obtained in the various congressional districts.

A review of the signatures obtained and the work done in the Eighth and Ninth congressional districts, in which George Maurer and Jack W. Johnstone are the candidates, show real progress, with indications that these will be the first to go over the top in placing Workers Party candidates on the ballot.

Other Districts Do Well.

Other districts are also going well, and with a little added speed from more of the members, Chicago expects to place all its candidates on the ballot.

The Young Workers League members have begun to organize their forces to obtain signatures and expect to turn in a large number within the next few days.

What Have Candidates Done?

The local is issuing a short statement on the "Lives and Work" of the Workers Party candidates, to be used to acquaint prospective signers of petitions with the men to be placed on the ballot.

Party workers who have gone out to get signatures invariably relate that it is easy to secure them. One good rule to follow is to carry copies of the DAILY WORKER and other campaign literature for distribution.

Bring in Petitions.

Real hustling is needed from every member, as there are only two weeks left in which to get the required number of signatures in the various districts. Every branch must get busy at once. Every member in the branch must be mobilized into quick participation in this work.

Street meetings can be and are being used successfully in getting signatures.

Earn Your Merit Stamp.

Earn your merit stamp for getting a new subscriber to the DAILY WORKER and a new member into the party. Merit stamps are different from any other stamps issued by our party. They must be earned by work. And every member in good standing must show a merit stamp on his book.

A campaign to visit those who signed to put the Workers Party candidates on the ballot will be inaugurated as soon as the drive for getting signatures is over. This will give every member in the party an opportunity to earn his merit stamp.

Party Getting on Ballot.

Reports coming in from all the states in which the Workers Party is trying to get its candidates on the ballot in the coming elections are very promising. Many have already reported success. The Workers Party has the distinguished honor in this national election campaign of being the ONLY WORKING CLASS TICKET in the field, all other parties in the field being upholders of the capitalist system.

Comrades, don't let your state lag behind! Get behind your candidates! Put their names on the ballot!

TEAPOT DOME THIEF WINS FIRST VICTORY IN GASOLENE BATTLE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of the Teapot Dome oil reserve, scored for the first time today in the litigation growing out of the Senate investigation of the naval oil leases.

Justice Hochling of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, granted Sinclair a special appeal from the court's order overruling his demurrer to an indictment charging him with contempt of the senate.

The contempt charges grew out of Sinclair's refusal to answer certain questions propounded by the Senate Public Lands Committee during the oil inquiry.

ILLINOIS MINING TOWN IS PICTURE OF DILAPIDATION

By KARL REEVE.
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker.)

SESSER, Ill., Sept. 2.—The main street of Sesser is dilapidated and forlorn. Most of the stores have closed their doors, the windows are broken and in some places boarded up. Those stores remaining open have only a few dollars' worth of stock on hand. The Old Ben Coal Company mine No. 16, usually employing 550 men, has been shut down for seven months, and the Southern Gem Coal Company, employing 670 men, is not only closed, but it owes the men over $100,000 on their last December pay roll.

Stores Die Off.

The Caesar Biotti grocery and meat market, after extending credit to the unemployed miners to the amount of $8,000, has closed its doors and given up the ghost. J. H. Wilson, selling general merchandise, is expected to close soon, having gone in the hole over $5,000. Allen & Loukes, formerly one of the biggest stores in Sesser, will close soon, having lost already $6,000. The Page Drug Company, formally declared bankrupt, has closed its doors.

Many of those who left for the large cities to find work have returned home. Some of those who went to Detroit, St. Louis, Chicago and other cities, and failed to find work, are Reggio Garner, Roscoe Stone, W. C. Stone, Edwin Tate, Charles Bubis, Robert Hancock, William Bel Busgher, Joe Caveglia and John Moudy.

Out of a population of 4,500, over 1,000 miners in Sesser are out of work and have been unemployed for the last seven months.

AL. SMITH, NEW YORK GOVERNOR, HAILS PRINCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. — Governor Alfred E. Smith, who was supported in his bid for the democratic nomination for the presidency by the Irish nationalist organizations and their rabid anti-British press, broadcasted a welcome to His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, while on board the Berengaria on his way to New York.

Governor Smith, the "friend of Ireland," delivered himself as follows:

"His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, on board the steamship Berengaria on his way to New York.

"I have the honor to express the greetings and extend a warm welcome on behalf of the people of the state of New York on the occasion of the arrival of your Royal Highness in our harbor.

"This greeting is sent to you thru the courtesy of the United States army service, one of whose airplanes is circling over your vessel.

"ALFRED E. SMITH."

Take a Vote in Your Shop

HOW do the workers in your shop stand in this presidential election campaign?

How many of your shop mates are still so backward that they accept the leadership of Coolidge and Davis?

How many of your fellow workers have been fooled by the specious pleas of LaFollette and adopt this middle-class saviour?

And, above all, how many workers are there in your shop who understand that the working class must have its own party, its own policy, and its own candidate—and who therefore stand for William Z. Foster for president?

Take a vote in your shop. Send it in to the DAILY WORKER. We will compile it along with all the other shop votes and give you a picture of how the workers are thinking about the election issues and candidates.

WORKERS' STRAW VOTE

THE DAILY WORKER,
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

The workers employed in the shop of.....

(Name of shop or factory) have taken a straw vote on the presidential candidates, and the vote was as follows:

WM. Z. FOSTER ..... votes; Workers Party
LaFOLLETTE ..... votes; No Party
DAVIS ..... votes; Democratic Party
COOLIDGE ..... votes. Republican Party

I certify that this report is correct:

Name: .....

Address: .....

The most important and interesting newspaper in America today is

THE DAILY WORKER
America's Great Labor Daily

Are Your neighbors and friends subscribers? You cannot afford to miss a copy. Order a bundle of sample copies to give away in your shop, factory or office and among your friends.

Get a supply of Subscription Blanks

THE DAILY WORKER,
1113 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Enclosed please find $ ..... for ..... months subscription to THE DAILY WORKER.

Name: .....

Street: ..... Flat: .....

City: ..... State: .....

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

By Mail—
1 year $6.00
6 months $3.50
3 months $2.00

IN CHICAGO
By Mail—
1 year $8.00
6 months $4.50
3 months $2.50

CLEVELAND, OHIO
A $500,000,000.00 GRAFT
This is the drug trust's annual toll from the sullen rich and poor. For this not only worthless substances, but also dangerous and habit-forming drugs are given, and as a result, "Medicine destroys more lives than war, pestilence and famine combined. Patent medicine is responsible for about 20 per cent of the inmates of all insane asylums."
Progressive men and women have discarded drugs as a relic of the superstitious past, and are now using Natural Methods only.—"Why? see

Dr. J. J. SCHOLTES
Chiropractor and Electrotherapist
2838 W. 25th St. Linc. 5340

The Workers Party in Action

Statememt by Central Executive Committee

Further statement of the Central Executive Committee regarding the appearance of the Horthy government bond advertisement in the Volkszeitung, New York.

* * *

The Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party issued a statement apologizing for the disgrace of the appearance in the Volkszeitung of an advertisement advertising bonds of the counter-revolutionary Horthy Government in Hungary, condemning the Volkszeitung for appearance of this advertisement, directing Comrade Lore, the editor of the Volkszeitung to publish an editorial repudiating it, and stating its purpose to investigate this matter thoroly as to the responsibility for the appearance of the advertisement. The Central Executive Committee now states the results of its investigation as follows:

The Central Executive Committee is in receipt of the following telegram from Comrade Ludwig Lore, editor of the Volkszeitung, in regard to its statement:

"Received letter August 12 just now. Want to state that as soon as attention was called to advertisement I called up Business Manager directing him to take out same which he presently did. Wrote for next issue August 2 double column editorial 'For Horthy Hungary Not Guilty' explaining situation in Hungary and stating in most forcible language that any support of loan constitutes counter-revolutionary action but showing also bad financial conditions of that country. The friend who called your attention to that one inch ad must curiously have overlooked double column leading editorial of August 2nd. Protest strongly against premature action of Political Committee. Before you make statements it is your duty to investigate. Short telegram to editor and C. E. C. member would have brought you correct information. Wait for your reply before I publish your statement which I did not receive yet."

The Central Executive Committee welcomes the information that Comrade Lore, as editor of the Volkszeitung, published an editorial repudiating the advertisement the day following its third appearance in the Volkszeitung. It however, expresses surprise that Comrade Lore did not call the attention of the Central Executive Committee to the fact that such an advertisement had appeared and to his action in repudiating it, but left the Central Executive Committee to find out, on its own account, that such an advertisement had appeared and only advised it of his editorial after the C. E. C. statement had been issued. It must also state its view that the appearance of the one sentence reading:

"We regret to say that one of these advertisements, for money to be used to support the damnable Horthy system also found its way into the columns of the New York Volkszeitung" is not a sufficient expression of regret and explanation for the appearance of a counter-revolutionary advertisement in the Volkszeitung. The whole text of Comrade Lore's editorial appears herewith.

The appearance in a Communist newspaper of an advertisement advertising for sale the bonds of a counter-revolutionary government which has slaughtered thousands of Communists and imprisoned tens of thousands of others is not a matter to be carelessly passed over by the Central Executive Committee of the Party responsible for the paper which published this advertisement, nor does the fact that an editorial repudiating the advertisement appeared close to the matter. The Central Executive Committee expresses its surprise that any member of the Workers Party which prides itself on being a Communist Party, could overlook the offense committed against the entire international movement by the appearance of such an advertisement, and see only the fact that in its original statement the Central Executive Committee did not take into account the appearance of Comrade Lore's editorial, in regard to which it was not informed at the time the statement was issued.

The important question before the Central Executive Committee here is how could it happen that a Communist daily could publish such an advertisement under any conceivable circumstances. Certainly no member of the Workers Party with the slightest Communist understanding would permit such an advertisement to appear with his approval. It was the duty of the Central Executive Committee to find out how it could be possible that such an advertisement could pass thru the hands of the administration of the Volkszeitung and appear in the paper, and to take action against the Party member who was in any way responsible for the appearance of the advertisement.

The Central Executive Committee has investigated this matter and finds that this advertisement was sent to the Volkszeitung administration by messenger and was received by Comrade Blohm who is in charge of advertising matter. Comrade Blohm states that the foreman of the printing establishment was in his office at the time the advertisement was received and since the envelope was marked "Charge" he passed it over without examining it. He states further that later he clipped the Horthy bond advertisement from the Volkszeitung and pasted it on the original order ordering the change in the character of the advertisement, but that again he did not read it nor did he note the character of the advertisement. Only after the third day of the appearance of the advertisement did he notice the character of it and when he reached the Volkszeitung building his attention was also called to it by Comrade Lore who ordered it removed from the paper.

The Central Executive Committee accepting Comrade Blohm's statement of the fact, is however of the opinion that Comrade Blohm is guilty of gross negligence and severely censures him for his carelessness and negligence which has placed the party in the position of accepting for money propaganda against its own revolutionary principles. Enemies of our party can use the appearance of this advertisement for attack upon our party.

The C. E. C. further instructs the New York Volkszeitung, and every other Party paper, that it must appoint a responsible Party member to pass upon the whole contents of every edition of a Party paper before it goes to press.

In making this ruling the Central Executive Committee does so in order that in the future there can be no excuse for the appearance of counter-revolutionary material in any organ of the Workers Party. The responsibility of the Central Executive Committee is not ended if such a counter-revolutionary advertisement as that of Horthy bonds appears and then a repudiating editorial appears in the same paper. It is the fact that such an advertisement could appear at all that the Central Executive Committee must deal with. It and it alone is responsible before the Communist International for conducting the Party press so that such incidents as the appearance of the Horthy advertisement in the Volkszeitung cannot, under any conceivable circumstances to the party. While it cannot now after the fact that the Horthy advertisement appeared in the Volkszeitung, it expresses the earnest hope that by establishing the responsibility of a Party member for each issue of a Party paper which appears such a transgression against the revolutionary movement will not happen in the future.

Central Executive Committee,
Wm. Z. Foster, Chairman,
C. E. Ruthenberg, Executive Sec'y

* * *

NOT A FARTHING FOR HORTHY HUNGARY.

Editorial from the New York Volkszeitung of August 2.
Translation by Comrade Ludwig Lore.

The American press is just at present being used for a widespread advertisement campaign for the sale of the 7½ pct. national loan of the Kingdom of Hungary. Everywhere one will find these advertisements, and see only recommended this "gilt edge" security to the prudent saver, because he will nowhere find an equal return for safely invested capital. We regret to say that one of these advertisements, for money to be used to support the damnable Horthy system also found its way into the columns of the New York Volkszeitung. For this reason we consider it to be our special duty to warn our readers against the buying of these securities, and to say openly that every direct or indirect support of present-day Hungary is a counter-revolutionary act, an act which no class-conscious worker would knowingly commit.

Horthy is, perhaps the worst blood hound among those who sit in the seats of the mighty at the present time. In Hungary, today, absolute autocracy reigns supreme. In Hungary no radical movement can become active. Even the Social Democracy, which in Hungary has become exceptionally reformistic and careful, must tolerate the constant supervision of the authorities, a supervision that exceeds even that in Russia under the reign of the Czar. Furthermore, this same Hungarian Social Democracy enjoys this poor remnant of elbow-room only because it daily emphasizes its unalterable enmity to Communism, and actively fights the forces of the Communist movement.

In Hungary every radical worker is at the mercy of the authorities. The labor unions live only so long and so much as they expressly profess political neutrality, and decline any cooperation with the Social-Democracy. The Co-operatives enjoy a similar measure of police and legal supervision. Only recently a number of co-operatives were dissolved and their property confiscated because the government had "reason to suspect" that they were working hand in hand with the Social-Democracy.

The fate of our Communist comrades need hardly be described to our readers. It is impossible to tell how many tenthousands of our comrades, men, women and children have been murdered, maimed and imprisoned by the scoundrelly rascals who hold Hungary under their whip lash, since the betrayal of the revolution. For these punishments are thousand-fold murders. In most trials, are seldom conducted before the public. Persons who are suspected of Communistic leanings "disappear," until their bodies are found murdered or drowned by an unknown hand. Horthy-Hungary is the land of thousand-fold murder, of the most horrible, most terrible White Terror that the world has ever known.

This "National Loan" of the Kingdom of Hungary is, furthermore, by no means the safe investment that its advertisements make it appear. It is generally known that this loan has been floated by the League of Nations, but that neither the League of Nations nor any single nation has guaranteed its payment. In this respect it is even worse than the Austrian Loan, which was thus secured. As a matter of fact the American business interests hesitated a long time before they subscribed to a part of the loan. Their support was won only after Count Apponyi brought his influence with the Vanderbilts to bear upon American finance. The fact that these bankers are now so energetically at work to unload these papers upon the small investor shows how little faith these large sharks have in the continued existence of the Horthy government.

Of the entire loan of $50,000,000, $7,000,000 are to be raised in the United States. For this the bankers here will, of course, draw a liberal commission, which will, naturally, be paid by Hungary, but the price of which will be paid by the small investor who buys the bonds. For the smaller the amount that Hungary finally receives out of its loan the smaller will the financial assistance be that it receives, the greater will be the detriment to Hungarian business. Even the conservative Journal of Commerce, which is distinctly friendly to the Horthy regime, was forced to admit last Thursday that the loan is neither safe nor to be recommended, since its security would be determined entirely by the ability of Hungary to pay its debts out of a favorable trade balance.

For the proletarian worker, for every enemy of the blood-thirsty Horthy regime, there can be only one reply:

NOT A FARTHING FOR HORTHY AND HIS FELLOW BANDITS.

GITLOW MEETING IN CAPITOL CITY BOOST FOR PARTY

Publicity in Capitalist Press Arouses Interest

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 2.—"Pythian Temple Bars Doors to Communists," "Hall Refused to Communists for Meeting," "Red Flag Will Not Wave Here," are only some of the headlines that greeted newspaper readers of the capital city the day after the Ben Gitlow meeting here.

But the venomous headlines notwithstanding, the stories reported in the news columns under these headlines were the best publicity as yet given to the Communist movement here.

Not Communist, Honest.

We quote from the Washington Times:

"Communists of Washington gathered last night and opened their campaign for the establishment of the Soviet form of government in this country. . . . . Any one who attended the meeting with the idea of hearing anything horrifying was sadly disappointed. The most radical thing that Benjamin Gitlow said was that the republican, democrat and progressive parties are not representative of the working class. He threw no mud. He just reviewed the labor record of the various parties and of the individual candidates and told the audiences if they wanted a real friend of labor they would have to vote for the Workers Party."

From the Washington Daily News:

Want Soviet.

"Gitlow's speech bitterly attacked LaFollette as representing 'the petty bourgeoisie and farmers' and substituting 'competitive capitalism for trust capitalism.'

"Coolidge and Davis, he said, were under the thumb of Wall St. and 'the puppets of capital.'

"Wheeler, LaFollette's running mate, Gitlow charged with being too friendly with Frank A. Vanderlip, millionaire banker, and James Spreckles, the sugar king.

"The Communist leader said his party believes in the Soviet form of government as it exists in Russia. The meeting was calm and peaceful despite the appearance of a policeman at the door."

Attract New Interest.

The many signed applications for membership that have come to the Workers Party headquarters here since the meeting have convinced the comrades that the Foster-Gitlow campaign speaking tours and the publicity they will attract will make the Communist arty a real political force in this country.

LAND SHARKS IN MEXICO KICK ON NEW LAND DECREE

Can't Enlarge Present Holdings

By SYDNEY WARREN
(Staff Correspondent of The Fed. Press)

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—The new agrarian decree that all requests for larger tracts of common lands must be submitted to the president of the republic thru the respective state agrarian commissions is causing widespread discontent among the large landowners of Mexico. They feel that the chances to evade the countrys agrarian laws will be considerably lessened by the new process. And so they are falling back on the principle of states rights, and say that President Obregon has no constitutional right to issue such a decree, and that they will fight it thru to the last court if necessary.

The sections of this agrarian proclamation that have received widespread praise from the conservative elements are as follows:

No Lands Peddling

1.—No additional common lands will be granted to any community unless it can prove that they are absolutely essential to the economic welfare of that community, that the lands they already have, have been completely exploited, and that they have the agricultural machinery with which to exploit the land they are requesting.

2.—The village that asks for the land must pay for it in a period of not more than ten years.

SILENT CAL HAS LOVELY BUNCH OF FAKES POSING AS LABOR MEN; LEWIS SWUNG WITH JOB PROMISE

By LAURENCE TODD
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Organized labor circles were almost as much interested, on the eve of Labor day, by the announcement that John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, had become a member of the advisory committee of the Coolidge campaign, as they were amused at the list of "labor leaders" previously given out by Chairman Butler as being branded for Cautious Cal.

John Lewis have been traveling into various coal regions this summer on the business of his organization, and wherever he has gone the word has been passed around that Lewis was for Coolidge. Now it is a certainty, and he appears on the same docket with John T. Adams, recent national chairman of the G. O. P. and associate of Lockwood and Burns in the Montana frame-up against Sen. Wheeler. Bascom Slemp, secretary of Coolidge, is second man on this advisory list, and H. D. Hatfield of West Virginia, well-known to the coal miners a few years ago, is third.

Queer Collection.

There are some other strangely tamed Bull Moose stalwarts, too, in this group of Coolidge advisers, for example, who managed the campaign for "social righteousness" in 1912; Raymond Robins, who is living down his Russian experiences and repeating his performance on behalf of Hardings; Dr. Hubert Robinson, sister of T. R., and Sen. R. B. Howell of Nebraska and Sen. Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, who have said kind words at intervals concerning the bankrupt farmers.

This list is far more genuine than the "labor conference" array that was gathered by T. V. O'Connor of the shipping board. The Chicago Federation of Labor has traced the identity of the persons collected by O'Connor and chairman Butler, and reported to the A. F. of L. here.

Cal's "Labor" Support.

Richard H. Powers, "former president of the International Seamen's Union of America," proves to be a federal employe who was ousted from membership in the National Seamen's union 25 years ago. Dan G. Smith, a switchman, former general chairman on the Rock Island lines, has not held an office in the union in the past four years, and instead has had a job as political lieutenant of Roy O. West, secretary of the republican national committee. E. M. Foley announced as "president of the International Longshoremen's union," is identified as a member of a small union on the Lakes, alleged by J. W. Tracey of the Steam Shovel and Dredgemen's union to number not more than 200 men. George Dolan, credited to the International Union of Steam and Operative Engineers, is not known to David Evans, secretary of that organization. Evans said there was no such man in any office, general or local, in the union.

Lewis Comes In Handy.

But John L. Lewis, chief executive of the coal miners, associating himself in a Coolidge committee with John T. Adams and Bascom Slemp, is a serious matter. A. F. of L. officials realize that Lewis will take part in the activities and the strategy of the campaign. This means that when Lewis gets ready to announce that every man who wants to hold his job after election day had better insure employment by voting for Coolidge and Dawes, they can turn to Lewis for expert advice. If Lewis is able to break the anti-Coolidge sentiment among the miners in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Iowa and other states, he will have served Coolidge and his business backers even better than McKinley and Taft were served by certain conspicuous labor officials in their day.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

An Example of Centrist Muddle-headedness

By CHARLES KOLARIK

IN the August 24th issue of the daily "Spravedlnost", the Czecho-Slovak daily, we find a proclamation to the Czechoslovak workers, which is a peculiar instrument of "guidance" to the workers of that nationality in the present maze of political developments in this country. A more outspoken "centrist",tendency, than expressed in this document, one could hardly seek to find. And this comes from a clique, that still feigns its attachment to the Third International, the Russian Revolution and the Soviet Republic.

The careful reader of the DAILY WORKER will be sufficiently informed as to the developments in the Czechoslovak Section of the Workers Party, which after a deplorably long period of internal squabbles has freed itself of the us—or to be more exact, anti-communistic elements. This clique, "re-organized" under the old name "Czechoslovak Marxian Federation" assumed by the Czechoslovak comrades after the withdrawal from the Socialist Party, and before the formation of our present Communist Workers Party, has succeeded, by means of legalistic trickery, to get away the control of the daily "Spravedlnost" and the by-weekly "Zajmy Ldu" from the Czechoslovak Section of the party to use these organs for the promulgation of their treacherous, centrist propaganda.

To the student of Marxism and Leninism, as applied to the development within the world Communist movement, this incident will prove very illuminating and invariably disappointing, and so even this year we are not certain, if the illusions of many of those, who work for La-Follette, will not be wrecked. The American Federation of Labor has not fully rid itself of the ballast of its "impartial" leaders, and amongst the LaFollette elements are those, to whom the formation of a labor-party is a thing of minor importance, so that the LaFollette campaign is more a question of hope than of certainty. But this uncertainty speaks forth even from candidacy of the Workers Party, a revolutionary class-party. The presidential candidate himself, Comrade Foster, does not encourage faith, such as a revolutionary party requires. We remember well that Comrade Foster before the court in Michigan denied, that he is a Communist. Comrade Debs was also before a court, but did not deny, and hence he enjoys trust and love. Besides the Workers Party until now is characterized by unexpected and unlogical maneuvers, and it could happen, that on a morning the candidacy of Foster would be withdrawn, perhaps in favor of LaFollette.

"Having weighed all these circumstances and finding, that for the recognition of Russia at this time a powerful LaFollette vote this fall would accomplish much, the Executive Committee of the Czechoslovak Marxian Federation arrives at the conclusion, that under present circumstances it will do best if it leaves every member his freedom. No one in our organization will be subjected to heresy-hunting, if he decides for this or that labor ticket. And while the Executive Committee as such will not take direct part in the campaign, the Czechoslovak workers will participate fully, as is shown by the decisions of the individual Bohemian unions.

Signed: V. Prochazka, chairman,
A. J. Capek, Secretary.

This document leaves but little to add to. It is such a rude piece of work of centrist hesitation and uncertainty, that its poisonous tendency is self-evident, even to the least informed. The present Czechoslovak "Marxian" Federation is equally insignificant in numbers as it is un-Marxian in its attitude. But the proclamation is extremely meant as a directive to the Czechoslovak workers at large. But those of these, who let themselves be misled by this feigned liberality and shielding of the undirect supplication for a heavy LaFollette vote by pointing out its significance for recognition of Soviet Russia, shall, sooner or later, expect some more "wrecking of their illusions." This time it will be the bursting of the bubble of "Marxism" of those addressing them in the name of the Czechoslovak Marxian Federation. To those that know the meaning of marxism it will be sufficient to draw propes conclusions from the rank, un-marxian advice, even tho it's covered up by hypocritical liberatility and concern for recognition of Soviet Russia.

* * *

(Editor's Note: The slanderous and malicious lie about Comrade Foster, contained in the treacherous document above, again proves that the Central Executive Committee acted not a moment too soon in expelling this group from the Workers Party. It is well known to the whole party that Comrade Foster, at the time of the Michigan trial, was not a member of the Workers (Communist) Party, and that he simply testified to the facts. He stated to the world and to the capitalist court that he was a Communist, and shortly after that joined the Workers Party. And now this group of cowardly enemies of the Communist movement, who lack even the courage to boldly state their desire to join the LaFollette movement, have the audacity to charge Comrade Foster with denying his principles. It is the final demonstration of their complete enmity to the Communist movement.)

ARREST WORKERS PARTY SPEAKERS AT STREET MEET

Then Cops Pick on a La Follette Speaker

George Maurer and D. E. Earley, speakers for the Workers Party, were arrested recently on the corner of 42nd and Halsted streets on the charge of "blocking traffic," an absurd charge to anyone who would take a good look at the corner.

Crowd With Speakers.

Kitty Harris, in opening the meeting, was immediately told by cops that they would have no permit, but she introduced George Maurer, who, the cops advised, could not speak. Maurer continued to speak and the cops nabbed him. No sooner had he been taken off the platform than Earley jumped up and announced that the meeting would keep on. The crowd applauded this action.

While the cop telephoned for the police wagon, some plain clothes men came along and picked Maurer up in the Black Maria. To make the sweep clean, the wagon travelled down a few blocks and picked up a LaFollette speaker!

Bob's Man Moans.

The LaFollette man protested that he had a permit, but to no avail, and the three speakers were shoved into a cell without an opportunity to telephone. Finally they were brought up to the sergeant who looked them over and yawned. "Well," he said, "I don't think that they want to wreck anything. Turn them loose."

The Workers Party intends to hold another meeting on the same corner on Thursday, September 4, with enough speakers to conduct a little free speech fight until the right of the Communists to hold meetings in any part of the city without the necessity of a permit is firmly established in the minds of the police officials of Chicago.

NEWMAN EXPELLED.

SOMETIME ago the English Branch of Portland, Oregon, expelled Otto Newman from that branch on the charge of having made a certain speech at an open meeting in contradiction to the policy of the English branch. The Central Executive Committee of the party ordered the reinstatement of Otto Newman, but instructed the English Branch that if other charges which it mentioned against Newman were borne out by facts, that it could try him on these charges and expel him.

The English Branch now advises the Central Executive Committee that Newman has been reinstated in the party and has been tried on the new charges involving violation of party discipline and has been unanimously expelled from the party. This action of the branch has the approval of the Central Executive Committee.

Mexican Youth Reactionary.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 2.—The exrevolutionary youth of all South American countries who have organized strong boycotts of the fascisti ship "Italia," the reactionary student body of the port of Vera Cruz met the boat with flying colors and with Fascisti groups have been organized by them to help sell the products which Mussolini is advertising to the world.

Bow to Wisconsin Messiah.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Typographical union executive board and the law and legislative committee of the Arizona State Federation of Labor have endorsed the candidacy of Robert M. LaFollette and Burton K. Wheeler for president and vice president respectively.

Typos Conclude Agreement.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—Unlike the Mexican Union No. 6 has just concluded an agreement with the Printers' league section of the New York Employing Printers Assn., Inc. whereby their respective conference committees shall submit their differences to arbitration in case conciliation fails.

COLLECTS $64.50 FOR CAMPAIGN FUND

The work which can be done by members of the party who earnestly set to work to secure support for the party campaign is indicated in the report made by Comrade Michael Rosenberger of New York City.

This comrade, who is a member of the Amalgamated Food Workers, sometime ago circulated a subscription list and turned $33.50 into the office of the District Organization for the campaign fund.

Since that time he has followed this up by sending to the National Organization another subscription list showing a total of $31 collected. This makes a total of $64.50 raised by this one comrade.

The work done by this comrade stands as an example for all the party members. If all the members of the party go to work as energetically not only in the work of raising campaign funds, but in all phases of the program of party work now under way our party will go forward with leaps and bounds. Comrade Rosenberger has set an example for the other party members.

Res. 1632 S. Trumbull Ave.
Phone Rockwell 5050

MORDECAI SHULMAN
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
701 Association Building
19 S. La Salle Street CHICAGO
Dearborn 8657 Central 4945-4947

Get a "sub" for the DAILY WORKER.

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

REACTION RULES NEW YORK LABOR ANNUAL MEETING

Coolidge Supporters Put Up Fight for Cal

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Reaction ruled supreme in the third day's sessions of the convention of the New York State Federation of Labor. Hours were spent by various reactionaries in speaking about the union label and about Americanism, but Delegate Richard Verhagen was refused permission to speak on the amalgamation resolution.

Resolutions calling for amalgamation, a labor party, the organization of the unorganized, were all defeated without any discussion being permitted. A resolution for the recognition of Soviet Russia was not even reported out of committee. The reactionary officials were re-elected without effective opposition, Holland leading the list as president of the state federation.

The LaFollette-Wheeler ticket was indorsed, altho the longshoremen and the marine workers made a fight for Coolidge.

Washington Typos in Compromise on Original Demands

(By Federated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. — A flat rate of $1.05 per hour has been offered by the committee representing the members of the International Typographical union employed in the government printing office here, as a compromise between their original demand for $1.10 per hour flat and the sliding scale proposed by public printer Carter. The offer made by Carter ranged from 90c for compositors on machines to $1.16 for the best skilled work. Negotiations are expected to continue for some time. Carter is affiliated with the so-called progressive element in the I. T. U., while the majority of the membership here belong to the "Wahneta" element, as indicated by their heavy majorities in the recent election.

Join the Workers Party!

Improve Your Property
Damaged Buildings Restored
LOANS TO IMPROVE
New Floors, Fronts, Shelving
MID-CITY CARPENTER SHOP
808 S. Irving Ave. Seeley 1883

MY COMPLIMENTS TO THE DAILY WORKER
DR. M. WISHNER
DENTIST
800 W. North Ave., Cor. Halsted St.
Lincoln 9010

SLOGAN OF "LENINISM TO THE MASSES" SPURS ON PUBLISHING IN "ILLITERATE" RED RUSSIA

By ANISE.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

The Gosisdat, or Government Publishing House, born in the year of the war with Poland, is celebrating its fifth anniversary with an exposition which shows what the country's development has been in the past five years. Not only has the output of books, in this one publishing house alone reached in 1923 a total equal to the three previous past years combined, but the type, subjects, and quality of books have undergone an even more striking change.

Beginning Was Poor.

The Gosisdat publications of 1919 were chiefly posters and pamphlets calling to defense against the Poles and the bourgeoisie. Monotoned, on poor paper, with slipshod, hasty work they presented a wretched appearance. There were millions of them, —an equivalent of 89 million pamphlets of 40 pages each. But the scientific section was only a germ—16 little volumes. Social-economic and liberal arts sections were equally bad.

Followed the year of fight against disorganization. The external appearance of the books was much the same. But the themes widen. The realm of applied science begins to be prominent. In literature and art large editions are issued of standard classics for the people, including the first Soviet edition of Pushkin.

Famine Brings Scientific Works.

Then a sudden break comes with 1921, the year of the famine and the new economic policy. From popular applied science the Gosisdat goes over to serious scientific works. The type of books grows solid and better printed, for now the blockade is over and materials arrive from abroad. The number of separate titles reaches a stage demanding the periodic issuance of bibliography.

Color and beauty came in 1922, revolutionary songs, propaganda cast in artistic forms, children's music. Then in 1923, after the second fair harvest comes the flood of school text books. Large numbers of scientific books, in many branches, vast quantities of books for popular reading-rooms and village schools. In the liberal arts begin to appear modern Russian and foreign writers. Fine printing and illustrations, new journals of many specialties.

Leninism to the Masses.

Now the slogan goes out: Leninism to the Masses. Not only are the exciting subjects deepened and popularized continuously, but all sorts of manuals appear, for amateur dramatic clubs, workmen's organizations, boys and girls club movements, with material skillfully arranged for educational effect. Three and four color printing and mezzotints illumine the well printed books of which last year 323 million "lists" were printed, equal to 323 million 40 page booklets, or 50-80 million full sized books of the American size.

Meantime the Gosisdat is no longer alone in the field. Dozens of other publishing houses have sprung up, with more or less governmental connections. The All Russian Co-operatives have their own printing house; the Krasnaya Nov, house of the political bureau in the Dept. of Education, is also flourishing and many trade unions and cultural organization, such as the Young Pioneers, maintain little publishing houses of their own.

All in all, for an "illiterate" country, the Russian book production is doing very well.

Your Union Meeting

FIRST WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 3.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting
38	Amalgamated Clothing Workers, 1544 N. Robey St.
179	B. & S. I. W., Stone Derrick, 180 W. Washington St.
131	Belt Line Federation, 62nd and Halsted.
2	Brick and Clay, Village Hall, Lansing.
10	Carpenters, 12 Garfield Blvd.
21	Carpenters, Western and Lexington.
242	Carpenters, 8443 S. Ashland Ave.
250	Carpenters, Blacker's Hall, Lake Forest.
643	Carpenters, 180 W. Washington St.
1235	Carpenters, 805 S. State St.
1784	Carpenters, 1638 N. Halsted St. H. Fehling, Rec. Sec'y., 2253 Grace St.
1922	Carpenters, 6414 S. Halsted St.
2289	Carpenters, 7351 S. Ashland Blvd.
293	Carvers (Wood), 1619 N. California. Conductors (R. R.), 127 N. Franciscus Ave., 7 p. m.
798	Electricians, 127 N. Francisco Ave.
134	Engineers, St. Cyr, 11405 Michigan Avenue.
47	Firemen and Enginemen, 7429 S. Chicago Ave., 9:30 a. m.
275	Firemen and Enginemen, Lake and Francisco, 9:30 a. m.
	Hod Carriers District Council, 814 W. Harrison St.
10	Janitors (Mun.), Keddie and Belmont.
5	Ladies' Garment Workers, 328 W. Van Buren St.
366	Machinists, 818 W. 55th St.
678	Machinists, 3803 W. Madison St.
830	Machinists, 1182 Milwaukee Ave.
519	Maintenance of Way, 3324 S. Halsted St.
	Marine Cooks, 357 N. Clark St.
25	Moulders, 2900 W. Madison St.
54	Painters, Sherman and Main Sts., Everton, Ill.
624	Painters, 180 W. Washington St.
275	Painters, Mosse Hall, Blue Island.
972	Painters, Odd Fellows Hall, Blue Island.
5	Plasterers, 910 W. Monroe St.
16663	Poultry and Game, 200 N. Clark St.
236	Railway Clerks, 549 W. Washington.
229	Railroad Trainmen, 812 W. 59th St.
900	Railroad Trainmen, 64th and University.
73	Sheet Metal, 714 W. Harrison St.
723	Teamsters (Soda), 220 S. Ashland Blvd.
733	Teamsters, 220 S. Ashland Blvd.
789	Teamsters, 6359 S. Ashland Ave.
247	Typographical, 200 N. Clark Ave.
8	Wall Paper Crafts, Chicago and Western Aves.

(Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

Australian Seamen Out for Unity on Oceans of World

(By Federated Press.)

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 2.—An endeavor is being made to bring about the world-wide organization of maritime unions, with the object of establishing an international seamen's code. The federal council of the Australian Marine Stewards' union has agreed to affiliate with the International Transport Workers' Federation. Other Australian maritime unions are expected to affiliate.

Owing to the shortness of notice the Australian unions have found it impossible to have a delegate present at the international conference at Hamburg in August. What the Australian Marine Stewards' union is asking is an international seamen's code adopted by all countries on the basis of the best country with a 48-hour week, a decent standard of accommodation, sleeping and living; proper provisions regarding safety; and an international standard of wages based on the highest Australian rate.

American Legion Head Thinks the War is Still On

(By Federated Press.)

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 2.—The war hysteria is yet very much alive at Webster Groves, a suburb of this city. In a communication to the community council the American legion declares it will not participate in Armistice Day ceremonies if the Webster Groves Peace council "or its officers" are permitted to take part. The communication signed by E. Stadelhofer, post commander, says the legion post opposes the Peace council because the council "has by its activities opposed President Coolidge's Defense Day program and thereby demonstrated that it is opposed to preparedness for defense purposes."

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

BIG BUSINESS IN CANADA SWIPING JAPANESE TRADE

Take Advantage of Rub Between Japs and U. S.

By E. G. WOLFE
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 2.—Canadian business interests are planning on capturing the trade of Japan while the present friction between the U. S. and Japan over the exclusion act exists. The Oriental manager of the Canadian Pacific railway, Allan Cameron, states that Canadian business men have a good chance to get in on the ground floor in the Japanese trade now that the Americans have lost favor for the time being.

Canada Finds Pickings

A number of Canadian firms have already sent out trade commissioners equipped with samples to interest Japanese merchants. Canadian low grade flour is finding demand tryout the Orient and many American firms are now planning on cutting their Canadian timber holdings in order that they, too, may benefit from the swing of trade to Canada.

These companies are taking advantage of the cheap labor of immigrants, brought into Canada by the railway interests, and reducing the wages of loggers to a bare sustenance.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

WAGES FALL WAY BELOW LIVING COSTS AS HOURS OF LABOR ARE ON THE INCREASE IN LOUISIANA

By LELAND OLDS
(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

Do you want your children to wear rompers made in some poor unsanitary home by an overworked mother who gets only 30c a dozen for her labor? If you don't, then find out whether the goods you buy are made in Louisiana and begin to organize pressure which will put a stop to such exploitation.

Between 1920 and 1923 Louisiana employers, according to the report of the state bureau of labor and industrial statistics, succeeded in forcing the wages of common labor down practically to the pre-war level. With the cost of living still far above 1914 this means that the reward for ordinary labor in this state is absolute destitution.

Wages Drop for All.

Even among the unionized workers, says the report, wage reductions effected usually exceeded the decline in the cost of living. The average daily wages paid common and semi-skilled labor in various industries in the state in 1920 and 1923 are shown as follows:

	1920	1923	Per cent Decrease
Canning	$2.50	$1.25	50
Clothing	2.75	1.50	45
Cottonseed products	3.00	2.00	33
Ice, light, bottling	3.00	1.75	42
Lumbering	3.20	2.00	38
Naval stores	3.00	2.00	33
Oil-field workers	4.00	3.25	19
Rice mill workers	3.50	2.00	43
Sugar-cane workers	2.75	1.25	55

Day of Work Lengthened.

The losses suffered by these workers since 1920 are also reflected in a lengthening of the work day. Sugar cane workers worked 8 to 10 hours per day in 1920. Now there is no such thing as 8 hours a day in sight; they put in a full 10 hours for their $1.25 or at the rate of 12½c an hour. The same holds in the case of every other industry covered by the report. In all there were instances of the 8 hour day in 1920. In 1923 it is the 10 hour day with the exception of cotton seed products and the rice mills where the day is now 12 hours long.

In regard to the exploitation of women and children in home work the commissioner states that aside from the unsatitary conditions under which home work is done, the women and children so occupied are usually paid starvation wages; for example 15c per 100 for working button holes, 20c per dozen for making children's rompers, and from 50 to 75 cents a dozen for making working shirts and men's overalls.

Maryland Labor to Fight Against Labor of Children

(By Federated Press.)

BALTIMORE, Sept. 2.—The Maryland Federation of Labor, convention in Cumberland next October, will take steps to counteract the Maryland and national propaganda against the child labor amendment. President Henry F. Broening, forecasting the Federation's action, scored the wholesale propaganda that is flooding Maryland and other states whose legislatures have not yet ratified the amendment. He castigated the attempt "to argue for slavery of the children on the theory that legislation would "deprive the poor widow of the support of her children" and declared that the care of such women should be a community responsibility.

ARE YOU SELLING THE COUPONS FOR THE COMMUNIST CAMPAIGN?

It is an easy job. The coupons sell for 25c, 50c and $1.00 each. You can sell them easily to sympathizers. Send in the money as fast as you get it to the local office, 166 W. Washington St., Room 303. Every member of the party is expected to sell at least one book of Communist Campaign stamps, which contain $10.00 worth. Help finance the Revolution!

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

WOMEN TOIL IN STINKING AIR AND DAMP HOLES FOR RAILWAY EXPRESS COMPANY OF CHICAGO

Women toil for the American Railway Express Company of Chicago under conditions that would rival those of the feudal serfs of the middle ages.

These women were formerly at the South House of the American Express Company, between Harrison and Polk Streets, on LaSalle Street, where conditions were fairly bearable. But the efficiency gods who rule the destinies of the company's employes in the interest of economy transferred them to what is known as the North House.

They keep a record of the men on the job by punching time cards on clocks as the slaves come and go to and from jobs.

The North House is under the railway tracks and the rain drips from the roofs all day. Chickens, fish and live stock of all kinds are loaded and unloaded continually. The place reeks in filth and the stinking atmosphere would even shame the stock yards of Chicago. There is no lavatory of any kind and no place for privacy. Here three women toil all day.

One woman, the only support of an aged mother, and a little daughter, was taken ill and had to lose a couple of days of work, which of course was deducted from her meager wages. Another, the only support of two little children, wanders around all day in a stupor from bodily fatigue but dare not lose a day from work to recuperate. Any minute will see her sink to the floor and carried off to the hospital.

These are the horrible conditions under which the employes of one of the largest and richest monopolies in the United States are forced to work.

SLICK POLITICAL HIGHBINDER RUNS ON HIS OWN HOOK

He Promises Everybody Everything

(Special to the Daily Worker)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 2.—Tim O'Neil, who seceeded from the LaFollette camp with much blowing of trumpets is now running for governor on one plank—anti-Ku Klux Klan.

Same Old Bunk.

He claims the backing of certain German and Irish societies, smiles shyly at the Negro vote and promises the farmers "cheap and efficient government." (Who said that before?)

He claims the support of various unions—because members attended his meeting, but was unable to specify which needle trade union came! He speaks of the State Federation of Labor and his printing does not bear the union label. He promises the unions a "square deal."

Among His Supporters.

The Kansas City Journal-Post, the paper that hailed so warmly the scab carpenters' union recently launched here, gives him much favorable space.

He promises that he will not in any way deal with or support any other candidate from any other party. He is a Roman Catholic.

Stupid Cops Mix Communists with Pink Pacifists

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—Following the seizure by the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, postoffice of "Black Friday" mourning proclamations against Mobilization day, issued by the Friends of Peace, the headquarters of the organization in San Francisco have been put under surveillance by the police. Altho the authorities insist that the proclamation is a Communist document, the Friends of Peace are an independent organization, acting generally under the auspices of the Socialist party of San Francisco.

COKOS BROTHERS
Groceries
Cigars Cigarettes
Tobacco
and Candies
1111 W. WASHINGTON ST.

JAY STETLER'S
RESTAURANT
Established 1901
1053 W. Madison St. Chicago
Tel. Monroe 2241

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
73 W. VanBuren St.
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

DANES AGREE ON BENEFITS OUT OF RUSS AGREEMENT

All Greet Recognition Of Soviet Land

(Rosta)

MOSCOW, (by mail).—Commenting upon the de jure recognition of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics by Denmark, the Danish press, including the governmental and the bourgeois, is unanimous in pointing out the beneficial effect this agreement is bound to have on the trade relations between the two countries.

Even Socialists in Line.

The Social Democrat, a government organ, stresses the point that altho Denmark recognized the U. S. S. R. later than the other Scandinavian states, she is to benefit in a like way by the "most favored nation" clause. The paper further scornfully recalls the absurd anti-Soviet agitation formerly indulged in by the Danish bourgeois press at the time Mr. Litvinoff was staying at Copenhagen, as well as the break-up of the Russo-Danish negotiations at Stockholm in 1922 by ex-Foreign Minister Soavenius.

An influential conservative paper, the Berlingske Tidende, writes that the new treaty is but a logical sequence of the 1923 trade agreement between Denmark and the U. S. S. R. Another bourgeois, the liberal Copenhageno, emphasizes the improvement of inter-relations with the Union.

Communists Greet News.

The Arbeiterbladet, the organ of the Communist Party, states that this act of de jure recognition means the recognition of the Russian Bolshevist Revolution and regrets that the Danish government did not do it already two or three years ago.

The Danish Communist Party extended official felicitations to the Soviet Plenipotentiary Mission.

FURNISHED ROOMS, APARTMENTS AND BUNGALOWS.
REDS COMING TO WASHINGTON, D. C.
Furnished Rooms, $10 to $25 a Month.
Apartments, $25 to $60 a Month.
Bungalows, $45 to $75 a Month.
Mrs. Bateler, 32 G Street, S. W.
Washington, D. C.

Go to eat where all the rest
100% union men and women go
Deutche-Hungarian
Restaurant
29 South Halsted St.
Pure Food, Good Service and reasonable prices our motto

MITCHALL'S
INTERNATIONAL ORCHESTRA
Union Music Furnished
For All Occassions
Write for appointments to
MITCHALL,
(Teacher of Saxophone)
1640 W. Congress St. Chicago, Ill.

MURINE
FOR YOUR EYES
Night and Morning to keep them Clean, Clear and Healthy
Write for Free "Eye Care" or "Eye Beauty" Book
Murine Co., Dept. H. S., 9 E. Ohio St., Chicago

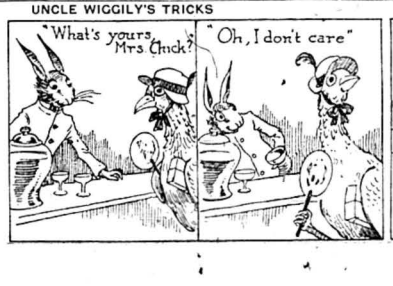
PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
645 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1527 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

Rich
Reputable
Reliable

RICH because of its richness in the true sugars of barley, malt and other valued constituents of the malted barley grain.
REPUTABLE because it is a product of acknowledged merit and the standard of highest purity.
RELIABLE because it can always be depended upon for best results.

HIGH-TEST
100% PURE BARLEY
MALT EXTRACT
WITH CHOICEST HOPS
FOR SALE BY LEADING DEALERS
High Test Malt Extract Co.
20 East Eighth Street, Chicago, Ills.
Phone, Wabash 2580
1917 North Western Avenue
6748 South Halsted Street
605 East 63rd Street
5062 Lincoln Avenue
1503 Roosevelt Road
Leiter Store Basement

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS



A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year $3.50...6 months $2.00...3 months

By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year $4.50...6 months $2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE } ....Editors
MORITZ J. LOEB.....Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923 at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application.

More Confusion of Issues

Political speeches on Labor Day are in the nature of bait on the hooks of those fishing for working class votes. As such they might be expected to clarify some issues vital to labor. But such an expectation this year must have received a sad jolt. One and all, the speeches of all three capitalist camps were mere maneuvers on the political chess board.

The death-bed repentance of the democrats, renouncing the New York convention's refusal to consider the pitiful demands of Gompers, can hardly raise more than a smile. The democratic devil is very sick, it is true, but its ludicrous efforts to appear as a saint are not only late, but devilish awkward. Davis, as a champion of the workers, requires more than eleventh-hour conversion to be taken seriously even by the bureaucrats. As for the republican department of Wall Street, it stands pat, handing out the same old "full dinner pail" that has seen service for generations.

But how about those champions of democracy, freedom, and the rights of labor—LaFollette and Wheeler? The senator from Montana, in his Boston speech, made out a good case against the Gold Dust Twins of republicanism and democracy, but failed completely to make out a case for his own bi-partisan substitute. His statement that he is "still a member of the democratic party" remains on the record; and mere ranting against capitalist parties while proposing nothing but another, is nothing but demagogy. Wheeler is still a "democrat," and when the democratic party is ready to restore Gompers to its inner councils, will become regular again.

LaFollette added a point to his election issues, when he denounced the Dawes plan as the plan of J. P. Morgan. That is true, indeed, and that La Follette has finally spoken may indicate that he reads the DAILY WORKER. But what LaFollette will do on the burning issue of international relations and the enslavement of the German workers still remains a mystery. And that LaFollette will really fight against the Dawes plan is an illusion, proven by the fact that he proposes no alternative; further, many of his chief supporters are ardent supporters of the Dawes plan, such as Villard of the Nation and Samuel Gompers. This should provide material for many a scrap in the already chaotic camp of the "progressives" who stand on every side of every question.

The confusion in the camp of capitalism grows more intense with every passing day. This is but an added sign of the disintegration that proceeds apace within the capitalist system. They do not know where they are going, these large and pretty bourgeois "statesmen," but they are surely on their way—to the breakdown of their senseless, anarchic, greedy system. And in the confusion the only clear note is being sounded by the Communist candidate—William Z. Foster, who calls upon the working class to establish its own class rule upon the ruins of the decaying capitalist system.

Recognize Soviet Russia

The fake progressives have dropped the issue of recognition of Soviet Russia. They have tacitly agreed to the program of Gompers, which is "no recognition until Russia has completely restored capitalism to power." Such contemptible cowardice in dealing with one of the issues most vital to the workers must arouse the deepest disgust.

Even for those who do not yet understand that the Workers' Republic is the only bulwark against the most terrible reaction, it should still be clear that recognition of Russia is an absolute prerequisite to the solution of unemployment, and that Gompers' policy leads directly to another world slaughter. That the "progressives," who pretended in the past to be, at least, as advanced as the British Labor Party on this issue, should surrender without a pretense of a fight, stigmatizes them as fakers, pure and simple.

The very minimum program that could call for support from the working class on the issue of Russia would be: complete recognition and resumption of full trade relations; repudiation of all Allied projects of partitioning of Russia, both those accomplished and those planned; the summoning of a world conference for disarmament, as called for by the Soviet government; a large-scale credit to the Soviet government, to assist the workers' government and to re-open the factories of the world; repudiation of all demands for compensation to the former property holders and other claims against the Russian workers on account of their successful revolution.

There is but one way in which the workers of America can vote for this common-sense program. That is to vote for the candidates of the Workers Party, for President, William Z. Foster, and for vice-president, Benjamin Gitlow.

The Chamber of Commerce at Work

Another development in the war of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce upon the organized workers is witnessed in the latest battle at Herrin, in which seven deaths occurred Saturday. When the Chamber of Commerce began to raise its war chest, two years ago, to "wipe out the stain" of the first Williamson County battle in which imported gunmen, brought in to break the strike, were driven from the region, few people realized what a long and terrible war was being launched. Today it is becoming apparent that these champions of "American institutions" will stop at nothing.

Under the flood of cash poured into Williamson County by the "open shop" forces, murder has become a commodity, purchased in the streets. Corruption has eaten into every institution, from city halls and churches to labor unions, until every person guards his slightest word for fear of spying agents, and officials are financed and receive their orders direct from the agents of the Chamber of Commerce.

Under all the confusion of feuds, inevitably entangling such murderous warfare against the labor movement, this sinister "open shop" campaign is the one silent but effectively directing force that knows what it wants and is driving to get it. It is not a mere coincidence that it was in Herrin where the coal operators called a conference to consider slashing the wages of the miners, only a few short days past.

British Labor Congress

The Trades Union Congress, now meeting in England, will disclose how far the left wing of the British labor movement has developed during the first six months of "Labor" government. The appearance of this left wing section is a matter of historic importance, but to expect much from its official leaders in this Congress would be a mistake. It is probable that, upon most issues before the Congress, they will be indistinguishable from the right wing.

Only the Communists will really fight for the left-wing issues in the Congress now going on. The so-called left leaders are actually conservatives, in the main, and they take a left position only under the pressure of the rank and file. They have been forced, in order to head off the growing radicalization of their members, to put up a battle against the government leaders, especially on the question of Russian recognition; they realized that if the Labor Party should allow the negotiations with Russia to break up, the result would be an enormous increase in the strength of the British Communist Party. They took a "left" position in order to keep the masses from going farther left.

But now they are able, thanks to their forcing of MacDonald to sign the preliminary treaty with Russia, to keep the mask of "Labor" on the face of the fake Labor government. Even tho the treaty which was signed contains very little indeed of a practical nature, being significant as a gesture rather than a concrete step forward, still it is enough for them to feel that they have brought their rank and file into line again, for the time at least. And so it is to be expected that they will be very "revolutionary" at this Congress.

The one issue that there is much possibility of a large division on in the Congress is the Dawes plan. On this issue it is possible that a fight of some proportions may be staged, with the left wing increased from its Communist nucleus to a considerable body. Certainly, if their words at the Trans port Workers Federation International Congress, held recently in Hamburg, are to be taken seriously, the British transport union delegates should put up a real battle against the approval of the "Labor" government's role as the executor of the plans of J. P. Morgan.

That Special Campaign Issue

Comrades from all over the country are writing in to the DAILY WORKER, complaining that we did not tell them what a crackerjack of a special edition we were going to get out last Saturday when the 18-page Campaign Special was issued. They say that if they had only known, they would have increased their orders many fold. Others got their orders in later than 6 o'clock Friday night, and therefore did not get their papers at all, because the flood of orders coming at the last moment wiped out the whole edition as soon as it was off the press.

Our answer to the disappointed boosters of the DAILY WORKER is this: This Campaign Special was only the first one of several that will appear in the course of the presidential campaign. Now you know what we mean when we say that a Special is coming on a certain date. And after this there will be no excuse, and no placing of the blame on the DAILY WORKER, if every city, town, factory, mine and shop does not receive a plentiful supply. They can be gotten simply by placing your order by 6 o'clock the night previous to date of issue.

And while the DAILY WORKER staff realizes that the standard set by this first Campaign Special is a high one, and will require a lot of hard work to repeat time and again on still higher a level, yet it assures all the boosters and circulators of the paper that in this office everything possible will be done to make every Campaign Special a regular political machine gun that will mow down our enemies in wholesale fashion. But the effectiveness of the Specials depend upon our readers and promoters, the members of the Workers Party and its sympathizers, upon whose effective work in giving us a big circulation depends not only the campaign we are now in, but also the very life of the movement.

Negroes Fight Concession to Rubber Trust

(Continued from page 1)

to colonize a large tract on the Cavalla River in Maryland County, Liberia, to import skilled and semi-skilled Negro workers familiar with modern industrial methods and experienced farmers, and to exploit the rubber and mineral resources of the country.

One of the communications most highly enthusiastic about the plan bore the signature of James J. Dawson, late chief justice of the supreme court of Liberia, and the date of July 1, 1924.

Fear Independence of Negroes.

A significant note that ran like a red thread thru most of the communications was a suggestion of hope that the operations of the Negro association might fan to life a general political movement for independence of African peoples adjacent to Liberia now ruled by European Powers, and that the Liberian republic might be helped to escape the intimidation of French and British creditors.

Mr. J. Van Lowe of Detroit, an official of the association, and Mrs. Henrietta Vinton Davis, recounted to the convention the events of their visit as members of a commission to Liberia at the time when, they said, the Liberian government agreed to the plan.

Garvey Blows Hot and Cold.

After their reports, the convention awaited with tense excitement a speech from Marcus Garvey, president-general of the association. The picturesque and enigmatic Garvey has blown both hot and cold thruout the convention, once electrifying his hearers with terrific denunciations of the capitalist imperialism that enslaves the Negro at home and abroad, then suddenly descending to a fawning attitude toward the Ku Klux Klan, melodramatically terrorizing his followers with warnings of what the bedsheeters would do to them if they didn't "watch your step", thus arousing an old rumor that he has himself had dealings with the Klan), then again declaring that the Communist denunciation of the Klan should be "courteously received"—and still another time suddenly switching about to advise the convention to send servile pleas to the "white supremacy" governors of southern states. Would Garvey blow hot or cold now? was the unspoken question on every face when it became apparent that all the pandering to the enemy was of no avail, all the surrendering of the Negroes' rights in America made a cruel joke by this sudden bursting of the illusion of pacifist solution of the race problem thru the peaceful liberation of the Negro in Africa under the benign smiles of capitalist society. Would Garvey blow hot or cold this time?

Garvey advanced to the speaker's stand, shaking his head like a bull charging the toreadors.

"We are going to fight!" he shouted.

The audience roared its approval. The tension relaxed, and men and women gave way to almost hysterical cheers, tears streaming from hundreds of eyes.

"We of the U. N. I. A. work best when there is a fight on hand," the speaker continued. "Now I hope that all of the members of the association feel like me. I know all that has happened. Somebody has to play smart. Somebody has to sidetrack somebody. Somebody has to play the fool. You remember when we were sending our ambassador to England what I said about diplomacy. Diplomacy is, 'If everything is all right, I know you. If everything is not all right, I never saw you before.' Now read between the lines. At the same time it is such a mixup that we have to explain a lot before our people can understand. Now, I trust this will prove to you the importance of the U. N. I. A. Tell me the Negro organization in America or in the world that could have such a document to be sent out to the United States of America. That thing has lifted us to the status of a government, to nationhood. The whole thing is pressure.

"When our delegation was in Liberia, the English and French consuls danced around trying to find out what was going on. They had instructions. Ultimately they found out what we intended to do, viz., to help to build up Liberia. So long as she remains undeveloped Liberia supplies an argument for England and France and Italy and Spain that the Negro is incapable of self-government; that therefore they must go there with their protectorates, mandatories and colonial domination and run the country until they have exploited all its wealth. England and France know well that if a group of progressive Negroes coming from the western world there, imbued with the best in science, in art and in literature, went there, it will only be a question of time when all Africa will be one place for the black man. And they could not allow that to go on, so they had to put some obstruction in the way. Therefore they called upon little, helpless Liberia, who has borrowed money from them. She owes England and France over a million dollars, and they said to her, 'It is an unfriendly act to allow the U. N. I. A. to settle here. Now, what are you going to do about it?' And fortunately we hadn't J. J. Borsum as president of Liberia, who would have replied, 'Go to hell' and let the black man redeem his country.' It is purely a question of backbone and guts, and the belief that we could not pay off the two million dollars that they owe. If we had that amount to give them to pay off England and France we could have put backbone into somebody. That is one side of the matter.

"A couple of weeks after our delegates left Liberia, the Firestone Rubber and Tire Company of Akron, Ohio, United States of America, went there when they heard that Negroes had been there. They knew it was valuable and what the land contained and what Negroes who had the aid of science would do. They said, 'Look here, here is money. Give us some land.' Almighty money is. And one million acres of land—nearly half of the country—was given to that capitalist concern of Ohio to exploit for rubber and minerals. That is the other side of it.

"Now, how would the Firestone company act, going there where there are two million natives who are crude and whom they can employ in the rubber fields just as they did in Peru and in the Congo? Give them hardly anything but hash twice a day. Surely they should keep out the American Negroes who know about the price of labor and about union organization and high wages. And the word was therefore passed to keep out the U. N. I. A. crowd.

"That is what they played up to, and it is there that the Negro proved that he is the greatest enemy and curse to the race. That man DuBois is the greatest enemy of his race that God Almighty has ever made. He is the man who supplied the argument. Two years ago he wrote in the Crisis that it was the intention of the Garvey men to go into Africa and drive out all the whites from there. That is the man who gave the argument to the England and French to tell President King."

(In quoting Garvey's remarks about Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, I feel that it is only fair to say that DuBois' criticisms of Garvey have been partly based upon Garvey's soliciting financial support from white capitalists in return for a suggested surrender of the Negro's right to equality in America, as well as a charge that Garvey made a deal of similar nature with the Ku Klux Klan.)

DuBois Goes to Liberia.

"Do you wonder why DuBois was in Liberia part of this year? Go and find out among the capitalist classes who are paying Negroes to keep down Negroes. You would find out why Du Bois wrote over two years ago about the Garvey movement and why the Afro-American of Baltimore also wrote their recent articles. It was wicked propaganda with the object of causing Negroes to fight against Negroes.

"We are our own greatest enemies. But, men, you will realize this that the Liberian government is not the Liberian people. Now Garvey has got to fight and will do so until hell freezes over.

"The things that they have published only show how weak England and France feel, and how fearful they are of the U. N. I. A. If I have no fear of John Brown I would not try to prevent him going to his house. But since they are afraid of John Brown, they seek to close the door of his house against him in the hope that the snow shall fall and that he will be frozen and die. We know the strength of the U. N. I. A. and with the alms of the 400,000,000 Negroes o the world—those of Liberia. It is but group of self-seekers and grafters who are so placed as to represent them. But when they arouse the keeping conscience of the people those fellows have either to deliver the goods or get away. It is only a question of time when the people of France and England, in France and Flanders and in Messopotamia. They saw hell in the cause of America in the Spanish American war, and we can see hell in our own cause. Yes, let England know that the 400,000,000 Negroes are determined to redeem Africa, and even tho they have a little weak-kneed fish bone president like Charlie King, we shall redeem Africa so long as we are alive.

"The skunks had not the decency to tell us what they were doing before they published the articles. I despise the man who has not enough decency and respect for his own manhood. You know what politics and government is. Coolidge is not the everlasting president of the United States and King is not the everlasting president of Liberia.

"The U. N. I. A. is going to fight until it gets a man in Liberia. So that when King passes away, Liberia will still be marching on. It is a fight to the finish. Brother, they were looking for me in 1914 and 1918, and they have not find me, and they have to look for me now. The U. N. I. A. can look for me any time the call comes.

"It is a shame and disgrace the Barclay should pen such a letter after he himself penned the document in 1921 that welcomed the U. N. I. A. in Liberia. And the lying skunk says he did not indorse the thing. Coward! What could England do to Liberia in the face of the world sentiment at the present time? Could England invade Liberia and live? It was only a matter of courage. Now I give it out again from Liberty Hall: You cannot fail with the U. N. I. A. It is an organization. It is the spirit of 400,000,000 men. It is not a question of whether we are going to Liberia or not, altho we are going. It is a question of when black men get ready to do something.

"Africa will redeem herself when the time comes. Not from without, but from within! So do not be worried; just stick to your program. Six years ago Marcus Garvey was on the streets on a little soap box, and was unknown. Now he has one secretary who is my choice; but I hope and trust the membership of the J. T. U. of A. will give the organization a chance to live by defeating Sweeney. To expect the organization to carry that "old man of the sea" another two years is presuming too much.

"Yours fraternally,

"ARTHUR KEEP."

PROGRESSIVE TAILORS SWINGING TO MAX SILLINSKY IN ELECTION; REACTIONARY SWEENEY REPUDIATED

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 2.—Those progressive elements in the Journeymen Tailors' Union, that supported Soderberg in the first election that resulted in eliminating all but Sillinsky the progressive, and Sweeney the reactionary, are now throwing their support in the final election to Sillinsky.

That is the meaning of a letter sent to Sillinsky by Arthur Keep, Chairman of the last Convention of the Tailors' Union in 1921, and delegate to the Portland Convention of the A. F. of L. who fought for progressive measures together with Sillinsky. The letter follows:

"MAX J. SILLINSKY, Cleveland, O.

"Dear Sir and Brother: In an endeavor to comply with your request for a confirmation of my conversation with you at Cleveland, on July 4th, the following is my remembrance of that conversation:

"I am of the opinion that, with Sweeney at the head of the J. T. U. of A., that organization must inevitably grow, like the cow's tail, downward. At a meeting of No. 11, I stated that I had known Sweeney for years, had served with him on two committees and at two conventions, also as delegate to the convention of the A. F. of L., as a result of that experience with him, I would not place any confidence in anything he might say or do at any time.

"In my opinion he is absolutely and utterly unreliable, and that so long as he is in any way directing the J. T. U. of A. there will be continued friction. I know most of the organizers, and have never met one that did not tell the same story of his playing politics, causing friction and general unreliability. As I told you, that included Jacobs. Certain of these gentlemen are apparently supporting Sweeney, yet they know that what I have told you now say is the truth.

"The one outstanding thing I have always noted was the way Sweeney posed as a radical and at every opportunity would play the conservative role. The tailors have always been noted for advanced and progressive action. I remember a letter he sent me at Washington in 1921, in which he chastises the radicals quite to "the queen's taste." As a cold matter of fact, he is anything for Sweeney. I remember on one occasion in Chicago he told me he never played politics, and I told him to tell that to the marines, for I knew him and that I did not care for his "bunk," giving him at the time several instances of his playing politics, notably, the time he euchered Biggs out of a job. I have in my time heard men tell of small and contemptible things they have done, but never in all my experience have I listened to such a tale of little tricks and picayune politics displayed by a man as was set forth in the story of that occurrence as told by Sweeney himself in 1917. The worst part of it is that Sweeney tells it with gusto and seems incapable of understanding how small it makes him look.

"You ask me if I am against Sweeney? The above would seem to show that I am. For years now the J. T. U. of A. has played a sorry role in the labor movement. It is neither fish nor fowl, and it must be that way because of the leadership it has had. Why should not other national and international organizations laugh at it? We have a joke for a leader.

"I notice that writers in "The Tailor" who boost Sweeney are inclined to call names at long distance. In that they follow Sweeney. They are the kind that when they meet me they want to kiss me, and when they are away lie about me. I sometimes wish one of them would say the same things to me about me that they say to others. I have never been backward in telling any of them what I thought when they are around. Mr. Sweeney usually changes his line of "bull" when he meets me personally. Most of what I have said in his letter I have said to him and added to it at times.

"I should have liked to see Soderberg in the second run-off, for he was my choice; but I hope and trust the membership of the J. T. U. of A. will give the organization a chance to live by defeating Sweeney. To expect the organization to carry that "old man of the sea" another two years is presuming too much.

"Yours fraternally,

"ARTHUR KEEP."

14,000 Vets Drop Out of Missouri Legion in 1923

(By Federated Press.)

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 2. — Since 1922 the American legion membership in the state has dropped from 32,000 to only 12,018, according to the annual report of Louis W. Kane, state secretary, which means that only seven out of every hundred men who served in the world war are now legionnaires in Missouri.

The report reveals a startling loss of membership since the preceding year. The state organization has lost 4,595 members during the seven months of this year. During 1923 a total of 14,000 members quit.

MARX'S MARCH

"Ye workers of the world, UNITE!"
Throw off Proud Mammon's chain.
You naught can lose but, in the fight
You have a world to gain!"
Ye workers of the world, arise
And tell no more for Duntes
Who roll in wealth your labor buys,
Unheeding Labor's moans!
CHORUS

ED. NOTE:—Music for this song can be had upon application to the DAILY WORKER.

YALE UNIVERSITY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

NOT

Communist Candidates

LIBRARY, For President:
WILLIAM Z. FOSTER.

For Vice-President:
BENJAMIN GITLOW.

Vol. II. No. 142. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1924

290

Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Price 3 Cents

LEN SMALL IS MUM ABOUT KLAN

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THE PRINCE OF WALES danced to jazz music until 6 o'clock in the morning, while weary-eyed reporters wandered over Long Island, New York trying to locate him. Nervous night city editors waited with watch in hand hoping that a good prince story would come in before the deadline. But alas! The American public was not able to read a detailed story of the prince's jazzy gyrations! For once he escaped the press. We warn His Royal Highness however, that it is not good politics to disappoint his followers too often. If he does, the guns on American warships may be elevated so they can shoot farther than the guns on His Royal Highness's warships.

• • •

WHILE H. R. H. is in the United States indulging in the terpsichorean and other fine arts, America is returning the compliment. We learn that the American season in Scotland will not be in full swing until the King and Queen and the American ambassador take up their residence in the Highlands.

• • •

MR. and Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan are at Agazannochy lodge. It is a very pretty place, so they say. There is good shooting and fine fishing. Morgan is tired after his work on the Dawes' Plan. He needs a rest. He can afford to take a vacation. Already the German workers are turning the Dawes' Plan into dollars for him.

• • •

THE COUNTESSS OF ANCASTER, formerly Eloise Breese of New York, is holding successful shooting parties at Drummond. The report does not say what the shooting was about, but we hope no birds got hurt. Bullets cost money but the countess' American wage slaves have lots of energy and more patience and they work like little 140 per centers in the mills, mines and factories operated by the Countess' ducats for the profit and pleasure of the Countess. Most of her slaves will vote for Coolidge, Davis and LaFollette in the coming election. When they begin to vote the Communist ticket in great numbers the Countess had better sell out and go somewhere else if there will be any place to go by then, except some place where naughty Countesses are compelled to work or fight.

• • •

THIS may seem silly, but there is no better propaganda than keeping the workers informed of the activities of those they toil eight, ten or twelve hours a day for. When a worker is bending over a machine or swinging a pick down in the bowles of the earth or repairing tracks out in the blazing sun, or stoking a ship's furnace in the broiling heat, what a revolution would be created in his brain if he only could see the parasites in whose behalf he is sweating his life away, trying to kill time at some pleasure resort? The society columns of the capitalist press contain good propaganda for Communist agitators.

(Continued on page 3)

CLARA SMITH HAMON WIFE OF HARDING'S BACKER KICKS TRACES

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—Clara Smith Hamon, who shot and killed Jake Hamon, Oklahoma oil magnate and politician, is plaintiff against John W. Gorman, motion picture producer, in a suit for divorce on file here today. Extreme cruelty is charged.

Mrs. Gorman was acquitted of Hamon's killing and came here a few months later, marrying Gorman after a whirlwind courtship in August, 1921.

Special New York Issue

THE special New York-Gitlow-Campaign issue of the DAILY WORKER will be dated September 4th and will be on hand Friday morning, September 5th, in the Jimmie Higgins Book Shop, 127 University Place.

Every reader of the DAILY WORKER should call at the book shop for a bundle at 2c a copy, to help boost the New York campaign and particularly the meeting of Comrade Gitlow, our vice-presidential candidate. The entire front page of this issue will consist of special New York matter.

Boston Store Is Goose-Step Aid

BUSINESS MEN, MILITARISTS IN 'DEFENSE' MOVE

Day Is Compared to War Time Call

That the big business interests are the ones who are really behind the drive for Mobilization Day on September 12, is evidenced by a circular, posted in the Boston Store, one of the biggest of the State Street Department Stores, which has just reached the DAILY WORKER.

The Boston Store circular, posted in all parts of the big establishment, reads:

"In the year 1916 you were called to Arms for a Preparedness Day. In 1917, you were called to Arms for War. On both occasions the employees of this store responded in number, demonstrating their patriotic spirit."

The circular continues: "ON SEPTEMBER 12th, 1924, YOU WILL BE CALLED TO ARMS FOR A DEFENSE DAY DETAIL."

Free Lunch For Patriots

The employees of the store will form on Dearborn Street at 11:30 a. m. on the morning of September 12 and will march to Grant Park, where a luncheon will be served free of charge. (Who is paying for these free lunches?)

That this is not an isolated instance of Big Business backing this mobilization maneuver can be seen in the preparations being made for "Der Tag" in Woodlawn. The Woodlawn Business Men's Association is running the patriotic show there, fireworks and all.

At the state convention of the Illinois American Legion unit, at Champaign, Defense Day was also endorsed after Gen. Charles N. Martin, assistant Chief of Staff of the United States Army denied that the day was in any way a militarist move.

Hale Gives It Away

Unfortunately for the soundness of this statement, Maj. Gen. Harry C. Hale, commanding officer of the sixth army corps area, in an address before a luncheon held by the Rotary Club at the Sherman hotel here, spilled the beans by saying: "Let America show its patriotism on September 12. Let's give the world the word of how we stand."

Defense Day is intended to show "the world"—that is, the imperialists of other nations,—that the United States is ready at a moment's notice to defend the profits and investments of its capitalists in any country, on any sea, in any island.

Obregon to Speak.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—The Mexican Congress convened today to hear a message from President Obregon before it goes into session as an electoral college to proclaim the next president of the republic, Calles.

SEYMOUR G. PARKER WILL BE MORGAN'S BILL COLLECTOR IN EUROPE

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Seymour Parker Gilbert of Washington, D. C., has accepted the post of reparation agent general in Germany under the Dawes plan, and will succeed Owen Young, who is occupying the office temporarily.

ILLINOIS MINE, EMPLOYING 190, NOW CLOSED UP

Other Industries Also Increase Jobless

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., Sept. 3.—The Mine No. 9 of the Consolidated Coal Company, employing 190 men, shut down yesterday, adding further to the acute industrial depression in this town. The No. 9 Mine has been threatening to suspend for some days, the Murphrysboro paper vainly trying to keep the people fooled into thinking the mine was going to continue operation thru the winter. Just three days ago this business men's paper came out with a front page headline, "Mine No. 9 may be working all winter." However this is small comport for the workers now that the mine has actually closed down for the winter at least.

Bad Conditions Everywhere.

The Mobile and Ohio railroad car shops have been laying off men in Murphrysboro, 138 being laid off a few weeks ago. The other industry of the town, the Brown shoe company, while it is working part of its force, hires only young girls, paying them $9.00 per week.

Business conditions are bad. The only mines working are the Blair no. 3 mine, employing ten men, the Utility mine, employing sixty men, which works three days, and the No. 10 mine of the Consolidated, employing 70 men which works three days per week.

Insurance Companies Relieved.

GIJON, Sept. 3.—Fire broke out today on the Spanish cruiser Victoire Eugene, but was controlled after a struggle.

SERIOUS CHARGE IS PREFERRED AGAINST U. S. ARMY PRIVATE

MANILA, Sept. 3.—Frank Cola, a private of the 31st Infantry, of English-Mexican descent, was arrested by military authorities this afternoon and charged with the attempted sale of a confidential map of a United States army fortification. Authorities say that Cola wanted $500,000 for the map.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE TO HAVE CELEBRATIONS ON INTERNATIONAL YOUTH DAY IN ALL LARGE CITIES

On September 7th, International Youth Day, the young workers of all lands will hold mass demonstrations. In America, every city and town will have its meetings and demonstrations under the auspices of the Young Workers League of America together with the co-operation of the Workers Party. A few of the meetings and speakers are as follows:

Chicago, Northwest Hall—Speakers, J. Williamson, Earl Browder and J. Louis Engdahl.

New York City—Speakers, J. Stachel, S. Darcy and William W. Weinstone.

Detroit, Mich.—Speaker, John Edwards.

Springfield, Ill.—Speaker, Oliver Carlson.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Speaker, John Williamson (afternoon at 2 o'clock).

Boston, Mass.—Speaker, Max Salzman.

Dillonvale, Ohio—Speaker, Max Shachtman.

St. Louis, Mo.—Speakers, Barney Mass and T. J. O'Flaherty.

South Bend, Ind.—Speaker, Peter Herd.

• • •

Editor's Note.—The International Youth Day Proclamation appears today on page six

PROGRESSIVE MINERS PICK STATE TICKET

Hindmarsh Will Oppose Farrington

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 3.—Following directly upon the heels of Frank Farrington's announcement that he would run for re-election as president of District 12, of the United Mine Workers of America, comes the news of an opposition slate by the progressive element within the union.

Hindmarsh vs. Farrington.

Running against Farrington for the presidency of the district is his opponent in the last election, John Hindmarsh, of Riverton, Illinois, one of the most outstanding progressive figures in the state.

Discontent with the Farrington-Fishwick regime has been rising high ever since the open alliance against all progressive measures that was made between the district president and the international president, John L. Lewis. The rank and file of the miners in District 12 are aroused over Farrington's growing concern over the welfare not of the miners, but of the coal operators; his bitter fight against the Farmer-Labor Party movement; his failure to do anything to fight against the terrible scourge of unemployment, and his general reactionary record.

PROGRESSIVE DISTRICT TICKET.

The slate of the progressive miners for the entire district ticket is as follows:

For president, John Hindmarsh, Local 754, Riverton, Ill.

For vice president, E. B. Hewlett, Local 303, Orient, Ill.

For secretary, Louis Contaurianx, Local 903, Rent, Ill.

For auditor, Jack Gartshore, Local Virden, Ill.

For auditor, Dick Swift, Local 3613, Valier, Ill.

For auditor, Andy Young, Local 705, O'Fallon, Ill.

For special accountant, Joe Angelo, Local 413, Springfield, Ill.

For legislative committees, Tony Shragle, Local 3192, Johnston City, Ill., and Bert Gerger, Local 413, Springfield, Ill.

For international board member, T. C. Mason, Local 303, Orient, Ill.

SUB-DISTRICT TICKET.

Besides the district slate, the West Frankfort sub-district of the Illinois miners' union, will also have a slate of the progressive element. It is as follows:

For president, Henry Corbishley, Local 992, Ziegler, Ill.

For vice president, Ross White, Local 3160, Sesser, Ill.

For secretary, Frank Johnson, Local 2376, Christopher, Ill.

For legal adviser, Charles R. Slade, Local 3160, Sesser, Ill.

For sub-district board members:

Tom Connors, Local 303, Orient, Ill.

Stanley Miller, Local 303, Orient, Illinois.

James McCollum, Local 959, West Frankfort, Ill.

Adrien Delforge, Local 959, West Frankfort, Ill.

Emil Handgand, Local 959, West Frankfort, Ill.

For auditors:

Mike Benco, Local 3613, Valier, Ill.

Joe Hardy, Local 303, Orient, Ill.

Matt Cernovich, Local 992, Ziegler, Illinois.

Walk Off With Church Bell.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Sept. 1.—A hundred-dollar reward was offered for the capture of the thieves who made off with the 300-pound bell from the steeple of the Eel River chapel, near here.

Auto Wreck Injures Twelve.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Sept. 3.—Twelve persons were recovering from injuries sustained when the auto truck in which they were riding skidded and overturned four miles north of here.

Dawes Still Silent

NOT only the DAILY WORKER, but all Chicago daily newspapers, have been trying for days to get a statement from Charles Gates Dawes, the republican candidate for vice-president, on the outbreak of the Ku Klux Klan at Herrin, Illinois. But he refuses to talk.

Yesterday the DAILY WORKER again got the Dawes' residence in Evanston, on the phone, but again the reply came:

"Mr. Dawes will not talk to any newspapers. He desn't want to talk to the newspapers. He won't discuss the Herrin matter."

No direct quotation of Dawes' views on the murderous outbreak of the Ku Klux Klan in Williamson County has yet appeared.

One week before the outbreak at Herrin, Dawes endorsed the activities of the Williamson County Ku Klux Klan.

Now he is silent.

It is a confession that he feels himself a guilty partner to the blood-spilling, the first victim of which was a union coal miner, member of the United Mine Workers of America.

OPPOSITION TO JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS GROWS

Parents in Injunction Writ Plea

In spite of bitter opposition on the part of parents whose children are to be transferred to other and crowded schools so that the Harper school, 6520 S. Wood St., may be transformed into a Junior High school—an opposition which has the backing of the organized labor bodies of Chicago—officials of the Board of Education, with the help of police, yesterday organized the classes of the Harper school on the basis of the Junior high school system.

Hearing on the writ of injunction obtained by parents to prevent the transfer of their children was postponed until Friday morning.

Charles M. Stadtwell, president of the board of education, yesterday opened fire on the Chicago Teachers' Federation, which he opposes both for its attempts to unionize Chicago teachers and for the consistent fight which it has waged against the introduction of the platoon and junior high school system. At the same time Superintendent McAndrew, in his annual report, fired a few skirmish shots into the camp of the organized teachers, whom he characterized as a "disloyal and undisciplined minority."

With the disturbance attending the opening of the schools, the long-continued fight of the Chicago Teachers' Federation and of other organized labor bodies, against the introduction of the platoon system into the schools of Chicago is expected to come to a head.

"This is really the fight of Margaret Haley, business agent for the Teachers' Federation, and the Federation of Labor to take the administration of the schools away from the superintendent and the board of education," said Mr. Medersell.

The platoon system has been branded by organized labor bodies as meaning a revival of the ancient task system, the sidetracking of children of men and women with small incomes to the factory door, the breed of inferiority upon productive workers, a false economy harmful to the entire nation and other detriments of the platoon and the junior high school systems. It is charged, are designed to facilitate classification of pupils into standard groups.

The overcrowding and underequipment of school buildings, which Superintendent McAndrew reveals in his report is due to nothing but the illegal tax evasion practiced by the rich, which is robbing children of the poor of their rightful educational opportunities. Chicago labor bodies claim.

KANSAS CITY FOSTER MEET BIG SUCCESS

LaFollette Man Joins Workers Party

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 3.—William Z. Foster addressed a packed hall filled with enthusiastic workers on Labor Day. In spite of the sabotage of the fakers and the widely advertised radio speech of Bluff-ing Bob, the Communists filled to capacity the same hall that the LaFollette committee had been unable to half fill for their national speakers.

Comrade Foster was in fine fettle. He was welcomed by a cyclone of applause that made the two seedy finks jump and look round in bewilderment. He dismissed Cal and Morgan's slavey briefly, then shed his coat and went after Bob.

Bob Is Squashed.

He analyzed without mercy his record and his program and contrasted both at every point with that of the Workers Party. He spoke at length and was followed attentively by the crowd. Not a single worker left the hall; indeed, they were reluctant to leave at the end and stayed to get petition blanks to put the Communist ticket on the ballot. Foster gravely warned his audience that he was not sure of his election this year, but invited them to work for that fast-nearing day when the Communists will rule America.

Bob's Man Joins Party.

Among the applicants to join the Workers Party was a member of the LaFollette State Committee. This brother was disgusted by the hard-boiled attitude of Nelson, LaFollette's boss, who ordered the State Committee to purge itself of its trade union elements and "represent all classes." We welcome him to the fight against open enemies and treacherous allies.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE MEMBERS! ATTEND YOUR MEETING HERE TONIGHT

Interest is growing in the membership meeting of the Young Workers League of Chicago, at which decisions of the last congress of the Young Communist International will be reported upon by Oliver Carlson, for two years a member of the executive committee of the youth international.

The meeting will be held tonight, Thursday, at 722 Blue Island Ave., 8 p. m., and admission will be by Y. W. L. membership card only. Party members are invited, but they also must present their red cards.

All other meetings of the branches of the league have been called off for tonight, and the membership has been notified to attend.

DELOS DUTY SLIPS KLAN HOOD ON LEN

Len Seems to Think Headgear Fits Him

Governor Len Small has not yet deigned to make a reply to the charge of States Attorney Delos Duty, of Williamson County, that Mr. Small is in his opinion a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Small was in this city two days ago conferring with William Hale Thompson, former mayor of Chicago, who is now at loggerheads with Small because the latter has picked Fred Lundin as his representative in Cook County.

Governor Fears Thompson.

The governor is afraid that Thompson's hostility may cost him thousands of votes in Cook county. He also knows that if he chooses Thompson the Lundin gang will give him the absent treatment on election.

Such is the dilemma in which the crooked politician finds himself in.

Small has not yet made it clear whether he is a klansman or not. But State's Attorney Delos Duty of Williamson county declares that to the best of his belief Small is a Klanner. Duty ought to know what he is talking about. He is a capitalist politician. It is an old saying that "when thieves fall out honest men get their due." Whether they do or not, they get a lot of good information.

Has LaFollette's Aid.

Small is supported by the LaFollette crowd for governor. LaFollette attacked the Klan in order to gather in the anti-Klan vote, knowing that the hooded ballots would be cast in all probability for Coolidge. Small does not want to lose the Klan vote by denouncing the white-robed night prowlers. And he does not want to lose the anti-Klan vote by making public knowledge of his Klan affiliations.

This is the position the double-faced capitalist politician, Len Small, is in. This is the man who is supported for the governorship by Robert Marion LaFollette, the man who proposes to clean out the Augean stables in Washington.

What a collection of fakers and political false starters!

The atrocities perpetrated on the workers of Illinois by the hooded order acting under the orders of the coal operators and other capitalists do not bother Mr. Small. Neither do they trouble the sleep of Frank Farrington, president of the United Mine Workers of Illinois.

Small's only concern is getting elected to office, so that he can have his fingers on the spoils.

Wouldn't Be Surprising.

The workers of Illinois who know Small would not be surprised to learn that he is a member of the Ku Klux Klan. The miners of Williamson County who are the targets for the bullets of the Ku Klux Klan are particularly interested. And until Small proves that Delos Duty's charge is baseless the workers will have no option but to come to the conclusion that Len Small, the so-called "friend of labor," is a member of the hooded order.

The Klan Inquest.

HERRIN, Ill., Sept. 3.—In a court room where two squads of state militiamen were standing guard with bayonets fixed, Coroner McGowan today open the inquest into the deaths of six persons in the rioting here Saturday.

When the inquest opened, quiet, which seemed almost ominous, prevailed.

Less than 20 persons were in the court room. Sheriff Gallican and his deputies had failed to appear.

The absence of Gallican was explained by Capt. Bigelow, commanding the militia detail here, who said he would remain at Marion in the hope of averting trouble.

The inquest, which had been heralded as a probable producer not only of an armed clash, but of sensational testimony, passed without special incident. The Klan and its sympathizers were left in unopposed command and they gave their various versions of Saturday's disorders. These showed wide discrepancies, the, it is believed, to the fact that an accurate version of the entire affair is probably unknown.

SMALL HIRING UNION MINERS AT SCAB WAGES

Jobless Diggers Forced Into Convict Labor

By KARL REEVE.
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

CHRISTOPHER, Ill., Sept. 3. —Thousands of miners in this part of the state are forced to work like convicts, making cement roads at the scab wages of from 35 to 45 cents an hour, for Governor Small, who is busy trying to make good his name as the "Good Roads Governor."

At the same time Small, who has been endorsed by Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois Miners' Union, is also making good his name as a labor hater by putting the miners to work at convict wages. He exploits the road-making here because he can draw a cheap labor supply from the idle miners.

Miners Cursing Small.

Everywhere I go I find the miners cursing Len Small for the paltry non-union wages he hands out, and cursing Frank Farrington for indorsing Len Small for governor in the coming November elections.

Governor Small, in a recent visit to Paisa, Macoupin County, Illinois, where he was electioneering for re-election, outlined his policies at a fish fry. The anti-union governor's address, like all his campaign speeches, was devoted largely to the subject of road improvement. "It will be my aim, if re-elected, to continue the building of hard roads until all towns in the state are connected by cement roads," said Small.

We do not know what arrangement Small has with the cement manufacturers, or with the hard-road contractors, but we do know that Small's road-building is no benefactor to the miners of Southern Illinois.

Miner Finds Work Terrible.

"I worked for a few days on state road construction at Albion," Ralph Lawdler, a miner, told me. "And I almost died working in the hot sun in the cement. I received for my pay two dollars a day and board. This is convict wages for convict work. I had to quit in a few days. I am used to the hardest work in the mines, but if I can't get a union wage, I guess I'll stay out of a job until the mines open up again." Albion is in Edwards County, northeast of here, and Lawdler worked on the hard-road being built from Albion to Grayville. He worked in a crew which worked from Carmanda Grayville.

John Carrigan, of Carriers Mills, is another unemployed miner who took work on the hard road which has just been built running from Harrisburg to Marion. "This road," Carrigan said, "is being built under Len Small's guidance. It is a state road. They build them as cheaply as possible. A good cement road is supposed to last around 15 years, but if this one lasts five, it will be surprising. There is a high proportion of gravel mixed with the cement. Gravel, you know, is cheaper than cement."

Miners Forced by Unemployment.

"The work is killing. It is extremely hot in the summer in this part of the state, so hot that gardens and corn crops dry up. But there we were, several hundred miners who had not been able to get a job for months, forced to starve or work like convicts for forty cents an hour."

When I was in Divernon, Tom Parry told me "The only work available around here now is on the state road at the edge of the town. This is hard work for the miners, who are not used to the sun. Besides that, they are forced to do non-union work which they detest, and are forced to work hard for ten or more hours a day at the paltry wage of 40 cents an hour. Some of the men work only a few days or a week and quit. Others, whose plight is more desperate, stick it out rather than starve."

Endorsed by Farrington Anyway.

"I cannot see how any miner can possibly sanction Farrington's endorsement of Len Small for re-election when Small has been classed as unfair to organized labor by his home town, and when he is paying the miners such poor wages for the hard work of road building."

Farrington gives the excuse that some mysterious promises have been made by Small relative to some obscure and indefinite legislation in Springfield. Meanwhile, Small is making a poor start for the labor vote by his non-union road building. And Frank Farrington is treading on dangerous ground when he indorses the employer of scab labor.

Fare Thee Well, Luis.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The labor department has ordered action looking to the deportation of Luis Firpo, Argentine fist flinger.

Panamans Can Now Get Sick.

PANAMA CITY, Sept. 3.—The San to Tomas hospital, biggest in Central America, was inaugurated today by President Porras.

LEOPOLD TO SEARCH ANSWER TO RIDDLES IN THE HEREAFTER

It appears that the prospect of death isn't phazing Nathan Leopold for one minute, if the interviews he is handing out to the capitalist papers can be taken as a basis. If he is to wear the rope necktie, he proposes that he will carry out his search for knowledge in the hereafter.

Of course, the slight detail about there not being any hereafter doesn't concern Leopold, but close observers maintain that it is the slight details that have always got Nate into devilish holes. For example, there was the detail of leaving his specs behind him. Unfortunate, but a detail nevertheless.

Leopold intends to find out what the experiences of the human being are after death and whether or not the intellectual or the spiritual is the dominant note in the sweet by and by. Among the other amusing things he intends to do is to find out what happiness is. Every one is wishing him the best of luck.

CHICAGO KOSHER BUTCHER STRIKE REPORTS GAINS

Third Day of Strike Brings Settlements

On the third day of the strike of the kosher butchers of Chicago, the strikers report progress. Sixteen stores have settled with the union. One hundred stores are still out.

The men are out on strike for an increase of $5 a week in their wages and for a reduction of one-half hour each day in their hours of work. At present the kosher butchers receive $35, and they work from 60 to 70 hours a week.

Work Long Hours.

The men work from seven in the morning until five in the evening, except on Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays. On Thursday they work until 11 p. m., and on Saturday, their day off, they do not have a full holiday. They must report to work at six in the evening and work until 11 and 12 o'clock that night. On Sunday they work a half day.

The gentile butchers have regular hours of work every day; on Saturdays they work until 9 p. m., and there's no work on Sunday at all. The kosher butchers realize that they have to contend with a condition in their shops which makes it necessary for the stores to keep open late on Thursday and Saturday nights, but they know they can meet this situation by coming in a half hour later in the morning without any loss in trade whatever.

There are about 400 kosher meat shops in the city of Chicago. Out of that number from 125 to 150 employ help. Most of those stores only employ one man, a very small percentage two at the very most.

Organize Picket Line.

Today will be their second day on the picket line. Yesterday some of the bosses made an attempt to get strike-breakers, but without success.

When asked his opinion on the outlook of the strike, Martin Sabin of the Butchers' Union, Local 596, told the DAILY WORKER reporter that he felt confident that the strike would soon be won.

The Kosher Butchers' Union of Chicago, Local 596, is affiliated with the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America.

So He Announces.

MADRID, Sept. 3.—The military situation in the stern part of the Moroccan battle front, where the Spaniards have been meeting with reverses, is much improved, General Primo de Rivera announced today.

Six Swim Safely Shoreward.

HONOLULU, Sept. 3.—Governor Wallace Farrington said five companions swam to safety here after a narrow escape from drowning when the motorboat Sea Scout, in which they were fishing, hit an offshore shoal of rocks and went to pieces.

PRIEST WITH IRISH-YIDDISH COGNOMEN GETS PAPAL TITLE

LAPORTE, Ind., Sept. 3.—The Rev. Michael Abraham, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, Michigan City, has received from Pope Pius XI, thru the Most Rev. Louis Barlassina, the Latin patrician of Jerusalem, the decoration of commander of the Military Order of the Holy Sepulchre.

This title, which has been conferred upon persons of high rank, including princes, ecclesiastics as well as secular, on ministers, ambassadors, bishops and generals, and which was recently bestowed on Cardinal O'Connell, was conferred on Father Abraham in consideration of his work for American Catholicism.

RUM DICKS KEEP MITTS OFF THE PRINCE'S PARTY

Bootlegger's Army Is Good Bodyguard

By Ye Society Editor.

LONG ISLAND, New York, Sept. 3. —(In the Prince of Wales' Entourage.) The prince rose late today. Small wonder. If you were as drunk as the prince was last night you would not wake up this side of the day of judgment.

Whatever else may be said for the prince he can take his liquor. This accounts for much of his popularity in Scotland tho it does not account for his unpopularity in Ireland. When he visits Scotland the prince takes along a movable distillery. He never visits the Emerald Isle, but if he ever decides to kiss the Blarney stone we suggest an armor-clad car or an airplane capable of staying above the clouds.

Opens One Eye.

But to get along with the story. It was ten minutes to twelve when the prince opened one of his lids. When the announcement was made to a waiting army of females that His Royal Highness was about to resume operations, there was a rush for perfume bottles. You never saw such a variety of perfumes in your life. There is everything from Old Crow to Jamaica Ginger.

One advantage of traveling with the prince is that it guarantees immunity from raids by prohibition agents. So formidable is the army of bootleggers that hangs around the prince's quarters that it would take the Ku Klux Klan to make them drop their bottles.

When informed that Ramsay MacDonald was on his way to Geneva, the prince said, "Mac is a good scout, but he doesn't dance."

"But he is a confounded Bolshevik," remarked a capitalist reporter.

Has Jolly Time.

The prince smiled. "If he is, so is your Morgan," was the reply.

"We are having a jolly time in Old England. But we are afraid of the Communists. However, let us drink and dance and be happy while we may."

This made quite a hit with the crowd.

The prince danced last night until 2 o'clock at the home of Henry R. Winthrop. It being rather early for the prince to retire, he went over to the Astor home and danced until the sun's rays made the brilliant artificial light look almost as sick as the prince.

It is felt by everybody that the worst is yet to come. A good time is being had by the prince.

CALL ON UNIONS TO ENDORSE W. P. TICKET IN N. Y.

(By Federated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 3. — The Workers party, which is campaigning William Z. Foster and Benjamin Gitlow nationally, and James P. Cannon for the post of governor of New York is issuing a call to all local unions to attend a ratification and endorsement conference Sept. 14 at Stuyvesant Casino.

Many Will Endorse.

Harry M. Winitzky, campaign manager for New York, declared that many local unions would endorse the Workers Party ticket. He said he did not regard the endorsement which central bodies have given other candidates as expressive of the rank and file in all the unions.

Campaign committees are being formed within the industries, declared Winitzky. These committees are most active among the cloakmakers, hatmakers and other branches of the needle trades and in the Workmen's Circle.

Need 50,000 Signatures.

The task before the campaign workers include the getting of 50,000 signatures during the coming month and the organization of meetings. Plans are now being made for a big Gitlow meeting Sept. 9, at the Central Opera House; Gitlow speaks in West New York on the 10th; in Stamford, Conn., on the 11th; Bridgeport on the 12th; Springfield, Mass. on the 13th and Boston on the 14th, 15th and 16th.

Foster comes to the New Star Casino, Oct. 19th, but he is speaking in the vicinity of New York in September, at Elizabeth, N. J., on the 10th, Newark on the 11th and Philadelphia, Pa., on the 12th.

To Celebrate Pushkin Anniversary.

The first session of the newly elected Executive Committee of the Russian children's schools was held last Sunday. It was decided to arrange a literary evening in honor of the 125th anniversary of the birth of the famous Russian poet Alexander Pushkin. All schools participate in the affair.

Caught at Last.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Sept. 3.—With Merrill Hammond, 20, in jail today, police believe that they have the person who committed a series of robberies here in the last six weeks. Hammond, it is said, confessed to breaking into two business houses.

PAXTON HIBBEN NOW IN HERESY INQUIRY FOR SOVIET AMITY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Captain Paxton Hibben, noted liberal, and officer in the U. S. Reserve Corps, is now the subject of an inquiry by the United States Army because of his alleged "bolshevik" views.

Hibben is well known for his friendliness to the Russian Soviet Republic and for his activities on behalf of relief during the famine a short time ago. His frequent statements on behalf of the workers' republic, are the basis of the charges against him.

Altho Brig. Gen. William Barclay Parsons, president of the Board of Inquiry, has invited Capt. Hibben to take the stand and talk over his beliefs and connections with the board members, Hibben has refused, demanding that the derogatory evidence be presented first.

The only evidence yet given has been that of a reporter on a New Jersey paper who told of Hibben's assailing America's imperialist policies in Central America and its war preparations on Defense Day.

GITLOW MEETING WITH SUCCESSES IN EASTERN TOUR

Speaks in Cleveland on September 7th

The Workers' Party is now in the midst of a great political election struggle. Proofs of this can be seen in the enthusiastic and successful meetings now being addressed by its vice-presidential candidate, Benjamin Gitlow, in his first Eastern tour.

Comrade Gitlow, starting from New York, has held meetings in Trenton, N. J., Richmond, Va., Washington, D. C., Reading, Pa., Scranton, Pa., Binghamton, N. Y., Buffalo, N. Y., and Rochester, N. Y.

Rochester Meet Successful.

At the Rochester meeting just held, a large and extremely interested audience was present, in spite of the fact that the meeting took place on a Saturday night. The large audience loudly applauded the bitter arraignment by Gitlow of the old party candidates and LaFollette. When Gitlow denounced the candidates of the republican and democratic parties as anti-labor, he was applauded. When he included LaFollette as being anti-labor, the audience cheered.

Many former socialists were present, and by their applause indicated that they stand solidly behind the Communist candidates and program. They, especially, were loud applauders of the denouncement of LaFollette.

Gitlow's exposure of the Dawes plan and his arraignment of the fake pacifist democratic Bryan brought forth hearty and prolonged applause. It was generally conceded that the Gitlow meeting was one of the most successful ever held in Rochester and will have an extremely beneficial effect upon the Workers Party in the future. New members were taken in, finances were raised and the influence of the party was extended.

Miners Greet Gitlow.

On the following day Gitlow spoke at Daisytown, Pa., to an open air picnic, held under the auspices of the Finnish branch of the Workers Party. Hundreds of miners and their families from surrounding localities were there. They gave an enthusiastic reception to our Communist candidate and the party program.

Comrade Gitlow, on this tour, is experiencing all the trials and tribulations of a working class political campaigner. To make many of these meetings, he has to resort to various methods of conveyance, not having at his disposal a private Pullman as have the candidates of the old parties. Comrade Gitlow states that he is well compensated for all the drawbacks by the results of seeing our party participate in this great struggle.

As a result of Gitlow's present Eastern tour, the entire party in that section will be drawn more and more into the struggle to a degree that would not otherwise be possible. At other points on his itinerary great preparations are being made, especially at Cleveland, Ohio. On Sunday evening, September 7, at Bricklayers Hall, East 21st Street and Prospect Ave., Cleveland, a large audience is expected and tremendous efforts are being put forth to make this the most successful affair of its kind so far this time. Thousands of leaflets, throwaways and tickets have been printed and widely distributed, so as to make the Cleveland meeting a fitting answer to the recent convention of the C. P. P. A. and the present attempts of the so-called labor leaders to would mislead the workers and trade unionists of Cleveland into the camp of LaFollette.

New Oil Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A new oil investigation, the exact nature of which was not disclosed, was started today by the federal grand jury, under the direction of Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, the government's special oil counsel.

Morgan Hunts More U. S. Suckers to Buy the Bonds of Belgium

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, the House of Morgan puts upon the market, for sale, $30,000,000 in gold bonds of the Kingdom of Belgium.

Belgium, like all the other European contenders in the recent war, needs money. It needs it badly. So it calls on the favorite financial agent of bankrupt Western European capitalism, Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, and all his financial connections, to come to its aid.

* * *

The DAILY WORKER carries no financial department. It does not offer investment advice to investors. But in this instance we would advise that workers, if there are any so blind as to plan buying any of the Belgian bonds, DON'T DO IT! Not a cent for the bonds of Morgan. Not a cent for preparation for the next Morgan war that will be fought, like the last, to protect Morgan's bonds in Europe.

* * *

The House of Morgan makes its Belgian offer a very attractive one to the small investor. Evidently Mr. Morgan doesn't expect workers to bite on his offer; the bonds are in denomination of $1,000 and 500.

But the King of Belgium is in a bad way financially. He is only asking 94 cents on the dollar, and he is offering 7 per cent interest. It is promised that there will be no taxes against these bonds, now or in the future. Morgan is very loose with his promises of what is going to happen in the future.

* * *

It is not planned to use the returns from this loan to build for anything that will better the life of the Belgian masses. This loan is being floated by Morgan to aid Belgian capitalism pay off two other loans, about $27,000,000 in gold and treasury notes due on January 1, 1925. Since the new loan is being floated at 94 cents on the dollar, it will take the $30,000,000 to pay off the $27,000,000. In other words, Belgium, under the guidance of Mr. Morgan slips still further into debt.

* * *

In big advertisements, Mr. Morgan tells American investors that the workers in Belgium are faithfully on the job again, that "the output of the metallurgical, textile and glass industries, Belgium's chief industries, has attained or surpassed the pre-war level."

Incidentally the publicity also points out that Belgium's external debt at the present time totals the enormous sum, for such a small country, of $451,000,000, which does not include the $171,780,000 "advanced" (Mr. Morgan does not say "loaned") by the United States government before the armistice, and on which no interest has yet been paid.

* * *

Mr. Morgan no doubt thinks that as long as he can prevent his office boys at Washington, Coolidge, Mellon and Hughes, demanding payment on Belgium's war debt to the United States, and as long as the Belgian workers stick on the job working for Belgian capitalism, just so long will it be possible for him to keep on floating new loans for the "Kingdom of Belgium" in this country, to the usual army of suckers always to be found among small investors.

* * *

But the Communist movement is growing in strength in Belgium; just as it is growing thruout all Western Europe. There will come a time when the Belgian workers will refuse longer to pay interest on debts owing to or floated by the House of Morgan. Those workers, won for Communism, will refuse to force the German workers, under the Dawes plan, to furnish reparations gold to the Belgian capitalist government, in order that it may pay its debts to Morgan.

And there will be an echo of this growing Communist strength in Western Europe, in an increasingly rapid drift to Communism in the United States also. The cry will go up, over the nations, "Repudiate all debts to Morgan!"

* * *

And one of the backers of Morgan's new loan to Belgium is the Central Trust Company of Illinois, the head of which is none other than Charles Gates Dawes, the republican vice presidential candidate. Dawes, with Coolidge, expects to head another Morgan government at Washington after the next elections.

The workers of the United States, in this campaign, therefore, can best show their solidarity with awakening labor in Belgium, Germany and the other Western European nations, by raising the additional slogan of "Down with Morgan's Government!" "Down with the Fascisti Rule of Coolidge and Dawes."

* * *

Labor must work instead to advance the interests and build the strength of the Communist Campaign. It must rally with greater determination than ever in support of the Workers Party candidates: William Z. Foster, for president, and Benjamin Gitlow, for vice president.

Morgan's bonds tighten the chains of wage slavery more securely upon the limbs of American labor. Break those chains by strengthening the American section of the world-wide Communist movement.

MIKADO REPLIES TO THREAT IN U. S. "DEFENSE" TEST

(Special to The Daily Worker)

TOKYO, Sept. 3.—Japan will have its "Mobilization Day" during the first week in November, two months after the United States government has its "Mobilization Day."

The Japanese, however, are only going to mobilize 30,000 picked troops, whereas the United States intends to mobilize the entire nation. "Defense" is the excuse in both cases.

The Prince Regent of Japan will superintend military maneuvers in which 50,000 troops will participate, with all the latest type of armament and equipment. Airplanes and anti-airplanes as a means of defense will be emphasized.

The present situation in China is causing considerable uneasiness in Japan. It is feared that the great capitalist powers of the west may hatch another Dawes plan for China, as they hatched in the case of Germany, and that the dissection of the Chinese victim may then begin in real earnest, with Japan getting only the pigtail.

Correction on Browder's Speech.

In reporting a meeting of the T. U. E. L. in the DAILY WORKER, Earl Browder was quoted as speaking of "the social-democrat Marx" in the German government. Of course he said nothing of the kind, and assures us that he is aware that Marx is a representative of the center (Catholic) party. What he said was "the social-democracy of Ebert, Schiedemann, Noske & Co."

They're Still Flying.

ON BOARD U. S. S. RICHMOND, Off Newfoundland Coast, Sept. 3.—Weather conditions permitting, Lieut. Lowell Smith and Lieut. Erick Nelson will resume their world flight from Hawkes Bay today. They planned to hop during the morning from Hawkes Bay for Pictou, N. S.

DAILY WORKER CAMPAIGN ISSUE WENT OVER TOP

Next One Coming with Three League Boots

The special Communist campaign edition of the DAILY WORKER went over big. The success of our first campaign issue has enthused the party's active workers as nothing else has done since the daily was established.

Prominent party leaders were loud in their praise of it. Comrade Foster wired his congratulations from Kansas City. "The Special Campaign Issue is a splendid production," said Foster. "It contains a mass of material that will be invaluable during the campaign and afterwards. The success of our first special campaign issue should inspire our members to make the next one a still greater success."

What the Workers Think.

Joseph Manley, Workers Party campaign manager, who spoke in Ziegler, Ill., on Labor Day to a great open air meeting, declared: "Of course, I think the DAILY WORKER special campaign edition was great, but I was interested in getting the views of the Ziegler miners on it. They were positively enthused over it. They asked me when would the next special come out, and promised to double their order."

Benjamin Gitlow wired that he is having rousing meetings and that the DAILY WORKER special contains enough political dynamite to blow Davis, Coolidge and LaFollette into "relativity." "After the tumult and the shouting" incidental to a campaign in which the capitalists are able to spend millions to create confusion dies away, the results of the propaganda now spread by the DAILY WORKER can be properly measured, said Gitlow.

Best Yet to Come.

Last Saturday's special campaign issue of the DAILY WORKER is only the first of a series to be issued until the ballots are counted in November. A constant flood of Communist propaganda will counteract the flood of capitalist propaganda that pours from the gushers of the master class.

Now is the time to get ready for the next special issue. This is a campaign and every member of the party must be on his toes until the battle is over. During this fight we should be able to add thousands of members to the ranks of the party and bring in thousands of subscribers. The special issues will help towards this end.

While the socialists have allowed themselves to be swallowed in the LaFollette quagmire, the Workers (Communist) Party is going ahead laying the basis for a powerful mass revolutionary party.

Get ready for the Second Communist Campaign Edition of the DAILY WORKER!

BERGER LICKED BY LA FOLLETTE IN G. O. P. PRIMARY

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 3.—Victor Berger, leader of the Wisconsin socialists, received a severe drubbing, at the hands of his friend, Robert Marion LaFollette, in which may prove a warning to Victor to keep his hands and his tongue off the republican primaries in the future.

The situation is a complicated one, and Victor's "revolving" head was revolting worse than usual, when he decided to enter the republican primaries to take a whack at Governor Blaine, who had the backing of "Fightin' Bob."

Blaine Gets the Votes.

The result of the unequal contest between the republican-socialist and the social-democratic socialist is that Blaine has romped home with the bacon, while Berger is left with a taste of garlic in his mouth.

Blaine won out in the primaries, and Lieutenant Governor Comings, the socialist favorite, made such a poor showing that he may join the socialist party for consolation.

Bore, Berger, Bore!

His political backers are now blaming Berger for going into the republican primaries. But Berger retorts that the socialists have already joined the republican party in Wisconsin, and why should they not assume their political responsibilities? LaFollette is boring from within the G. O. P., so why should not Berger try to bore LaFollette?

Still Looking for Yacht.

A hydroplane today had been added to the variety of craft searching Lake Michigan for a trace of the Gem, 42-foot yacht, owned by Capt. H. D. Moreland, wealthy local contractor, and his two sons aboard, which has been missing since Monday.

Livy Rediscovered.

NAPLES, Sept. 3.—Father Bellucci, an authority on antiquarian affairs, today announced literary discoveries of Livy, Latin poet, in Castle Dellovo Santa Lucia, now a military barracks, but formerly a convent.

FEELING AGAINST INJUNCTIONITES GROWS IN I. W. W.

Rank and File Committee Lines Up

Indications of how the I. W. W. membership is reacting or may react to the splitting tactics of the Rowan-Bowerman "injunctionites" are shown by the action of a "Joint Investigating Committee" representing I. W. W. branches from several industrial unions, some from Portland, Ore., others from Butte, Mont., and some from Chicago.

These workers whose earnest desire for the unity of the I. W. W. had, some of them at least, arrived in Chicago strongly prejudiced in favor of the Rowan-Bowerman-Raddock faction.

Tendency in Northwest.

Those from the northwest, where the heavier membership inclines the revolutionary thought of the I. W. W. to be proportionately watered with job unionist tendencies, showed distinct leanings to the injunctionites.

However, when their desire for unity prompted them to approach both sides with suggestions that if leaders of both factions would resign, agreement for unity could be had by calling in alternates for all resigning on both sides, their faith in the Rowan-Bowerman faction suffered a severe shock.

While the Doyle-Fisher administration agreed to this plan for unity, when Rowan, Griffith, McMurphy, Bowerman and the rest were approached, the peace makers received only non-committal, evasive answers and were given to understand that they were unwelcome. Bowerman even went so far as to say, according to reports: "I am going thru with this injunction even if it breaks up the I. W. W." Neutral and even friendly delegates from branches in the northwest were practically shown the door at splitters' headquarters, 2418 West Madison street.

Delegates Meet in Committee.

Following this cool reception, a dozen delegates met as a "Joint Investigating Committee" and, while having no more standing than representatives of branches of part of the industrial unions, their decisions and votes are indicative of the tendencies within the general confusion. There was one delegate from the Agricultural Workers, three from the General Construction Workers, one from the Lumber Workers' Industrial Union, four from the Metal Miners, one from the Building Constructoin Workers and two from the Finnish Workers' Club, a rather political appendage to the "strictly industrial" I. W. W.

After considerable discussion and a somewhat infantile decision that they "go in a body and withdraw the injunction," a record vote was called for on the following motion:

"That if Griffith, Rowan, Ryan, Bowerman, Trotter and Anderson do not withdraw the injunction, there shall be charges filed by this body against them as disrupters or the I. W. W."

Indications of Test Vote.

The votes stood nine in favor, one against and two not voting. And here in this simple test vote, is shown the uncertainity of a permanent revolutionary direction for the I. W. W. even though the most active element is largely though vaguely devoted to revolutionary ideas. In spite of all that had been experienced by these delegates, in spite of the fact that all were undoubtedly honest workers gravely concerned for the interest of the organization as a whole, in spite of the fact that they were more advantageously placed by reason of their being on the scene than are the great bulk of members, and in spite of the fact that the overwhelming majority approved the motion, the indecision and opposition of the minority is significant of a tendency throughout the whole I. W. W.

The delegation from the Metal Miners split, two in favor of the motion, one not voting and one not accounted for. Indecision showed in the non-voting of the one delegate from the Lumber Workers, the largest union of the I. W. W. The General Construction Workers' delegation also split, two in favor and one opposed to the motion.

When one calculates the fact that the delegates are drawn from the more active and more revolutionarily inclined members, this opposition and indecision represent a far wider proportion of non-revolutionary workers. Even who a later meeting wiped out this resistance, still the mass of membership which is remote from the experience of these delegates, have not been turned into revolutionists any more than have their delegates by this single decision.

CLARAHAN HAS THE GOODS ON TWO MORE IN RONDOUT HOLDUP

Evidence obtained by the government officers against Wm. J. Fahy, postal inspector arrested as a conspirator in the $2,000,000 Rondout mail train robbery, involved at least two other persons whose arrests will take place shortly.

This is the statement made last night by Chief Postal Inspector C. H. Clarahan, of New York City, who directed the investigation which resulted in Fahy's arrest.

Fahy has been removed to Woodstock for fear that he would communicate with Ernest Fontana, one of the men charged with active participation in the train hold up and who occupied a cell at the Geneva jail.

WALES USES HIS FEET; HIS HEAD IS OUT OF WORK

SYOSSETT, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Edward Albert, Great Britain's jazz-loving Prince, danced all night at the home of Devereaux Milburn, well-known polo player, at Wheatley Hills and returned to the James A. Burden estate, where he is living on Long Island, at six o'clock this morning, tired but serenely happy.

Eagle eyed newspaper men were mystified early today when they discovered that the prince had returned to the Burden home at six o'clock and numerous rumors of where and how he had spent the night were broadcast but not one knew just where he had been until members of his party, in explaining why he was sleeping so late, related that he fox-trotted until the wee sma' hours.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Take a Vote in Your Shop

HOW do the workers in your shop stand in this presidential election campaign?

How many of your shop mates are still so backward that they accept the leadership of Coolidge and Davis?

How many of your fellow workers have been fooled by the specious pleas of LaFollette and adopt the middle-class saviour?

And, above all, how many workers are there in your shop who understand that the working class must have its own party, its own policy, and its own candidate—and who therefore stand for William Z. Foster for president?

Take a vote in your shop. Send it in to the DAILY WORKER. We will compile it along with all the other shop votes and give you a picture of how the workers are thinking about the election issues and candidates.

WORKERS' STRAW VOTE

THE DAILY WORKER,
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

The workers employed in the shop of .....

..... have taken a straw vote on the presidential candidates, and the vote was as follows:

WM. Z. FOSTER ..... votes; LaFOLLETTE ..... votes;
Workers Party — No Party

DAVIS ..... votes; COOLIDGE ..... votes.
Democratic Party — Republican Party

I certify that this report is correct:

Name: .....

Address: .....

CALL MEETING TO RATIFY WORKERS PARTY NOMINEES

Hold Conclave Sunday, September 13

To all Workers Party Branches, Local Unions, Workmen's Circle Branches and other Fraternal and Workers' Organizations.

Dear Comrades—During the coming few years the workers of this country will be faced with enormous problems and difficulties, which will prove of decisive importance to the working class movement. Already, in spite of every effort of the ruling class, we see an enormous spread of unemployment thruout the country. In our own state of New York the total number of unemployed has been steadily increasing until it now numbers 200,000 more than a year ago. This condition is reflecting thruout the rest of the country. And this in spite of every attempt of the bosses to maintain "good times" until after the election.

With unemployment figures amounting into the millions, we can expect the united capitalists of the country to renew their open shop campaign, with the object of wiping out all semblance of organized labor in this country. The only force capable of avoiding such a situation is a government definitely committed to the interests of the working class as against the capitalists.

It is by this time a matter of fact known to all of the working class that both the democratic and republican parties are wholly controlled by the great financial and industrial interests of the country. The strikebreaker Coolidge, the open shopper Dawes, and the attorney of the House of Morgan Davis, can no longer fool the workers with their planks, designed to catch the labor vote. They are incapable of defending the interests of the workers, for it is their job to at all times protect the interests of the bosses and bankers.

Large masses of workers look to the LaFollette "socialist" outfit, backed by the sugar king, Spreckels, and the former president of the National City Bank, Vanderlip, as a movement on the road to take over the government for the interests of the exploited masses. A study of the LaFollette record and the story of the betrayal of the Farmer-Labor Party by the socialists at the behest of LaFollette, who is the political leader of the small business men and rich farmers, will convince any workers that this outfit is opposed to the intersts of the workers.

The only political party in this campaign representing the interests of the workers is the Workers Party. The Workers Party took the lead in the fight for a Farmer-Labor Party. Now that the LaFollette "socialist" outfit have betrayed the Farmer-Labor Party, the Workers Party will continue in the campaign for the formation of such a party.

The Workers Party calls upon the workers of this country to rally around the banner of the Workers Party, whose candidates are William Z. Foster for president and Ben Gitlow for vice president, both tried leaders of the oppressed masses of the country.

The Workers Party issues this call to all labor unions, fraternal organizations and all sympathetic organizations to attend the ratification meeting of our candidates which will be held on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 14, 1924, at 1 p. m. sharp, at Stuyvesant Casino, 142 Second Ave., New York, N. Y.

Fraternally yours,
CHAS. KRUMBEIN,
District Organizer, District No. 2,
Workers Party.

Our Candidates

FOSTER'S DATES

Springfield, Ill.—Carpenter Hall, Adams and Seventh Sts., Thursday, September 4th, 8 p. m.

Elizabeth, N. J.—Turn Hall, 725 High St., Wednesday, September 10, 8 p. m.

Newark, N. J.—Labor Lyceum, 704 So. 14th St., Thursday, September 11, 8 p. m.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Musical Fund Hall, 8th and Locust Streets, Friday, September 12, 8 p. m.

Paterson, N. J.—Halvitia Hall, 56 Van Houton Street, Saturday, September 13, 8 p. m.

GITLOW'S DATES

Comrade Gitlow, candidate for vice-president, will address meetings at the following places.

Warren, Ohio—Hippodrome Hall, High Street, Thursday, September 4, at 7:30 p. m.

Canton, Ohio.—Canton Music Hall, 810 Tuscrawas St., E., Friday, September 5th, 8 p. m.

Akron, Ohio.—Perkins School Auditorium, Exchange and Bowen Sts., Saturday, September 6th, 8 p. m.

Cleveland, Ohio—Bricklayer's Hall, E. 21st St. and Prospect Ave., Sunday, September 7th at 7:30 p. m.

New York City—Central Opera House, Tuesday, Sept. 9, at 8 p. m.

West New York, N. J.—Floral Park, 11th and Polk Streets, Wednesday, September 10, at 8 p. m.

ONLY 13 DAYS MORE! HURRY UP!

Signatures to Place Communist Candidates on Ballot in Illinois Beginning to Come In.

WATCH THE FIGURES GROW!

THE comrades in Chicago are putting in strong licks these days to make sure of placing the Workers Party candidates on the ballot Nationally, in the state of Illinois and on the various Congressional Districts in Chicago.

Below we give the names of the Congressional District candidates in Chicago, the number of signatures obtained by the comrades thus far in the respective territories and the number that are yet required. Also the number of signatures gotten to place the Presidential electors (Foster-Gitlow electors) and the state ticket on the ballot are given.

No. 1	Gordon Owens	200	1200
No. 4	Joseph Podkulski	249	1300
No. 5	Harry Epstein	22	1000
No. 6	Frank Pellegrino	125	3500
No. 7	Sam Hammersmark	277	4000
No. 8	George Maurer	50	800
No. 9	Jack W. Johnstone	125	1200
	Presidential Electors (Foster-Gitlow electors) and state signatures.
	Signatures obtained	575
	Signatures required	2000

Send in Your Petitions Filled Out Daily.

There are only 13 days more in which the comrades of Chicago are expected to gather the signatures needed. As can be seen from the above figures, many Congressional Districts have barely started, and have got to hustle every day from now on. The job can be done in every Congressional District with work from every party and Young Workers' League members.

There are many comrades who have filled-out petitions which they have not yet sent in. We ask these comrades to send them in at once to the local office, M. Abern, 166 W. Washington St., Room 303. Once these are in, the figures in the column will go up rapidly, and we will know how many more are needed in the various districts. As fast as one district is finished, comrades will be transfered to other territories at help out.

Branches of both the Party and Y. W. L. shall hold membership meetings to mobilize every member to get signatures. Remember to take both the State and Congressional petitions when you go out. If a comrade can get one petition signed, he can get the other at the same time.

Only 13 days remain for the comrades to finish the job of getting the Workers Party candidates on the ballot. It can be done. Experiences of various comrades shows that an average of 10 signatures per hour can be obtained by every comrade who is on the job. If the comrades will put in at least an hour a day for a few days successively, every Communist candidate will go on the ballot, and then the real smoke of the Communist campaign will start.

An Hour a Day for Communism.

Is the Communist movement worth an hour a day's effort from you, Comrade Party or League members? Or are you just one of those mere dues paying, sympathizing members, but not a genuine Communist Party member. If you're a real Communist, let's see you get out each day to get signatures. Make the Communist Campaign hum. Get signatures onto the petitions, and help sting the capitalists. Later, we'll make it a desth sting for the capitalist system. Put in at least three hours per day till September 15.

Send in the filled out petitions every day. Watch the column grow. Make the figures spell Communist activity.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

(Continued from page 1)

SIR JOHN AND LADY WARD, who is the daughter of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, owner of the New York Tribune, are going north to Perthshire for shooting. They will drink bottles of champagne, Scotch whisky, wine and Guiness's XXX porter. This is a democratic country and if our boss people can make lots of money, they have a perfect right to spend it where they please. At least that is what the Chicago Tribune tells us. Capitalism creates incentive. But for the capitalists there would be no work we are told. Perhaps not for the capitalists, because they are so accustomed to loafing that death would be preferable to work for most of them.

• • •

THERE are others. Lady Leith of Fyvie, formerly Lady January of St. Louis, is giving a shooting party at Fyvie Castle. Mrs. Archibald of Edmonstone, formerly Miss Gwendolyn Marshall Feld, is entertaining at Stirlingshire. This happy condition exists in a country presided over by a socialist pemier. We hasten to add, for fear our readers might get a heart attack that Mr. MacDonald is not a wicked Communist who would insist on sending these parasites to work after turning over their estates to the landless peasants of England and Scotland. Oh, no! Mr. MacDonald is a Christian socialist, not exactly like Morris Hillquit, who is a Talmudic socialist, nor like LaFollette who is reputed to be an agnostic socialist, but like Jesus of Nazareth who was not a socialist at all. The capitalists will never nail Ramsay to a cross as the Romans nailed his prophet.

• • •

THERE are approximately one million workers unemployed in Great Britain. They are living on miserable weekly doles. The prospects are that their unemployment will become chronic. And not only will they be chronically unemployed but they will become "unemployable." That is they will become so deteriorated physically and mentally that thru a long period of unemployment and semi-starvation that they will be unable to work. Instead of turning over to the unemployed land now used by American heiresses and their British male poodles for shooting innocent birds, Ramsay MacDonald, the Baptist "revolutionist" only suggests that people become more charitable and abolish classes.

• • •

IN Soviet Russia there are no parasites shooting grouse or duck on land that is needed by the peasantry. Since 1917, the workers and peasants of that country have had a chance to shoot grouse for themselves but they were obliged to shoot a lot bigger game first.

• • •

VICTOR BERGER was not particularly crazy about Woodrow Wilson, while the great prophet of Milwaukee was alive, "but now that he is dead" Victor wants to revive his fourteen points, or bring the treaty of Versailles into harmony with it. Berger also wants to create a "revolving fund" so that German industry can secure credit in America. He introduced bills in Congress incorprating the above suggestions. Berger's head must be "revolving" or else he would have observed that the Treaty of Versailles is superseded by the Dawes Plan to all intents and purposes. Morgan will put German industry on its feet for the benefit of Morgan but the German workers will pay the piper. Berger is not concerned with the fate of the German workers. He is only worried about that "combination of chemical elements" known as Germany.

• • •

AFTER Calvin Coolidge got back to Washington from a two weeks' vacation among the Vermont Hills, he sounded a call for the observance of the homely American virtues of loyalty, common sense, faith and the golden rule. He said that was the platform Jesus of Nazareth ran on, but perhaps he forgot that Jesus wound up his campaign as an ornament on a big wooden cross. Even Morris Hillquit admits that Coolidge is an honest man but so was Christ and yet he was crucified between two thieves. Cal may be crucified between a dozen of them. Barabas had nothing on Daugherty, and this reminds us that the mob called for Barrabas and let Jesus die. It looks worse than ever for Cal.

• • •

"WHEN the devil was sick, the devil a saint would be; when the devil was well the devil a saint was he." It is the other way around with the capitalist candidates for president. When they were holding their conventions, and the crowds cheered and workers were conspicious by their absence, labor votes were not thot of. But when the cheering died down and the candidates went out into the cold world they began to realize that there were more workers than capitalists in the United States. Therefore all the capitalist aspirants for the presidency got their windpipes ready for Labor Day.

• • •

MR. DAVIS, Morgan's lawyer, was an honest to goodness friend of labor. He was against the injunction in labor disputes. He was against the Esch Cummins law. He was for the anti-child labor amendment. In fact he was for everything that the workers favor. His boss, Morgan, being over in Scotland, and campaign speeches, being what they are, Davis did not care what he was for or against so long as he got the votes.

• • •

COOLIDGE also made a speech on Labor Day. He spoke to a group of labor fakers. Calvin, the man who broke the Boston Policemen's strike wished labor well. But it was labor of the sort that follows T. V. O'Connor, president of the shipping board, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America and other super labor fakers. That the capitalist candidates are willing to grovel in the dust for the labor vote, proves what a power labor would be if it only got together in its own political party and stood on its own feet. As it is, outside of the Workers Party, there is no other party in the field that offers the working class a solution of their problems. The capitalist parties, LaFollette included, treat the workers like voting cattle. The Workers Party urges them to stand on their own feet and fight for their emancipation.

• • •

CONSPICUOUS among the progressive labor weeklies that have fallen before the LaFollette typhoon, is the Mid-West News, formerly the Mid-West Labor News. It is edited by J. A. Lochray. So that his name and fame may ring down the winding corridors of time, it is meet that we present his surrender to LaFollette. Spreckles and Gompers in his own judiciously camouflaged words. As all leaders are liable to be misunderstood, their motives questioned and even their pocketbooks sometimes left without a tenant, so was Mr. Lochray.

• • •

HE was once a radical and everybody except a few Communists jumped on him. It is true, he had the Rev. Beebe and William Green, but those who count had no use for him. The labor fakers walloped him right and left. But you cannot keep a good man down. He got the best of the labor fakers by surrendering to them. The Mid-West is now a receptacle for as much of the Gompers weekly consignment of garbage as its pages can contain. And better still, the Labor Day issue contains plenty of advertisements, which bears profitable if mute testimony to the truth that a life of evil does not pay. It pays to reform.

BEING with the minority means hard sledding, so the Mid-West News joined the throng. After asserting that it will continue to fight for the workers, the News says editorially:

". . . it will continue to fight their battles, adjusting itself to the policies and program most acceptable to the great majority in both economic and political affairs." On other words it will go with the crowd.

Klansmen Disrobed.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 3.—An undercurrent of tension evident in low-voiced conversations of small groups gathered close together in various parts of the auditorium and corridors, seethed thru the American Legion state convention here today when it reconvened for its second day's sessions, following an open clash with the Ku Klux Klan on the streets here last night, when the robes of two Klansmen were torn off as they were returning from a Klan initiation on an interurban car which had stopped in front of the Inman Hotel, convention headquarters.

CHRISTIAN FILIPINO EATEN FOR LUNCH BY NEGRITOE CANNIBALS

MANILA, Sept. 3. — Word was brought here today from the Zaxbales Mountain District of the killing of a Christian Filipino by cannabalistic negritoes, who inhabit the mountain fastness.

According to the report, which is being investigated, the Filipino was tortured for several days, then killed and his heart, liver and other organs eaten by the negritoes at the instigation of a negritoe priest.

The Philadelphia "Public Ledger" of August 23 says the "KUZBAS" has reduced the selling price of coal in Siberia from $9.78 per ton to $8.50 and has reduced the price of coke by one third. "KUZBAS" is cokking 400,000 poods (7,000 tons) of coke per month which smelts iron-ore in the Ural steel mills, thereby displacing expensive charcoal. "KUZBAS" produces benzol, ammonia, gas, tar, etc. "KUZBAS" has a 33,000 acre farm of which half is plowed, and also a dairy with 130 cows.

KUZBAS

IS successful and growing. It will take over new mines and a steel-mill next year.

KUZBAS
needs at once

25 pick miners
3 machine runners for "Jeffrey Shortwall"
3 pump attendants
3 Hoisting engineers
3 first class outside electric linesmen
1 switchboard attendant used to "Curtis" turbines
1 woodworking machinery operator
3 first class plasterers
3 first class bricklayers Etc., Etc.

Other workers will be accepted as firstclass men.

Application forms sent on request.

Each worker needs $200 for fares and passport.

Term of agreement two years.

Next Party Leaves October 1st

KUZBAS,
Room 402 799 Broadway,
New York City.

EDUCATE YOURSELF FOR THE STRUGGLE

Class in English (for foreign-born workers) begins September 10; tuiton fee $2.00.

Class in Trade Union Tactics begins September 11; tuiton fee $1.00.

Enroll Now at Local Chicago Office, 166 W. Washington St. (Phone State 7985)

News for the Worker

Everyday

of everything concerning Labor in this country—and the world over.

ARTICLES
On every phase of working class activity.

STORIES
Of people who work for a living.

CARTOONS
By Labor's leading artists.

Workers Correspondence, Poems, Stories and Comics for the children—all go to make up

THE DAILY WORKER
"THE NATIONAL LABOR DAILY"

You'll enjoy the Saturday Magazine Section.

SUBSCRIBE!

And get it every day.

RATES (EXCEPT IN CHICAGO):

$6.00	$3.50	$2.00
12 Months	6 Months	3 Months

Send this blank with your remittance.

Name: .....

Street and No.: .....

City: ..... State: .....

PATERSON KEPT PRESS FAIL TO DISCREDIT RED

Communists Continue Strike Activity

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 3.—Following a scorching denunciation of the so-called "arbitrator" of the U. S. department of labor, John A. Moffit, as a tool of the capitalists controlling the government, H. Wicks, who has been addressing the silk strikers here daily, was subjected to a steady stream of abuse by the local press.

Hits Moffit.

"Moffit is an appointee of John W. Davis, who is in turn an appointee of the late President Harding," declared Comrade Wicks. He went on to recall the recent oil scandal. "Mr. Moffit had rather talk about teapot domes than kerosene lamps."

The Paterson Evening News and the Paterson Press-Guardian, both the kept sheets of the textile bosses here, have used up columns of space in an attempt to discredit the Communist speakers in the eyes of the striking mill workers, but to no avail. The Communist speakers are received with great enthusiasm at every strike meeting.

Especially vicious in its denunciations has been the Paterson Evening News.

In a bitter tirade it referred to H. M. Wicks, of New York, who has been addressing mass meetings at Turn Hall as an undesirable agitator and demanded that Chief Tracey suppress him.

The Chief of Police called Wicks into his office for an interview as a result of this publicity, but has taken no action to stop the meetings as yet.

T. U. E. L. Active.

Both the Trade Union Educational League and the Workers Party are active in this strike. A number of Communists are on the strike committee, some of them taking leading parts, while the mass of workers are decidedly responsive to the militant way in which the Communists carry on their part of the fight. The end of the strike will see the Communists emerge with tremendous influence among the workers in this vicinity.

A number of prominent speakers are due to address the strike meetings in the near future. Benjamin Gitlow, Workers Party Candidate for Vice-President of the United States, and Arturo Giovan Nitti are among those who will be here soon.

Juliet Stuart Poyntz, of New York, has addressed the strikers on two occasions and Benjamin Lifshitz, of New York, addressed a large meeting of Jewish strikers, both of them receiving enthusiastic ovations from workers.

There is also a demand for the DAILY WORKER and all that can be brought here can be handled to good advantage.

Izvestia Prohibited in Bulgaria.

MOSCOW.—The office of the official Soviet government publication, Izvestia, received notification from the Bulgarian postoffice that the circulation of the paper is prohibited in Bulgaria, "according to paragraph 12 of the law in defense of the fatherland." For two years the paper has been circulated in that country without the interference of the government. The new Cankoff government is taking measures "to defend the fatherland."

Police Attack Pioneers in Harbin.

HARBIN, China.—The Harbin Pioneers, with the permission of the Chinese authorities, have arranged an athletic celebration in which over 500 children participated. In the middle of the affair the police raided the park and began to tear off the red neckties, red banners, etc. Many of the children have been beaten up by the police and arrested.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

DON'T MISS THE NEXT ISSUE

THE DAILY WORKER MAGAZINE

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1924

ONLY SOME OF THE CONTENTS:

1. The Liquidation of the Treaty of Versailles.....By Karl Radek
2. The Communist Youth—A Review of the 4th Congress of the Young Communist International.....By John Williamson
3. Engineering Workers Under Capitalism.....By I. Obsky
4. Nations and Colonies.....By P. Manuilsky
5. At Last in Moscow.....By Anna Porter
6. Maxim Gorky's Latest Thrill—A Communication By Robin E. Dunbar
7. Is Organization a Problem?.....By Alexander Bittelman

VERSE——PICTURES——ILLUSTRATIONS

ORDER NOW!

THE DAILY WORKER

1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

SUBSTANCE OF TREATIES BETWEEN GREAT BRITAIN AND SOVIET RUSSIA

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Sept. 3.—When is a treaty not a treaty? When some big capitalist power finds it necessary to sign on the dotted line with Soviet Russia.

The Associated Press flooded the American papers with dispatches calculated to prove that the document signed by Ramsay MacDonald and Mr. Arthur Ponsoby for the British government and by Comrades Rakovsvky and Ioffe for the Soviet government, did not mean a thing in the world. The capitalist governments that have not yet recognized Soviet Russia immediately began to sneer at the treaty.

Another important agreement that did not receive much publicity was arrived at between Comrade Yankel, the chief of the Russian delegation and Mr. King, the Canadian premier, by which full trading liberty is granted to the Soviet.

The substance of the treaties are hereby given so that the readers of the DAILY WORKER may see for themselves whether there is anything to the treaty or not:

The two treaties betwen Great Britain and Northern Ireland and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics are described as a "General Treaty" and a "Treaty of Commerce and Navigation."

The former treaty is regarded as the general treaty contemplated in the Trade Agreement, and, with the commercial treaty, replaces that agreement.

It enumerates in the first place the treaties with the Tsarist and Provisional Governments, which are regarded as annulled, or confirmed, or reversed for amendment.

Article 5 deals with the question of fisheries. Exclusive fishing rights are reserved to the Russians for three miles out from the Soviet seaboard. Thirty-three provisions for the avoidance of disputes or conflicts between fishing boats are annexed.

British Bond Holders.

Upon the question of claims and loans, the Soviet Government "declares that by way of exception to the decree of January 28, 1918 (concerning the annulment of debts of the former Imperial and Provisional Governments), it will satisfy, in the conditions prescribed in the present Treaty, the claims of British holders of loans issued or taken over or guaranteed by the former Imperial Russian Government, or by the municipalities of towns in the territory now included in the Union, payable in foreign (non-Russian) currency.

"The Government of His Britannic Majesty recognizes that the financial and economic position of the Union renders impracticable the full satisfaction of the claims referred to in the preceding paragraph of this Article."

After negotiations between the Soviet and the bondholders, the agreement that they reach will be contained in an Anglo-Soviet Treaty, provided that the holders of not less than half the bonds are satisfied.

Claims Reserved.

The following claims between the two Governments are reserved:

(a) War loans advanced by the Government of His Britannic Majesty to the former Russian Imperial or Provisional Governments;

(b) Gold belonging to the former Russian Imperial or Provisional Governments, and handed over to the Government of His Britanic Majesty by either of those Governments;

(c) Russian gold handed over to Germany under the Supplementary Agreement to the Treaty of Brest-Litovak;

(d) Sums owed by the former Russian Imperial or Provisional Governments to British Gorenmental Departments, or vice versa;

(e) The claims advanced by the Government of the Union on the ground of intervention between November 7, 1917, and March 16, 1921.

Other claims, not otherwise covered in the Treaty, will be settled by a lump payment from the Soviet to the British Government for distribution by the latter. A committee of three from each side will examine all claims under this head and establish the sum to be paid.

A further commission of six will examine and ascertain the amount of all British claims for nationalized businesses and land in Russia.

A second Treaty is to be concluded containing conditions accepted with regard to the bondholders, the amount and method of payments for national ized properties and "an agreed settlement of property claims other than those directly settled by the Government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

Upon the signature of the "Second Treaty" referred to, the British Government "will recommend Parliament to enable them to guarantee the interest and sinking fund of a loan to be issued" by the Soviet Government.

The "no propaganda clause" mentioned by Mr. Ponsonby takes the form of a promise by both parties:

"scrupulously to respect the unoubted right of a state to order its affairs within its own jurisdiction in its own way, to refrain and to restrain all persons and organizations under their direct or indirect control, including organizations in receipt of any financial assistance from them, from any act overt or covert liable in any way whatsoever to endanger the tranquility or prosperity of any part of the territory of the British Empire or the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics or intended to embitter the relations of the British Empire or the Union with their neighbors or any other countries."

The commercial treaty follows the usual lines of commercial treaties.

Favored Nation.

The first Article provides most-favored-nation treatment to goods of the two countries, and extends the facilities of the Exports Credit Scheme to trade between Britain and the Soviet.

The second Article provides, in view of the Soviet monopoly of foreign trade, that:

"The Trade Representative and his assistants (members of the Council of the Trade Representation), the number of which shall be determined at a later date, by mutual agreement of both parties, shall be members of the Diplomatic Mission in London, and shall, as such, enjoy all the privileges and immunities appertaining theretor including extra-territoriality for their offices in the Embassy. For this purpose the existing offices of the Trade Delegation, and such other offices as may form the subject of future agreement shall form part of the Embassy."

It is provided that the Soviet commercial activities will, nevertheless, be subject to the laws of Great Britain, the neither the Government nor its representatives can be called on to give security for complying with the orders of the court.

The later clause arrange for exemption from military service and other customary privileges for the members of either nation in the others' territory.

In a final exchange of Notes, the Soviet Government reaffirms its claim to own all ships of the old Russian Navy or mercantile marine seized without the consent of the Soviet government.

Join the Workers Party!

Philadelphia Party Began Distribution Of Literature Sept. 1

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—A city-wide house-to-house canvas has been arranged by the City Central Committee for the distribution of the party platform. The distribution will extend over a period of ten (10) days, during which every party member is expected to do his share. Philadelphia is still an uncultivated field. By this canvas we will put the party platform into the hands of thousands of workers whom we do not reach otherwise. The canvass began on Monday, Sept. 1, and ends on Wednesday, Sept. 10. Every party member is urged to come to the office at 521 York Ave., to get his supply of literature and his directions.

A special meeting of the City Central Committee was held Tuesday Sept. 2, at 521 York Ave. All delegates of branches and members of all subcommittees were present.

A joint membership meeting has been called for Thursday, Sept. 4, at the headquarters. Comrade Jakira will report on the campaign to put the party ticket on the ballot. Further campaign work will be mapped out. Final arrangements for the Foster meeting will be made. All branch secretaries are instructed to write to their members, calling them to joint meetings.

Aid White Guard Victim.

At a meeting of the Chicago group of the News Mir correspondents after a report was given about the murder of a Communist village correspondent in Ukraine, a resolution was adopted and $14.50 was collected to aid the family of the murdered comrade. A detailed story about this revolting murder of Comrade Malinovsky appeared in the DAILY WORKER.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

AUSTRALIAN NAVY TURNS CATHOLICS INTO METHODISTS

Religion a la Mode Is the Slogan

By Federated Press.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Sept. 3. — How religion is made in the navy to suit the peculiar tastes of some folk is instanced by the following burlesque which took place recently on a British battleship lying in New Zealand waters.

An invitation was received on the warship to send 50 men to the Methodist church service. Navy politeness demanded an acceptance. So the crew paraded the day before, and the officer in charge of the muster ordered the Methodists to step to the front. Only three responded.

Every Even Number

The lieutenant was by no means dismayed. Fifty Methodists were wanted, and 50 would be found. So he re-closed the ranks, and gave the order, "Number off the left; every even number a Methodist." In that way he got the required number of sturdy fellows, who, if not prepared to argue in detail all that John Westley stood for, were at least ready to behave themselves.

All but one. This bluejacket ventured, with regulation diffidence, on a remonstrance. "Please, I'm a Roman Catholic." "No, my man," replied the officer, "you may have been a Catholic yesterday, and today, but tomorrow you are going to be a Methodist, and a damn good Methodist, too." In this case there was no such thing as that good old British law—freedom of conscience.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

BRANCH MEETINGS, LOCAL CHICAGO

Thursday, Sept. 4.

Finnish—2469 N. Halsted St.
19th Ward Italian—2420 S. Oakley Blvd.
32nd Ward Italian—511 N. Sangamon Street.
Community Center, 851 S. Wabash Avenue S. Side English. (Look up if moved there.)
Russian No. 1—1562 W. Division St.
Scandinavian Karl Marx.

Friday, September 5.

Ukrainian No. 2—16791 Stephenson Ave.
English, North Side—1902 W. Division St.
Lithuanian No. 4—4128 Archer Ave., Volantic Bldg.
Greek Branch—722 Blue Island Ave.

STREET MEETINGS IN CHICAGO.

Thursday, Sept. 4.

62nd and Halsted Sts.—Auspices, Englewood W. and Y. W. L. Speakers, Gurley, Shachtman and others.
47th, Ashland and Gross—Gomez and Polish speaker.

Friday, Sept. 5.

North Ave. and Rockwell St.—Auspices, North West branch and Maplewood Y. W. L. Speakers, O'Flaherty and Wm. F. Kruse.
Lawrence and Sawyer—Auspices, Irving Park W. and Y. W. L. branches. Speakers, D. E. Earley and Peter Herd.
Roosevelt Road and Central Park Ave.—Auspices, Near North Side Y. W. L. branch. Speakers, Hammersmark and Harvey.

Saturday, Sept. 6.

22nd and Oakley—Auspices, Italian branches, 4th District. Speakers, English and Italian comrades.
Jackson and Division, near Milwaukee Ave.—Auspices, Polish branch. Speakers, Hammersmark and Polish comrade.
111th Pl. and Michigan Ave.—Auspices, Pullman branches. Speakers, D. E. Earley, K. Harris.
Halsted and Seaher Sts.—Auspices, Greek branch. Speakers, F. Buckley and Greek comrade.
Division and Washington—Auspices, North West Jewish branch and Hersch Lockert. Speakers Louis Engdahl, Sidney Bergesen.
North Ave. and Orchard St.—Auspices, Germand Hungarian branches. Speakers, Peter Herd, H. Gannes.
39th and State Sts.—Auspices, South Side branch W. P. Speakers, Gordon Owens, C. Miller.

Sunday, Sept. 7.

Washington Park — "Open Forum." Workers Party. Speakers, D. E. Earley.

CHICAGO SPEEDING INDUSTRIAL REGISTRATION.

HAVE YOU REGISTERED YET?

Let us know where you work. Local Chicago, Workers Party, is driving for a swift Industrial Registration of its membership in order that it may more quickly begin to reorganize the party on the basis of shop nuclei and also to intensify the industrial work.

Thus far nine branches in Chicago have already sent in their industrial registration. They are:

Ukrainian Branch No. 2 (Burnside)
Ukrainian Branch No. 5 (Bridgeport).
Lithuanian No. 2.
Russian (East Chicago) Branch.
South Side No. 2 (South Chicago)
South Side English.
Douglas Park English.
Englewood English.
North Side English.

Other branches have reported that they are going ahead with the industrial registration and expect to complete it in a few days.

Chicago expects to lead the country in going over the top 100 per cent with its industrial registration and is striving to complete the registration before the allotted time, Sept. 15.

Branches which have not sufficient cards or books should write in at once for their needs to Room 302, 166 W. Washington St.

Reports of progress will be printed regularly in the DAILY WORKER. Let us have a race among the Chicago branches to get in their registration quickly.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

The Workers Party in Action

Not a Cent, Not a Vote for LaFollette!

Comrades and Fellow Workers of the Needle Trades:

In the near future you will be asked to give up your hard-earned dollars in support of the campaign of the middle-class politician, LaFollette. You, the workers of the needle trades, whose organization has for twenty years been the proud standard bearer and the champion of true working-class political action. For years you have fought vigorously the capitalist candidates, running either as Republicans and Democrats or masking as "reformers" and "progressives" like Bryan, Roosevelt, Hearst and LA FOLLETTE. Comrades and fellow workers! Your leaders have pledged your support without your consent. Refuse to betray the revolutionary traditions of your organization. Refuse to support a capitalist candidate. Refuse to support LaFollette.

Who is La Follette? For what does he stand? La Follette, the undisputed boss of the Republican Party of Wisconsin, stands for capitalism. La Follette stands for the system of wage slavery. La Follette supported the imperialist Spanish-American War. La Follette supported the raising of millions of dollars in War bonds which were used to send the workers to the trenches in the World War. Not a word does La Follette say in his platform, about the recognition of Soviet Russia, when even the blackest reactionary governments of Europe have been forced to recognize her.

Who is for La Follette? Rudolf Spreckles, the millionaire Sugar King, Frank Vanderlip, millionaire banker and capitalist. W. T. Rawleigh millionarie drug manufacturer. The small bankers, manufacturers and middle-class business men. Sam Gompers, the arch-reactionary, who favored the restriction of immigration and our entrance into the terrible World War. Morris Hillquit, Abe Cahan, the yellow Socialists; and finally the bureaucratic trade union officials who are seeking political advancement and fame. La La Follette go to them for support. You, class-conscious workers, have nothing in common with these enemies of the working class.

Comrades and Fellow Workers: Do not be fooled by "progressive" phrases and promises. You are asked to support La Follette in the hope that this will lead to the formation of a genuine labor party. La Follette is and always has been opposed to a labor party. Even now he supports capitalist candidates of the Republican and Democratic Parties. Gompers is opposed to a labor party. So are the middle-class merchants and bankers. Instead they may form a third capitalist party which will be another and more dangerous weapon against the working class.

In this political crisis, the revolutionary and militant workers of the needle trades, can honestly support but one party, which stands out as the only true representative of the interests of the working-class. That party in THE WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA, whose candidates are WILLIAM Z. FOSTER for President and BEN GITLOW for Vice-President. Foster is a railroad worker, a member of the Carmen's Union and was the organizer of the oppressed steel and packing-house workers. Gitlow is a needle trade worker, a member of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union.

Support FOSTER AND GITLOW who have always fought tirelessly and fearlessly for the interests of the workers.

Support FOSTER and GITLOW who stand for the abolition of capitalism and militarism and the establishment of a workers' government.

Support FOSTER and GITLOW who stand for a labor party.

INDORSE FOSTER and GITLOW in your UNION.

CONTRIBUTE TO THEIR CAMPAIGN FUND.

WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA.
Needle Trades Campaign Committee.

GITLOW, COMMUNIST CANDIDATE FOR VICE-PRESIDENT, STRIKING CONTRAST TO CAPITALST TICKET

Ben Gitlow, candidate for Vice-President on the Workers Party ticket, offers a striking contrast to the candidates of the capitalist parties, Dawes, Bryan and Wheeler. Gitlow is from start to finish a working class candidate as proven by his record.

Active in Socialist Party.

He was born in Elizabeth, N. J., thirty-three years ago. At the age of eighteen he joined the socialist party, immediately became active as a speaker and organizer and was a delegate to the New York state convention of the party at the age of nineteen. Altho he began to study law and later tried his hand at business, he very soon became convinced that neither calling was in harmony with his social philosophy, but that his place was in the ranks of the workers. And there he has remained ever since.

A Life in the Labor Movement.

He worked for three years in Bloomingdale's department store and took a leading part in organizing the Retail Clerks' Union, of which he was president for two years. Because of his union activities, he was discharged by the Bloomingdale concern, blacklisted by the Merchants' Association and trailed by their spies from one job to another. In 1914, Gitlow created a profound impression before the Industrial Relations Commission of which Frank P. Walsh was chairman, by his testimony on the inner workings of department store management.

Then he became a clothing cutter and joined the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union, Cutters' Local No. 4, of which he is still a member.

Prominent in the Left Wing.

He was elected to the New York State Assembly on the Socialist ticket in 1917 and renominated in 1918. Feeling that the Socialist Party was fast losing its revolutionary character, he became an active member of the Left Wing and later was instrumental in organizing the Communist Labor Party.

Imprisoned for His Ideas.

He was business manager of the "Revolutionary Age," a Left Wing publication that attained a wide circulation. Out of the publication of the Left Wing Manifesto and Program in this, grew his indictment during the war for "criminal anarchy." Later he became associated with the "Voice of Labor," edited by the late John Reed. When Reed left for Soviet Russia, the editing and management of the paper developed upon Gitlow. Gitlow was the first Communist sent to prison in America. He served for three years and is still under indictment.

Ben Gitlow is today a member of the Executive Committee of the Workers Party of America and its candidate for the Vice-Presidency. His record of consistent service to the interests of the working class, even at the sacrifice of his health and freedom, insures him the whole-hearted support of every truly class-conscious worker in the United States.

Join the Workers Party!

Youth Day at Dillonvale, Ohio.

DILLONVILLE, Ohio, Sept. 3.—The entertainment prepared for the celebration of International Youth Day on Sept 12 by the Young Workers League of Dillonvale, Ohio, includes a one-act play, "From an Office Boy to a Millionaire," a melodrama of capitalist success. This promises to provide a hearty laugh and much fun. There will also be recitations, orchestra music and refreshments. Max Schachtman and Rebecca Sacharow will address the gathering. Come early, so you won't miss anything on the program. Doors open at 7:30 p. m.

SOCIALIST PARTY DELEGATE QUITS; JOINS WITH W. P.

Ladd Disgusted with Endorsement of Bob

The National Office of the Workers Party is in receipt of the following letter from E. D. Ladd, Elmira, N. Y., who signs himself as a delegate to the recent convention of the Socialist Party held in Cleveland after the C. P. P. P. convention:

C. E. Ruthenberg, Executive Secretary, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Comrade:

Find enclosed copy of your former letter. The literature has not been received.

There are quite a number of revolters here from the Cleveland union convention. They agree with me that capitalism makes Socialists and that such deals as we got at Cleveland makes Communists. There is nothing left for us but the Workers Party.

Send me that literature. We are anxious to get busy.

E. D. LADD.

Similar expressions of disgust at the betrayal of working class movement by the Socialist Party at Cleveland are reaching the National Office from other sources. The Workers Party is ready to welcome to its ranks every class conscious worker who is ready to carry on a class struggle for the establishment of a Workers and Farmers Government and the abolition of the capitalist system. It invites those members of the Socialist Party who cannot accept the latest betrayal of the working class movement by that organization to join the Workers Party.

Railroad Merger Is In Final Stage As LaFollette Groans

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Following the acceptance of the Pere Marquette railway of the merger plans involving five railroads which were drawn up by the Van Sweringen brothers of Cleveland, only the approval of the interstate commerce commission was necessary before the merger became an actual fact. The Pere Marquette yesterday approved the merger, according to an official statement given out by E. N. Brown, chairman of the railroad's board of directors.

LaFollette can now raise his lovely pompadour to the skies and issue a long moan over the increase of monopoly. Bob's slogan is "Back to the State Coach."

Vote Communist This Time!

ELECTION DRIVE IN NEW YORK IS IN FULL SWING

Working Committees Now Functioning

By HARRY M. WINITSKY.
Campaign Manager.

The campaign in the state and city of New York has already started and is now in full swing thruout the entire district. The campaign committee is laying out all the plans for a successful Communist campaign and intends rolling up a big vote thruout the entire city for the Communist ticket.

Form General Campaign Committee.

Candidates have been named in all the important districts and the party members are hard at work collecting signatures for the petitions. In order that the campaign committee carry out its work in a systematic and efficient manner, the committee has subdivided itself into various smaller committees. The general campaign committee of the district is composed of the following comrades: Lindgren, Krumbein, Fralkin, Grecht, Makl, Brahdy, London, Lipshitz, Ortlandt, Castrell, Stachel, Weinstone, Ranar, Nesin, Trachtenberg, Poyntz, Lore, Gund, Brodsky and Winitsky, the campaign manager.

The sub-committees are as follows:

Finance and Outside organizations: Jampolsky, Obermier, Sazar, Ortlandt, Castrell, Makl, Markoff, Schoen, Heller, and Lipshitz, chairman.

Up-state and New Jersey: Periman, of new Jersey; Proctor of Yonkers, Lindgren, chairman, and Winitsky, secretary.

Speakers' Committee.

Speakers: Fralkin, Grecht, Gund, Stachel, Brodsky, the six section campaign managers and the chairman Brahdy.

Legal: Klein, Brodsky, and Trachtenberg, chairman.

Publicity and Research Committee: Trachtenberg, Lore, Poyntz, Grecht, Lowell, Bimba, Felshin and Weinstone, chairman, and Miller, secretary.

Organization: Which is also to function as the special small campaign for emergencies: Lindgren, Lipshitz, Trachtenberg, Lore, Weinstone, Brahdy, Krumbein and Winitsky, secretary.

Both the local as well as the state petitions are ready and are being circulated thrumut the entire city by all the branch and section campaign managers. All comrades and sympathizers are called to report to the various sections to go out with petitions for signatures.

Petitions can be gotten in the following headquarters:

208 East 12th Street,
105 Eldridge Street,
143 East 103rd Street.
1347 Boston Road, Bronx.
61 Graham Ave., Brooklyn.
1144 Pitkin Ave., Brooklyn.

The tremendous task now before us is to get sufficient signatures for our petitions so that our state and local ticket will go in the ballot. All comrades should get down to the job and see that this work is completed in time. The signatures must be completed and returned to the district office no later than the 23rd of September.

EARN YOUR COMMUNIST MERIT STAMP BY GETTING A NEW MEMBER FOR THE PARTY AND ANOTHER READER AND SUBSCRIBER TO THE DAILY WORKER.

The World of Labor - Industry & Agriculture

170,000 WORKERS HUNTING JOBS IN MASSACHUSETTS

Only 28 Pct. of Plants Working Full Time

BOSTON, Sept. 3.—More than 170,000 wage earners employed in Massachusetts factories at the peak of the 1923 boom are out of a job today, according to the employment report of the state department of labor for July. The report shows that employment has fallen 25.6 per cent in 16 months.

Down It Goes.

The decrease in employment in the single month June to July amounted to 4.3 per cent, following a decline of 2.9 per cent between May and June. Average weekly earnings, however, showed a slight gain, rising from $22.80 in June to $22.88 in July.

In July, as compared with June, there were decreases in 22 of the 36 industries covered by the report while compared with July, 1923, every one of the 9 major groups of industries showed a material reduction in force. Decreases by industries were: cotton goods 37 per cent, boots and shoes 25 per cent, woolen and worsted goods 15½ per cent, foundries and machine shops 28 per cent, rubber products 24 per cent, dyeing and finishing textiles 21 per cent, electrical apparatus 21 per cent, printing and publishing 5 per cent and paper manufacture 16 per cent.

28 per cent Operate Full Time.

Of the 554 establishments reporting to the department only 28 per cent were operating full time and full capacity. A total of 37 establishments were reported idle, 11 of which were in the cotton industry and 6 in the boot and shoe industry. In the boot and shoe industry 17 out of 121 plants were operating full time and full capacity, in cotton goods 7 out of 48, in men's clothing 8 out of 30, in women's clothing 4 out of 21, in foundry work 5 out of 27, in machine shops 21 out of 37, and in woolen mills 6 out of 38.

The report shows the average earnings of male workers as $27.21 a week and of female employes at $15.33.

SAN FRANCISCO TYPOS RECEIVE 5 DOLLAR RAISE

Double Time Pay is Provided For

(By Federated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Effective August 1, 1924, San Francisco members of Typographical union No. 21 have been receiving an increase of $5 a week over the old job scale.

Sitting as impartial chairman of an arbitration board, Judge Frank R. Devlin increased the basic wage scale for compositors in the commercial shops from $46 to $51 a week. This brings the pay of the San Francisco compositor to practically the level of the Chicago wage scale, and $2 less than New York.

47 Weeks of Work.

Among the points stressed in the opinion was the fact that because of holidays, vacations, unemployment and sickness, 47 weeks pay represents a fair estimate of the average earning capacity of a printer in job shops. The facts presented before the board of arbitration showed excessive overtime in some of the shops, and it was therefore ordered that after three hours of overtime, double time be paid, instead of time and a half as hitherto.

H. F. Melnikow, director of the Labor Bureau, Inc., presented the case for the San Francisco union.

Vote Communist This Time!

New Hampshire Soil Tillers Make $293 A Year for Toiling

(By Federated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Fifty-seven farmers in New Hampshire kept an accurate account of their expenses and income in the year ending April 1, 1922, for the State College, and they average an income of $700 on an investment of $5,140, after paying expenses. Deducting interest on the investment at 5 per cent, they received $293 each that year for their labor. Their average taxes, deducted as expense, were $150, or 34 per cent of the labor income and taxes combined.

Compare this with the federal tax on other incomes, or with the Massachusetts tax of 6 per cent on income from intangible property.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

LOW WAGES AND LONG HOURS IN SOUTHERN TEXTILE PLANTS ARE MENACE TO WORKERS IN NORTH

By LELAND OLDS.
(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

The bitter cry of exploited women wage earners in the south rises from the pages of a report on women in Alabama industries made by the Women's bureau of the U. S. department of labor. The report shows that the employing class when unchecked by the power of organized labor will grind profits out of the health and strength of women to the limit of endurance.

More than half the women covered by the investigation were working 10 hours or more a day, while only a scant one-twelfth worked a regular day of eight hours or less. More than 60 percent of these women were scheduled to work 55 hours or more a week with 13.2 percent working in excess of 60 hours. On the other hand only one-eighth worked 48 hours or less per week.

$8.60 a Week

The typical weekly wage was $8.80. This represents the price at which Alabama employers value wage earning women in the state, the price for which they expect to purchase all the energy that a woman can put into 55 hours or more of work. It means in the neighborhood of 16c an hour.

This situation appears to be typical of the textile industry in the south for by far the largest group of women studied were employed either in cotton mills, yarn factories or in the manufacture of knit goods. In these 3 industries the women received respecively $8.70, $7.60 and $6.85 a week. These wages represents the situation in Dec., 1922, when the last industrial boom was getting under way and are fairly representative of the present situation.

No Hours Limit

The report emphasizes the lack of legislative protection which makes this exploitation of women possible as follows: "Alabama is one of 5 states in which there is no limit to the hours which women may work either in one day or in a week; it is one of 22 states in which there is no regulation of night work; there is no provision for setting a minimum amount below which wages for a full week's work may not fall; there are practically no regulations in regard to plant working conditions, and it is one of 8 states in which there is no law providing for the pensioning of mothers."

These legislative provisions for the protection of women have been secured only where organized labor has been powerful enough to exert pressure. Legislatures completely dominated by the employing class do not provide any such restrictions on the right of the boss to the last ounce of the wage earner's strength. And today in the textile industry there is great danger that the conditions won by organized labor in the north will be undermined by the competition of the south. The cotton mill interests appear to be moving their productive equipment from New England to states where they can work women long hours for low wages, leaving workers in the north without employment. It is just another phase of the open shop drive which aims at creating a class of submissive industrial serfs of the industrial barons.

Your Union Meeting

FIRST THURSDAY, SEPT. 4, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting
	Allied Printing Trades Council, 59 E. Van Buren St., 6:30 p. m.
271	Amal. Clothing Workers, 409 S. Halsted St.
227	Boiler Makers, 2040 W. North Ave.
93	Boot and Shoe, 1939 Milwaukee Avenue.
499	Boot and Shoe Wkrs., 10258 Michigan.
14	Brick and Clay, Shermanville, Ill.
186	Brick and Clay, Glenview, Ill.
13	Carpenters, 112 S. Ashland Blvd.
62	Carpenters, 6418 S. Halsted St.
341	Carpenters, 1440 Emma St.
434	Carpenters, South Chicago 11037 Michigan Ave.
504	Carpenters, Ogden and Kedzie.
2101	Carpenters, 753 W. North Ave.
180	Drug Clerks, 431 S. Dearborn St., Room 1327.
134	Electricians, 1507 Ogden Ave.
713	Electricians, 1275 Diehl Ave.
115	Engineers, 9223 Houston Ave.
16432	Field Assessors, Victoria Hotel.
429	Firemen and Enginemen, 38th and Campbell Sts., 7:45 p. m.
269	Hod Carriers, South Chicago, 3101 E. 92nd St.
25	Janitors, 59 E. Van Buren St.
60	Janitresses, City Hall, Hearing Room.
18	Ladies' Garment Workers, 328 W. Van Buren St.
54	Ladies' Garment Workers, 1214 N. Ashland Ave.
100	Ladies' Garment Workers, 328 W. Van Buren St.
12	Leather Workers, 810 W. Harrison Street.
233	Moulders, 119 S. Throop St.
371	Painters District Council, 1446 W. Adams St.
281	Painters, Dutt's Hall, Chicago Hts.
669	Piano and Organ Workers, 180 W. Washington.
281	Plumbers, Monroe and Peoria Sts.
504	Plumbers (Railway), Monroe and Peoria.
14872	Railway Carmen, 1259 Cornell St.
724	Railway Carmen, 75th and Drexel Avenue.
1082	Railway Carmen, 1900 W. 17th St.
278	Railway Clerks, 543 W. Washington.
504	Railway Clerks, 8138 Commercial Avenue.
14872	Sign Hangers, 810 W. Harrison St.
38	Stagehands, 5236 Princeton Ave.
12	Slate, Tile Roofers, 1224 Milwaukee.
110	Stage Employes, Masonic Temple, 10:30 a. m.
	Stereotypers, 180 W. Washington Street.
742	Teamsters, 9206 Houston Ave.
794	Teamsters (Dairy), 220 S. Ashland.
753	Tile Layers, 10 E. 33rd St.
110	Upholsterers, 180 W. Washington Street.
17616	Warehouse Emp., 166 W. Washington.

(Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

Miner, Too Old to Work, Kills Self When Penniless

HERRIN, Ill., Sept. 2.—Too old to work, in debt and penniless, forced to live on the charity of his fellow miners themselves out of work, Stanley Lucas, of 916 South 16 Street, has killed himself by taking ether.

Joseph Gestautas, with whom Lucas lived, said, "Lucas and I have been batching together for two years. Stanley is a Lithuanian. He was 64 years old. I gave him money most every pay day. I found Lucas laying on the ground outside the house. Near the body I found a can which had contained ether.

"In Stanley's trunk I found a letter telling me to pay his store bill and some other debts."

Lucas is survived by a wife, four girls and two boys, who live in East St. Louis.

Movie Operators of New York Win Demand For 5 Pct. Increase

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Five percent increase in wages and the two-shift day have been won by the Moving Picture Operators' Union, Local 306, on the eve of their threatened strike. A two-year agreement was signed with the Vaudeville Managers' Association, which controls many of the big movie houses, providing for another five percent increase Sept. 1, 1925. The two shifts between 11 a. m. and 11 p. m. are six hours each, lessoning considerably the danger to operators from continued confinement in small projection rooms where gas, particularly the deadly carbon monoxide, is generated.

Vote Communist This Time!

New Ambassador to Mexico Will be a Good Papa to Oil

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, September 3.—James R. Sheffield, rich corporation lawyer, just appointed ambassador to Mexico says, in effect, that he will regard himself there as special agent for big American oil concerns. He does not say this in so many words. He merely announces that he will continue the policies of former ambassador Warren. Sheffield will not sever his connections with the law firm of Betts, Bentley, Sheffield and Betts, while he is in Mexico but will get a "leave of absence."

Vote Communist This Time!

CANADIAN STEEL WORKERS MOVING AGAINST 'BESCO'

Toilers on Verge of Starvation

SYDNEY, Nova Scotia, Sept. 3.—The steelworkers of Sydney are again stirring with rebellion against Besco, The British Empire Steel Corporation. A year ago this corporation bitterly fought the Sydney steel workers when they made an effort to raise their living standards by going on strike.

Lewis Betrayed Workers.

Besco broke the steel workers' strike by violence, bringing in troops and provincial police, inflaming them with rum and anti-red propaganda, and sending them out to ride down and bludgeon unarmed men and helpless women and children. It was then the coal miners of this province came to the aid of the steel workers, calling out all the miners, who are also employees of Besco. Then John L. Lewis, president United Mine Workers of America, ordered the miners back to work, deposed their district officers, and established a temporary organization of District 26 of the U. M. W. of A.

After the miners went back the steel workers' struggle was hopeless and those who stayed out until it was seen that the strike was broken were brutally blacklisted and hounded, hundreds of the most active being forced to leave the country.

Held Together.

The intimidation praticed against those who remained was terrible but in spite of it a few held together their union organization. Last winter these workers seceded from the American Federation of Labor and held together as an independent organization.

Now Besco has itself struck. The corporation has shut down the steel plant for three months and left the Sydney workers to starve, as the steel plant is practically the only industry in this city, Sydney is already in the first stage of starvation.

The little business people who last year stuck with Besco against the strikers are feeling the pinch that comes when those workers have no wages to spend.

Scabs Repent.

The workers who slunk back into the plant while the strike was on last year are now repenting of their folly and the town has been stirred with more agitation than it has known since the strike time a year ago.

Besco is giving evidence of being much worried by the revival of organization in Sydney and the two corporation controlled daily papers here are fuming in their attacks.

It is being charged that the steel plant lockout is only part of a conspiracy to cut the wages of the Nova Scotia coal miners and altho the miners are handicapped by the control of their district organization by the provisional officers of John L. Lewis there are signs of an awakening among them.

Steel Trust in Australia Same as in America

(By Federated Press.)

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Sept. 3.—The steel trust is trying to introduce the 12-hour shift system in their mills at Newcastle, New South Wales. The unionists refuse to work the long-er shifts and a big industrial fight is pending.

The Labor Council of New South Wales, at Sydney, and the Industrial council at Newcastle have entered the fight, supporting the unionists and calling upon all workers at the mills to fight the 12-hour shift principle and stand fast for the 8-hour day.

Lithuanian Workers Buy Home.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—The Lithuanian Workers' Educational society is remodeling a $20,000 Chicago home for its activities. The home will house Vilnis, the Lithuanian workers' semi-weekly published in Chicago, with a job printing plant, a reading room and library, a workers' education enterprise and the other labor activities of the society.

Not a Single New York Union Stands For Cal or Davis

(By Federated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—As the political campaign turns into September not a single local union of the multitude of labor organizations representing the 700,000 organized workers of Greater New York has given its indorsement to Calvin Coolidge, who says he broke the Boston police strike, nor John W. Davis, who prosecuted the United Mine Workers in the famous Coronado case and represents the House of Morgan. If Coolidge and Davis consider themselves friends of labor, the friendship seems to be purely one sided in this metropolis.

Ex-Labor Head Dies.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—John O. Walsh, past president San Francisco Moulders' union, and for the last few months head of the labor bureau, Federal Board for Vocational Training, died suddenly of heart disease, at the age of 68. Walsh was at one time president of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, and had been active in labor circles for many years.

ARE YOU OBTAINING YOUR BUNDLE OF THE DAILY WORKER and CAMPAIGN LEAFLETS to distribute when you are out getting signatures to petitions?

Order campaign leaflets from the Campaign Manager thru your branch.

SENATOR FLETCHER OF FLORIDA USED TO BE A LIBERAL ONCE; NOW RIDES THE BIG MONEY TIDE

By LAURENCE TODD.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—How perfect is the defensive harmony existing between Coolidge and Davis reactionaries, in this presidential campaign year, whenever the economic nerve is involved, is illustrated by Senator Fletcher, of Florida, formerly a liberal democrat but recently conspicuous for his bitter fight against the child labor amendment.

Fletcher issued from his office, "for immediate release" to the press on Aug. 22, a statement rejoicing in the fact that the North Carolina legislature had, in its senate, refused to ratify the child labor proposal. He called attention to the fact that the North Carolina legislature had then amended the state law "so that it will be hereafter impossible for anyone under 14 years of age to engage in gainful occupation." He asserted that this showed "the determination of the state to free itself from all accusations regarding the exploitation of child labor."

Denies Child Labor.

Then he proceeds to quote the author of this state law as saying that only 66 boys under 14 years are now working, under certificates, in the cotton mills in North Carolina, and he states that this new law "makes possession by the employe of a working certificate from the state commission prima facie evidence of compliance with the law on the part of the employer." He denies that any large number of children under 14 years are employed in the cotton mills of the south, and he quotes as his chief authority Sen. Wadsworth of New York, who is the northern champion of reaction on this issue.

Fletcher used to be friendly to labor legislation in Congress. Then Miami and Palm Beach and St. Petersburg and Orlando and a few other Florida towns were discovered by millionaires from the north. Money began to pour into his poverty-stricken state. It came faster and faster. The winter sun became Florida's fortune. Fletcher discovered the millionaires and they discovered him. Fletcher became conservative. Business must be safeguarded against radical proposals.

Recall Tabert Murder.

When the barbarous murder of a North Dakota war veteran by a county convict whipping boss in Florida aroused a storm all over the country, last year, the impression was given that Florida would take this occasion to prove herself willing to enforce constitutional rights. Here was a boy arrested on a fake charge, virtually kidnapped and sold into slavery in a Florida camp, and flogged until he died. The whipping boss was convicted of second-degree murder, but now the state supreme court has given him a new trial. Nobody expects to see him given a long sentence, even if he is again convicted. And not a word from Fletcher or Sen. Trammell or any Florida congressman who has fought the child labor amendment in the name of state rights.

So with this North Carolina legislation, to which the Florida senator points with so much pride. He knows that it is fake legislation, since it does not make the employer responsible, once the child gets a working certificate by any means. He knows the state official machinery will not enforce this law, because the mill interests that control the state government do not want it enforced. He knows that federal inspectors, operating under a federal law, would get enforcement. And he knows that his figures on the number of child workers in cotton mills in North Carolina is utterly out of keeping with federal reports on that subject.

Fletcher On New Tide.

But Fletcher is riding the new political tide of Big Money in Florida. He thinks it good politics to be as pitiless as Jim Wadsworth, on child labor. Later on, he will assail other "extreme" measures put forward by the progressives in the senate, and will find the support of the Florida winter colony more and more congenial.

Applaud Attacks on Klan.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Speeches attacking the Ku Klux Klan drew unrestrained applause from the delegates to the New York State Federation of Labor convention.

COAL MERGER IS SEEN AS ATTEMPT TO BREAK UNION

Invade Illinois Field for Wage Cutting

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 2.—Two hundred and fifty mines in the Tug River, Windy Gulf, and Rainy River regions of West Virginia, with an aggregate capacity of 1,189,000 tons of coal a month, are about to consolidate into a huge coal combine, having applied for the necessary documents here.

The purpose of the merger is announced, "the initiation of a drive for business thruout the organized Illinois coal mining districts and a drive to take over the business of the union competitive coal fields."

Salesmen have already invaded coal camps in Christopher, Marion and other Southern Illinois coal towns, and are offering to sell coal, delivered to business men in these towns more cheaply than it can be bought from the mines working in these towns.

Backed By Wall Street.

This new merger is thought to be another attempt of the coal trust, controlled by Wall Street bankers, to reduce wages in Southern Illinois. The men announced as inspiring the merger are Samuel A. Scott, general manager of the New River and Pocahontas Coal company, with headquarters at McDonald, W. Va., and Van H. Manning, former director of the bureau of mines, and H. F. Randolph, mining engineer. 250 properties are included in the consolidation, which has established headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa.

The seeming leaders of the merger claim Wall Street bankers are not interested, but it is rumored the hand of J. P. Morgan effected the consolidation.

St. Louis Charity Reports 47,000 in Jobless Condition

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 2.—Homeless and jobless men are increasing in this city by leaps and bounds. In the last six months over 47,000 homeless and jobless workers have been forced to eat supper and sleep at Amity Hall, 310 Market St., the director, Joshua P. Solven reports.

The charitable institution is unable to do much for the penniless men of St. Louis. The work of the institution is carried on at a cost of only five cents a person, according to the director. Over 200 persons are taken care of every night whom the unemployment crisis has forced out on the streets.

Defense Day in Indiana.

WARSAW, Ind., Sept. 2.—Hundreds of young fellows in Warsaw and Kosciusko counties are enrolling as Defense Day Volunteers on enlistment blanks on file at Warsaw stores and other business places. Volunteers between the ages of 18 and 31 are being enrolled as "potential soldiers."

Hatmakers' Strike Won.

ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 3.—The Hatmakers' Union of Orange has won its strike against a group of manufacturers who promise not to send any more work out of town hereafter. Four hundred workers were affected. The strike lasted two weeks.

Join the Workers Party!

USE IMMIGRANTS TO SLICE WAGES OF CANADA LABOR

Bosses in Dastardly Scheme

By SYDNEY WARREN
(Staff Correspondent of The Fed. Press)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 3.—The wholesale dumping of immigrants from all quarters of Europe, but more especially the British Isles, is seriously undermining the labor movement of western Canada and trades unionists and others are trying to prevent the cheap immigration schemes now being promoted by the big business interests of Canada. Letters and newspaper articles setting forth the truth about Canadian working conditions and the chances of an immigrant without capital making good on the land are being sent to English newspapers.

Three Men—One Job.

Due to the shortage of the wheat crop on the prairies this year, very few harvesters will be required, yet the employment offices of eastern Canada and the Pacific coast are calling for thousands of men to go to the prairies to work the harvest. These men are required to pay their own fare and often when arriving at the harvest find that there are three men for one job and as a result they are left stranded to shift for themselves as best they are able.

Many of these men finally drift back to the coast for the winter and their presence in numbers is used to further reduce wages in the unskilled industries of the province such as mill and construction work. Last winter the stranded British immigrants were the means of breaking the strike of the longshoremen, who held out for some eight weeks and finally were forced to disband their organization and be hired thru the shipping bosses' employment bureau.

Feeding Immigrants.

At the present time the Canadian Pacific railway has immigration agents thruout Europe trying to induce immigrants to spend their savings with the steamships and railways of the company in the hope of seeking their fortunes in Canada.

ED. GARBER
QUALITY SHOES
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN
2427 LINCOLN AVENUE
CHICAGO
Telephone Diversey 5129

E. W. RIECK LUNCH ROOMS
Seven Places
62 W. Van Buren | 42 W. Harrison
169 N. Clark | 118 S. Clark
66 W. Washington | 167 N. State
234 S. Halsted
PHONES, HARRISON 8616-7
Specialties: Rieck Boston Baked Beans and Cocoa Bread
Fine Soups and Fresh Made Coffee
Commissary and Bakery:
1612 Fulton St. Phone West 2549

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, ETC.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
73 W. Van Buren St.
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
645 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1627 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

FURNISHED ROOMS, APARTMENTS AND BUNGALOWS.
REDS COMING TO WASHINGTON, D. C.
Furnished Rooms, $10 to $25 a Month.
Apartments, $25 to $60 a Month.
Bungalows, $45 to $75 a Month.
Mrs. Bateler, 32 G Street, S. W.
Washington, D. C.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. (Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:

$6.00 per year $3.50—6 months $2.00—3 months

By mail (in Chicago only):

$8.00 per year $4.50—6 months $2.50—3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to THE DAILY WORKER 1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL } ..... Editors
WILLIAM F. DUNNE }
MORITZ J. LOEB ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923 at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

280 Advertising rates on application.

"Open Shop" Campaign in the Schools

Teachers in the public schools of Chicago returned to work yesterday. At the same moment they were made to realize that a real "boss" has been put in charge of them, in the person of Superintendent William A. McAndrew, who let it be known in the public press that the teachers are a poor lot of incompetents who do not earn the tremendous salaries paid them by the philanthropic capitalists of the city. It must have been encouraging to the teachers to begin a year's work with such greetings from the man placed in power above them—at least if capitalistic ideas of management of industries, which means slave-driving, holds good in the schools also.

Especially are the teachers' councils anathema to this factory foreman, who has been transformed into head of the educational system of the second largest city in America. To him the schools are a "business" institution to be run on exactly the same lines of Henry Ford's business, or the business of Judge Gary. Organization of the teachers to protect their interests and promote their work, is branded by this educational "open shopper" as organized disloyalty.

Thus does the operation of the capitalist system disillusion continually wider sections of the middle classes, as well as the workers. Especially are the intellectual workers coming to find that the capitalist system places continually more limitations, humiliations, and obstructions to all really creative intellectual work. When they see the most promising development in the educational field, the teachers' councils, so viciously assailed, the teachers—if they have any self-respect and pride in their work, not to speak of any class feeling—will cling to and fight for the retention and development of these councils with redoubled energy.

An Anarchist Joins Wall Street

Clarence Darrow, much in the public eye as the defender of young millionaire slayers, has long been known for his professions of philosophical anarchism. His philosophy, which includes the view that life is not worth living, has never prevented him from demanding and receiving quite fat fees for his court room eloquence. Nor does it detract one whit from the passion of his appeal to save lives that, under the best of circumstances, are not, according to his philosophy, worth living. And now we see that philosophical anarchism is no bar to becoming a prominent political supporter to the Morgan lawyer who is running for president of the United States.

Not only does Clarence Darrow find it quite easy to support Davis for president, but Davis, in turn, displays alacrity in welcoming the prominent anarchist into the fold of democracy. The pleasure in the relations thus set up seems to be quite mutual. Which is as it should be: If Darrow can overlook the long established payroll connections of Davis with Morgan, surely Davis can pardon any little philosophical abberations of Mr. Darrow.

How Ambassadors Are Made

When Edgar Allen Bancroft, an obscure Chicago lawyer, was appointed ambassador to Japan a few days ago, all the claims to fame that could be dug up for the gentleman by an army of diligent reporters was the fact that he had written a book many years ago, denouncing the Pullman strike of 1893-94. Since that time he has plodded upon his rounds from court to court, earning his more or less honest fees by the recognized methods of the profession, without being able to demand any headlines in the papers. That Coolidge should suddenly dig him up from obscurcity to represent American capitalism in Japan must, therefore, have some connection with Bancroft's only recorded public act, the book denouncing the Pullman strike.

This conviction will surely be strengthened by a reading of Mr. Bancroft's book. It is one long denunciation of the principle of the solidarity of labor. Very stupidly written, it is true, yet the book displays such an intense hatred of united action by the workers that, without question, it was this which awoke a feeling of fellowship in the breast of Strikebreaker Coolidge and brought the appointment as ambassador to Japan.

A strong hatred of labor unions is quite a fitting quality for an American ambassador to have, especially in Japan, where one of the principal ways American capitalism may bring the Oriental ruling classes under their influence, is to show them how to fight their own rising subject classes. Mr. Bancroft will be given opportunity, no doubt, to lecture before the young lawyers of Japan upon the immorality of force when exercised by the working class to remedy its grievances, and the glorious beneficence of force when the capitalist class uses it to suppress the workers.

What Do You Mean, Wheeler?

Senator Wheeler is quoted as saying in his Portland speech: "We are trying to save the country, take it from Wall Street and replace it in the hands of the common people, the workers and farmers, to which it belongs."

What do you mean, Senator? Were you thinking of the workers and farmers when you waited for millionaire Vanderlip to draft you for the campaign? And you must have some responsibility for what the LaFollette-Wheeler organization is doing in the various states: Is it consideration for the workers and farmers that caused your campaign to be taken out of the hands of the Farmer-Labor Party in Minnesota and placed in the hands of bankerSinclair? It is the intesets of the workers and farmers that caused your manager, J. Nelson, to go into Missouri and demand that workers and farmers give way to business and professional men on your committees? Is it consideration for workers and farmers that makes your organization function everywhere as the destroyers of the beginnings of class political organization in the budding Farmer-Labor parties?

No, Senator Wheeler, your record and that of LaFollette shows that you want the workers and farmers in just the same way that Coolidge and Davis want them—that is, not to control your organization, but to deliver votes. In the meantime you proceed to sabotage every vital demand of the workers and farmers, to hand your organization over to bankers, lawyers, merchants, and doctors, and to depend in your campaign entirely upon demagogic denunciations of the old parties for the very crimes against the workers and farmers which you, yourself, commit with your running mate, LaFollette. Your concession to workers and farmers by giving them mention in your speech is a gesture; it means nothing while they are frozen out of all control and direction of the campaign. There is only one organization in this campaign in which the workers and farmers have a voice, and that is the Workers Party.

A Disgraceful Fraternization

The "Labor Day" celebration under the direction of the Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York was an illustration of the corruption that is eating the heart out of the American labor movement. Supposedly a demonstration of the strength of labor, it was turned into a militaristic demonstration and practically handed over to the officers of the army to conduct. Held at Fort Hamilton, this "labor" demonstration included a sham battle, a polo game (the sport of millionaires and kings), and speeches by republican and democratic politicians.

And what were the speeches about? Secretary of Labor Davis spoke, demanding that the workers produce more each day, and warning against the "visionary" demand for nationalization of industries. Major General Bullard called for co-operation between the officers of the army and the officers of the labor unions. Sam Gompers sent a special carrier pigeon with a message to bless the union of the capitalist army with the labor of ficials. The whole was capped by the sham battle, which demonstrated how well fitted the army is to suppress any labor union that refuses to "co-operate."

Fraternization with the army on the part of the workers is a good thing—if it is a fraternization of the rank and file with the rank and file, the establishment of the mutual interests of the work ers in and out of the army as against the interests of the capitalists, officers, and "labor leaders" that join hands in a conspiracy at the top to suppress and corrupt the labor movement. This New York demonstration was the opposite. It was a fraternization of the misleaders of the labor movement with the class enemies of the workers. It was the preparation for future treachery, when both army and labor leaders will deliver the workers, bound and helpless, over the exploiters who direct and control the army and all the other instruments of coercion in America today.

United States Takes Charge

News dispatches report that Owen D. Young, head of the General Electric Company, has gone to Berlin to take charge of affairs in Germany, while the German government has made the first payment, according to the schedule of the Dawes plan.

Thus has the United States, without a single official action of its "legal" governing machinery, been placed in the center of the European chaos. The capitalist "underground" party, the group of financiers headed by Morgan, spoke their will and it was done. The "labor" and "socialist" governments jumped, like the capitalist puppets that they are, when Morgan pulled the string. Officially the Dawes plan is "put across."

But the actual operations of the Dawes enslaving machinery will not be so simple. It will act like a blazing sun upon the seeds of revolution with which the capitalist world is sown. And to operate the Dawes plan will require the suppression of the proletarian revolution in Germany and Central Europe generally. That is the task assumed for the United States by J. P. Morgan and his agents. That is the meaning of the act of Owen D. Young taking charge of the reparations machinery. The next conscription act in the United States may be for the purpose of sending young workers to Germany to destroy the German Soviets.

With so many "deals" in progress for supporting candidates on the republican and democratic tickets, it is little to be wondered at that the La Follette camp is full of dissention and strife. Each man wants to cash in for his particular gang.

Rally To International Youth Day

RALLY to International Youth Day, is the call now being heard all over the country in the ranks of the revolutionary young workers. Under the direction of Young Workers League of America, American section of the Young Communist International, demonstrations have been arranged for in every large city in the country. Thousands of young workers will flock to the standards of Communism on this Tenth Anniversary of International Youth Day.

On the anniversary, the Young Workers League of America has issued the following call:

* * *

To the Young Workers of America.

Comrades, Fellow Workers:

The young workers of this country are facing many problems which they must meet.

Already unemployment has gripped the workers of this country, young and old, and millions are walking the street without the hopes of getting a job.

The curse of the working class of this country, child labor, is as great a menace to the welfare of labor as ever.

Preparing For War.

Everywhere preparations are being made to draw the youth of America into the net of capitalist militarism to train them for the slaughter of the next war which is being worked out in the chambers of the capitalists of this country.

Instead of the last world war having brought a change for the better in the life of the workers of America; instead of the various capitalist presidents and congresses having accomplished anything that would aid the workers of this country, the conditions of labor have become worse and worse every day. Exploitation becomes sharper and more bitter in the greed of the bosses for greater profits. The more that is produced the nearer does the worker get to joblessness. With the coming of unemployment the capitalist seeks a market for his capital and his surplus product and comes in conflict with other capitalists with the result that another war hovers and descends over the nation.

These dangers of unemployment, poverty and war are daily becoming greater.

While the bosses pile up millions of dollars in profits out of the toil of the workers, two million toilers find themselves without a means of life.

While the returned soldiers are not yet recovered from the horrors of the last war, preparations are being made for the next.

Fight Wage Cuts.

With the coming of unemployment, the bosses are engaging in a huge campaign to cut the wages of the workers. In this drive they always use the young workers to scab on the adults in the event of a strike. This must be resisted by every honest young toiler. Instead of being a traitor to the working class, We must line up with the adult workers, unemployed and employed in an organization of the unemployed in order that the bosses may find us united solidly against wage reductions and increases in the working day.

Instead of the cuts in wages, we demand work or maintenance by the government and industry, the young workers to be trained under the supervision of the trades unions during the period of unemployment.

Down With Mobilization Day.

As a step in the direction of the militarization of the youth of this country for the purpose of having cannon fodder for the next war of profits, the imperialists of this country have laid plans for a nation wide demonstration on September 12, called Mobilization Day. The United States, as well as the capitalist powers elsewhere, is preparing for the coming war in which the young workers will again be sacrificed. The United States government, heeding the instructions of its masters, the financiers and capitalists, is pushing ahead the Dawes plan for the enslavement of the workers of the world in the interest of American capitalism. It is arousing the war-bringing antagonisms between itself and Japan, merely because American capitalists want to control the Pacific for the purpose of exploiting Asia and maintaining supreme rights over the Philippines.

Support Communist Ticket.

At home, the workers are in the midst of a presidential campaign, in which they are confronted with the Morgan candidates, Coolidge and Davis, with LaFollette, the betrayer of the workers, and with the Communist candidate, William Z. Foster. Only the Communists stand for the primary needs and ultimate goal of the proletariat and the young workers must rally to the support of their candidates, Foster and Gitlow.

International Youth Day is the day of the revolutionary young workers. It is the day when the class conscious youth unites to demonstrate its opposition to capitalism and its firm stand for the proletarian revolution!

Rally this year to the standards of the Young Workers' League!

Join in the fight for the program of the young Communists of America!

Unite for:

The six-hour day and five-day week for young workers.

A four weeks' vacation with pay each year.

The abolition of night and piece work, and the speed-up system for the young workers.

The abolition of child labor.

Join the struggle against:

Capitalist wars!

Mobilization days!

Unemployment and wage cuts!

Join the Young Workers League in the revolutionary struggle against capitalism.

Support the Communist candidates, Foster and Gitlow!

Rally to International Youth Day against Mobilization Day!

Long live the Soviet Russian Republic and the international proletarian revolution against capitalism!

Long live the Communist and Young Communist International!

National Executive Committee,
Young Workers League of America,
Martin Abern, Executive Secretary.

Unemployment Changes - By J. T. Murphy

ONE of the most interesting reports yet issued by the Minister of Labor has appeared this week on the changes in unemployment. It serves to shatter a lot of illusions as to who are the unemployed and enables to make a much more satisfactory explanation of some of the fluctuations in the organizations of the unemployed. Time and time again the fakers' brass band spouters have denounced the unemployed as a mob who don't want work, who are bleeding the exchequer white and living in the lap of chosen idleness. From all the terrible statements made concerning the unemployed it would be easy for us to convince of the unemployed as the great mob who had read, marked and learned Lafargue's "Right to be Lazy" and had made up their minds that the best way to apply his philosophy was to fall out of work and draw the "dole."

What'll They Say Now?

What these prize politicians will say now, we don't know. This report completely knocks the bottom out of the argument that it must leave them guessing. Instead of the unemployed being a more or less permanent section of the workingclass who can't get work, this report makes it perfectly clear that the personal of the unemployed is continually changing and that any changes that are to be made against them must be leveled against the whole working class. It is shown that 14 per cent of the personnel of the unemployed is changed every week. Further, that instead of the working class being divided into a section that is nearly permanently employed and a section that is almost permanently unemployed, that in any one year one in every three of insured workers claim unemployed benefit during the year. Out of 11,000 workers of the country, during the insurance year of November, 1922, to October, 1923, there were 3,767,000 claims for benefit.

The report goes still further and enables us to estimate the number and proportion of the workers in each of the main industries who in the course of the 11½ months of the insurance year presented themselves at the unemployment exchanges to claim unemployed benefit. They range from 82 per cent in the shipbuilding industry to 9.8 per cent of the workers in local government service.

The following table will show how this turnover of unemployed is spread over the various industries.

	Percentage of insured workers who claimed benefit	Average rate of Unemployment June-Dec.
	Men	1923
Shipbuilding	82	43.5
Shipping	66.1	19.1
Iron and Steel Mfg.	59.7	29.6
Engineering	59.1	20.0
Cotton	55.2	15.8
Building	48.6	12.4
Canal, River and Dock workers	46.0	24.4

Amongst women and girls 91.4 per cent in the hides and allied metal manufacturers had to draw on insurance, 67.9 per cent of the bread and biscuit workers, 65.6 per cent of the cotton workers and 51.9 per cent of the pottery workers, had to do likewise.

Another striking fact is that 52.8 per cent are under 25 years of age among the men and of these at least half are between 18 and 24 the years when they are coming out of apprenticeship and begin to lay claim to full tradesmen's wages.

Short Term Doles.

The average length of time on unemployed benefit is shown to be 75 days. The proportion of persons drawing benefit for not more than 4 weeks was 22.7, the proposition showing for 8 weeks is 33.6 per cent, for 12 weeks 47.2 per cent and for 24 weeks 69.4 per cent. In the shipping industry 16.1 per cent drew benefit for the whole 44 weeks.

This continual change over of the personnel of unemployed accounts for the many ups and downs of the unemployed movement and the immense difficulties that have to be overcome to establish and maintain anything like durable organization amongst the unemployed. How often, just as we have secured a capable organizer to tackle the job of organization in some particular district have we seen the organization spring up only to fall to pieces in a few weeks because the organizer had found a job. The number of unemployed may not be less but the new unemployed may have some slight resources which makes him a little indifferent to organization for a few weeks and there may not be amongst them the capable leaders for dealing with the question.

How often have we seen some district right in the forefront of the agitation only to find it all evaporated again in a few weeks. And here is the explanation. The unemployed are not a class of their own. They represent a continually recurring condition of the whole working class. To measure the strenght of the unemployed by their organization, their dues paying membership would therefore be a mistake. It can be shown that there were less number of the unemployed actually paying to the Unemployed Workers Committee at the time of the Great Hunger March when unemployment became the burning question of the day, than there are today when it is difficult to get an agitation going on the question.

The "Gap."

A variety of factors have operated—to take the sting out of the unemployed agitation not the least of which has been the abolition of the "gap" in unemployed pay. This gap was the interval between the periods of payment introduced by the Lloyd George crowd for the purpose of urging the unemployed to look more intensely for work. This report shows how futile and atrocious was this imposition. But now the "gap" has vanished it means the periodic drive of the masses to the local boards of guardians for poor Law relief has also vanished and the agitation thus caused has been eliminated.

Still there are more than a million on the unemployed register and so long as this state of affairs obtains an organization based upon unemployment has great scope. And indeed there are more workers subscribing to the National Unemployed Workers Committee than at any time since its inception. Its close association with the General Council of the Trades Union Congress along with the demonstration that unemployment hits the majority of the workers should insure the unemployed organization becoming the natural center of activity for the trades unionists especially who become unemployed. That is the tendency becoming more marked the longer the unemployed crisis exists.

The Communist Candidates—Look Them Over!

GORDON W. OWENS (colored), Workers Party candidate for Congress from the First Congressional District, Chicago.

Twenty-eight years of age, born in Chicago. Has grade school education. Began slaving in 1911 as A. D. T. messenger boy. Later became stockyards worker. Joined I. W. W. in 1914. Kicked out of Swift's Packing concern for urging unionism to fellow-workers. Commenced speaking publicly for a social revolution in 1919.

Joined Communist Party in 1920. Member of Workers Party since beginning. Is working today as general worker in printing housp.

* * *

JOSEPH PODKULSKI, Workers Party candidate for Congress from the Fourth Congressional District, Chicago.

Born in Austrian Poland, 1889; 35 years of age. Is a needle trades worker and has been working at that trade since age of 14 years, in Poland and the United States. Joined International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in 1919. He has been a member of the Executive and Joint Board of the I. L. G. W. U. In 1923 he was recording secretary of Local 104, I. L. G. W. U. Today is member Executive Board of local.

Is a delegate to the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Former member socialist party both in Poland and America. Joined Workers Party at its formation. Is Assistant Secretary, Polish Federation, Workers Party.

* * *

HYMAN EPSTEIN, Workers Party candidate for Congress from the Fifth Congressional District, Chicago.

Started working when 13 years of age. Joined trade union movement in 1901. Has been steady member of union sinnce 1910. Was member of United Garment Workers, Local 21. Now member of Amalgamated Clothing Workers, Local 61, since 1917. Like other workers, has been blacklisted often in labor's struggle for freedom from exploitation. Has put efforts into Amalgamated to make it a truly class conscious and revolutionary union. Aided in attempt to organize electrical workers in clothing industry in 1919. A. C. W. sent him to conduct strike of clothing workers in Detroit in 1922. Strike lasted 14 weeks.

Joined socialist party in 1904. Left S. P. in 1921 and joined the Workers Party when organized.

* * *

Comrades out gathering signatures to place Workers Party candidates on the ballot are often asked by workers they visit to tell something about the candidates. That is right. Above we are giving a synopsis of the lives of our Communist candidates. Histories of the other candidates will be printed in coming issues of the DAILY WORKER. Clip these items and use them in your work of gathering signatures. They will help you considerably. Get acquainted with the Workers Party candidates and then help acquaint other workers with them.

The Dictatorship of the Proletariat

"THERE is only one way in which the exploitation of the workers and farmers of this country can be ended. That is thru the workers organizing their mass power, ending the capitalist dictatorship and establishing the Workers' and Farmers' Government.

"In place of the capitalist dictatorship there must be established the rule of the workers. The governmental power must be used in the interest of the workers and farmers as it is now used by the capitalist dictatorship in the interest of the capitalist class."—From the election program of the Workers Party of America.

INTERNATIONAL YOUTH DAY MEET HERE ON SUNDAY

Young Workers League in Demonstration

MOBILIZATION DAY, Sept. 12, has accentuated the importance of International Youth Day, which is to be held on Sept. 7, at 8 p. m., in the Northwest Hall, under the auspices of the Young Workers League, to such an extent that the youth movement of this country is planning to put all its organizational strength into a stirring campaign against imperialism.

Youth Day will be celebrated all over the country this year on the basis of specific demands and especially as a protest against the imperialist wars.

The speakers for the Chicago meeting are John Edwards, recently returned from the Fifth Congress of the Communist and Fourth Congress of the Young Communist International; Earl Browder of the Trade Union Educational League and J. Louis Engdahl of the DAILY WORKER.

Youth Day is the most important celebration of the Young Communist International and in Russia is a legal holiday. It is celebrated with fervor in Germany, France, Sweden and other European countries. In the United States, Youth Day is growing in importance, especially since the Young Workers League of America is the only working class youth organization fighting for immediate and ultimate demands of the Young Workers in this country as well as in the interest of the child laborers.

There is no doubt that the campaign against mobilization carried on by the Young Workers League will develop into a militant Communist struggle against militarist wars. The Young Workers League on Youth Day are striving to bring out the class nature of capitalist wars as something which is being hidden under a maze of words by the present pacifist activity.

Because of its importance, Youth Day celebration in Chicago is expected to be without question the best attended gathering of young workers, party members and sympathizers that has yet been staged in this city.

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1922, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

YALE UNIVERSITY NOV 5 LIBRARY

Communist Candidates
For President:
WILLIAM Z. FOSTER.
For Vice-President:
BENJAMIN GITLOW.

Vol. II. No. 143. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

DAWES PLAN TO BRING NEW WAR

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

HELL AN' MARIA DAWES declares the country is face to face with an abnormal condition because of disrespect for law. We have not yet read in the papers that capitalists are getting tarred and feathered or lynched because of their disrespect for law. Fall, Daugherty? But it is no "abnormal condition" to learn of a worker being outraged by some self-appointed custodian of the law. General Dawes has no words of condemnation for the lawless Hoodlums who raided the I. W. W. hall in San Pedro causing the death of some of those who happened to be in the hall at the time. He knows that none of the culprits have yet been arrested, yet he does not protest.

* * *

DAWES blames demagogues for the growing disrespect for law and order. Disrespect for capitalist law is growing sure enuf. But the surprising thing is that its growth is so slow. Radicals have pointed out for decades how this law operates in favor of the ruling class in society. But the masses are skeptical. Once in a while something happened that shook their confidence in the capitalist system. But they have short memories. "Constant dropping wears away a stone" and thick tho the average skull may be, repeated proof of capitalist contempt, for law except when it suits capital, is beginning to produce a heavy crop of skepticism.

* * *

THE Harding administration, or in other words, the gang of burglars that moved into Washington with the genial rubber stamp from Marion, did more to convince the American workers that the government is simply a gigantic conspiracy against law and order, except such laws as serve the purpose of the master class, than millions of Communist leaflets and thousands of speeches from the mouths of "demagogues," tho the latter doesn't agree with the doughty general of the Minute Men of the Constitution.

* * *

WHAT opened the eyes of the General (We will call him general for convenience sake, tho how he got the title is beyond us) to the great danger that confronts law, was the Herrin riot of 1922 when several murderous strikebreakers were disposed of for the good of the community. This got the general's dander up and he organized the Minute Men of the Constitution in order to give union men a lesson. If the courts wouldn't send union men to the gallows, why Hell an' Maria would. But there are too many workers in the United States and only for their passivity and their confounded patience, a Dawes would be hard to find. The General does

(Continued on page 6)

"Big Biz" in War on Teachers

PARENTS KEEP UP FIGHT ON JUNIOR HIGHS

Mayor Dever Does Not Live Up to Pledges

By ELSA BLOCH

Parents of children who have been forced to leave the Harper school because of its transformation into a Junior High school will continue their fight for an injunction restraining the Board of Education from putting its order into effect, when they present an amended bill before Judge Fred Rush of the Circuit court today.

Yesterday's meeting of the parents at the school became almost a riot, in spite of the fact that they met under the supervision of a detail of police. A gang of children invaded the school grounds and began to throw bricks, breaking several windows.

Members of the Board of Education, most of whom are business men, almost unanimously approved the report of Superintendent William McAndrew.

Fight Against Federation.

"This report is nothing but another attempt on the part of Superintendent McAndrew to break up the Teachers' Federation, to reorganize the teachers' councils so that they will be controlled from above, to change the wage scale in such a manner as to drive out rebellious teachers, and to blind the public to the real cause of inefficiency in the Chicago public schools—official graft," one of the organizers of the Teachers' Federation told the DAILY WORKER.

"It has been the policy of the teachers' councils to permit no principals or other officials at their sessions, so that the teachers might say what they thought, and not what they are supposed to think. McAndrew's plan is to reorganize these councils in such a way that some official will be present at these meetings.

Tries to Ape Chadsey.

"The idea which McAndrew is trying to put over in changing the scale of salaries so that teachers will be promoted on the basis of efficiency and not of seniority was held by Superintendent Chadsey, who had charge of the Chicago schools two years ago. Chadsey had a long record of firing experienced teachers who had been in the service for years, and who therefore commanded high wages, and of substituting young and inexperienced teachers at a low wage. Those teachers who stayed were, of course, those willing to swallow whatever the school board told them.

"The teachers of Chicago managed to have Chadsey fired. Now McAndrew is trying to put the same thing over on us.

He's Superintendent for Business.

"McAndrew was brought here from New York by the business interests of Chicago. His first act was to address the Chamber of Commerce and to ask for instructions on how to run the schools. He was told, of course, that greater efficiency in penmanship and in arithmetic was needed.

"McAndrew's report stresses the need for greater efficiency in the "three R's."

Officials of the Chicago Teachers' Federation refused to make any statement concerning the action to be taken by the union. It was intimated, however, that the Federation was disappointed in the failure of Mayor Dever, for whose election Margaret Haley, business agent of the union, fought last spring, to take action against the graft and corruption that are widespread in the school system.

Held For Shooting.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 4.—Paul Cadirakis, 25, a Greek, was arrested and placed in jail here today in connection with the shooting of Mrs. Ettess Vatikes, 26, and James Multikis, 38, the woman's former husband, who were found dead on the Vatikes farm, two miles south of Briso, Wednesday.

WORLD TO RECOGNIZE SOVIETS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SARATOV, Russia, Sept. 4.—Speaking upon the same spot where he was attacked 23 years ago by Imperial cossacks and nearly beaten to death, President Rykov of the Soviet Council of People's Commissars, today predicted that "all capitalist countries" would eventually have to recognize the Soviet government.

Rykov is making a tour of the famine stricken regions.

"Famine is a heritage of the czars," said Rykov, addressing sixty thousand peasants and workers from the balcony of the Saratov theatre. "Periodically famine strikes the people of this region. We must fight the plague as we fought the enemy on the battle front. We will surely win thru energy and systematic farming. Russia will again become Europe's granary. Soviet Russia's enemies tried to capitalize this famine and renewed their propaganda and hostilities against the soviets."

Saratov is Rykov's birthplace and he was encircled by the peasants, his old time neighbors. Bells were rung and sirens blown. The religous minded prayed in the streets, giving thanks for relief supplies. These supplies of seeds and grain are being distributed thruout the whole famine region simultaneously.

It was here that Rykov led an anti-czarist demonstration 23 years ago and nearly lost his life as a result when attacked by cossacks.

Rykov disdained acclamations of "Our Savior" and waved aside a military guard that had been provided for him. He drove his horse thru the streets to the home of his sister and other relatives who live in an obscure quarter.

Later in the day the President addressed the local soviet in the theatre, saying in part:

"All capitalistic countries, like England, will soon realize the imperative necessity of normal relations with Russia. But this can be attained only thru recognition of Russia's revolutionary conquest."

BRITISH LABOR CONGRESS HEARS SOVIET LEADER

Tomsky Attacks the Dawes Plan

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

HULL, England, Sept. 4.—M. Tomsky, Chairman of the All-Russian Council of Trade Unions, addressing the British Trade Union Congress, attacked the Dawes Plan which, he said, "seizes the German proletariat by the throat."

"The Dawes Plan will prove an apple of discord for Europe and it will mean that England will erect a tariff wall. The world will then return to the vicious pre-war system."

Another fraternal representative to the British labor congress was Peter Brady, representing the American Federation of Labor. Brady and Tomsky are as far apart as the poles in their opinions and in their life histories.

U. S. Faker Talks.

Brady in a stupid speech tried to cater to the nationalism which he exhibited to find in the congress by saying that America did not win the war. The United States was opposed to Bolshevism and all other forms of "isms" which do not mean democracy, declared the American labor faker.

Peter Brady is a Tammany Hall hack politician, who has lived and grown rich at the expense of the workers. His position of chairman of the Allied Printing Trades Council of New York has enabled him to secure a good price for his Tammany Hall services.

Political Grafter.

He holds down a sinecure in New York City as editor of the City Record, a little booklet which gives the names and addresses of the city, state and government offices located in the city.

Tomsky on the other hand has devoted his useful life to the service of labor. He spent 15 years in Siberia as a prisoner of the Czar and was a member of the Soviet delegation that signed the Anglo-Russian treaty.

CORONER'S JURY BLAMES KLAN FOR HERRIN MURDERS

Sheriff Galligan and Aids Exonerated

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

HERRIN, Ill., Sept. 4.—The situation in Williamson County again became tense this afternoon when a coroner's jury in the inquest into the slaying of six men in Saturday's rioting returned a verdict virtually exonerating Sheriff George Galligan and all members of the anti-klan faction involved in the disturbances.

Smith already is at liberty under bond, having been arrested on one of nine warrants issued by State's Attorney Delos Duty, Sunday, in connection with the killings.

The verdict was a complete surprise as it had been tacitly agreed that the inquest would be more or less of a formality and that the real testimony would not be presented until the case went to the grand jury in about two weeks. With one exception, the only witnesses heard were listed as pro-Klan and the decidedly anti-Klan verdict is a complete upset of predictions.

Klan Threatens.

Anti-Galligan factions this afternoon were discussing the verdict in little groups about the streets and muttered threats were made with little attempt at concealment. It is generally conceded that if any of Galligan's men again attempt to arrest Smith, trouble will start and Williamson county is girding its loins and waiting.

No further action has been taken by Capt. Bigelow, in charge of the militia detail here, but he is scheduled to address members of the Klan tonight in furtherance of his "peace plan" for Williamson county and both factions late this afternoon were apparently awaiting results of this conference.

The verdict finds that Bud Allison, a Galligan deputy, came to his death at the hands of "Green" Dunning, a Klan sympathizer, that Dunning was killed by Allison; and that Chester Reid, a brother-in-law of Dr. J. H. Black, head of the Herrin City Hospital, was killed by John Smith, owner of the garage where the shooting started.

It recommends that Smith be held for the grand jury on a charge of murder.

In the case of Otto Roland, Dewey Newbold and Charles Willard, the latter two alleged members of the Klan, an open verdict fixing no responsibility for their deaths was returned.

Glenn Young Indicted.

DANVILLE, Ill., Sept. 4.—S. Glenn Young, imported dry raider of William county, was named in five of seven indictments returned by a federal grand jury here today charging members of raiding parties with impersonating government officers.

Those indicted, including Young, who now is believed to be in Atlanta, Ga., will be tried at the November term of the federal court, which will sit at East St. Louis.

Warrants for the arrests of those

(Continued on page 2)

Communists Go on the Ballot in Pennsylvania

Joseph Manley, Campaign Manager of the Workers Party, received enthusiastic reports yesterday from the party's organizers, Abram Jakira, at Philadelphia, and Israel Blankenstein, at Pittsburgh, stating that the petitions had been filed for all Communist candidates. Hundreds of signatures, more than those required, were turned in, the report stated.

This means that not only the national Communist ticket, William Z. Foster for president, and Benjamin Gitlow for vice-president, but also the entire ticket goes on the Pennsylvania ballot.

This means that in this steel and coal trust state, home of the coal and iron police, for the first time in history, a Communist Party will take part in a great election struggle.

First in the list of states to put the Workers Party on the ballot was the great wheat-growing state of North Dakota. Now comes the second, the greatest industrial area in the world. The message of Communism is indeed becoming a reality both on the land and in the industries.

COL. HASKELL URGES SOVIET RECOGNITION

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Sept. 4.—Colonel William N. Haskell, chief of the American Relief Mission to Russia from 1921 to 1923, advocated a conference between Russia and the United States looking toward resumption of relations between the two countries, in a lecture at the Institute of Politics here.

His lecture was entitled "Russia and its Problems" and was a flat contradiction of the lies peddled by Boris A. Bakhmetieff and the socialist stoolpigeon John Spargo, who delivered vicious attacks on Soviet Russia a few days ago before the same body.

Haskell was supported in his position by Arthur Ruhl, noted author and war correspondent, and by Elmer G. Butland.

Messrs. Bakhmeteff and Spargo had portrayed present day Russian policy as suicidal to Russia and also inimical to our present civilization. Spargo was particularly incensed because the Soviet government opposed the Dawes Plan.

Slammed Renegades.

Colonel Haskell was not easy with the two renegades. He was to Russia many times during the Czar's regime and is in a position to compare the conditions that existed then and the conditions under which the workers and peasants live at the present time.

(Continued on Page 6)

BROTHER OF KU KLUX FAVORITE JUMPS ON LA FOLLETTE WAGON

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Malcolm M. McAdoo, brother of Wm. Gibbs McAdoo, today put himself solidly behind the campaign of the LaFollette-Wheeler presidential ticket and was elected treasurer of the progressive party organization in New York state.

CHARGE SHADY BANK DEAL TO CALVIN'S MATE

By LAURENCE TODD.

(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Charley Dawes' record in the banking game grows worse and more astonishing as it is uncovered. But it does explain why Dawes was sent to Europe, and why he was later nominated by the republican convention.

Dawes is the boy who threw into a receiver's hands the great Globe bank in Boston, twenty-five years ago, and forced the sale of its assets, including certain copper stocks which would determine control of the Anaconda properties in Montana, in the midst of a desperate fight by Augustus Heinze to prevent Standard Oil from gaining that control.

The stocks were sold by the receiver to Standard Oil. Anaconda Copper became an asset of Standard Oil. And Dawes afterward organized a small bank, into which Standard Oil promptly delivered a deposit of $5,000,000, which remained there and enabled Dawes to grow rich.

Go back to the Boston newspapers of Dec. 22, 1899, for the story of the sudden closing of the Globe Bank. Its president, Cole, was obliged to resign. Afterward he was sent to the penitentiary for misuse of funds. But when the bank was first closed it showed a surplus of $120,000 and assets far above its liabilities. Dawes, then comptroller of the currency, had been visited by a committee of Boston financiers, who had heard of his intention, and had offered to put many millions behind the institution. The Boston Clearing House did put up $3,500,000, and Edward A. Clarke and William Coolidge, associates of Cole, put up $1,000,000 to cover any shrinkage in the value of the copper stocks which the bank had been buying. Dawes refused to let the Boston financiers save the bank. He sent Inspector Daniel Wing to Boston and had a receiver appointed.

Now, Dawes' chief, Lyman J. Gage,

(Continued on Page 4.)

REBELS STEER SHY OF LEAGUE, SAYS M'DONALD

Labor Premier Ignores Workers' Cause

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

GENEVA, Sept. 4.—"Russia believes in revolution instead of evolution, therefore it is understandable why the League of Nations is not attractive to Russia," declared J. Ramsay MacDonald, labor premier of Great Britain, today in a speech before the League of Nations Assembly.

MacDonald urged that Germany be admitted to the league without reservations. The strained relations between England and France could be seen running like a thread thru the British premier's speech.

Despite the friendly relations that outwardly appear to exist between Herriot and MacDonald, the clashing interests of the two rival powers cannot be composed by good fellowship.

Hands Lemon to U. S.

The British premier, in a very diplomatic and clever speech, made a plea for a reduction in land armaments and pointed to the Washington conference which resulted in Britain retaining her naval dominance, as an outstanding event in the movement for the outlawing of war.

That the Washington conference has not prevented the nations that participated in it from increasing their armaments was not admitted by MacDonald, but everybody here knows that it was a farce.

England is the principal backer of the League of Nations, but until the powerful United States enters it with both feet, it will be only a plaything.

For World Court.

In order to pave the way for the entrance of the United States MacDonald urged that an international arms conference be held in Europe. England would stand by the league conventions, he declared.

The latter was a slam at France which desires a military alliance against Germany. England having disposed of Germany as a rival for the domination of Europe, and also as a commercial rival, has picked on France for her next victim. Hence the jockeying of Mr. MacDonald to let Germany down as easy as possible.

(Continued on page 3)

ATTEMPT TO MAKE LEN SMALL COUGH UP MILLIONS NEARS END

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 4.—Closing arguments in the civil suits against Gov. Len Small were begun before Master in Chancery C. G. Briggle here today. A. E. Campbell, assistant attorney general, opened for the state. The arguments were expected to occupy six or seven days.

GOVERNOR STAYS INDIFFERENT TO NEW TESTIMONY

Hart Ignores Affidavits in Centralia Cases

(By Federated Press.)

SEATTLE, Sept. 4.—Governor Louis Hart of the state of Washington remains calmly indifferent when confronted with affidavits of three eyewitnesses of the raid by the American Legion on the I. W. W. hall at Centralia, Wash., on Armistice Day, 1919, according to the general defense committee.

New Testimony Confirmed.

Cecil DeWitte, a high school student, one of the new witnesses, testifies that he saw Lieut. Grimm, for whose murder eight members of the I. W. W. were sentenced for life, lead the attack on the hall before a shot had been fired. This story is confirmed by P. M. Crinion, who adds that he gave this information to the prosecuting attorney two days later, but was not summoned as a witness at the trial.

It will be recalled that recently six of the 12 jurors have made sworn statements that intimidation led them into voting a verdict of guilty.

The unsavory features of the Centralia trial, which mount higher as the years slip by with the victims still in prison, have led to caustic comments by such papers as the New Republic and by such writers as William Allen White.

Papers Demand Justice.

The Oklahoma Leader says: "These eight workers, imprisoned for life for attempting to defend their clubhouse against a mob of lawbreakers, should be pardoned. The state of Washington can ill afford to bring upon itself the odium which California's treatment of Tom Mooney has brought upon that state."

Votstead Breaks Happy Home.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Sept. 4.—The Volstead Law is no bar to Edward F. Eyett, Fort Wayne, obtaining large quantities of intoxicating liquors, according to a petition for a divorce filed by Mrs. Elfriede Eyett. She charges that her husband finally deserted her.

MINERS' HALLS BEAR WITNESS TO CLASS WAR

West Virginia Diggers Defended Homes

By ART SHIELDS.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

BRADY, W. Va., Sept. 4.—The roofless, concrete block foundation of the miners' union hall, burned down June 19, stands on the slope of union hilltop as a livid testimonial of the methods of warfare Sam Brady uses against the United Mine Workers of America. It stands just under the bigger brick building dedicated at the great mass meeting August 31, a year after the ceremonies that opened the first hall.

Bullet holes perforate the outer casing of the concrete blocks on the side looking towards the company town. I counted 19 such holes drilled thru the sides of the hollow blocks, in addition to the marks of numerous other bullets that merely pitted the artificial stone.

War Scars.

These war scars testify to the furious bombardment that raged from the automatic rifle nests in the water tank on the company side of the hill and in a tall yellow building several hundred yards away. They are the marks of the shots that went wild. Hundreds more passed thru the frame sides of the main hall floor.

This hall the "yellow dogs" were assaulting with the ferocity that characterized the airplane bomb raids of Don Chafin's forces in the south three years ago, was not an empty meeting place. It was the temporary home of two evicted families, who had not yet found permanent quarters—Henry Howell's wife with six children; Mrs. Annie Gillespie, with two children—and a squad of male defenders. The men were stationed there because of threats passed on from E. E. Wilson, who rents company houses, evicts strikers and takes personal charge of the Brady-Warner guards when Sam Brady isn't on the job himself.

Miners Defended Homes.

The miners kept sentinel over their hall since thug violence began with the evictions May 19th. Then 30 days later the attack came, shortly before midnight. A flash of light streaked from the water tank 200 yards away and a bullet whistled thru the building. The men hurled the women and children to the basement, later getting them out thru a back way, and took their stations.

More single shots followed and then the bombardment began in earnest. fusillades screaming from the water tank and the yellow building. The air was lighted by the flashes from automatic riflemen core to reinforce the regular Brady guards in the assault. Shots broke out more closely as the gunmen advanced. Able to catch glimpses of their foes the miners returned the fire and the gunmen retreated. For hours the firing continued. Suddenly Andrew Huber, a heavy-set, middle-aged miner went down with two buckshot in his back. Someone had sneaked up to the side of the building. A sortie of miners drove the assailant away. Huber returned to the defense only slightly injured. He was winged again slightly in the leg.

Sheriff with Gunmen.

The miners were making good their defense against the private thug army when the State of West Virgina came to the gunmen's aid. A hello was heard announcing that Sheriff Yost wanted to talk to the defenders. He entered the building. The men told of the attack and demanded that Yost arrest the gunmen. Instead the sheriff arrested Huber, Bryan Costell, Ray Cotterell and John Hutcheson, four miners. He took them under deputy guard to the town of Brady and locked them up in the Company Clubhouse in charge of Brady-Warner guards. Then he ordered the rest of the defenders to leave the hall for the night, pledging them that the building would be protected.

William McKinley Yost is a republican politician. His promise meant exactly the same as the promise of safe conduct made by other republican politicians to Sid Hatfield when he fatally surrendered to a warrant at Welch courthouse. Two hours after Yost made his promise of protection the miners' union hall, built at the cost of thousands of dollars contributed by the coal diggers, was lighting up Monongahela Valley.

New Union Hall.

The new union hall is of brick and cement thruout. It will not burn down so easily as the last one. And it has behind it the determination of union men who are determined to beat Sam Brady and the corporations behind him at all cost and to win thru again to union wages and union liberty.

Cases of the four men arrested were shortly dismissed. Their arrest appears to have been timed solely for the purpose of stripping the hall of its defenders while the gunmen applied the torch. None of the attacking gunmen have been arrested for assault with intent to kill, arson or any other crime, tho Murray and Conway, two of the thugs, admitted under cross examination in the circuit court in Morgantown last July during a hearing of an injunction against the union, that they knew they were firing into a building containing women and children.

LA FOLLETTE FORCES NOT WORRIED ABOUT SMALL'S KLAN TAINT

Charles J. MacGowan, LaFollette campaign manager for Illinois, isn't interested in the charges made by State's Attorney Deloe Duty of Williamson county that Governor Len Small, supported by the LaFollette forces for re-election, is a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

"The national campaign has nothing to do with state politics in any state," declared MacGowan, dismissing the whole matter.

The LaFollette manager confessed, however, that it was impossible for them to deliver the Klan vote to Small.

"In Illinois the American Federation of Labor has endorsed Len Small. The socialists are putting up their own candidate. Some of our people will also vote for the democrat, Jones."

When urged to give his views on Len Small's alleged connections with the Ku Klux Klan, and on the Klan itself, Congressman John M. Nelson, LaFollette's national campaign manager, declared:

"The senator (meaning LaFollette) is the only one who expresses an opinion on such things."

And there you are!

Elephant Campaign to Pull Stunt of the Covered Wagon

WASHINGTON, September 4.—In place of the "Golden Special" train which wrecked Hughes' chances with the women voters in the campaign of 1916, the Coolidge-Dawes managers are sending across the continent a caravan of six motor cars, starting from Plymouth, Vt., on Sept. 9 and following the Lincoln Highway. This time there will be no millionaires abroad, to be featured as the chief speakers. Instead there will be a crew of machine politicians from New England, who will hold whispering conferences with local leaders, after the fashion of the late Murray Crane, patron of Chairman Butler.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

SPLIT MOVE DEFEATED IN NOVA SCOTIA

Miners Refuse Break with U. M. W. of A.

By JOE NEARING
(Special to the Daily Worker.)

GLACE BAY, Nova Scotia, Sept. 4.—The miners of Nova Scotia have lined up solidly against Ben Legere's "One Big Union" in its attempt to split the ranks of the miners.

The locals on Cape Breton Island, containing about 8,000 miners, have definitely stated their position against a split and for staying inside the United Mine Workers of America, to settle accounts with the Lewis administration which treacherously betrayed them in 1923.

To the militants among the rank and file of the miners belongs the credit for opposing the "O. B. U." maneuvers. The provisional district executive board, appointed by Lewis last year when he deposed the district officers, did not raise a single finger to oppose the "O. B. U." On the contrary, the set quietly waiting for the miners to split, knowing that a split in the district would prolong their jobs as appointees of the Lewis machine.

Miners Reject "O. B. U."

In Pictou county the miners have decided against a split after a struggle. Many miners, who were in the west during the "O. B. U." split in 1919, still think that they should split. But in face of the opposition to this policy displayed by the militants among the rank and file, they were forced to abohdon their position.

But the profound disgust of the miners in Pictou with the Lewis gang of appointees in the district has led them to endorse the ridiculous proposition that they should get an injunction against the provisional district officers, and thus force Lewis to hold district elections immediately. They are also withholding their per capita tax and assessments from the international. In this way they are unconsciously playing into the hands of Lewis.

It is a well-known fact that the courts of this province are quite ready to help the corporation at any time, as has been demonstrated in the past. It is therefore quite safe to say that the Pictou miners could not get an injunction against the fools of the corporation who are occupying the district offices at Glace Bay for the time being. Even tho it were possible to get an injunction against them the militants are absolutely opposed to taking any action which would draw the capitalist courts into labor union affairs. Only the reactionaries in the labor movement do things like this, and then they are able to do it because the capitalist courts are willing to be used against the workers by the labor fakers.

Fight Wage Reduction.

The definite stand that the militants of Cape Breton are taking against the injunction idea will finally force the Pictou miners to abandon this ridiculous scheme.

The British Empire Steel Corporation is preparing to force the miners to accept a reduction of wages next January when the present contract expires. Recently, it is said, the provisional officers were informed by the corporation officials that there was to be a reduction of wages of the miners, and the corporation did not want any trouble in putting this over. The result of this information is that Houston, provisional president, has hurried to Indianapolis to see if this fits in with the policy of Czar Lewis.

The big job for the miners is to prepare for the battle with Besco next January. The first essential is solidarity and that is being achieved by the actions of the militants in fighting all suggestions of a split in the union.

Satan Gets a Bad Trimming; Morals of Hoosiers Saved

VINCENNES, Ind., Sept. 4.—Censorship on printed matter by the state of Indiana on the pretext of decency is in full sway in Vincennes. News dealers were served with notice over the signature of Mayor John Nelson that sale of periodicals banned by the Indiana attorney general must be discontinued and the magazines withdrawn from display under penalty of prosecution.

The periodicals banned are: Whirlwind, Secrets, It Confess, Hot Dog, Breezy Stories, Happy Hours, True Stories, Real Life, True Confessions, True Romances, Dream World, Flapper, Midnight, Saucy Stories, Fig Leaf, Pyjamas, Clever Stories, Tatler.

The McFadden Publishing Company gives evidence of fight. In place of True Stories, one of its publications here appeared on the stands a brochure presenting letters from Indiana pastors written in approval of the magazine.

YOUNG WORKERS WILL TAKE TO THE WOODS SEPTEMBER FOURTEEN

The Young Workers League of Chicago will finish a week's campaign against the Mobilization Day scheme of the militarist government with a hike into the Milwaukee woods, on Sunday, September 14.

All those wishing to participate in the hike are requested to meet at the end of the Milwaukee Avenue car line at 11 a. m.

SMALL OPERATORS BEING SQUEEZED OUT BY WALL ST.

Coal Trust Being Formed by Big Operators

By KARL REEVE
(Special to The Daily Worker)

MARION, Illinois, September 4.—The closing down of the mines in Southern Illinois, and the over-production of coal has been used by the large coal companies to squeeze out the little coal operators and complete the organization of the Coal Trust headed by Wall Street.

Many of the small mines here will never open again under the present owners but will be taken over by the railroads and the large coal operators association. An example of the process taking place all over the mining fields of Illinois is the sheriff sale announced at the court house here of property of the Sunnyside Coal company, a small independent mine.

"By virtue of transcription from the Municipal Court of Chicago," says the notice of the bankrupt sale. "The Circuit Court of Williamson County announces judgment against the Sunnyside mining company in favor of the Republican Coal Company of 34 mine mules belonging to the Sunnyside Coal Company."

Miners Forced To Wall

Miners who have accumulated a little property have also been forced to the wall by the depression in industry, and the sheriff, George Galligan, is kept busy dividing his time between rounding up law-breaking Klansmen and conducting sheriff sales.

The banks of the county are taking over much land and property of bankrupt miners and farmers. The City National Bank of Herrin received a judgment against Joe Tonelle, and sold out his interest in a Herrin Hotel. O. A. Green, of Herrin sold out the property of S. D. Loni and Mario Loni, when they could not pay their debts. A judgment was granted against J. J. Zoller and Adam Zoller when they could not pay the Citizens Trust and Banking company. Seventy acres was disposed of. These are only a few of the many sheriff sales being conducted in Williamson County.

Farewell to Studebaker

The Marion State and Savings Bank sold out the farm of Henry Nicholson, and Udell Gangle forced Charlie and Nettie Caplinger to dispose of a Studebaker car to meet their debts.

Marion now has a population of 9,000, her lost 5,000 population within the last year. Many mines are shut down in the vicinity of this town. The Atwood mining company, employing 200 men, is closed, the Peabody mine No. 3, a small mine, is working only 3 days a week. The Big Muddy coal company, employing 200 is shut down, and the Gent mine, employing 200 is also closed.

Foster Speaks on Defense Day, Sept. 12, at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 4.—William Z. Foster, the Party's candidate for President, will speak at the Musical Fund Hall 8th and Locust Sts., Friday, Sept. 12th. (Defense Day).

Party Branches are instructed, sympathetic organizations are requested to cancel all meetings or affairs arranged by them for that evening.

Circulars, tickets, throwouts, show cards etc. will be out soon. Do not wait till you get your material thru the branch. Stop into the office and get your supply. Branches will receive 2 tickets per member and should make every possible effort to sell them.

The Foster Meeting must be made the most enthusiastic Communist Rally that Philadelphia has seen. It will surely be an opportune moment. The workers of Philadelphia will answer the Capitalist Mobilization Call on Defense Day by pledging full support to the candidate for the presidency—the Communist, William Z. Foster.

To work comrades: Wake up the sleepy ones and speed up the work in our First Communist Campaign.

Swipe $112,000 in Checks.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 4.—Two bandits who sprang from an automobile on the city's main thoroughfare today held up and robbed William Smith, bank messenger, of $112,000 in checks. The bag of checks was found a few minutes later.

Vote Communist This Time!

Sowing the Seed that Will Some Day Bring Communist Harvest

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, the mightiest task of the American Communist movement is getting its candidates, the candidates of the Workers Party, on the official ballot for the national election in November.

It is a great effort for a youthful political organization of workers, harrassed on every side by the attacks and prejudices of the established social order. But the results being achieved are magnificent.

* * *

It is possible, with a little work on the part of all party members and sympathizers, to get our candidates on the ballot in a large number of states, along with candidates for state and local offices.

It should be a spur to the workers in the great industrial centers, where labor is massed by the millions of human beings, to know that the first state to put the Communist ticket—William Z. Foster, for president, and Benjamin Gitlow, for vice-president—on the ballot is North Dakota, the center of agriculture in the northwest.

* * *

I was assigned by my party branch to Precinct No. 7, in Chicago's 30th Ward, to get signatures for our national, state and congressional candidates. The fact that there was no Labor Day issue of our paper enabled me to do this party work on Sunday morning, accompanied by Comrade Sam Hammersmark, our advertising manager, candidate for congress in the Seventh Illinois District.

This precinct, far out on the northwest side of Chicago, is closely peppered with the cottages of workers, who have escaped from the more populous tenement and cheap apartment house districts. Yet even here there flared unrest and discontent. Everywhere we find the disillusion of workers who had expected something from the old parties and failed to get it. What an opportunity for the Communist forces in America, if we could only take advantage of it, with our own meager numbers, organize this seething discontent and educate it, and lead it into action.

If this discontent, and disgust prevailed, in this neighborhood of cottages and flivvers, what must it be down in the Ghetto, in "Little Italy," in "New Poland" or in the "Black Belt"?

* * *

"I can't afford to live out here," an Italian trainman on the "Elevated" declared. "Yes, I belong to the union, and I earn $35 a week, but that isn't enough to raise a family."

This man lived down in the Italian slums in the 17th ward. He had just come west along Chicago Avenue to visit a friend.

* * *

They signed the Workers Party petition. There were only a few refusals. There was the man who wouldn't do such a thing on a Sunday. There was the wife who stood in awe of her husband, who was not at home, and she was afraid. And there was the worker who claimed to be so disgusted that he wouldn't sign anything.

But on the whole they gave their signatures to the petitions of the Workers Party to get the Communist candidates on the ballot. Even the democratic precinct committeeman signed. It must have been a mistake. It seems he did it to oblige a friend who was with him.

But we gave all who visited a copy of the DAILY WORKER, of the First Special Communist Campaign Edition. The democratic committeeman paled at the sight of it. He swore we had gotten his name under false pretenses. He said we had failed to tell him we were socialists.

* * *

Hammersmark and I contended we were not socialists, that we were Communists, that this was the Foster-Gitlow ticket; that the socialists were out for LaFollette.

"No, I know who you are," he persisted. "You are 100 per cent socialists. Communism is 100 per cent socialism."

This committeeman, in the argument that followed, confessed he was for Davis, because Davis was wet, and he claimed the neighborhood was wet. But he drew the line at Bryan. We left him promising to read his copy of the DAILY WORKER more thoroly. But he shook his head over the thought of his conversion to Communism.

* * *

So the story goes. The circulation of the petitions for the Communist candidates offers an open door to the home of every worker in the United States. Every party member should be on the job, not only getting signatures, but leaving Communist literature in every home that is visited. It is sowing the seed that will some day, in the not far distant future, make it possible to reap the Communist harvest in the United States of America.

LaFOLLETTE CAMPAIGN MANAGERS HAVEN'T SINGLE IDEA OF THEIR OWN ON UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM

LaFollette's campaigners, lodged in sumptuous headquarters at the Morrison hotel, are not bothered by the widespread unemployment conditions among the coal miners of the state.

So far as could be learned, none of the LaFollette backers among labor officials, not to mention the politicians, intends pushing the unemployment question at the Illinois Federation of Labor Convention at Peoria next week.

An Ignorant Congressman.

LaFollette's campaign manager, John M. Nelson, a congressman from Wisconsin, confessed absolute ignorance of unemployment conditions when interviewed by the DAILY WORKER.

Congressman Nelson was under the impression that there might be something about unemployment in the LaFollette program. He wasn't sure. But he was sure that he didn't know anything about it, and that the campaign he was conducting didn't touch it.

MacGowan Also Very Shy.

The congressman then passed the DAILY WORKER reporter on to Charles J. MacGowan, LaFollette's state campaign manager. But MacGowan was equally shy of the jobless problem that grips the state, especially the coal mining sections.

"Mr. LaFollette's Labor Day speech discusses the unemployment question," he countered. "LaFollette declares he is against national monopoly. The condition of the Illinois coal miners is only one example of the evils of national monopoly."

"How do you propose to do away with national monopoly?" was asked.

He Has No Opinion.

"Mr. LaFollette is considering all these matters," declared Mr. MacGowan.

"What is your opinion?" was the next question, but MacGowan was not hard pressed for an answer. It was:

"I agree with anything LaFollette proposes."

If the jobless workers of the state get hungry, or are turned out of their homes for failure to pay rent, the LaFollette campaign headquarters Morrison Hotel, Chicago, will send them a copy of one of LaFollette's speeches, or a copy of "His Program." But nothing concrete will be done to aid them.

BRITISH LABOR CONGRESS GETS UNITY PROJECT

International Merger Plan Proposed

LONDON, Sept. 4.—A move for international unity in the trade union movement was made at Hull today at the annual meeting of the Trades Union Congress by the introduction of a resolution calling for British labor's endorsement of a joint congress of the Amsterdam International and the Red International of Labor Unions, based on proportional representation, for the purpose of merging the union movement of the world.

Unity Resolution Proposed.

The resolution, introduced by Harry Pollitt, prominent member of the Boilermakers' union, and leader of the Red International of Labor Unions in England, aroused the fury of the old reactionary guard of the Trades Union Congress, who did their best to oppose the plan for unity.

Will Thorne, member of parliament and a remnant of the old social-democratic movement in the British isles, attacked the proposal vigorously. "Any kind of unity between us and Moscow is out of the question," he said. Thorne and his fellow parliamentarians prefer unity at the king's table at Buckingham palace to international working class unity.

A. A. Purcell, also an M. P., who presided at the sessions, and who is being driven toward the left by the rising protests of the rank and file, was inclined to agree with the proposal.

Dawes Plan Attacked.

Purcell in his address assailed the Dawes plan, stating that the burden of the reparations should be placed on the shoulders of the exploiter and profiteer, instead of the workers. He pointed out that the eight-hour day would be sacrificed if the Dawes plan were put into effect and that international market conditions would soon bring down the wages and shoot up the working day of the workers of the rest of the world.

The miners in particular are opposing the Dawes plan at the congress.

Purcell also declared that the Anglo-Russian treaty would do much for Russia and would help the British workers.

RIVAL CHINESE ARMIES FIGHT NEAR SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI, Sept. 4.—Fighting has started between two rival armies twenty miles from here. The armed forces of the two nations are ready to butt in and the capitalist diplomats hope that as a result of the civil war they will be able to get a firmer hold on the economic life of China.

Foreign naval forces now here available for assistance in the event that the native hostilities threaten foreign interests include ten American destroyers and three gunboats under command of Admiral McVey; a British cruiser and two gunboats; a Japanese cruiser and three gunboats; two French cruisers and one Italian cruiser.

Czarists Are Hungry

The naval personell combined with the volunteer corps and police gives the foreign defense approximately 4,000 men. There is a possibility of 700 Russian "white" soldiers now quartered on the volunteers ships here may participate in the fighting soon.

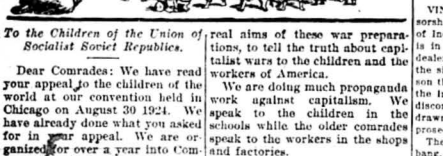
It is reported the Russians have offered to fight as mercenaries for the highest bidder. They arrived from Vladivostok two years ago and have since been interned here. They are plentifully supplied with rifles and machine guns.

Speeding Up and Wage Cut Follow Piece Work Plans

(By Federated Press.)

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 4.—A sidelight on piecework system comes to the fore by the complaint of agricultural implement workers that speeding up and rate cutting have followed introduction of piecework.

Employers put over piecework by the argument that they wanted increased output, and so the more the men earned the better their pay. They said there would be no rate cutting. Now the men find out that rates are fixed on the superior skill of the fastest hands, and in due course the less skilled find themselves unable to earn a decent wage for a fair day's work.



To the Children of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

Dear Comrades: We have read your appeal to the children of the world at our convention held in Chicago on August 30 1924. We have already done what you asked for in your appeal. We are organized for over a year into Communist Children Groups. We are known as "The Junior Section of the Young Workers League," or as "The Junior Groups."

The capitalists of this country are organizing a mobilization day on September 12 for new wars. We are going to do all in our power to help our older comrades from the Workers Party and the Young Workers League to disclose the real aims of these war preparations, to tell the truth about capitalist wars to the children and the workers of America.

We are doing much propaganda work against capitalism. We speak to the children in the schools while the older comrades speak to the workers in the shops and factories.

We, the Juniors, send our hearty greetings to the Leninists of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. We join in your appeal to the children of the world to organize Children's Communist groups to fight against wars and capitalism.

Signed: City Convention Junior Section N. W. L. of Chicago, U. S. A., August 30, 1924.

FOSTER HAS BIG MEETING IN ZIEGLER

Kluxers Threatened But Kept Their Shirts On

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

ZIEGLER, Ill., Sept. 4.—One thousand Southern Illinois miners from surrounding coal mines stood in the Park Pavilion last night, clapped and cheered the speech of William Z. Foster, presidential candidate of the Workers Party, and contributed several hundred dollars to the Communist campaign.

Rumors were spread thru town by the Ku Klux Klan yesterday that they were out to "get" Foster, and a few of them turned up at the meeting. But when they saw the mass of miners and the enthusiasm they displayed for the working class party, the Kluxers quickly turned tail and left the meeting.

Fight Fake Leaders.

"The miners of Southern Illinois are making a great fight today against the employers, but against the reactionary officials of the miners' union who by their class collaboration policies work hand in glove with the coal operators. The miners of Southern Illinois deserve great credit for the gallant fight they have made and are making against the open shop drive and against the unemployment thrust on them by the system of exploitation" Foster declared. "But officials like Frank Farrington who betray the miners and propose that the miners produce coal more cheaply, deserve no credit. They leave the field open for the coal operators to inject their campaign for the reduction of wages into the unemployment crisis."

Would Betray Workers

Foster declared La Follette would, if elected, betray the working class just as the Social Democrats sold out to the capitalists when the Communists of Germany were trying to establish a real workers and farmers government. He declared the degradation of the workers, who receive low wages, work long hours, face insecurity of their jobs will not cease until the workers take over the government and establish the dictatorship of the proletariat; "Which means," Foster added, "the establishment of a workers' and farmers' government."

Foster's meeting started at five forty-five because the meeting of the local union of the miners, No. 992, met at seven o'clock. At their meeting tonight the Ziegler miners were to try 16 Ku Klux Klansmen, who were charged with attempting to disrupt the local, with disobeying the wishes of the membership.

Miners' Band Played

E. C. Elwood, president of the Trades and Labor assembly, was present at the meeting, as were all the officials of local union 992. The band of the Trades Assembly played two pieces at the opening of the meeting.

Dozens of cars were parked outside the pavilion, which had come from Dowell, Christopher, Valier, Herrin, and other surrounding mining camps.

This is the first speech Foster has made to a group of miners since the on the International Trade Union ruptcy of the American Labor movement by Foster, and Losovsky's book on the International Trade union Movement were completely sold out and the miners were calling for more.

Join the Workers Party!

ITALIANS FAIL TO HIT MOVING TARGET; BENITO STILL LIVES

LONDON, Sept. 4.—A sensation has been created thruout Italy by news of an attack upon Premier Mussolini while he was returning from Acquapendente to Rome by motor car, said a Rome dispatch to the Daily Express today.

Shots were fired, some of which struck the rear of the automobile. Musscilini was not injured.

The attack, which took place Sunday night, is attributed to political enemies of the Fascisti.

Our Candidates

FOSTER'S DATES

Elizabeth, N. J.—Turn Hall, 725 High St., Wednesday, September 10, 8 p. m.

Newark, N. J.—Labor Lyceum, 704 So. 14th St., Thursday, September 11, 8 p. m.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Musical Fund Hall, 8th and Locust Streets, Friday, September 12, 8 p. m.

Paterson, N. J.—Halvitia Hall, 56 Van Houton Street, Saturday, September 13, 8 p. m.

GITLOW'S DATES

Comrade Gitlow, candidate for vice-president, will address meetings at the following places:

Canton, Ohio.—Canton Music Hall, 810 Tuscrawas St., E., Friday, September 5th, 8 p. m.

Akron, Ohio.—Perkins School Auditorium, Exchange and Bowery Sts., Saturday, September 6th, 8 p. m.

Cleveland, Ohio—Bricklayer's Hall, E. 71st St. and Prospect Ave., Sunday, September 7th at 7:30 p. m.

New York City—Central Opera House, Tuesday, Sept. 9, at 8 p. m.

West New York, N. J.—Floral Park, 11th and Polk Streets, Wednesday, September 10, at 8 p. m.

C. E. Ruthenberg executive secretary of the Workers Party, will make a series of campaign speeches in the New England States. Meetings already arranged for are:

New York City—Central Opera House, Tuesday, September 9th, 8 p. m.

New Haven, Conn.—Saturday, Sept. 6, Hermanson's Hall, 158 Crown St., 8 p. m.

COWS, CATS AND STAGS, DODGE BRITISH PRINCE

Snakes, Bootleggers and "Debs" Stick to Him

By Ye Olde Soclete Editore.

BYOSSET, N. Y., Sept. 4.—When the cows were going out this morning for their morning exrcises the Prince of Wales was coming in. The prince did not see the cows, but the cows saw the prince, and, seeing him, they showed a clean pair of heels.

His Royal Highness has cut a red streak thru here. Even the cows are afraid of him. Cats climb the trees when they see him coming. Fortunately for the animals, the prince is usually so drunk that he sees snakes, and snakes are not agreeable to the touch.

They Have Guts.

He has not yet been able to scare away the bootleggers and debutantes.

Joshua S. Cosden, oil magnate, supplied the prince with the necessary incentive to all-night hilarity. Wine and women were in abundance. The prince may not hold the three R's as high esteem as Professor McAndrew of Chicago, but he puts the two W's in the essential class.

Bedtime Story.

When the prince got home this morning, his equerry, A. F. Lascelles, issued bulletins on the prince's progress in wooing Morpheus. After His Royal Highness had been in the sheets, and his first half dozen snores were telephoned to the New York Times, Lascelles put the capitalist reporters to work as traffic cops keeping moving vehicles away from the corner of the house where the prince slept. They were willing to pay for the honor.

The prince attended a stag party at Piping Rock. But the stags didn't show up. They knew the prince by reputation.

Philadelphia Picnic.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 4.—The Young Workers League will celebrate International Youth Day at a picnic on Sunday, Sept. 7, at Flaxman's farm, Church Lane. There will be addresses by comrades of the Workers Party and the Young Workers League. Directions to get there: Take car No. 50 on 5th St., stop on Church Lane and turn to left, where committee will meet you.

Cleveland Readers, Notice!

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 4.—Benjamin Gitlow, Workers Party candidate for Vice-president, will address a meeting of the Trade Union Educational League, Sunday, Sept. 7, at 10 a. m. at South Slavic Hall, 5607 St. Clair Ave. Subject: Immediate Tasks of the T. U. E. L. All members of the T. U. E. L. and the Workers Party please attend this meeting.

KLUXER SMITH REED'S SLAYER, WIDOW'S CLAIM

Testifies He Used Shotgun on Her Husband

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

HERRIN, Ill., Sept. 4.—John Smith, owner of the garage where last Saturday's fatal shooting affray between Klansmen and anti-Klansmen took place, shot and killed Chester Reed with a shotgun, according to the testimony of Mrs. Reed at the inquest conducted by Coroner McGowan in the city hall here today.

Reed was in the car with his wife and boy when Smith approached with a shotgun.,

"Don't shoot, you'll kill my baby" cried Reed as he held up his hands. But Smith emptied his gun into Reed.

During the taking of testimony, pro-Klan witnesses who seemed to have a monopoly on the inquest contradicted each other.

H. Murphy, for instance, testified that "Bud" Allison ran toward the car in which Denham and other Klansmen were seated and fell back dead. Denham on the other hand testified that no shots were fired from his car.

Murphy, an employe of Smith, admitted that he refused to pump up the tire of the Dodge car which Galligan and his men had come over to claim. Other employes admitted they were slow in giving Galligan service.

It was admitted that several guns were in the Smith garage. The klansmen explained their presence in the vicinity of Smith's garage at the time by the alleged fact that they were on their way to dinner and met each other by accident.

One of the pro-klan witnesses at the inquest was Philip Godfelty, son of Rev. Philip Godfelty who is charged with using the church as arsenal.

* * *

"It's a shame that these Klansmen keep stirring up trouble right now while the trials are going on at Herrin and we have all we can do to keep down trouble," Sheriff Galligan said. "Until the Klan is forgotten there will be no peace in Williamson county. We are going to watch every parade and this masked business is going to stop. We expected serious trouble last night and were prepared to sweep the streets with machine gun fire if a single shot had been fired at us."

Galligan with a dozen heavily armed deputies went to Herrin today to attend the trial of the Shelton brothers, Carl and Earl, who are charged with the murder of Caesar Cagle, Ku Klux Klan constable, last February.

Jess Lashbrook, Harrisburg Ku Klux Klansman, arrested here last night for wearing a mask in a Klan parade, was released today on a $1,000 bond.

Rebels Steering Clear of the League, Says MacDonald

(Continued from page 1)

and make of that country a possible ally against France.

That Russia would prove a trouble maker in the League of Nations was MacDonald's opinion. The league is a capitalist international, and Russia is the headquarters of the workers' international. Both are mortal enemies.

Forgot the Workers.

MacDonald never said a word about the interests of the workers. "We have never asked assistance from America, but America has come in loyally and given all possible support. This was in reference to the entrance of the United States into the world war. MacDonald was credited with opposing the war, but he now praises Morgan & Co. for taking part in the carnage.

Heap Big Hokum.

In the lobbies the French and Little Entente delegates did not hide their disappointment over what they called MacDonald's "empty phrases."

A French delegate summed up the views of the French as follows:

"The suggestion of disarmament without guarantees and arbitration without sanctions would never be acceptable to France."

Cannon Debate in Milwaukee Saturday Night

Saturday night, Sept. 6, Milwaukee will hear an interesting debate between the Workers Party and the Socialist Labor Party, on the subject, "Resolved that the program of the Workers Party offers the only possible solution for the emancipation of the working class."

James P. Cannon, assistant executive secretary of the Workers Party, will take the affirmative and Richard Koenig of the Socialist Labor Party, the negative.

The debate will be held at Miller Hall, 802 State St., and will begin at 8 p. m. sharp.

CANON'S CONSCIENCE MAY COST LUIS ANGEL FIRPO A WAD OF BILLS

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Immigration Commissioner Henry G. Curran at Ellis Island declared today that the investigation in deportation proceedings against Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, is now complete with exception of one part, which has to do with new evidence submitted today by Rev. W. Sheafe Chase of Brooklyn, who has been pushing the case.

This evidence, Curran charged, has been withheld "in bad faith by Canon Chase," and was found quite by accident. Rev. Chase arrived here from Washington to answer a peremptory summons from Curran and was examined by the commissioner. The Canon's evidence, it is rumored, has to do with the boxer's romantic escapades.

KIANGSU ARMY IS TURNED BACK FROM SHANGHAI

Spread of Civil War Is Threatened

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The Kiangsu army northwest of Shanghai has been defeated after two battles with the Chekiang army, both sides suffering heavy losses, according to a dispatch from Shanghai this afternoon.

The Kiangsu forces, numbering 10,000, opened an attack against the Chekiang troops. The former army was driven back, but upon receiving reinforcements made a counter-attack, advancing two miles.

Kiangsu forces were attacked in the Liuho district and are reported to have been routed.

Continued fighting between Chekiang and Kiangsu troops was reported today fifteen miles from Shanghai in the region of Hwang-tu, on the Shanghai-Peking railway. Casualties have been severe since the firing began.

Heavy Casualties.

Women as well as men are being conscripted by the war lords for the labor corps. Many are committing suicide in preference.

Despite the demands of commercial organizations, the Peking government has as yet made no move to avert the civil war movement from growing more serious. It has protested to the Russian embassy, however, against the employment of Russian aviators with Brigadier-General Lu Yung-Hsiang's Chekiang troops.

General Chih Sien Yuan is commanding the Kiangsu troops at Hwang-tu. He has been advancing slowly down the Shanghai-Nanking railway in the direction of this city.

BUTCHERS WIN STRIKE GETTING WAGE INCREASE

The strike of the kosher butchers of Chicago, Local Union No. 596, that has been on since Labor Day, was won yesterday by the strikers with all their demands granted.

The kosher butchers will receive $40 and $46 a week in wages and will not work on any of the legal holidays. Heretofore, only the Hebrew holidays were observed in the kosher meat shops.

Local No. 596, of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters' and Butcher Workmen has a membership of about 150. There are about 400 kosher meat shops in Chicago, but only 190 employ extra help. The entire trade is organized and the strikers were jubilant over their speedy victory. Martin Sabin one of the strikers told the DAILY WORKER, "We were prepared for a big fight. We had our picket line well organized and everything in fine shape. However, we are glad it's over and we feel we have won a real victory."

Sept. 17 is Next Date for Hearing in Troubles of I. W. W.

The injunction case of the I. W. W. which was to come up before Master-in-Chancery Fred Bernstein yesterday, at 160 N. La Salle St., was again postponed to Sept. 17.

Mr. Bernstein explained to the DAILY WORKER that he needed a little more time to go into the matter. It was agreed between the two factions, the side that took out the injunction and the side against whom the injunction was issued, thru their attorneys, to let the matter rest just as it is until that date, when it will come up for hearing.

"They have entered into a gentlemen's agreement," said Mr. Bernstein. An effort [illegible] part of the office of Attorney [illegible] A. Cunnea to get a favorable [illegible] ruling on a demurrer against the injunction has not brought any results changing the situation.

GITLOW SPEAKS TO BIG MEETING IN CANONSBURG

Steel and Mine Workers Hear Communist

The most succesful meeting yet held on the Gitlow speaking tour was at Canonsburg, Pa., on Labor Day. This meeting was highly successful in spite of the fact that the Washington County labor fakirs and politicians had arranged a rival affair at Washington, the county seat. The principal speaker at the Washington demonstration was James Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor.

An attempt was made to get the platform for the Communist vice presidential candidate, Benjamin Gitlow, but when the attempt had almost succeeded to be given from a speaking, it was reported, by the personal intervention of Maurer himself.

Meeting Well Managed.

The real meeting and demonstration of Washington county was held at Canonsburg, under the auspices of the Canonsburg Workers Party. The arrangements for the meeting were the most complete and best organized of all those arranged for Comrade Gitlow on his eastern tour.

Not only were Washington county steel workers and coal miners of Canonsburg at the meeting, but large delegations from faraway places like Galloway, W. Va., and McKeesport and several other large steel cities were present. The chairman was S. Stose, a steel worker. His conduct of the meeting was admirable and deserves the highest praise. A large collection was taken up by a bevy of good-looking girls, all members of the Workers Party.

Quitting Socialist Leaders.

Gitlow spoke for two hours to an audience that gave the closest and most enthusiastic attention. Canonsburg is an old socialist stronghold in Pennsylvania. Many former socialists were present and expressed themselves as having followed Eugene V. Debs in the past. But after the endorsement of LaFollette by Debs they came out unqualifiedly for Foster and Gitlow and the Workers Party.

Some of them, a staunch admirer of James Maurer, said: "Maurer, too, had gone the way of Debs and the labor fakers." The Workers Party branch at Canonsburg that organized this meeting deserves great credit. The large and interested audience of steel and mine workers proves that with an intelligent and well-organized effort, great masses of the workers can be reached.

Rank and File Meeting.

The meeting at Canonsburg was a gathering of the rank and file. The affair at Washington was a gathering of the labor fakers, capitalist politicians and their hangers-on. The difference in the spirit of the two gatherings was plainly evidenced.

In spite of Maurer's lip service to "progressivism," his little audience at Washington had no real enthusiasm. For this one had only to know that some of the labor fakers present who said they were "for" LaFollette—several of whom had gone to the democratic convention at New York—were in reality "for" no one but henselves and their own material gain.

Gitlow in Fine Fettle.

The Canonsburg meeting, on the contrary, was filled with an enthusiastic and revolutionary spirit. As Gitlow's powerful voice rang out denouncing the old parties and LaFollette, the audience cheered wildly. Many new members joined the Workers Party and subscriptions were taken for the DAILY WORKER. Altogether this was a real successful election demonstration for the entire party in this Pennsylvania domain of the steel trust.

The next big Gitlow meeting will be at Cleveland, Ohio, Sunday evening, Sept. 7, at Bricklayers' Hall, East 21st St. and Prospect Ave.

Coroner's Jury Blames Klan for Herrin Murders

named in the indictments have been issued and District Attorney Potter Ilan announced he would oppose any attempt to have bonds in the cases accepted from any persons who signed bonds for those indicted by Herrin city grand jury last March.

Those indicted besides Young, are: John Childers, D. M. Cavenaugh, Leonard Barrass, Carl Neilson, Harry Walker, Robert Bandy, Elmer Carlton, Abe Hicks, and Earl Rendleman.

Morgan Is Busy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—J. P. Morgan & Company opened its books for the subscribing of the new $30,000,000 loan to Belgium. This is the first of the series of foreign government loans which will follow after signing and beginning of actual operation of the Dawes-Young plan for reorganizing Europe.

SOVIETS AND LABOR DICTATORSHIP ARE COMMUNIST SLOGANS

"The Workers Party is fighting for the rule of thirty millions of workers and their families in the United States. This rule will be established thru a Proletarian Revolution which will create a Soviet Government and the Dictatorship of the Proletariat."

—From the Program of the Workers Party

WAR DAY PROJECT WELL WORKED OUT IN CODFISH TOWN

Preachers and Business Men Push "Der Tag"

By H. SIDNEY BLOOMFIELD.
(Special to the Daily Worker.)

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 4.—All is ready here. The ministers are for it. The business men are for it. But the workers frown upon it. "Defense Day," alias "Mobilization Day," September 12.

Thomas B. Moor, secretary of the Mercantile Bureau of the local Chamber of Commerce, today sent out letters to all merchants affiliated with the bureau, requesting them to make a lavish display of the national colors as part of Worcester's observance of "National Defense Day."

The preachers are preaching the same old song of hate about the "enemy" that they do not as yet know. Definite instructions for the carrying out of the mobilization of Worcester companies on that day have now been recived by the various army officers in charge of the local units.

"Mobilize For War."

The orders issued instruct the officers to form their companies as the actual ordersafor mobilization for war had been received and every detail to the quartering of the men will be gone thru.

The senior first lieutenant will arrange for the messing of the men; the second senior lieutenant for the quartering of the men and their equipment in empty lofts and vacant houses; the junior lieutenant will prepare requisitions for all quartermaster property; the second lieutenant will prepare requisitions for all ordnance, signal, medical and engineer property; the first sergeant will detail a non commissioned officer in charge of quarters, who will be responsible for the discipline of the troops.

One hour after arrival of the first sergeant at headquarters the company will be formed and the company commander will read the articles of war. A report will then be drawn up furnishing the war department with a report of the number of officers and men present and other details as to quarters, supplies and the mobilization of the company.

ELECTRIC TRUST PLANS TO LAY OFF THOUSANDS

Efficiency System is Good for Company

The employes of the Western Electric company are learning that the speed-up system inaugurated in the Hawthorne plant and exposed by the DAILY WORKER is a scheme to increase the profits of the electric trust and give the workers a vacation with out pay.

When the heads of the company instituted the "get together" policy and even condescended to address the workers at noon time, everything was painted in rosy colors. But now with winter coming, it is not so pleasant for the thousands of workers who are getting laid off to contemplate facing the cold weather without any visible means of support.

One of the discharged employes of the Western Electric company informed the DAILY WORKER that he was laid off indefinitely. Thirty-seven per cent of the tool room employes are slated for the street, and it is planned to drop 65 per cent from the payroll in the entire plant.

The company engineers are advised to work out plans that will enable the company, to maintain the current year's standard of production with a reduced force.

Prince Good For Something.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The presence of the Prince of Wales has given street speakers of all varieties an opportunity to vent their wrath on the heads of the British Empire. The Irish Republican soap-boxers on Columbus circle get the biggest crowds, altho the Women's Peace Society speaker, who denounces the boasting young majesty as a "murderer," is much applauded. Radical speakers denounce the prince as one of a class and continue with their usual arguments against capitalism and imperialism which the prince represents.

SPECIAL DAILY WORKER ISSUE TO NEW YORK

Plan to Issue Quarter Million Copies

When the DAILY WORKER presses last night began turning out the first Special Campaign Edition, to be used in the local campaigns, the outlook was good for orders for at least a quarter million copies during the campaign.

The First Special Campaign Issue, of 12,000 copies, went to New York. Orders are already on hand for 100,000 copies, and plans for raising this to 250,000 are very good.

The "New York Special" was issued in connection with the Gitlow meeting to be held Tuesday night, Sept. 9, at the Central Opera House, 67th St., between 2nd and 3rd Aves. The entire first page was given over to The New York campaign.

Plan Big Foster Editon.

No better evidence can be offered for the instantaneous success of this DAILY WORKER plan for building up the Communist movement locally.

L. E. Katterfeld is the DAILY WORKER agent in New York city. He is planning to dispose of a 50,000 local edition for the big Foster mass meeting.

Hustlers in Erie, Pa.

Erie, Pa., gives the larger cities in its vicinity a reason for blushing. This small local takes the campaign seriously and sends in an order for 2,000 copies. Erie believes with the National Campaign Committee that "The DAILY WORKER Goes With Foster and Gitlow," and acts accordingly.

Milwaukee, Wis., wants 20,000 for a STATE EDITION. District Organizer Gus Shklar and the local comrades believe they have found a real medium for throwing a bombshell into the stronghold of LaFollette and Berger.

And the Detroit, Mich., was heard from. New York is not the only satisfied local of reds. They are arranging two special editions to cover the Gitlow and Foster meetings. And yet this was not enough. In addition two more STATE CAMPAIGN EDITIONS have been planned—four in all.

Letters are coming in daily to the business office in arrangement of editions not only for the Foster, Gitlow and State Campaign Editions, but plans are being made for future local issues.

These are from live locals. Those interested in building the party with the most efficient and powerful methods. The special edition of the DAILY WORKER is just that; "proof of the pudding" is in the immediate response received.

SMALL TRADING MINERS' LIVES FOR KLAN VOTES

Christian Ministers a Bloodthirsty Crew

By KARL REEVE
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker.)

HERRIN, Ill., Sept. 4.—"Governor Len Small is trading the lives of miners shot down on the streets of Herrin for the Klan vote," said W. R. Ingler, trustee of Miners' Local Union No. 1248, which conducted the funeral of Bud Allison, as we started in the long procession toward the cemetery.

"Rev. C. J. Godfelty, Methodst minister, Rev. John Storey, Christian ministers, and Rev. Russell Sloan, Baptist minister, are using their churches as aids to the business men and the newspapers of Herrin to try to destroy the miners' union by using the Ku Klux Klan as their tool," Engler declared.

A Mass Funeral.

It was a mass funeral, conducted by the rank and file miners. The line of autos behind the 250 marching members of the Local Union 1248 stretched thru the main street of the town for half a mile. Cars passing in the opposite direction stopped until the long procession had passed, occupants of the cars baring their heads.

"There will be no peace in Williamson County until the power of the Klan is destroyed," Matt Flynn, a pallbearer at the funeral and member of the pit committee of the local union, declared. "Last night Small spoke an eye at the Klan lawlessness, and the officials of the Illinois miners indorsed this same Small," Flynn said.

Fear Renewed Trouble.

The miners charge that the troops did not clear ammunition out of the Methodist and Christian churches on the Saturday night of the killings. They declare that if the churches and Masonic Temple are not cleaned out that trouble will start again.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

LA GUARDIA, WAR JINGO WHO OPPOSED SCOTT NEARING, RECEIVES SOCIALIST PARTY ENDORSEMENT

The New York Times of August 27 reports the official endorsement of Fiorella LaGuardia as candidate for congress in the Twentieth Congressional District, by the socialist party. This statement is confirmed by the New Leader of August 30.

LaGuardia will be remembered by East Side socialists as the war jingo who enlisted in the Italian Aviation Corps before the United States declared war against Germany. During his campaign against Scott Nearing, he usually spoke in full uniform on the speaker's platform and denounced Nearing for his opposition to the war. The socialist party has withdrawn its own candidate in favor of LaGuardia.

LAFOLLETTE'S POLITICAL STEW BREWS TROUBLE

LaFollette's Man Shows Labor the Door in Mo.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 4.—A three-cornered controversy that has been going on between two local LaFollette factions and the national leaders of the movement came to a head at a committee meeting held here when John M. Nelson, LaFollette manager from Chicago, laid down the law to Rube Wood, president of the Missouri State Federation of Labor.

Altho LaFollette apparently had the support of a quite a number of trade unionists and rural voters, both LaFollette supporters and non-supporters had begun to suspect something wrong when the much-advertised whirlwind drive did not materialize.

History of Labor Party.

It will be necessary to go back to the early stages in the movement to get an understanding of what has taken place here.

Early this spring when the farmer-labor forces came together to perfect a local organization and to select delegates to the June 17 convention, they were joined by an individual who appeared to be an enthusiastic F. L. P. supporter. The gentleman, one Tim O'Neil, erstwhile proprietor of a scab restaurant and self-styled implement manufacturer, turned out to be a hell-raiser in general.

He claimed he had a wide following among the farmers in this territory due to his farm implement business. On his own hook he collected funds to be used for the F. L. P. Suddenly Tim had a change of heart. He resigned from the F. L. P. and issued a statement saying it was too radical for him. He refused to turn over the funds he had collected.

Self-Appointed Leader.

After the Cleveland convention of the C. P. P. A. he decided to climb on the LaFollette band wagon. Seeing the national chairman Johnston was self-appointed, likewise LaFollette, the presidential candidate, Tim caught the spirit and straightway appointed himself regional manager for this territory.

He opened an office in the expensive Baltimore Hotel and proceeded to tell everyone how well qualified he was to organize the campaign because of his wide influence among farmers and rural business men gained thru his implement business connections. This latter argument got to be a local joke when it became known the implement store was a fake.

This met with the disapproval of the Missouri section of the C. P. P. A. and a controversy developed between the C. P. P. A. supporters headed by Rube Wood and the supporters of Tim O'Neil.

As time went on the fight waxed hotter and hotter. To and fro the battle waged and the sparks flew. There were charges and counter charges. Thruout the controversy O'Neil maintained he had been appointed by John M. Nelson, national campaign boss.

Nelson Sent For.

Three national committee representatives came to Kansas City at different times, but none of them were able to reconcile the factions. Finally it was announced that Nelson the head mogul himself was coming to iron out the wrinkles.

Nelson arrived and after a short interval, O'Neil gave out the following statement to the press. "I am done with LaFollette. The old warrior, "Fighting Bob" has degenerated in his old age to a substitute for that picturesque but visionary character, Eugene V. Debs, and if that is his choice, I predict for him 2,000,000 votes. There never was a Socialist named Tim O'Neil. I hereby release all my followers."

It was surmised then by everyone that Nelson had given O'Neil the boot and handed over the reins to Rube Wood and the above was reported in the DAILY WORKER. But that is not the end of the story.

Labor Too Radical for Nelson.

A later report coming from reliable sources indicates that a committee meeting was held in Kansas City behind closed doors. The meeting was apparently called by Nelson and prominent LaFollette backers were present.

As soon as the meeting was called to order, Nelson proceeded to dress down the entire gathering centering his attack on Rube Wood, state C. P. P. A., chairman and W. M. Brant, secretary, saying they were too representative of labor and were too radical. He then made a scathing attack on the whole Missouri C. P. P. A. movement claiming that it was too much dominated by labor and even had the farmers. He laid down the law in ten propositions.

The four most important ones are as follows:

1. Leadership to be taken out of the hands of Wood and Brant and given over to some prominent business man (a Missouri Spreckles).

2. All presidential electors be withdrawn and more representative ones placed on the ballot. (Representative of business).

3. That the LaFollette electors do not go on the ballot under the name of Liberal Party which was being used as it gave the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket the aspect of a third party and this was especially true in Missouri.

4. That all connections between the so-called Liberal Party state platform and the LaFollette ticket be severed.

Rube Wood Must Go.

The committee members were dumbfounded by this attack on Wood. Wood has a large influence among the farmers. He also has a long record of service in the trade union movement. All these were pointed out to Nelson, but he would have none of it and only tiraded the more.

Rube Wood defended himself well. He said he had no apologies to make because he represented labor.

The committee agreed to all of Nelson's demands except the one to remove Wood and Brant and while they did not openly refuse to accede to this demand, the tendency was to ignore it entirely. The meeting ended anything but harmoniously.

Labor Being Disillusioned.

The members of the C. P. P. A. of Missouri thinking that they were in a movement of farmers and workers, set to work, raised money, sent out 30,000 circulars to the farmers and workers and launched what they considered a farmers' and workers' campaign. But they were soon disillusioned. Thus ended act one of the Missouri-LaFollette drama.

One can only marvel how well the Workers Party leaders diagnosed the LaFollette disease. All of Nelson's arguments were anti-Socialist, Anti-radical, anti-labor and they bore a striking similarity to those used by the scab restaurant owner, Tim O'Neil.

At a time when it was expected to be going ahead, the LaFollette drive in Missouri seems to be at its lowest ebb.

DON'T MISS THE NEXT ISSUE

THE DAILY WORKER MAGAZINE

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1924

ONLY SOME OF THE CONTENTS:

1. The Liquidation of the Treaty of Versailles.....By Karl Radek
2. The Communist Youth—A Review of the 4th Congress of the Young Communist International.....By John Williamson
3. Engineering Workers Under Capitalism.....By I. Obsky
4. Nations and Colonies.....By P. Manuilsky
5. At Last In Moscow.....By Anna Porter
6. Maxim Gorky's Latest Thrill—A Communication By Robin E. Dunbar
7. Is Organization a Problem?.....By Alexander Bittelman

VERSE——PICTURES——ILLUSTRATIONS

ORDER NOW!

THE DAILY WORKER

1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

HIT BANK DEAL OF CAL'S MATE

(Continued from page 1)

secretary of the treasury, had been president of the First National Bank in Chicago—a Standard Oil concern—and Gage and Dawes knew how big a prize was involved in the possession of the Globe Bank's copper shares. According to the Boston press of that time, Standard Oil came in with $2,000,000 and absorbed the copper shares which were thrown upon the market in Boston. These shares gave the Rockefellers a majority voting control of the copper companies which now are consolidated in the Anaconda.

When Dawes retired from the comptrollership, he attempted to run for the senate from Illinois, but was unable to gather a following. In disgust with politics, he organized the Central Trust Company in Chicago, with $400,000 subscribed. Within a few days after he began business the older banks in Chicago learned that the Standard Oil Company of Indiana had deposited $5,000,000 with Dawes—and there the money remained year after year as a nest egg for the fortune which the bank accumulated for its promoter.

Daniel Wing, whom Dawes sent to Boston to "protect" the public by closing the Globe Bank, and who helped to put the copper stocks in the way of Standard Oil, became president of the First National Bank in Boston.

Was Hanna-Lorimer Aide.

Of course it is not to be assumed that it was solely because of the Boston incident that Dawes became a favorite of the money gods. He had qualified earlier, and he proved his calibre on numerous occasions afterward. His earlier test was when he audited the $7,000,000 campaign fund spent by Mark Hanna in electing McKinley in 1896. Nobody ever found out what became of some $3,000,000 of that money, altho it was used in the final stages of the fight. Dawes was acquainted with the secrets of that gigantic effort of money to retain its hold on the government. The bosses trusted him.

It was because he was a brother to the real bosses that he lent $1,200,000 to the "Blond Boss," Billy Lorimer, at a later period, so that Lorimer could pass inspection of his own bank. The inspector asked Lorimer to show his money; Lorimer flashed a certified or cashier's check on Dawes' bank for $1,200,000, which was what Lorimer had to own. The inspector went to Dawes' bank and was shown the ready cash, which he was assured was held for payment of that check. Then the check was torn up, and when after ward the Lorimer bank blew up, and 4,000 depositors found themselves robbed, hand-picked judges on the Illinois bench decided there was no escape for Dawes—he must make good. It took ten years for the court of last resort to hand down its verdict against Dawes. This happened on the very day of his nomination for the vice presidency of the United States as the worthy running mate of Cal Coolidge.

Let Silence Reign.

It is on this record that Dawes stands when he invites the nation to "uphold American institutions and safeguard the constitution." The "strong, silent man" in the White House will be very silent indeed upon this same record.

PRINCE OF WALES ARRIVES; THRILLS AMERICAN BOOBS

U. S. Millionaires Bow Low to Foreigner

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Four Scotland yard detectives, four Cunard pier detectives, a watch-dog staff of secretaries, and assorted other supernumeraries guarded the most distinguished recent alien immigrant to this country. The young man's name proved to be sufficient passport, eliminating all the usual red tape of immigration into the United States. One hundred and twenty-five newspaper men met this alien at the dock before he was escorted onto the private ferry of a millionaire Brooklyn manufacturer.

Other persons of the Society of Wealth vied with one another to honor the immigrant. One family greeted him at their private pier, another acted as host in the palatial apartments of the visitor by yet another member of the monied aristocracy. Speed laws do not exist any more than others for this distinguished immigrant. The machine of a wealthy family outdistances four state troopers' motorcycles in hastening his arrival.

Lunches With Cal.

Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, generously allows the alien immigrant to run down to Washington in his private car to lunch with President Coolidge. Butler Wright, third assistant secretary of state, Major Oscar Solbert, aide to Coolidge, a representative each of the U. S. army and navy escort the immigrant and secretary of state Hughes himself meets him at the train.

H. R. H., Prince of Wales, heir to the throne of this country's greatest rival among nations, is here! The silent immigrant who has been so acclaimed by wealthy society on this occasion of his attendance at the polo games may conceivably live to be called the greatest enemy of these same millionaires. But British and American financial interests seem to be getting more intertwined and the Prince still gives flattering hopes to the hearts of innumerable American flappers.

Send-off Party for Three Junior League Members

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 4.—Saturday evening, September 6, from 8 until sunrise at the Labor Lyceum Auditorium, 6th and Irving Ave., the Jewish branch of the Workers Party will give a farewell "Vecherinka" (party). Comrades Joseph, Bertha and Sarah (members of the Junior League) Turchinsky, who, on the 10th of this month are leaving for Soviet Russia.

Members of the Jewish branch are expecting all members of the Workers Party to come with their family and friends from Minneapolis and St. Paul Bring the children.

All those who want to send messages or souvenirs to their relatives, friends or comrades, bring them along. Joe will be glad to take them over there.

Everything will be free—eats, drinks and dancing. Come and say good-bye to Joe and at the same time get acquainted.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

HEARST'S MORON WRITER, HINMAN, SOLVES IT ALL

Thinks Workers Should Toil Longer Hours

By H. O. WATT.

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

YORK, Pa., Sept. 4.—George Hinman, editor of Hearst's Financial Sheet, says today that "Americans live in a too-easy fashion, but will awaken soon." No doubt, this is another prediction of a return to normalcy and the ten (or twelve) hour day, as Hinman ridicules the idea of the possibility of existing under capitalism on a short work day. Hinman especially desires that the working man have large houses and heavy automobiles and other evidences of prosperity and the way to procure them is to work long hours.

Had this moron ordinary powers of observation, he might have noticed that those who work the shortest number of hours, or no hours at all, are those who possess the largest houses and the best automobiles. But Hinman has in mind those fortunate workers who have had intelligence enough to organize and thereby improve their working conditions. It is sad to those of Hinman's type to realize that the working class has made some progress.

The Agricultural Situation.

But if Hinman should visit this agricultural section he would find the population wholly at a loss to understand his references. From an agricultural point of view, York County, Pennsylvania, cannot be improved upon. The soil is of the richest and the climate ideal for the raising of bumper crops.

Not only in York County, but thruout the country as a whole, the farmers compose the largest part of the population. The farmers do not know the meaning of short hours. Speak to the farmer of the eight-hour day and he assumes that what is meant is eight hours in the morning and eight hours in the afternoon. From 6:00 a. m. until 8:00 p. m. (16 hours) is the regular work day. The week consists of seven days, altho on Sunday the live stock is given a rest.

No Rest For Farmer.

But no rest for the farmer; he draws his milk from it to the station on Sunday as on every other day. And he does all the small jobs on the day of the Lord that he doesn't have time to do during the week when he must keep his mules busy. According to George Hinman, these are the folks who are prosperous; surely they work long enough and hard enough. But what are the facts? Invariably, when any sort of employment is available in an agricultural community in this country, that is when a man wants a threshing or hay-baling outfit, arrives, the farmers will leave their farm work and assist the thresher for wages of $2.00 a day.

The work is laborious and unremitting. Only the more vigorous may work "in the straw," i. e., erect the immense stacks of straw as rapidly as it is shot out of the mouth of the funnel of the threshing machine. These are the men who are working long hours to supply with food George Hinman's parasites. No wonder Hinman does not want them to shorten their hours. If this should happen the leeches of society would have to go to work and produce some of their own necessities—or raise the rent of the property they own!

Recently an account was printed in the DAILY WORKER to the effect that strikers had gone into farming communities to help in making hay for $2.00 a day. The writer of the article intimated that this low wage was a hardship to the workers—and no doubt, it was, but in this section of the United States the workers would consider themselves very fortunate indeed if they might earn $2.00 per day. The wage for carpenters is $3.20 a day, considerably less than one-half the wage paid to carpenters in the sections where they are organized. But the workers shouldn't organize, says Hinman.

Communist Youth to Hold Open Air Meet In Cleveland Soon

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 4.—While preparations for Mobilization Day are going on in Cleveland, the Young Workers League has taken the opportunity of pointing out to the young workers the reasons for this mobilization of the military power of the United States, the class nature of the American government and the necessity of having all the workers line up in a struggle against capitalist militarism.

Two big open air meetings have been arranged by the league for this week, in connection with the anti-military demonstration on Sept. 7 at Bricklayers' Hall.

The first meeting will be held Thursday, Sept. 4, at Market Square, Lorain Ave. and W. 25th St.

The second meeting will be held Friday, Sept. 5, at Cedar and 40th Sts. The speakers at these meetings will be Comrades Gordon and Papcun.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

"WE ARE ALWAYS READY!" IS SLOGAN OF JUNIOR COMMUNISTS AT CHICAGO CITY CONVENTION

By M. A. SKROMNY.

"Are you ready? Always ready!"

This is the slogan adopted by the Communist children's groups, of the Junior Section of the Young Workers League, of Chicago, at their first city convention which met last Saturday. It is the first convention of its kind ever held in the United States.

The hall at 2644 LeMoyne Street was crowded with delegates and visitors, mostly children. The convention was opened by the city organizer, Comrade Rose Cohen, age 13, who made a short talk calling for the singing of the International. All joined in the singing. After a roll call the following officers were elected:

Albert Glatsky, age 12, chairman.

Thelma Kahn, age 12, ass't chairman.

Diana Echeles, age 12, secretary.

Mass Reports.

Barney Mass, representing the N. E. C. of the Young Workers League gave a report of the activities of the organization. "We have organized the young workers in the shops and mines, we are now going to organize the young workers in the steel mills," he said. He called upon the children to work in close unity, "for your are preparing to take over in the future the glorious work of the older comrades," he said.

Comrade Early greeted the convention in the name of the Workers Party.

Banner Presented from Russia.

Comrade Nat Kaplan presented to the convention a small red banner from Soviet Russia, a gift from the Russian Pioneers (children Communist groups). The banner was greeted with cheers and applause. A letter from the Russian children to their American comrades and an appeal from the Russian children to the children of the world against war, were read. A resolution and an answer to these letters were drafted. They will appear in the Children's Column of the DAILY WORKER. A special week was set aside for writing letters to the Russian children. All groups are expected to participate in this week.

The slogan: "Are you ready? Always ready!" was adopted unanimously amid cheers.

The city organizer, Comrade Rose Cohen, gave a report which was accepted after a short discussion. Reports of the groups followed.

Groups Are Active.

The Marshfield group has 40 members, represented by 4 delegates. The children of this group participated in two school strikes against cruel teachers, the janitors and detectives broke up the strikes. They are holding street meetings, "soap boxing," as they call it. During the month of July they sold 350 copies of the Young Comrade, official organ of the childrens' organization.

The Vanguard group has 33 members, represented by four delegates. Work is going along very good, only the speakers of the Young Workers League don't show up at the meetings and the group has to get along without them. The group is running a surprise entertainment Sunday, September 21, at Workers Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd. They ask co-operation from other groups.

The West Side group has about 80 members, but mostly new ones. Only 37 good standing. Are holding outdoor meetings in the park. They have two educational, one social and one business meeting per month. They are organizing the Red Scouts.

The Newberry group has 35 members, are holding street meetings, "campaigning in the streets," they call it.

The Rykoff group has 15 members, organized only five weeks ago.

The Young Guards group has about 25 members. Organized about seven weeks.

The Maplewood group has about 25 members.

There are also groups in Cicero with 55 members, Pullman, and South Side, who are not represented at the convention, and new groups being organized, the Wicker Park group and another one.

Membership Drive Begins.

With the opening of schools it was decided to start a membership campaign. The Vanguard group proposed to start a campaign now for a summer camp next summer for the members of the Junior groups. It was adopted.

Rose Plotkin, age 9, gave a talk on publicity. In the discussion that followed the children complained that the Young Worker and the DAILY WORKER do not pay enuf attention to the Juniors. They demanded more publicity from the party press. A reporter of the DAILY WORKER who was present was permitted to defend the paper. He called the attention of the children to the Children's Column in the paper and advised every group to elect a publicity agent or reporter, and to send in news to the Children's Column. The suggestion was adopted.

Elect Officers.

After the constitution was adopted the following members of the City Central Committee were elected:

Rose Cohen, organizer, Thelma Kahn, secretary, Molly Rubin, financial secretary, Albert Glatsky, educational director. Tillie Lurye, literature agent. Diana Echeles, social director, Phillip Bolden, sports director, Eva Stolar, publicity director.

The convention closed its session to the strains of the Young Guards, the song of the Juniors.

EDUCATE YOURSELF FOR THE STRUGGLE

Class in English (for foreign-born workers) begins September 10; tuition fee $2.00.

Class in Trade Union Tactics begins September 11; tuton fee $1.00.

Enroll Now at Local Chicago Office, 166 W. Washington St. (Phone State 7985)

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

BRANCH MEETINGS, LOCAL CHICAGO
Friday, September 5.

Ukrainian Soc.—10750 Stephenson Ave.
Polish, North Side—1902 W. Division St.
Lithuanian No. 41—4128 Archer Ave., Vokantine Bldg.
Greek Branch—722 Blue Island Ave.

STREET MEETINGS IN CHICAGO.
Friday, Sept. 5.

North Ave. and Rockwell St.—Auspices, North West Jewish branch and Maplewood Y. W. L. Speakers, O'Flaherty and Wm. F. Kruse.

Lawrence and Sawyer—Auspices, Irving Park W. P. and Y. W. L. branches. Speakers, D. E. Earley and Peter Herd.

Roosevelt Road and Central Park Avenue, Auspices, North West Side Y. W. L. branch. Speakers, Hammerstmark and Harvey.

Saturday, Sept. 6.

22nd and Oakley — Auspices, Italian branches and 4th District. Speakers, English and Italian comrades.

Division and Jackson, near Milwaukee —Auspices, Polish branch. Speakers, Hammerstark and Polish comrades.

11th Pl. and Michigan—Auspices, Pullman branches. Speakers, D. E. Earley, E. Harris.

Halsted and Seabor Sts.—Auspices, Greek branches. Speakers, D. E. Earley and Greek comrade.

Division and Washington—Auspices, North West Jewish branch and Hersch Lambert. Speakers, Louis Engdahl, Sidney Borgeson.

North Ave. and Orchard St.—Auspices, German and Humboldt Park branches. Speakers, Peter Herd, H. Gannes.

Irving Park and Keeler—Auspices, South Side branch W. P. Speakers, Gordon Owens, C. Miller.

Sunday, Sept. 7.

Washington Park — "Open Forum," Workers Party Speakers, D. E. Earley.

North Side English Branch.

The regular meeting of the North Side English Branch was cancelled on account of the T. U. E. L. picnic on Labor Day, and a special meeting will therefore be held on Monday, Sept. 8 at Imperial Hall, 2409 N. Halsted St. Every member must report at the special meeting and bring along the signed petitions.

ARE YOU OBTAINING YOUR BUNDLE OF THE DAILY WORKER and CAMPAIGN LEAFLETS to distribute when you are out getting signatures to petition?

WORKERS PARTY CANDIDATES IN ILLINOIS VOTE

"Bill" Dunne at Head of Communist Ticket

The following are the candidates of the Workers Party for offices in the state of Illinois and the city of Chicago:

For Governor—William F. Dunne, Chicago.

For Lieut.-Governor—John J. Watt, Springfield.

For Secretary of State—Moritz J. Loeb, Chicago.

For United States Senator—J. Louis Engdahl, Chicago.

For Attorney General—David J. Bentall, Chicago.

Congressman from 1st District—Gordon Owens, Chicago.

Congressman from 7th District—Samuel Hammersmark, Chicago.

Congressman from 8th District—George Maurer, Chicago.

Congressman from 9th District—John W. Johnstone, Chicago.

Congressman from 6th District—A. Pellegrino, Chicago.

Congressman from 4th District—Victor Zokaitis, Chicago.

Congressmen at large—E. B. Hewlett, West Frankfort; Robert Minor, Chicago.

Cleveland League to Hold Joint Meeting With W. P. on I. Y. D.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 4.—Due to the fact that the Gitlow campaign meeting in Cleveland is being held on the same day as International Youth Day, it was impossible for the Young Workers League to arrange for a meeting of its own. Instead, a joint meeting has been arranged for Sunday, Sept. 7, at Bricklayers Hall, 21st and Prospect. The league speaker, Comrade Martin Gordon, will bring to the attention of the assembled workers the slogans of the league: Down with militarism; fight against Mobilization Day; organize the young workers into the trade unions; fight for the establishment of a workers and farmers government in America.

Young and adult workers of Cleveland are invited to hear Benjamin Gitlow, Communist candidate for vice president, and Martin Gordon of the Young Workers League.

S. P. Gets Back Seat.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 4.—The Socialist percentage in the LaFollette organizing committee for the assembly districts is being limited by Robert H. Haskell, in charge. Abraham Tyrin and Joseph Vlock, the two Socialists now on the steering committee. Two active republican club presidents and two women republican workers are also on the committee, leaving the Socialists in the minority.

Order campaign leaflets from the Campaign Manager thru your branch.

News for the Worker

Everyday

of everything concerning Labor in this country—and the world over.

ARTICLES
On every phase of working class activity.

STORIES
Of people who work for a living.

CARTOONS
By Labor's leading artists.

Workers Correspondence, Poems, Stories and Comics for the children—all go to make up

THE DAILY WORKER
"THE NATIONAL LABOR DAILY"

You'll enjoy the Saturday Magazine Section.

SUBSCRIBE!

And get it every day.

RATES (EXCEPT IN CHICAGO):

$6.00 12 Months | $3.50 6 Months | $2.00 3 Months

Send this blank with your remittance.

Name: .....

Street and No.: .....

City: ..... State: .....

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

LABOR FIGHTING ARMAMENTS PLAN IN AUSTRALIA

Oppose Building of New 10,000 Ton Cruisers

By W. FRANCIS AHERN.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 4.—Labor members in the federal parliament bitterly opposed the scheme of the Australian government to build new modern cruisers of 10,000 tons each. They declared that this increase in naval armament was contrary to the spirit of the Washington naval treaty, and a repetition of the old pre-war preparation that led to the last world-wide conflict.

Invasion Idea Piffle.

They ridiculed the idea of invasion of Australia which was put forward by navalists and militarists, and drew attention to the fact that those loudest in their demand for increased naval construction were, by a strange coincidence, the folk who stood to benefit from the war-mongering business. For that reason any "expert" advice they gave should be heavily discounted.

They pointed out, too, that prior to the last war the warmongers were busy preparing for war, and got what they were preparing for. It was then stated that there would be no more war, yet as soon as peace was signed the same gang of warmongers were shouting for preparation for another war.

Where's War to End War?

They informed the prime minister that at a recent conference of the league of nations he stated that if the building of armaments continued the world would be thrown into chaos. Yet today he was leading the gang of warmongers, yelling for increased armaments, presumably to help plunge the world into chaos again.

Labor took the attitude that those who prepared for war got war, and that on the general question of defense if the country was made worth fighting for there would be no need to worry about defending it. In other words, let Big Business make Australia "a land fit for heroes," and the workers would see to it that no hostile allen was allowed standing room on its shores.

45 Cents Is Reward To Worker's Rescue Of Cave-in Victims

DUBUUE, Ia., Sept. 4.—George Thompson, a laborer, had a check for 45 cents today to show for having rescued two workmen from death when they were buried in a sewer excavation after a cave-in. "It took me an hour to dig them out," Thompson said, "and when I finished the contractor gave me 45 cents, union scale." Thompson had been laid off four minutes before the cave-in occurred.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Take a Vote in Your Shop

HOW do the workers in your shop stand in this presidential election campaign?

How many of your shop mates are still so backward that they accept the leadership of Coolidge and Davis?

How many of your fellow workers have been fooled by the specious pleas of LaFollette and adopt this middle-class saviour?

And, above all, how many workers are there in your shop who understand that the working class must have its own party, its own policy, and its own candidate—and who therefore stand for William Z. Foster for president?

Take a vote in your shop. Send it in to the DAILY WORKER. We will compile it along with all the other shop votes and give you a picture of how the workers are thinking about the election issues and candidates.

WORKERS' STRAW VOTE

THE DAILY WORKER,
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

The workers employed in the shop of.....

.....have taken a straw vote on the presidential candidates, and the vote was as follows:

WM. Z. FOSTER ..... votes; LaFOLLETTE ..... votes;
Workers Party — No Party

DAVIS ..... votes; COOLIDGE ..... votes.
Democratic Party — Republican Party

I certify that this report is correct:

Name: .....

Address: .....

BOOM BUBBLE BURSTS WIDE OPEN IN SUNNY SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA; COMMUNIST INFLUENCE INCREASES

By ROBIN DUNBAR
(Special to The Daily Worker)

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 4.—The last year saw the boom burst in Southern California. Real estate fell flat; houses quit selling; "For Rent" signs, formerly scarce, became plentiful. Taking one block in Los Angeles, on 37th Street, there are "for rent" or "for sale" or "rooms for rent" signs on every house on one side of the street except two. And so on all over the city; and in Long Beach, where Signal Hill has been pumped dry; and in all the other towns and cities of southern California. Hard times have defiated the real estate boom era and other hot air artists, leaving a wake of busted buyers, and unemployed workers in their midst. The roads back east are full of disgusted tenderfeet who came out to make their fortunes, but went broke instead. All who can get away are leaving while the leaving's good. The petty bourgeoisie and the bourgeois-minded workers are sore and disgruntled. The long record of the one white spot on the dark financial map has been broken, and California has gone into eclipse with the rest of these black United States.

Communists Progressing.

On the other hand, the Communists here are in good spirit and making remarkable progress. The language locals, the English branch and the Young Workers are all growing and doing fine work. Hard times are better than good times for the spread of the Communist gospel. The unemployed are in a more receptive mood to listen to the truths of Marxism and Leninism. A full dinner pail makes capitalist votes, but an empty one on the contrary makes Communist ones. From that reasoning, Foster and Gitlow ought to poll a big vote in the Golden State, if they get on the ticket.

Wages have gone down with the increase of unemployed workers. To get on the payroll at any price is the effort of all save a few true union men. But the unions are weakening with the lack of jobs. Many are dropping out, and more are failing to pay their dues. The labor leaders, however, don't notice the hard times, not so long as enough dues come in to pay their lordly salaries. They are framing up the vote here for the petty capitalist politicians in the local field; and for the big capitalist politicians in the national era. Amongst the union men LaFollette doesn't seem to inspire much enthusiasm; nor do Coolidge or Davis. They take the pessimistic attitude toward politics of the down and out bourgeois business man: "Whats the use?"

Workers Awakened by Daily.

However, quite a number of copies of the DAILY WORKER find their way into the hands of union men, and the Communistic attitude toward politics is getting known and understood. "The world for the workers thru Soviets" is a slogan that has penetrated the ranks of the workers, and with the increase of hard times it will become popular.

While the mild climate of California may soften the asperities of hard times a bit, yet it doesn't cloak the grim facts of the class struggle; nor does it dampen the ardor of the working Communists. The naval maneuvers this fall will call the west's attention to the feverish preparation for war going on in the bourgeois governments, and serve to stir up the workers to active organization against another holocaust like the last one. However, the vast majority of workers will, as Lenin prophesied, again fight for their own bourgeoisie; those of California included. But the seeds of proletarian military organization are being sown and are falling on fertile soil. So it may be hoped that the Comintern will serve as a brake for the maddened bourgeoisie before it reaps another gigantic harvest of destruction and death.

Says Democratic Plank Will Bring War with Russia

(By the Federated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—In an article in the current National Republican, Herman W. Craven declares that the democratic platform pledge to "fulfill President Wilson's arbitral award respecting Armenia," would, if carried out, involve war with Russia and Turkey.

Wilson announced, on Jan. 2, 1921, his decision as arbitrator of the boundaries of the Armenian state created by the Sevres treaty. But in August, 1920, Soviet troops had crossed Armenia to assist the Turk Nationalists under Kemal Pasha in overturning the Armenian regime set up by the allied imperialists. When the Turks drove the Greeks out of Asia Minor the fate of an independent Armenian state was settled. Russian Armenia is a part of the Union of Socialist Republics today, while Turkish Armenia is almost depopulated. The democratic platform pledge is a mockery of historic fact, worthy of Hughes himself.

American Workers to Have Their Own "Who's Who" Soon

(By Federated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 4. — The first American Labor Who's Who, containing 3000 names, will be ready for publication in a few months. It will give brief accounts of 1800 labor unionists, 400 labor political chieftains, 150 labor educators, 100 labor bankers, 100 co-operators and 100 labor researchers, writers, editors, speakers and economists. About 300 foreign labor men will also be listed. The material has been gathered by the Rand School labor research department thru questionnaires submitted to the individuals, who are to appear in the forthcoming volume.

The British Labor movement made the first experiment in a labor directory. In January, 1924, it published the Labor Who's Who, including 900 individuals in the labor and co-operative movement.

Boston Section of International Aid For Workers' Report

BOSTON, Mass., September 4.—The financial report of the Boston Section of the International Workers' Aid, which has been engaged in relief work for the starving workers and children in Germany, shows an income of $40,478.82 and expenditures amounting to $4,057.99. This report dates from the beginning of the organization, August 13, 1921, to December 31, 1923. The receipts have come from contributions, entertainments and Russian Film showings. During this period the Boston section remitted to the National Office of I. W. A. (formerly F. S. R.), $36,420.83.

One Horse Town is Going on Rocks as Mill Goes Parttime

By F. W. LEIGHTON.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

KENNEBUNK, Maine, Sept. 4.—The Sanford Worsted Mills of this city, employing ordinarily about 400 women, have been operating three days a week for the last 15 months. In the yarn department, girls average 30 cents an hour; weavers, 55. Many families are suffering want, even summer work at the beaches nearby, where city people from all parts of the country spend their money, not being sufficient to make up the family budget.

You can get sample copies of the DAILY WORKER any time at the DAILY WORKER office.

ELDORADO MINERS SAY JOBLESSNESS WORST IN YEARS

Thousands Walk Streets Without Hope of Work

By KARL REEVE.
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker.)

ELDORADO, Ill., Sept. 4. — "I've been mining 32 years, and I'm worse off now than when I started," was the first remark made to me by an unemployed miner in Eldorado. He gave his name as John Taylor, State St., and said that over three thousand miners in this one little town are out of work.

Could Get Picture of 10,000.

Arne Swabeck, Arley Staples and myself invaded the town with camera, typewriters and baggage. We found over one hundred miners loafing around the street corner. They had given up looking for work. We asked them to pose for a picture, and they wanted to know what paper we represented. When I replied, "The DAILY WORKER," Taylor said, "Oh, that's all right. If it wasn't a good labor paper I wouldn't do it." As we snapped the picture one of the miners called out: "If you gave us a couple of hours' notice we could get 10,000 unemployed miners here to pose for a picture. There's plenty of us."

The No. 8 and No. 11 mines of the O'Gara Coal Company, employing 400 and 350 men, respectively, are completely shut down. The O'Gara Coal Company is generally understood to belong to the New York Central Railroad. It was brought into court some years ago for violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws.

Mines Closed Here, Too.

The mine of the Peabody Coal Company, one mile from here, in ordinary times employing 400 men, is also closed up. The Wasson mine, employing 500 men, works at most four days a week. The Grayson mine, two miles from town, employing 450 men, has been closed up eight months.

"Daddy" A. R. Mills, 73 years old, told a little about his last 40 years spent digging coal. "Daddy" worked in the mines steadily up until three years ago, when he retired. "I have never seen any unemployment period such as we have at the present time," said Mills. "We'll have to do something pretty soon or the union will go to smash."

He mentioned the $30,000 spent by the old age pension committee, squandered while "investigating" the old age pension. "And still no provision has been made for the care of the veterans of the union," Mills added.

K. K. K. Denounced.

Mills, who lives at 1317 North State St., denounced the Ku Klux Klan which, they are doing to the miners' organization in the Southwestern States proves that their real purpose is to disrupt the unions and divide the workers."

"I started mining coal in Victoria, Ohio County, Kentucky, and went thru my first strike there. We struck for a raise of 25 cents a ton and got it. There was just as much solidarity among the miners then as there is now. But there were no official machines which the miners had to fight as well as the bosses."

Harvey Clark, secretary of Local Union 1677, Eldorado, and Ed Pennington, secretary of the Trades and Labor Assembly, met on the street corner by the DAILY WORKER reporter, asked that bundles of the DAILY WORKER be sent them which contained the write-up of Eldorado and the surrounding towns. They agreed to take the matter of buying them up with their organization. This offer was not solicited.

Campaign Trickery Begins.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 4.—That the Indian vote in Maricopa county will be very light in the coming election is indicated by registration officials. Of the 4,000 or 5,000 Indians in the county eligible to vote under the recent act of congress, most will automatically be barred from voting due to the fact that state and counties are not permitted to create new voting precincts within Indian reservations.

SILENT CAL FORGETS TO MUZZLE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR REPORTS; SHOW JOB CONDITIONS ARE BAD

By LELAND OLDS
(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

Unemployment as severe as in the critical summer of 1921 shows just what the worker has to expect from a favorite administration of "Big Biz." It's a wonder that Cautious Cal didn't muzzle his department of labor before it issued the July employment report which shows that over 1,300,000 factory workers who had jobs in July, 1923, are on the street, looking for work today. This means a drop of 14.3 per cent in the number on factory payrolls since last July and brings employment to a level 22 per cent below the census year 1919.

Purchasing Power Declines.

The decline in the purchasing power of the factory population is even more serious. In July it was 19.3 per cent below July, 1923. That means that the buying capacity of families dependent on factory wages has been reduced by one-fifth.

Employment decreased 4 per cent between June and July, but the department does not hold the depression which has been developing since 1923 entirely responsible for this decline. Regular seasonal changes including inventory and vacation periods are in part to blame. But the decrease was general affecting 45 of the 52 industries" covered by the report. Compared with July, 1923, employment declined in 48 of the 52 industries, including lay-offs of more than 20 per cent in each of 11 industries.

4 Percent Drop in Wages.

The average weekly pay of workers who still had a job in July amounted to $24.42 showing a decline of 4 per cent compared with June and 5.9 per cent compared with the previous year. The average weekly pay envelopes in the major groups of industries this July and a year ago appear as follows:

	1923	1924
Food and food products	$25.09	$25.74
Textiles and clothing	20.62	18.57
Iron, steel and products	28.09	25.45
Lumber and its products	21.50	21.19
Leather and its products	22.64	21.50
Paper and printing	29.96	29.80
Chemicals, etc.	29.83	28.98
Stone, clay and glass	25.47	25.77
Tobacco products	17.60	17.82
Vehicles	30.94	27.75
Miscellaneous	27.40	27.60

Wage rate increases were reported by 12 establishments and decreases by 124 establishments. The increases affected 1,223 employes while the decreases affected 25,488. According to the department these changes indicate no general trend except in the case of 30 sawmills which cut the wage rates of 9000 employes and of 14 iron and steel plants which decreased the wage rates of 6,000 employes.

Strike Averted by Movie Men Signing Up New Agreement

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.—The signing of an agreement with the union by the employers averts a projected general strike of motion picture operators and stage hands here. The old scale was from $9 to $60 a week and the new agreement provides for a 10 per cent increase. Contracts have been signed with theatres here, according to the union.

Negotiations with the musicians are still pending. This craft receives from $35 to $40 a week and demands an increase of 25 per cent. The musicians here are solidly unionized and a strike is not anticipated at this writing.

Claim Small Helpless.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 4.—Unless the committee of Williamson County commissioners which was reported to be planning to ask Governor Small to remove Sheriff Gilligan of that county from office, presents evidence that the sheriff has permitted prisoners to escape, the governor will have no power to act, according to opinion at the state capital.

Under the Illinois law, it was stated, Governor Small is empowered to remove a sheriff only on one ground—loss of prisoners. No cases of escape of prisoners from the Williamson county sheriff were recalled here.

FOUR CAPITALIST POWERS JOIN IN THREAT TO CHINA

U. S. Navy Commanders Given Power to Act

PEKING, China, Sept. 4. — The United States, Great Britain, France and Japan today joined in a "four power" note to the Chinese government advising the Peking regime will be held responsible for all foreign losses in the civil war that appears imminent.

Reports of actual fighting have been rife but no confirmation has been received.

* * *

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Meager consular advices reaching the state department today indicate a grave situation in China as the result of revolutionary activities in the vicinity of Shanghai.

Consul-General Cunningham at Shanghai reported that 20,000 Kiangsu troops had assembled near Soo Chow and that there had been some fighting, according to reports from Peking.

Commanders of United States warships in Asiatic waters have authority to take any action that they deem necessary to protect American property.

Your Union Meeting

FIRST FRIDAY, SEPT. 5, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting.
237	Bakers and Conf., 3420 W. Roosevelt.
8	Bookbinders, 175 W. Washington Sch.
29	Broom Makers, 810 W. Harrison St.
	Building Trades Council, 180 W. Washington.
	Carpenters' Dis. Council, 505 S. Ashland Blvd.
1	Carpenters, 175 W. Washington.
70	Carpenters, 2705 W. 35th St.
2200	Carpenters, 4339 S. Halsted,St.
1	Carpenters, 2901 W. Monroe St.
214	Electricians, 4141 W. Lake St.
779	Electricians, R. R., 5324 S. Halsted
564	Firemen and Enginemen, 5438 S. Halsted St.
84	Glass Workers, Emily and Marshfield.
225	Hod Carriers, Monroe and Peoria Sts.
	Ladies' Garment Workers, Joint Board, 328 W. Van Buren St.
83	Machinists, 111 S. Ashland Blvd.
273	Machinists, 2345 So. Keddie Ave.
637	Painters, School and Sheffield Ave.
863	Painters, 3140 Indiana Ave.
1332	Pattern Makers, 119 S. Throop St.
577	Painters, 3140 Indiana Ave.
346	Railway Carmen, 9251 S. Chicago Ave.
376	Railway Carmen, Village Hall, Kolmar, Ill.
998	Railway Carmen, 5445 S. Ashland Ave.
328	Railway Clerks, 20 W. Randolph St.
879	Railway Clerks, 9 S. Clinton St.
1356	Railway Clerks, Ft. Dearborn Hotel.
4	Railroad Trainmen, 1536 E. 64th St.
119	Railroad Trainmen, 3249 North Ave.
198	Railroad Trainmen, 9120 Commercial Ave.
367	Sheet Metal Workers, Ashland and Van Buren.
	South Chicago Trades and Labor Assembly, 9139 Commercial Ave.
2	Stage Hands, 412 Capitol Bldg.
72	Steel Workers, 3409 Wolfram Ave.
3	Teachers (Women), Women's City Club Rooms, 4:30 p. m.
	Telegraphers (Com.) 312 S. Clark St.
484	Waitresses, 19 W. Adams St., 8 p. m.
	Women's Union Label League 220 S. Ashland Blvd.

(Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

Model Prisoner Skips Off.

Search was proceeding today for Lyman Hall, 51, a "lifer" who escaped from the Joliet Penitentiary after 27 years as the "model prisoner" during which time he spurned many opportunities to get away.

50,000 Bucks Gone to Hell.

To date Cook County has spent $50,000 in its efforts to send Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb to the gallow's for the slaying of Robert Franks.

MAN OF SCIENCE TELLS A FEW IN TALK ON I. W. W.

Says Bad Conditions Bring Discontent

By SYDNEY WARREN.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Sept. 4.—The practice of leaving stranded immigrants, employed as harvesters, on the prairies to shift for themselves was scored by Sir William Ashley, of the University of Birmingham, a noted scientist, now visiting Canada. He declared that it was such treatment that gave rise to the I. W. W.

Why Men Organize.

"This practice of turning away men and forgetting about them, once they have served the farmer's purpose, is a shocking state of affairs. The Industrial Workers of the World are organized to oppose this sort of thing and they are growing into a force which will have to be reckoned with," he warned.

"If I had to employ harvesters, I would be greatly disturbed by the annual newspaper stories reporting suffering and want on the part of men who have been working on the farms.

"When people get the spirit of true democracy in their bones they should develop a sense of pride which will not tolerate certain conditions in their community, but when I walk thru a typical Canadian manufacturing plant I ask myself to what extent do the workmen share in your advantages? What privileges are you prepared to extend to these same men?"

Electric Power.

Referring to the great amount of electric power in Canada, Sir William Ashley said that it was of no use to the vast majority of people, since it was privately owned for profit and not public service.

"In her hydro-electric plants, Canada wields mighty power," declared the British economist. "What use is she going to make of it, in terms of human lives?"

"See to it that this God-given advantage of mighty power is utilised to the fullest and best advantage so that all benefit from the gift."

A CORRECTION.

On August 23rd the DAILY WORKER published a story by Karl Reeve on the conditions in the mines in O'Fallon, Ill. Among the numerous accounts of the conditions that prevail in the mines in that district our correspondent was informed that the Miners' Co-operative Stores have been suspended.

A correction has been made in this story by one of the miners of O'Fallon, who claims that all of the Miners' Stores have not been suspended. Some of them are still managing to continue in "pretty fair condition."

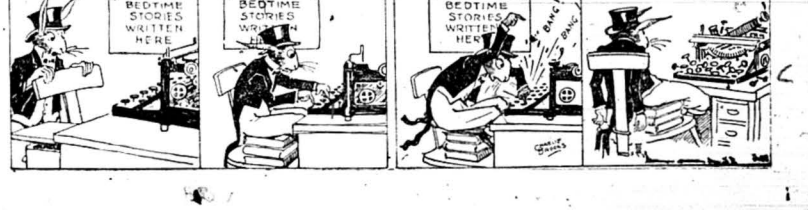
This miner also takes exception to the part in Reeve's story which depicted the run-down condition of the local union thru lack of funds to carry on. Altho the union's funds are all out due to the miners being continually out of work, the $500 that they borrowed from the Sick Association for Relief of Distressed Brothers has not been used up. This applies also to the subdistrict.

Join the Workers Party!

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
73 W. VanBuren St.
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Reliable Dental Service for 20 Years.
445 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
MEM CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS — A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN



THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year	$3.50—6 months	$2.00—3 months
By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year	$4.50—6 months	$2.50—3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE } Editors
MORITZ J. LOEB ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923 at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application.

Mobilizing for Capitalism

In watching the line-up of those who support Mobilization Day, September 12th, and the militaristic demonstrations that have been planned for that occasion, it is very interesting to see who it is that has been able to command the greatest participation. Department stores, pledging the 100% support of their white-collar slaves, have taken the lead with banks, offering the services of their clerks, a close second. The managers of these two lines of enterprise have no hesitation in pledging, in behalf of their employes, that they will be present in force.

These poor slaves of the ribbon counter and the counting room have very little to say for themselves. In spite of being forced, as a part of their equipment for a job, to wear clean shirts and collars, they are among the most exploited and sweated of proletarians. At the same time they occupy the most servile position in society. This is true to some extent in every country, but nowhere quite so much as in the United States. In Europe this class of workers often gets up enough courage to strike for better conditions. Such incidents are so rare in America as to be curiosities.

Perhaps there is something in the psychology of clothes, that makes the $75 to $150 per month clerk think that he belongs in a class superior to the sweaty mechanic who earns $5 to $10 per day. Or again it may be that the close proximity to the mighty boss in which he works, has the effect of overawing the poor white-collar stiff. Or the nature of his work, sedentary and confining, may sap much of the manhood out of these poor mannikins who begin life with about the same equipment as any other victim of the capitalist system. At any rate, it is worthy of note that when it comes to organising mobilization days, or launching a Fascist movement, it is the white-collar elements that are the first tools of the capitalist class. This is a fact that calls for more attention being paid to the education of clerical workers to their class position in society.

Youth Day

Celebration of International Youth Day, on September 7, is being widely organized by the Young Workers League of America. For the first time in this country an organization has appeared that gives expression to the working class aspirations of the millions of young toilers in the mines, shops, and factories. Challenging the various agencies of the employing class, such as the various christian associations, athletic clubs, and company associations, all of which are subsidized and controlled by the class enemies of the young workers, the Y. W. L. is making great strides forward in releasing this younger generation from the dominance of these hostile elements.

By its work the Young Workers League has commanded the admiration and support of all class conscious workers in the land. And on Youth Day, September 7, young and old should unite to celebrate the achievements, not alone of the youth movement in America, but also of the Young Communist International all over the world, of which the Y. W. L. in this country is a section. For these achievements are full of great promise for the future.

The organization of the revolutionary working class in America is woefully behind that of the rest of the world. And a large proportion of the older generation of workers have been hopelessly corrupted by bourgeois ideas and prejudices. In the last analysis it is only the youth that can completely free themselves, in great numbers, from this insidious slavery. And it follows as a consequence, that upon the youth of today rests the task of building the leading organs of the proletarian revolution that is to come in America. Every assistance given to Youth Day is a direct participation in building the Communist Party of the future that will establish the Soviet Republic of America.

With Illinois labor officials supporting Len Small for governor, and with Small reported as a member of the K. K. K., and with the K. K. K. being used as an instrument of destruction against the miners' union—what will the State Federation do about the question when it meets in Peoria next week?

In Russia the railroad workers publish their own daily paper, which has an extremely large circulation and is quite popular. It is called the Gudok, which is Russian for Whistle. Bill Dunne, one of the editors of the DAILY WORKER, is announced as a new contributor, in a current issue just received.

Send in that new "sub" today!

A Paragon of Slaves

There is an old story that used to be popular out in the small towns, about the man who purchased an ostrich egg, put it in his hen house, and attached a sign, reading: "Look at this and do your best."

Following the same principle that the capitalist papers are joyfully relating the fact that a certain Mr. Friend has just completed fifty years as a servant of the Boston Store in Chicago, during which time he never missed a day from work, and for fifteen years had not even a vacation. This glorious achievement is fittingly climaxed by the fact that Mr. Friend had been rewarded for his virtue by becoming a "manager" of something or other about the Boston Store.

"Opportunities are just as numerous now as they were then," complacently remarks this paragon of the wage system, and one can almost see the self-congratulatory thoughts drifting about in his mind, as he reflects upon his wonderful rise in life thru he practice of the virtues of early bourgeois society.

But somehow or other we have a vague feeling that the ostrich egg didn't accomplish much with the hens. They were just another kind of bird, that is all, and no propaganda was needed to show the industrious plymouth rock manufacturer of breakfast food that it was foolish to entertain any illusions. No more is it necessary for us to draw any morals about the wonderful opportunities that are open to the young men and women of today to rise in the world like Mr. Friend, thru fifty years of continuous servility to the Boston Store. Those birds are as extinct as the Dodo.

Policing the Schools

The presence of police around the factory gates has long been a familiar sight in America. It is accepted as a regular institution now, and rouses little comment, for the class struggle cannot be blinked even by the reactionaries, in the bitter fights over wages and hours. Theoretically they will contend that the struggle does not exist, but practically they must participate in it, if only to betray the fight.

But the latest development in Chicago, the opening of school under police protection, is an extension of the class struggle that was hardly expected so soon in this country. The factory foreman transformed into Superintendent of Schools, Mc Andrew, was seemingly brought to Chicago to establish the methods of capitalist industry into the school system. He has succeeded so well that, on the very first day of school, he not only cracks the whip of capitalist discipline viciously over the cowering but resisting school teachers, but he even involves hundreds of parents of pupils in a struggle that brings the police into the school rooms to insure the installation of his methods.

Well, well, it was not exactly in the books, but as schools are supposed to be places of education, and we know of no more effective agency to beat ideas into the heads of the working class than that same policeman's club that McAndrew calls upon, we cannot entirely regret the situation. It is really instructive to see a Superintendent who so brutally and frankly uses the methods of suppression that are time-honored in industry. McAndrew is so crude that he brings out the class struggle before all eyes, in the form of police in the school room, instead of smoothing it over and camouflaging it in the language of collaboration. Which is educational, if not in the conventional sense.

Take the Campaign to the Shops

The campaign for the Communist candidates is being carried into the shops and industries. Yesterday's paper carried the statement from the Needle Trades Committee organized to support Foster and Gitlow. Other industrial committees are in process of formation. In Chicago the comrades are preparing an organized straw vote at the factory gates, with the wide spread distribution of Communist literature. From many points come reports that the Communist campaign finds its principal point of activity in the places of work.

All of which is a very healthy and natural development. It fits exactly into the trend of world development, and into the whole conception of the Communist International, which bases the revolutionary movement, organizationally and ideologically, upon the workshop unit, the shop nucleus. It is in the shops that the workers develop the characteristic class point of view and attitude toward all big questions. It is in the shops that the class struggle finds its most concrete and understandable forms. It is in the shops that the exploitation of the workers takes place, the struggle against which is the starting point of the proletarian revolution.

"To the shops, mills, and mines, with the Communist campaign," should be the slogan of every Communist and every supporter of Foster and Gitlow in the presidential campaign. Let every factory gate be the scene of political education, carried on by literature, by conversation, and by meetings. Let every shop be the scene of discussions, as to who properly represents the interests of the working class in this campaign. Let straw votes be taken, after the deepest possible discussion has developed, and then give publicity to the results. Let the party members in every shop and work place organize themselves into a special campaign committee. If these things are done then this campaign of the year 1924 will go down in history as the beginnings of the revolutionary movement on a mass scale in America.

Dawes is silent on the crimes of the Ku Klux Klan at Herrin. Len Small refuses to answer the charge of affiliation with the Klan. It is easy to read their guilt in their silence.

U. S. Colonel Urges Soviet Recognition

(Continued from Page 1)

"I am neither a Bolshevik nor a 'White propagandist,'" said Colonel Haskell. "I have no axe to grind. I have camped inside and on the edge of Russia for the last five or six years and have come in contact with both Bolshevist and anti-Bolshevist leaders.

"There are three things to keep in mind when listening to things about Russia. The first is that you must realize the present regime's dreadful fear of a counter-revolution, which explains many things. Then remember that you cannot bulldoze the Russian people. You are not talking to a Central American Republic, a little country of 5,000,000 people, but to half of Europe and half of Asia, a country with 150,000,000 population and 1,000 years of history.

"The third thing is that most of what you hear comes from exiled monarchists, landowners who have lost their estates and others who want the present regime, whether good or bad, overturned because of the possibility of regaining what they had before."

Gompers a King.

Colonel Haskell paid his respects to the reactionary bureaucracy of the American Federation of Labor which has been the chief aid of Charles Evans Hughes in his anti-Russian policy.

"The American Federation of Labor is a conservative organization headed by Sam Gompers, who is its King," he declared, "and it has opposed every tendency toward liberal thought regarding Russia because it might affect its power and prestige."

He questioned the motives of the professional anti-Bolshevists who go around unearthing red plots and schemes. These perverts use fabricated evidence in order to justify their existence and obtain Government money. He was referring no doubt to the activities of the anti-Russian bureau of the Department of Justice and to the other panhandling organizations that live on their wits.

Kept Railroad Running.

Replying to Bakhmeteff's attack on the Soviet government for exporting grain during the famine of 1921, Col. Haskell said that had they not done this, they could not have raised the money to keep the railways and factories running. People who criticised the Soviet Government for not selling the crown jewels at that time did not realize that the jewels if sent abroad might be attached for old debts.

While there is no technical blockade of Soviet Russia, the Colonel went on, there is an actual blockade. Every business man knows that no considerable investment of capital will be made in Russia until it can be protected by the United States government. No business concern will send capital into Russia without American personnel to look after it and no American personnel will be sent into Russia until assured of protection."

Dealing with the questions of the billions of foreign debts owed by Russia, Col. Haskell said:

Backed Wrong Horse.

"In talking about those billions of foreign debts owed by Russia, don't for get the offset charges owed by France and Great Britain to Russia. I know that France and Great Britain supported the White counter-revolution, because I saw their tanks and airplanes myself. The Allies backed the wrong horse, and now they have got to pay their losses. We must not lend ourselves to anything between England or France and Russia. We will not pick their chestnuts out of the fire. We will just do our own business with Russia."

Colonel Haskell then made the following suggestion for dealing with the Soviet Government:

"I believe that much could be gained, and perhaps normal conditions established, if a conference could be brought about at which the Russians could be officially advised that we are not willing to discuss such questions as the Archangel expedition, Siberian mission, etc., which were simply missions to protect American property, but that we are ready to have them state whether or not, and to what degree, they are willing to adapt themselves to the minimum requirements on which we shall undoubtedly stand indefinitely.

Hope For Success.

"Personally, I believe that they will accept the conditions. Every bit of opinion that I have leads me to believe that a conference of that nature would result in success; that the debts would be acknowledged and arrangements made for long-term, voluntary payments; that reimbursement or compensation in other forms would be arranged for our nationals who have lost property in Russia, and that any propaganda which does actually exist would be discontinued.

Ruhl Differs With Bakhmeteff.

"It must always be borne in mind that the economic reconstruction of Russia is a most important matter now before the Soviet Government. Without the help of foreign capital Russia can never evolve into anything other than a low-grade agricultural country; or, at least, it will take a very long period of years. On the other hand, with capital for development, Russia can re-establish herself as an important factor in the industrial life of Europe within a remarkably short time."

Mr. Ruhl argued for some "frank and open contact" between the Government of the United States and Soviet Russia, whether recognition or not.

Would Hire A Hall.

"Whether this should be thru a trade mission, a Commissioner, such as we had in the Baltic States before they were recognized, or merely one of our famous unofficial observers," he went on, "there should be some building, some room, at least, in Russia, with an American flag over it, an American plate on the door and some wide-awake and constructive American in charge who could at least act as a source of prompt and reliable information, a symbol of America's interest in this tremendous Russian experiment and of American sympathy for the Russian people."

Mr. Ruhl took issue with Dr. Bakhmeteff and Mr. Spargo in their statements that the new economic policy introduced by Lenin had been abandoned. He said that it remained unchanged in its essentials.

AS WE SEE IT - - By T. J. O'Flaherty

(Continued from page 1)

not care how many laws the capitalists and their minions break, but if the workers happen to get the best of a scrimmage, it is the skunk's nostrils so to speak.

• • •

WHEN the General was delivering himself of his dissertation on law he forgot to mention the name of a certain banker who loaned the crook Lorimer of glorious Republican memory the tidy sum of $1,250,000 with which to bamboozle the federal bank examiners, and thus violate the law. The worthy Mr. Lorimer helped to put the worthy Dawes in politics therefore one good turn deserves another. The worthy Mr. Lorimer thru his banking operation robbed thousands of depositors of their hard-earned savings and the $1,250,000 which the other banker loaned him to fool the limb of the law never left the other banker's vault. Who was the other banker? None other than the law-loving Mr. Dawes.

• • •

IF you are a movie addict, you may see the picture of Calvin Coolidge, Henry Firestone, Henry Ford and Thomas Edison signing their names on the bottom of an old sap bucket, a Coolidge heirloom, which is now in Ford's Waverly Inn. Many cool autumns and cold winters have come and gone since first this bucket brot its sap to the Coolidge family but even tho the bucket is no longer in its old haunts, we think enuf sap will remain in the Coolidge family to keep their brains greased so long as Silent Cal inhabits this mundane sphere. It may be less majestic to call a peraltic a sapbead, therefore we allow our readers to draw their own conclusions.

• • •

JOSEPH SHARTS of Dayton, Ohio is candidate for governor of that state on the socialist party ticket. A letter issued by the socialist party of Ohio brings out the strong vote-getting points in the life and activities of Sharts. Here they are. He is listed in "Who's Who;" a member of the Masonic Order; a Spanish War Veteran; a member of Montgomery County Bar Association and of the Harvard Club of Dayton. The candidates for lieutenant governor and secretary of state are manufacturers. The candidate for attorney-general is a member of the Odd Fellows. But why not? Morris Hillquit is a millionaire coal dealer. Some socialist party!

• • •

MR. SHARTS is also editor of the Miami Valley Socialist but that is only a minor attraction. Tho a Mason, Mr. Sharts has defended the Catholic Church against the Ku Klux Klan, in his own paper. But the Catholic Church, like Samuel Gompers, has no half-way house and Mr. Sharts was kicked in the shins for his pains. "He that is neither hot nor cold I shall vomit out of my mouth" are words to that effect were uttered by the meek and lowly Nazarene. Joseph Sharts and his kind would make a crocodile vomit.

• • •

THE honor of America is saved again. Not since Jack Dempsey escaped Angelo Firpo's deadly haymaker, were United States patriots so well pleased as when Wise Counsellor, the American steed won by three-quarters of a length over Epinard, his French rival. The best of it was that the Prince of Wales was watching the contest. The event took place at Belmont Park. Several thousand people witnessed the affair, including a few members of the proletariat, who were looking after the animals. But the vulgarly rich proletariat, whose greed for more luxury so offends the Chicago Tribune may have tuned in their trusty radios and listened to the sound of the horses hoofs, the cheering of the fans, the laughter of the winning gamblers and the groans of the losers. But they grumble because they could not afford to be at the races.

• • •

LABOR DAY was celebrated in New York by those who follow the lead of the Central Trades and Labor Council at Fort Hamilton, where the army played host to several thousand workers. The speakers were James L. Lewis, Major General Robert L. Lee Bullard and sundry labor fakers. According to reports there was little enthusiasm on the part of the workers for the militaristic speeches given by the government civilian and army leaders. A representative of Samuel Gompers declared that the old labor faker could not be present as "he was near the grave." Every black cloud has a silver lining.

• • •

SECRETARY JAMES J. DAVIS delivered his usual twaddle about the alleged prosperity of the American worker who was able to keep his dinner pail full and if he shut his ears to imported ideas he would be alright.

The audience could have shut their ears to the drivel of this capitalist bootlicker, without missing anything of value to them. General Bullard told the workers that the soldiers were their friends. When the soldiers were called upon to interfere in labor disputes they were always imbued with one motive and that was to see that the law was observed by both sides. Labor leaders had no fault to find with the army, declared the general. He said much more.

• • •

SOLDIERS have been called out in industrial disputes thousands of times and they have used rifles and machine guns, but never against the capitalists to our knowledge. Rather remarkable that all the law violations can be charged to the workers. When the private soldiers in rare cases show some sympathy for the strikers they are courtmartialed as happened during the miners' march on Logan County, West Va. Class collaboration in the United States is no longer a haphazard scheme advocated by detective agencies like the Sherman Service and others. It is adopted by the government and is being abused by capitalist lieutenants from the labor fakers to the army officers. As the editorial in yesterday's DAILY WORKER points out fraternization between the workers and the soldiers is desirable but the thing that is boosted by the labor fakers and the master class is entirely different.

• • •

ONLY a few years ago the constitutions of several international unions had a clause in their constitutions prohibiting their members from joining the militia because of its strikebreaking activities. Since then the labor fakers have gone over body and soul to the capitalists. The first real big money was offered to them during the war. The capitalists were making millions and they could afford to be generous. Besides it was a good investment. Labor fakers are no more enthusiastic supporters of militarism than the labor fakers.

• • •

THERE is no longer a progressive wing in the American Federation of Labor leadership unless it be in the deaf and dumb section. Gompers used to be a pacifist a few years ago. Today he is a raving jingo. Up until recently it was not uncommon for a labor leader to stand up and say things that did not go down very well with the capitalists. But today the capitalist press is obliged to pull the labor fakers' acclaim and suggest that they might be a little bit too raw. Better go slow. The workers forget quickly but they hold ideas a little longer than an ordinary stomach holds a physic.

• • •

THE faster the labor fakers travel toward the capitalist slop trough the sooner will the masses recognize them for the swine that they are. All the bright ideas that were ever hatched in the brains of capitalism's paid hirelings will not eliminate the class struggle so long as capitalism exists. The capitalists gain time by drugging the workers with illusions. They are able to fool the workers by using their former trusted leaders as mouthpieces. But the workers are developing other leaders, radical leaders. As yet their influence is not great. But they have the right message and the masses will listen to them when the growing failure of capitalism to satisfy the needs of the workers will compel them to listen. The future belongs to the revolutionists.

THE VIEWS OF OUR READERS ON LIFE, LABOR, INDUSTRY, POLITICS

Miner's Wife Speaks.

To the DAILY WORKER: A week has passed since we received your notice that our subscription has expired. I think it is my duty to explain the reason we have not sent in our renewal since you have not stopped sending us your most welcome paper.

Conditions are very bad in this district. My husband is a miner. There is a scarcity of work in the mines and a part temporary unemployment is something every miner must face thru out the year. My husband's luck has been such as to have to wait three months in between job times.

Union Lacks Unity.

The cause of this condition can be traced to lack of unity in the rank and file. If they all together some means for improving this condition could be found.

The union officers from local up to district and even national, do nothing to meet this condition or any other problem that confronts the rank and file of labor.

Since I came from Italy, some 29 years ago, District 14 has been steadily going backward. At that time at least the miners did not have the check off system to rob their meager wages to keep officers who do nothing for them.

Let me give you an example of the uselessness of these officials to the rank and file miners.

Miners Out of Work.

A company owning six mines decides to shut down two of them. Nothing is done about placing the miners thrown out of work in the remaining four mines. The cause is not even investigated. The miners are thrown out of work and they shift for themselves.

The miners, thrown out of work, are confronted with the most contemptible conditions in the hiring system in the mines. A union man who pays his dues to his union for the protection of his interests must have a friend in the mine to put in a good word for him to the superintendent or mine foreman. This friend tries in every way possible to get into the good graces of the superintendent to get work for his friend.

It has been the experience of many union miners here to walk from one mine to another, day in and day out, only to receive the reply "filled up," "nothing doing." But in these very same mines men received employment only a half hour later because that man had a "pull."

One encouraging thing is that the American born workers are realizing the mistake they made in holding aloof from the foreign born worker. I hope that more speakers will try to educate them to the need for all workers to stick together no matter of what nationality to better their working conditions.

When the progressive miners put up a fight in Kansas against John Lewis and Company many miners felt that at last they were approaching a way to save their union.

I hope you will print this letter to give your readers an idea of the conditions that exist in the mines in Kansas and the uselessness of the union officials.

A MINER'S WIFE,
Franklin, Kansas.

Dirt Farmer Agrees with Daily.

To the DAILY WORKER: Some one sent me the DAILY WORKER of July 22nd. On page six you have a good article on the farmer.

Being a farmer myself for 44 years in the same township, my word ought to carry some weight.

I am a swivel chair farmer but have tilled the soil, grubbed over 300 acres of heavy timbered land, and turned these forests into fertile fields. With my entire family working, after 44 years, I am next door to bankruptcy.

When wheat commenced to rise in price, not one farmer in ten had a kernel to sell. But the rise was an injury to farmers and hundreds of thousands have to buy flour until they thrash in September or October, so you hit the mark by showing that it is a grain gamblers' deal, and an injury to the real dirt farmer.

I am a candidate for State representative from Otter Tail County, Minn. If elected there will be one Farmer-Labor Party Scotch thistle in the side of capitalism.—Sam G. Wallace, Derham, Minn.

Angry Sheep and Goats.

To the DAILY WORKER.—Matt Woll, of the American Federation of Labor, is keeping tab on labor papers during the campaign to see which ones support LaFollette and which do not, or, as he puts it "to separate the sheep from the goats."

Sheep is right. Like a flock of sheep, all gone astray, many workers and farmers will follow LaFollette. Later, if he is elected, the business men whose interests LaFollette represent will laugh a lot at the poor silly sheep—and then shear them.

But there will come a day when the sheepish workers will wake up. I have heard of an ancient French proverb: "There is nothing so terrible as an angry sheep."—W. R Clark, Tacoma, Wash.

YALE UNIVERSITY
OCT 22 1924
LIBRARY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

5 CENTS Including Saturday Magazine Section. In all other days. Three Cents per Copy.

Vol. II. No. 144. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1924 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 5 Cents

HERRIOT DECLINES PEACE OFFER

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THE American capitalist government has decided to give the Pershing defense plan a test on Sept. 12. On that day the militarists will try to inject as much war madness into the systems of the American people as possible. They feel that another war is not far in the future and now is the time to prepare the ground for it. The "war to end war" has just been called off and Morgan is making almost as much money out of the peace as he made out of the war. When peace is played out, then Morgan will tell his political and military servants to bring on their darned war. But readers, this is not a dictatorship. This is a democracy and you live in a free country!

• • •

THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE does not intend to join in the howl for another feast of human flesh and blood on September 12. That organization will carry on a national campaign against war on Sept. 7. Not alone in America but in every country in the world the youth movement affiliated with the Young Communist International, will urge the workers to fight against the capitalists and their wars. At these meetings the young workers will be told that the only way to get rid of wars is to get rid of capitalism. When the war bugles ring out, the young are the first to be grabbed and placed in front of the cannon. What a glorious prospect for the young workers of America! To have their lives suddenly blotted out by shrapnel, poison gas, bomb, bayonet or any of the other weapons of death that are fashioned by our Christian capitalists for the destruction of human beings.

• • •

ARTHUR BRISBANE once had a reputation for being somewhat of a radical. His daily column in the Hearst papers won popular favor because it slammed things as they are, occasionally. But of late years Brisbane has coddled to the rich, particularly Rockefeller. Some days Arthur will tell us that the workers will rule the world in the future. On the following day he may venture the opinion that they never will, because they cannot unite. He praises Coolidge because he is silent and wise. He forgets himself a few days later and suggests that Calvin's silence is due to a good sized brain vacuum.

• • •

BRISBANE may be crazy in his declining years, but not so that the real estate agents can notice it. Brisbane is wealthy. It is common knowledge that he receives a large salary from William Randolph Hearst for his editorials. But it appears that he is even wealthier than people suspected. A news clipping announces that Arthur is putting up buildings that will cost millions. One apartment and bank building on the corner of Park Avenue and 57th Street will cost $2,500,000. Another on the same street will put Arthur a trifling $550,000 back. A little farther east on 75th Street the famous columnist is planning a twenty story office building while at 102nd Street and 5th Avenue he is building a $300,000 twenty story garage. It is not surprising therefore that radical Arthur should at times advise his readers to purchase real estate in Detroit, New York and Los Angeles.

• • •

"NO gardener has ever shown more tender care for any root than the Socialist government has for capitalism. Every effort to injure it has been strongly avoided. There has not been much done to strengthen or foster capitalism but that failure has been so obviously owing to inefficiency or sheer timidity and not to hatred of the evil thing. Speeches delivered by the Socialist ministers in parliament and outside at assemblies and deputations of financiers and business men have breathed the very essence of sympathy for property, credit and individual enterprize."

• • •

THIS is David Lloyd George talking. He pays eloquent tribute to the socialist leaders of the Labor Party government for their fidelity to capitalism, so far. But being a politician with an unquenchable thirst for another draught from the Downing Street cellar, Lloyd George warns the capitalists of Britain, that MacDonald is only a wolf in sheep's clothing, only waiting his chance to sink his fangs in the jugular vein of the capitalist lamb. Nobody knows better

(Continued on page 3)

Alexander Howat Out for Foster

MINE WORKERS' LEADER STANDS FOR COMMUNIST

Makes Public Statement at Springfield

By KARL REEVE
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 5. —"I am for Comrade William Z. Foster for President of the United States," Alexander Howat thundered out to the audience at Foster's meeting in Carpenter's Hall here.

Howat spoke at the request of Foster and John Watt, chairman, after he had been spied in the audience.

"I have watched Foster for many years," Howat said, "and the capitalist press lies about him and misrepresents him to the public. Foster has for many years done his part for the workers of this country and I am for Foster for President because he has stood staunchly both against the capitalists and against the reactionary trade union officials for the working class."

Refuses To Support Bob.

"I have in my grip a letter I received two weeks ago," Howat continued, "from a prominent official of the United Mine Workers of America. This reactionary official tells me that unless I endorse LaFollette for president, he can no longer support me in my fight for justice in the miners' union. He says he hears I'm supporting Bill Foster, and if I continue to do it, he will withdraw his support from me.

"Foster and I are alike in the respect that if the time ever comes when a reactionary official of a union tries to dictate to us who we should vote for and what our political views should be, we tell him to go to hell.

"LaFollette had his chance to do something worth while for the workers in St. Paul on June 17. He had his chance to come out for the workers by indorsing a class farmer-labor party. And he denounced us and insulted every delegate to the St. Paul convention. Well, if LaFollette doesn't want my support, I am not begging him to take it. I hope Bill Foster will be elected president of the United States, if not this year, in the next presidential election."

LaFollette For Capitalism.

Foster declared that LaFollette is a capitalist candidate because he is in favor of prolonging the system of wage slavery. The system of wage

(Continued on page 2)

ENGDAHL, BROWDER AND WILLIAMSON AT I. Y. D. DEMONSTRATION SUNDAY

Large numbers of workers, especially the young, are expected at the annual demonstration of International Youth Day in Chicago tomorrow, at Northwest Hall, to be held under the auspices of the Young Workers League.

J. Louis Engdahl, editor of the DAILY WORKER, Earl R. Browder, editor of the Labor Herald, and John Williamson, member of the executive committee of the Young Communist International, are the speakers, and they will explain the significance of International Youth Day this year and the problems which confront the working class youth of this country.

The Young Workers League orchestra, the best of its kind in America, will render a number of revolutionary selections, which, together with other excellent numbers, will embellish the program to a rebel's taste.

Young workers and old, come in masses to this meeting!

The hall is situated at North and Western avenues, and admission is only two bits, 25 cents.

MORGAN'S OFFICE BOY IN BERLIN WORKING ON THE GERMAN WORKERS

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

BERLIN, Sept. 5. — Owen D. Young, head of the Morgan-controlled Western Electric Co., has just reached Berlin for the purpose of taking over the organization of the practical and technical side of the Dawes plan and the London Agreements.

Mr. Morgan, whose little scheme is on the floor right now, is assured of results by having his personal agent, Young, right on the spot looking out for all the little details with which such an important gent as J. P. Morgan cannot be bothered every minute of the day.

While Young is perfecting the plans for the enslavement of the German and international working class to the 12 hour day, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Morgan are preparing for a swell time in Scotland where the King and Queen will carouse with them. In the meantime Ram MacDonald wears his silk breeches and the unemployed continue to "unemploy."

WORKERS HOOT BLACKSHIRTED WORLD FLYER

New York Communists in Anti-Fascist Move

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Two thousand workers, headed by Comrade Enea Sormenti, prominent member of the Italian Federation of the Workers Party, fought their way into the New York Central station last night and hooted Antonio Locatelli, notorious Fascist sympathizer, who arrived here for a warm welcome at the hands of American society leaders after his unsuccessful attempt to fly around the world.

The demonstration was organized after Comrade Sormenti, who is associate editor of "Il Lavoratore," daily organ of the Italian Communists in America, had finished addressing a mass meeting of Italian workers in Manhattan Lyceum. As the meeting was about to break up, word came that Locatelli was to arrive on a late train.

Recall Fascist Telegram.

The workers immediately recalled the telegram which Locatelli sent to Mussolini when he left Italy on his flying expedition:

"Italy should be ashamed to make an outcry because of the death of that traitor, Matteotti!"

Within a few minutes, the Italian men and women were marching thru the streets towards the railway station, while hundreds of sympathizers joined them on the way, so that when the workers began to throng into the station, the guards were powerless to hold them back.

Hoot Locatelli.

Defying the police who tried to break up the demonstration, the workers waited until someone in the crowd caught sight of Locatelli. Then a roar went up from the throats of the masses: "Down with the Fascisti! Down with the murderers of the workers!"

It was necessary for the police to break thru the crowd and convey Locatelli, thru a side street, to a waiting automobile in which he was taken to a hotel.

The official welcome to the black shirted airman will be dispensed with since the wrath of the Italo-American workers is feared by his official hosts in this country.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

CAN'T ROUSE OLANDER ON JOB CRISIS

Says Miners Must Push Issue to the Front

On the eve of the assembling of the 42nd Annual Convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor, at Peoria, Monday, a indications were that the federation officials would have no recommendations to make on the burning question of growing unemployment, especially the tremendously urgent jobless problem among the 100,000 coal miners of the state.

While President John H. Walker was in Springfield, Ill., yesterday, preparing for the convention, Secretary Victor Olander, in Chicago, passed the buck completely over to the miners themselves.

Up to the Miners.

"It will be entirely up to the coal miners themselves to bring recommendations to the convention for the relieving of the unemployment situation, and every other pressing condition in the Illinois coal mines," Secretary Olander told the DAILY WORKER.

This is significant in view of the fact that President Walker is a member of the coal miners' union, and closely associated with President Frank Farrington of the Illinois miners.

Secretary Olander, however, explains the peculiar attitude that he as an official, takes toward his duties

Olander States Views.

"The officers of the unions in the American Federation of Labor," said Olander, in all seriousness, "never make recommendations to the membership. The pressure comes from the men themselves."

Secretary Olander's record has been quite the other way around. His job has been sitting on the lid trying to prevent the rank and file from putting its desires into effect.

When pressed for a statement of his personal opinion on the growing unemployment, especially among the coal miners, Secretary Olander repeated tha the would be governed entirely by the opinions of the men on the job.

"The men in the trade," he said, "they know best."

600 Delegates to Attend.

It is estimated that 600 delegates will attend the Peoria convention.

In spite of the fact, which is emphasized by Secretary Olander's declarations, that the state federation is of little aid to the coal miners, nevertheless, a large delegation of coal miners is expected to be in attendance. Many of these delegates will come from districts where the mines have been completely shut down, and where there has been no work for months.

Secretary Olander had an opinion, however, on the State Cossacks, again being urged by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

(Continued on page 2)

PENNSYLVANIA MINERS CHEER GITLOW ATTACK ON FOES OF WORKERS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 5—Hundreds of miners and their families packed the Finnish Hall at Walkerstown, Pa., to hear Benjamin Gitlow, vice-presidential candidate of the Workers Party, and cheered to the roof the Communist's denunciation of Collidge, Davis and LaFollette as the foes of the workers of America.

The miners applauded the Communist platform, and Soviet Russia and contributed liberally to the campaign in spite of the fact that many of them are unemployed. The LaFollettelites can have their Sprecklels and Vanderlips, but the Communists depend for their financial support upon the workers in the mines and mills and factories.

ONLY TEN DAYS LEFT! SPEED UP!

Signatures to Place Workers Party Candidates on the Ballot in Illinois Coming in Faster.

WATCH THE FIGURES GROW!

CONGRESSIONAL District No. 1, Gordon Owens, candidate, and District No. 8, George Maurer, candidate, made the biggest jumps in the number of signatures obtained to place Communist candidates on the ballot in Chicago and Illinois. Owen's list jumped from 200 to 425 and Maurer's list grew from 50 to 125.

An additional 100 signatures were raised for the Presidential Electors (Foster-Gitlow electors) and also the State ticket bringing up the number to 675. District No. 6, Frank Pellegrino, candidate, also spurted from 125 to 225. Other Districts remain virtually at a standstill. No doubt many comrades have delayed sending in their filled-out petitions. However, this job is not a press popularity contest, so the comrades are asked to shoot in their signatures as fast as they get the petitions filled out.

There are only ten days left in which the Party expects the comrades to get the necessary signatures to get all the Workers Party candidates on the ballot. The following is the result to date:

	Signatures obtained	Signatures necessary
Dist. No. 1—Gordon Owens	425	1200
Dist. No. 4—Joseph Podkulski	249	1300
Dist. No. 5—Harry Epstein	22	1000
Dist. No. 6—Frank Pellegrino	275	3500
Dist. No. 7—Sam Hammersmark	277	4000
Dist. No. 8—George Maurer	125	800
Dist. No. 9—Jack W. Johnstone	250	1200
Presidential Electors (Foster-Gitlow electors) and Illinois State signatures	675	2000

LEFT WING TO HAVE PLAN AT PEORIA MEET

Foster Flays Walker and Farrington

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 5.—John Walker, Frank Farrington and the other reactionary Illinois labor leaders who are expected to be present at the Illinois State Federation of Labor convention at Peoria, Monday, do not represent the interests of the workers, Wm. Z. Foster told the DAILY WORKER today.

Fakers Have No Solution.

"In the face of a grave industrial crisis and a severe unemployment situation," said Foster, "these so-called labor leaders can give no solution to the open shop drive of the employers.

"The trades unions are dwindling in membership, unemployment is rampant, millions of workers are unorganized, and yet the labor leaders spout class-collaboration, and advise either cheapening of production or some fantastic scheme of electrization which cannot be effected and which would not better conditions for the workers.

Left Wing At Peoria.

"There will be a left wing in the Federation of Labor convention at Peoria next week. They will offer the only program, in my mind, which will solve the problems of the rank and file workers. That is, a demand that the labor leaders institute a drive for organizing the unorganized workers, that unemployment be eliminated by institution of the shorter work day, that where unemployment occurs the industry itself take over the burden and pay unemployment benefits, and that a strong workers and farmers class labor party be indorsed by the convention."

To Search Germany.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—The German government announced today that the interallied control commission will begin final and general inspection of German armaments on Monday to ascertain whether they are within treaty limits.

The government appealed to the people not to interfere or cause trouble.

Join the Workers Party!

TERROR REIGN IN PATERSON SILK STRIKE

107 Men and Women Are Arrested

By H. M. WICKS
(Special to The Daily Worker)

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 5.—Police terrorism is rampant in Paterson as the strike of the Associated Silk Workers nears the end of its fourth week.

One hundred and seven men and women strikers were arrested here today and herded into all available patrol wagons and commandeered busses while engaging in peaceful picketing of the Gilt Edge Mills.

107 Arrested.

This morning a picket line of one thousand marched around the mill of Sorosky Brothers and this afternoon the pickets divided and picketed two mills, the Edwin B. David concern and the Gilt Edge Mill, where the assault by the police took place.

Philip Diamond, one of the proprietors of the Gilt Edge, was a striker in 1913, but later became a capitalist henchman, being appointed commissioner of public works, and later, commissioner of finance in Paterson.

Boss Orders Raids.

He ordered the police to raid the pickets and the publisher of one of the local kept rags, the Press-Guardian, also assisted the police in their attack upon the strikers.

Many Signed Up.

The strike today is in its fourth week and many mills have been and are signing up every day. But some of the larger mills are prepared for a stubborn fight affecting some eight thousand strikers.

The local strike committee has made an urgent appeal for funds which are badly needed and sympathizers of the men on strike are urged to contribute as much as they can.

The Communist Candidates—Look Them Over!

GEORGE MAURER, Workers Party candidate for congress from the Eight Congressional District, Chicago.

Born California, 1895. Age 29.

Member Office Workers Union No. 12755.

Joined I. W. W. in 1917. Joined Socialist Party in 1917, Communist Party in 1921 and Workers Party at formation.

Arrested in 1918 for refusal to register, served time in Military Prison.

Former secretary of Workers Party, Local Chicago; member District Executive Committee, Dist. No. 8, W. P. Secretary of Labor Defense Council.

FRENCH HEAD AGAINST NEW DISARM MEET

Rejects Fake Pacifist Plan of MacDonald

(Special to The Daily Worker)

GENEVA, Sept. 5.—Premier Edouard Herriot, elected on a pacifist platform and now head of the French republic, today came out in direct opposition to the suggestion of Ramsay MacDonald for a world disarmament conference.

Addressing the League of Nations Assembly, Premier Herriot declared that the proper place for disarmament discussions was within the League. He declined the offer to work for another Washington Conference.

Means Disarmament Death

This statement is generally regarded as the death knell, for a goodly period of time at least, for another international parley such as is desired by President Coolidge and Ramsay MacDonald, Britain's premier.

It is recalled that the last "disarmament" conference held in Washington didn't do very much disarming so far as could be noticed. On the contrary, it seems that the results of that conference have been the greater armament and the improvement of the efficiency of the British and American armies and navies.

At the Washington conference, Great Britain was forced to recognize America as an equal on the seas for the very first time, and was evidenced by the 5-5-3 ratio that was decided This was a decided blow at Britian's age old supremacy of the waters, and was not to the liking of the British Imperialists.

Ramsay Sweats For Empire

MacDonald, who is now for the maintenance and spread of British imperialism with a vigor, that has not been surpassed by any predecessors, is anxious to have another "disarmament" conference out of which England is expected to come as the victor.

Herriot, who represents very ably all French imperialist ambitions, is very wary of MacDonald's proposition, especially since the Dawes plan adoption has marked quite a signal defeat for French political policy in the Ruhr, and is generally considered to be a heavy blow to French hegemony in Europe. American high finance has definitely assumed a leading position in Europe with the adoption of the Dawes slave plan by the powers.

Herriot Pops Mac

Lord Parmoor, of England, in speaking after Premier Herriot, repudiated his idea of force being necessary to insure arbitration, but Herriot later directly contradicted MacDonald's condemnation of force, declaring that force, alone assures justice and makes arbitration possible.

This is considered France's defiance to England, being a veiled declaration that France intends to maintain any of its economic interests in the face of British opposition with the use of all its military strength to the extent of war.

Communists' Prediction Borne Out

This bears out the predictions of the communists who have always pointed out that no real disarmament is possible under capitalism which obliges the various governments to maintain and increase their military, naval and air forces for the purpose of defending the economic and financial interests of the capitalists of their various "fatherlands."

It is expected that the entire proposition of disarmament will be turned over to a special new committee where it will die a slow and peaceful death, unnoticed by anyone.

CORRUPTION IN SCHOOLS HERE

SCHOOL GRAFT IS SHOWN HERE IN NEW ARREST

Americanization Plan Proposed

One former official of the Chicago schools has been placed under arrest and another is being sought by the police. Both are charged with alleged school graft operations that have been going on for seven years and are said to have resulted in the embezzlement of more than $10,000.

The man who is under arrest is Julius A. Cordes, 1511 N. Clark St., former head clerk of the bureau of operating engineering of the school board. August W. Koenig, suspended head clerk of the board's bureau of finance, has not been apprehended. Both are charged with padding payrolls.

Not the Only One.

The cases of these men are to be added to those of John P. Kiely, former chief clerk of the engineering bureau, and Robert E. McNamara, suspended school custodian, who are charged with selling jobs.

The discovery of the graft operations of these men bears out the contention of the organized teachers of Chicago that inefficiency in the public schools is due to corruption among officials, and not to the attempts at organization made by the Chicago Teachers' Federation, as Superintendent William McAndrew charged this week.

Teacher Writes to DAILY WORKER.

A letter from a prominent member of the Federation, a teacher in one of the public schools, telling something of the methods used by the grafters, reached the office of the DAILY WORKER this morning. The letter reads in part:

"In regard to the engineers padding their payroll, they are not above it, as they collected a large slush fund under the previous grafting school board. They gave a banquet to Mr. Severinghaus, a prominent member of the school board, and presented a very expensive silver service to him. When he looked in the teapot, he smiled gratefully. It was learned afterwards that it contained a large sum of money, I think, $60,000. Soon afterwards the engineers received a substantial raise in salary.

"They laughed at the teachers at this time and said, 'Why don't you play the game?'"

To Push "Americanization."

Superintendent William McAndrew has followed up his denunciation of the organized teachers of Chicago with announcements which amount in substance to a declaration that a thoro "Americanization" of the schools is to be put thru this winter.

No propaganda or other drives which do not bear the stamp of approval of the group of business men which forms the school board, are to reach the children of Chicago this year, according to a statement issued by Mr. McAndrew yesterday. Eight movements have his approval. The Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, and the Campfire Girls will be given adequate opportunity to spread the ideas of the American Legion in the schools. The Red Cross, auxiliary American war organization, will receive its measure of attention. Washington's birthday will be fittingly celebrated.

One other participation will be celebrated during the school year; the nature of this drive will be announced later, said Mr. McAndrew.

Mobilization Day Too.

This occasion will be celebrated on September 12—mobilization day. A copy of a notice to be sent out to the principals of all the schools in the city, instructing them to hold appropriate patriotic exercises on September 12, has come into the possession of the reporter for the DAILY WORKER. The notice is signed "William McAndrew." The report is still lying in the offices of the board at 460 S. State street, and the teachers of the schools have not yet been informed of the duty they will have to perform on September 12.

McAndrew's instruction from the Chicago Chamber of Commerce, obtained when he first came to the city in January, are being carried out to the letter in the reorganization of the curriculum in the elementary schools which he is directing, and in the construction of the courses of the five new junior high schools. The demand of the Chamber of Commerce was for greater mechanical efficiency—this is, greater efficiency in reading, penmanship and arithmetic. McAndrew's plan is to bring these subjects to the fore, it was announced today.

Import Civics Class.

"Citizenship" is the avowed aim of every course in the Junior high schools, according to William J. Bogan, assistant superintendent of schools. "Civics," a course of study that edged its way into the curriculum of the New York high schools three years ago, a study occupying one hour a week has become in the Junior high schools of Chicago, a course consisting of four parts —community, constitutional, economic and vocational. "All of these divisions emphasize the duties of the citizen toward community, state and nation," said Mr. Bogan.

The tone of the course will be very much like the tone of the course in New York. "The keynote of the civics course in the New York schools was: "Let us be thankful to America!"

Action on the report of Superintendent McAndrew will probably be taken at a meeting of the Chicago Teachers' Federation a week from next Saturday, it was announced at the offices of the Federation, yesterday.

The hearing by Judge Fred Rush of the Circuit Court on the petition for injunction restraining the board of education from converting the Harper School into a Junior High school will be resumed today.

North Side Branch Meets.

A special meeting of the North Side English Branch, Chicago, will be held Monday, Sept. 8, at Imperial Hall, Halsted and Fullerton. Get your petitions signed up in time to report at this meeting. Bring along the signed petitions without fail.

Cleveland Readers!

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 5.—DAILY WORKER readers who buy their paper at newsstands will please take notice: DAILY WORKERS are on sale every day at Schroeder's newsstand East Superior, opposite the postoffice

CAPITALIST WOLVES OR FOUR LEGGED VARIETY ALL THE SAME TO RYKOV, SOVIET RUSSIA'S PREMIER

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SARATOV, Russia, Sept. 5.—Fighting off a pack of starving wolves in the dead of night when they trailed his automobile on a lonely road was the dramatic experience of Alexiev Rykov, who succeeded Lenin as head of the Soviet government, and is now visiting the Russian famine stricken families.

Rykov travelled 300 miles by day and night thru the Volga slopes visiting villages and hamlets and mingling with the peasants.

Simultaneous with his arrival came relief for the people who feared they would have to flee from their homes on account of famine. Relief supplies brought fresh hope and the people are planning to remain in their homes, meanwhile preparing for the next planting season.

Rykov refused a military guard and his only weapons were a rifle and a revolver. Asked if he was not afraid to venture into isolated districts without an escort he replied:

"Well, I escaped eight times from Siberian jails and I fled thru the wilderness of the Ural mountains so I think I have nothing to fear now."

The rifle came in handy when a pack of hungry wolves descended upon the motor car while it was passing thru a wild stretch of woodland. They trailed the automobile just as they trail sledges in winter time but were driven off by rifle fire.

Villagers thronged about the automobile thanking Rykov for the timely assistance he brought. They said that this season's crops were ruined as there had not been a drop of rain all summer. Grain and vegetables were killed and the people were reduced to eating roots and grass.

Live stock died off in large numbers and the people were getting frantic when supplies arrived.

Many of the peasants had complaints to make against the local or state governments. Rykov listened patiently to each complaint and promised relief.

GITLOW WALLOPS FAKE REMEDIES OF LA FOLLETTE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 5.—"The purpose of our campaign is not primarily to elect the Workers Party candidates to offices in the government, but to spread the message of Communism in America." This was the opening statement made by Benjamin Gitlow at a large meeting of workers in the "Iron City." The interested audience, with a sprinkling of steel workers, paid twenty-five cents admission to hear Gitlow denounce Coolidge, Davis and LaFollette and advocate the Communist program of the Workers Party. Gitlow's speech dealt in particular with the Labor Day pronouncements of Coolidge, LaFollette and Davis.

Gitlow's analysis showed that the LaFollette Labor Day message is filled with fake remedies and ideas that could only serve to perpetuate the present system of capitalism. This statement was wildly cheered by the assembled workers.

Many Subscribe to Daily.

Comrade S. Johnston Knight spoke for subscriptions to the DAILY WORKER. A large number subscribed, and the meeting was concluded with the taking up of a good sized collection.

A meeting of this character in the city of Pittsburg denotes the progress being made by our party. The holding of a successful and enthusiastic campaign rally in trust-controlled Pittsburg is an indication of the possibilities to our party in the present campaign. Hope for the revolution can indeed be maintained when a body of workers will wildly cheer a Communist denunciation of LaFollette.

Alexander Howat Supports Foster in Communist Campaign

(Continued from Page 1)

slavery, Foster said, is responsible for low wages, unemployment and war.

"LaFollette is not even the yellowest kind of a socialist," Foster declared. "Let me make a prophecy. Before this campaign is over, pressure will be brought to bear on LaFollette and he will denounce even the socialists.

"Unemployment is the natural result of the wages system. Millions of workers have unemployment to contend with. You miners have had a pretty good taste of unemployment. Between two and three millions are at present jobless in this country, and the industrial crisis will grow much worse this winter when the summer agricultural and out-door work ends."

Mobilization Day For War.

Foster declared the world war was not a war to make the world safe for democracy but was a struggle against other capitalist nations for the world markets. "September 12 we are to have a national mobilization day. We are told that it is for the purpose of honoring General Pershing. That may bunk some of the workers, but the capitalist nations know this reason is nonsense. They know there is but one purpose for mobilization day, and that is preparation for war. Japan, England and other nations will spur on their armaments under the stimulus of American mobilization day."

Duncan MacDonald, Freeman Thompson and other well known labor leaders were interested spectators, who received Foster's remarks favorably.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

STREET MEETINGS IN CHICAGO.

Saturday, Sept. 6.

22nd and Ashley—Auspices, Italian branches, 4th District. Speakers, English and Italian comrades.

Irkson and Division, near Milwaukee—Auspices, Polish branch. Speakers, Hammermark and Polish comrade.

Ninth Pl. and Michigan—Auspices, Pullman branches. Speakers, D. E. Early, K. Harris.

Halsted and Seeley Sts. Auspices, Greek branch. Speakers, F. Buckley and Greek comrade.

Division and Washington—Auspices, North West Jewish branch and Hayes. Lockert. Speakers, Louis Engdahl, building.

North Ave. and Orchard St.—Auspices, German and Hungarian branches. Speakers, Peter Herd, H. Gaines.

39th and State Sts.—Auspices, South Side branch W. P. Speakers, Gordon Owens, C. Miller.

Sunday, Sept. 7.

Washington Park—Open Forum, Workers Party. Speakers, D. E. Early

YOUNG WORKERS OF CHICAGO ORGANIZE SPORT ACTIVITIES

League and party members of sympathetic sport organizations, please write or call local Young Workers League office, Room 303, 166 W. Washington St., State 7985. —Frank Buckley, Sport Director.

Pictou, Nova Scotia, Gets Place on World's News Map for One Day

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY we find Pictou, Nova Scotia, on the news map of the world. It has been placed there by the yellow press because it provided a temporary stopping place for the American round the world flyers. It is put there by the Communist press because it stands for another front where militancy is fighting reaction in the American labor movement. What widely different reasons!

* * * *

The world flyers epitomize the latest and most ambitious fete of American militarism. It has sent its warships of the air around the earth.

Every American school boy will be asked to go around wearing a chip on his shoulder. His imagination will be fired. His country is the ruler of the air, he will be told. Jingoism will be fostered in his youthful mind. He must be prepared for the next war—the war in the air—where the biggest and the fastest air fleets, able to carry the biggest bombs and the largest quantities of poison gas, and to direct the most powerful death rays against the enemy, will win the victory for the dominant capitalism.

The achievement of the flyers in girdling the earth will not be hailed as a triumph for human progress. It will be used to symbolize the successful preparations of American imperialism for the next great world slaughter, more deadly, more devastating than the last.

* * *

It is only because these world flyers touched at Pictou, Nova Scotia, that out-of-the-way Pictou is noticed in the yellow press. Suddenly the weather conditions about Pictou become of world-wide interest. American warships ride at anchor in Pictou Harbor ready to lend any aid needed. The telegraph, cable and radio stations are besieged by an army of newspaper correspondents. The world must be told of this victory being won in the game of murder.

* * *

But in and about Pictou there live thousands of coal miners, members of the United Mine Workers of America. They are militant coal miners, co-workers with the militants in the United States, sympathizers with the Russian Revolution, struggling for the better day for all labor.

These Pictou coal miners, in common with those of all Nova Scotia, under the most trying conditions have fought alike against the reactionary rule of the Lewis regime, in the Miners' Union, and against the tyranny of the British Empire Steel Corporation.

When Lewis arrogantly used his power to reorganize the district and unseat the militants in office, there was a great temptation to withdraw from the organization. It is easy just to quit. Ben Legere came on from "the States" with his "One Big Union" and offered the opportunity of joining a harmless, isolated sect.

But the coal miners of Pictou are fighters, better fighters in their struggle, than the world flyers are fighters for American capitalism. It is easier to fight with the established social order, with the crowd, than to take a stand on the frontier of civilization and wage a struggle for something new.

* * * *

The Pictou coal miners, when they decided to stick in the Miners' Union, when they took a stand against splits and isolation, won a real victory for human progress. They aided the building of the power of labor. They did something constructive for the world's working class. That is why the Communist press puts Pictou, Nova Scotia, on the day's news map of the world. The action of the Pictou miners, in common with the militant solidarity of workers everywhere over this American continent, heralds better days for labor. It is the forerunner of greater victories of the workers' struggle against their masters. It is prophetic of the day when the workers will win all power from capitalism, not thru any victory of air fleets, but thru the triumph of Communism over capitalism; thru the abolition of the whole social system of robbery and exploitation of the employers, and the ushering in of the new social order, the Communist society.

* * *

Pictou is on the world's news map for a day. But it will be heard from again and again, in the days ahead, in the workers' struggle for power.

CAN'T MOVE OLANDER IN JOB CRISIS

(Continued from page 1.)

Cossacks Only Strikebreakers.

"While it is urged by the business interest that the State Constabulary is needed to prevent bank robberies, for instance," said Olander, "there is no doubt that this state police will be used in strikes, especially to enforce injunctions granted by the courts."

Olander felt certain that this matter would come before the Peoria convention, and that every effort would be made to fight this strike breaking scheme.

Soft Pedal Klan Issue.

Olander also made it certain that an effort would be made to keep the Ku Klux Klan issue off the floor of the convention.

"This is purely a religious issue," declared Olander, claiming that only the enemies of the labor movement were trying to press this issue.

Efforts have been made by the Klan forces to get control of the miners' unions in the state, with the result that the rank and file in many unions have started a house cleaning and are ousting members who insist on wearing nightshirts and assisting the forces that are fighting the labor movement.

Nigger in Wood Pile.

Even when informed of the menace that the Ku Klux Klan is to the miners' union, resulting in action being taken at international and state conventions by the coal diggers, Olander refused to take a position on this question. Olander is a supporter of Governor Len Small for re-election, and Small has not denied the charge that he is a member of the Klan.

The Peoria convention will also get the report of the state executive board endorsing the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket.

Olander refused to state whether any action would be taken condemning President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers of America, for endorsing the Coolidge-Dawes ticket. Lewis is a member of the Illinois miners' union and has long trailed with the forces now in control of the state federation.

AIRPLANES INTRODUCED IN CHINA WAR

City Residents Fear an Aerial Bombing

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Sept. 5.—In an effort to break down the morale of the Kiangsu army, the Chekiang forces today began aerial bombardment of the enemy's lines.

Six airplanes crossed the Kiangsu lines between Huang Tu and Liuho dropping bombs. No reports have yet been received as to the results of the bombing.

Introduce Aerial Warfare.

The Chekiang forces have a fleet of 32 planes and the Kiangsu forces eight. Their employment in civil hostilities now in progress marks the first attempt at aerial warfare in China. The Kiangsu forces are expected to retaliate by bombing the Chekiang lines and some fears were expressed they may drop bombs on this city.

The troops on both sides at noon today apparently had settled down to steady firing from their entrenchments. No gains were reported from either military headquarters.

Refugees continued to pour into Shanghai today. They declare that sanitary and hospital conditions at the front are deplorable. Wounded troops lie for many hours under a broiling sun without aid.

Press gangs are busy on both sides.

Couriers from the front reported that the battles that were in progress allday yesterday died down during the night, but that heavy exchanges of shots took place during the morning between outposts.

Our Candidates

FOSTER'S DATES

Elizabeth, N. J.—Turn Hall, 725 High St., Wednesday, September 10, 8 p. m.

Newark, N. J.—Labor Lyceum, 704 So. 14th St., Thursday, September 11, 8 p. m.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Musical Fund Hall, 8th and Locust Streets, Friday, September 12, 8 p. m.

Paterson, N. J.—Halvitia Hall, 56 Van Houton Street, Saturday, September 13, 8 p. m.

GITLOW'S DATES

Comrade Gitlow, candidate for vice-president, will address meetings at the following places:

Akron, Ohio—Perkins School Auditorium, Exchange and Bowery Sts., Saturday, September 6th, 8 p. m.

Cleveland, Ohio—Bricklayer's Hall, E. 21st St. and Prospect Ave., Sunday, September 7th at 7:30 p. m.

New York City—Central Opera House, Thursday, Sept. 9, at 8 p. m.

West New York, N. J.—Floral Park, 11th and Polk Streets, Wednesday, September 10, at 8 p. m.

C. E. Ruthenberg executive secretary of the Workers Party, will make a series of campaign speeches in the New England States. Meetings already arranged for are:

New York City—Central Opera House, Tuesday, September 9th, 8 p. m.

DETROIT PARTY ACTIVITIES

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 4.—A special meeting of the City Central Committee of the Workers Party of Detroit will be held on Monday, Sept. 8, at 8 p. m., in the House of the Masses, 2648 St. Aubin Ave.

The reorganization of the City Central to conform with the Program of Action will be completed at his meeting.

The agenda will include the Michigan State Convention of Sept. 20, where state candidates will be nominated and presidential electors chosen; the Gitlow meeting of Sunday, Sept. 28 at Arena Gardens; the membership and DAILY WORKER drive, and the creation of special machinery for the distribution of the tens of thousands of campaign leaflets during the fall campaign. The importance of this special meeting makes it imperative that there be a full attendance of C. C. C. delegates and all will be expected to be present.

Take a Vote in Your Shop

THE Workers' Straw Vote returns are just beginning to come in. Machine shops, clothing shops, factories and warehouses are beginning to vote on the presidential candidates. Wherever the issues are being presented by the Communists and militants, there the workers are voting overwhelmingly for Foster for president, with LaFollette second, and Coolidge and Davis not in the running at all.

As an example, Comrade I. L. Davidson, working in the Blair Bros. clothing shop, took a straw vote after a discussion of the candidates, with the result that the workers voted 4 to 1, as between Foster and LaFollette, for the Communist candidate.

The Workers Party members in Chicago are preparing a widespread vote-taking at the factory gates for next week. This should be followed up in a similar manner in other cities. As soon as large enough returns are in to furnish a basis for comparison, the returns will be printed in THE DAILY WORKER.

Take a vote in your shop! Send in the results!

WORKERS' STRAW VOTE

THE DAILY WORKER,
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

The workers employed in the shop of.....

.....have taken a straw vote on the presidential candidates, and the vote was as follows:

WM. Z. FOSTER ..... votes; LaFOLLETTE ..... votes;
Workers Party No Party

DAVIS ..... votes; COOLIDGE ..... votes.
Democratic Party Republican Party

I certify that this report is correct:

Name: .....

Address: .....

Sunday, Sept. 7, 8 p.m.
AT North West Hall
North and Western Avenues

YOUNG WORKERS
CELEBRATE
INTERNATIONAL YOUTH DAY
AUSPICES: YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE (Local Chicago) ADMISSION 25 CENTS

SPEAKERS:
John Edwards
J. Louis Engdahl
and
Earl Browder
Music by Young Workers League Orchestra

GITLOW TO FLAY OPPONENTS AT NEW YORK MEET

Campaign Will Open in Central Opera House

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Advance notice has been received here indicating that Ben Gitlow, vice-presidential candidate on the Workers Party ticket, is going to take the mask from the many avowed "friends of labor," who have so widely advertised themselves, on Labor Day.

It is expected that he will paint in rousing colors the real picture of his vice-presidential opponents. The meeting which will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 9, at the Central Opera House, 67th Street and 3rd Avenue, is bound to be a stirring one.

Takes Shot at Dawes.

The following statement was issued by Gitlow's campaign committee in announcing the meeting:

It seems that "Hell and Maria" Dawes, head of the American Fascisti, the Minute Men of the Constitution, and defender of the Ku Klux Klan, organizations which do not hesitate to ride roughshod over the so-called guarantees of liberty, free speech, etc., is preparing in his next speech to defend the constitution.

Mr. Dawes gives a good illustration of his method of defending the constitution when he refers to the last great railroad strike, when the strikers had completely tied up the transportation system of the country, and says: "The citizens stood it so long. Then they ran 300 strikers out of town and hanged one to a telegraph pole."

Bryan's Brother Talks.

Governor Charles W. Bryan, before an audience of farmers at Elk Point, S. D., declared that the "democratic party is a friend of labor," in spite of the fact that his party refused to give even Sam Gompers any consideration in formulating its platform and then proceeded to nominate John W. Davis, Morgan's lawyer and defender of numerous open shop corporations.

Bryan has the "nerve" to refer to Davis as "that able lawyer and statesman" in calling upon labor for its support.

Wheeler Inflammable.

And then comes Senator Wheeler, who calls himself a "friend of labor," too. Altho he assails Coolidge for his "venal and corrupt" administration, and altho he attacks Dawes for his "gallant service in war on organized labor," this "friend of labor," who indorsed the candidacy of the reactionary Senator Walsh of Montana, did not mention his own connection with the oil kings of Montana or his failure to expose the anti-labor record of Burna and Daugherty.

Ruthenberg Arrives.

In striking contrast with these men, Ben Gitlow, who will be heard at the Central Opera House on Tuesday night, stands forth as the only vice-presidential candidate whose record and life as a whole attest his valuable services to the workers of this country. The meeting, which is to be the opening rally of the campaign, promises to be one of the largest meetings held by the Workers Party locally. C. E. Ruthenberg, national secretary of the Workers Party, has come from Chicago for the purpose of officially opening the campaign here.

LaFOLLETTE'S FRIENDS, CLAIMING KINSHIP TO MacDONALD, DISCOVER LABOR PREMIER IS AID OF DAWES

All was commotion yesterday at the LaFollette Campaign Headquarters in the Morrison Hotel. It had suddenly been discovered that not only the MacDonald government in England, but also the Herriot government in France and the social-democracy, supporting capitalist rule in Germany, are all in favor of the Dawes plan.

State Campaign Manager Charles J. McGowan was the first to make the startling discovery, shortly before a reporter for the DAILY WORKER dropped in at the headquarters.

Didn't Know It Before

MacGowan confessed that when making recent speeches attacking the Dawes Plan he was ignorant that the socialist and labor politicians in Great Britain, France and Germany were in favor of it.

MacGowan denounced the Dawes plan at the state conference of the La Follette forces, at the Auditorium Hotel several weeks ago, and last Sunday, at the socialist picnic at Riverview. He called it a "Morgan plan." La Follette had said something to the same effect.

But at the same time MacGowan and all other "Back to '76" campaigners had been comparing La Follette to MacDonald and Herriot. What they will do now is a mystery. Perhaps a special conference will have to be called with La Follette, at Washington, to iron out this new wrinkle on the Wisconsin senator's political horizon.

MacGowan Has an Explanation

"I can only conclude," declared MacGowan, recovering from his first panic, "that those countries are so desperate that they are ready to sign anything. I can see no other reason for these men taking such a position on the Dawes plan. However, I cannot speak for them. I can only speak for our position. Mr. La Follette has expressed himself against the Dawes plan."

It would no doubt be taxing the comprehension of Mr. MacGowan too much to ask him to understand that what the ruling governments of Great Britain, France and Germany are desperate about, is the increasing acceptance by the workers of the leadership of the Communist Parties in these countries.

MacGowan would not understand that the same fear that confronts MacDonald, Herriot and Marx, is the fear that La Follette showed when he issued his attack against the Communists, just prior to the St. Paul Farmer-Labor Convention on June 17. It is the fear that prompts La Follette to attack the Farmer-Labor Party organizations where his campaign comes in contact with them. It is a desperate fear.

Nelson Completely Ignorant

Congressman John M. Nelson, La Follette's national campaign manager, with offices adjoining those of State Campaign Manager MacGowan, refused to commit himself on the Dawes Plan.

It looks as if the La Follette campaigners would have to keep mum about the MacDonald government, the ally of "Fascisti" Dawes, Chicago's open shop banker, in trying to stop the workers of Western Europe in their drive toward Communism.

Join the Workers Party!

TOOK HOLIDAY ON LABOR DAY; THEY LOSE JOBS

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

GIRARD, Ohio, Sept. 5.—The workers in the McDonald plant of the United States Steel company labored under the impression that Labor Day, being a legal holiday, they could take a day off and enjoy themselves. However, they learned quite the contrary was the custom in this company. And their lesson cost them their jobs.

A few days later 100 men found their checks taken from the board and a notice awaiting them to call at the pay office for their money.

McDonald's is a hard place to keep men and the company made sure that their places could be filled before taking this step. They found the army of unemployed plentiful here and so the doctors are busy vaccinating and finger-printing the new slaves.

Left Wing Branches of Workmen's Circle Aid Communist Fight

Rubin Yoocelson, representing the left wing branches of the Workmen's Circle, of Chicago, at the Campaign Conference called by the Chicago City Central Committee, of the Jewish branches of the Workers Party held Sunday, August 31, at 3322 Douglass Blvd., said: "My organization will send out letters appealing to all the Workmen's Circle branches in the middle western states to support William Z. Foster and Ben Gitlow in the coming presidential campaign, as they are the only candidates who stand for the emancipation of the working class, and whereas the principles of the Workmen's Circle is that the members must vote only for candidates that stand for the emancipation of the working class, it is therefore the duty of every member of that organization to vote for the Workers Party candidates."

There is developing a sentiment among the Jewish workers in Chicago for the Workers Party candidates in the coming elections, it was pointed out by the delegates. Due to this sentiment it is expected that the next conference, which will be held on Sunday, Sept. 13, at 3322 Douglass Blvd., will prove even more successful. The delegates have promised financial and other support that might be needed in the campaign.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

(Continued from page 1)

than the wily David now little the British ruling class need to fear from the MacDonald socialists. They are just as safe in their care as the German capitalists were under the regime of Scheideman and Noske. The British workers however are not satisfied with the mummery that is handed out to them by Ramsay MacDonald. They will be forced to drop him and take action. When they do they will drive fear into the hearts of the British ruling class. Lloyd George being no fool is aware of that.

* * *

THE capitalist papers were flooded a few days ago with yarns of a revolution in Georgia. Dispatches came simultaneously from London, Geneva, Constantinople and Warsaw, all carrying the same tale. A panhandler, styling himself delegate from Georgia, appeared at the League of Nations in Geneva and entered the lists against Baron Munchausen. According to this wandering liar, half of Georgia was in possession of the revolutionists, and the rest was sure to be theirs before long. Warsaw reports had Soviet troops on the border. Other tales reported agitation in Russia for war against Rumania and Poland.

* * *

UNFORTUNATELY for the Geneva liar, the Associated Press correspondent in Tiflis, Georgia, where the heavy "rebel" victories were supposed to have taken place had already sent a dispatch telling the story of a feeble attempt made by social revolutionaries to overthrow the Georgian Republic. It apears from the news that some of those who led the illfated attempt were pardoned some time ago by the Soviet government for similar activities. No doubt they are working under the direction of one or more capitalist power. It is not improbalbe that the British government has something to do with it. The "revolt" was crushed by Soviet troops without any trouble and the leaders arrested. That is all there is to the latest attempt to overthrow the Soviet government.

* * *

IT is generally conceded that the Harding administration was the most corrupt, within memory of the oldest resident of the United States and perhaps in the history of the country. Harding himself, despite all efforts to deify him, was a pliable tool of the ruling class and a staunch supporter of Harry Daugherty in his strike-breaking injunction activities. Robert Marion LaFollette lays claim to being a relentless foe of all those who stood at the beck and call of Wall Street, and during Harding's life in the White House, his choicest darts were reserved for the president. But the following beautiful tribute was paid to Mr. Harding by LaFollette when he heard of his death:

* * *

"THE sad news that the President is dead came to the passengers on the "George Washington" on Friday. It passed from one to another swiftly and every face gave striking proof that the President holds secure place in the affection of the American people. It was a gratifying assurance of the stability of our institutions that regardless of the cross-currents of political opinion we have a definite and assured respect for the official, who embodies in his exalted position, the sovereign will of all the people.

* * *

"THE handsome, genial and gracious Mr. Harding caught the imagination of the American people because he knew and followed the best traditions of American hospitality and social grace. Altho he belonged to the conservative wing of the Republican party and we seldom if ever agreed upon questions of major importance, he ever accorded to me that cordiality of personal relationship indicative of his fair and friendly spirit."

* * *

HARDING was no doubt a genial personality in the little green house on K. Street with Mannington, Jess Smith, Daugherty and the other bandits, bootleggers and highwaymen who surrounded his administration. The "Ohio Gang" did not find him wanting in sociability. But the class war prisoners in Leavenworth did not find Mr. Harding so affable and genial. Neither did the railroad workers who were on strike when thousands of deputy marshals combed the country armed with search warrants and guns, filling the jails with strikers. Mr. LaFollette's fulsome eulogy of one of the most stupid and reactionary presidents that ever occupied the White House shows that between LaFollette and his former friends in the Republican Party there is only a difference of opinion as to how the capitalist ship of state should be steered.

Furnishings
LADIES'
MEN'S INFANTS'
Trade Where Your Money Buys the Most
Martin's
651 West North Avenue
East of Halsted St.

Dust Proof Slip Covers to protect Your Furniture

Call or Phone.
Illinois Slip Cover Co.
Not Inc.
Warwick Bldg., 551 E. 47th St., Chicago
Telephone Atlantic 0601
Estimates cheerfully given everywhere

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.

73 W. VanBuren St.
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

CLEVELAND, OHIO
CHIROPRACTIC AND ELECTRO-THERAPY
As intelligent and revolutionary workers you have freed yourselves of the trammels of capitalistic religion and politics. But you probably still adhere to the greatest and most harmful superstition, cloaked as a science—MEDICINE. People who know refuse to be practiced upon with knife and powerful drugs. When ill they resort to (drugless) NATURAL METHODS of treatment.
For a speedy recovery and your health's sake see
Dr. J. J. SCHOLTES
2838 West Twenty-fifth St., Cor. Wade
Phone Linc. 5340

Tel. Monroe 7281
We Serve Nothing But the Best
VICTORY
Restaurant and Lunch Room
Pronos Brothers
1064 West Madison St. Chicago

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

MINIATURE LAYOUT OF SPECIAL EDITIONS OF THE DAILY WORKER FOR FOSTER AND GITLOW MEETINGS

FOR YOUR CITY!

A SPECIAL EDITION

WITH A LOCAL HEADLINE—LOCAL NEWS AND A LOCAL STREAMER AD (as in the adjoining miniature)

At a Cost Lower Than Your Advertising

For the Foster and Gitlow campaign meetings

New York has ordered		60,000	copies	(Two editions)
Milwaukee	"	20,000	"	(Wisconsin State Edition)
Chicago	"	10,000	"
Erie, Pa.,	"	2,000	"
Toledo, O.,	"	1,000	"

Detroit will have FOUR editions—Foster and Gitlow meetings and two special Michigan campaign editions.

Campaign Managers! The Workers Party National Campaign Committee has made the special edition a part of the campaign plans. You can build the party with a special local or state campaign edition.

The Daily Worker Goes With Foster and Gitlow

How many thousand will your local order?

WRITE OR WIRE FOR FULL DETAILS.

THE DAILY WORKER.

1113 W. Washington St. Chicago, Ill.

SPECIAL NEW YORK EDITION

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT.

THE DAILY WORKER

Communist Candidates For President: WILLIAM Z. FOSTER For Vice-President: BENJAMIN GITLOW

FOSTER SPEAKS IN N. Y. FRIDAY

MASS MEETING HERE IN SUPPORT OF WORKERS PARTY CAMPAIGN

COMMUNIST PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE HAS LONG RECORD OF SERVICE TO LABOR

William Z. Foster, candidate on the Workers Party ticket for president of the United States, needs no introduction to the masses of this country. Never has the American working class had a leader more fearless, from whom more could be expected in continuous devotion and able leadership in the immediate and future struggles. That the ablest organizer and most tireless worker in the American labor movement heads the ticket of the Workers Party in the coming elections, is a hundred-fold that the only party of labor will enter the campaign militantly and with all the energy that thousands of independent and working class politics can command.

Foster, speaking tour of the country has brought each day new hundreds of workers into the ranks and swarms into the fold of the Workers Party of the campaign.

A real leader and organizer of the working class Foster is an ideal candidate for a labor party political ticket. Free from no mere formulator of phrases and theories, he has long since demonstrated by years of actual experience in the class struggle, that he is not only able to point out the correct path, but is

(Continued page 3)

Unemployed Hail Workers Party Program.

Severe unemployment is constantly growing in every part of the country as the season progresses, and it promises to be a bitter but a valuable lesson to thousands of workers. They are becoming aware that the Workers Party has the only solution for the unemployment problem. Among them Foster and Gitlow are known leaders.

Miners Hard Hit.

Miners in the soft coal districts are said to be almost 100 per cent behind Foster. In the Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois districts where Foster is known and loved by the workers, he is finding some of its greatest strength.

Young Workers League Takes Leading Part in Campaign

While it is true that the greatest proportion of the membership is assisting actively in the campaign, the Young Workers League is not nonetheless taking a leading part in the campaign, putting the campaign literature in the hands of the workers. In front on page 2)

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER
Communist Candidate for President

PLACING FULL TICKET IN FIELD IN NEW YORK

The Workers Party will support the New York state election campaign by a complete ticket being placed in the field and petitions being circulated to get it on the ballot. A committee of organization has been worked out and is busy with captains in all districts.

More solicitors, however, are necessary. Those who are willing to help in this work should apply for their petitions at once at one of the following places.

WORKERS PARTY LOCAL OFFICE:
208 E. Twelfth St.
Prethelt:
47 Chrystie Street.
Volkszeitung:
15 Spruce Street.
Workers' Home:
26 East 84th St.
Rand Restaurant:
433 East 116th St.
Jimmie Higgins' Book Store:
127 University Pl.

Many Workers Party branches have also supplies both for state and district petitions.

GREAT CROWD EXPECTED AT OPENING MEETING OF COMMUNIST ELECTION DRIVE

In what is expected to be one of the greatest meetings ever held by Labor in this city, the Workers Party will open officially its election campaign here with a mass meeting in the Madison Square Gardens, with William Z. Foster as the principal speaker of the evening and a number of other leading labor men and women on the program, the opening of the Communist campaign in New York will make the efforts of the capitalist candidates look insignificance.

Plan Parade

Great preparations are being made to make this meeting a striking example and beginning for the entire campaign. Enthusiastic militants have prepared to parade from the railroad station upon his arrival from Boston. A parade has been arranged from the station to the hall.

Seats at Premium

Because of the known demand for seats, the committee in charge has found it necessary to limit admittance by ticket only. Tickets have been printed in sufficient number to provide for all who seat in the hall. No more will be issued. Those who wish to be sure of obtaining entrance to the hall should secure their tickets in advance. They may be obtained at any of the following places:

Workers Party Office:
208 E. Twelfth St.
Jimmie Higgins' Book Store:
127 University Pl.
Prethelt:
47 Chrystie Street

Trade Unionists Line Up for W. P. Ticket

Sam Gompers and W. H. Johnson may have pledged their labor vote to LaFollette but they are going to have a hard time to deliver the sentiment among the trade unionists of many trades in this city indicates anything. A strong rank and file movement has been developing which is a rapidly swinging hundreds of workers into the Foster-Gitlow camp. Out of the election campaign a strong and militant left wing movement will result.

Rank and File For Foster

Particularly among the garment workers and the metal trades workers is the Foster-Gitlow sentiment manifesting itself.

Workers Party Campaigns for New Members

If you are a supporter of Foster and Gitlow, if you believe in the class struggle and are willing to aid them in the side of the working class—in other words, if you are a revolutionary young helper in the party of the revolutionary working class, the Workers Party during August and September and the Workers Party is campaigning for new members, and militants of this nature qualify are welcomed into the ranks.

Party Campaign Fund Mounts but Thousands Are Still Needed

Pronounced success has been met in the efforts made both locally and nationally to secure the Gitlow campaign. While Big Wall Street is producing the coin for Coolidge and Davis and Little Wall Street is forking over the necessary funds for La Follette, the wage workers who have a head and though and a heart for fighting are getting ready to make the Communist campaign as possible. Coolidge campaign managers are planning a cheap campaign this year and expect to spend less than $10,000,000. Davis will have to contribute the other seven less than that, while LaFollette spokesmen believe that in swing the country for a paltry $5,000,000.00.

Against these Workers Party has chests the enlisting into the field nothing but willing hands and heads and with the workers' dimes many tants will produce the huge amount of $100,000 to convince the workers of this country of the working class program.

WORKERS PARTY ELECTION CAMPAIGN MASS MEETING

Speakers: WILLIAM Z. FOSTER and Others

MADISON SQUARE GARDENS

SUNDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 19, AT 8 P. M.

Admission 25 cents Doors open at 6:30

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES
By mail:
$6.00 per year $3.50...6 months $2.00...3 months
By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year $4.50...6 months $2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE } Editors
MORITZ J. LOEB ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923 at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application.

Tomsky in England

While the American trade unions are still controlled by the blackest kind of reaction, the same cannot longer be said of the British labor movement. The fact that Tomsky, chairman of the All-Russian Council of Trade Unions, could appear before the British Trades Union Congress, now meeting at Hull, is a sign of the strong drift to the left that is making itself felt in the directing councils of the British labor movement. Such a thing as the reception of a representative of the Russian unions by a convention of the A. F. of L., for comparison, is unlikely enough to give us some measure of the progress in Great Britain.

The main reason why reactionary labor leaders hate the Russian unionists, is that they never content themselves with speaking a lot of meaningless platitudes. This, when Tomsky appeared at Hull, his words were a direct challenge to the leaders of the "Labor" Government, who have become the agents of J. P. Morgan in putting over the Dawes Plan. Tomsky branded this act for what it is, "seizing the German proletariat by the throat," and called for a united struggle of all trade unionists against the slavery of the Dawes project. Gompers would call that impolite; but the Russian unionists have a peculiar notion that they would rather be true to the interests of the working class than be polite in the bourgeois manner.

Another great crisis is looming before the working class, in the not far distant future, that will become as historic as that of August, 1914. The new world war of capitalist imperialism is in the making, the Dawes Plan is one of the distinct steps toward it, and in the manner that the union leaders treat of this plan of the Morgan rulers of the world, we will have the answer as to whether they will repeat the betrayal of 1914, or whether they will join the Communists in the struggle for emancipation. Tomsky in England put the question squarely before the British workers. And a great section of the British working class is conscious of this issue, and determined to fight against capitalism. The imperialists will not find the next world war such easy sledding.

Newspaper "Revolts" in Russia

Again the Chicago Tribune is publishing stories of "revolts" against the Soviet Government of Russia. The stories come from the same old sources of inspired propaganda, and are written by the same hirelings, as the well-known thousand-and-one predictions of the restoration of the old order that have appeared during the past seven years. Riga, Reval, Berlin, London—these points are teeming with "news" about the "revolts"—at least in the cable offices.

Unfortunately for the emigre Czarists, who wish to return to their former idleness and luxury at the expense of the Russian workers and peasants, a newspaper story in Chicago will not persuade the Russian workers to take them back. These newspaper stories have another object—to put off, for as long as possible, the inevitable day of the recognition of Soviet Russia by the government of the United States. In this pious wish are united Samuel Gompers and his crew, in closest communion with the Chicago Tribune and all the most vicious labor-hating capitalists of America. It is to justify these gentlemen in the eyes of their followers, that the lies are told.

Meanwhile, the Soviet governments continue to rebuild the industries, and to reconstruct the life of one-sixth of the globe, upon the principles of the proletarian dictatorship—the rule of the working class in alliance with the farmers—slowly but surely consolidating its forces, social and economic, and raising the standards of life and culture until today Soviet Russia is the most solid and permanent social organism in the world. No wonder the dogs of capitalism howl and wail, and try to convince themselves that the Soviets will soon fall—for the continued victory of the Russian workers is the guarantee that exploitation in the rest of the world must sooner or later go the way of the Russian Czar.

Civil War in China

China is a long ways off from Chicago, and the sources of information available in this office are not of a sort to inspire confidence in the reports of civil war now raging in that country. All cable news at this moment comes thru channels controlled by interests hostile to the central government in Pekin. The events chronicled do not give a clear lead to any interpretation of what is going on, in the sense of connecting the various Generals and their armies with this or that side of the international conflict that makes of China a battle ground. A few outstanding facts will, however, if kept in mind when reading news from China, occasionally throw a vivid light upon what is going on.

Two phases of international struggle are imposing themselves upon the local rivalries and ambitions that furnish the outward dress to the Chinese disturbances: One is the conflict between Japan, the United States and England, for positions of vantage in the control of China as a particularly rich section of the world market and as a subject of semi-colonial exploitation. The other is the united struggle of these rival imperialist powers against the growing influence of Soviet Russia, an influence which, expressed in the signing of a treaty between Russia and China, has thrown into confusion and rage the foreign offices of the capitalist nations.

It may be assumed, in the absence of authoritative and detailed information, that the various Generals whose armies seem to operate without much regard to the central government, are financed and directed by the various imperialist powers who maneuver against one another thru these agencies. At the same time, these armies will be directed, insofar as they are the instruments of the imperialists who are intent upon subjugating China completely to their aims, by a policy of weakening, discrediting, and finally replacing the central government which was so rash as to sign the treaty with Soviet Russia without permission from capitalist imperialism.

This background, so briefly sketched here, furnishes complications enough to show the various moves reported in the capitalist press as part of a more intricate picture than we have so far been given. At the same time it gives us the key which will, when more trustworthy information comes to hand to fill in the details, enable us to really have some sort of an understanding of the civil war now raging in China. The importance of such an understanding cannot be overestimated. A nation of 400 million persons is a weighty factor in the world, notwithstanding its lack of battleships and guns, and especially to the labor movement is it important to establish understanding, as the basis for that international co-operation of the toiling masses thru which alone emancipation from the capitalist system can come.

Howat Supports Foster

Alex Howat has never been tamed, either by the capitalists, by John L. Lewis, nor by his own timid "friends" who wished to sell their support of him in return for dictating his politics. And that Howat is still the same old working class rebel, was shown in Springfield the other night when he boldly took the platform along with William Z. Foster, and endorsed Foster's candidacy for president on the Workers Party ticket. Howat said that he is going to vote for Foster and asks all other workers to do the same thing.

Howat's spirit is that of the militant working class. It is that which is so sorely needed in the direction of American labor unions today, in the place of the spineless servility of the Lewises, the Johnstons, the Gomperses, and the rest of the capitalist lackeys who clutch the labor movement by the throat. That the workers instinctively know this, is shown by the tremendous popularity of Howat among the miners of the entire continent. What is needed, and must be done before this militant spirit can find its complete expression, is to solidly organize the militants within the unions, so that the reactionaries cannot assassinate them thru expulsions, and thru co-operating with the authorities in prison frame-ups.

And in this year of presidential campaigning, the militants have a splendid opportunity to show their colors, and to lay the basis for a great campaign of organization and education. They can do this by following the example and advice of Alex Howat. That is, to boldly speak out and defy the reactionaries of all stripes, whether they remain, like John L. Lewis, directly in the camp of Wall Stret, or whether they join the small capitalists in the camp of LaFollette. It is from such fearless acts and such bold spirits that progress comes.

Hold Shop Meetings

A development in the presidential campaign that is more important than all the manifestos of candidates, is the fact that workers thruout the country are beginning to hold shop meetings to discuss who should receive the support of the workers. And when the workers begin to discuss politics in the shops, and to hold meetings, and to discuss and vote upon representatives to express their interests, then may the capitalists well tremble. For it is out of such shop meetings that the power will come that is to abolish the capitalists and their system from the face of the earth.

What is still a primitive and blind impulse, these shop meetings and the discussions arising in them, must be taken up and developed consciously and energetically by the militants. It is a fundamental duty of every revolutionary worker to stimulate, organize, and encourage in every way, such shop meetings and shop discussions. One of the best instruments to do this with, is the straw vote on presidential candidates. This straw vote can be made the basis for raising every fundamental issue before the working class. It must be used more widely, and from it developed a more conscious group of supporters of Foster and Gitlow. Hold shop meetings to discuss candidates and take straw votes!

Here's hoping that the Chinese workers will some day get together and, instead of fighting each other, present a united front against their own oppressors at home and the imperialist forces from abroad that are trying to keep them in subjection.

Industrial Registration in Full Swing

By JAMES P. CANNON,
Assistant Executive Secretary,
Workers Party.

REPORTS from all sections of the party indicate that the new industrial registration is being carried out with the greatest energy and that the Party will soon be in possession of a complete picture of the location and composition of the membership.

The material for the registration is in the hands of every party branch with extra supplies sent to the city central committees to take care of the needs of the larger branches which do not receive a sufficient initial supply from the National Office. A large number of branches have already completed the registration and sent in the results to the National Office. Reports from district organizers and secretaries of the city central committees are very favorable for the mast gratifying success of this important undertaking.

Members Not Endangered by Registration.

A complete and elaborate system of filing the information received from the registration is being utilized to protect the party members who register. The information is filed in such a way that raids on the National Office by our enemies would yield them nothing. District organizers and secretaries of the C. C. C.'s are strictly instructed to follow the same procedure. Under no circumstances can they keep the files of the industrial registration in the party offices where they might be found by our enemies and used as a basis to hound and persecute the party members.

These precautions are absolutely necessary. We have had more than enough experience to know that we cannot trust the capitalist "democracy" for one minute. All party members should be reassured in this regard and should have no fears that by filling out the registration cards, which are absolutely necessary to the party work, that they will be thereby endangering themselves. Not a single party member can be excused from registering on this score as the success of the registration and its utility for the most important party work depends upon its being thoro and complete.

September fifteenth has been established as the time for the completion of the registration. Let every party branch and every party member make it the first order of business to have the registration finished by that time.

PARTY ACTIVITIES IN CHICAGO

THE City Central Committee—Local Chicago Workers Party dealt with numerous political and industrial matters and gave special attention to the Young Workers' League and Junior Section.

Reports of progress made in securing signatures to place Workers Party candidates on the ballot in the State of Illinois and Chicago were made by various delegates. Results of the Campaign activity are printed daily in The DAILY WORKER.

Straw Vote To Be Taken.

A DAILY WORKER straw vote, the only straw vote of the working class, will be taken. Local Chicago Party and League comrades will distribute the ballots in the main factories and shops in the city of Chicago on various days. In this way good propaganda results can be obtained. Comrades who are able to go out on various days should send their names and addresses to the local office where they will be assigned factories to cover.

Preparations are also being made for distribution of 10,000 DAILY WORKER special Chicago edition to advertise the Foster-Gitlow meeting on October 12, at Ashland Auditorium.

Funds are beginning to come in from the sale of the Campaign Fund stamps. Lithuanian No. 5 branch has sent in its share of $18.50 and says that more is coming. Branches should speed up the sale of the stamps and send the money in to the district office as soon as it comes in from the members.

Street meetings are more successful than ever in the history of Chicago. Twenty-one successful meetings were held last week and only three cases of failure of speakers to appear. Chief neglect lies in the branch committees which fail to appear on time with literature and other material. Jack up your branches on this.

Industrial Registration Reports.

Industrial registration reports show great possibilities for shop nuclei. The industrial registration is being handled swiftly by the branches. However, the branches will have to hurry up if they want to come in under the wire by Sept. 15. The branches which have already sent in their registration are printed in another column of the DAILY WORKER. Progress will be reported regularly. The registration today shows many comrades working in the same plant or a sufficient number in many cases to form shop nuclei. One shop nucleus is sending in funds each week to the election campaign fund.

T. U. E. L. groups functioning better right along. The Local 270 group of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers has been reorganized and can be expected to do better work. The T. U. E. L. group of the Amalgamated is in good shape and healthy spirit, and is carrying on a strong fighting policy in reference especially for the Foster-LaFollette issue. The read justment question is coming up, as well as wage agreements and the shop delegate system. The situation is ripe in the Amalgamated for the development of the strongest left wing in the history of the organization. The members of the Amalgamated T. U. E. L. group are alive to these issues and possibilities and taking them up seriously and militantly.

Food Workers' group recently held its meeting and reorganized, discussed thoroly its program, extended the sale of the Labor Heralds and took up the matter of issuing a monthly Food Workers' bulletin.

The Pullman comrades are taking up the question of union organization among the carmen and recently held a good membership meeting.

In Hegewisch, where the strike is still on, the party and league are giving as yet their fullest support and are aiding in the formation of union locals there and in Hammond.

In the metal trades preparations are being made for the machinists convention in Detroit. Central Executive Committee has recently adopted a policy for the convention which has been communicated to party members delegates.

DAILY WORKER-Labor Defense Council Bazaar.

A committee consisting of Comrade Rubicki, Hans Pederson, Mrs. Marek, Bjornson, M. J. Loeb, George Maurer and J. Heinrickson was elected to take charge of the coming DAILY WORKER-Labor Defense Bazaar on Nov. 27 at the Workers' Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd. Branches will receive more reports later.

With Labor Defense activity again coming to the fore, all branches are instructed to immediately elect Labor Defense Council delegates and send their names and addresses to the local office.

C. C. C. to Meet Soon in Another Hall.

The City Central Committee decided to change the meeting place from the Workers' Lyceum to 722 Blue Island Ave., the headquarters of the Italian and Greek comrades. The new headquarters are more centrally located, and it is expected that the change will result in a greater attendance at the C. C. C. meetings. However, the next meeting of the C. C. C. will take place in the Workers' Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd., Sept. 16, at 8 p. m.

Many New Members Being Enrolled Into the Party.

Twenty-five new members were accepted at the last meeting from the following branches: Finnish, 1; South Side English, 1; Douglas Park Jewish, 2; German, 1; Ukrainian No. 1, 1; Czecho-Slovakian No. Berwyn, 1; Russian, 1; Italian, Grand Crossing, 5; Northwest English, 5; Lithuanian No. 3; 6. Union members among them were from pattern makers, iron molders, furriers, clothing workers. Transfers were received, two from Los Angeles, one from Waukegan and New York, and one transfer granted to New York. In this connection comrades who leave town shall make sure of obtaining their transfers from the branch. There are many cases thruout the country of comrades who have failed to obtain transfers and consequently in many instances have been disconnected from the party.

Branches To Check Up On Membership.

As a means of ascertaining the activity of every member and incidentally to find our actual dues paying membership, every Party branch is instructed to call in the membership books of the members and check up on each one and get the members in good standing immediately. Not merely dues paying members are wanted, but live comrades.

Recommend Negro Leaflet.

The CCC recommended to the Central Executive Committee that it issue pamphlet on the Negro workers. At the last Enlarged Executive Committee a thorough discussion on the Negro question was held, Comrade Gordon (Swen making the main report. The Enlarged Executive committee as announced previously takes up special federation matters. At the next meeting of Enlarged Executive Committee on Wednesday, September 10th, at the local office Comrade Paul Petras of the Hungarian, will review the work and problems of the Hungarian comrades and workers.

Discussion On Young Workers League

The Young Workers League delegates reported excellent progress in their field, especially in their industrial activity. Their industrial registration was almost completed and they were furthering plans for their factory campaigns which have been so successful. Comrade Earley reported a very successful Junior Convention. The question of educational activity in relation to the League and Junior section and aid from the Party was gone into and efforts will be made to obtain teachers to help out.

Educational.

Speakers' Class every Friday at 1502 W. Division St. A class on English for foreign-speaking comrades will begin on Wednesday, September 10, at 722 Blue Island Ave. Comrade Swabeck's Class in Trade Union Tactics and Conflict will start on Thursday, September 11, at 722 Blue Island Ave.

The Delegates from the Fifth Congress of the Communist International are returning. Branches wishing to get them to speak should notify of the date they want to have a speaker and we will date a speaker for them.

Czecho-Slovak membership meeting of August 29 was very sucessful. The Czecho-Slovak comrades are going full steam ahead to put over a Communist Czecho-Slovak paper in Chicago. A full report is given in another column of the DAILY WORKER.

Jewish comrades reported progress on the left wing conference in connection with the Foster Campaign.

We again remind delegates to the City Central Committee that in addition to the summarized minutes they receive, the reports in the DAILY WORKER are official and shall be used to make report to the branches.

Work is progressing, but more speed is wanted.

Martin Abern, Secretary.

YOUR UNEMPLOYED DOLLARS
BELONG AT
CHICAGO'S ONLY LABOR BANK
Amalgamated Trust and Savings Bank
371 West Jackson Boulevard
3 Per cent on Savings
2 Per cent on Checking Balances over $1,000
MODERN AND EFFICIENT SERVICE IN EVERY DEPARTMENT OF BANKING SERVICE TRANSFER
Your Account to Labor's Popular Bank where 260 labor organizations and ten thousand trade union members bank.
Affiliated Member of Chicago Clearing House Association

Rich
Reputable
Reliable
RICH because of its richness in the true sugars of barley, malt and other valued constituents of the malted barley grain.
REPUTABLE because it is a product of acknowledged merit and the standard of highest purity.
RELIABLE because it can always be depended upon for best results.
HIGH-TEST
100% PURE BARLEY
MALT EXTRACT
WITH CHOICEST HOPS
FOR SALE BY LEADING DEALERS
High Test Malt Extract Co.
20 East Eighth Street, Chicago, Ills.
Phone, Wabash 2580
1917 North Western Avenue
6748 South Halsted Street
605 East 63rd Street
5062 Lincoln Avenue
1503 Roosevelt Road
Leiter Store Basement

THE WORLD'S GREATEST TONIC
for lowered vitality makes your blood tingle with joy the minute you taste it. Take a wine glass full of LIPSEY'S
BITTERS
before meals and note the improvement of your health in a few days. Order a bottle by coupon below.
LIPSEY PRODUCTS CO.
1133 Foster Ave., Chicago
Enclosed is $1.85. Please send one bottle of LIPSEY'S BITTERS at once.
Name .....
Address .....
City ..... State .....
Money Back Guarantee

"The idea becomes power when it penetrates the masses." —Karl Marx.

SPECIAL MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT
THE DAILY WORKER

SECOND SECTION
This magazine supplement will appear every Saturday in The Daily Worker.

SEPTEMBER 6, 1924.

The Liquidation of the Versailles Treaty

By KARL RADEK

ON the 16th of July the Allied representatives met in London in order to determine their attitude to the Experts' Report, and to decide upon a number of measures arising out of it. There is not the least doubt that this Conference marks a new stage in the liquidation of the relations of forces which found expression in the treaty of Versailles. However much France may cling to this treaty, no matter how much the government of the Left Bloc, with Herriot at its head, may swear their loyalty to this memorial to the victory of democracy and pacifism, and no matter how Mr. MacDonald may swear that the Versailles peace must remain undisturbed, all these political manoeuvres can in no way alter the important fact, that the Peace of Versailles is being buried, although unaccompanied by any pomp and ceremony.

We said that what we have to deal with is a new stage in the liquidation of the treaty of Versailles. For the occupation of the Ruhr itself constituted an attempt at such a liquidation. The only difference is that on the 11th January 1923 M. Poincare was endeavoring to alter the treaty of Versailles in favor of the French bourgeoisie, while at the present time England and America are undertaking this liquidation to the disadvantage of the French bourgeoisie. In order to understand the entire change in the situation which has taken place in the last months, it is necessary to examine in the first place what was the aim of the French policy in occupying the Ruhr.

One can observe three tendencies in the post-war policy of France towards Germany. The first tendency is the efforts of the French militarists to dismember defeated Germany. From fear of Germany with its preponderating population, from fear that German industry will revolutionize war technics and be in a position, in spite of the present defenceless condition of Germany, to supply better means for a war of revenge, from fear that new groupings in international politics will render it easier for Germany to appear as a military power in the future, these military circles were trying for the occupation of the left bank of the Rhine, not only for the time prescribed by the peace of Versailles (15 years), but as a permanent guarantee of domination over Germany. They attempted with the help and support of the separatist movement in Bavaria and Pfalz to wrest from Germany the whole area south of the Main. The second group is the French petty bourgeoisie who have lent the state one hundred milliard francs for the restoration of northern France and are endeavoring to make Germany pay the interest on this debt, and who are possessed by the fear of a collapse of the franc and of further heavy taxation in the event of Germany failing to pay. With this petty bourgeoisie there are allied the French deposit banks who negotiated the state loans. The third group is the heavy industry which is seeking to impose an agreement upon German heavy industry which will assure it the preponderance in the Franco-German steel and coal trust and secure it the supply of German coke and the export of French iron to Germany. As this group did not reach its aim by means of negotiations with the German industrialists it endeavored to do so at the point of the bayonet.

All these three tendencies existed at the time of the peace negotiations. The claims of the military group, which were represented by Marshall Foch, collided with the resistance of England and America, who saw in the realization of these aspirations the establishment of French military hegemony in Europe. The attempts of French industry to establish economic hegemony over the continent already at Versailles, called forth the resistance of England, who, in the event of its realization, would have been placed between the two fires of the powerful American and Franco-German competition. The peace of Versailles, by reason of its very nature, marked the rejection of the military and economic hegemony of France by the Allies. It laid down the amount of tribute which the whole of Germany, which was to remain a whole even though reduced in size, had to pay. At the same time the treaty of Versailles provided France with a guarantee against the German revanche.

But as is always the case in compromises, the rejected French claims have found expression in articles of the treaty which permitted France to remain for a definite number of years on the left bank of the Rhine. These clauses were the grounds for a new attempt by France to accomplish her aims, when it became clear that the peace of Versailles, as Briand said, was a beautiful but lifeless ornament. In the first place America has not ratified the treaty signed by Wilson guaranteeing securities to France. England, however, has refused to take up such a responsibility alone. This lent new force to the military tendencies striving for the occupation of the Rhine area. Secondly, it became evident that Germany is not in a position to pay the tribute demanded from her by the ultimatum of May 1921. The Allies succeeded in fixing the enormous tribute, but in spite of all their economic experts they never thought what would become of Germany if she paid this tribute. Germany could only obtain the valuta necessary for the payment of the tribute by printing and selling mark notes. Thus there came about the collapse of the mark. Poincare decided to obtain the consent of the Allies for taking up the so-called territorial sanctions. The idea of these sanctions was best expressed by the chairman of the finance commission of the French parliament, Dariacque, in his secret report which was published in the "Manchester Guardian" in the summer of 1922.

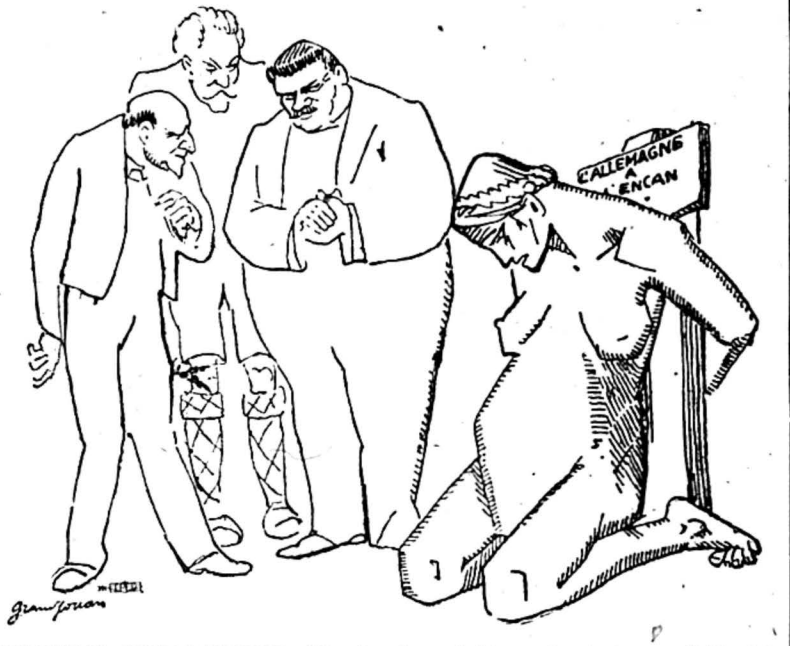
"The Ruhr district," he wrote, "especially that portion which we possess, constituted the chief element of the wealth of Germany. A great portion of the German large syndicates were formed here, here they have their general staff and their undertakings. The ten to twelve industrials who stand at their head, hold, either directly or indirectly but in any event in absolute form, the fate of Germany in their hands. They consist chiefly of Stinnes, Thyssen, Krupp, Haniel, Klockner, Funke, Mannesmann and three or four others. Their importance corresponds with that of Carnegie, Rockefeller, Harriman, Vanderbilt and Gould in America. These German magnates, however, play a role in politics which the American millionaires would never dream of. They have already proposed to take the place of the German state in the payment of reparations, but their conditions remain unacceptable at present."

By means of exercising pressure upon upon the authorities in the Ruhr basin Poincare hoped to put an end to the taxation policy which rendered Germany unable to pay and enriched the coal and iron kings. This policy, which appeared as one of the elements which rendered it impossible for Germany to pay the tribute demanded by the Allies, constituted a common problem in the eyes of Poincare. The representatives of French heavy industry knew very well that one cannot compel an industrial country which requires an enormous quantity of raw material from abroad to render payment in kind, and that no matter in what form Germany paid the tribute, it would finally consist of exported goods for which no goods would be imported in return. But the French heavy industry drove Poincare to occupy the Ruhr district, because it reckoned that then, when it became clear that it was impossible by this means to obtain the payment of an appreciable amount of tribute, Poincare would be compelled to carry out the policy of the Comite des Forges, a policy which did not aim at the exaction of the tribute, but the creation of a Franco-German coal and steel syndicate. The Comite des Forges knew perfectly well that Poincare in the first place represented the policy of the petty bourgeoisie who wish to receive indemnities, but the French iron and coal kings hoped that if he received nothing he would be compelled to adopt their programme. The military circles, on the other hand, hoped that the logic of the struggle would compel him definitely to support the dismemberment of Germany. If she did not and could not pay then it would be necessary to cut a living portion from her body and to be rid one for all of the German danger.

Poincare, who was afraid of finding himself isolated, endeavored at first to win over the Allies for the policy of territorial sanctions. When however he became convinced at the Paris Conference that the Allies—who knew quite as well as the French militarists that the territorial sanc-

(Continued on page 5.)

GERMANY IN TRAVAIL



THEUNIS-MacDONALD-HERRIOT: What has she got in her womb, a Junker or a Bolshevik?

Engineering Workers Under Capitalism

By J. I. OBSKY.

AMONG the skilled workers the Engineering workers (draftsmen, designers, inspectors, supervisors, engineers, architects, chemists, etc.) occupy the most important strategic positions in the class-divisions in all capitalist countries, and most especially in America. They supply the paid brain workers, the producers of intellectual commodities, who are in no small part responsible for the great and rapid expansion of the bourgeois technique and with it—bourgeois influence. It must be remembered that it is not the fancy of a few brainy super-engineers, but the great mass of pen and pencil pushers who are collectively responsible for the rapid growth of engineering achievements under capitalism (it is well known in the profession that bourgeois favorites for "Great Engineers" seldom if ever have real greatness in them.)

The engineering work, exactly the same as that of any other sphere, is subdivided into a great number of specialized branches. The only difference between engineering and other branches of work is that the elementary tasks of an operator in the tailor shop, a ledger clerk in a large office, for instance, are so simple that they require little preliminary preparation, while the most of engineering tasks, no matter how simple, require theorctical preparation of one sort or another.

The great mass of engineering workers bent over tens of thousands of drawing boards in engineering offices, or concentrating their energies on various problems have long ago been brot down to the level of wage earners in every respect. The average wage, called salary—to add weight to it, is no greater than that of a skilled laborer and indeed less than that of the most well organized laborers who never gave a whoop about technical training.

The technical worker is, on par with the unorganized unskilled laborer, entirely at the mercy of the will of the bosses. He is in every way fully dependent on the boss and in the case of the corporation on the long chain of cunning, treacherous and for most part stupid bosses. He is surrounded by a veil of hypocricy of such degree that its odor smells in the heavens. He is "free" to chose his job. That means that in case a draftsman is needed the usual procedure is that the firm will have all available applicants fill out application blanks (as there always is a "reserve army" of unemployed men in the profession sometimes as many as 50 applications are submitted.) Now, as to the form of the blanks. The applicant must give full information about his education, professional experience record, state what employers he worker for, give reasons for leaving each employer, name and address of each employer; must give good references; also nationality, religion, height, weight, place of birth, citizenship, or intention in regard to same; he must state what salaries he has been getting in every other place and also what salary he expects to get. The "freedom" in the choice is obvious, unfortunately not for the one seeking employment . . . The individual bargaining reduces itself to the simple formula: the single little experience of an individual is matched against the organized force of engineering bosses. (Of course, in the eyes of the capitalist, that is justice, fairness and what not, while Unionism is "hideous, low, vulgar, and common.")

There are two kinds of agencies that "help" men find engineering employment. The first is the creature of the most reactionary and fossilized bosses in the country. It is a direct appendix of the United Engineering Society (Society of Civil, Mechanical, Electrical and Chemical Engineers.) The second consists of a string of private agencies; the biggest of them have agreements with the great corporations, utility companies, etc., and in reality are also the bosses' medium for more efficient and cheaper engineering labor-power.

There is not a single organization in the entire field which would take it upon itself to really take the side of the technical worker in helping him secure work. The American Federation of Labor organized a Technical Men's Union. However, that organization at present plays no part whatever in the life of American technical men.

Such is the present situation in the engineering field. The American technique is expanding, growing enormously, huge million dollar corporations have sprung up overnight and the men who have been producing and continue to produce this colossal wealth are getting a miserable wage are at the full mercy of the bosses and in the most humiliating position. No wonder the profession is despised by 90 per cent of those who enter it and the usual talk of the technical man who is frank is that he'd rather be a carpenter, or printer.

The capitalist mode of production based on anarchy in production and on innumerable contradictions inherent in it makes for greed, graft, impotency and criminal wastefulness; bright intellect and ability are neglected and annihilated, creative energy is destroyed. The small business by virtue of its position works its men to death, in hunt for the dollar, and the big business is a scene for the play of politicians, ignorant but willing tools, without ingenuity, creative, or in most part even executive ability, even without adequate knowledge of their duties.

There are enuf spies in every big organization, so that anyone who may feel the sting of the present situation is forced to either lose employment, or keep his mouth shut. Boss controlled associations of employees are to be found in practically every big establishment; however, altho it is unofficially made clear to the new employee that it is the desire of the heads of the corporation that every employee belong to the organization and be active in it, the workers take very little interst in such organizations.

The men themselves are very keen in each particular case to one or another injustice done to them, comparing their well being with that of their neighbors; they are aware of the fact that they are underpaid as compared with organized skilled trade workers, but go no further. Not only do they lack a shred of class consciousness, but they no not even feel the necessity of struggling for improvement in their condition in some way other than the accepted one (the way of their masters). They don't seem to grasp that the so-called "individual" bargaining is not individual bargaining at all, but rather a method whereby the organized capitalists in the engineering industry are marshalling their united forces against the divided insignificant strength of the individual members of their technically trained slaves. They do not see that in order to get out of the present morass, in order to amount to something they have to build up an organization of their own, and give up the idle hope that the present boss-controlled organizations will protect their interests. A straight road to this conception and in the proper direction for engineering workers has been paved by the organized workers of other industries, such as the metal trades, printers, building trades, tailors, painters, etc., etc.

Practically all skilled workers are organized and are meeting the assaults and greed of the employers as collective bodies. Regretfully, one of the most important sections of the skilled workers, the engineering profession, presents to us a pitiful sight. All grading and classification of its ability as well as regulation is left entirely in the hands of the employers. The engineering profesison has not as yet learned the elements of modern collective organizations, their economic advantages, collossal strength and potential possibilities.

The employees in the engineering field are facing the elemental problem of education as to the advantages of collective agreements and urgent necessity of real employees' organizations. Once built up, such organizations would no doubt become formidable factors in the class-struggle of the workers in America, greatly improving their own condition as well as marking a mile-stone in the development of, the slumbering huge potent forces of strength.

It is a most difficult task, but it must be performed; the duty to begin the work of organization of the technical men rests with those of them, who have grasped its importance and significance to the labor movement in general and the immediate advantages it offers to the entire profession in particular.

Concrete ways and means have to be devised and a campaign of preparatory educational and agitational work must be developed.

The men in the profession have to be rallied and organized. The methods of approach must be given a most thoro and elaborate study.

To the task, comrades!

Maxim Gorky's Latest Thrill

(A LETTER TO THE EDITOR)

By ROBIN E. DUNBAR.

LET it be understood from the start that I have the highest regard for Gorky's talents and personal character. I believe he has done much work towards paving the way for the proletarian revolution. His novels and plays take first place in the forward movement before the World War. Never has a more stirring short story been penned than "Chelkash;" a more vivid picture of the lowest slums painted than "A Night's Lodging;" a truer novel of pre-revolutionary days in Russia than "Mother;" or a more realistic drawing done of the Czar's secret police than "The Spy." Besides all these he has distinguished himself above all contemporaries in his various autobiographical works and semi-histories. Truly it can be said that no man today occupies a more enviable place in letters than that now held by Russia's greatest novelist, Maxim Gorky.

But I am sorry to say literature has no proper place in the proletarian revolution. The exploited workers have no time and no leisure to occupy themselves over dreams and dreamers. Beyond the exhausting efforts to make a living they have little energy left for the finer things of life. They must leave art, science, music, and literature to the bourgeoisie, and content themselves with the most important problems of daily life; with economics and politics, if you please; with unions, strikes, job control, unemployment, civil wars, revolutions and dictatorships of the proletariat. The gods of the working class today are the leaders of the Third International, and not the leaders of letters. Shaw has past into the proletarian discard, and now occupies the proud position of "Clown to the Bourgeoisie." Sinclair has joined the Hearst syndicate; and Gorky writes for the decadent Dial. Not one of them has a word of wisdom to speak to the fighting rebels; all aim at the shekels of the master class. "Instead of politics, they deal with pornografy," to use Lenin's memorable phrase. This subject is interesting only to the perverted bourgeoisie, whose politics consist in the last analysis of the mailed fist.

So Gorky announces he is thru with politics, withdraws from his fellow-countrymen and from the workers, and peddles his reminiscences of "better days" to the high-brow magazines. He has utterly withdrawn from participation in the Communist movement, and so ceases to be of interest to Communists, whether they are educated, or uneducated.

The world moves fast; faster than anyone man's mind. The reaping up of surplus goods proceeds thousand fold, and brings the next war closer every day. No man or group of men can withstay the catastrophe. The debacle approaches in spite of the science of the masters in fact their science urges on the inevitable doom of capitalism. That is the great subject. All else shrinks into emptiness besides our own fate; the fate of modern civilazation. The World War is the World Drama; the World Tragedy; besides it the puny canvases of pseudo-artists are like leaves thrown before the cannon. It matters not if Andreyev got drunk, seduced girls; despised women; feared death; boasted of his fame; disputed with Gorky and used the material for novels and plays. Those matters formerly might be of some interest to serious students; nowadays they are the veriest trifles. What we want to know is, How the Third International is Handling the Problems Confronting Us? What part must we play towards the United Front? How meet the pressing problems of To-Day? Let the dead past bury its dead. There is too much on hand for those actually living now to bother about the petty problems of yesterday, except to learn how to avoid the old mistakes.

So while I used to have the greatest esteem for Gorky and Shaw and Sinclair and Jack London, my esteem has faded away, and past on to the heroes of the Third International, and to the leaders of Communism: to Lenin, whose loss was so irreparable; to Trotsky, Zinoviev, Radek, Rykov and their brave and fearless comrades; to Foster too; and to Ruthenberg; to all the realists of today, who write their novels and plays in acts, not in words.

For it is the truth; in a civil war the sword is more powerful than the pen; the war of the classes is civil war everywhere, save in Russia where the revolution succeeded and has only to be safeguarded against the foes within and without.

Any man today who wants to be of service to his fellowmen must become a Communist first; and gladly do the bidding of the Communist leaders, if he can not become a leader himself. There is no other course for a hero.

Gorky and Andreyev and Tolstoi were heroes one day; but that day has disappeared. Two have died; we'll say nothing about them; they lived as they saw best. But for Gorky we must say we feel the keenest sorrow, for he laid aside the pen for the sword when he became connected with the soviet government; then dropt his sword for a tame bourgeois pen again. He ranked himself along with the counter-revolutionists, and must be feared and hated, rather than followed and loved.

MY COMPLIMENTS TO
THE DAILY WORKER
DR. M. WISHNER
DENTIST
800 W. North Ave., Cor. Halsted St.
Lincoln 9010

Nations and Colonies -

By P. MANUILSKY

REPORT TO THE FIFTH CONGRESS OF THE COMMUNIST INTERNATIONAL.

IT is not for the first time that the national question is on the agenda of our national congresses. At the Second World Congress we laid down the fundamental lines of the national question. How is it that we are again obliged to place it on the agenda? All those attending this Congress will ask themselves if it is not because of the events which have happened since the Second Congress. Comrades, this is not so. On the contrary, the entire trend and development of events in Europe and in the colonies show us the correctness of the lines laid down at the Second International Congress. Lately, we have witnessed a very rapid growth of the national and revolutionary movements in all colonial countries. I have only to remind you of the strike of Bombay Textile workers which lasted several months and, as you all know, had a very sanguinary ending, to give you a clear idea of the magnitude of the revolutionary movement in the colonial countries. India not so long ago was also the scene of a tremendous outburst of national indignation among the peasant population of the Nakhba, province, where in connection with the dismissal of one of the Rajahs, bloody collisions took place between the population and the troops. If time permitted, I could go on citing you scores of similar cases in the colonies.

In Europe, in countries with powerful national minorities, we witness a growing acuteness of national conflicts. The Versailles Peace Treaty and the series of "peace" treaties which followed have Balkanized Central Europe. In place of large empires with a uniformly economic system, they created a conglomeration of national groupings by the establishment of so-called national States. Countries which formerly knew nothing of national opprtssion, as for instance, Germany, now have a national question. The occupation of the Ruhr is an example of this. This phenomenon is one of the most characteristic symptoms of capitalist disintergation. It is to this system of parcelling out and dismembering Europe that we must look for the source of the permanent economic crisis which the economic system of the world is now experiencing. The imperialist cliques, on the ruins of Austria and Germany, have created new typically polcot states which are convulsed by internal national collisions. I will substantiate my statements by giving you a few figures on the national composition of these new States. Let us take for instance a "national" State like Yugo-Slavia. Prior to the war there were 3,000,000 Serbs in Serbia. At present the population of Yugo-Slavia is 11,350,000. Out of this number only 5,000,000, 42.2 per cent, are Serbs. The remainder of the population is international in its composition. In the present Yugo-Slavia there are about 2,800,000 Croats 23.7 per cent of the entire population; 950,000 Slovenes, 8 per cent; about 750,000 Serbo-Croat Moslems, 6.3 per cent; 600,000 Macedonians, 5 per cent; 600,000 Germans, 5 per cent; 500,000 Hungarians, 4 per cent; and 650,000 of other nationalities, 5.6 per cent. This is a typical example of a "national" State.

Let us take another example—Czecho-Slovakia, which presents a similar picture. The present population of Czecho-Slovakia amounts to 13,500,000 of which 6,000,000 are Czechs representing 44.4 per cent of the total population. The Czecho-Slovakian State has annexed industrial districts employed in the textile, mining and glass-making industries with a purely German population of 3,700,000, representing 27.4 per cent of the population of the Czech State. There are also 2,000,000 Slovaks, 14.8 per cent; 800,000 Hungarians, 5.9 per cent; 400,000 Ukrainians of Carpathian Russia, 2.9 per cent; 300,000 Jews, 2.7 per cent; and 1.9 per cent of other nationalities. Let us now take Poland another product of the Versailles Treaty. The present Poland has a population of 30,000,000 of which only 15,800,000, 52.7 per cent are Poles. The remainder of the population consists of 6,200,000 Ukrainians, 21 per cent; 3,300,000 Jews, 11 per cent; 2,200,000 White Russians, 7.3 per cent; 2,100,000 Germans, 7 per cent; and 300,000 other nationalities, 1 per cent. All these nationalities are oppressed by the Polish landowners and bourgeoisie. Let us now take as other examples: Roumania where national minorities constitute 30 per cent, almost one-third of the population. Greece where the purely Greek population constitutes 68.4 per cent, Lithuania where Lithuanians constitute 70 per cent of the population.

What is the meaning of thes figures? They mean that in Central Europe the national question is now assuming a special significance, and acuteness cannot be denied unless one is determined to ignore facts.

Let us now turn our attention to the acuteness of the national question in the colonies, and let us take for an example Great Britain, the classical example of colonial domination. While the area of Great Britain itself is only 314,000 square kilometers, its colonies cover almost 400,000,000 square kilometres, viz. British colonies are 130 times bigger than the United Kingdom. Moreover, the population of the United Kingdom is 46,000,000 while the population of the colonies is 429,000,000 which means that to every Britisher there are nine colonial slaves. Is it possible to destroy the might of the entire capitalist system of Great Britain without bringing into motion its colonial population? Will not British imperialism, which has such enormous human and material resources in the colonies, offer a successful resistance to the workers of Great Britain, if the latter do not deprive it of these human reserves which are as boundless as the ocean? Perhaps in a lesser degree other colonial countries present a similar picture. There is, for instance, France with an original population of 39,000,000 and a colonial population of 54,000,000, or little Belgium with an area 30,000 square kilometers while the colonies comprise an area of 2,420,000 square kilometers. The original population of Belgium is a little over 7,000,000 while the colonial population is 17,000,000. We have another example in Holland which has a population of with an original population of 30,000, is 49,500,000. If you glance at the post-war map of the world, you will realize the magnitude of the enslavement of mankind. Of the 134,000,000 square kilometers comprising the area of the globe, nearly 90,000,000 square kilometers are colonial possessions. Of the 1,750,000,000 population of the globe 1,250,000,000 inhabit colonies and countries under the imperialist yoke. Under such circumstances, comrades, I think we must admit that far from reconsidering the decisions of the Second Congress, we must consider methods for their better application in the present concrete situation.

A Happy Couple.

Why Is the National Question on the Agenda of the Fifth Congress?

We had three reasons for placing the national question on the agenda of the Fifth Congress. The first reason is, because at the Second World Congress, basing ourselves on the rich experience of the Russian Lenin-Stalin way of putting the national question, we put forward for the first time the idea of the united revolutionary front between the proletariat and the oppressed nations and colonies. But we did not put into a concrete form (we could not do so because of lack of international experience) the methods for establishing this united revolutionary front. In the course of the four years of our fight we collected enough data and material on the question to be able to come to some general conclusion.

Moreover, many mistakes were made in a number of countries by our young Communist sections in this connection. It would be perhaps more to the point to say that some of our sections ignored this question altogether. The second part of my report will be devoted to the analysis of the mistakes which were committed on this field.

Finally, during the period which has elapsed since the Second Congress an event of great political importance has taken place. I mean the establishment in Soviet Russia of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics as an experiment of the solution of the national question under proletarian dictatorship in a peasant country comprising many nationalities.

It is with these questions that will deal in my report.

At the Second Congress of the Comintern we dealt with two questions: Firstly, to what extent the international proletariat can make use of the national movement of the awakening colonial peoples for the fulfillment of its mission of the emancipation of all the sections of mankind groaning under the yoke of imperialism; secondly, to what extent the oppressed colonial peoples, supported by the international proletariat, will be able to evade the phase of capitalist development, profiting by the highest forms of socialist economics achieved by the proletariat in the most developed capitalist countries. By putting the question in this form, we originated the idea of the revolutionary front, the details of which were elaborated in the subsequent decisions of our international congresses. But as I have said already, at the Second Congress we were unable to recommend concrete methods for the realization of a workers' united front between the proletariat and the colonies. Only now can we seriously consider a number of new problems on the strength of concrete experience. These new problems can be divided into four groups of questions:

a) The first group. Lately we observe in a number of countries a tendency among large masses of workers to form workers' and peasants' parties with a comparatively radical program for the fight against imperialism. This tendency resulted, for instance, in the formation of such a workers' and peasants' party in the Dutch Indies, and especially in Java, and in the formation of the Koumintang Party in China. It is also due to this tendency that purely peasant parties are being formed, such as, for instance, the Republican Croatian Party of Raditch in the Balkans, whose influence is felt beyond Croatia.

Let us now consider the attitude which the Communist sections of the respective countries must adopt toward these parties, and what should be the concrete organizational forms of their common revolutionary front in the fight against imperialist oppression. We know that the Comintern decided these questions as they arose. It allowed the Communists in Java to take an active part in the work of the local workers' and peasants' party there. It also allowed the Chinese Communists to join the Koumintang Party, and we know that it is due to the Chinese Communists that this party took up a more active attitude in the fight with international imperialism. But we also know that at the last plenum of the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist Party the work of the comrades in the Koumingtang Party was severely criticized as "class collaboration." Thus, our sections are faced with a twofold danger: the danger of ignoring the phenomena which are revolutionizing the east, and the danger of losing their proletarian character by collaboration with the petty-bourgeoisie, we are also faced with the question not only of revolutionary collaboration in existing parties of this kind, but of the advisability of Communists taking the initiative in organizing such parties in countries with a low standard of economic development. We notice that Communists approach this question with great timidity, with the result that we lose control over the national liberation movement, which passes into the hands of native nationalist elements.

To this group of questions belongs also the question of the Communist attitude toward various kinds of committees of the national-liberation movement. Imperialist oppression, which reached its culminating point in the post-war period, of course contributes to the growth of this kind of organization, which is bound to become more numerous as time goes on. As an example, let us take the Macedonian Committee, headed by Theodore Alexandrov.

b) The second group of questions connected with the near East. At the Second Congress we determined what the attitude of the young Communist sections to the national liberation movement of the bourgeoisie which was on the way to power, should be. But since then we have been faced with a new situation in two eastern countries, namely, with the necessity of deciding what the attitude of Communist parties should be to the national bourgeoisie, which has already assumed power. I refer to Turkey and Egypt. In Turkey, after a series of revolutionary liberating war conducted by Kemal Pasha against foreign armies, the young Turkish bourgeoisie came into power with the help of a revolutionary wave from below. In Egypt the problem of power was solved by the British government by means of "reform from above," by Zagul Pasha's return from exile and taking over the government of Egypt. Two different movements, but both having the same result as far as social-political changes are concerned. Both cases inaugurate the victory of the native bourgeoisie. And yet in this quite unequivocal situation our Turkish comrades made serious

(Continued on Page 6.)

The Youth Rallies Again

By MAX SHACHTMAN

WHILE the blood of countless young workers was reddening the soil of Europe's battlefields in the most horrible war that history records, and their masters had calmly settled down to see thru the war until either side should be completely vanquished, eliminated as a competitor in the world struggle for economic supremacy, there met in Berne, Switzerland, a group of representatives of the revolutionary youth movement of Europe.

The situation was black for the class conscious rebels of the world. Every ounce of class feeling seemed to have been crushed by the huge wave of patriotic frenzy that swept over the workers with the first shot of the war. The parties of the masses divided in two parts, one seizing the flag of the fatherland and waving it aloft in the name of "national defense," the other holding steadfastly to the red flag, being beaten to the knees by the blows of reaction, by the contumely and scorn of the socialists of yesterday and the patriots of today. The parties of the red flag were very, very few. The workers who had looked for leadership to the workers' parties did not find any. The enemy had absorbed it.

But of the few that remained to form the thin red line were the members of the Young Socialist League, or fractions of them from practically all of the warring nationas. They met in the summer of 1915, and in the face of the imperialist greed, of the slaughter on the battlefields, of the betrayal of the Second International, these young revolutionaries, these "milksops of the Youth League," as the old German social-democrats used to call them, issued the flaming call for "War Against War!"

That call soon resounded thruout the length and breadth of war-torn Europe. Dark stories began to go the rounds about the effectiveness of the revolutionary propaganda of the youth; French regiments downing arms and starting on the home march with L'Internationale on their lips and the Red Flag at their head, only to be shot down for desertion by their less revolutionary comrades.

That call marked the beginning of the new International of the workers. It marked the birth of the Communist International and of the Young Communist International.

* * *

The first week in September of every year was designated as the day of the revolutionary youth, the day on which the young workers mass their strength in demonstrations against exploitation, against capitalism and its miseries; war, unemployment, poverty. Today under the leadership of the Young Communist International, the rebel youth of the world againg gathers to celebrate the tenth anniversary of International Youth Day. In the United States, under the direction of the Young Workers League, the organization of the young Communists, demonstrations are being arranged all over the country. Wherever there is a unit of the league, large scale meetings are being arranged, revolutionary slogans issued, and the voice of protest of the exploited youth is to be heard from coast to coast.

On all sides the young workers of America are confronted with grave problems. The ghastly hand of unemployment is slowly chilling the lives of growing numbers of the proletariat. Where the workers are fortunate enuf to remain at work, the bosses take this opportunity to cut wages to the bone, to increase the work day, to make conditions of work more unbearable. And should the workers protest by going out on strike, the unemployed, especially the young who have not yet felt the class struggle so keenly, who are still steeped in the psychology of the the master class, are ready to take their places, at any wage, at any work day, under any conditions. The Young Workers League calls on the workers of all ages to unite in a firm front of the young and old, the employed and the jobless, against the greedy encroachments of the capitalist class.

Then there is the drive towards the next war. The investments of American capital in other lands are drawing it into conflict with the imperialist interests of other countries. The clashes between empires become more frequent, more sharp. The capitalists feel the inevitability of the next war, and with their usual foresight, they are making all preparations for it. The youth of America, as well as of the rest of the worlds is being coralled into Citizens' Military Training Camps, Reserve Officers' Training Camps, intensified drives are made—with the generous aid of Mr. Gompers,—for the increase in the membership of the Boy and Girl Scouts, and more recently, the master stroke of Mobilization Day.

Against hese militarist maneuvers, he Young Workers League raises the slogan of Class War against Imperialist War. We realize that it is absurd to think that we can prevent the coming of war. The master class prepares too cunningly, and the workers retalize it only when rifles are thrust into their hands and they are ordered to shoot down other workers whom they have never seen and with whom they can have no quarrel. The young Communists, as the vanguard of the youth who are the first victims of imperialist war, are organizing for the time when the war in the interests of capitalist profits will be turned into the war in the interests of working class revolution, the transformation of imperialist war into civil war for the dictatorship of the proletariat.

On this International Youth Day, the young Communists call upon the young workers to rally to the standards of Communism in protest against capitalist exploitation and imperialist war, and for working class control thru the proletarian revolution. In this movement, not only the young workers, but the adults as well must join with all their strength. We must not only demonstrate with words, with our voices against the iniquities of capitalist society, but we must show more concretely that we are ready to carry on an every day struggle against it. In the ranks of the Workers Party and the Young Workers League are found the legions of the revolutionary workers of America. Outside of it are the masses of the workers who are yet under the influence of capitalist thot.

But to the masses with our revolutionary message!

Rouse the workers, the youth, to the banners of Communism on International Youth Day!

At Last In Moscow -

By Anna Porter

YES — really Moscow. Really Russia. The landscape did not change as we crossed the border. The stars didn't sing nor the little hills skip. The country was just the same beautiful open rolling land, with thickets of sedate young pine and birch, and great stretches of cultivated fields that we had left on the other side of the arch that spans the railway at the frontier. We had been transferred to a very hard baro and not very clean third-class car in the morning, but they put on an extra second-class for our party in Russia—not that we were of any importance, but they wanted to be accommodating and we were willing to pay the extra fare. Some of the "boys" decided to remain in third, and had a sorry tale to tell of bruised bones and sleepless hours, tho each declared the others had snored straight thru the night. They had gallantly given most of their blankets to a young Russian bride who had been put into their compartment after parting in tears, from her young husband. At the border we saw our first red soldiers. They didn't look smart like some soldiers, but they looked efficient, and I felt like saluting "Zdrasdvuitya, Tavarishch!" and did. There was no shirking at the Customs,—they went to the bottom of our bags, but had I only collected my wits to show my party credentials, there would have been less mauling of my carefully folded things. The young Russian cellist said naively, "You may leave your things and go to lunch. These are good people." And I felt that they were. Everywhere else we had kept guard over the luggage.

Little thatched cabins along the route, many of logs, amid carefully cultivated fields. Men and women working among the vegetables, some striding along to work, thru the cool pleasant morning, with the sacred sickle over the shoulder. Mowed grain, standing grain, yellow stubble. One lone man ploughing a narrow strip with one lone horse. No grasp of Communistic cultivating there. Our horticulturist pronounced favorably upon the condition of the crops and the quality of cultivation both there and about Moscow. Picturesque crowds at all the stations, many in white, the men with white blouses the women with white kerchiefs about their heads, or red. High-heeled American shoes, ruining the free carriage of the girls, flat felt slippers of red or green. Everywhere the emblem of the sickle and hammer just as if it had always been, quite worn and shabby and authentic. Arrived at the Moscow station, we were immediately investigated by the police. One of the party had indiscreetly photographed a pretty peasant girl at a way-station, the information was there before us, and the whole party was under suspicion. But our credentials are unimpeachable. We were not detained.

At the Savoy, the Nep tourist hotel, he prices were so high, that we tried the Passage, and were given accommodations there, only to be told later that it was by mistake of an assistant. This hotel had been taken over by the government for the "Profintern." In other words, the delegates to the Congress of the Red Trade Union International were housed there at nominal rates by the government, which paid the difference to the Neps. We also discovered that he had been mistaken for a circus troup expected in town, but whose appearance gave rise to this fantastic mistake, and whether it was for this reason we were let in or threatened with putting out, we never learned. We hope it was our collective baggage which arrived before us on a dray with one of us sitting on top as guard. But there were the rooms, so out came our various credentials against—so many good Communists on legitimate constructive missions—and we held our rooms, of course, at Nep rates. Next day the hotel emptied, for the last of the many congresses have closed.

Below my window is a great empty lot, with mountainous piles of old bricks beside a large half-built structure begun before the war. There in the amphitheater of rubble the boys play football until the long twilight fails. There in the morning is an encampment of vendors, loafing in the sunshine until eight o'clock calls them to their stands. These they have with them, some carrying them in front by straps about the neck; some unfold legs and set them on the street corner, with a folding chair beside them. Women with white head-kerchiefs indicate government control and good food—sausage and caviar roll sandwiches, fruit, cake and candy, and huge bottles of kvass, a sort of cider made of different fruits or grains. On the rubble field, a few idlers are left, lying as if they had slept there. They pull their ragged coats up to their caps as the sun grows hotter on their faces, and turn over for a final snooze when the busy ones leave. A Russian fellow passenger returning after two years, finds fewer unemployed. Everyone, he says, is working. A woman living here says, at the present moment unemployment is increasing. So slow must be the readjustment and advance in the face of world opposition always a step back to two steps ahead, but still an advance.

Food is hirh except for those who have their union cards and factory eating places. But if you have to pay at these shabby little restaurants, 50 to 75 cents (a rouble to a rouble and a half) for a plate of soup, and no napkin thrown in, it is borshch with plenty of vegetables and a big hunk of meat, and you need nothing else for a substantial dinner. I bought a melon the other day in the street, not such a very big melon, and when I had done the arithmetic of it, I found I had paid 75 cents. But it is the beginning of the season. For breakfast at our little 4th class hotel, (according to American standards) a glass of coffee, a large roll with butter and an egg, still without a napkin—is a rouble and 20 kopeks, but the rouble is stable and almost at the old par, something that no other European country can boast of. Moreover, these are Nep prices, which the workers do not have to pay.

My first impression, for it is a new impression after eleven years, as we came up from the station in the electric, was "how oriental!"

The colorful bare-headed crowds against pink plaster houses, and the aimless way they seemed to mill about. Further along, within the town, I was struck by the number of book stores, and my astonishment increases at the big orderly window displays, mostly in paper bindings, and all apparently worth while books on all possible subjects. Pictures suggest also much propaganda in these shops—of a simple sort, much of it connected with Lenin and his work.

We had an early tea-and-jam with our professor who had arrived the day before us, and a late tea-and-currentpie with Anna Louise. If you don't know who Anna Louise is, go out at once and buy "The First Time inHistory." Then you will know. I trust the editor not to cut out this ad. Fortunately and unfortunately, she is off to the Caucasus, one of the bath resorts in the lower range, for a month's rest. Fortunately—for I fall heir to her apartment, with the very bourgeois attachment of a little maid for some hours a day. The "apartment" is one room, high up in an old hotel, with no bath or elevator. As a registered worker, her rent is very small, but more than a family would pay, as a penalty for occupying alone a room of more than the square feet alotted to one person. And the rent is scaled to the wages one receives for the month. Fortunately, I may have this for the month, but unfortunately, I shall feel without her deaf and dumb and blind.

(To Be Continued)

Go to eat where all the rest 100% union men and women go

Deutche-Hungarian Restaurant

29 South Halsted St.

Pure Food, Good Service and reasonable prices our motto

Join the Workers Party!

Is Organization a Problem?

By ALEXANDER BITTELMAN.

VERY few in the ranks of our party seem to realize that questions of organization, what we usually call building the party, are as much of a problem to study, to investigate and to specialize in as are questions of theory, tactics and policy. The impression prevails, not only in the ranks but also among leading comrades, that organization is a simple matter, that everybody can do it, that the only things necessary for efficient organization work are will and energy, and that anything else will come by itself, as a matter of course.

Who Is Worrying About Organization?

I know, just as many others do, that everybody in our party is worrying about party policies, tactics, strategy, internal line ups, factions, etc., which is as it should be. It is the duty (and the privilege) of every single party member and every party unit to think about and have a say in determining the policies and tactics of the party. One might say, that the party as a whole does not yet sufficiently realize even that. But when it comes to questions of organization, how many of us, even among those that find themselves in positions of leadership, are really and actually occupied with meeting and solving questions of organization?

Without in the least desiring to be rash or sweeping in my statements, still I am compelled to say that few, very few, in our midst consider questions of organization of sufficient importance to deserve systematic and constant attention. We are still living in the primitive period as far as organization is concerned. The only way we know how to do these things is by the rule of thumb, by fits and spasms, always in response to an urgent and immediate need, never properly prepared or equipped.

What's the Problem?

Here I can sense the approach of a protesting voice (or, perhaps, a whole chorus), saying something like this: "Now, what do you mean by organization being a problem? Don't we know that ourselves? Don't we always say that we have got to have more organizers, more members, more branches, more building the party? The trouble lies not with the party as a whole but with the C. E. C. or the D. E. C. or the C. C. C. Let these party committees get on the job and organization will cease to be a problem."

This sort of reaction would be quite natural, because this is the usual line of reasoning. If something goes wrong, who else is to blame if not the C. E. C. or some other leading committee? With some of our comrades the main function of a leading committee seems to be that of a depository for all kinds of complaints and criticisms.

Now, at this moment, I have no particular desire to quarrel with this conception of a leading committee. What must be driven home to our party is the nature of the problem. Is there such a problem? What does it consist of?

We are all agreed that it is the main duty of our party to become a mass Communist party. Very well. We are all further agreed that the way to do it is by our party engaging in the immediate struggles of the workers and by utilizing every phase of these struggles for increasing our ranks and our influence.

The above gives us the main scheme of our organizational duties and the general method for carrying on the work. But this by itself is not going to produce organizational results. To know, as we do, that the way to build our party is thru engaging in the immediate struggles of the workers is very good, indeed. The question is, how many of our party units are actually engaged in such struggles?

And further. It is very good for our party to know (as it does) that every phase of the class-struggle must be utilized for increasing our ranks and extending our influence. But the question again arises, how many of our party-units are actually taking advantage of favorable situations for the building of our party?

Let me cite a few illustrations. We have got to engage in the immediate struggles of the worker. Alright. A strike against a reduction of wages or in favor of some other economic demand is just the kind of an immediate struggle that we have got to be on the lookout for.

Now, what I want to ask is, how many of our local organizations are constantly on the lookout for such kind of struggles?

I, personally, know of only one. There may be a few more. The one I know of is Local Chicago of the Workers Party, and one more (not a unit of the party) the N. E. C. of the Young Workers League.

Let us relate just three instances.

Pullman.

Some time in June there happened to be a strike of carmen in the Pullman shops at Pullman, Ill. It was a spontaneous affair caused by an attempt to reduce wages.

One of the local comrades "smelled" the strike. That's the way the Chicago comrades put it. He smelled it not by accident. It was his business to do it. He was on the lookout for it. And immediately he went down to investigate, and then he reported to the local Executive Committee, and thereupon the Executive Committee laid out plans for helping the strikers to win the strike (with speeches, publicity in the DAILY WORKER, etc.), for propagating Communism and the current political slogans of the party, and for getting the strikers to join the party.

It was all planned on the basis of facts derived from special investigation. And then the party organization stepped into it. Pullman was literally invaded by an army of speakers, organizers, distributors of literature, sellers of the DAILY WORKER (which carried lots of news about the strike), reporters, etc., all of them working under the supervision of Local Chicago which was carrying out a plan of organization laid down before hand by the Local Executive Committee. The same is true of the Young Workers League, the result, that is, the tangible result, was: a new branch of the party and a new branch of the Y. W. L. Intangible results: a vast increase of the influence of the party and of the DAILY WORKER.

Hammond.

This was in July. The Carmen's union attempted to organize a local in Hammond, Indiana. How did we know it? It was not communicated officially to the party organization. You may be sure about that. It was "smelled" by the party members whose duty it is to be informed of such things.

Again it was reported to the local Executive Committee, discussed there and a plan of organization laid out. The basis of the plan was to assist the union organization in organizing the local of the union. Then utilize the situation for getting new members into the party.

Immediately thereupon Hammond become the field of intensive activity by the local organization and by the Y. W. L. Also by the DAILY WORKER. The result: increase in the party membership, a new shops branch of the Y. W. L. and increased circulation for our "DAILY."

Hegewisch.

That happened in August. A strike by Carmen in Hegewisch, Illinois. More or less of a spontaneous proposition. We got wind of it at its very inception. How? Not by a delegation of strikers coming to our office. No, we were then not so popular yet in Hegewisch. Again it was "smelled" by the comrades who are in charge and on the lookout.

Again the regular, systematic procedure. Report to the Local Executive Committee, discussion, laying out of plans, organization of a special squad to carry these plans out. And, then, work. The result: a new shop unit of the league and strengthening of the Party branch there.

Lessons of These Experiences.

You will notice six (6) characteristic features in this work.

Be on the lookout—the first feature is that the party organization in Chicago, the DAILY WORKER and the Y. W. L. have been constantly on the lookout, thru comrades specifically in charge, for just such kind of immediate struggles. That's why they managed to "smell" the thing coming and to step into it right at the very beginning.

Actively participate in the struggle by actually helping to make it a success.—the second feature is that the Chicago comrades not merely spoke about participating in the struggle but actually did. They helped to organize strikes and to organize unions.

Detailed plans, special squads and responsible leaderships—this is the third feature of it. It was all handled by the Local Executive Committee in a thoro, responsible manner. It was planned up to minute details. Special squads put in charge, the local secretary working with the squad in the field and directing their work.

Build the the party as you go along with the masses in their struggles—Don't get the idea that participating in the struggles of the workers and building the party are two different and separate things to be accomplished at separate intervals of time and by different organs of the party. This is a wrong and harmful conception. See what Chicago is doing and what the Young Workers League is doing. They do both things at one and the same time and with the same units of organization. That's why they are successful. This is the fourth feature of it.

Keep your eyes on the work-shop—If you speak of organization, remember, that the shop is your starting point, your basis. It is there that the workers' dissatisfaction first becomes audible. It is there that the elementary struggles begin. If you are interested in organizing the party, keep your eye on the work-shop. This is fifth feature of it.

Co-ordination of party, league and DAILY WORKER—This is the sixth and last feature. Every plan of organization, every particular job of organization, must be built upon the principle that it is to be done by all three together: party, league and DAILY WORKER. I, personally, am inclined to attribute this last feature as the main reason for the success of the Chicago organization.

From the Rule of Thumb to Scientific Planning.

This is what I am pleading for. Away from the spasmodic way of handling organization work. Away from the idea that everybody who wants, without study and systematic training, can do it. Away from the old S. P. idea that you can build a party of revolution merely by preaching your principles. Away from the rule of thumb and to scientific planning of Communist organization in the shop and factories.

TO LABORERS

By Henry George Weiss

When the golden shackles are broken,
When the chain of lies is severed,
You shall reach upwards to the heavens,
Reach with the hands of giants.

Nothing shall bind you to earth,
From sweat and toil delivered
You shall quest among the stars,
Unbodied minds that soar.

Strike then the shackles off,
You who are gods unborn!
Sever the chain and arise,
You who are smothered in dust!

TO LABORERS

Versaille Treaty

(Continued from page 1)

tions meant annexation by the French—rejected it: is policy, he decided upon the independent occupation of the Ruhr area. His policy was not only directed against Germany, but also against England and America. It was an attempt to liquidate the peace of Versailles in favor of France. Poincare did not know whether he would remain in the Ruhr district or evacuate it after obtaining payments from Germany, or whether he would give up the Ruhr in return for being freed from the debts due to England and America, which he constantly felt to be a noose round his neck which could be tightened at any moment.

Poincare was victorious all along the line. After eight months furious resistance which annihiliated the mark, Germany capitulated on the 28th September last. The German capitulation constituted a second lost war. Poincare attained the pinnacle of victory. The question for him now was how to liquidate the Ruhr expedition, what concrete demands to place before Germany. But from the pinnacle of victory to the abyss of defeat was but a step. If Germany lost the war of 1914—1918 because she had over-estimated her forces, if Germany lost the Ruhr war because she over-estimated her powers of resistance and under-estimated the French power of holding out, so Poincare lost the Ruhr war after his victory over Germany because he underestimated the consequences of the economic train. Upon the victory in the Ruhr rea there followed the collapse of he Franc.

Pittsburgh Leaguers To Celebrate I. Y. D. On September 7th

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 5.—The International Youth Day meeting in Pittsburgh will be held in Walton Hall, corner Liberty Ave., and Stanwix St., on Sunday, Sept. 7, at 2 p. m.

The capitalist government of the U. S. is preparing for new wars and is preparing the youth of the country for the slaughter. The Communist youth who see this menace are rallying the workers to protest and fight against this menace. Speakers have been secured who have studied this question and every worker, young and old, is urged to attend.

The Pittsburgh and East Pittsburgh branches of the Y. W. L. and the Workers Party are co-operating to make this meeting a success.

Meet us at the
Prudential Restaurant
752 NORTH AVE.
The only place to eat.

NATIONS AND COLONIES

(Continued from Page 3.)

tactical mistakes. Thus for instance "Aidynlyk," the organ of the Turkish Communist Party, published a series of articles urging the Communist Party to support the development of national capitalism against foreign capitalism. Here we notice among our Turkish comrades the tendency which once upon a time characterized in Russia the legal Marxism of Mr. Struve who urged the working class to support the development of capitalism in Russia. And just as in the times of Russian Struvism, some of our Turkish comrades seemed at first inclined to confound the interests of the development of the productive forces of the country with the interests of the development of capitalism. Altho our Turkish comrades have made good their mistake after it was pointed out to them, we must nevertheless draw up instructions which would prevent the repetition of the same thing in other young sections of the Communist International.

(c) The third group of questions is that which has been raised now by the discussion in the press of a number of Communist Parties, especially in Germany and in the Balkans. At the Second Congress we adopted the principle of national self-determination including complete separation. But who is entitled to this right of complete separation? This contentious question, which we have settled long ago, is unfortunately still creating much confusion in the minds of many comrades. Russian comrades know that at the Eighth Congress of our party we also had nihilistic deviations in connection with this question. There were comrades who held the opinion that during the period of imperialism only the proletariat of the country in question had the right to separation. Other ultra-left elements went even further, for they asserted that questions of "self-determination" including "separation" are not within the competence of this or that national proletariat. In the opinion of these ultra-left Russian Party comrades, the question of "self-determination" must be subject to the interests of the proletarian fight as a whole, and that therefore the only body entitled to the "right to self-determination" must be the Comintern. Comrades, this example shows you to what absurdities we were reduced in our Russian discussion. Many stormy years have passed since then, and as far as our party is concerned this question is definitely settled. We decided that this problem must rest on a careful analysis of the concrete historic conditions under which the self determination of the nation in question takes place.

Let us take two concrete examples. The occupation of the Ruhr has brot the national question before the German Communist Party. At first there was a tendency within the latter which denied that the occupation of the Ruhr places the German Communist Party under the obligation of raising the national question in Germany. This was an erroneous tendency which reflected the influence of Rosa Luxemburg's theory. At the same time a number of articles by Comrade Thalheimer appeared in the "Die Internationale" which went to the other extreme. His version of "self-determination" and the necessity of making use of national discontent in Germany ignored the fact that Germany has a highly developed industrial proletariat, and that Germany is also in the period of transition from capitalism to socialism. Comrade Thalheimer appeared to base the tactical lines for the Communist Party on the assumption that all class contradictions had disappeared in Germany, and that in connection with the occupation of the Ruhr Germany had reverted to the economic primitivism of social conditions of Morocco.

Another more flagrant mistake in connection with the national question is the mistake made by our German comrade Boris who has been quoted here more than once. Contrary to Thalheimer, this writer was inclined to declare that the proletariat alone (including the colonial proletariat) is entitled to self-determination, and that the right of the colonies to separation can be vindicated by the formation of Socialist Soviet Republics within them.

This group of questions includes also the question as to whether "separation" is feasible in the imperialist epoch within the framework of the bourgeis State. Comrade Lenin, in discussing the right to separation, with his Russian opponents, referred to the example of Norway. Yet if we study carefully the attitude of our Balkan comrades, we will find they take a negative attitude to this question.

There is no doubt whatever that the bourgeoisie cannot solve the national question within the framework of the capitalist State. But this does not mean that we must postpone the realization of the right of oppressed nations to separation until social revolution has been victorious thruout the world. We have only to peruse the decisions of the Balkan comrades on the national question to come to the conclusion that this is precisely their view on the right to separation. They make the right to separation dependent on the formation of a Balkan Federation of Soviet Workers' and Peasants' Republics. But what does such a condition mean? The Balkans are the crux of the entire imperialist policy of the big Powers of Europe. The victory of the workers' and peasants' power in the Balkans, the corridor of the international imperialist cliques, means the victory of the international proletariat. Therefore, raising the question in that form is tantamount to ignoring the acute problems which confront us at present.

This fourth group of questions is connected with the question of irredentism, which has a two-fold form: the question of irredenta between a Workers' and Peasants' State and a bourgeois state, and the question of irredenta between two bourgeois states. This group of questions is all the more important as the imperialist re-distribution of the world which followed the European war, has dismembered nations and peoples. The problem of revolutionary irredentism assumed a very concrete form in the relations between the U. S. S. R. and the states adjoining it. Thus, at the Second Congress of the Polish Communist Party, the Polish Party decided to support the movement of the Ukrainians and White Russians forming part of the Polish State for their inclusion into the workers' and peasants' republics of the U. S. S. R. The attitude of the Roumanian Com- Similar declarations were made by munist Party towards the Hungarian Esthonian Communists, Communists population of Transylvania is also of Carpathian Russia, etc. very characteristic. Roumanian com-

But side by side with this attitude rades advocate the establishment of of our Communist Parties, there are an independent Transylvania Repub- also decisions of a contrary nature. lic in contradistinction to the irre-

The Reichenberg Conference of the dentism of the Hungarian population Czecho-Slovakian Party, held in 1921 of Transylvania which is inclined to when the party was still the opposi- incorporation with Hungary. In this tion in the Social-Democratic Party, case, too, one can see the fear that in discussing the question of revolu- "the right of self-determination" tionary irredentism in the event of might objectively, become a support the victory of the proletarian revolu- to the foreign bourgeois government. tion in Germany (3.5 million Germans This shows you, comrades, in what are now subjects of the Czecho-Slo- complicated national conditions our vakian States) declared itself against Communist Parties have to work, and the separation of German territories, what an amount of revolutionary pliaon the plea of the interest of prole- bility they must possess to give a conbility they must possess to give a con- tarian revolution in Czecho-Slovakia crete form to the question of "self- But if our Communist Parties are determination" including separation. ready to recognize the admissibility This work of giving concrete forms of revolutionary irredentism, they to our fundamental decisions in con- must also take into account the follow- nection with the question of irredent- ing fact: In the theses on the na- ism in the various countries must be tional question adopted by the Second done in commissions. And that is one Congress of the Polish Communist of the tasks of the Fifth World Con- Party nothing is said about "the rec- gress. We are bound to make mis- ognition of the right to separation" of takes if we do not put this branch of the German population of the present our work into concrete forms. And Poland, which is two million strong, we must admit that in connection There is no mention whatever about with the national question, many mis- the German population's right to sepa- takes have already been made by our ration in any of the resolutions of the Communist Parties.

Czecho-Slovakian Communist Party. (To Be Continued.)

George E. Pashas
COZY LUNCH
2426 Lincoln Avenue
One-half block from Imperial Hall
CHICAGO

Telephone Monroe 2284
Genova Restaurant
ITALIAN-AMERICAN
1238 Madison Street
N. E. Cor. Elizabeth St.
Spaghetti and Ravioli Our Specialty
Special Arrangements for Parties on Short Notice

ED. GARBER
QUALITY SHOES
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN
2427 LINCOLN AVENUE
CHICAGO
Telephone Diversey 5129

Mueller's
RESTAURANT
A good place to eat.
1010 RUSH STREET
Tel. Superior 7079
Downstairs of National Office.

MITCHALL'S
INTERNATIONAL ORCHESTRA
Union Music Furnished For All Occassions
Write for appointments to
M. MITCHALL,
(Teacher of Saxophone)
1640 W. Congress St. Chicago, Ill.

Res. 1632 S. Trumbull Ave. Phone Rockwell 5050
MORDECAI SHULMAN
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
701 Association Building
19 S. La Salle Street CHICAGO
Dearborn 8657 Central 4945-4947

Join the Workers Party!

HOT FROM THE PRESS!
The New and Vital Pamphlet Everyone Is Talking About
RUSSIA IN 1924
By WM. Z. FOSTER
Chairman of the Workers Party, Secretary of the T. U. E. L., and
Communist Candidate For President
The Capitalist Press and All the Enemies of the Workers Have Been Spreading the Lie That the Russian Revolution "Has Failed"
FOSTER SPENT FOUR MONTHS IN RUSSIA IN 1921
SIX WEEKS IN RUSSIA THIS YEAR
In This Pamphlet He Tells the Story of How the Russian Workers Have Fought Their Way Through All Obstacles to Victory! How They Have Succeeded in Government and Industry! How They Are Free!
32 pages, paper cover, 10 cents—Bundles of ten or more, 7 cents.
TRADE UNION EDUCATIONAL LEAGUE
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

The International Communist Youth

(A REVIEW OF THE FOURTH CONGRESS)

By JOHN WILLIAMSON

The Fourth Congress of the Young Communist International opened in the large Bolshoi Theater in Moscow. Delegations from many Moscow shops were present and mingled freely among the many delegates from the various countries. The opening session was taken up principally with speeches of welcome from the Comintern, Profintern, Red Army and many other organizations. Banners were presented to several of the League from Russian Y. C. L. Shop nuclei.

There were present 108 regular delegates and 34 fraternal. America was well represented having three regular delegates, Comrades Williamson, Carlson and Edwards with Kaplan a fraternal delegate. The work to be considered by the Congress was principally a review of the activities based on previous decisions and a clarification and extension in various fields of work. The fundamental program adopted at the 3rd Congress had proved itself to be correct.

Politically, the Y. C. I. had consistently supported the Executive Committee of the Comintern in its major issues and it was significant that not one League in the International had deviated from the stand of the Executive in the two major situations, viz. German and Russian. In the Scandinavian countries the League has consistently fought for the position of the C. I. against the opportunist leadership of the Swedish Party. As a result the League was denounced by this Hoeglund element but the Comintern had defended the Y. C. L. and the situation is now coming to a head. The situation arising out of the German situation was dealt with extensively both by Com. Manuelisky who represented the E. C. C. I. and in the report of the Y. C. I. Executive. The 5th Congress of the C. I. had definitely stated its position on the United Front and the Workers and Farmers Government, pointing out the role of the Communist forces and thereby leaving no loophole for opportunist deviations such as had occured in Germany. A cardinal point in this discussion is that which says that the Communist Party must guard its independence of propaganda and criticism while carrying out these maneuvers. The Y. C. I. Congress accepted this unanimously.

Closest cooperation had taken place between party and League in nearly all countries and the Parties were really realizing the role of the youth movement in relation to our entire Communist movement much better than in the past. The success of the League in shop nuclei and anti-militarist activity had undoubtedly assisted in this transformation.

Organizationally, the Y. C. I. had taken many strides forward. While our International numbers well over a million, many of our Leagues must increase their influence and membership during the next year so that this can be doubled. Only the Russian League can be considered a real mass organization in the full sense of the term. Our German and Czecho-Slovak League however are well on the way to becoming mass organizations and they must strive for a membership of 100,000 each during this year.

To the degree that the Leagues participated in shop nuclei activity did they increase in membership and influence. A good start had been made in all of our Leagues in transforming the Leagues to the shop nuclei basis exclusively. The Russian and Esthonian were functioning exclusively on this basis and the German, Czech, French and Italian Leagues were ready for complete reorganization in whole districts. The Congress reiterated the fact that only thru the complete reorganization of the Leagues upon the basis of shop nuclei could we become a real mass organization including in our ranks the entire working class youth. The idea of territorial branches was a hangover from our previous Social Democratic organizations and in the Y. C. I. there was no longer any opposition to the nuclei. Our principal tasks was to extend our work along these lines. In such countries as America and Great Britain, the organization was instructed to build from the beginning on the basis of nuclei. No more territorial branches must be organized in any country. Experience showed the comrades how easy it actually was to reach young workers when approached on the basis of actual shop conditions and then organize them. It was pointed out however, that it was not merely a question of shop fractions, but a greater one, that of the nucleus being the basic political unit of the organization carrying on every activity at present given to the branch, but thru the change of form reaching the young proletarians in the shops and thus increasing our activities. The incoming Executive was given instructions to set a date for the Complete Reorganization on the Basis of Shop Nuclei, of every section of the International, this to be completed by the next World Congress.

Despite the fact that the conditions of the young workers had become worse during the past period, the League had not increased the Economic-Trade union work in proportion. A start had been made by every League but too often this had been limited to mere verbal or written articles or speeches. It is essential that no youth strike or struggle take place es presenting their demands and fighting for their adoption as the demands of the young workers. We must aim at becoming the leaders of the young workers in every struggle.

An energetic campaign must be waged by all the Leagues to rally the young workers into the trade unions. The Leagues must fight on the basis of 1. full rights within the union for young workers 2. reduced initiation and dues fees and 3. Y. C. L. fractions within the unions. At no time must we tolerate separate youth sections within the trade unions. We must understand and popularize our idea that no other separate youth organizations are necessary as the Young Communist Leagues and they alone are the sole representative of the working class youth. It is necessary that we present our youth demands for adoption at every occasion and within the Red Opposition Groups (T. U. E. L. in America) we must work in complete harmony and have our youth demands incorporated and fought for. It is the direct task of the Y. C. I. to win the masses of the young trade unionists for the revolutionary trade union opposition.

The Congress stated that during the coming period, the conditions of the youth workers will become worse and our League must prepare to meet the situation by entering into every struggle and utilizing it to further our organization. The struggle for our partial youth demands serve as a lever in the struggle for the complete destruction of the capitalist system.

In anti-militarist work the French Y. C. L. had carried on very successful work. During the Ruhr occupation many nuclei were established in the army and a regular army newspaper established. This is being published twice a month and has a circulation of 7,000. This has resulted in fraternization between the French army and the workers in Germany. The work of the Y. C. I. was especially commended by the Comintern as this was the first real attempt at actual work within the army. In other countries a beginning had been made but not enough effort had been put forth. We must concentrate and the various N. E. C. must lay out definite plans to extend this activity during the next period.

The Y. C. I. has neglected one important field of activity. Our influence as an International is principally upon the industrial workers while among the peasants it is nil. This must be remedied as we cannot hope for a successful revolution without the cooperation of the agrarian workers. This was especially noticeable in Central Europe where the problem is of immediate importance. All countries must conduct more activity among agrarian workers and organize them into our farm and village nuclei.

The sport problem is an important one for the youth movement. Many millions of young workers are interested in the sport movement and the capitalist class have many organizations thru which they direct their propaganda under the guise of sport. It is our duty to organize national workingclass sport organizations in opposition to the bourgeois outfits. Success has attended the attempts in this direction in Central Europe where we have established large workingclass youth sport bodies. Our weakness has been in not giving these organizations the correct directives. It was considered that in America we have a good field for this activity and our American League must make a start along these lines. We must aim to bring together into one national sport organization all the local clubs existing at the present time.

Our aim is three-fold in forming this Sport organization; first, winning the masses of young workers away from the influence of capitalist and bourgeois clubs; secondly, building a strong physical group of young workers with a class instinct and thirdly, utilizing it as a recruiting ground for our Young Communist Leagues.

The problem of education was considered at great length as it was recognized that there was a dangerous situation facing many of our Leagues due to neglect in this field. The slogan of Bolshevizing the League was adopted and this carried with it a complete educational activity from the highest to the lowest units.

The American Young Workers League was given considerable attention. The Executive Committee expressed approval of our activities during the past period. It was pointed out that in America we had a more difficult situation to face than in many other countries and therefore the application of some parts of the international program was hindered. The good work conducted during the past year lays a firm foundation for future activities which we must carry out wholeheartedly under the supervision of the N. E. C.

The political situation in the Party reflected itself to a very limited extent in the American League. As is well known the majority of the League N. E. C. with the exception of Kaplan supported the so-called Foster-Cannon-Bittelman group who were supported by the Party membership at the last convention. This League minority developed around Comrade Kaplan who made serious charges against the N. E. C. These were emphatically repudiated and complete confidence expressed in the present N. E. C. majority and instructions given that all factionalism must cease within the League and the organization work as a solid unit with the N. E. C. in furthering the decisions of the Fourth World Congress.

The Fourth Congress of the Y. C. I. adjourned with a program of definite work allotted to each national section. The Young Communist Leagues have won for themselves, thru their activities, a definite place in the workingclass movement.

The Young Workers League of America has won for itself a definite place in the labor movement of this country. It must receive greater aid from the Party in its many campaign and struggles. The League of today is a recruiting and training ground for the active Party workers of tomorrow. It therefore deserves the support of every unit of the Party.

Forging Chains for the Proletariat

MacDonald and Herriot.

THE GERMAN FLUNKEY OF AMERICAN IMPERIALISM

M. STRESEMANN
Foreign Minister of Germany.

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
645 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1627 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

JAY STETLER'S
RESTAURANT
Established 1901
1053 W. Madison St. Chicago
Tel. Monroe 2241

Join the Workers Party!

The Marx-Engels Institute in Moscow

One of the questions which engaged the attention of the V. World Congress was the question of international scientific propaganda of Marxism, which is to be carried on in the first place by an international critical collected edition of the works of Marx and Engels, that is, an edition in the language of the original text, with critical explanations. The guarantee for the realization of such a big project is offered by the Marx-Engels Institute in Moscow, which would have the main share in the carrying out of this task of such wide political and scientific importance.

What are the circumstances which qualify the M. E. I. for the carrying out of this task? The Marx-Engels Institute possesses the printed and written remains of Marx and Engels in a more complete form than anywhere else. The M. E. I. possesses almost all the newspapers and periodicals on which Marx and Engels collaborated.

The M. E. I. is to a great degree richer in sources than the Social-Democratic Party archives in Berlin, to whom the posthumus writings should have come. Besides the written remains in the Social-Democratic archives, Comrade Ryasanov has succeeded in obtaining much material on Lafargue, Bernstein (the "German Ideology") and in addition the letters of Marx and Engels to Wilhelm Liebknecht, Bernstein and Kautsky, partly in the original and partly in photographic reproductions. The M. E. I. is also in the position to undertake a textual criticism of earlier editions of the works of Marx and Engels, on the basis of the manuscripts. Of much greater importance, however, is the fact that the unpublished material in the possession of the M. E. I. is of such a quantity and quality that its publication is calculated to introduce a new epoch into the investigation of Marx.

The publication of such a critical collected edition of the works of Marx and Engels with objective historical commentaries, which are necessary to facilitate, or even to make possible for the first time, the spreading of these works and their scientific popularization, is however, a very great scientific and organizational task. It can only be undertaken with the assistance of an equipment rich enough in theoretical and historical documents to correspond with the encyclopedic scope—both political and theoretical—of Marx' and Engels' activity. Workers thoroughly trained in scientific Marxism are equally necessary. No doubt the apparatus possessed by the Marx and Engels Institute still requires completion and enrichment, but the materials and the trained workers which it already possesses are enough to enable it to begin this vast work at once. The Institute was founded in 1920 by Comrade Ryasanov, who is still its director, the sole aim of the institute being to further the ends of Marxian research. Its whole organization, its collection o fbooks and periodicals (it possesses a library of more than, a hundred thousand volumes), the work carried on within the institute and the publications it issues, all serve the aim of reconstructing the practical and theoretical life-work of Marx and Engels on a critical historical basis.

The work of the institue is organized from two points of view. On the one hand it deals with the chief countries influenced by the political activities of Marx and Engels, the history of these countries being intensively studied, and on the other hand with the various branches of knowledge comprised in their theoretical work. It follows that the chief departments of the institute—setting aside the Marx-Engels department itself where the MSS. and printed editions of Marx and Engels are kept, and the reading room which has a splendidly equipped reference library on the history of Socialism and on the labor movement—are on one side the German, French, English and Russian departments, and on the other the departments for philosophy, comparative law, political economy, the history of socialist and anarchist theory, and the department for sociology. It is enough to point out here that all these departments are planned solely in order to meet the requirements of Marxian research. They contain a complete collection of all the authors by whom Marx and Engels may have anywhere quoted, and in fact of the whole literature relating to Marx and Engels. The historical departments make a systematic collection of all the numerous sources and descriptions from which knowledge can be gained of contemptorary conditions, and persons, which bore even the slightest relation to the lives of Marx and Engels, and which may be of use in forming a critical judgment on them, or on the historical problems touched upon or fully treated in their works.

The departments devoted to the history of ideas and to the theoretical side in general are likewise organized, not in a piecemeal fashion, but in a way corresponding to the needs of Marxist research. In the philosophical department the majority of books deal with the history of materialism, and the tendencies developed from Hegel, including the young Hegelian tendencies. A special collection in this department consist of literature devoted to the dialectics of materialism—this is certainly the most complete collection of this kind in existence. The section devoted to political economy is organized especially to illustrate the problems of Marxism. In the department of the history of Socialism the collection of literature relating to St. Simonism, Fourierism, and Owenism, can only be equalled in the Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris and in the British Museum, and is to be found nowhere else all collected together in one place.

The works already published by the institute, and those which it is preparing may be regarded as preliminary studies for the international edition of Marx and Engels. Among these we would mention: the great edition of the Communist Manifesto with detailed commentaries taken from the historical and theoretical works of Ryasanov, Lafargue and Kautsky; the complete edition of the works of Plekhanov; the collection of documents illustrating the history of the older West-European labor movement; the selected works of Hegel; the "Library of Materialism"; A. Deborin's monograph on Feuerbach; the Marx-Engels archive and—last but not least—the Russian edition of the works of Marx and Engels which is planned to consist of thirty-five volumes of which four volumes edited and annotated by Ryasanov have already appeared.

Altho the organisation, the equipment, and the work already achieved by the Marx-Engels Insitute will make the production of the international, complete and critical edition of the works of Marx and Engels considerably easier, the Communist International must take energetic measures on a large scale in order to develop both deeply and widely an international and scientific propaganda of Marxism. Only by doing this can it claim to be the true heir of Marx and Engels in the scientific sphere. By so doing the Communist International will fulfil a duty towards itself, and have the full right to claim its position as the heir both of the political and the literary and scientific remains of Marx and Engels.

The National Council of the Communist Party of Germany

By ARTHUR ROSENBERG

ON the 19th and 20th July there was held in Berlin the session of the National Council of the C. P. of Germany, in order to decide on the Party's attitude towards the decisions of the World Congress and to formulate the practical tasks which the Party at present has to solve. It was a very important moment: in Germany there exists all the pacifist cackle, the comedy of the Experts' Report and the renewed cry of the German social democrats as to rescuing the working class thru the good will of international capital; at the same time we see a growing economic crisis, closing down of factories, unemployment, the coming into force of protective tariffs, and in order to conceal all this, a furious persecution of the C. P. of Germany, the terrorist sentences of the criminal courts in order to protect the so-called republic, the monster trial against the central of the Communist Party, the suspension of immunity against Communist members of parliament, the hair-raising stories of the Tcheka, cholera-germs etc. The present situation is characterised by increased persecution of the Communist party at a time of increased illusions of the working class. Thus the present situation is one full of difficulties.

Such a period of acute persecution and temporary depression forms a special testing time for revolutionary parties. In such a situation differences of opinion and groupings within the party very easily arise. In addition to this there came the discussion of the decisions of the World Congress, which are of a very important character, and especially in the trade union question, raise quite a number of very important problems.

This session therefore constituted a fiery test as to how far the Party is consolidated, whether the Party is really capable or not of carrying out the program decided on Frankfurt-on-Main, regarding the overcoming of factions and the bolshevisation of the Party. It must be said that the proceedings of the National Council furnished wonderful testimony to the stability of the C. P. of Germany. Among the numerous delegations coming from all parts of Germany there was to be seen an absolute unanimity regarding the fundamental questions. All the important decisions were unanimously adopted, including the political as well as the trade union decisions.

Never since the existence of the C. P. as a mass party has there been a National Council so entirely free from groupings or any essential differences as this one. One can state without any hesitation that there are no longer any groupings or fractions in the German Party. Already at the Frankfurt Conference the Brandler tendency was quite unrepresented. But nevertheless we had beside the 90 delegates belonging to the left party majority, 30 representatives of the so-called central group.

Although already in Frankfurt we had succeeded in establishing unanimity on all the practical tasks of the day, there were still left some remnants of group differences. Already in Moscow it was seen that the German delegates to the Fifth World Congress were completely united. For the first time there appeared at Moscow a German delegation, which was entirely free from groupings and was the uniform representation of the German Party. The delegates from the Chemnitz district were on all fundamental questions in agreement with the delegates of the party majority. The same picture was presented at the National Council. To all the spite and hatred of Social Democracy to all the persecutions by the authorities of the Ebert Republic, we are able calmly to reply: "The Communist Party of Germany is a homogeneous, iron block, and no one will succeed in splitting it."

The National Council in its political resolution fully approved the decisions of the V. World Congress. it specially welcomed the way in which the right in the international, the Radek-Brandler group, was dealt with. It approved in the sense of the Frankfurt decisions the new formulations of the united front and the workers' government, which made impossible any opportunist interpretation. The National Council declared with particular satisfaction that the dispute over the workers' government in the frame of bourgeois democracy, which had prevailed at the Leipsig Party Conference, was now finally decided in the sense of the German Left.

In the trade union question the National Council likewise adopted the decisions of the World Congress. The National Council emphasised the necessity of the Communists again resuming trade union work along the whole front. This revival of our trade union work, in spite of all confusion which still prevails among some of our members, is one the chief practical tasks of the Party. As regards the question of international trade union unity, the National Council declared itself in favor of a mass campaign for unity, with the obvious provisions that this unity could only be realized on the basis of the revolutionary class struggle.

The practical daily tasks of the Party were defined by the National Council as an intensification of the mass struggle against the Experts' Report, in mobilizing the proletariat against the new employers' offensive with their closing down of factories, in reviving the slogans of control of production and socialization in the fight against the food profiteers, protective tariffs and fresh direct taxes, in the closest relations of the proletariat with the poor peasantry, who are suffering more and more severely under the present crisis.

The National Council calls to the party: Into the masses! But the Communist must go into the masses precisely at the time of depression, without allowing himself to be influenced by the hesitating moods of the masses. Practical workers' politics, but without the least compromise with democratic opportunism. The National Council unconditionally endorsed the outlook of the V. World congress that we must at all times reckon upon new decisive struggles for power, but that it is impossible to fix the definite date for these new decisive struggles; under certain circumstances we must always reckon with a longer transition period and precisely in this period we have to show the greatest communist firmness.

The National Council reaffirmed the close alliance between the C. P. of Germany and the C. P. of Russia, as was shown at the V. World Congress. To make use of all the experiences of the Russian Revolution to convert the German Party in a true bolshevist party and, regardless of obstacles, to draw a clear unequivocal bolshevist line, and in this sense to lead and win the masses, that is the task which the National Council has placed before the Party.

FURNISHED ROOMS, APARTMENTS AND BUNGALOWS.

REDS COMING TO WASHINGTON, D. C.
Furnished Rooms, $10 to $25 a Month.
Apartments, $25 to $60 a Month.
Bungalows, $45 to $75 a Month.
Mrs. Bateler, 32 G Street, S. W.
Washington, D. C.

FOR INSURANCE OF ANY KIND
CARL BRODSKY
1123 Broadway, New York City
Tel. Watkins 3626.

MAC'S BOOK STORE
DETROIT
Full line of Sociological and Labor Literature.
Periodicals and Newspapers
27 JOHN R STREET

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Communist Candidates
For President:
WILLIAM Z. FOSTER.
For Vice-President:
BENJAMIN GITLOW.

Vol. II. No. 145. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 5 Cents

YALE UNIVERSITY
NOV 22 1924
LIBRARY

MINERS LEAD FIGHT FOR JOBLESS

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

MANY American workers may consider the civil war in China, something that should not concern them. The capitalists of this country are deeply interested in it and more than likely had a hand in the inevitable conspiracy that preceded the hostilities. What concerns the capitalists also concerns the workers but for different reasons. The great capitalist powers are quarreling over the exploitation of China. This competition has been going on for many years. Japan insists on a Monroe Doctrine for the Orient, as the United States has on the American continent, but "might is right," and while the United States government is able to keep the capitalist wolves of the rest of the world from establishing new footholds in South America, Japan is not strong enough to enforce its Asiatic Monroe Doctrine.

* * *

RUSSIA in the days of the Czar was an important factor in China. The Russo-Japanese war of 1905 was fought over the spoils of that rich country. Japan won that war. Today Russia is an important factor in China. But it is a different Russia from that of 1905. The Russia of today has a friendly interest in the workers and peasants of China, the hundreds of millions who are exploited by the capitalists of the world. China is helpless and is easy prey for the robber capitalists. Generals are usually on the payroll of some capitalists group or some foreign country acting in the behalf of its capitalists.

* * *

CHINA is a nation of 400,000,000 people. It is tremendously rich in mineral wealth. This great population is awakening and Soviet Russia comes on the scene in the role of a friend at a moment when the capitalist wolves are more anxious than ever to get their fangs in China's neck. Hence the excitement among the diplomats of the robber nations.

* * *

CHINA recently signed a treaty with Soviet Russia. When it was announced that this action was to be taken, Charles Evans Hughes warned China that such action would not be considered benevolently by the United States. But the only favor China ever received from this country arrived on the point of the sword, so the government took its pen in hand and signed on the dotted line. China then had a real friend for the first time.

* * *

BUT the capitalist brigands were not satisfied. Their conspiracies increased. It is yet too soon to state with detailed accuracy the complete story of the intrigues hatched by the United States and other governments against the China-Russian agreement. But this much stands out clearly. The central government of China is the target of threats, warnings and demands from the capitalist diplomats in Peking. The central government is more or less powerless to do anything except let the two principal generals who are battling for possession of the port of Shanghai fight it out among themselves. It is clearly the intention of the capitalist governments to humiliate and embarrass the present central government in an effort to force it out of commission, and

(Continued on Page 6)

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

'OPEN SHOP', UNEMPLOYMENT MENACE LABOR

Foster Sees Conditions in Middle West

"Unemployment and 'open shop' conditions are rapidly increasing in the Middle West," said William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for president, upon returning to Chicago from a trip thru Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and Missouri.

"The capitalists are pushing ahead everywhere, and the unions are losing ground. In every city crowds are waiting vainly for jobs around the factor gates. In Omaha there are bricklayers working 9 hours pe day.

In Kansas City the building trades worked on Labor Day, an unheard-of thing, that indicates how demoralized is the labor movement in that section.

Finishes First Lap.

Foster had just finished one lap 1800 miles, of the 17,000 miles that he will travel in the course of the campaign. His meetings were more satisfactory than expected, indicating that the number of disillusioned workers and farmers who know that nebulous progressivism will not help them is increasing. Workers came from distant towns to hear Foster. In Sioux City, for example, a group came all the way from Centerville, South Dakota, 70 miles away, in order to hear Foster. In Springfield, another group drove in from Decatur, a distance of 40 miles, to be at Foster's meeting.

Lose Hall in Omaha.

Notwithstanding the threats made in various places by the police, American Legion, and Ku Klux Klan elements, to interfere with Foster's meetings, the most serious obstruction that developed was the cancellation of a hall in Omaha, which necessitated the last-minute hiring of another meeting place.

In Ziegler, where more than a thousand miners turned out to the meeting, the gathering was held at six o'clock in the evening in order not to interfere with the local union meetings that night which was going to put 14 K. K. K. members on trial for expulsion on account of their hooded activities.

In the Springfield meeting, Alex Howat and Duncan MacDonald were present, and at the request of the meeting Howat made a speech, coming out flat-footedly for Foster for president. He declared that some of his "progressive" friends had told him that he must support LaFollette or forfeit their support, but that he had told them to go to the devil. His political opinions were not for sale. The Foster campaign thruout the section covered has been considerably strengthened and enlivened by the metings which Foster addressed.

Probe Death of Worker.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—An inquest was opened today to establish responsibility for the death of Harry Bidwell, who died shortly after being dug from beneath a pile driver used near Brighton. Bidwell was caught beneath the big derrick when it toppled over and lay for two hours before it was possible to dig him out.

SOCIALIST TORCH SNUFFED OUT

(ARTICLE 13.)

FOR many years the rank and file of the socialist party succeeded in preventing their leaders from going over boot, baggage, and all to the LaFollette camp.

In the past, the opposition of the socialist members to LaFollette's swallowing their party was so strong that a national referendum was once held to decide upon the expulsion of Victor Berger on charge of having been in collusion with capitalist parties and capitalist candidates in Wisconsin.

The strong resentment of the rank and file of the socialist party has time and again compelled the leaders to denounce LaFollette's program of trust-busting antics, his hostility to independent working class political action, and his coterie of anti-labor associates.

The socialist party as an independent political organization of workers is out of business today, for all practical intents and purposes.

The lone congressman Berger, the prominent New York attorney, Hillquit, and the somewhat less known Reverend Dr. Thomas have tied the Socialist Party to the coat tails of spurious progressives and so-called honest republican and democratic politicians.

PICKING THE "CLEAN" CANDIDATES

Drawn especially by K. A. Suvanto for the Daily Worker.

LABOR CONDEMNS GOOSE-STEP DAY

BOB SWALLOWS UP SOCIALIST PARTY CORPSE

By JAY LOVESTONE.
(Thirteenth Article.)

For all practical political intents and purposes the socialist party is no longer in existence.

Thru permitting the LaFollette movement to swallow it, the socialist party has signed its own political death warrant.

The lone Congressman Berger, the prominent New York attorney Hillquit, and the less well-known Reverend Norman Thomas hold formal obsequies over the corpse of what was once the mighty Socialist Party at the LaFollette Conference on July 4, 1924.

For many years there was unrelenting hostility between the Socialist Party and the followers of Senator LaFollette. Despite the repeated flirtations of the Socialist Party bosses with the Wisconsin reform wizard, the membership time and again prevented a merger of their organization with the Badger state senator. In fact, there was a time when feeling ran so high against such improper political coquetting that a national referendum was held to decide on the expulsion of Berger from the Socialist Party on the charge of having been guilty of collusion with capitalist politicians.

It was this continued, strong opposition of the Socialist Party rank and file that forced the leaders to denounce LaFollette on many occasions. Time and again the Socialist membership drove the party officials to attack LaFollette's vacillating, petty-capitalist graft with which his machine was running, his anti-labor high-jinks, his opposition to the working class waging political struggles against the exploiters, and his general fraudulent progressivism.

In the light of the success finally achieved by the leaders of the Socialist Party in annihilating its last possible claim to be called a party of in

(Continued on page 3)

BROWER MEMORIAL MEETING TO BE HELD IN BROOKLYN, WEDNESDAY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Comrades Ludwig Lore, Juliet Stuart Poyntz and Noah London will speak at the memorial meeting for our Comrade Charles Brower, Wednesday evening, September 10, at Brownsville Workers Hall, 1844 Pitkins Ave., Brooklyn.

Comrade Brower was a member of the Communist Party and later the Workers Party since its organization. He was one of our most prominent lecturers in this district, having devoted himself entirely to the educational work of the party. When the Workers School was organized he was on the Board of Directors and also one of the teachers. Comrade Brower died Thursday evening, August 28.

FEDERATION IN CHICAGO HANDS WAR BIG BLOW

The Chicago Federation of Labor, at its regular meeting yesterday, unanimously passed a resolution condemning "Defense Day" or "Mobilization Day," as it was originally named.

The resolution which was introduced by Arne Swabeck, delegate from Painters' Local Union No. 194; H. Klausen, Carpenters' Local Union No. 180, and George Leach, Carpenters' Local Union No. 1637, was amended by the resolutions committee, by adding "and give the republican party material for campaign purposes."

The resolution as introduced and passed with the above addition reads as follows:

"Whereas, September 12 has been proclaimed as National Defense Day, to be observed thruout the country as a means of testing the nation's preparedness for war, and,

"Whereas, this preparedness test is an avowed part of the efforts of the capitalist war mongers to build constantly greater armaments, to build a military machine ready to extend and protect American imperialist investments and exploitation of workers of colonial countries, and other oppressed nations, as well as to be held in readiness

(Continued on page 2)

Left Wing Plans Big Fight for Progress at State Labor Meeting

By KARL REEVE
(Staff Writer of the DAILY WORKER)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 7.—A small left wing element, representing thousands of rank and file union workers of the state of Illinois, will battle staunchly in the convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor, opening here Monday, to keep the vital issues facing the workers before the convention.

Meanwhile, the reactionary labor leaders, representing their personal machines, will battle as to which corrupt old party the convention should endorse.

Resolutions demanding a drive to organize the unorganized worker, indorsing amalgamation of craft unions, calling for a conference to consider unemployment, denouncing the Ku Klux Klan, and favoring independent political action of the workers in a farmer-labor party have been passed by many of the miners and other local unions, and will be acted on by the convention.

Farrington Out for Small.

Frank Farrington, president of District 12 (Illinois), of the United Mine Workers, finds himself in another terrific muddle as the convention opens.

Farrington announced Saturday from Springfield: "I am indorsing Governor Small for re-election."

He intimated his intention of fighting for Small's indorsement by the State Federation convention.

At the same time circular letters are being distributed to the Illinois miners, signed by Farrington, in letters half an inch high, which declare, "The democratic and republican parties not only treat with contempt every measure of interest to the work-

(Continued on page 2)

The Issue at Peoria

By J. W. JOHNSTONE
Assistant Secretary, Trade Union Educational League

THE Forty-Second Annual Convention of the Illinois State Federation opens today in Peoria under ominous circumstances. With almost 50,000 miners in the state idle and thousands of families starving, with the K. K. K. trying to destroy the miners' union, the miners' situation becomes the paramount issue before the convention. In immediate importance, all other questions sink into the background.

Up to the present writing no official of the State Federation has issued a public statement on the unemployment of the miners, not to mention suggesting a remedy for it. They have been silent on the crimes committed by the K. K. K. The murder of a miner on the streets of Dowel, the murder of another miner in the court room of W. Frankfort by klansmen, the killings in Herrin, the klan terrorism that exists thruout southern Illinois has not brot a single protest from either President John Walker, or Secretary Victor Olander.

They however have been exceptionally busy in their condemnation of the Workers Party and the Trade Union Educational League, and equally busy in their support of the LaFollette-Len Small political combination. In fact, they have been so busy fixing up their political fences making their position secure politically, that they have had no time to pay attention to small matters, such as miner's being murdered, or miners' families going hungry.

The reds must be defeated, Len Small and LaFollette elected, seems to be the only reason for the present existence of either Walker or Olander, as far as the state labor movement is concerned. What have these so-called labor leaders done during the past year in building up the labor movement of Illinois? Nothing, positively nothing. Organize the unorganized? They never even thought of it, and it is safe to say, judging by their past record, that they will have nothing to offer as a solution for the unemployment problem that now confronts the miners. As for the K. K. K. menace they undoubtedly will follow the lead set by Frank Farrington in the miners' convention held in Peoria last May, and try to keep it off the floor of the convention, on the grounds that it is a religious issue.

The poverty of the miners will keep them from being strongly represented. Nevertheless they will be represented well enough to bring these issues before the convention. The problem of unemployment that now confronts the miners, can only be permanently solved, of course, thru the forming of a workers' government. But immediate aid to the starving families is what is required.

The miners must demand state government assistance. Work must be supplied to the unemployed at union wages and under union conditions. A demand must be made for an appropriation from the state treasury, to relieve the suffering of the miners' families, and to be administered by the union. They must instruct the State Federation officials to fight for the nationalization of the mines and railroads, for the six-hour day and the five day week. And they must demand that the Federation officials start a public campaign against the K. K. K. by holding meetings and demonstration thruout the state, especially in Williamson and Franklin counties. These demands along with the better known ones such as amalgamation, labor party, organize the unorganized, etc., will be the basis of the left wing fight in the convention.

Of course officialdom will dodge and try to squirm out of it by the usual bunk, that these things are outside the jurisdiction of a state organization, etc.. Nationalization of the mines and railroads, the six-hour day and five day week, these things belong to the unions who have that jurisdiction, they will say. The unemployment of the miners, well, that is up to the miners' union. Amalgamation, Labor Party —those come from Moscow! They will say and do anything but meet the issues. They tied the Illinois labor movement to the LaFollette-Len Small political machine without considering whose jurisdictional toes they were treading on. But to take up the issues that bring into broad relief the class struggle, that is a bird of a different feather and not to their liking. The reds will again get a panning and be blamed for all the miseries of the working class. Olander will again tell the story of how the ship was scuttled by the borers from within. Walker will shed a few tears for poor Len Small. LaFollette and the conglomeration of poor republicans and democrats and rich labor leaders will be endorsed, but unless the militant rank and file are ably and plentifully represented, nothing will be done in the interest of the working class. The miserable condition of the miners favor the reactionaries. The miners, 100,000 strong, are the back bone of the Illinois labor movement. Crush the miners and the whole movement in this state is irreparably weakened. Yet that is what is being done. The miners are slowly being crushed to death. Thru a starvation process, the coal operators are trying to subdue the militant miners, and they are using the K. K. K. to terrorize them where they can't starve them. The labor movement of Illinois must stand behind the miners in their fight. The miners of Illinois have stood behind every fight of the workers, giving liberally when they had very little to give. They are now in need. What has the Illinois State Federation of Labor convention to offer them?

FARRINGTON IN NEW MOVE TO OUST RADICALS

Aims Blow at John Watt and MacDonald

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 7.—Members of the Illinois coal miners' union see in the recent attempt of Frank Farrington to revoke the charter of Local Union No. 448 here, an effort to make John Watt, progressive secretary-treasurer of the Springfield sub-district ineligible to hold office.

Watt, who is a member of Local Union No. 448, would be automatically out of the union. He would have to re-hire at the mine, at the discretion of the boss of the mine, and would, even if given a job and re-instated into the union, have to wait three years before holding office.

Altho the reason given for the attack on Local Union No. 448 is their loyalty to Duncan MacDonald, it is significant that Watt, one of the best known militants in the miners' organizations, is a member of the local union, and opposes Farrington's reactionary machine.

Farrington's letters to William McCauley, of Local Union No. 448, follow:

Cited To Appear.

Springfield, Ill., August 28, 1924.
Mr. William McCauley,
1839 South 19th St.,
Springfield, Illinois.

Dear Sir and Brother: The District Executive Board is to meet at headquarters beginning 10.00 a. m. Wednesdy, September 3rd. Your Local Union is requested to have representatives appear before the Board to show why your card should not be revoked for continuing to carry Duncan McDonald as a member of your Local Union, in violation of the instructions conveyed to your Local Secretary, Greener Smith, in my letter of September 21, 1923.

Yours truly,
Frank Farrington, President.

Gets Second Letter.

Springfield, Ill., August 29, 1924.
Mr. William McCauley,
Local Union No. 448,
Springfield, Illinois.

Dear Sir and Brother: Please refer to my letter of August 28th which you should have read, that your local union is requested to have representatives appear before the District Executive Board to show why your local charter should not be revoked instead of to show why your "card" should not be revoked.

So that there will be no room for misunderstanding, I herewith again advise that your local union is requested to have representatives appear before the District Executive Board at a meeting to be held at headquarters beginning ten a. m. Wednesday, September 3rd, to show why your local charter should not be revoked for continuing to carry Duncan McDonald as a member of your local union in violation of the instructions conveyed to your local secretary, Greener Smith, in my letter of September 21st, 1923.

Yours truly,
Frank Farrington, President.

Join the Workers Party!

ONLY NINE DAYS LEFT! SPEED UP!

Signatures to Place Workers Party Candidates on the Ballot in Illinois Coming in Faster.

WATCH THE FIGURES GROW!

WITH only nine days left in which the Party expects the comrades in Chicago to get the needed number of signatures to place every Workers Party candidate on the ballot in the State of Illinois, Party and League comrades are exerting themselves in securing signatures.

Congressional District No. 9, Jack Johnstone, candidate, Delbert Earley, campaign manager, pushed the number of signatures recorded in the Local Party office to 320. District 5, H. Epstein, candidate, climbed from 22 to 122. Gordon Owens, candidate from Congressional District No. 1, where Comrades E. Holt, G. Maurer and Schaefer are conducting the work, is still high man among the candidates with 450. The Presidential Electors signatures for the Foster-Gitlow ticket and the State ticket reached 851.

Ingmar Iverson of the Mid-City Branch brought in 57 signatures for the Eight Congressional District, George Maurer, candidate. Fahle Burman, Waukegan, sent in a batch of names on the state petitions. Many other comrades are reporting that they are on the job and will be tossing in their petitions soon all filled out.

The figures to date are:

District Candidate	Signatures obtained	Signatures necessary
No. 1—Gordon Owens	450	1200
No. 2—Joseph Podkulski	249	1300
No. 5—Harry Epstein	122	1000
No. 6—Frank Pellegrino	225	3500
No. 7—Sam Hammersmark	405	4000
No. 8—George Maurer	182	800
No. 9—Jack Johnstone	320	1200
Presidential Electors (Foster-Gitlow electors) and Illinois State signatures	851	2000

Every candidate can be placed on the ballot. A little more exertion from the comrades and there can be no doubt of the result. Speed the campaign for signatures! Send the lists in as fast as you get them filled out! Push the Communist campaign!

HEGEWISCH STRIKERS MEET TODAY

AN important meeting of the workers on strike now for six weeks in Hegewisch at the Western Steel Car & Foundry Co. has been called for this morning, Monday, Sept. 8, 8 a. m., at Ginalski's Hall, 13249 Houston Ave., by E. K. Hogan, District Organizer of the Railway Carmen. A thoro review of the strike will be had, and additional plans laid out. The heaters, riveters, reamers, and others on strike have had the plant tied up solid now for six weeks, and are showing as much determination as ever to administer a beating to the corporation. Workers Party, T. U. E. L. and Y. W. L. speakers will also address the strikers meeting.

THOUSANDS HEAR PARTY SPEAKERS AT BIG MEETINGS

Open Air Gatherings in All Sections of City

Another drive of open air meetings will this week carry the Communist message in the present campaign to workers in all sections of the city. Good crowds were reported every where last week in spite of the bad weather.

The meetings last Saturday night were especially well attended, thousands listening attentively to the Workers Party speakers. It is estimated that 500 workers on the northwest side, in the Seventh Congressional District, heard the party speakers at the meeting, that developed into a demonstration, at N. Washtenaw and W. Division streets. Among the speakers were I. L. Davidson, Sidney Bergeron and J. Louis Engdahl.

Meetings already announced for this week are as follows:

STREET MEETINGS IN CHICAGO.
Monday, September 8.

Corner of Madison and Wood Streets, 8 p. m. Auspices of Mid-City English Branch. Good speakers.

Roosevelt and Morgan Streets, 8 p. m.—Auspices of Marshfield Young Workers League Branch.

Tuesday, September 9.

Corner 16th and Kedzie, 8 p. m.—Auspices of Douglas Park English Branch, Workers Party.

Corner 14th and 49th Court, Cicero, 8 p. m.—Auspices of Cicero Lithuanian branches.

Corner Wilton and Belmont Streets, 8 p. m.—Auspices, North Side English Branch, W. P. Speakers: D. E. Earley and others.

Miners Leading the Fight for Jobless At Peoria Meet

(Continued from page 1)

ers which representatives of organized labor presented to their national conventions, but have nominated presidential candidates who openly proclaim their allegiance to big business and their hostility to the labor movement."

This is the statement approved by Farrington when campaigning for La-Follette, while at the same time he announces his support of a regular republican for governor of Illinois.

Discovers Democratic Booster.

John Gaffigan, president of the Springfield Federation of Labor, announces that he will introduce a resolution seeking the indorsement of the state body for Judge Norman L. Jones, democratic candidate for governor. Speaking of the resolutions which are expected to be presented indorsing Len Small, Gaffigan said: "We will fight that resolution to a finish. We will present and press for approval a resolution indorsing Jones."

John H. Walker, president of the state federation, whose Chicago offices were virtually an appendix to Small's campaign headquarters during the primary fight, will lead the fight for the indorsement of Small.

Squabble of Collaborators.

The followers of class collaboration, who at the present time seem likely to control the convention, are thus squabbling as to which corrupt political camp they will lend the name of "Illinois labor support."

The left wing element, the small in numbers, represents the real wishes of the rank and file. Henry Corbishley, president of Local Union, No 992, of the Ziegler miners, and delegate to the convention, told the DAILY WORKER: "Unemployment is the pressing problem of the miners of Illinois at this time. We would like to see the convention take definite action to resist the open shop drive of the coal operators and solidify and strengthen the unions, so as to resist a wage cut.

Make Industry Bear Burden.

"The leaders of Illinois labor must demand that the industry, which makes the profit out of the men, take over the burden of paying unemployment benefits."

"The work day should be shortened, and state-wide drive for organization of non-union workers must be inaugurated. I would like to see conferences called between the railroad workers and the miners. Then it would be impossible for the railroaders to haul scab coal while the union miners are striking for lack of work."

Thomas Parry, delegate to the convention from Divernon Local Miners' Union, No. 146, declared: "My local union has passed resolutions to come before the state convention demanding the organization of the unorganized workers and demanding amalgamation of all craft unions."

A resolution was also passed by the Divernon local union, "Calling upon the officials of District No. 12 to call conferences of representatives of the various local unions and subdistricts, for the specific purpose of launching a fight for unemployment relief as a means of forcing the reopening of the mines, and to lay down fundamental plans for solving our problems."

Chicago Labor Opens War on Goose-Step Day

(Continued from page 1)

to be turned against the workers at home in any conflict between capital and labor, therefore be it

"Resolved, that the Chicago Federation of Labor go on record opposing these efforts of the American capitalist war mongers including the proposed Defense Day exercises and condemning militarism in general."

Swabeck Objects to Amendment.

When the resolutions committe reported the resolution with the amendment attacking the republican party, Comrade Swabeck took the floor and objected to the addition saying that all capitalist parties were responsible for war and the system that breeds wars. He wanted to put the Chicago labor movement on record on Defense Day.

He explained that the American Army was organized as much to protect scabs as to protect the interests of American capitalsits in other countries. Sam Gompers, he said, posed as an anti-militarist, yet, he endorsed Defense Day. "We cannot claim to be opposed to militarism and endorse this murderous plan of the American capitalists," said Swabeck.

Swabeck attacked the Dawes plan, declaring it would not bring peace but increasing misery for the German workers. The only way to secure world peace is for the workers of the world to take over the reigns of government and abolish the capitalist system.

When Comrade Swabeck concluded, the previous question was called for and carried, ending the discussion. Then the motion as amended was put and carried.

The Executive Committee of the Federation was authorized to investigate the fight between the Teachers' Federation and the Superintendent of Schools, McAndrew, over the teachers' councils.

Miss Lillian Herstein, member of the American Federation of Teachers, appealed to the delegates to get behind "Education Week" and requested a contribution of $100.00. She attacked the American school system. It was in a rut and trained children as factory machines and cannon fodder rather than thinking human beings.

President John Fitzpatrick and Secretary Edward Nockles were nominated without opposition to succeed themselves for the coming year. Election will take place at the next meeting.

Other nominations were as follows:

Executive Committee—J. W. Johnstone, David Bosgraff, Charles Wills, Robert Osterlund, Julius Lichtenstein, Kelly, William Schmidt, Agnes Nestor, J. A. Schaefer, Frank Svabek, Wallick, Fred Dahms, Frank Buchanan and T. F. Neary.

Legislative—Arne Swabeck, T. O. Vance, Joseph Morton, Harry Scheck, Martin Nelson, Mace Dempsey, John O'Neill, J. J. Unimanis, John Flora, Will Boyer, S. C. Sumner, William Quesse, Arthur Olsen and Henry Stone.

Delegates to the American Federation of Labor Convention—Arne Swabeck, W. F. Kennedy, Anton Johannsen, Ben Abrams and William Smith.

TEACHERS PLAN FOR NEW WAR ON MC ANDREW

Fight Attempt to Kill Council Meetings

"In refusing to call the meeting of the high school teachers' councils, which has been scheduled for the third week in September, William McAndrew, superintendent of Chicago's schools, is simply taking into his own hands the authority which has been given to the organized teachers of Chicago," Elzy F. Downey, president of the councils, told the DAILY WORKER today.

"It is very obvious that the superintendent is renewing the war which he waged on the teachers last spring, when he refused to call the councils together.

Flagrant Abuse of Power.

"That he has no legal basis for such action, and that he is flagrantly abusing his power, is obvious when we recall the opinion of the school attorney last year, that the rules of the councils are control of the school board, and that they must be obeyed by the superintendent as well as by the teachers.

"A meeting of the executive board of the high school teachers' group will be held this week to decide on the action to be taken to meet this new move of the superintendent."

The reason given by Mr. McAndrew for his action is that the work of the teachers' councils occupies school time. To the DAILY WORKER, McAndrew admitted that the time occupied by all of the meetings of the councils during the school year, added together, amounts to less than one school day.

At the same time, the superintendent indicated, he is glad to have celebrations in praise of the Boy Scouts, of the Girl Scouts, and of the Campfire Girls, occupy the time of the children.

"But I can see no benefits derivable from the councils which depend on their taking teaching time," said Mr. McAndrew.

Aids Old Parties.

Whether or not the Chicago Teachers' Federation will make an active fight for the continuation of the teachers' councils, is problematical. No hint as to the course of action planned by the Federation could be obtained from its officials. The federation is one of the few teachers' organizations in the country which has successfully resisted the rule of the schools by a business autocracy. It has won for the teachers great gains in wages and in working conditions. It has many times made a successful fight against school graft. It has openly opposed its policy of refusing under any conditions to call a strike—an attitude which has the hearty approval of the American Federation of Labor—and it has taken part in political campaigns as the ally of the democratic party.

Anti propaganda of the American Legionaires will be spread in the schools not only on the days given over to the Boy Scout and the Girl Scout movements, but also during the course of the entire year, is indicated by an article published in the last issue of the Chicago Schools' Journal, praising the platoon system in use in Detroit. Courses offered in the Detroit Teachers' College, "Membership in which," says the article, "was by invitation only," and which were designed to prepare teachers for executive jobs, are in high favor with the author. They include a course in Boy Scout Leadership, a course in Girl Scout Captainship, a course in Camp Fire Guardianship, one in Community Civics, and one in Auditorium teaching.

Postpone Injunction Hearing.

The significance of the course in Auditorium teaching can be appreciated when it is remembered that Charles L. Spain, reporting on the benefits of the platoon system, proved that the auditorium is one of the most effective means which the platoon school affords for spreading propaganda.

Hearing on the injunction to restrain the Board of Education from transforming the Harper school into a Junior high school, partly on the ground that the traffic hazards encountered by the children who have been forced to go to other schools will be greatly increased, has again been postponed. It will be resumed on Wednesday morning.

New York Open Air Meetings.

Wednesday, Sept. 10.

110th St. and 5th Ave.—Markoff, Landy and J. Codkind.

Rivington and Eldridge Sts.—M. Nudjus and Spanish speakers.

125th St. and St. Anns Ave.—Baum, H. Starr.

Tompkins and Hart Sts., Brooklyn—S. Perkin and J. S. Ohlan.

28th and 8oth Aves.—Ellen Davidson.

Thursday, Sept. 11.

5th St. and Avenue A—H. M. Wintsky, also Russian and Ukrainian speakers.

28th St. and 8th Ave.—Ellen Davidson.

3rd St. and Spencer, Mcdonald.

106th St. and Madison Ave.—L. Landy, N. B. Yokes.

125th St. and Madison Aye.—Joe Brandy and Spanish speakers.

John Wallstreet Davis Peddles Piffle About Some of Our Liberties

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, John "Wall Street" Davis, democratic candidate for president, is out west in the grain belt preaching the bunk that he thinks will land him in the White House after the November elections. Any intelligent human being cannot consider his utterances anything else but bunk. But that is what is expected from old party candidates, trying to bunk the voters into casting their ballots for the Morgan candidates.

* * * *

Davis would not dare utter, in his native state of West Virginia, the brand of piffle that he is peddling to the western farmers. The workers in the steel mills and coal mines of West Virginia would only laugh at him. They would laugh so uproariously that they might be heard over the entire country, much to the discomfiture of Mr. Davis.

* * * *

Take this little gem, for instance, uttered at Omaha, Nebraska:

"When the constitution of the United States was written, we gave to the Americans of that day, and all who might come after them, certain fundamental rights that could never be taken away. We gave them freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of the person. We gave them what was perhaps more sacred than anything else—freedom of religious worship, not to be disturbed or threatened, or taken away by any set of men or any government."

* * * *

I went thru one coal strike in West Virginia, in the Paint and Cabin Creek districts, in 1913. But this strike was typical of all the rest. It was an example of the brand of czarist tyranny meted out to workers, anywhere in the state of West Virginia, the home state of Mr. Davis, whenever the workers sought to enjoy the rights that Mr. Davis speaks of so glibly in addressing the western farmers.

* * * *

Freedom of speech, proclaims Mr. Davis.

Yet this same Mr. Davis knows that anyone caught talking unionism, thru the unorganized industries of that state, immediately takes his life in his own hands. Many a union organizer has been found dead along the railroad tracks or the highways of that state, thrown from a passing train, or caught making his way on foot from one coal camp to the next.

The only freedom of speech the West Virginia workers have is the freedom to say the servile things the bosses like to hear. For instance, "Vote for Davis!" "Vote for Coolidge!" Or even, "Vote for LaFollette!" Because in socialist-republican ruled Wisconsin, I have seen the swing of the Cossacks' club, as well as in West Virginia.

* * * *

Freedom of assembly, proclaims Mr. Davis.

That reminds me of a carefully planned meeting of West Virginia coal miners, held on a Sunday afternoon, in a deserted sawmill. The workers in their underground organization in Russia under the czars did not observe more secrecy in arranging their meetings, in the out-of-the-way places, than these American coal miners, practically all American born, West Virginian mountaineers, did in preparing for their gathering.

* * * *

Freedom of the person, proclaims Mr. Davis.

There comes back to me the picture of the mother, sitting in a rocker, her foot bandaged; there in a coal miners' cabin on Paint Creek. The strike was on. Most of the miners had been evicted from their company-owned shacks and lived in the neighborhood in tents. Up along the side of the mountain range there was the railroad running along the creek. They had had a visit from the "Bull Moose Special."

The special train of the "open shop" mine owners, that consisted of two baggage cars with rapid firing guns sticking their muzzles out of the doorways, and a coach filled with heavily armed mine guards, was called the "Bull Moose Special," because Roosevelt's candidate for governor had been elected in 1912, altho the "Bull Moose," himself, had been defeated for the presidency. But the candidate of Mr. Davis, Woodrow Wilson, was in the White House.

But the "Bull Moose Special," in the dead of night, with lights out, carefully made its way up Cabin Creek, silently as possible, until it came abreast of the Miners' Tent Colony. Then the murderous fire was turned loose from high powered rifles and rapid fire machine guns. The bullet that pierced the foot of this mother of the coal mines had already passed thru the wall of the house, and also penetrated the family Bible lying on a table, besides which she was sitting.

"Freedom of the person," is a ghastly joke coming from the lips of the West Virginian, John "Wall Street" Davis, candidate for president on the democratic ticket. He has his answer in the bullet holes that pierce the walls of West Virginia's coal miners' cabins.

* * * *

"Freedom of religious worship," echoes Davis. That's another good joke. The Y. M. C. A. buildings thruout the coal fields are usually mere nests of mine guards, the hired killers of the mine owners.

The churches thruout the mine fields are usually erected with money furnished by the mine owners, on company property. The preacher or priest usually looks to the mine owner for his livelihood, and the mine owner looks to his religious hirelings to preach the doctrine that will best conserve his interests, the doctrine of slave obey your master.

* * * *

"Freedom of the press," was something that Davis forgot to mention.

During the 1913 coal strike in West Virginia, the only workers' press, turning out the only fighting working class publication in the district, was wrecked by the agents of the mine owners. Labor papers coming in from the outside, thru the mails, were quickly confiscated by servile postmasters in the mining camps. This is all retold in the report of the Senate Investigating Committee that "investigated" the strike in 1913. But the report is no doubt submerged in dust in the mouldy archives of the Congressional Library, in Washington, D. C.

* * * *

Let the farmers of the west know these things when Davis addresses them. Let them question Davis about these conditions in his own state. Davis will not answer them. But the farmers, like the workers in big industrial centers, can make their answer by casting their votes for the Communist candidates, William Z. Foster, for president, and Benjamin Gitlow, for vice-president. Vote Communist this year. Crush the capitalist dictatorship that parades fake "constitutional" liberties as a lure to win the support of the oppressed.

WORLD FLIGHT IS BOOST FOR BIG AIR NAVY

Fliers Land in Boston; Noise Manufactured

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 7.—The Four Power Pact signed at Washington, defined the limits of naval construction to the powers who became signatory to the pact. That is after a fashion. The fact remains that the powers simply scrapped their old boats and rigged up the more modern floating death castles for more effective slaughter.

But not a word was said about airplanes, now recognized as the most important fighting machines in modern warfare.

Kept Eyes Peeled.

Hereby hangs a big tale.

United States aviators have just finished a world encircling flight. It took them a long time to do it. Five months have gone by since they hopped off on their journey until the appeared thru the blue sky in staid old Boston yesterday. Some people say they did a lot of looking around while they were flying over other people's territory, and the impressions they received may be found safely tucked away in the archives of the war department when the United States capitalists deem it their duty to assume the responsibility of bringing Yankee civilization to any particular spot of the earth's surface over which the fliers flew.

Manufactured Enthusiasm.

Therefore tremendous enthusiasm was manufactured by the militarists when the returned aviators landed in Boston. The inevitable crippled aviator was there, to be served up as desert in the capitalist newspapers. He hobbled on crutches to a place of vantage where he could have a good view of his buddies' landing. What he does with himself the rest of his life does not matter. He served Morgan well, once when he came a cropper in his service and again yesterday when his presence served to cause a tickling sensation in the collective spine of the patriotic multitude. This tickling sensation manifested itself in a wave of enthusiasm for aviation and cheers for the "biggest air navy in the world."

This enthusiasm will come in handy for "Mobilization Day." Perhaps it was no accident that the fliers did not complete their journey before now. Between now and Friday, the papers will be full of human interest stories about the world fliers. Pictures of their wives, mothers and sweethearts will decorate the pages of the boss press.

"The English, French and Japs were very nice to us," remarked one of the aviators. Of course. But as sure as cod liver oil can be bought on Atlantic Avenue, American aviators will be dropping bombs on the "nice" soldiers, aviators and sailors of the now friendly countries. It is a great game.

Now watch the campaign for "the biggest air navy in the world."

LA FOLLETTE FOR CLASSLESS REIGN SAYS HILLQUIT

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The LaFollette campaign in New York was opened last night with a mass meeting in Cooper Union. Morris Hillquit, leader of the socialists, said that La Follette and Wheeler were the only two candidates supporting a classless government.

Burton K. Wheeler boasted that the bankers and business men of Massachusetts were supporting the LaFollette ticket. His entire speech consisted of attacks on corrupt republican administration. He did not utter a word against the democratic party.

There were no real issues discussed. Sidney Hillman and Morris Hillquit gave unbounded praise to the progressives.

Copies of the DAILY WORKER Special New York edition, announcing the Gitlow meeting to be held next Tuesday night in the Central Opera House, 205 East 67th Street, were sold at the meeting.

Our Candidates

FOSTER'S DATES

Elizabeth, N. J.—Turn Hall, 725 High St., Wednesday, September 10, 8 p. m.

Newark, N. J.—Labor Lyceum, 204 So. 14th St., Thursday, September 11, 8 p. m.

GITLOW'S DATES

Comrade Gitlow, candidate for vice-president, will address meetings at the following places:

New York City—Central Opera House, Tuesday, Sept. 9, at 8 p. m.

DAWES PLAN TO BRING TWELVE HOUR DAY BACK

Flight of Germans Will Affect World Toilers

By LELAND OLDS.
(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

The Dawes reparations settlement for which the republican party is claiming credit is a dangerous blow at the world movement of labor toward the shorter working day.

It is going to force long hours upon German workers, restoration of 12-hour shifts seven days a week in the German steel industry, and competition which will undermine the standards attained by workers in other countries.

"A necessary result of the experts' report," say the Rhenish Westphalian iron and steel manufacturers in support, of their refusal to restore the 3-shift system "will be the maintenance of extended hours of work. It is certainly one of the government's chief duties to explain the situation as it is and not to leave the people under the illusion that it will be possible to bear the burdens imposed upon Germany by the experts' report without an increase of individual as well as collective production. The demand of the Metal Workers' federation for the introduction of a 3-shift system in the large scale iron industry means nothing less than the abandonment of all hope of that increase in production which is absolutely necessary to Germany's future."

Get Entering Wedge.

The German iron and steel magnates secured the entering wedge for a return to the long shift by a provisional agreement in Dec. 1923 which provided 59 hours per week for workers in basic production and 57½ hours for workers in the secondary industries. By May 1924 the unions found that the employers did not intend to observe the safeguards and that the door had been opened to a return to the worst features of the old system with workers frequently working from 2:30 p. m. Saturday to 6 a. m. Sunday when changing shifts.

The unions refused to continue this agreement, the matter went to arbitration and was decided against them. When labor refused to accept the award it was made compulsory by the minister of labor. The unions then went along under protest.

Affects All Industries.

Similar charges in hours have been going on in all industries, altho the results have not always been as bad as in the iron and steel plants. But the general situation is indicated by a census of hours worked in various industries taken in the middle week of May by the Deutsche Gewerkschaftsbund. The census included 2,453,523 workers in 14,122 concerns and showed the per cent of workers working 48 hours and the per cent working over 48 hours, as follows:

	48 hrs. or less	48-51 hours	51-54 hours	Over 54 hours
	Pct.	Pct.	Pct.	Pct.
Textile	17.6	23.8	54.3	4.3
Metal	36.5	5.8	26.6	21.1
Bookprint	50.6	5.8	41.9	1.7
Chemical	56.0	2.3	33.4	7.8
Timber	78.6	6.8	10.0	4.6
Shoe	85.5	3.5	10.8	0.2
Building	89.0	3.3	4.8	2.9
AVERAGE	45.3	8.3	33.5	13.0

Thus in both the textile and the metal industries more than half of the workers in Germany are working a regular week of more than 51 hours while more than one-fifth of the metal workers are working over 54 hours. The agreements which made possible this extension of hours generally retained the 48-hour week in principle but permitted the employer to compel overtime without extra pay. Limiting provisions in the agreements are frequently overridden by the employers.

Employers in other European countries which feel the competition of Germany are using this extension of hours as an argument against the ratification of the league of nations' 8-hour convention.

LaFollette Swallows Corpse of Socialist Party

(Continued from page 1.)

dependent working class political action, a review of what the Socialist rank and file once actually compelled these same leaders to say of Robert M. LaFollette is very timely.

Charged with LaFollettism.

Even twenty years ago Berger had his eye on the LaFollette bandwagon. In 1905 he was charged, on this score, with having an understanding with capitalist parties. It was only his control of the Wisconsin party machine that saved Berger's political neck and face.

Interesting information on the strong opposition of the general socialist membership to these Berger "understandings" is afforded by the following report of the Social Democratic Herald of June 10,1905:

"The State Executive Board also points to the fact that the National Committee has not awaited the investigation of the State Executive Board of Wisconsin but has already removed Comrade Berger from the National Committee.

"The finding of the State Executive Board of Wisconsin (a Berger committee) is as follows:

"That no collusion or understanding of any sort whatever exists, or at any time existed, between the Social Democratic Party of Milwaukee or Comrade Berger and any capitalistic party, candidate or candidates."

The removal of Berger by the National Committee was then submitted to a referendum, the Crestline Referendum. 4,215 voted for the expulsion of Victor Berger. 4,718 voted against his expulsion. Wisconsin, where Berger was in absolute control of the party machinery, cast 975 votes. National secretary Mailly then charged that Wisconsin was not entitled to cast that many votes, as it was much behind in dues, and that this alone saved Berger from being thrown out by the membership for his having been in collusion with capitalist parties and politicians.

Then, as now, the dominant capitalist party in Wisconsin was the LaFollette republican crew.

Attack LaFollette Labor Record.

Today LaFollette is in an alliance with the Socialist Party and is seeking the support of the workers on the basis of his record in Wisconsin and in Congress. It is this record that the socialist bureaucracy has forced its membership to indorse. Let us call upon the Social Democratic Herald of July 1, 1905 to tell us what the socialists once thought of the LaFollette regime in the Wisconsin Commonwealth. We read:

"The LaFollette legislature has had the worst record of killing labor bills of any of its predecessors."

Victor Berger, further declared in the Milwaukee Free Press of September 13, 1906: "LaFollette is trying to do the same thing in the republican party that Altgeld tried in the democratic, and he will have less success, because the democratic party had no principles except to get graft, while the republican party has well-defined principles for capitalism and is proud of them."

As late as April 6, 1923 the Milwaukee Leader took occasion to attack the LaFollette machine because it saved the private detective agencies of Wisconsin. In its comment on the failure of the state senate to interfere with the private detective agencies breaking strikes, Berger's mouthpiece said:

"Senator Howard Teasdale, one of the LaFollette senators who swung over to the lobby for private detective agencies, opposed the bill (to regulate) because it would make it difficult for reformers to smell out vice."

LaFollette-Class Enemy.

Especially significant is the following comment on the Farmer-Labor campaign of 1920 made by the Socialist Party in its national campaign book of that year:

"Its (the Farmer Labor Party's) selection of Christensen for President, a man unknown in the struggles of the workers, a man who was willing to withdraw in favor of LaFollette, shows the danger of deserting the Socialist Party for the Farmer Labor Party. LaFollette, Christensen's choice, was unwilling to have the platform contain a protest in behalf of the Negro. LaFollette opposed any 'radical' platform. He wanted a 'liberal' platform that would not offend many conservative voters, one that would not suggest a 'class party.'

"If LaFollette and his views can be satisfactory to Christensen, the latter cannot be satisfactory to determined and enlightened working men and women. A class party of the workers is needed." (Page 74.)

It is on this record that LaFollette has won over the Socialist Party leadership. LaFollette has not dropped his vigorous opposition to a class party of the workers. The Wisconsin senator is as vociferous as ever in his denunciation of any and all who dare call his program radical. At the Cleveland Conference it was LaFollette's influence that prevented the gathering from taking an official attitude towards the Negro problem and the Ku Klux Klan.

In 1920 LaFollette failed in his effort to kill the Farmer-Labor Party. In 1920 the Farmer Labor Party refused to permit LaFollette to dictate its principles. Four years after, in July, LaFollette succeeded in striking a mortal blow at the farmer labor movement. The same socialist leaders who denounced these efforts of LaFollette in 1920 helped the same LaFollette to undermine the independent working class political movement in 1924. And this in spite of the fact that today, more than ever before, there is an urgent need for a class party of the workers!

Socialists Right-About Face.

In this campaign the socialists have not minced words in ripping up LaFollette's trust-busting program. On September 3, 1924 the Wisconsin Socialist state convention adopted a resolution which read: "As for Governor LaFollette, he is powerless against the trusts and capitalists, and his cause, as a good republican and lawyer, he cannot consistently oppose property rights of any kind. These rights are more sacred to all so-called reformers than the rights of man."

Daniel Hoan, now socialist mayor of Milwaukee, has made it clear in his pamphlet "The Failure of Regulation" that: "Not only were trusts not prosecuted in Wisconsin while Senator LaFollette was governor, but they have not been prosecuted before or since, in spite of the fact that there was then and is now a statute (section 1791-j) which provides in substance that any combination organized under the laws of Wisconsin, which shall enter into any combination or agreement to prevent competition or to control prices, shall, in an action instituted by the attorney general of the state, have its charter revoked."

But Hoan has changed his mind, tho LaFollette has not. Today, Hoan is asking the workingmen to vote for this program of LaFollette.

Spurned Progressivism.

Before the Socialist Party committed suicide it, now and then, took occasion to expose the so-called progressivism of LaFollette and his followers. Commenting on LaFollette's support of one Thompson against the labor leader Frank J. Weber, running for the United States Senate, the Milwaukee Leader said on October 22, 1920:

"And here comes Bob LaFollette and his would-be progressives and would-be union men and back up Mr. Thompson . . . That's dirty politics on the part of the progressives, who by the way are composed of town politicians and fake labor leaders who are looking to LaFollette to pick them up and give them a better office not for the best interests of the people but to further their own ends and keep the progressive forces divided."

Summing up the net results of LaFollette's program in Wisconsin, Mayor Hoan declared in his "Failure of Regulation" (P. 54): "The results which followed the enactment of the law regulating public service corporations in Wisconsin have very much pleased the special interests. The chief reasons for this are the following. The largest consumers get the lowest rates. Public utility stocks and bonds enjoy a rise in value. The utility corporation is protected from competition. The owners are granted an indeterminate franchise. The investors are granted large dividends."

What more could the employers ask from the government?

Talks Against Progressives.

Finally, Victor Berger addressing Congress on May 10, 1924, characterized the spurious progressives, at whose feet he is now worshipping, in the following stinging manner: "In America, as in Europe, however, it is absolutely useless to expect any help for either the farmers or for the workingmen in the cities from the politicians of the capitalist organizations.

"The republicans and the democrats will do nothing to relieve the situation, except to introduce bills which obviously will not pass both houses of Congress, or such as will only help the big fellows in the end. Our progressive politicians are also worse than useless, so long as they hang on to the coat-tails of the old parties, because these progressives are simply assisting in the sham battle.

"No matter what beautiful phrases this or the other great progressive leader may use in order to get the votes of the 'plain people,' the policy of both, and especially of the republican party, is invariably dictated by Wall Street and high finance."

Yet, today, three months after this speech Berger has driven his party to become part and parcel of the LaFollette movement, of the LaFollette organization which is supporting many republican and democratic congressmen, senators and governors who are avowed enemies of the workers. In Wisconsin, for instance, LaFollette is backing Governor Blain who is scores of miles away from progressivism. In New York, for example, LaFollette is supporting the republican congressman Dickstein against the socialist Meyer London. In Montana, LaFollette and Wheeler are behind Senator Walsh whom the State Federation of Labor has denounced in its last covention as a bitter foe of the workers and as the author of the vicious state criminal syndicalist laws.

What About Members?

What will the rank and file of the Socialist party say to this complete right-about-face of their leaders? How will they look upon their party committing hari-kari as an independent political organization? Is there no way in which they can square accounts with their misleaders who have stabbed in the back the movement for independent working class political action?

Will they be satisfied to follow the leadership of and put their faith in LaFollette who has for years done everything in his power to thwart the attempts of the workers to organize themselves as a class to fight politically against their exploiters?

Merely to put these questions is to answer them for the class-conscious workers of the entire country.

TRIAL OF 132 ITALIANS NOW DRAWS TO END

Anti-Fascist Workers in Final Plea

(Special to The Daily Worker)

EMPOLI, Italy, Sept. 7.—The trial of the one hundred and thirty-two workers, arrested here two and a half years ago during the riots which broke out upon the arrival of details of national militia, sent by Mussolini to break up the strike of the railroad workers of Tuscany, is drawing to a close with a final plea by the state's attorney that all the workers be imprisoned for life.

Hold All Responsible.

For nineteen days the state has tried to prove that the death of eleven Fascist strike-breakers at the hands of the citizens of Empoli was not the result of mob action, but of criminal intent on the part of each and every worker involved. It has held that every one of the one hundred and thirty-two defendants is individually responsible for the killing, and the life imprisonment is the most lenient sentence which can be imposed.

Lawyers for the defense will now be granted a few days to plead. They will review the events which led to the riots—the starving condition of the Tuscany railroad workers, the desperate attempt to win back decent living conditions by means of a strike. They will tell of the wave of fury that passed over the workers of Empoli when it was whispered that troops of Fascist soldiers were to pass thru the city on their way to Florence center of the Tuscany strike. They will tell how the citizens of the town, under the leadership of a group of Communist men and women, threw up barricades on the streets and opened fire on the black-shirts so that their brothers in Tuscany might be saved from starvation.

Fascists Are Murderers.

They will show, too, that of the Fascist leaders who have been responsible for the death of nine thousand workers since the beginning of the Mussolini dictatorship three years ago, not one is in jail. They will mention, particularly, the case of Maria de Vecci, now governor of Somalia, an Italian province in Africa, who still boasts of his exploits on the night in December, 1922, when he incited a band of Fascisti to rout the militant workers of Turin from their houses and to shoot them in the streets.

The prisoners have kept up a defiant spirit, in spite of the fact that they have been held in jail under the most terrible conditions ever since their arrest. During the trial they have been kept in one big cage, men and women alike, and have been forced to listen to the taunts and jeers of Fascist officials and sympathizers. At intervals they cry out to their tormentors: "Murders! Assassins! What have you done with Matteotti?"

"We Are Communists."

In reply to questions as to their political sympathies, the leaders answer only: "We are Communists!"

Meanwhile, the grip of the Mussolini dictatorship is tightening all over Italy. The prefect of Milan has sent a letter to the editor of "Unita," Communist daily published in that city, threatening supression if the paper does not change its attitude toward the Fascisti.

The circulation of "Unita" among the workers has already been stopped nine times. Copies of the paper have been taken from the mails and burned in the streets by government officials.

Miners Host Deney.

An anti-Fascist demonstration took place yesterday at Valdarno, center of the militant miners of Italy, when Mussolini's attempt to address the workers was hooted down with cries of "Long live the Communists!"

Mussolini received a warm welcome from the mine operators of Valdarno, to whom he said:

"Let those who oppose us remember this—that we have our black-shirts always at hand. If the opposition dares to raise its head, we will crush it as we would crush a handful of dead leaves."

"Avanti," organ of the Maximalists, who have become more radical since the death of Matteotti, has also been threatened with suppression.

EMPIRE POLICY OF U. S. BRINGS RUIN TO ISLAND

Poverty and Hunger Lot of Virgin Islanders

(By The Federated Press)

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Sept. 7.—"We often wonder whether we are living under the sovereignty of a free republic or that of a despotic monarchy of the 16th century," declares The Emancipator, organ of the native population of the Virgin Islands. This West Indies group was bought by the United States from Denmark for $25,000,000 in 1917. American naval rule has reduced the inhabitants to misery and poverty.

Misery Rampart.

The U. S. commission's report on the Virgin Islands states: "Unemployment, inadequate wages, and even hunger appear on every hand. There is claim even that starvation is just around the corner, unless means can be had for immediate economic rehabilitation, and, altho the commission found no record of any case of actual starvation, the situation was one to appall the most casual observer.

"The people complain that they could not be disfranchised by any literacy qualification however high, because 98 per cent of them are able to read and write, but that they are disfranchised by a money property qualification with which they cannot comply, because of wages ranging from 20 to 40 cents per day."

Try to Stop Speaker.

American police attempts to stop Rothschild Francis, editor of The Emancipator, from speaking at an advertised meeting were stopped only when the acting government secretary told the police inspector to end the illegal interference. Lesser speakers have less luck.

Czecho-Slovaks Are Raising Funds to Start Party Paper

A very lively meeting of Czecho-Slovak branches held Friday, August 29, at Novak's Hall, raised $545.00 to establish a Czecho-Slovak Communist paper in Chicago and also further decided that every member of the federation should be asked to loan $10.00 for the financing of the paper.

This is the effective and spirited answer of the Communists to the splitters and fakers of the Spravedlnost outfit who were recently expelled from the Workers Party. Fifty-five members were present at the meeting and discussion on the publication of weekly paper, took up most of the time.

The Federation Bureau was emphatic that the paper be published in order to fight the gang which controls the Spravedlnost and to carry the message of Communism to the workers. Discussion was animated. Nearly all the members took part with the result that the proposition of the Federation Bureau for the establishment of a paper and means of raising the funds was unanimously carried.

Federation Bureau is taking steps to inform the other branches thruout the country to follow the lead of Chicago Czecho-Slovak members in raising funds. Local Chicago Workers Party donated $25.00 to the present fund.

The Czecho-Slovak comrades also realize that to maintain a real Communist organization the comrades must be organized on the shop nuclei to put over the industrial registration of the party.

Educational Courses Of Workers Party Start This Wednesday

Two educational courses for Workers Party members and sympathizers will begin this week in the Freiheit Hall, on the second floor at 722 Blue Island Ave., Wednesday, Sept. 10. Comrade Helene Woolf will hold the first session of her class in English for foreign born workers. Thursday, Sept. 11, is the date set for the opening of Comrade Arne Swabeck's class in Trade Union Tactics. Classes begin at 8 p. m. sharp.

The course in English will last ten weeks and the enrollment fee is $2.

Educate yourself for the struggle! Enroll now. Get in touch with Manuel Gomez, Educational Director, by writing to Room 307, 166 W. Washington street, or calling up State 5953 on the telephone.

Denounce Mobilization Day

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7. The Congregational ministers of the Bay district have joined the Methodists in denouncing Mobilization day. In a resolution forwarded to Washington they call the move "a stupendous misdirection of effort" and "a military gesture which will tend toward a militarization of our citizens especially our youth."

TO PROPAGANDIZE WORKERS BY RADIO SPEECHES AND ADVANCE ANTI-LABOR LAWS IN ILLINOIS

The Illinois Manufacturers' Association is pro-profits and "anti" everything that tends to give the workers a greater share of what they produce. The organization claims to have 2,800 members on its books, including all biggest and most notorious open shop firms in the state.

The association has just sent out a circular, which is one of the most brazen documents ever issued by American bosses. It shows exactly where the I. M. A. stands on even the most elementary measures for the relief of labor.

The circular declares that the I. M. A. intends to fight the anti-injunction bill before the state legislature. It will also fight the one-day-rest-in-seven bill, the eight-hour bill, the minimum wage bill, the old-age pension bill, and the bill calling for better workmen's compensation for industrial accidents.

These are the bills which the I. M. A. is fighting. It is also working for the passage of certain bills. For instance, anti-strike legislation (under which strikes would be declared unlawful) and legislation making it easier for employers to sue unions in the courts. The I. M. A. circular further states that the association is "working energetically for a state police law," which would give us a state constabulary similar to the labor-hating "cossaks" of Pennsylvania.

As a scheme to make the workers of Illinois more docile, the I. M. A. is about to launch a campaign of organized radio propaganda. Beginning November 11, daily noontime programs will be broadcasted in the name of the association, thru Station W. M. A. C. Packers and manufacturers thruout the state are planning to install receiving sets in their plants so that employees can be regaled with employer propaganda spiced with music during their lunches.

The features of the noonhour programs will be "snappy talks on Americanization, wages and production, thrift, home ownership, taxation, and legislation, the popular man in the factory, the agitator, mutual interest of Capital and Labor," etc., etc.

Automobile Mechanics Notice!

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 7.— A drive to organize automobile mechanics has been initiated by the Machinists' union of Milwaukee.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

WAR SCENES ARE NOW RE-ENACTED IN WASHINGTON

Form Organization for "Defense" Day

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 7.—Conditions in Washington are similar to what they were eight years ago, when volunteers of every description paraded and were taught the tricks of military tactics. The victims of the next war are busy every evening, marching in the various sections of the city, to the tune of "make it snappy."

Militarists of U. S. Unite.

Amongst the organizations that are preparing for "the first day of the next war," Defense Test Day, Sept. 12, are the following. The Bar Association of the District of Columbia, the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, the Middle Citizens' Association, the Order of the Founders and Patriots of America, the War Mothers, the National Guard Association, Sons of the American Revolution, Military Order of the World War and the Boy Scouts organizations. In addition to these hopefuls there are, of course, all the regular army and navy groups that are already "prepared," and who supply officers to train the citizens as to the proper manner in which to lift the feet and hold the head.

REDSKINS AREN'T REDS BUT EMPLOY DRASTIC ACTION

White Foreigners Taking All They've Got

(By The Federated Press.)

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., Sept 7.—The British Columbia Indians of the Kitwhanchol valley north of Prince Rupert are not taking any chances on the benevolence of their white brothers and are driving off all interlopers settlers, who are trying to push this last remnant of the vanishing red man onto the government's reservation and take over their lands.

Scared Them Away.

The Indians chased away tourists this summer and ordered the whites who attempted to squat upon their lands to move on. The order was given so forcibly that none of the white settlers cared to stay and face the consequences of disobeying it.

Some years ago the government without the consent of the Kitwhanchol tribe, threw open their lands for sale to the whites. The whites rushed to put in their claim stakes. The Indians wasted no time in fruitless appeals to courts and commissions, but promptly pulled up the stakes and threatened the white usurpers with violence if they remained. None remained and the matter was held in abeyance until this year.

Charles Clifton Perry, Indian agent, who spent 16 years among the northern tribes of British Columbia states that the Indians fear the white man's coming and are determined to hold their land at all costs.

Not Desperadoes. But—

"The Indians of Kitwhanchol valley are not desperadoes," said Perry. "They are a law-abiding people but they fear that what has hapened to their brothers in other parts of British Columbia and the whole of the North American continent, will happen to them if they allow the white men to get a foothold on their lands."

"The republicans and the democrats will do nothing to relieve the situation, except to introduce bills which obviously will not pass both houses of Congress, or such as will only help the big fellows in the end. Our progressive politicians are also worse than useless, so long as they hang on to the coat-tails of the old parties, because these progressives are simply assisting in the sham battle.

"No matter what beautiful phrases this or the other great progressive leader may use in order to get the votes of the 'plain people,' the policy of both, and especially of the republican party, is invariably dictated by Wall Street and high finance."

Yet, today, three months after this speech Berger has driven his party to become part and parcel of the LaFollette movement, of the LaFollette organization which is supporting many republican and democratic congressmen, senators and governors who are avowed enemies of the workers. In Wisconsin, for instance, LaFollette is backing Governor Blain who is scores of miles away from progressivism. In New York, for example, LaFollette is supporting the republican congressman Dickstein against the socialist Meyer London. In Montana, LaFollette and Wheeler are behind Senator Walsh whom the State Federation of Labor has denounced in its last covention as a bitter foe of the workers and as the author of the vicious state criminal syndicalist laws.

What About Members?

What will the rank and file of the Socialist party say to this complete right-about-face of their leaders? How will they look upon their party committing hari-kari as an independent political organization? Is there no way in which they can square accounts with their misleaders who have stabbed in the back the movement for independent working class political action?

Will they be satisfied to follow the leadership of and put their faith in LaFollette who has for years done everything in his power to thwart the attempts of the workers to organize themselves as a class to fight politically against their exploiters?

Merely to put these questions is to answer them for the class-conscious workers of the entire country.

WORKERS' STRAW VOTE

THE DAILY WORKER,
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

The workers employed in the shop of.....

.....have taken a straw vote on the presidential candidates, and the vote was as follows:

WM. Z. FOSTER ..... votes; LaFOLLETTE ..... votes;
Workers Party — No Party

DAVIS ..... votes; COOLIDGE ..... votes.
Democratic Party — Republican Party

I certify that this report is correct:

Name: .....

Address: .....

AMERICAN LABOR LEADERS

"ALL over the world the labor movement suffers grievously from unscrupulous, self-seeking leaders, but nowhere so much as in the United States. Here we are infested with breeds of them entirely without parallel anywhere else. Only in America can be found known crooks and convicted criminals functioning as labor officials, many of whom have become enormously wealthy thru robbing both employers and workers. This condition is a world scandal; the active unionists of other countries simply cannot comprehend it. They have their reactionaries aplenty. But such open thievery is peculiar to the United States alone. It is a drastic proof of the low level of our labor leadership."—William Z. Foster.

"MOBILIZATION DAY" PREPARATIONS OF UNITED STATES ROUSES EUROPE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

VIENNA, Sept. 7.—One of the most popular topics for conversation here is the "Mobilization Day" plans of the United States. The fact that somewhat similar exercises have been announced to take place in Japan enables the people of Europe, acquainted with militarism to put two and two together.

Everyone is asking what this mobilization of armed and industrial resources mean, by a nation so professedly peaceful. One of the newspapers prints a headline saying: "Military Test Mobilization in America and Japan."

EARN YOUR COMMUNIST MEMBERSHIP STAMP BY GETTING A NEW MEMBER FOR THE PARTY AND ANOTHER READER AND SUBSCRIBER TO THE DAILY WORKER.

ARREST WORKERS PARTY SPEAKERS IN DENVER, COLO.

Mass Meeting Stopped; Mother Bloor Arrested

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 7.—A free speech fight is on here due to the breaking up of a Workers Party street meeting and the arrest of the speakers by the chief of the City Hall Secret Service, Ed. Young.

Ella Reeve Bloor was chairman of the meeting. She had just finished introducing Stanley J. Clark, the first speaker of the evening, when Chief Young walked up to her and asked for her permit. As soon as the permit was handed to him he pocketed it and informed Comrade Bloor that it had been revoked and there was to be no meeting.

Bloor and Clark Arrested.

Comrade Bloor asked Clark to proceed with his address. "As chairman of this meeting," she said, "I ask you to proceed under your constitutional rights." Clark spoke two words and both he and Comrade Bloor were arrested. William Deitrich then took the platform and after a few words he too was arrested. While the secret service man Young was calling the patrol wagon, James P. Ayres talked for ten minutes. Young failing to show up again, Comrade Bloor asked the crowd whether they wanted the meeting continued. All the 500 present raised their hands in favor of continuing the meeting. Clark again mounted the speakers' stand and spoke for ten minutes when the officers arrived led by Young and took all the speakers to jail in a patrol wagon.

Meeting Continued Indoors

Mrs Clark and Mrs Deitrich led the crowd to the Machinists Hall where Mrs Clark made a fine talk before a large audience.

All the speakers were let out on bail that night and the trial was set for the next morning.

Stanley Clark is a very sick man and that night he was very ill but he appeared in court with the rest of the defendants the next morning. The case was postponed until a few days later because the defendents' lawyer was out of town. It is learned here thru reliable sources that all the city officials are Ku Kluxers, and the breaking up of the meeting was a deliberate denial of the rights of free speech.

The newly organized Young Workers League is vitally interested in this free speech fight. Many of them attended court and all are helping with the protest meetings the first of which was held at the Labor Lyceum.

SPECIAL MEETING NORTHSIDE ENGLISH BRANCH TONIGHT!

Important special meeting will be held at Imperial Hall, corner Halsted and Fullerton. All members are urged to attend and bring their signed petitions with them. Meeting starts at 8 p. m. Come early.

Class War Against Imperialist War

Editor's Note.—With the saber rattling administration at Washington exerting every effort to rouse the workers of the nation to what is thought to be a proper observance of "Goose-Step Day," Sept. 12, it is particularly timely to publish to-day the closing installment of the Manifesto, issued by the Fifth World Congress of the Communist International on the Tenth Anniversary of the World War. It is as follows:

* * *

VI.

AT this period of sharp decline in the development of the productive forces of Europe, military technique indefatigably continues its work. Guns of incredibly long range, are being manufactured. Machine guns and automatic rifles exceed the power of infantry fire many times. Dynamite is giving way to poison gas. Aviation, combined with chemicals, prodigiously increase the areas of the destructive action of war. The difference between the military and the civil population is effaced. Coast fortifications and island bases can no longer be defended. Mighty aggregations of humanity, like Paris and London, are open to destruction from above. The terrors of the last war are as the play of lightning on a summer's eve, as compared with the thunder-bolts of the approaching storm. All the technical power of capitalist society, and all its social barbarity, the insolubility of its contradictions, embittering the ruling classes against each other, and all together against the proletariat, are like an accumulation of a mass of poisonous and explosive substances, hanging over the head of ill-fated Europe, as a whole, it would mean the destruction of civilization, the wreck of all the hopes of liberation for which several generations of workers have already fought.

Everything that is being done today in human society—In the realm of economics, politics, science, or art—is of secondary importance in connection with the gigantic task of finding some way to prevent a new war and thus to save humanity from degeneration and ruin. This can be done only by the workers under the leadership of the revolutionary proletariat. No repressive measures, no forces of militarism will avail, if the workers present a united front against war. The machines of murder are harmless, until they are set in action by a human being. And the overwhelming majority of these human beings are workers and peasants. This is you, workers! On you depends the fate of war, and consequently, your own fate.

The struggle against militarism cannot be put off until war actually breaks out, for then it is already too late. The struggle against war must be carried on right now, immediately, from day to day. The first requirement of such a struggle is to refuse confidence and support to the bourgeois governments, to vote against the budget. Any socialist who enters a bourgeois ministry, any deputy who helps a bourgeois government to collect its taxes, or who draws the workers and peasants into military service—is a traitor and a villain. There can be no place for such a person in the ranks of the working class. We must drive from the trade unions every leader who directly or indirectly aids, justifies, or supports militarism. We must clean the proletarian organizations of political strike-breakers. We must remind all workers, men and women of how the last war was prepared, and how the Social Democrats for four years helped imperialism to destroy the workers and peasants. We must appeal tirelessly to the youth of town and country. The inhuman suffering of their fathers and older brothers during the imperialist war must be transformed in the worker and peasant youth to a burning hatred of the perpetrators of the war. It is necessary that the youth enter the capitalist armies with an inward determination to turn their arms not against their brother-proletarians, but against their class enemy, the bourgeoisie. We must labor tirelessly to break down those artificial walls which exist between the army and the working class. We must maintain a close connection with the soldiers in the army. We must carry of truth reaches every soldier. We must unite the class conscious soldiers into small groups. We must establish a revolutionary organization on an iron foundation from the most courageous and devoted of the proletarian fighters. We must direct our attention to the military factories. In each of these there must be a strong militant nucleus, which will be capable at the decisive moment of carrying with them all the working masses. The bourgeoisie fear neither pacifist preaching, nor the Social Democrats' threat of a general strike. But the bourgeoisie tremble with hatred and fear at the news of the formation of each little illegal nuclei on the railroads, in the military factories, and especially in the army and fleet. The bourgeoisie know that there is not a single worker or peasant or soldier who wants war, and that it is only their lack of organization and self-confidence which forces them to go submissively to war. The bourgeoisie know that a small but strong nucleus in each regiment may place a decisive role at the decisive moment. This is the reason that every capitalist government, whatever its democratic guise, persecutes mercilessly all real revolutionary work, and this is the reason that it is the duty of every revolutionist to increase his efforts in this direction tenfold. Only that party which from day to day carries on an unremitting struggle against the bourgeoisie, that party which rallies the workers to the struggle; which has learned to hate the domination of capital; which infects the masses with this hatred; which prepares the necessary forces and means for the combat; which establishes bases of support for the evolution in the barracks—only such a party can really fight against war.

The Communist Parties of every country may be such a directing force. The militant association of all these parties constitutes the Communist International. We, the delegates of this International, gathered together for the fifth time for our world—Congress, in Moscow, which has been made free by the efforts of the workers and peasants, address to you, workers of all lands, these words of reminder, of warning, and of summons!

Victory is only possible if there is a will to victory, and a faith in victory. Victory can only be attained by rallying around the party which is eager for victory, and can lead to victory.

Workers! Let the question of war be the touchstone by which you test the loyalty of parties and leaders. Truly, the workers have been hoaxed long enough by the words, the phrases, the promises, the bombastic lies of the demagogues. Demand action, examine the facts. Down with the charlatans of pacifism who in time of peace carry on a wordy war against war, but at the first sound of shot are transformed into chauvinist jackals. Down with those socialists who rail against the oppression of the bourgeoisie in the newspapers and at meetings, and then in the hour of difficulty for the bourgeoisie, become their staunchest supporters. Down with the yellow Amsterdam trade unionists who take their orders from the bourgeoisie ministers and the magnates of capital. Down with those traitors who vote the money for war, who help to build capitalist armies to defend the bourgeoisie state, who support colonial slavery, and thus prepare new wars. Down with the Menshevist leaders of political and trade union organizations. Drive them away, expose them, boycott them, force them out of the ranks of the working class. Watch them sharply, size them up, place no confidence in their words, but examine their deeds—and you will become convinced that there is only one party which is ready to lead you into battle and able to guarantee victory—the Communist-Party. Look at Russia. In this vast but backward country, the revolutionary party created by the genius of Lenin was able not only to overthrow its own bourgeoisie but to defend the government of the workers against innumerable enemies. In the face of enormous difficulties, consequent on the backwardness of the country, the low cultural level, and the enormity of the destruction produced by two successive wars, the workers and peasants are erecting alone the structure of the Socialist commonwealth.

You, the proletariat of England and America, could accomplish incomparably more in this direction than the proletariat of Russia, for you are more numerous, and your country is richer. In order that you may be an invincible force, you need only to realize your own strength, and to apply it properly. The International Communist Party will teach you to do this. Follow it!

And you, despoiled and oppressed peasants, come into our great union. The Peasants' International founded last year is devoting its forces wholly to the struggle against militarism and against the dangers of a new war.

Peasants of Europe! Farmers of America!

Tillers of the soil in every land! Your farms, the lives of your sons are at stake! Arise, unite, join with the revolutionary working class! There is no other course for you, no other salvation!

The women—sisters, wives and mothers— less noticeably perhaps than the men—but no less painfully, are weighed down by the monstrous burden of militarism and war. The destruction of the workers' family, the ruination of the farmers' homesteads, the four years of war, transformed the working woman into a beast of burden for capital. The war has left a terrible imprint on the hearts of mothers, wives and sisters. After all that the working women has experienced during these years, she must be in the first ranks in the struggle against war and capital.

Working Women! Peasant Women!

Your place is with us—we summon you, and we expect you.

The revolutionary education of the colonial peoples has become a question of life and death for the proletariat. If the bourgeoisie strive to support and perpetuate the oppression of the proletariat thru colonial oppression, then we, on our side, must bring about a revolt in the colonies to support the revolt of the proletariat.

National and race prejudices are the fruit of slavery and the sustenance of slavery. Chauvinism open or concealed, is the best prop of militarism and the surest means for the preparation of future wars. It is necessary to declare a merciless struggle against national prejudices and race superiority. Not only direct hostility, and a scorn and derision, but the patronizing condescending attitude of the white people toward the the yellow or black races, must be sharply condemned by the workers as a despicable breach of solidarity, as the worst kind of scabbing. We must teach the colonial workers to regard the white workers as their brothers. And to bring this about, the white proletariat must adopt a brotherly attitude toward the colored population of the colonies.

Proletariat of Europe!

More attention must be given to the colonial question, greater efforts, must be expended in revolutionary work in the colonies. In the very place where the bourgeoisie are hoping to find the most dependable support, we must deal our heaviest blows.

Colonial Workers!

Slaves of imperialism! Brothers! Arise to the struggle for independence! The Communist International is with you!

Our immediate and pressing task in the struggle against war is at the present time the struggle against the treaty of the capitalist tyrants which goes by the harmless name of the "Experts' Plan." And here, as everywhere, the first blow must be directed against the Social Democracy. They frighten the workers with the formidable forces of America, they demand from them submission and obedience. They predict the ruin of Europe, and first of all of Germany if they should fail to submit to American capital. We, the Communists, say to the workers of Europe—your only salvation is in an unremitting war against the plan of the experts, against its promulgators and supporters. You must clear the Social Democrats from your road, you must overthrow the bourgeoisie, you must take power into your own hands, you must unite the various sections of the economic structure of Europe, and direct them along the road to Socialism. If Soviet Russia has been able to defend herself victoriously for so many years against the capitalists of Europe and America, certainly the victory of the European proletariat is also assured if they, on seizing power, unite the European countries into a Soviet Federation, into a workers' and peasants' United States of Europe. Thus not only will European culture be rescued from decline and decay, not only will freedom and independence be guaranteed to the colonial and semi-colonial peoples, but a mortal blow will be dealt to the world autocracy of American capital. The revolutionary movement in America will receive a great impetus. The European Socialist Federation will thus become the cornerstone of the world socialist republic. Only then will human beings be able to think and act like real human beings; only then will world economy be established on a basis of solidarity and reason, and world relations be transformed into the fraternal exchange of material and spiritual wealth between the separate peoples and continents. War will be a thing of the past, since there will be no longer any reason for it. The armies and soldiers will disappear. All the efforts of human beings will be directed toward the enrichment of our earth, toward the improvement and adornment of human life.

Such is the task of the Communist International—a huge task, but not an impossible one. The road to its realization was indicated by Marx and Engels. It is the road of fierce struggle in each country against the National bourgeoisie, it is the road of combining the forces of the proletariat of all countries for the seizure of power and the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat. Whoever tells you there is another road is lying to you. The Communist International serves the interests of the proletariat in that it speaks the truth. Let that truth resound throughout the world like the tocsin of the revolutionary struggle!

Against war—against the bourgeoisie—against social treachery.

For the World Revolution of the Proletariat—for Communism!

The Presidium of the Fifth Congress of the Communist International.

Signed: Zinoviev, Chairman; Clara Zetkin, Stalin, Bucharin, Trotzky, (Russia); Thalheimer, Gebhardt, (Germany); Treint, Sellier, (France); Bordiga, (Italy); Smeral, Muna, (Czecho-Slovakia); Kolarov, (Balkans); Kraevsky, (Poland); Katayama, (Japan); Roy, (India); Stewart, (Great Britain); Dunne, (America). Secretariat: Platnitzky, MacManus, Neurath, Doriot, Stirner.

KU KLUX KIDNAPS DRUGGIST DEFIER OF 'EXILE' ORDER

Says Persecution Comes Because He Is Jew

FREEPORT, L. I., Sept. 7.—The Ku Klux Klan has shown the folks of Long Island that it can pull off a kidnapping stunt here as well as in the old south. The object of their demonstrations was a druggist, Ernest S. Louis, who defied a K. K. K. order to get out of town. Twelve days later a dozen men, who said they were klansmen, threw him into a car and carried him to a village, Hicksville, 12 miles away, where they released him. Louis is back in Freport awaiting the Klan's next move. The Kluxers accused him of attempting to seduce a little girl in his store. The police declared there was nothing in the story and Louis' wife says she was present at the time the alleged for the attack and no such thing occurred.

Louis says the secret order persecutes him because he is a Jew.

Swabeck's Class On Trade Union Strategy Opens

How many excellent revolutionary measures have been defeated in the American trade unions for the sole reason that their proponents did not know enough about the A. B. C. of trade union tactics to overcome the trickery of the reactionary officialdom!

Systematic education to do away with this state of affairs is the purpose of a five-weeks' study class in Trade Union Tactics, conducted by Arne Swabeck, beginning Thursday, September 11, under the auspices of the Educational Council of the Workers Party, Local Chicago.

Is Experienced Unionist.

Comrade Swabeck, in addition to being District Organizer of the Workers Party, is an experienced trade unionist. He is a member of the painters' union, and a delegate from his local to the Chicago Federation of Labor. He was a prominent figure in the famous Seattle general strike, which electrified the entire country in the winter of 1919.

A large enrolment is expected for the study class. It will be of unusual interest to all radical trade unionists, whether they belong to the Workers Party or not. Anyone desirous of joining the class should communicate at once with Manuel Gomez, Educational Director, 166 W. Washington St., Chicago (Telephone, State 5959, or State 7955). The fee for the five-weeks' course is $1.00.

The Juniors Again

The Vanguard group of the Junior Section of Chicago have a Communist surprise in store for Chicago.

September 21st is the day they have set to give you this pleasant surprise, and they have picked the famous Workers' Lyceum as a fitting place to pull it off.

Remember! Keep the date! September 21st—2 p. m. sharp—2733 Hirsch Blvd.

U. S. Navy Protects "Property."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. — The United States cruiser Rochester has been sent to Honduras for the "protection of lives and property" during the disturbances there. Imperialism will get its way.

Cahn Says Mouthful

"Unemployment is not alone an individual problem, it is a problem that concerns all society," admitted I. D. Cahn, chief statistician of the Illinois Department of Labor, commenting upon the 80,000 factory workers and many more miners and others who are unemployed in this state. "When savings are gone, then what?" he asks. Studies by the children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor indicate that there is a definite undermining of the standard of living. People get along on less than is sufficient to maintain them in health."

KUZBAS

IS successful and growing. It will take over new mines and a steel-mill next year.

KUZBAS

needs at once

25 pick miners
3 machine runners for "Jeffrey Shortwall"
3 pump attendants
3 Hoisting engineers
3 first class outside electric linesmen
1 switchboard attendant used to "Curtis" turbines
1 woodworking machinery operator
3 first class plasterers
3 first class bricklayers Etc., Etc.

Other workers will be accepted if contclass men.

Application forms sent on request.

Each worker needs $200 for fares and passport.

Terms of agreement two years.

Next Party Leaves October 1st

KUZBAS,

Room 402 799 Broadway

New York City

CLEVELAND SHOWS HOW TO RAISE EFFECTIVENESS OF PARTY UNITS THRU NEW PROGRAM OF ACTIVITY

CLEVELAND, Sept. 7.—What can be done in a branch of the Workers Party to increase the effectiveness of the work of the members is shown by the achievements in the Jewish branch of Cleveland, Ohio. The following quotation from a letter from Max Lerner, district organizer in Cleveland, tells the story of how a branch which was not functioning very well was turned into one of the most effective party units in that city.

Program Outlined.

"In respect to the entire program of action of the party, the district committee has decided to carry on a reorganization campaign in the district to make effective the program of action outlined. The motion as passed by the district committee is to the effect that every branch thru its Executive Committee go over its membership one by one calling before it those who are delinquent either in dues payment active participation in party work, attendance of meetings, etc., with view of dropping those who do not respond or who will not become active after their standing has been reviewed.

"In this we are following closely the method of reorganization accomplished very excellently in the Jewish branch of Cleveland. The Jewish Branch of Cleveland thru its Executive Committee went over all of its members and called the delinquents before it by registered letter or in some cases sent committees to visit same. When the membership found that the branch was pursuing its task of reorganization seriously the response was practically a hundred per cent. At one meeting I am informed, there was something like $150 in back dues paid up for one night. Also another the meetings of the Jewish branch are the best attended I have yet seen of all the branches we have.

Of the some sixty odd members very few are absent. The result of the reorganization has been that every member has been assigned to one of the committees outlined by the program of action and has to continually answer for his activities. Every member is now keyed up to get new members because of the requirements from himself. The best response in getting signatures on petitions has been from the Jewish branch. And only two members had to be finally dropped and they were dropped for non-payment of dues.

Every Member On Job.

"The successful reorganization of the Jewish branch has convinced us that the program of action of the party can be the more effectively carried out by getting every single member on the job thru the above reorganization means and in that way getting the necessary mass base, full committees in every respect as well as for the general party activities. In some branches the reorganization may mean the losing of a few members temporarily but we are sure that many more members will be gained as a result of the determination of the party to get to work and hold every member responsible for his being in the party."

The work accomplished has inspired the City Executive Committee of Cleveland to go about the reorganization of the whole party organization of Cleveland in an effort to place the other branches on the same footing as the Jewish branch. What is being done in Cleveland, can be done by every party unit. We can increase the effectiveness of our work 100 per cent if we go at it earnestly and really make an effort.

You can get sample copies of the DAILY WORKER any time at the DAILY WORKER office.

Chicago Branches Reporting on Party Trade Registration

Fifteen branches of the Workers Party, Local Chicago, have sent in their Industrial Registration to date. This is a good start, but the others must get after the members and complete their registration also. The job must be completed by September 15, which leaves only 11 days for the branches to finish the job in good style. The branches which have made good with their Industrial Registration to date are:

Ukrainian Branch No. 2 (Burnside).
Ukrainian Branch No. 5 (Bridgeport).
South Slav .Branch No. 2 (South Chicago).
South Side English.
Douglas Park English.
Englewood English.
North Side English.
Italian 31st Ward.
Italian Cicero.
Polish South Side.
Lithuanian No. 5.
Lithuanian No. 2.
Russian (West Side).
Russian (East Chicago).
Bulgarian Branch.

Comrades, in filling out the registration cards, should be sure to fill in their place of work, as well as union affiliation, etc. The Industrial Registration will be of utmost value to the party. It shows where we can organize shop nuclei, what our trade union membership is, what the social composition of our party is, whether workers in the basic industries or office workers, etc.

Knowing the composition, affiliations, records of our members will make it possible to lay out the political, industrial and other work in accordance with the capabilities and possibilities of our membership. Let's know our party, individually and collectively. Send in your Industrial Registration at once to the Local Office, 166 West Washington Street, Room 303.

Fifteen branches in already. How many will it be tomorrow?

NOTICE TO CHICAGO COMRADES!

Branches that are in charge of street meetings, see that a couple of comrades are on hand by 7:30 p. m. with a platform or box in order to hold the corner. Some instances require getting there by 7 or 7:15 o'clock. Also see that the literature and petitions, both state and congressional, are on hand with comrades to take care of those. This week, you should have the leaflets advertising Anti-Mobilization Day.

Get your live comrades on the job!

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Home to Portugal.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Portugese distance aviators, Paes, Beires and Gouvila, who flew from Lisbon to Macao, departed for home today, having come to Europe by way of America.

Turks Have Blowout Too.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 7.—Several persons were killed and adjacent buildings were destroyed when a powder factory at Makri-Keny blew up today.

Flew to Bankruptcy.

CHRISTIANA, Sept. 7. — Ronald Amundsen, polar explorer, today filed a petition of bankruptcy as the result of losses incurred in his unsuccessful attempt to fly over the North Pole.

RIGHT WHERE YOU WORK!

The fellows with whom you discuss "politics" every lunch hour. The men who hold different views—and are not easily convinced.

Get their sub for

THE DAILY WORKER

With NEWS of everything that concerns Labor—ARTICLES, CARTOONS and STORIES. The DAILY WORKER will convince your shop mate.

GET THAT SUB—

RIGHT WHERE YOU WORK! And use this little sub blank for the job.

RATES OUTSIDE CHICAGO
$6.00 a year — $3.50 Six Months — $2.00 Three Months
$8.00 a year — $4.50 Six Months — $2.50 Three Months

RATES IN CHICAGO

I DID THE JOB
My Name .....
Street & No. .....
State .....

HERE'S MY SHOP MATE'S SUB!
for ..... mos. ..... Year
His Name .....
Street & No. .....
City ..... State .....

The World of Labor - Industry & Agriculture

JOBLESS GROWING AS NEW ILLINOIS MINES CLOSE UP

Thousands Out of Work in One County

By KARL REEVE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

HARRISBURG, Ill., Sept. 7.—Over three thousand coal miners are out of work in Saline County, one of the four biggest mining counties in the Southern Illinois coal fields.

The one mine which has been working, the O'Gara Coal Company mine, No. 15, owned by the New York Central Railroad, which has been employing 450 miners three days a week, is about to shut down.

One After the Other.

The Saline County Coal Company, mine No. 2 at Carrier Mills, normally employing 500 men, has been closed down for many months. Bluebird Coal Company mine No. 1, employing 350 men, the Dodds Coal Company mine, employing 150 men, and the Nason mine No. 2, employing 200 men, are all closed down.

The O'Gara mine No. 3, employing 500 men, O'Gara No. 9, employing 500, and O'Gara No. 14, employing 500, are also shut down completely, with no prospect of starting up this fall.

Carrier Mills, the southernmost point touched by the DAILY WORKER, is off the beaten track. It is composed of about 100 Negroes, and the rest of the 2,000 population are Americans from Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, and southern states. The people are more conservative.

Klan Is Strong Here.

The Klan is strong in Carrier Mills, including a large organization of the women inside the Klan.

WINDOW CLEANERS OF NEW YORK MOBILIZE THEIR ENTIRE TRADE FOR BIG ORGANIZATION CAMPAIGN

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The Window Cleaners' Protective Union Local No. 8, have sent out the following call to all New York Window Cleaners organized and unorganized, to attend an important mass meeting on Sept. 11, for the purpose of organizing all unorganized window cleaners and making preparations for improving their working conditions. We print the letter in part:

"Window Cleaners of Greater New York, Greetings:—The working agreements between the Window Cleaners Union and the Employers Associations are expiring in the very near future. It was due only to the activity of our Union that the wages of window cleaners were increased, the hours of labor shortened, and the working conditions improved. In the absence of the Union, window cleaners would be helpless against the organizations of the employers. This is borne out in trades similarly situated as ours in which the working men have remained unorganized.

"When our Union commenced its activities several years ago, the hours of labor were very long and the wages next to nothing. It now requires only a little more effort to establish decent living conditions for all window cleaners. . . .

"Do you want better pay for your work, greater security of employment, better safety of your lives and limbs?

"These matters will be considered by the organized and unorganized window cleaners of the whole city at a MASS MEETING, to be held at 217 E. 6th St., on THURSDAY, SEPT. 11, at 7 p. m. Do not forget to be present at this meeting. Come in large numbers so as to organize all your strength for the coming struggle.

"Fraternally submitted,

"The Executive Board of the Window Cleaners Protective Union."

NEED FOR CHILD LABOR ABOLITION SHOWN BY BUREAU

Industrial Accidents to Youth Continue

(By Federated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—While industrial tories are denouncing the child labor amendment, now in process of ratification by the states, because it permits congress in future to regulate the employment of children up to 18 years of age, a report by the children's bureau on a study made in Massachusetts, New Jersey and Wisconsin proves the need of just that protection.

Accidents Continue.

Industrial accidents to boys and girls under 21 years of age during one year, for which the state industrial accident boards allowed payment of compensation, totaled 7,478 in these three states alone. Thirty-eight of these accidents resulted in death, and 920 in partial disablement for life. In all the other cases, disability for at least seven days in the Wisconsin cases and at least ten days in the Massachusetts and New Jersey cases, was proven.

The children's bureau found that the largest percentage of accidents on power working machinery, and the most serious character of accidents occurred to workers of 16 and 17 years old. Children under 16 were prohibited by state laws from using the more dangerous machinery, while workers above 17 were better able to protect themselves. The children under 16, because of protective laws, had the smallest number of accidents.

Theatre Workers In Smoky City Win Wage Raise

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 7.—The representatives of the local unions of musicians, operators and stage hands at the expiration of the existing contract and after numerous conferences with the theatre owners, succeded in compelling the Theatre Owners' Association of Pittsburgh to sign the new contract giving the theatre workers the wage increase demanded.

Many theatres closed automatically as soon as the old contract expired. When the aristocratic Nixon Theatre was forced to postpone the opening date, the owners decided that the unions were really determined and they hurried to sign up before the strike took on greater proportions.

It is an undisputed fact that the organized theatre employes of Pittsburgh are the worst paid of their craft in America, and while the increase is far from what they are entitled to, the fact is proven that an increase can be gotten, and as one of the men remarked, "will be gotten every time hereafter."

Steel Workers Hungry; Bosses' Profits Grow

From 60,000 to 70,000 workers of the U. S. Steel Corporation are now jobless. Those still employed have had a 12½ per cent cut in wages. Yet in the face of a production decline of more than 33 1-3 per cent, the profits of the corporation for the second quarter of 1924 totalled $41,381,939 (nearly $3,500,000 a week). These profits enable the fortunate stockholders to take not only the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share, but an extra 50 cents a share.

Ship Probers Split.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The special House Committee investigating the United States Shipping Board has split over a proposed recommendation for continued government ownership and operation of the government fleet.

Join the Workers Party!

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
645 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1027 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur st.

WORKERS' VICTORY WON IN 50 PCT. OF U. S. STRIKES

First Quarter of Year Shows Advance

(By Federated Press.)

Clear cut victories for the employes resulted in the case of nearly 50 per cent of the strikes which ended in the first quarter of 1924, according to reports received by the U. S. bureau of labor statistics. Employers, on the other hand, secured favorable settlements in less than 30 per cent of the conflicts.

308 Strikes in Three Months.

There were 308 strikes reported during the first three months of the year of which 221 ended during the quarter. This compares with 273 strikes reported and 160 ended in the first quarter of 1923. In 1924 the bureau ascertained the results in the case of 184 strikes as follows:—88 in favor of the workers; 54 in favor of the boss, 33 compromised and 9 in which the employes returned pending arbitration.

A glance at the location of these strikes shows that the industrial conflict was being fought chiefly east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers. Of the 308 disputes 255 occurred in this region. The largest strike of the period was that of 20,000 clothing workers in New York City against a wage reduction. It involved about 800 shops and ended successfully after running 12 days. Two other strikes of clothing workers, one involving 4,500 and the other 2,000 also ended successfully. Of the 308 strikes the clothing workers were responsible for 103, the building trades for 47, miners for 45 and the textile industry for 26.

Mostly for Increases.

Under the head of causes the report shows 56 strikes for wage increases, 45 against wage decreases, 28 in regard to agreements, 21 over the question of the open vs. the closed shop, 24 involving the question of union recognition and 19 over the discharge of employes.

The number of persons was reported in connection with 207 of these strikes, a total of 105,450 being involved.

WORKERS CREATE MUCH VALUE BUT GET IT IN NECK

Add Millions to Worth of Commodities

(By Federated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Workers engaged in the manufacture of saws received a smaller share of the value which they created in 1923 than in 1921, according to figures issued by the census bureau. The figures show that in 1921 3,758 workers produced $18,185,297 worth of saws and that after deducting the cost of materials the value they added in manufacture amounted to $11,705,384. For this they received $4,086,840 in wages. In other words each worker turned out work worth $3,090 and received $1,090 in wages, approximately 25 per cent of the value which he created.

In 1923 the industry employed 5,294 workers and produced $20,641,358 worth of saws, the value added to the material in the process of manufacture being $20,964,588. For this the workers received $6,706,765 in wages. This means that the average worker turned out work worth $3,890 and received $1,245 or only 32 per cent of it back in wages.

Negro's Home Bombarded.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—A Negro mail carrier, Samuel A. Browne, whose wife is a school teacher, blames the Ku Klux Klan for the persecution which he and his family have been subject to since they moved into their new home at West New Brighton. Browne's home was bombarded with a shower of stones recently after he had been sent a note to move which was signed "K. K. K."

CEMENT TRUST ENDORSEMENT MAY STICK TO HERBERT BAKER LIKE FLEAS TO A POODLE DOG

By OWEN STIRLING
(Special to The Daily Worker)

DETROIT, Sept. 7.—Herbert F. Baker, Cheboygan, Mich., farmer, candidate of the Conference for Progressive Political Action for the Republican nomination for governor in Michigan, may be imbedded up to his neck politically, not in quick-sand but in cement.

A letter has been made public from the Petosky Portland Cement Co. to its stock-holders urging on them an "earnest consideration" of Baker's candidacy. And the particular and peculiar reason why this unit of the cement trust is supporting of no interest at all to the Conference for Progressive Political Action. The reason is as follows: *)

Following Gary Plan.

The State of Michigan was in the midst of an ambitious road-building program, for which vast quantities of cement were necessary. But the cement companies in the state were charging "Buffington plus," a parallel of "Pittsburgh plus" in steel prices. Cement manufactured in Michigan was sold to the state for a price equal to the price at Buffington, Ind., plus the freight rate from Buffington. To break the combine, the state administrative board and Governor Alex J. Groesbeck leased a cement plant at Chelsea, Mich., and began making about a fourth of the cement necessary to the state's program. The state's plant has made 246,558 barrels since last spring.

But Herb Is Progressive!

This caused all but one of the private cement units in Michigan to cease quoting on a basis of "Buffington plus." That one exception was the Petosky Portland Cement Company, backer of Herb Baker. The Petosky Portland Cement Company explained in its letter to its stockholders that it had been able to obtain only a small fraction of the Michigan state business this year.

It continued: "All of the political aspirants in the field . . . . have not to our knowledge gone on record with regard to this particular situation. One, however, has clearly set forth his views on this subject, and we believe that from the standpoint of good government Herbert F. Baker's platform . . . . is deserving of your careful consideration before going to the polls on Sept. 9. We call particular attention to paragraph 5 of what Baker stands for, in the attached. Yours very truly, Petosky Portland Cement Company, John L. A. Galster, secretary-treasurer."

Herb Is for Freedom.

Baker's fifth paragraph attacks the state's cement building program. The paragraph is as follows:

"Government by conscription is read out of the category by Mr. Baker. He maintains that every person has the right to freely earn an honest living and that it is no part of the government's business to engage in private enterprise. He would, therefore, do away with the state-operated cement plant at Chelsea, with its 135 state prison employes."

Aside from the question of prison labor, herein raised, Baker, in the opinion of the Petosky Portland Cement Company, is going to bring "Buffington plus" back into Michigan in full force.

Cementing Friendship.

Baker might be indulging in duplicity here in an effort to win the cement trust support. He might go farther than Governor Groesbeck has gone toward smashing the trust. But the cement trust does not believe it is being fooled. The cement trust thinks he is more than "safe." It hails him as an ally.

The workers of Michigan are expecting a statement on this question, either from Baker or from the Conference for Progressive Political Action.

Ask Embarrassing Question.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has written the national board of the Y. W. C. A. to find whether that body approves of the action of the Y. W. C. A. Central School of Hygiene and Physical Education in barring Miss Lydia Gardine of East Orange, N. J., from enrollment because she is an American Negro. The attitude of the Christian body is challenged and both organizations on further similar cases is asked.

Your Union Meeting

Second Monday, Sept. 8, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Meeting Place
625	Boiler Makers, 5324 S. Halsted St.
14	Boot and Shoe Workers' Joint Council, 1949 Milwaukee Ave.
	Brewery Workers' Joint Ex. Board, 1700 W. 21st St.
201	Brewery Workers' 1700 W. 21st St.
1	Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, 910 W. Monroe St.
593	Club Hatchers, Hebrew, 3420 W. Roosevelt Road.
	Club Makers, 4003 Roosevelt Road.
70	Carpenters, 2705 W. 39th St.
14	Carpenters, 4020 W. Madison St.
181	Carpenters, 2040 W. North Ave.
199	Carpenters, S. C., 9139 Commercial Ave.
416	Carpenters, 505 N. State St.
1367	Carpenters, 1657 Clybourn Ave.
2506	Carpenters, 6434 W. Halsted St.
14	Cigar Makers' Ex. Bd., 166 W. Washington St., 7:30 p. m.
	Cooper's Joint Ex. Bd., 2525 S. Halsted St.
4	Engineers (Marine), 601 Capitol Bldg.
400	Engineers, 4643 S. Halsted St.
401	Engineers, 311 S. Ashland Ave.
569	Engineers, 180 W. Washington St.
629	Engineers, 180 W. Washington St.
645	Engineers, (H. R.), 2433 W. Roosevelt Road.
790	Engineers (Loc.), 2900 W. North Ave., 7 p. m.
50	Firemen and Enginemen, 5658 Southworth Ave.
7	Firemen and Oilers, 175 W. Wash.
37144	Gardeners and Florists, Neidorf's Hall, Hinsdale, Ill.
	Hod and Restaurant Empl's Joint E. Bd., 166 W. Washington, 3 p. m.
23	Ladies' Garment, 328 W. Van Buren
14	Lathers, 122 S. Western Ave.
444	Longshoremen, 355 N. Clark St.
	Machinists Dis. Council, 113 S. Ashland.
	Moulders Conf. Bd., 119 S. Throop
101	Painters, 2316 W. North Ave.
147	Painters, 19 W. Adams St.
194	Painters, Madison and 5th Ave.
252	Painters, 111th and Michigan Ave.
275	Painters, 2432 S. Kedzie Ave.
830	Painters, 20 W. Randolph St.
277	Pattern Carmen, Ogden and Superior.
452	Railway Carmen, 5252 S. Ashland.
1062	Railway Carmen, 88th and Commercial.
1162	Railway Carmen, 924 and Baltimore.
	Railway Clerks' Dis. Council, 165 W. Madison St.
276	Railway Clerks, 549 W. Washington St.
242	Railway Clerks, 165 W. Madison St.
549	Railway Clerks, Madison and Sacramento.
695	Railway Clerks, 75th and Drexel.
781	Railway Clerks, 549 W. Washington Blvd.
877	Railway Trainmen, 2900 W. North Ave., 7:30 a. m.
195	Retail Clerks, Van Buren and Ashland.
	Sailors' Union of Great Lakes, 355 N. Clark St.
20566	Scientific Laboratory Workers, City Hall, Room 713.
143	Signalmen, 2100 W. 51st St.
2	Switchmen, 322 Collins St., Joliet, Ill.
706	Teamsters, 220 S. Ashland Blvd.
	Trade Union Label League, 166 W. Washington St., 7:30 p. m.
270	Typographical, 180 W. Washington

*)Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

Yellow (S)Cabs Pile Up Dough for Employers

By the exploitation of scab labor, the Yellow Cab company and the Yellow Cab Mfg. Co., both Chicago corporations, have been able to pile up $1,114,782 for their bosses. The Yellow Cab Co. has a highly specialized spy system which prevents even a relative of an union worker from getting a job driving "yellows."

Julie Reinhardt Dies.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Julie Reinhardt, once an active young actress and worker for womans' suffrage, well-known thruout the country, died alone and embittered by the long later years of neglect which the world had shown her. She was 80. She spoke of the "monument the Womans' Party is erecting for Inez Milholland and told how she had worked for women's votes even before her famous co-worker.

Fight Over Estimates.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—A battle royal between the Navy Department and the Bureau of the Budget over the naval estimates for the next fiscal year opened here today.

CANADIAN BOSSES OUT TO KILL OFF EIGHT-HOUR DAY

Lumber Interests Lead the Move

By SYDNEY WARREN
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 7.—The timber bosses of British Columbia are seeking to squelch the eight-hour law which is to go into effect in this province next year. The eight-hour day measure, as passed by the present liberal government of this province, was nothing more than a bid for votes at the recent election, which returned the government by a bare majority. During the campaign the lumber interests had candidates on the tickets of the liberal, conservative and provincial party, who were recognized as being there for the purpose of safeguarding the interests of the timber bosses in the legislature.

Seek to Amend Law.

The boss lumbermen are now seeking to amend the law by having the clause prohibiting overtime deleted from the act. If this is done, it will completely nullify any benefits that the act may have, because, while eight hours would still constitute the working day, workers would be compelled to work for ten or twelve hours a day for the same wages, and if they refused be fired and blacklisted.

They are bewailing the fact that boom men were placed under the operations of the proposed eight-hour measure, because it would be impossible to have the booms securely fastened in that time. But loggers point out that this is the sheerest buncombe and that if more than eight hours are required to fasten a boom of logs there are plenty of idle boommen walking the streets of Vancouver who have the ability to perform their work within the stated time of eight hours, but who have been blacklisted because of the activity of unionism.

Organize Lobby.

The lumber and logging bosses of this province have organized a strong lobby to kill the eight-hour measure before it has a chance to operate.

Reds to Gather on September 20th for "The Young Worker"

The Jewish Local Propaganda committee of the Young Workers' League of Chicago, will give a concert and dance for the benefit of the official organ of the league, The Young Worker, on September 20, at the Workers' Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Boulevard.

This affair, altho arranged by all the Jewish branches of the league in this city, will be attended by the entire radical population of Chicago, if the sale of tickets already made is anything to go by. The tickets are only 35 cents and the doors will be open at 7:30 p. m. for all those who are anxious to be there early and take advantage of the excellent program that has been arranged.

The concert and dance is being arranged for a more than usually worthy cause, the benefit of the best radical paper in this country which is growing in circulation by leaps and bounds and which is already preparing to become a weekly publication by the first of the year, 1925.

Be at this affair in masses and mobs!

Shot Was Premature.

ROME, Sept. 7.—Denial that an attempt was made to assassinate Premier Mussolini while he was motoring from Acquapendente to Rome was printed today by the semi-official newspaper Tribuna.

The shots Sunday night were fired at other cars an hour before Mussolini's automobile passed the spot, according to the Tribuna.

FOR INSURANCE OF ANY KIND
CARL BRODSKY
1123 Broadway, New York City
Tel. Watkins 3626.

The Communist Candidates—Look Them Over!

SAM. T. HAMMERSMARK, Workers Party candidate for congress from the Seventh Congressional District, Chicago.

Born in Christiansand, Norway, Feb. 13, 1872. Age 52. Parents came to America when he was three months old. Lived on farm in Michigan 3 years. Attended grade and night schools in Chicago, meanwhile working in book store. Lived in Seattle and Tacoma 8½ years.

Appointed Western Organizer of the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association in 1917.

In 1919 appointed Secretary of Youngstown, Ohio, district in the great Steel Organization Campaign, headed by Wm. Z. Foster.

Elected Cook County (Chicago) Secretary of Farmer-Labor Party February, 1920.

Compiled and edited first two Labor Union Directories for the Chicago Federation of Labor, 1921.

Made coast to coast trips for the Federated Press, Friends of Soviet Russia, Labor Defense Council, Trade Union Educational League.

Has been member of Executive Board of Chicago Federation of Labor, and many times delegate to Chicago Federation of Labor from Retail Clerks.

Joined Workers Party August, 1923. At present Advertising Manager DAILY WORKER.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A STYLISH STREET SUIT

A GOOD MODEL FOR A SCHOOL DRESS

4851-4697. Two attractive models combine to make this Suit. Coat Pattern 4851, and Skirt Pattern 4697. Plaid suiting was used in this instance. One could also use Camels hair, Tweed, Velours or Kasha.

The Coat is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The Skirt in 7 Sizes: 25, 27, 29, 31, 33, 35 and 37 inches waist measure, with corresponding hip measure, 35, 37, 39, 41, 43, 45 and 47 inches. To make the Suit for a medium size, will require 6½ yards of 40 inch material. The width of the skirt at the foot is 1⅞ yard.

TWO separate Patterns mailed to any address on receipt of 12c FOR EACH PATTERN in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL AND WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

4875. Plaid gingham is here combined with white linene. This style will also be suitable for alpaca, crepe and linen. The sleeves may be in wrist or elbow length.

The Pattern is cut in four Sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. A 12 year size requires 3⅞ yards of 32 inch material. For collar and cuffs of contrasting material ⅛ yard 32 inches wide is required.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL AND WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The patterns, being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. If not become impatient if your pattern is

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.,
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year	$3.50...6 months	$2.00...3 months
By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year	$4.50...6 months	$2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE ..... Editors
MORITZ J. LOEB ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923 at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

280 Advertising rates on application.

Fake Maneuvers at Geneva

The parliamentary puppet show is a favorite method of diverting the minds of the workers from discontent and revolt. Now that national parliaments become more and more discredited, the international stage receives more of the spotlight. And surely there never was a more ludicrous farce than that now being performed at the League of Nations Assembly by the twin-stars of pacifist illusions—MacDonald and Herriot.

A furious battle of words is first put up, serving the double purpose of reassuring the respective bourgeois sections that their "socialist" representatives still hold the "national" interests before them, and at the same time rousing fear of a crisis that might result in war, in the hearts of the workers. Then, at the proper moment, "concessions" are granted that preserve the interests of the capitalist class, adjust rival claims by throwing additional burdens on the workers, and leave the workers so thankful that war didn't come that they may accept the new load without a struggle. That is the purpose and meaning of League of Nations debates such as we now see going on.

Whether it be J. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the so-called Labor Party, or Edouard Herriot, representing the bloc of petty bourgeois and socialist parties, or the personal agents of J. P. Morgan—one and all of these actors now treading the international stage are actuated by one motive only, to squeeze more profits out of the working class, to more firmly enslave the workers, and to load the entire burden of the war upon their shoulders. The only force that is organizing the struggle against this historic treachery is the international Communist movement.

Wall Street Is Not Afraid

Commenting upon Gompers' endorsement of the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket, the Magazine of Wall Street, under date of August 30, has the following to say:

"LaFollette's impeachment of the 'reds' led by Foster made his position perfectly clear to those in labor circles who were willing to follow a progressive platform but who balked at allying themselves with the exponents of the dangerous theories of Lenin and Trotsky. It is evident that this country has in no way to fear from such institutions as the American Federation of Labor. On the whole, American business can congratulate itself on the inherent good sense of the average American laboring man."

Almost an endorsement of LaFollette, this would seem, and it comes from an outspoken champion of Wall Street. Certainly Wall Street does not see any danger to itself in the wordy denunciations of the so-called progressives, and it frankly tells the world that it is not afraid of the Wisconsin senator, no matter how many votes he gets. On the other hand, Wall Street considers Foster and the Communists, no matter how small their vote, as a distinct menace to its own domination, as dangerous.

There ought to be a lesson in this editorial from the Wall Street magazine for the workers everywhere. It is the same lesson that LaFollette has been teaching with his every move, from the scuttling of the farmer-labor parties, the autocratic bossing of the Cleveland conference, his nomination of himself upon his own platform, his organizations of bankers, millionaires, and manufacturers as his chief backers, down to his surrender to Gompers in the alignment with reactionary state politicians—namely, the lesson that LaFollette merely represents another section of the capitalist class, that he does not represent the workers and farmers, and that the latter are making suckers and fools of themselves by supporting him, while Wall Street laughs.

A Fighter for Communism

There will be thousands of workers who will feel a pang of sorrow at the news that Charles Brower is dead. For years one of the active workers in the Communist movement in and around New York City, he was also known as an indefatigable educator in the principles of Marxism, equally popular in the class room and on the lecture platform. His ability on these lines was equalled by his devotion to the cause. His sudden death was a real blow to the Communist movement as well as a personal loss to hundreds who had worked with him.

At the memorial meeting, to be held on September 10 at Brownville Workers Hall, 1844 Pitkin Ave., where Comrades Ludwig Lore, Juliet Poyntz, and Noah London will speak, the comrades of New York and vicinity will be speaking for the entire Workers Party in acknowledging the valuable services, the loyal devotion, and the personal esteem and affection, which were centered in the activities of Charles Brower and which make his untimely death a cause for sorrow among wide circles of the revolutionary movement.

Indecent Exposure of the S. P.

It has been a matter of common knowledge among the militant workers that the Socialist Party is thoroughly petty bourgeois. It has remained for the past year to produce an S. P. of which not only is this true, but which feels a pride in the shameful fact. Today the socialists take their signs of shame and boldly exhibit them in the market place as recommendations for support.

Consider, for example, the following, culled from the New Leader, weekly organ of what remains of the Socialist Party, under date of August 16:

> Frank Ehrenfried lends to the Socialist ticket a very substantial measure of strength. As a young man he entered the United States Army and did five years of border service in Montana; he was honorably discharged. He has for many years been a jeweler, and has been president of the Retail Jewelers' Association. He is prominent in masonic circles.
>
> This would have no particular importance, taken by itself, but expressing as it does so typically the present sense of values of the Socialist Party, it becomes almost a classic. Mr. Ehrenfried is looked upon as a pillar of strength of the socialist ticket because he is a small merchant and a leader of small merchants, and because he is prominent in the circles of a bourgeois secret society. A working man on the ticket, bringing none of these great "recommendations," would certainly be out of place. The Socialist Party has worn out its last shreds of working class clothing and, unless it quickly obtains a complete bourgeois cloak, will be in danger of arrest for indecent exposure.

Gompers' Intellectuals

Samuel Gompers has a pose of opposition to "intellectuals" in the labor movement, with which he belabors all groups who do not accept his blackly reactionary policies. That it is nothing but a pose is demonstrated in a hundred ways, not the least of which is his own employment of renegade "intellectuals" from the revolutionary movement. Two of his particular pets, who do most of his writing for him, and otherwise prostitute their "intellects" for so much per, are Chester Wright and William E. Walling.

In the current issue of Gompers' house organ, Walling has an especially blatant piece of "intellectual" bunk, that gives the measure of the mighty thinking machines that get upon the pay roll of the arch-reactionary. Writing to the text that "American labor leads the world," Walling boasts that the Gompers' policy uses "all political parties for its purposes instead of losing its political independence and identity in one party," and that thru this all-party method American labor "leads the world." "Non-labor intellectuals," he says, must be excluded from leadership to accomplish this tremendous result.

That "non-labor intellectuals" of the type of Walling must be repudiated by the labor movement, is true enough, altho Walling didn't mean that. He meant the intellectuals who disagree with Gompers. Without defending Walling's rivals for the title of intellectual, it must be stated that few of them indeed can descend to such depths of triviality and servility as does Walling.

At a time when every child is realizing that political parties are expressions of class interests, when even the middle class is struggling to create a party of its own in the LaFollette movement, and is dragging Gompers & Co. along with it, when the personal control of Morgan over the republican and democratic parties is apparent to the world, an "intellectual" repeats to the workers, in the name of Gompers, that they have a method of using "all" parties in the interests of labor. Intellectual bankruptcy could hardly be more complete.

One grain of truth is there, when seen from the proper angle: Gompers does use all parties—true enough—but it is for the purpose of selling the interests of the working class to the highest bidder, and not for the purpose of fighting for the interests of the working class.

Berger and Dawes

"Thanks to the Dawes plan," says the Milwaukee Leader, organ of Victor Berger the socialist, "socialism will triumph. The experts' plan would never have been adopted but for the socialists. It would never have become the basic law of European economy with Poincare, Lloyd George or Ludendorff in power."

A brazen boast of treachery to the working class of the world was never more open than this. The road to "socialism" of the brand of Berger, lies in surrendering the working class to the control of J. P. Morgan. Berger says this in so many words. The European socialists accepted the Dawes plan, he says, "because it gave them a chance to force European imperialism under the yoke of American bankers."

It is hard to imagine more miserably puerile justification for this treachery than the plaint that, while the socialists of Europe were afraid of their own capitalists and could not overthrow them, once these European masters are tied to Morgan, then the socialists will boldly defy J. Pierpont, turn the Dawes plan into a socialist instrument, and establish "peace and justice." This they begin by denationalizing the German railways and abolishing the 8-hour day.

Even LaFollette, whose program is essentially the same internationally as that of Dawes, is not so servile as Berger. He at least tries to make some political capital out of denouncing Morgan's plan, even if he accepts it in principle. He hides his shame, while Berger flaunts it before the world. And LaFollette is frankly capitalist, while Berger still pretends to speak for the working class. The Bergers and MacDonalds make better servants for Dawes than members of their own class.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'Flaherty

(Continued from Page 1)

then make terms with one of the rival bandit generals.

* * *

THUS would the present Peking government be punished for ignoring the threats of our bewhiskered secretary of state and the puny strike-breaker who lends sanctions to his schemes. The first act of the new Chinese administration would be to cancel the China-Russia treaty on some pretext or other. In the meantime each of the capitalist powers that have troops in China would find some pretext for invading the country and exact some well-worth-while concession as the price of evacuation.

* * *

BUT things may not turn out as planned. Soviet Russia cannot be treated today with the same lack of consideration as was shown by the robber nations in 1919 when sundry bandits were hired to invade her territory. Today Soviet Russia has a powerful Red Army and also the good wishes of the masses of the Orient who have for the first time found a country that is interested in their welfare. The American workers may have difficulty following the situation in China owing to the philological difficulties involved. It is sometimes hard to figure out without the aid of a map whether Hiangstu or Chekiang are persons, places or things, or whether Wu Pei Fu is a general or the name of a new game. But the capitalists are not frightened away from the profits to be derived from the exploitation of China by linguistic obstacles. They can get a Chinese boss to swing a lash over a Chinese coolie and the money wrung out of the poor body of the coolies can be squandered where some other language is spoken.

* * *

AMERICAN warships are in China. They are in Honduras. They are in Mexico. They are in Brazil. They are in Chile. They are wherever the interests of the American capitalist class demand their presence. This boasted haven of the oppressed, the United States has today become the world's Simon Legree, the big bully that signs communications to weak nations with a sword. And the American workers who shrug their shoulders and joke about the war in China will laugh with the wrong side of their mouth some day when they are called on to defend the oil wells of the Standard Oil Company, of the loans of the House of Morgan.

* * *

THERE is an old saying that "the eyes of the fools are on the ends of the earth." But like many old sayings it is out of date. The eyes of the capitalists are on the ends of the earth, but they don't want the workers to look beyond their own national boundaries until it is necessary to fight "for democracy" somewhere else. Capitalism knows no country. It is international. It will invest its dollars wherever it can make profit. It knows no religion. It will hire the labor power of the Mohammedan, the Buddhist, the Bush Baptist or the Holy Roller as well as that of the Catholic, Protestant and the 57 other varieties of Christianity.

* * *

THE workers must take a leaf out of the capitalist's book. They must look on the workers of all lands and of all races as their brothers. As the capitalist system has today encircled the globe, the workers must build up an international organization to wrest the reins of power from capitalism and abolish the system of exploitation that has turned this earth into a veritable hell for the great majority of its inhabitants. The Communist International, with sections in almost every country in the world is the only international organization having for its object the overthrow of the capitalist system. The class-conscious workers of this country should join the Workers (Communist) Party and help to overthrow the American capitalist system, the most brutal in the whole world. In this way they can make a real contribution to the task of eliminating the horrors of war by removing its cause.

* * *

THE Honorable James M. Curley, mayor of Boston, makes it quite clear that he is not a pacifist. Everything that America has won, was won by the sword, he declares, in a letter turning down a request for a permit to hold an anti-war demonstration on Sept. 12, which is set aside by the capitalist government as "Defense Day," name changed for psychological reasons from "Mobilization Day." There was a time when His Honor was not so militaristic, but that was before Woodrow Wilson "kept us out of peace" in 1917. Before then Curley found it to his advantage to say nasty things about the "coupon clippers of State Street" and the "Back Bay aristocracy.

* * *

BUT Curley made a tidy bit of money during the war by investing in munition factories, we are told. His rival, John E. Fitzgerald, cleaned up at least a million on Bethlehem Steel. Naturally, the war was alright and James M. Curley, who was born in humble circumstances in old ward 17, Roxbury, now owns a handsome residence in Jamacia Plain and is one of the new aristocracy. Why should he bite the hand that fed him so munificently? He made his money on war, and he does not go back on his friends. Boston is an Irish city and the Irish were not heartily in favor of the late war, and the Honorable Mr. Curley lost considerable caste among them by singing, "God Save the King" on State Street during an Allied celebration. But he made up for that concession to the exigencies of the moment, since then, by shouting for an Irish Republic, when the shouting was good for votes.

* * *

MAYOR CURLEY is considered a friend of labor in Boston. Did he not give the keys of the city to the International Ladies Garment Workers officials when that organization held its recent convention in Boston? But that does not prevent Boston police from arresting strikers who do picket duty, even members of the organization whose officials were given keys to the city. Curley knew that he could have given keys to the city jails to Sizman and Pearlstein and the pickets would stay there. Should the Irish nationalists who opposed the last war because it helped England look with cold eyes on Curley's militaristic pronouncements, His Honor will be able to prove to them that the pacifists are agents of the British government, who are trying to weaken the United States.

* * *

SO much for Mr. Curley. The Catholic Church, in America, even that propaganda auxiliary known as the National Catholic Welfare Council is strongly in favor of "Mobilization Day." The N. C. W. C. quotes Cardinal Mercier of Belgium to the effect that "Nobody can be a perfect Christian who is not at the same time a perfect patriot." So there you are. In order to be a perfect Christian you must be a good patriot, and a good patriot is one who is ready to slay his fellow man at the orders of a government that in turn takes its orders from the capitalists who own the country. The Catholic Church is one of the strongest bulwarks of capitalism. No wonder the capitalists, that is, the dominant faction, give the Ku Klux Klan the cold shoulder, except in local situations where they can use it to break strikes.

* * *

BUT as a dope joint the Catholic Church takes the biscuit. And the National Catholic Welfare Council was supposed to be progressive. But it went the way of the rest of the progressives. Most of the Protestant churches opposed Mobilization Day. They lack centralization and discipline, and are not nearly as useful to the capitalists as the older and more disciplined Roman church. But we must add that pacifists, be they sincere or insincere, cannot prevent war. The last war came even the majority opinion was against it.

* * *

ANOTHER war will come more sweeping in its destruction of life and wealth than the last war. War is inevitable under the capitalist system. Wars cannot be prevented by urging the capitalists to be good. The capitalists could not stop war and remain capitalists. The workers alone can stop war. They cannot do this by merely passing resolutions.

* * *

COMMUNISTS are not pacifists. And yet the aims of the Communists will, when realized, make peace possible. But as a major surgical operation is sometimes necessary in order to save the patient, a major surgical operation must be performed on society to remove the system which has outgrown its usefulness. Operations are not pleasant and are only undertaken as a last resort. Tinkering with the capitalist system a la Follette, or a la Hillquit will not abolish war. Outlawing war under capitalism is as feasable as outlawing wage slavery under capitalism. The "war to end war" that the notorious mountebank Woodrow Wilson represented the last world war to be, will be the class war. It will be interesting to see our bourgeois pacifists who now wail so loudly against the military preparations of their government join with the same government in its attempt to crush the revolution. They will be found lined up with the capitalist militarists as they were in 1917.

MIKE BOYLE: A "LABOR LEADER"

"He slips in and then slips out, leaving a trail of hopes dashed and opportunity cast away."

* * *

THE local unions comprising the Chicago Metal Trades Council, having agreed upon presenting a united front in demands for higher wages in the shops of the Chicago Surface Lines, opened negotiations with that street railway corporation.

Mike Boyle runs Local 134, Electrical Workers, which holds sway over the electrical workers in the south side shops. Local 713 has jurisdiction over the west side shops.

While discussions between the representatives of the workers and the corporation are under way, Boyle's lieutenants get busy in Local 713. A group of some 300 members, acting on a promise that under Mike Boyle's protecting wings the west side shop electricians will get more wages in the new agreement, decide to go over to Boyle's local, No. 134.

Representatives of the Metal Trades Council are, in the meantime, wearing a groove in the door sills of the corporation office. They are also paying repeated visits to Mike Boyle, urging him to hasten in the matter of setting a date for a full representative conference with the Surface Lines.

Patience gives way in the end, and the Metal Trades Council notifies Boyle that, unless something definite comes from him in the way of getting together, they will be compelled to go alone.

Mike Boyle makes no answer.

Whereupon the Council representatives go to the corporation without Boyle for a full conference without mands of the shopmen.

The Surface Lines officials, with beaming faces and great good nature, advise the Metal Trades Council representatives that Mr. Boyle, representing the Electrical Workers, had signed a new agreement providing for the old scale of wages.

Among the workers is anger, disappointment, chagrin; the rule of everyone for himself is put forth. Treachery triumphs.

The only ones satisfied in the deal are the officials of the Chicago Surface Lines, and, presumably, Mike Boyle.

I. W. W. Case Dismissed.

FRESNO, Cal., Sept. 7.—A victory for the I. W. W. was gained in Fresno, Cal., when cases against Miles McCabe, T. O. MacDonald, Mickey Hurley, John Martin and Emil Staffo, under charge of criminal syndicalism, were dismissed. All five were tried once with a hung jury, no evidence having been offered except their membership in the I. W. W.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Headquarters of Ku Klux Klan

IT was in front of the J. H. Smith garage, shown above, the headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan in Herrin, that the Klansmen inaugurated their new civil war in Williamson County, resulting last Saturday in the death, in a few minutes, of six men.

CHARGE OFFICER OVER THESE SOLDIERS IS KLANSMAN

HERE are the soldiers hurried into Herrin, last Saturday, following the inauguration of a new Civil War by members of the Ku Klux Klan. Prosecuting Attorney Delos Duty, of Williamson County, charged that Adjutant-General Carlos D. Black, in charge of these militiamen, as well as Governor Len Small, supported for re-election by the LaFollette presidential campaign, is a member of the Klan.

YALE UNIVERSITY
NOV 1924
LIBRARY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Communist Candidates For President: WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. For Vice-President: BENJAMIN GITLOW.

Vol. II. No. 146. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1924 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

SOVIETS ROUSE IRE OF HUGHES

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

RAMSAY MACDONALD says that the next conference for the reduction of armamenjs must be held in Europe. The last one was held in Washington and was not a pronounced success outside of providing the Republican party with a fig leaf in the form of the Four Power Pact to cover its militarist nakedness. The Washington conference concerned itself with an attempt at reducing unnecessary naval expenses. The powers that attended the conferences parked their daggers outside until the pow wow was over and went away thinking up new schemes to violate the spirit of the agreement. If anybody imagines that the political atmosphere is more peaceful today than it was before the Washington conference was held, he ought to be kept under observation.

* * *

THESE attempts on the part of the capitalists to reduce their armaments are really preparations for war. The bandit powers simply jockey for position. Was not the Czar of Russia the leader in building a Peace factory at the Hague? But he was everything but a man of peace as the documents exhumed by the Bolsheviki from the archives of his war office showed. After the other European capitalist heads are buried in a well or whatever kind of a last resting place a grateful proletariat will give them for taking their carcasses out of the picture, it will be shown that all the capitalist powers were busily engaged preparing for war, while pretending that they were anxious for peace.

* * *

THE Comunist International rightly branded the socialists of Europe as the agents of the capitalists in their efforts to restore the system back to health. The Dawes Plan is the first successful attempt of the international finance capitalists to reach a working agreement whereby prosperity could be restored at the expense of the weaker nations, the subject peoples, and of course, the working class. Now, that the Dawes Plan is accepted and beginning to bear fruit for the international capitalists, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald like a dutiful servant starts on another plan, or indeed an extension of an old plan, the League of Nations. He proposes to hold a reduction of armaments conference in Europe.

* * *

THE League of Nations, a rather clever scheme conceived by the wisest among the international capitalists, was left hanging like Mohammed's coffin, because of the refusal of the United States to have anything to do with it. Woodrow the Prophet broke his neck trying to shove it down the throat of the young and virile industrial capitalists of America who wanted to go and loot without the shackles of any world tribunal on their limbs. They are the Nietzscheans of the industrial world. But even since 1919, Wall Street has been taking in the slack rapidly, so that today capital and finance, finance capital are as close as two pickpockets, or still better, they have become amalgamated into one giant pickpocket whose fingers can reach to the ends of the earth.

* * *

WE can imagine Wall Street sitting back and laughing at the ranting patriots who froth at the mouth over the sugestion of joining the League of Nations. But when Wall Street has Europe in such a condition that joining the League of Nations will mean that the United States simply takes over the job of world overseer, openly and without camouflage, our patriots can be tickled dexterously under the chin with a golden feather and marvels in the way of a change of convictions will be accomplished. Poor George Washington's address will be hauled out as usual on the 4th of July, but the section warning against entangling alliances will be patriotically laughed at. The Republicans who dug Wilson's grave with his fourteen points will claim credit for capturing his League of Nations for the great honor and still greater profit of our country which means in the language of the White House, Wall Street. And Wall Street means capitalism. So much for that just now. There are other pressing problems.

* * *

AS for instance. It is reported on authority usually found reliable, that the Prince of Wales, heir to the throne of Great Britain and Northern Ireland (Southern Ireland having a decided taste for raw prince, is left

(Continued on Page 6)

Atlantic Coast Communist Drive On

FOSTER LEAVES FOR MEETINGS IN THE EAST

To Address New Jersey Mill Workers

William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for president, left here yesterday evening for the east, to fill speaking engagements in Elizabeth, Newark and Paterson, New Jersey, on the 10, 11th and 13th respectively.

Foster's Western tour made a big hit with the workers and farmers. Several of the capitalist dailies carried editorials holding him up to the public gaze as a menace to American institutions.

The Okmulgee Daily Democrat was particularly incensed because Foster advocated a Soviet Republic. It said: "William Z. Foster, Bolshevik candidate, says our next step will be into a Soviet—if he don't watch out his will be into jail."

A worker from Fort Smith, Arkansas, sent the clipping to the DAILY WORKER with the comment: "I was just wondering if the Okmulgee Daily Democrat thought Foster would worry a great deal if he was in jail. The workers would stand by him as they stood by Debs in 1920—before he cast in his lot with the bourgeois faker, LaFollette."

Thousands of silk workers are expected to attend the Foster meeting in Paterson, New Jersey, on Saturday, Sept. 13. This will be Foster's only appearance in that city during the campaign. The LaFollette wind-jamming campaign has not taken much of a hold in Paterson, and the workers are ready for the Communist message.

The meeting will be held in the evening, at 8 p. m., in Halvitia Hall, 56 Van Houton Street.

Newark workers will greet Foster on Thursday, Sept. 11, at the Labor Lyceum, 740 So. 14th Street.

Foster will speak in Elizabeth, N. J., on Sept. 10. The meeting will be held in Turn Hall, 725 High Street.

Kansas City Negroes Protest.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 8.—An attempt to Jim Crow Swope Park, the largest local park, failed thru the prompt and aggressive opposition of the Negro citizens. Dr. T. C. Unthank, a Negro politician and superintendent of the local Negro hospital, asked the park Board to build and equip a Negro swimming pool and Negro tennis courts. The Race press and citizens protested hotly and the scheme was abandoned.

Strike For More Pay.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8.—The workers of the International Ore and Smelting Co. in Saltillo, Coahuila state, are out on strike. They ask for an increase in pay to bring wages up to a living standard. A representative has been sent to Saltillo to settle the strike.

Boy Gored By Bull.

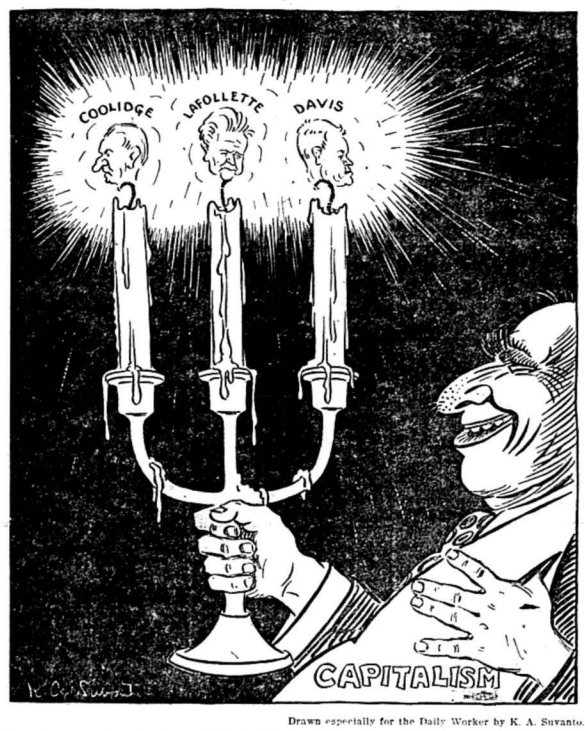
FENIMORE, Wis., Sept. 8.—Leo Hilliger, 12, who was gored by a bull at his home here, was reported dying today. His face was mutilated and an arm and three ribs fractured.

COOLIDGE PROSPERITY HITS BIG ST. LOUIS COKE AND IRON CO.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 8.— The St. Louis Coke and Iron company, a $11,700,000 concern with offices in the Planters Building here, and a large plant at Granite City, Ill., went into the hands of a receiver today, according to announcement made by W. L. McGuire, president.

McGuire said James Duncan of Alton, Ill., was named receiver at Springfield, Ill., today. He blamed business depression for the company's trouble and termed the receivership a friendly proceeding to continue the present management in control.

HIS THREE-BRANCHED CANDLESTICK



Drawn especially for the Daily Worker by K. A. Suvanto.

9 MORE SHOPS SETTLE UP IN SILK STRIKE

Police Make Threats Against Wicks

(By Federated Press)

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 8.—Nine more shops have settled with the Associated Silk Workers' Union which has been conducting the four weeks' strike in the silk mills.

About 220 more weavers will return to work under the union conditions, making a total of 1,400 workers who have won their demands for the 2-loom system and 8-hour day with wage increases. Seventy mills in all have signed up with the union.

Bosses Have Paper Organization.

The Broadsilk Manufacturers' Association, which could not be assembled to deal collectively with the union at the time settlements were first offered, now has issued a statement saying that it will continue to resist the strike and the union.

It denies that the Harry Barr workers are on strike and says that the Gilt Edge Mills have reopened. The strikers say that the Silk Manufacturers is only a paper organization and that the picketing has been successful in preventing the reopening of the mills.

Police Threaten Wicks.

Police attend the meetings in Turn Hall threatening to arrest H. M. Wicks, organizer in the Workers Party, who is assisting the strikers. So far no action has followed the threats against Wicks.

ITALIAN COMMUNISTS BELIEVE IN REAL WAR ON FASCIST MUSSOLINI

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ROME, Sept. 8.—"Meet Fascist force with revolutionary force!" is the cry of the Communist Party of Italy, which has refused to join the other parties of the opposition in adopting a weak resolution affirming the ideal of "fundamental liberty and inalienable rights," and asserting their intention to "fight with all legal means against the party which is vainly trying to represent the nation.

The parties which surrendered to a policy of legalism, as opposed to militant aggression on the industrial and political fields, are the Unitarian Socialists, who three week ago refused to join in the demand for a mass funeral for their dead deputy, Matteotti—the Republicans, the Populists, the Social-democrats, the Catholics—most of whom are sympathetic to the Italian National Center, organization of the Pope and the Fascisti—and the Maximalists. It is interesting to note that the Maximalists refuse to affiliate with the Third Communist International on the ground that the socialism of that group is "impure."

Grade Crossings in New Toll of Death; Roads Save Money

A Pennsylvania railroad grade crossing at Indiana Harbor today took a toll of two lives in separate accidents.

The first victim was Frank Sullivan, Gary, Ind., who was riding in his automobile.

Five hours later, an unidentified man was killed and his two companions critically injured.

Vote Communist This Time!

600 DELEGATES ATTEND PEORIA LABOR MEETING

Expect Injection from Outside Resolutions

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 8.—The convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor opened here today. Delegates are arriving in large numbers, and it is expected that about 600 will be reported by the credential committee. The sessions are being held in the Knights of Columbus Hall.

The morning session was taken up by the traditional speeches of welcome. In this instance the decorations are furnished by the Reverend B. G. Carpenter, by Mayor E. N. Woodruff, and others.

Find Some Things Important.

The report of President John H. Walker will probably be on the first order of business, which, with the report of the credentials committee that completes the organization of the gathering, will complete the calendar for the opening sessions.

The federation officials announce that "Among the important matters to be brought up are child labor and injunctions, old age pensions, compulsory prevention, and political affiliations."

"Several other political issues are expected to be injected into the meeting," they say further, "they resolutions submitted by local unions."

Walker's report dealt with the issuing of injunctions in labor controversies.

(Continued on page 2)

COOLIDGE'S PRIZE SCAVENGER DIGS UP CAMPAIGN FODDER FOR FOES OF SOVIET RECOGNITION

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes, Wall Street's prize political scavenger in the Coolidge administration, again brot forth his favorite dead cat and injected its odor into the political atmosphere hoping thereby to offset the miasma which has been poisoning the minds of the workers and farmers of the country against the republican party since Daugherty, Burns, Fall and Denby lifted the lid of the sewer.

The deceased and oderiferous canine is none other than the Hughes anti-Russian policy.

The bewhiskered freak of nature, who has returned from Europe after helping to give J. P. Morgan a strangle hold on Germany, sees no possibility of Soviet recognition until that country ceases its "continued propaganda to overthrow the institutions of this country," and declared that the United States could not enter into relations until those efforts directed rom Moscow are abandoned."

Time Changes Slightly.

The tune has somewhat changed. formerly "we could not grasp the hands of murderers" in the best Lloyd George manner. Now we may forgive the Bolsheviks for uniting the Czar with his fathers against his fondest wishes but loans must be paid and propaganda stopped. We remember that Gritat Britain once played the same kind of a tune, but now dances to Bolshevik music.

Mr. Hughes has gototen out a handbook for use in the republican campaign. While recognition of Soviet Russia has not been injected into the campaign by any party so far except the Workers Party, the question is causing dissension even in the ranks of the republican party and the strong speech of Colonel Haskell, former administrator of the Hoover Relief Expedition in Soviet Russia, favoring the resumption of relations with the Workers' Republic, was one of the reasons compelling the reactionary Wall Street lickspittle to provide the bitter foes of Soviet recognition with campaign fodder.

What Mr. Hughes saw in Europe provided no balm to his wounded anti-Russian feelings. The British government was after signing a treaty with the Soviet representatives. Such hated Bolsheviks as Rakovsky and Joffe were actually in the same city with Mr. Hughes.

Et Tu Herriot!

He saw Herriot of France getting ready to resume negotiations with the Workers' Republic. He saw every little country in Europe making a bee line for Moscow. His wrath can be imagined.

It is no secret that Mr. Hughes attempted to hatch another anti-Soviet conspiracy while in Europe. But his failure was so complete that his latest outburst may be a physician's prescription to relieve his system of the anti-Soviet poisons which Burns, Gompers and other medical pigeons of capitalism have injected into him.

Mr. Hughes is hard put for anti-Soviet ammunition when he is compelled to use the offal that Chester M. Wright has spread over the pages of the Gompers' chart showing the interlocking directorate which connects the various radical organizations with the Third (Communist) International. But he uses the yarns supplied by Gompers and Wright, which were bought by Gompers from the Burns Detective Agency.

Fear Workers Party.

That the Workers (Communist) Party is the only revolutionary organization feared by the American capitalists is shown by the following passage from the Hughes tirade:

Hughes Speaks His Fears.

While there may have existed in the United States individuals and even groups imbued with Marxist doctrines prior to the advent of the Communist International, the existence of a disciplined party equipped with a program aiming at the overthrow of the institutions of this country by force and violence is due to the intervention of the Bolshevik organizations in the domestic

(Continued on page 2)

LA FOLLETTE IN OPPOSITION TO WORKER'S RULE

Wants Only Competitive Capitalist Order

By JAY LOVESTONE.
(Concluding Article.)

There are two sacred parts to the ritual of the so-called "progressive" movement led by Senator Robert M. LaFollettte.

First, we have an insistence on substituting for the highly concentrated industrial system of today a free, competitive capitalist order of yesterday. Then, being dominantly a movement in the interests of the middle and lower strata of the capital-owning class, it is opposed to rule by the working class or rule by the uppermost and highest developed, corporate exploiting groups.

Program Breeds Hostility.

In practice, however, the latter attitude tends more and more to translate itself into a policy of implacable hostility to the establishment of a workers' and farmers' republic. In the everyday political life of the country, this pillar of LaFolletteism is becoming an evermore dangerous obstacle in the path of the workingmen and exploited farmers who are seeking to end the dictatorship of the capitalist class. This "non-partisan" doctrine is today a toxin sapping the very life-blood and energy of the working masses who are craving, still vaguely and unconsciously in the main, for an economic order in which there will be no exploited workers and employing class exploiters—big, medium, or small.

Let us, then, look into the political validity and economic soundness of these features of the LaFollette program.

An Impossible Fight.

For more than three decades LaFollette has been massing his batteries against the "combined power of

(Continued on Page 6.)

POOR WOMAN WON'T WED RICH FARMER; CLAIM SHE'S INSANE

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Sept. 8.—A sanity commission has been asked here to pass on the mentality of Bessie Rittenberg, county poor house inmate, who has jilted Anton F. Svoboda, wealthy Linn County farmer, "because she didn't know him well enough." Svoboda, after nearly a month of effort, finally learned that he could marry the woman if he could persuade her to leave the poor house. Everything was arranged—but then the bride-elect changed her mind.

YOUTH FED TO MOLOCH OF INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The Department of Labor has announced that 7,478 industrial accidents occurred to workers under 21 years of age in Wisconsin, Massachusetts, and New Jersey, last year. Thirty-eight accidents resulted in death and 920 in partial disability for life.

WORKERS DIE, BLAST STARTS BIG OIL FIRE

Seriously Injured Are Rushed to Hospitals

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

FRANKLIN, Penn., Sept. 8.—At least two men were killed, six were injured and probably others were seriously burned when an explosion of unknown origin shook the Eclipse Oil Works stills today.

The entire working force of 300 men employed at the stills were fighting the flames this afternoon, and newspapermen sent to the scene were ordered back.

Can't Recover Body.

Swartz and Witherup were the dead men's names. Efforts to get Witherup's body so far have been unavailing and it is believed the body of a third victim is also behind the barrier of flames.

The injured men are in a hospital and emergency preparations have been ordered to care for others. The blaze is one of the worst oil fires which has ever visited this section in recent years.

Men Run For Lives.

The bottom fell out of one of the stills at No. 5 plant, sending flaming oil all over the scene and men had to run for their lives. Three tanks and the entire No. 5 plant were burning this afternoon and special calls were sent for huge blankets to help check the spread of the flames.

FIRPO THE PUG IS NOT RADICAL AND HAS RIGHTS

Labor Department Sees Constitution and $

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Canon Wm. Shaeafe Chase of New York, again threatened today to go to President Coolidge with his demand for the deportation of Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine prize fighter, before his bout with Harry Wills on Thursday.

Chase said he would ask Coolidge to order the Labor Department to have Firpo's bond forfeited and a deportation order issued immediately at Ellis Island.

When he learned of Chase's announcement, Commissioner of Immigration Husband, said that the Firpo case was being handled by the Labor Department the same as any other and that ther had been no unusual delay. Firpo had a right under the law, Husband said, to be released in New York under bond pending a hearing before immigration inspectors at Ellis Island.

LaFollette Again Wallows in Mire of Generalities

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Addressing representatives of organized labor at a political meting here today, Senator Robert M. LaFollette, independent political candidate, said that one of the fundamental issues of the campaign is the high cost of living—as it was in 1912 when Woodrow Wilson defined it in understandable terms.

Another issue to be declared, he said, is whether the "American people are strong enough to repossess themselves of the government originally designed for them."

Pensions For City Employes.

QUEBEC, Can., Sept. 8.—The city council of the Ancient Capital has decided to grant pensions to laborers employed by the city. The pensions vary with length of service according to the following scale: $5 weekly for those who have been from five to ten years in civic service; $7 weekly from ten to fifteen years; $8 weekly from fifteen to twenty years; and $9 weekly for those who have worked more than twenty years.

DELEGATES AT STATE COUNCIL OF CARPENTERS AT PEORIA DENOUNCE LEN SMALL'S RECORD AS DISGRACE

By JOHN CHRISTOPHER.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 8.—The Carpenters' State Convention assembled on Sept. 4 and adjourned Sept. 6, in the Labor Temple here. There were 75 delegates in attendance. The meeting concerned itself almost entirely with organizational questions.

It was manifest that the small one cent per capita tax from affiliated locals, with the direct opposition from Harry Jensen of the Chicago District Council, as well as the indirect one from General President Hutcheson, tended towards the destruction of the two year old state organization.

For instance, Local 504 of Chicago, against whom charges were preferred in the Chicago District Council for using corrupt methods, in order to re-elect Harry Jensen in the last election threatens to withdraw its affiliation from the State Council.

And without a State Council, the "biggest" figure amongst the carpenters of Illinois, would be the president of the Chicago D. C., hence the opposition by Harry Jensen and Bill Hutcheson.

Consequently the convention directed itself towards the strengthening of the position of the State Council by the inauguration of better methods of propaganda and an increase of per capita tax, (which will go to referendum vote) from 1 to 2½ cents, which would then make possible the employment of paid organizers for the organization of the unorganized, etc.

The neglect of the convention towards the stimulation of a rank and file character in the organization was one of its weakest manifestations.

The next big thing was the discussion of the latest political position of the A. F. of L. and Governor Len Small.

The delegates, according to their "personal" views, did not approve either the past or present policies of the A. F. of L. on the political field, but because of the principle of discipline, the convention adopted a motion: "We endorse the position of the A. F. of L. in its political action, with no comments."

As to Governor Small, even those delegates who claimed to be republican stated that the position of the governor has been one of "disgrace to the republican party." Especially was his use of low-paid labor in road building denounced.

All of the old officers were re-elected with Willis K. Brown of Peoria, president and to the Vice-Presidency in place of Ryan, Anton Johanson of Chicago was selected.

COLORED FREIGHT HANDLERS STRIKE ON PULLMAN COMPANY

Two hundred freight handlers from the Pullman shops at 103rd Street, Pullman, went on strike last Saturday, when a heavy wage reduction in piece work wages was inaugurated. The strikers are colored.

SOVIETS ROUSE IRE OF HUGHES

(Continued from page 1)

and political life of the United States.

He Has Had It Before.

The last time Hughes suffered a bad attack of anti-Sovietism was immediately prior to the exposure of the crooks, Fall, Daugherty, Burns and Denby, props of the G. O. P. administration. These grafters and thieves sold everything that was not nailed down and peddled themselves to the highest bidder. So raw was their work that even millionaires, fearing an explosion, got hold of the broom and tried to sweep the entire administration out of office.

The crooks were strongly entrenched and only the least powerful of them got the gate. Coolidge, Hughes, Weeks and Hoover stuck. But the storm was so strong that Hughes did not have the nerve to accuse Soviet Russia of trying "to overthrow our institutions" until the public began to forget that Fall, Daugherty and Company had sold all "our" institutions. The exigencies of the political campaign has again driven Hughes out into the open.

Business Jealousy.

Since Britain signed the Soviet treaty, American business men have been bringing pressure to bear on the administration. "Why should England get in on the ground floor," they ask, "while we are on the outside sucking our thumbs and watching Hughes scratch his whiskers?" Hughes in self-defense tries to minimize the trade advantages to be gained by Soviet recognition. But England does not consider the advantages so trivial.

The secretary refers to the $187,000,000 loan made to the Kerensky government by the United States and the subsequent Soviet decrees that "unconditionally and without any exceptions all foreign loans are annulled."

This loan was used by the notorious Czarist Bahkmetieff, self-styled Russian ambassador in Washington to plot against the Soviet government.

600 DELEGATES AT PEORIA MEET

(Continued from page 1)

versies and bitterly assailed the practice.

His other recommendations for labor included:

Enactment of legislation clearly defining the rights of labor and making courts function as interpreters and not makers of laws;

Prohibiting of the practice of having privately paid attorneys assist attorneys in prosecuting criminal cases;

Opposition to the establishment of state military police;

Improvement of the state mining laws to lessen the hazards of the mining occupations;

Establishment by the state federation of a bureau to prevent the marketing in Illinois of prison-made goods in competition with the products of free labor.

Also "Other Issues."

The "other issues" that the reactionaries expect to come up, are the outstanding issues before the labor movement, which are not dealt with in the official statement. They include such matters as unemployment, the Ku Kluz Klan, the "open shop" drive, amalgamation, organize the unorganized, and the labor party. Only the left wing proposes a program on these issues. The resolutions from the local unions are those carrying the left wing program, to defeat which the reactionaries are organizing all their energies and for which large blocks of delegates were brought here from the "safe" unions.

MACDONALD IS HAPPY OVER HIS WORK FOR CAPITAL AT GENEVA

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

LONDON, Sept. 8.— "I am very well satisfied with the results of the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva," said Premier Ramsay MacDonald today, on the eve of his departure for Scotland. "But there is a tremendous amount of work still to be done. I think, however, we have made the right kind of start."

YOUTH DAY IS CELEBRATED IN NEW YORK CITY

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Thousands of young working men and women crowded to the doors of the Central Opera House last night to celebrate International Youth Day with the Young Workers League.

Juniors in red-trimmed khaki suits, and members of the League stood at the doors distributing copies of the Young Worker and the paying Comrade, and gathering subscriptions for the DAILY WORKER. In enthusiasm and eagerness, the spirit of the evening was the spirit of Young Russia.

Comrades Jack Stachel, district organizer, Sam D'Arcy and William Weinstone addressed the meeting. They told the story of the first International Youth Day in 1915, when young workers who opposed the war in the very countries in which the war was being fought met to raise the slogan of WAR AGAINST WAR. They told how every year since 1915, on the first Sunday in September, the workers, young and old, have gathered to solidify their forces for the struggle against capitalism and for the establishment of a Workers Soviet government.

RAIL BROTHERHOOD CHIEFS MAY BE SUED FOR CONTEMPT FOR SHOWING CONTEMPT FOR RAIL LABOR BOARD

Hearings in the wage controversy involving the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers on virtually every railroad in the West and Southwest were resumed today before the United States Railroad Labor Board here.

Only representatives of the railroads were present and no steps were taken to bring in the union representatives who walked out of the hearings some time ago claiming the board had no jurisdiction in the case. If they fail to appear when the board has finished hearing the representatives of the carriers, action for contempt may be filed in Federal Court under the transportation act, to compel them to testify.

The brotherhoods are seeking wage increases similar to those granted some time ago by Eastern roads. The carriers have appeared with requests for changes in certain working conditions and the entire matter came before the board when it arbitrarily took the matter in hand on the grounds that a tie-up was threatened.

DAVIS' STATE SURE HANDS IT TO THE MINERS

Darkest West Va. Home of Donkey Candidate

By ART SHIELDS.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 8.—The liberties of 19 members of the United Mine Workers' local on strike in Brady are in jeopardy this month when Justice I. Grant Lazzelle, of the Circuit Court of Monongahela County, hears the contempt cases af the men he ordered arrested on a charge of violating the injunction he issued at the instance of the Brady-Warner Coal Corporation.

The injunction was granted May 19, the date Sam Brady began evicting the strikers, and it contains those stringent provisions which have made the labor injunction the chief strike-breaking weapon of the West Virginia open shop operators.

Perhaps They May Not Breathe.

The strikers are forbidden from "soliciting, inducing or persuading" the strikebreakers from "violating their terms of employment," says one clause of the injunction, intended to protect the notorious "yellow dog" contracts the open shop firms forced on its new employes, signing them to work for a definite period as non-union men.

The strikers are also forbidden from sttting foot on company property, thus denying an easy right of way to their union hall, and they are enjoined:

"From in any way interfering with the lawful right of the plaintiff to employ such laborers as it may choose and to discharge them as it may see fit, and from in any manner obstructing, opposing, or interfering with the plaintiff in re-entering upon and taking possession of its said dwelling houses and each of them and removing the goods of said defendants therefrom."

Scabs Want to Quit.

I talked with one of the strikebreakers this injunction seeks to protect from persuasive unionists and I found that he does not need persuasion. He is already persuaded. All he needs is the funds to get out with. The firm keeps him so deeply in debt to the company-town store that he sees little money from one two-weeks pay to the next—and it takes money to move his family out, he says.

There are white strikebreakers too, but this particular man is a Negro. Brady's agents brought him from the Connellsville coke region in Pennsylvania and placed him in a house from which a strikebreaker's family had been evicted. He is just two years out of Alabama where he chucked the hopeless life of a tenant farmer and left for the North. The 1922 strike found him in Southwestern Pennsylvania. A labor agent gave him a job in a Frick mine, on strike. He knew little of the labor movement and went to work. The mine later shut down and another agent brought him to Brady during the present strike. His eyes are opening to the union movement. He is sick of his present life and says he'll find some way to get out of Brady as other Negroes have done recently.

Negro Getting Educated.

Miners tell me this case is typical. The Southern Negro is getting a stern education in Northern industrial methods.

The contempt defendants were arrested July 8, after Sam Brady found the strike going strong despite the burning of the union hall. Cases were heard during the July term, without decision, and continued for further hearing. Brady gets the benefit of the restraining order all the while.

Former Governor Glascock, a tried servant of the coal barons, represents Brady at the hearings. Attorneys Harold Houston and Townsend, of Charleston, represent the miners.

Miners Seek Damages.

In the October term of the Circuit Court a significant damage suit for $10,000 is coming against Sam Brady. It is brought by Joseph Morton, Harry Canal and Leon Antrim of the Brady Local for damages sustained in the violent evictions of May 19-21.

ARE YOU OBTAINING YOUR BUNDLE OF THE DAILY WORKER and CAMPAIGN LEAFLETS to distribute when you are out getting signatures to petitions?

DAWES IS NOW HAPPY! BIG FIRE HELPS HIM "STABILIZE MARKET"

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Fire of undetermined origin this afternoon completely destroyed the Exchange Elevator in the harbor here. The elevator contained 750,000 bushels of grain, the loss is estimated at $1,0[illegible]

Chance to Give Mr. Dawes Taste of what the Czar Got in 1917

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, the republican campaign managers are very busy trying to explain the recent "Farm Speech" of their vice-presidential candidate, Charles Gates Dawes, in which this Chicago "Hell an' Maria" banker took a stand against reclamation projects in the west, for the winning of desert and arid lands for the purpose of agriculture.

This head of the Central Trust Co., in Chicago, ally of the House of Morgan, in his Lincoln, Neb., speech opposed irrigation as a means of fertilizing the barren places, because it would result in the production of too much food. The smaller the production, declares Dawes, the better the prices will be. "The market will be stabilized," says the banker-vice-presidential candidate, which means that there will be good pickings for the profiteers.

* * * *

What Dawes proposes is a trick that has been put over very often by the food profiteers. Potatoes have been allowed to rot in the fields, or thrown upon city dumps by the millions of bushels, in order that the quantity for sale might be restricted, and high prices charged.

Shiploads of fruit have been cast by the fruit trust into the harbors of New York, Boston, and elsewhere, in order to "stabilize the market." Shiploads of fish have been given similar treatment.

* * * *

In the southern states the "Night Riders" set fire to tobacco plantations and tobacco warehouses in order to keep down the production and available supply of tobacco.

But the farmers of the grain producing states have not yet taken to burning the results of a hard year's work in order to "stabilize the market" for the food speculators on the boards of trade in Minneapolis, Chicago and other big food distributing centers.

Nor do the fruit raisers of the far west, in Idaho, Washington, Oregon, and to the south, where irrigation has caused bountiful orchards to grow, where previously there had been but sandy wastes, intend to burn down their trees and quit producing in order that the friends of Dawes, on South Water Street, in Chicago, might rig the market and make a killing.

* * * *

The United States has a population of undernourished people. Nearly half—to be exact 46.8 per cent—of the nation is made up of defectives. This is the direct result, in large part, of insufficient nourishment. The child who is compelled to hunt food in alley garbage cans isn't going to make a healthy-normal human being. The tenement house baby, who is brought up on canned milk, and hardly ever sees fruit, if at all, isn't going to be sturdy in after years. The million American school children, who go hungry to school every day in the school year, according to figures given us by the American Medical Association, will be weak and anaemic when they have grown to manhood and womanhood.

It isn't that there is an overproduction of food in the United States. The trouble is that those who ought to have the food never get it. The workers of today, and those who will be the workers, the producers of tomorrow, are forced to live on the scantiest ration. They cannot buy what they really ought to have to keep even decently alive.

* * * *

Mr. Dawes would interpret the charge that there are hungry men, women and children in the United States, as a Bolshevik attack on the American constitution. According to Mr. Dawes everyone is well fed, in the cities and on the land, the only trouble is that we work too hard and produce too much. We don't need irrigation and reclamation projects in the west because that would only result in producing still more. Mr. Dawes says, "Let the deserts remain deserts; limit production, keep prices up."

This will not be welcome doctrine to the hungry workers in the cities and the bankrupt farmers on the land. It will not solve their problem. The farmers know they would have a good market for all their produce if the city workers could only buy. But the Dawes banks, the Armour grain trust, and the big food speculators, like Jim Patten, the Chicago multi-millionaire, stand in between to reap their harvest of gold.

* * * *

How different in Soviet Russia. There every muscle of the great Soviet Republic is strained to develop, thru irrigation and reclamation, the nation's agricultural resources. Agriculture has been backward in Soviet Russia. The deposed czar surely must have had "Hell an' Maria" Dawes in mind when he made no protest against the ancient methods used in agriculture while he was in power. No modern farm implements, on a large scale, were used to increase production.

"Small production and high prices," was the motto of the deposed czar, just as it is the motto of the republican vice-presidential candidate. And the profits from the high prices went to the food speculators, the big landlords and the great financiers, in the Russia of the czar, just as in the United States of Charles Gates Dawes. The poor peasant, toiling endless hours thru the many years, always remained the same poor, landless peasant until the czar and all his gang were overthrown.

* * * *

But the czar's regime wasn't long in going once the workers and peasants in Russia found out what the trouble really was. The republicah campaign managers are now trying to prevent the workers and farmers from discovering the real significance of the "Farm Speech" by the banker Dawes, at Lincoln, Neb., opposing the greatest assets of modern agriculture, irrigation and reclamation. They are afraid that the workers and farmers of the United States, if they discovered the truth, might give Mr. Dawes a little taste, in the November elections, of what the czar experienced in the revolutionary year of 1917, in Russia. Vote Communist. That will help do it.

AGED STORY-TELLER, STARVING TO DEATH, AMUSED THE CHILDREN

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—"Uncle Al," aged story-teller who amused the children of Astoria Park, is dead from lack of nourishment. He was poorly dressed and had been sleeping out in the park. He told the children much about the flowers and plants of the park and never seemed at loss for a story.

BEN GITLOW IN NEW YORK CITY TONIGHT

Exposes War Record of Burton K. Wheeler

Ben Gitlow, New York clothing worker, candidate for vice-president on the Workers Party ticket, speaks tonight at a mass meeting in the Central Opera House, New York, when the Communist campaign in that state will be opened in real earnest.

Gitlow, whose anti-war record is a household word among New York workers, made acid comment on the efforts of the socialist party to boost the Wheeler meetings.

He said: "Undoubtedly, this is an effort to stem the tide of waning La Follette sentiment among the class-conscious workers of New York, in order to insure the collection of money for the LaFollette campaign. Of those workers who look back with horror and loathing upon the terrible days of the world war, few if any, will listen to the man who supported the war at every stage. That man is Senator Wheeler of Montana."

Gitlow will speak in Floral Park at 11th and Polk Streets, West New York, New Jersey on Wednesday, Sept. 10, at 8 p. m. Harry Winitsky, New York District campaign manager, will act as chairman of the meeting.

CHINA ARMIES BATTLE NEAR SHANGHAI WALLS

Sun Yat Sen Assails U.S. and Britain

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Sept. 8.—The bitter battle being waged by the provinces of Chekiang and Kiangsu reached the city today.

Shortly before noon fighting took place in the outskirts of the native city which surrounds the foreign settlement.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, ruler of Canton, who has the support of the working class, declares that Great Britain and the United States are assisting Wu Pei Fu, the general who has charge of the armies of the Peking government.

Fu's troubles are not all on the south, however. From the north comes the Manchurian war lord, General Chang, with what is reported to be the most formidable army in China. That Chang and Sun have designs on the same enemy, does not necessarily mean that there is an alliance between them.

Chang G. O. P. Material.

Chang is a reactionary bandit, and no doubt, would like to have control of the Peking government for his personal benefit. The capitalist powers stand ready to back any general who will bring about a condition in China that will give foreign capital the desired security. It is reported that they are now flirting with Wu Pei Fu and President Tsao Kun. This would explain Dr. Sun's scathing indictment of the Chinese policy of the Washington government and that of Ramsay MacDonald.

Wage Frauds in Lumber Camps.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—The state labor commissioner is investigating charges of wage frauds in lumber camps in Mendocino county, resulting in a loss of $22,328 by 302 lumber workers. Warrants have been served on three lumbermen who are alleged to have perpetrated the frauds during the season just closed.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

WORKERS PARTY, LOCAL CHICAGO. BRANCH MEETINGS.
Tuesday, Sept. 9.

Stanicik's Hall, 205 E. 115th St., Pollah, Roseland Pullman.

Northwest English, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

Irving Park English, 4021 Drake Ave.

Ukrainian No. 1, 1332 W. Chicago Ave.

Bohemian Branch, 2251 Clybourn Ave.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE, LOCAL CHICAGO.
Tuesday, Sept. 9.

Ilyitch Branch," 1902 W. Division St. Membership and mass meeting (in Russian).

Pullman Branch, 10701 Stephenson Avenue.

Hegewisch Branch, Hegewisch, Ill.

Junior Leaders Class, 1113 W. Washington Blvd.

Irving Park Branch, 4021 Drake Ave.

Local Bronx, N. Y., Attention!

If we are to put our candidates on the ballot, we must get on the job at once. Comrades, put your shoulder to the wheel and get busy. Come around to the headquarters, 1347 Boston Road, any night during the week, and you will be assigned to work. Don't be a shirker.—B. Robins, Sec'y.

GREEK FASCIST RULE ATTACKS LABOR LEADERS

France, England Urges War on Communists

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

ATHENS, Sept. 8.—An attempt to intern John Cordatos, manager of the Greek Communist daily Risopastis (The Radical), editor of the monthly Communist review of Greece, and prominent leader of the Communist party in this country, on charges made over two years ago and understood to have been permanently dropped, is being engineered by the republican government of Greece.

It is understood that the move is instigated by the imperialist governments of England and France, which are using the government and the army of Greece as tools in fighting the impending Communist revolt in Bulgaria.

Waylaid In Park.

That the government is now digging up an old and almost forgotten charge against the Communist spokesman seems to prove the contention of the great body of workers in this country that the thugs who last week made an unsuccessful attempt on Cordatos' life, after having trapped him in a lonely park, were agents of the Greek premier, Sofoulis. Universal suspicion was aroused at that time by the fact that no investigation into the crime was made, and that no action was taken by the police.

The united strength of the Greek labor movement is behind the Communists in their fight against the outrages of the democratic government. Evangelion, secretary of the General Confederation of Labor—an organization which includes nearly all of the industrial workers of Greece—himself a member of the Communist party, has made formal protest in behalf of the Greek workers against this and other anti-Communist moves. This protest will be backed up by militant aggression on the industrial field.

Oppose Invasion of Bulgaria.

The renewed efforts of the Greek government to get rid of Cordatos are said to be due to the agitation which Risoskastis has been carrying on against the intended invasion by Bulgaria by the Greek army. Communist sentiment runs high in Bulgaria, and the effect on a proletarian revolution in one of the Balkan states would have on the whole of the Balkan peninsula is feared by the imperialists of England and of France and by the tobacco corporations of America, which have vast vested interests in the Drama district, a fertile tobacco raising area located in Macedonia.

To justify the proposed invasion of Bulgaria by Greek soldiers, and to prepare the workers of Greece to take up arms, the Greek government, thru the columns of the kept press of the country, have for weeks been spreading propaganda denouncing the Communists of Bulgaria as bandits, murderers and thieves.

Offers Aid Against Workers.

This crisis was evidently foreseen by the Greek representatives who four years ago concluded a treaty with the other countries of the Balkan peninsula, specifying, in part, that the Bulgarian army was to be kept at a maximum of 20,000 men. The Greek government has since that time made overtures to Bulgaria, offering help in the event of a proletarian revolution.

The charges made against Cordatos two years ago are based on the fact that he agitated against the invasion of Asia Minor by the Greek army, which was at that time the tool of England in its struggle for dominion with France, which was on the side of Turkey.

Action against the Communists has become more and more stringent since the formation and the beginning of the activity of the World War Vetefans, an international association headed by Henri Barbusse, and openly devoted to the cause of the workers.

In this the social-democrats and the republicans of Greece have the help of the royalists, one of whose leaders, Metaxes, telegraphed to the political office of the Greek government saying that he favored the fight which is waged against the World War Veterans and against all organized labor bodies. The Royalist press heartily supports every move of the social-democratic government to break strikes and to suppress radical publications.

Fury of Labor Aroused.

The sudden turn to legality on the part of the government is said to be due to the fury of the workers of Greece at the arrest of Comrade Maximus, delegate of the Greek Communist party to the Fifth Congress of the Communist International, the internment of three members of the Greek section of the Young Communist International who were exiled without trial—and the wholesale arrests of Communist leaders during the recent demonstrations on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the world war.

ONLY EIGHT DAYS LEFT! SPEED UP!

Signatures to Place Workers Party Candidates on the Ballot in Illinois Coming in Faster.

WATCH THE FIGURES GROW!

Faster Work Needed If Job Is to Be Done.

Comrades will have to hustle every day in order to turn the trick by September 15, at which date the Party hopes and expects to have more than the required signatures. Too many comrades both in the Party and League are depending on the other fellow to do his or her work. The Party expects and demands that every member shall be on the job securing signatures. Do your share. Some comrades are neglecting to take the State and Presidential Electors petitions with them when they go out securing signatures; they take only the Congressional petition with them. It cannot be emphasized too strongly that comrades shall TAKE BOTH PETITIONS and have the signer put his name to both.

* * *

Young Workers League Members Getting on Job.

Englewood and John Reed and West Side Young Workers League members have been making a good job lately in getting signatures. Also other League and Party members are doing well, according to reports sifting into the Local Office. Comrades Lydia Beidel, Evelyn Mack, Lampkoff, Gordon Owens, Davison, Kahn, Mike March, Clausen, Ed. Murasko, D. Early are among the live wires reported. No doubt there are others. Bring in your petitions, and be recorded.

It becomes more plain each day that every candidate of the Party in Illinois can get on the ballot if the comrades in the League and Party will get out each day for a couple of hours. Make it a swift job.

Remember, TAKE BOTH STATE AND CONGRESSIONAL PETITIONS with you when you go out getting signatures. Some comrades have failed to do this. We must get the Foster-Gitlow ticket on the ballot by all means. A person who signs one petition will sign the other. Take 'em both and have them both signed.

MAKE THE FIGURES GROW! OVER THE TOP WITH EVERY WORKERS PARTY CANDIDATE IN ILLINOIS! SEND IN YOUR SIGNATURES EVERY DAY!

MANY COAL MINERS' LOCAL UNIONS JOINING IN GROWING DEMAND FOR UNEMPLOYED RELIEF CONFERENCE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 8.—Dozens of local unions thruout the Illinois coal fields have indorsed the resolution passed by the Divernon Miners' Local Union No. 146, demanding that officials of the Illinois miners call a conference of local unions and sub-district officers, to secure unemployment relief.

The resolution, which calls for concerted action against the open shop and wage reduction drive of the coal operators, as manifested at their Herrin conference, follows:

WHEREAS, The miners of Illinois are suffering from terrific unemployment, from which no relief is in sight, and to fight against which our Union has not yet adopted a program; and

WHEREAS, The employers are preparing to take advantage of this condition, in order to lower wage scales and break the union, and put Illinois on the same basis as the non-union fields; and

WHEREAS, The glorious struggles of the past, which established Dist. 12 of the U. M. W. of A. and raised our conditions in former times, stands as a challenge to us to meet these problems and solve them in the same fighting spirit of the founders of the Union, and to bring into this fight the plans and tactics necessary to meet the changed conditions of modern industry; and

WHEREAS, This necessitates wide counsel together of the rank and file, and frequent councils of war of our forces, just as the employers are holding counsel among themselves (as witnessed in the Herrin "open-shop" wage-slashing conference); therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we call upon the officials of Dist. 12 to call conferences of representatives of the various locals, and Sub-Districts, for the specific purpose of launching a fight for unemployement relief as a means of forcing the re-opening of the mines, and to lay down fundamental plans for solving our problems.

* * *

A Correction by Karl Reeve.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DIVERNON, Ill., Sept. 8.—In passing thru here on the way to the Pekin convention, I am told that some of the officials of the Madison Coal Company have been denouncing the DAILY WORKER because in an article of mine in the August 22 issue of the DAILY WORKER it was stated that the Madison Coal Company houses contain "two small rooms." The truth of the matter, I learn upon closer inspection, is that there are four small rooms in some of the houses and not two. Anyone who has been to Divernon will agree with me that my mistake was plausible, as the rooms are so small it is difficult to see some of them.

But my gravest mistake in the article, strangely enough, the Madison Coal Company did not denounce. In fact, they completely ignored my error, I said: "There is no running water, no bathrooms, nothing but backyard pumps and backyard toilets."

No Backyard Pumps.

In crediting the Madison Coal Company with supplying backyard pumps, I find I underestimated their thrift. There are no backyard pumps except where the miners put them in themselves. There is nothing but a hole in the ground in the backyard where the miners draws surface water for all purposes from his cistern with a bucket.

The mine of the Madison Coal Company is still shut down with no prospect of opening. In the last three years the mine has worked barely half of the time. There has been no work for the past few months.

U. S. Wants Long Concession.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8.—The Mexican fruit exporters of the states of Tabasco and Vera Cruz are urging the government not to grant a concession to American interests on the isthmus. American capital in return for repair ing the railroad is asking for a ten year concession, which will mean that freight rates will become prohibitive. In lieu of this arrangement, Mexican export dealers are offering the government five million dollars for repairing the road.

Join the Workers Party!

MAKING MEN OUT OF SCABS IN THE COAL FIELDS OF OKLAHOMA

(By Federated Press.)

OKLAHOMA CITY.—While citizens living near open shop mines have been complaining of shooting at night by armed private guards, organizers of the United Mine Workers have been reducing the force of scabs. The non-union force at Hailey, Okla., has been reduced from 60 to 25, and at Bull Hill mine from 25 to 18. Many of the men quitting have joined the union at Luti.

WORKERS' STRAW VOTE

THE DAILY WORKER,
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

The workers employed in the shop of .....

.....have taken a straw vote on the presidential candidates, and the vote was as follows:

WM. Z. FOSTER ..... votes; LaFOLLETTE ..... votes;
Workers Party — No Party

DAVIS ..... votes; COOLIDGE ..... votes.
Democratic Party — Republican Party

I certify that this report is correct:

Name: .....

Address: .....

MUST STAND ON STREET CORNERS FACING HUNGER

Miner Tells Desperate Story to Daily Worker

Yesterday saw the opening of the Illinois State Federation of Labor convention at Peoria, Ill. Unemployment in the mining camps of Illinois is rampant and the miners every day send in their letters to the DAILY WORKER relating the misery they and their comrades have been reduced to thru unemployment.

What will the convention do about it? Victor A. Olander, Secretary-Treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, does not know whether the matter comes up on the convention floor. He says it is entirely up to the miners themselves whether or not this question will be discussed and a remedy sought.

Miners' delegates at Peoria should read this letter just received by the DAILY WORKER, and then tell Victor A. Olander and the rest of the leadership at the Peoria convention what to do about it!

To the DAILY WORKER: I know my subscription has run out long ago and I should have sent you the money. Keep my name on the mailing list. I ain't got the money right now, but I will send it pretty soon.

The DAILY WORKER sure does deliver the goods all right. It is the best paper we have in this country.

I will now tell you what a fix I am in. There is one mine in this town at which I worked. I have been out of work now for five months. Last winter we only worked two and three days a week and I am broke. There is nothing else here. I have looked all over the country for other work and did not find anything. Many miners who left for Chicago and other places to look for work all returned in a short time because they could not find work.

Just like you say in your paper, the stores let them have credit at first, but they have stopped it now. There is nothing for them to do but to stand on the street corners and starve.

One person here, a miner, wants to take your paper but he ain't got no money. He is broke like everyone else here. He wants to know whether you will send him the paper now and he will pay for it in about a week. His name is ——— Virden, Ill. He likes your paper and he asks me for it every day.

This is my story and it is the story of many, many miners here.

Keep the good work going and please don't stop sending me your paper.—A Miner, Virden, Ill.

Join the Workers Party!

MOVING PICTURE MEN PATRIOTISM IS KIND O' WEAK

The motion picture owners of Chicago take their patriotism a la mode, according to the statements of Jack Miller, president of the Exhibitors' Association of Chicago, who has refused to grant permission to "Defense day" speakers to rave for even two minutes on September 12.

Would Annoy Patrons.

"It would annoy our patrons," he explained and added, "we can't afford it."

He offered, however, to permit the local committee, composed of leading militarists and capitalist figures, to have their say from the machines of every theater. The committee declined this generous offer and demanded that speakers be permitted to spill the piffle to the bored audiences. Miller refused to consider even 2 minute talks.

Taxis More Accommodating.

Taxicab concerns, and the elevated system are not so obstreperous, it seems. They have all promised to decorate their conveyances with appropriate designs, bunting, pictures and what not. Any young lady riding home in a cab on that night can be inspired with the thot that it is "Defense Day."

U. S. Imperialism Spreads.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8.—The talk of ceding Belize or British Honduras to Guatamala, with permission to the U. S. to build a railroad there, in return for cancellation of part of the British debt, is stirring up much interesting comment here. Such a deal would mean that the U. S. would completely dominate Central America and would get a much stronger hold on Mexico. It would have the complete commercial, military and economic control of the entire isthmus. Little by little the U. S. is getting all the strategic points in Latin-America.

ARE YOU OBTAINING YOUR BUNDLE OF THE DAILY WORKER and CAMPAIGN LEAFLETS to distribute when you are out getting signatures to petitions?

You can get sample copies of the DAILY WORKER any time at the DAILY WORKER office.

HINDOO COMMUNIST CALLS ON RAMSAY MACDONALD TO HALT REIGN OF TERROR IN INDIA

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, July 25.—(By Mail.)—In consequence of the relentless persecutions of so-called political offenders in British India, and in particular the Cawnpore alleged conspiracy case, where all the accused were sentenced to prison for advocating the establishment of a democratic Indian republic, free from all foreign control, Manabendra Nath Roy, a well-known Indian leader and refugee, addressed an "open letter" to Mr. MacDonald, the British premier, in which he remarks, among other things, that "the British proletariat would have a thrilling tale to hear, if the organized conspiracy on the part of our imperial rulers against the freedom and well-being of the three hundred million half-starved and oppressed men, women and children of the Indian Empire were fully told."

Issues Challenge.

Further, the author says in part:

"We repeat, and we challenge you to repudiate this statement, that the economic interests of the colonial and subject peoples require the destruction of Imperialism. India, as a colony of the British Empire, is no exception to this law. The only real solution of the fatal crisis in which civilization finds itself involved, is the total destruction of Imperialism, and a change from the capitalist system of economy to a socialist one.

"The rise of a militant working class party in India is one step towards this goal. If the labor government persists in denying the Indian masses a constitutional outlet for their grievances, they will be obliged to take refuge in the only weapon which remains to them—force, employed as an instrument of freedom, to overcome force maintained as a tool of exploitation and oppression. And who shall dare to say that the Indian people will not be justified? Not the British proletariat, in whose name you are playing the role of the watch-dog of Imperialism.

Calls For Reconsideration.

"In view, therefore, of the grave significance of the situation, I call upon you, Right Honorable Sir, in the name of the Indian masses, to re-consider your policy and repeat the demands made in my first letter. Let the Labor Government come to the assistance of the Indian working class, instead of carrying on clandestine negotiations with British and Indian capitalism.

"Give the same rights and protection to Indian labor as prevail in Great Britain; recognize the rights of organization and propaganda in the political and economic fields. Lift the ban on Socialist and working class literature. Legalize the existence of Trade Unions, and equalize wages, hours of work and conditions of labor with those prevailing abroad. Grant a general amnesty for all political offenders, and declare the rights of the Indian people to Self-Determination and Autonomy.

"Only by such measures can the British Labor Government justify its pretensions to be a government of the working class, and be true to the principles laid down in its program of socialism. Will you have the courage to inaugurate this new labor policy upon the ashes of the old? The verdict of history awaits your decision."

Officers Mobilize Imagination.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Officials of the Ninth corps area of the army are terribly concerned by discovery of leaflets circulated in San Francisco by the Workers Party. The heated imagination of the militarists has conjured from the manifesto on the tenth anniversary of the war, containing a prediction of another imperialist war to follow, a vision of "a red army plot to aid other countries to conquer the United States by means of revolution." What they intend to do about it the officers fail to state, but at any rate they have referred their startling discovery of the class war to the San Francisco police department.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

ACTORS ON JOB IN ENGLAND BUILDING REAL LABOR UNION

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The Actors' Association of Great Britain has written to union authorities thruout England requesting trade unionists of all kinds to stay away from performances given by the company of Sir John Martin Harvey, organizer of the actors' guild, a cooperative association which has been making war on the actors' union.

Members of the profession who objected to the closed shop demand of the actors' association broke away last June and formed the stage guild. The union has been upheld by the general council of the Trade Union Congress, the highest trade union authority in the country.

The union actors have the support of the musicians and theater employes, who are associated with the actors' organization.

KLAN ON TRIAL TODAY IN MAINE STATE ELECTION

Hooded Order Getting Slammed on All Sides

Will Maine swat the Ku Klux Klan in Monday's election as it was swatted by the Texans a few weeks ago? This is the burning question in Maine.

This issue of the DAILY WORKER went to press to early for the returns. Full account in tomorrow's issue.

The Klan vote will go to the republican candidate, while the donkey jockey will fall heir to the anti-Klan vote.

The Klan issue was a godsend to the democrats, who must be credited with using good strategy in forcing General Dawes to speak out on the hooded order. The general straddled the issue and did not please any side too well.

The Klan is not enjoying smooth sailing these days.

Governor Blaine of Wisconsin, seeing the handwriting on the wall, took a wallop at the Kluxers when he suspended District Attorney George B. Clementsen from office, on the ground that he favored the klan.

In Herrin, Illinois, Dr. John T. Black, against whom a charge of murder had been filed in connection with the riots in which six men were killed last week, was discharged when he appeared in Justice Abe Hick's court last Saturday.

Vote Communist This Time!

Librarian Escapes the Flames.

SAN JOSE, Cal.—A few months ago the American history of Albert Bushnell Hart was burnt in the streets of San Jose at the order of President James Pellom of the library board, over the protests of the liberal librarian, Mrs. Edith Daley. Now Mr. Pellom has ordered Mrs. Daley's dismissal for "insubordination and conduct unbecoming a librarian." Mrs. Daley will fight the charges, which arose from the struggle between progressive and reactionary forces in the library board.

Join the Workers Party!

CALVIN SPITS FIERY WORDS AT COURT SWATTERS

Davis, LaFollette, Gompers Doing Their Acts

President Coolidge came to the defense of the supreme court of the United States in a speech delivered in Baltimore, Maryland. As usual, piffle-brained capitalist correspondents were there to magnify the usual Coolidge piffle into political wisdom of the first water.

Perhaps the strikebreaker president was a little more vigorous than usual in his delivery. After all, the supreme court of the United States is a very important tool of capitalism. When laws forbidding child labor are passed, the trusty supreme court dumps them into the garbage can. It is always ready to interpret any law to suit the interests of those who give it direction.

A few gems from the Coolidge speech are given for the record. One is: "This is not the struggle of the rich and the powerful. They will be able to survive. It is the struggle of the common mass of people."

Get a Good Start.

"The time to stop those who would weaken and loosen the fabric of our government is before they begin."

"The question is whether America will allow itself to be degraded into a communistic and socialistic state or whether it will remain American."

Silent Cal has delivered many wise sayings about law and order ever since the time of the Boston police strike, but he suffers from a peculiar lapse of memory in connection with the doings of the Ohio boys during the administration of Warren Harding, continued into Coolidge's term. The president seems astounded that anybody should think evil of Daugherty Fall, Denby, Roosevelt, Forbes of the Veterans' Bureau, Jess Smith, or the scores of other grafters who would fill a spacious rogue's gallery.

Has Good Smellers.

The pen hirelings who now paint Calvin a dazzling white, will use a different color when the little tin God is turned into a little pile of junk, politically speaking. He may then get a job from Henry Ford, smelling the breath of his employes for whiskey, or the factory boss or Grand Ku Klux Klan driving the devil out of the once Nordically God-fearing American people. Being such a religious law-enforcing fiend, both jobs would suit him well.

While Coolidge was blasting in Baltimore, Maryland, his competitor on the democratic ticket was shooting the ox to the farmers of Nebraska. Davis speaks a different language in Nebraska to that which he uses in the industrial east. In Omaha, Morgan's mast hand was telling the farmers that he agreed with some of the republican party nonstrums but that the democratic party was more honest and would not trick them after it landed in the White House.

Why Two Parties?

So far the campaign has not shown any good reason why the big capitalists should insist on keeping their two old parties in the field, unless it be that the politicians who feed on both must be placated.

LaFollette continues to beat the air with musty phrases and is meeting the fate of all trimmers—he does not satisfy any faction of his chop suey following.

One of the most popular subjects for discussion in Washington is: what induced Samuel Gompers to get on the LaFollette bandwagon? The general opinion is that he saw a big hole in the net of the bond into his non-partisan political circus tent, and he decided to do a little boring himself with the result that he captured the LaFollette show, so far as the labor wing of it is concerned.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

RIGHT WHERE YOU WORK!

The fellows with whom you discuss "politics" every lunch hour. The men who hold different views—and are not easily convinced.
Get their sub for

THE DAILY WORKER

With NEWS of everything that concerns Labor—ARTICLES, CARTOONS and STORIES. The DAILY WORKER will convince your shop mate.

GET THAT SUB—
RIGHT WHERE YOU WORK! And use this little sub blank for the job.

RATES OUTSIDE CHICAGO
$6.00 a year — $3.50 Six Months — $2.00 Three Months
$8.00 a year — $4.50 Six Months — $2.50 Three Months

RATES IN CHICAGO

I DID THE JOB
My Name.....
Street & No.....
State.....

HERE'S MY SHOP MATE'S SUB!
for.....mos. .....year
His Name.....
Street & No.....
City..... State.....

MINERS' HEAD LAUDS MANLEY'S ZIEGLER SPEECH

Constructive Program Offered Workers

By KARL REEVE
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 8.—The speech of Joseph Manley, campaign manager of the Workers Party, in Ziegler recently has done much to crystallize the sentiment of the Ziegler miners for unemployment relief, into a definite plan of action, Henry Corbishley, president of Ziegler Local Union No. 992 and delegate here to the Peoria convention, told the DAILY WORKER today.

Manley, who spoke to 1,500 people in the Ziegler City Park, under the auspices of the Ziegler Central Trades and Labor Council, stressed the unemployment crisis.

"Your unemployment problem here is not a situation restricted to Ziegler, or to the Southern Illinois miners," Manley told the Labor Day crowd. "Unemployment has reached huge proportions, not only in mines all over the country, but in all the industries as well. In Chicago and all the other big cities, hundreds of thousands of workers are walking the streets looking for work.

"The workers must demand that the industry itself, in the case of the miners and the coal operators, must bear the burden of unemployment and must pay unemployment benefits. The trade unions must demand that industry, rather than permit workers to be unemployed, must shorten the work day so that there is enough work to go around. Concerted action in the rank and file in the trade unions must be called to discuss the problem, and the government must be called in to grant unemployment relief."

Represent Wall Street.

Manley declared that Coolidge and Dawes represented Wall Street and not the workers. He dismissed Coolidge, whose only bid for fame was that he broke the Boston police strike, with a word. "The so-called Dawes Plan," Manley continued, "is a means for enslavement of the German nation by American bankers, headed by J. P. Morgan. The Dawes Plan will lend to future wars between the capitalistic nations in a struggle for the world markets. It is significant, that Ramsay MacDonald, the English La Follette, served as Morgan's lackey in helping to put the Dawes plan over on Germany. The Dawes plan gives the American bankers a strangle-hold on the governments of Germany, Belgium and France, and means that the so-called labor government of MacDonald is working hand in glove with the capitalistic financiers. MacDonald has sold out English labor to J. P. Morgan."

No Real Difference.

Manley declared that the Democratic party, headed by Davis, the Morgan lawyer, was different in name, the Republican party only in name, both parties being under the thumb of Wall Street. "LaFollette, in reality," Manley said, "Represents the small business men and the independent manufacturers. I notice some of you have LaFollette buttons and badges on them. LaFollette is a trust busting advocate of the Teddy Roosevelt type. But it is impossible to bust the trusts. Roosevelt made a pretense at it, and failed. The Sherman anti-trust laws are violated or ignored. Some years ago it was said, 'the Standard Oil trust has been busted." But has it? Today poor Mr. Rockefeller is worth over two billion dollars and the Standard Oil trust is stronger than ever before.

"No, you cannot bust the trusts, and the days of 1776 are gone forever. The workers and farmers must take over the large corporations, take over the trusts and run them for the use of the workers instead of for profit."

Manley presented the program of the Workers Party, which favors the formation of a workers' and farmers' government. He declared that the Herrin conference of coal operators was a phase of the effort of the employers to break up the trade unions.

Gave Constructive Program.

"Manley's speech gave the Ziegler miners a constructive program to solve their problems," Corbishley told the DAILY WORKER. "Altho Ziegler has elected only one delegate to the Peoria convention, I represent several hundred militant miners. It must be remembered that tho the very local unions which most need unemployment relief, which need help and attention, are those unions which because of the unemployment have no money to send delegates to the convention. It is these local unions which we must think of in our deliberations. Otherwise the strong sentiment among the miners for withdrawing from the Federation, 'Because they never do us any good' will gain headway."

The Workers Party in Action

NEGRO WORKERS CHEER SPEECHES OF COMMUNISTS

Candidates Get Response on South Side

At the meeting held last Saturday night, at State and 31st Sts., the heart of the Negro section of Chicago, it was again demonstrated the amount of Communist propaganda that can be spread among the Negro workers.

Comrade Gorden Owens, who acted as chairman, a colored comrade and the party's candidate for congressman in that district was greeted with applause by the audience consisting mostly of colored workers.

Clarence Miller, of the Young Workers' League, then addressed the rather large crowd that had gathered.

He pointed out that "it is the capitalists, who thru their kept press and their organizations of the type of the Ku Klux Klan, and not the complexion that keeps the colored and the white workers seperated.

"It is in the interests of the capitalists to see that there is no unity between the colored and the white workers, so that in case of a strike, or in an attempt to lower the wages he can play one group of workers against the other."

When Miller made an appeal for membership, over thirty colored workers expressed their desire to join the Workers Party and several young colored workers joined the Young Workers' League.

* * *

STREET MEETINGS IN CHICAGO.
Tuesday, September 9.

Corner 16th and Keeler, 8 p. m.—Auspices of Douglas Park English Branch, Workers Party.

Corner 14th and 49th Court, Cicero, 8 p. m.—Auspices of Cicero Lithuanian branches.

Corner Wilton and Belmont Streets, 8 p. m.—Auspices, North Side English Branch, W. P. Speakers: D. E. Earley and others.

New York Open Air Meetings.

Wednesday, Sept. 10.

110th St. and 5th Ave.—Markoff, Landy and J. Codkind.

Rivington and Eldridge Sts.—M. Nudjus and Spanish speakers.

116th St. and St. Anns Ave.—Baum, N. B. Sparer.

Tompkins and Hart Sts., Brooklyn—S. Felshin and J. S. Ohlan.

20th and 80th Ave.—Ben Davidson.

Thursday, Sept. 11.

7th St. and Avenue A.—M. Winitsky, also Russian and Ukrainian speakers.

138 St. and 7th Ave.—Ben Davidson, N. B. Sparer, McDonald.

106th St. and Madison Ave.—L. Landy, Na Wilkes.

110th St. and Madison Ave.—Joe Brashy and Spanish speakers.

Russians Celebrate International Youth Day at Soviet School

Tonight, Tuesday, Sept. 9, at the Soviet School, 1902 W. Division St., the Russian branch of the Young Workers League will celebrate International Youth Day. Speakers will be in Russian language. Admission free.

DATES OF THE CHICAGO AFFAIRS OF THE WORKERS PARTY.

Party units will friendly organizations do not set conflicting dates.

Sunday, Oct. 12—Foster-Gitlow Campaign Meeting, Ashland Auditorium (afternoon).

Saturday, Oct. 18—John Reed Memorial Meeting.

Saturday, Oct. 25—Freiheit Ball, Ashland Auditorium.

Friday, Nov. 7—Seventh Anniversary Russian Revolution, Ashland Auditorium.

Saturday, Nov. 15—Young Workers League Ball.

Nov. 27-30—Daily Worker and Labor Defense Council Bazaar.

Wednesday, Dec. 31—T. U. E. L. Dance, New End Hall.

Wednesday, Jan. 21—Lenin Memorial Meeting, Ashland Auditorium.

Saturday, Feb. 28—Red Revel.

November 27-30.

Daily Worker, Labor Defense Bazaar, Workers' Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

Saturday, February 20, 1925.

Red Revel, West End Women's Club, 37 So. Ashland Ave.

Sunday, Sept. 14, at 7:30 p. m.—Society for Technical Aid to Soviet Russia, Russian performance "New Convert," at 1902 W. Division St.

ARMENIAN SECTION OF WORKERS PARTY IN SUCCESSFUL CONCLAVE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—After a year of discord and factional struggle the basis has been laid for an Armenian Section of the Workers Party which promises to build a strong section of that language group as part of the Communist movement of this country. This is the accomplishment of the convention which met here Saturday, Sunday and today.

Eleven regularly chartered branches of the Workers Party were represented by thirteen delegates. In addition, four branches which had not yet secured charters from the party, were given fraternal representation. The regular delegates were from branches in Boston, Chelsea, Lynn, Lawrence, New York City, Philadelphia, Hopewell, W. Va., Detroit, Indiana Harbor, Chicago and Granite City. Branches in Los Angeles, Fresno, Toorence and San Francisco, which had not regularly affiliated with the Workers Party were given fraternal representation.

Honorary Presidium Chosen.

The convention opened with the singing of the "International." An honorary presidium consisting of Lenin, Zinoviev, Bucharin, the leader of the Communist Party of Armenia, and C. E. Ruthenberg, the representative of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party, was named.

Comrade Ruthenberg, for the Central Executive Committee, made the opening speech, outlining the policy which the C. E. C. had pursued in the Armenian Section. Comrade Ruthenberg said:

"When the C. E. C became convinced that it was impossible to create an Armenian Section as long as the deadlock due to equal representation in the bureau of the two contending groups continued, it decided to give a majority to that group which had shown its readiness to observe Communist discipline and carry out the decisions of the party. The Sunarian group had repeatedly flaunted the decisions of the C. E. C. It was due to the undisciplined action of the C. E. C. that the party efforts to assimilate the rank and file of the Armenian Federation Branch Party failed. The C. E. C. therefore, decided to place the Sunarian group in the minority and to support that group which had loyally worked with the party."

Reports Party Policy.

Following the discussion of the situation in the Armenian Section, Comrade Ruthenberg made a brief survey of the party policy and the program of work, declaring in regard to the United Front policy "The nomination of our own candidates is not an abandonment of the United Front policy. The Communist International at its Fifth Congress reiterated its approval of the United Front tactic as a method of agitation and mobilization of the masses. Our party made its greatest gains when that policy is followed. We follow that policy in the future as in the past."

Internal question of the Armenian Section were handled thru a grievance committee appointed by the convention. The decisions of this committee on a controversy in the New York branch, on the question of disposal of certain funds left in the will of a party member, were adopted by the convention by practically unanimous vote.

Plans for organization and agitation to unite in the Armenian Section all the existing branches of Armenian workers who sympathize with the revolutionary movement were worked out. A new bureau of seven members was elected. All the members of the former bureau, about the storm center in the section centered, voluntarily stepped aside, in order that personalities might not cause conflict in the Armenian Section in the future.

New Bureau Elected.

The members of the new bureau are H. Bydarian, Y. Yorgiadis, M. Sarkisian, N. Keossaian, Dr. S. Ter-Bagdasarian, V. Kaprelian and M. Hornhanesian. Among these are former members of the Armenian Workers Party, Huntchakist and one former supporter of Sunarian. By decisions of the convention the headquarters of the bureau will remain in New York City.

The members represented in the convention totalled approximately three hundred. With the subsidence of factional differences and constructive work the Armenian Section expected to double this number during the next six months.

ARMENIAN BRANCH IN PHILADELPHIA SETS PARTY PACE

Has Only Ten Members But Plenty of Action

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The Armenian Branch of Philadelphia, has set a record for party activities which every other party branch might well try to emulate.

This branch has ten members. These ten members have secured twelve yearly, eighteen six months and twenty-four special offer subscriptions for the DAILY WORKER. The branch has contributed to the party campaign fund, it has assisted the Labor Defense Council and the Philadelphia Defense Committee with substantial sums. It participates in all the public meetings in Philadelphia, and is conducting a study class for the education of its members.

The report of the delegate of this branch at the Armenian Convention was greeted with enthusiastic applause and a vote passed holding the branch before other party units as an example to be followed.

Bakery Workers in Challenge to Big N. Y. Scab Bakeries

(By the Federated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—A drive to organize the bakery workers of Manhattan, Bronx, Astoria and Jersey City has been launched by the Amalgamated Food Workers' union. Many of the smaller bakeries have already signed up with the organization to give their bakery helpers the 10 per cent wage increase demanded.

The fight is being carried right into the strongholds of the big scab bakeries such as Ward's, United and Schulze where 4,000 workers are underpaid. Mass meetings of bakery workers have been held in the various districts and the union workers are carrying the organization message right into the shops to get rid of the bad conditions which exist.

Special organizer Comadoro has had such success with the Italian bakers that a large new local has been organized with two offices in Brooklyn. Local No. 11 with 200 new members of the Amalgamated Food Workers, Italian Bakery Goods Workers section, has one headquarters and employment office at 56 Manhattan Ave. and the other at 132 Degraw St. in South Brooklyn.

Invade Silk Towns, Too.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 8.—The Amalgamated Food Workers' union, butchers' section, is organizing the butcher workmen of the city since the A. F. of L. union has completely disappeared. A special membership meeting of the union workers was held to determine the course of action Secy. Burkhardt came from New York earlier to assist the local butchers' organization drive.

Miners Very Badly Burned; Victim of Bosses' "Economy"

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PLAINS, Pa., Sept. 8.—Mike Tzihotsky, a miner employed by the Lehigh Valley Coal Co., at the Henry Colliery, Plains, was badly burned by gas, which had accumulated in his place, ignited.

Accumulation of gas in such quantity is the evident result of poor circulation of the air necessary to the safety of the men underground.

Tzihotsky's laborer, who was at work in the chamber also was burned, but fortunately was a little distance away and did not suffer as seriously as the miner. Both were immediately rushed to the City hospital at Wilkes Barre.

It is said that the fan, usually providing air for that section of the mine where the accident happened, has been broke down for some time and they have been sharing air provided by another fan.

NO CHARGES YET PLACED AGAINST PAXTON HIBBEN

Army Officer Accused of Communist Ideas

By ESTHER LOWELL.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The "inquiry" into the fitness of Capt. Paxton Hibben to retain his commission in the reserve corps of the U. S. Army has not yet established any charge against the officer. Most of the first day of the military tribunal's inquiry in the Army building under Brig. Gen. William B. Parsons, Col. Francis W. Perry and Major Gordon Heit was devoted to the reading into the record of various Communist documents. Major Thomas L. Heffernan, serving as judge advocate, admitted that he had no evidence to prove that Hibben was a Communist, but he attempted to link the captain's presence on the advisory board of the Soviet Russia Pictorial with the Communist movement in America.

For Freedom of Belief.

Col. John J. Bradley of Fort Slocum is in charge of Captain Hibben's defense. He also claims that the gist of the case in the "inquiry" is that "an American citizen, in or out of the army, is free to hold what beliefs he pleases." Capt. Ward Chamberlain and Major Joseph Sand are attorneys for Hibben. Col. Bradley continued that "it is vital to us, as officers of the army of the United States, that under no circumstances and by no implication shall it be possible to impute to the service the viewpoint of the Ku Klux Klan."

In answering the defense's request for the charge against Captain Hibben, Gen. Parsons replied that there was none; that the meeting was merely an "inquiry" to consider the defendant's fitness to retain his commission. Much time was spent reading from secretary of state Hughes' evidence given to the sub-committee investigating the matter of recognition of Soviet Russia.

Perry case against Captain Hibben really dates back to the post-war period of the now discredited William J. Burns who reported to the secretary of war that Captain Hibben was "considered to be a dangerous radical." The accused officer had been conducting for two years a school for Russian children and had advocated the United States' recognition of Russia. Promotion in the reserve corps was withheld from Capt. Hibben and the present "inquiry" was instituted.

SCHOOL TEACHER FOR 20 YEARS GETS FIRST GLIMPSE OF MC ANDREW

A teacher in the Chicago public schools—a woman of middle age—walked timidly into the office of Superintendent William McAndrew, To the DAILY WORKER reporter she said tremulously: "Is that really Mr. McAndrew?"

"I just wanted to see him—just once!" whispered the teacher, breathlessly. "I've been teaching here for 20 years, and I've never yet had a chance to look at him. I know someone who did, tho!"

"There was a scissorsbill in Pullman who told the DAILY WORKER much the same story. For 20 years he had worked in the Pullman shops without once getting a glimpse of the boss. For 20 years he, like the teacher, waited breathlessly for a chance to look at President Carry, of the receding chin and the protruding paunch. He hadn't yet seen him.

But, like the teacher, he knew someone who had seen him—or, in the words of the Pullman worker, had "gotten almost near enough to touch him."

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

CHICAGO Y. W. L. HEARS REPORT ON INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS; ENDORSE DELEGATION'S STAND

One of the best membership meetings yet held in Chicago by the Young Workers League heard a report by Oliver Carlson, on behalf of the American delegation to the fourth congress of the Young Communist International, in the name of the national executive committee of the league.

Comrade Carlson, who has been a member of the executive committee of the international for two years and during that time has gained experience and wide knowledge of the movement all over the world, reported on the new developments in the young Communist movement since the last congress was held.

At the end of the report questions were asked and discussion followed, from which it appeared that the assembled comrades were in complete agreement with the report on the Y. C. I.

Propose Resolution.

Comrade Valeria Meltz, city secretary of the league, proposed a resolution of endorsement of the report and calling upon the National Executive Committee to deal drastically with any attempts upon the part of individuals or groups to promote factionalism in the Young Workers' League. The resolution which was unanimously adopted, reads as follows:

We accept the report made in behalf of the American delegation to the Y. C. I. and endorse the decision of the Y. C. I.

We pledge whole-hearted support to the work to be carried on as outlined by the Y. C. I. under the guidance of the National Executive Committee;

In order that this can be accomplished as quickly and efficiently as possible, we urge upon the N. E. C. that it take drastic measures against all individuals or groups who promote or continue factional strife to the detriment of the welfare of the Young Workers' League.

Our Candidates

FOSTER'S DATES

Elizabeth, N. J.—Turn Hall, 725 High St., Wednesday, September 10, 8 p. m.

Newark, N. J.—Labor Lyceum, 704 So. 14th St., Thursday, September 11, 8 p. m.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Musical Fund Hall, 8th and Locust Streets, Friday, September 12, 8 p. m.

Paterson, N. J.—Halvitia Hall, 56 Van Houton Street, Saturday, September 13, 8 p. m.

GITLOW'S DATES

Comrade Gitlow, candidate for vice-president, will address meetings at the following places:

West New York, N. J.—Floral Park, 11th and Polk Streets, Wednesday, September 10, at 8 p. m.

Stamford, Conn. — Casino Hall, Thursday, September 11, at 8 p. m.

Bridgeport, Conn.—Carpenters Hall, 170 Elm St., Friday, Sept. 12, at 8 p. m.

Springfield, Mass.—Central Labor Union, 19 Sanford St., Saturday, Sept. 13, 8 p. m.

Your Union Meeting

SECOND TUESDAY, SEPT. 9, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting
133	Boot and Shoe Workers, 1939 Milwaukee Ave.
21	Bricklayers, 912 W. Monroe St.
378	Brick and Clay Workers, Paving Inspectors, 166 W. Washington St.
	Calumet Join Council, 514 W. 171th St.
58	Carpenters, Diversey and Sheffield.
141	Carpenters, 1029 E. 75th St.
1240	Carpenters, Scandia Hall, Chicago Heights.
461	Carpenters, Witten's Hall, Highland Park, Ill.
1786	Carpenters, Springfield and 26th.
	Clerks, Grocery, 59 W. Van Buren Street.
15	Clerks, Stores (Sleeping Car), Capitol Bldg., 10 a. m.
381	Electricians, 509-5 State St.
1030	Electricians, 741 S. Western Ave.
302	Engineers (Loc.), Scandia Hall, Chicago Avenue.
402	Engineers, 180 W. Washington St.
645	Engineers, (Loc.), 2433 W. Roosevelt Road.
826	Engineers (Loc.), 2647 W. 35th St.
8705	Egg Inspectors, 418 N. Clark St.
27	Federal Employes, 64 W. Randolph Street.
15441	Firemen Union, 3046 W. 26th St.
715	Firemen and Enginemen, Ogden and Taylor.
20	Hatters (Trimmers), 166 W. Washington St.
5	Hod Carriers, 225 E. 15th St., Chicago Heights, Ill.
6	Hod Carriers, 814 W. Harrison St.
27	Hod Carriers, 62nd and La Vergne Avenue.
715	Hoisting Engineers, 814 W. Harrison St.
81	Ladies' Garment Workers, 328 W. Division St.
12	Leather Workers, 777 W. Adams St.
1	Machinists, 3542 W. Adams St.
84	Machinists, 2548 S. Homan Ave.
1426	Machinists, 4026 W. 12th St.
1494	Machinists, 6234 Princeton Ave.
546	Meat Cutters, 175 W. Washington St.
571	Meat Cutters, 9206 Houston Ave.
	Marine Cooks and Stewards, 357 N. Clark.
10	Musicians, 175 W. Washington St., 2 p. m.
17358	Painters, Funk's Hall, Oak Park.
147	Painters, 20 W. Randolph St.
180	Painters, N. E. cor. California and Madison.
184	Painters, 6414 S. Halsted St.
191	Painters, N. W. cor. State and 65th.
275	PAINTERS, 220 W. OAK ST.
521	Painters, Trumbull and Ogden Ave.
502	Plasterers, Monroe and Peoria Sts.
130	Plumbers, 1507 Ogden Ave.
130	Plumbers, 180 W. Washington St.
402	Plumbers, 4111 W. Madison St.
415	Odd Fellows' Temple (Odd Fellows' Hall, Blue Island, Ill., 7:30 p. m.
1170	Railway Carmen, 11037 Michigan Avenue.
1257	Railway Carmen, 5324 S. Halsted St.
352	Railway Clerks, 549 W. Washington St.
739	Railway Clerks, Moose Hall, Chicago Heights.
906	Railway Clerks, 5438 S. Halsted St.
2219	Railway Clerks, 509 W. Washington St.
375	Railroad Trainmen, 3359 W. Madison.
	Teamsters' District Council, 220 S. Ashland Ave.
727	Teamsters (Auto), 220 S. Ashland Blvd.
67	Tile Layers, 180 W. Washington St.
17	Waiters, 234 W. Randolph St.

(Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

NOTICE TO CHICAGO COMRADES!

Branches that are in charge of street meetings, see that a couple of comrades are on hand by 7:30 p. m. with a platform or box in order to hold the corner. Some instances require getting there by 7 or 7:15 o'clock. Also see that the literature and petitions, both state and congressional, are on hand with comrades to take care of them. This week, you should have the leaflets advertising Anti-Mobilization Day.

Get your live comrades on the Job!

CARPET WORKERS STRIKE AGAINST WAGE SLASHING

Massachussetts Textile Workers Revolt

By MAX SALZMAN.
(Special to THE DAILY WORKER.)

SAXONVILLE, Mass., Sept. 8.—For 15 weeks the 350 employes of the Roxbury Carpet Co. in this city have been on strike against the attempt of the bosses to cut the wages of the workers 15 per cent. This on top of a wage cut of 25 per cent made during the past year has angered the workers and steeled them in their struggle against their miserable conditions.

These workers are experienced in their struggle against these bosses. Innumerable times before they have carried on their struggle, but the bosses are making an attempt to still further lower the standard of living of the workers and they are determined to smash the local union of the United Textile Workers of America which is carrying on this struggle.

The "living" wage which they have had previous to this time has been gotten only thru bitter struggles and thru the fact that the workers have been organized.

The company seeing that they could not break the strike by starvation, are now beginning to evict the workers. However, before they do this they offer to let the workers live in the these homes. They also offer them a halfton of coal free in addition to his, on one condition. That is, that they betray their fellow workers and go back to work. This the mass of workers refused to do. In spite of the fact that many of the workers and their families are starving, only 10 out of the 350 workers who went out on strike, have sold out to the bosses.

A little while previous to the strike the bosses established a standard of work for forty-eight hours. This was done by bringing in efficiency experts who timed the amount of work done during forty-eight hours by the workers. While they were in the mill the workers were forced to speed up their work to the limit of their endurance. Then they took the amount of work done by the fastest workers and made that the standard of production for the rest of the workers in the shop. This was impossible for most of the workers to do and as a consequence their pay was still further reduced.

The workers are compelled to stand the anger and insults of the bosses. They are continually abused. Under these conditions along with the wage cuts, which reduces the wages of the workers to about $20.00 per week, the workers rebelled and now are carrying on a life and death struggle. The workers are determined to win this struggle. No threats or arrests on the part of the police can intimidate them. The chief of police of Framingham arrests strikers for no reason at all except their loyalty to the rest of the workers. On the otherhand, when five scabs were caught recently with blackjacks in their possession, they were set free.

The bosses buy all sorts of luxuries for the 190 scabs they have imported. They hire taxis for them, pay high wages and see that they get every thing they need. The bosses tell the workers they cannot afford to pay them higher wages, but when the workers see the bosses spend money in this manner in an attempt to break their strike, they are more than ever determined to fight. The enthusiasm among the workers is high. Fifteen scabs are on hand by 7:30 p. m. with a platform or box in order to hold the corner. Some instances require getting there by 7 or 7:15 o'clock. Also see that the literature and petitions, both state and congressional, are on hand with, comrades to take care of them. This week, you should have the leaflets advertising Anti-Mobilization Day.

Get your live comrades on the Job!

No Pay, No Work Say Teachers to State Officials

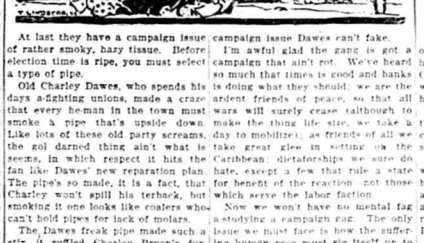
NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, Sept. 8.—All the public schools are closed here as a result of the strike of the school teachers who refused to teach another day without pay.

The teachers put in a demand to the State for their salaries which amount to approximately 100,000 pesos, but nothing happened. Many of the teachers have received no salaries for the last year's work.

EARN YOUR COMMUNIST MERIT STAMP BY GETTING A NEW MEMBER FOR THE PARTY AND ANOTHER READER AND SUBSCRIBER TO THE DAILY WORKER.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, ETC.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
73 W. VanBuren St.
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

Dinner Pail Epics by Bill Lloyd



At last they have a campaign issue of rather smoky, hazy tissue. Before election time is ripe, you must select a type of pipe.

Old Charley Dawes, who spends his days a-fighting unions, made a craze that every he-man in the town must smoke a pipe that's upside down. Like lots of these old party screams, the gol darned thing ain't what it seems, in which respect it hits the Dawes Plan right on the button. The pipe's so made, it is a fact, that Charley won't spill his terback, but smoking it one looks like coalers who can't hold pipes for lack of molars.

The Dawes freak pipe made such a stir, it rufled Charley Bryan's fur. He felt somehow we must keynote in way to ketch the smokers' vote, and so he shows the eager mob a pure Nebraska-made corn-cob. Corn-cob and skull cap sure should make a campaign issue Dawes can't fake.

I'm awful glad the gang is got a campaign that ain't rot. We've heard so much that times is good and banks is doing what they should; we are the ardent friends of peace, so that all wars will surely cease (although to make the thing life size, we take a day to mobilize); as friends of all we take great glee in setting on the Caribbean dictatorships we sure do back; in a few that rule is state for benefit of the reaction not those which serve the labor faction.

Now we won't have no mental fag a-studying a campaign gag. The only issue we must face is how the suffering human race must rig itself up to be seen, a-making up the pipeline. The voter really needn't vex himself about things more complex. He needn't worry his old bean, but stick it in a thick smoke screen.

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

LOS ANGELES TO SEE PICTURESQUE DAY OF DEFENSE

Communists Planning Huge Demonstration

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 8.—According to the local press the decks are clear for the "National Defense Day" demonstration that will be staged by the patriots Sept. 12.

In an editorial Sept. 3, the Los Angeles Times is reprimanding the "misguided citizens" for opposing "Defense Day," it says in behalf of it among other things that:

Must Make It Picturesque.

"There is another source of good in Defense Day. Never has there been a time in the history of America when patriotic zeal and devotion were more sorely needed. American institutions and ideals are being heavily hammered from within and without. It is necessary for the average person that the emotion of patriotism be, in some way, crystalized and made picturesque; that it be focused and concentrated. This defense test will accomplish the purpose."

In order to show the workers of Los Angeles what this preparedness means to them. In order to explain to them the purpose of the capitalists in staging this military display, and why it is necessary at the present time to "crystalize," "focus" and "concentrate" the emotions of patriotism, the Workers Party of Los Angeles and the Young Workers League will hold a mass meeting on "National Defense Day," Sept. 12, at Symphony Hall, 232 So. Hill Street, at 8 p. m.

Comrades Rose Rubin, William Shneiderman, Emanuel Levin and a representative of the Juniors of the Young Workers League will be the speakers. Also mass singing by the entire group of the Junior Young Workers League.

50,000 Bucks Gone to Hell.

To date Cook County has spent $50,000 in its efforts to send Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb to the gallow's for the slaying of Robert Franks.

MY COMPLIMENTS TO THE DAILY WORKER
DR. M. WISHNER
DENTIST
800 W. North Ave., Cor. Halsted St.
Lincoln 9010

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
646 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1627 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

Fifth Congress of Communist International Considers the Subject of Trade Union Unity

(The most burning question before the revolutionary labor movement today is the question of unity, locally, nationally, and internationally. The Fifth Congress of the Communist International, held in Moscow in July, this year, dealt exhaustively with the object. The clearest and most authoritative statement of the question, and of the policy of the International, is contained in a speech by G. Zinoviev, chairman of the Communist International, delivered at the 29th Session of the Congress. It will become one of the classic documents of the International, and should be studied carefully and preserved by all members of the Workers Party and by militant trade unionists generally.)

* * *

By GREGORY ZINOVIEV.

COMRADES, the Trade union questions is of enormous importance. If there were to remain any lack of clearness in this question, it would have an enormously injurious influence upon the whole movement.

A good deal has been heard at this Congress of the necessity of bolshevising the parties, of remaining true to Leninism. We would prefer to hear less about bolshevising the party, but to have the essence of Leninism itself studied more deeply, especially in regard to the trade union question.

Bolshevism is Against Splitting the Trade Unions.

The standpoint of Leninism in the trade union question is to be seen most clearly in its tactics. You are aware that the first split between the Bolsheviki and Mensheviki occured in 1903, that is more than 20 years ago. The Bolsheviki have acted quite differently in the trade union question. In spite of the various splits in the political organizations we have neither before, during, nor after the revolution caused a split in any trade union. (Interjection of Radek: "Quite true!") This must give us cause to think. Our trade unions even after the revolution were still, to a considerable extent, in the hands of the mensheviki and in spite of this we have done everything in order to avoid a split. Later on when the mensheviki represented a very important fraction in the trade unions, the Party did everything possible to capture the trade unions from within without splitting them.

If therefore you wish to understand the Bolshevik tactics you must not forget this fundamental fact: During the course of 25 years whilst there were a number of splits in the political organizations (the mensheviki called us professional splitters) there was not a single split in the trade unions, neither when we were in the minority nor when we had the majority. Therein lies one of the fundamental facts of the history of the Russian Revolution and of the history of Russian Bolshevism.

Whoever calls himself a Leninist, whoever desires to bolshevise the Party (it seems to me that Schuhmacher claims to desire this—God preserve us from such a Bolshevization)—will not split the trade unions. This would on the contrary mean supporting the mensheviki, although Schuhmacher may regard himself a "leftist". We have already seen many such "leftists". If I am not mistaken Schuhmacher was here three years ago as a representative of the Independent Socialist Party. Now however he acts as if the International was not left enough for him, (Interjection of Radek: "That is often the case!")

If you wish to speak seriously of bolshevising the parties you must take note once and for all: the struggle for the unity of the trade union movement is one of the characteristic features of Bolshevism; that is shown by the practice of Russian Bolshevism over a period of 25 years. We have not split a single trade union. Why? Perchance because we were so fond of the mensheviki or perhaps because we regarded the trade unions as a sacred and untouchable form of the movement? No, but solely for the reason, because we regarded the trade unions as a centre around which the mass of the proletariat, the whole working class gathered.

Not long ago in the German party it was: Enough of the trade unions, we want a "new form" for the labor movement, and these comrades really thought that their good will was enough to find a new form with ease. That is all they wanted—only no bolshevism! The trade unions were not discovered by Grassmann, D'Arragona or Legien, they are the historic form of the mass organization of the proletariat under capitalism. You can't suck a new form of the labor movement out of your fingers. We have a new form of mass organization of the workers (beside the trade unions) and that is the Soviets. But that is such a form as cannot be called into life at any moment. At the second world congress we had a special resolution on the conditions for the creation of Soviets. Read them through again. There you will find information as to when it is possible to proceed to the formation of Soviets. This is on the eve of the revolution that is, when they constitute the germ of a workers' government in the form of a proletarian dictatorship. In the Soviets we have therefore really a new form of the labor movement. But they cannot be formed at any time, only on the eve of revolution. There is no other form of the proletarian mass movement.

The factory councils are gradually becoming a new form of the labor movement within the trade union movement. But the trade union remains, remember, also after the victory of the proletariat, after the wresting of power by the proletariat, an extremely important organization. That, at any rate, has been proved by the, until now, sole victorious revolution, the Russian revolution.

It would therefore be extreme frivolity to talk as if we could, at will, just because we wanted, create a new form of the labor movement, and neglect the old form, up to now the sole one. Comrade Lenin taught us that the trade union movement, in spite of all the betrayals of social democracy, represents the historic form of the combination of the whole proletariat in one organization. That is the reason for the efforts of the social democratic leaders to destroy the unity of this movement and drive the Communists out of it. That is why we said, at the 3rd and 4th world congresses, that the social democratic leaders have an interest in destroying the unity of the trade unions, but that it is to our interest to preserve that unity. This form of the labor movement will render us good service, not only during the struggle for power but also after the capture of power. Lenin often said that had we not had the unions behind us in 1917, the dictatorship would not have lasted months let alone years. It was the trade unions that facilitated the organization of production, of the Red Army and of much besides.

Leninism in the trade union questions means: Fight against a split in the trade unions. We do not say that as a bit of diplomacy against the social democrats, but because it comes from the deepest springs of Leninism.

Victory is Impossible Without Mass Organization

Leninism consists above all things in the recognition that irreconcible Marxism is unthinkable, without the mass organization of the proletariat, for a Marxism without mass organization is no Marxism, and can never lead to victory.

Yesterday we celebrated the memory of the Paris Commune. But we want a victorious commune, we want the victory of the proletariat. And for this the combination of the whole of the working class is above all necessary.

At the 4th world congress we declared and it still remains true—the more the social democrats recognize, that the working class, in the depth of its soul is with us, that we shall inevitably win the victory, the more they recognize that we are nearing revolution, the more they try to split the trade unions. They think: If the organizations of the working classes are already falling into the hands of the Communists, we must see to it that they only get fragments and splinters of the trade unions, not the unions as such, which would welcome irreplacable weapons in their hands.

When we look at the English and German trade union movements, which are still in the hands of social democracy, it is difficult to believe that the unions can ever again be of service to the proletarian revolution. Nevertheless, they will be of service. The Russian unions were not one jot better when they were still in the hands of the Mensheviki. The discipline, the love of organization, all the good, which for decades had been piling up in the trades unions, all this became in the hands of the Communists, an irreplacable weapon of the Russian revolution.

Therefore no one who thinks seriously of the proletarian revolution, of the winning of the majority of the working class, can lightly handle the question of the unity of the trade unions. The bolshevising of the party is the policy of an honest fight for the unity of the trade union movement, and the incessant struggle for Communism within the unions. The more the social democrats provoke, the stronger we must manoeuvre, the more we must close up our ranks in the unions, the stronger must we work within the unions. Why? Because our class comrades are to be found in the unions.

A frivolous comparison has been made here: As the bourgeois state can only be won by violence, so the trade unions can only be won by violence. There is no sense in this analogy. The bourgeois state is distinguished from the trade unions in this, that the unions consists of our class comrades, that is of workers, who in spite of their aberration, in spite of their sometimes objective anti-revolutionary effect, can and will, at the decisive moment, take the right turning.

(To be continued)

WATER DISPUTE IN LOS ANGELES GROWS BITTER

Artificial Famine of the Grafters Is Exposed

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 8.—Nearly fifteen years ago there was a water famine in this city. The Times (Otis and Chandler), the Examiner (Hearst) and the Express (E. T. Earl) joined in the cry that water must be brought from a distance. It was done. Water rights were acquired in the Owens River Valley, and water was brought 250 miles over mountains and desert.

The argument was that as more and more water is used by the citizens of Los Angeles, less and less remains for the farmers of the Owens River Valley. Without water for irrigation their farms will again become desert.

Some time ago a section of the aqueduct was dynamited. The city engineer of Los Angeles, Bill Mulholland, who has been in charge of the aqueduct from the beginning has been threatened with death.

City's Man Kidnapped.

Recently, L. C. Hall, of Los Angeles, who has been aiding agents of the city to buy water rights, was kidnapped and beateh. Further violence is prophesied by the Owens Valley Herald.

A commission of Los Angeles city officials has just reached the valley where it will try to settle the dispute by paying indemnity.

Graft had full away when the aqueduct was built. It has been charged that desert lands needed for the right of yay were bought by a real estate syndicate and resold to the city at enormous profits.

Politicians Want Aqueduct.

Among the members of this syndicate were the politicians and newspaper publishers who most loudly demanded the aqueduct.

This syndicate bought the San Fernando Valley, a triangle of desert nearly fifteen miles long on each side. It lies just north of Hollywood, separated by a range of hills. This land was laid out in farms and townsites and resold at an enormous profit. Later the Valley was annexed to the city, and aqueduct water irrigates these farms. Some water was at hand, but only the aqueduct could supply enough to serve the entire valley.

Investigate Aqueduct.

Twelve years ago the Los Angeles Record (Scripps syndicate) was radical. It supported the socialist ticket in city elections. And it forced an investigation of the aqueduct. Like most investigations, it brought no result. The three newspapers involved in the syndicate, and two others controlled by these, hushed up things, attacked the investigators, lied, as brass check editors can lie.

Whether the water famine had been real or artificial could not be proven. But some facts came out. In places the cement conduits carrying the water had already burst under the pressure. In others the concrete was so soft that a stick could be poked thru it. And still worse. The water came across the desert in an open ditch with steep sloping sides of smooth cement. Coyotes and other animals seeking water fell in and were swept away. It became necessary to skim the dead animals off the reservoirs every once in a while, as the reservoirs became clogged. Protests by physicians finally compelled the city officials to fence in these open ditches.

The water is unusually alkaline. It is not fit to drink, nor for cooking, nor even to wash with. All it is really fit for is to irrigate the syndicate's lands in the San Fernando Valley.

RADIO TELEGRAPHERS FEAR THAT COOLIDGE'S ELECTION WILL KILL CHANCES TO ORGANIZE A UNION

By ART SHIELDS
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—While T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the U. S. Shipping board, and former president of the International Longshoremen's Association, is rooting for Coolidge among his late union colleagues, he is attempting to prevent the revival of a labor union among the marine radio operators under his jurisdiction.

The United Radio Telegraphers' Association, born in war time, is the only marine union which was entirely destroyed in the great 1921 strike. Other marine unions, such as the International Seamen's Union and the organizations for engineers, masters, mates, etc., were badly shaken up but the radio operators' movement was put out of business. Recently some of the boys have been trying to get a union going again to recover the wage ground lost in the last three years. They have found their efforts combatted by the stoolpigeons of the shipping board, other steamship concerns and the big radio corporations.

Difficulties In Way.

Difficulties in organizing the wireless operators are far greater than those facing other workers on a ship, say wireless men who have put their case before The Federated Press. Where seamen and firemen have only one boss to fight, the radio operator is under two sets of masters, the steamship line and the radio corporation that has the contract with the company.

Leading all the other radio corporations in wealth and in strikebreaking efficiency is the Radio Corporation of America, owned by General Electric Co. This big aggregation of capital has shrewd employment arrangement calculated to keep its wireless posts openshop. It turns out its own operators thru its own schools, with 4-month terms, and taboos the regular line radio operators who have been knocking about the seas under many auspices and are possibly affected by union ideas.

Interlocking Anti-Unionists.

Many of the shipping board vessels have contracts with the Radio Corporation of America tho the policy still prevails of dividing the contracts up among all the leading companies. These include the Independent Wireless Telegraph Co. and the Ship Owners' Radio service, which are equally opposed to unionism tho lacking the super-strikebreaking resources of the octopus. The United Fruit Co. has its own radio outfit.

Radio operators behind the union movement say that if Coolidge is re-elected, with his anti-labor shipping board policies, their prospects for a union are slim.

MOVIE OPERATORS WIN HANDS DOWN BEFORE A STRIKE

Ninety-five Per Cent of Men Already Back

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Ninety-five of Greater New York are signed up with the Moving Picture Operators union on the new terms, the executive board of the union announces. Only after the threatened strike in all New York's movie theaters not more than 2 houses in the whole city were tied up for failure to give the per cent of the moving picture houses moving picture operators the two shift day and five per cent wage increase which had been demanded.

Ignore Boss Gang.

The so-called chamber of commerce of the Theater Owners' Assn. is no longer recognized by the moving picture operators union because of its failure to sign the new agreement with the workers. Members of the Theater Owners' Assn. have been early besieging the union office, however, to sign up for their houses individually. The Vaudeville Managers' Assn. signed a two-year agreement with the union at the first threat of a strike.

20,000 Out of Work.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 8 — Twenty thousand unemployed men in Milwaukee is the estimate of Frank J. Weber, secretary of the Federated Trades cougcil.

Fear Comunists In Portugal.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—A Lisbon dispatch to the Morning Post today, said serious Communist demonstrations are threatened in Portugal.

BRITISH WORKERS TOLD STORY OF FRAME-UP AGAINST MEMBERS OF I. W. W. IN CENTRALIA CASE

(By Defense News Service)

LONDON, England, Sept. 8.—Working class groups here are being informed of the facts in connection with the Armistice Day tragedy at Centralia, Washington, by Elisabeth Gilman, of the Christian Social Justice Fund of Baltimore. From the beginning, Miss Gilman has actively participated in the fight to liberate the eight industrialists who are serving long terms for defending their livesand property against a mob which attacked the Centralia I. W. W. hall in 1919.

Several open air meetings are to be arranged for Miss Gilman by the Class War Prisoners' Release Committee, the secretary of which is William T. Colyer, who was deported from Boston in 1921 for his political beliefs. It is expected that at least one of these meetings will be held in Hyde Park, where thousands of working people congregate of an evening to hear the human struggle discussed.

Lately the London Daily Herald published an interview with Miss Gilman on the Centralia case. To that newspaper she said: "At this time when London is welcoming American, the American Bar Association, the advertisers and innumerable tourists, there are others from across the sea who are anxious that their English cousins should help work for the release of eight industrial union lads who are buried alive in Walla Walla prison in the state of Washington.

"They were lumberjacks and when on Armistice Day, 1919, their hall was attacked by marching veterans of the world war, they fired guns, and four of the attacking party were killed. Others broke into the hall and in the most brutal fashion lynched one of the I. W. W.'s, himself an ex-soldier, Wesley Everest.

"Everest's murderers were never brot to trial, but eleven I. W. W. members were tried. No justice was possible, however, in that highly stimulated war environment, and eight men were convicted and sentenced to serve 25 to 40 years in prison.

"Since then six of the jurors have confessed in affidavits that they were terrorized into convicting the accused men, that they believe that the eight defendants were innocent of murder, having acted in self-defense against a premeditated raid upon their property."

Much indignation has been expressed here by working people who learned from Miss Gilman that Governor Louis Hart of Washington had ignored affidavits from three newly discovered eye-witnesses of the Centralia tragedy, who have taken oath that the parading ex-service men attacked the I. W. W. hall before any shots were fired from inside.

Miss Gilman has numerous friends in London. She is the daughter of the late president of John Hopkins University in Baltimore.

Thru the efforts of the Class Prisoners' Release Committee, a great deal of publicity has been given in England to the Centralia case and to the frameups which for several years have kept Sacco and Vanzetti in prison in Massachusetts and Mooney and Billings walled up in California. Secretary Colyer is the author of a book entitled "Americanism, a World Menace," which details comprehensively the many onslaughts against outspoken workingmen in the United States and lays bare the workings of reactionary interests behind those prosecutions.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A GOOD MODEL FOR MATURE FIGURES.

4867. Printed cotton, crepe, silk alpaca, satin or kasha could be used for this design. It has straight lines, but added fulness is supplied by plait sections at each side of the fronts.

The Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 5¾ yards of 40 inch material. For collar, vestee and cuffs of contrasting material ⅛ yard is required. The width at the foot with plaits extended is 2¼ yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL AND WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

A PLEASING SCHOOL FROCK.

4880. Checked gingham combined with linene or chambrey would be attractive for this model. It is also good for wool crepe, jersey or repp, with contrasting material for collar, cuffs, panel and belt.

The Pattern is cut in four Sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 6 year size requires 3¼ yards of one material 27 inches wide. If made as illustrated it will require 2¾ yards of figured or checked material and ⅞ yard of plain material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL AND WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The patterns being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. If not become impatient if your pattern is

Go to eat where all the rest 100% union men and women go
Deutche-Hungarian Restaurant
29 South Halsted St.
Pure Food, Good Service and reasonable prices our motto.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year $3.50...6 months $2.00...3 months

By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year $4.50...6 months $2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE, MORITZ J. LOEB.....Editors
.....Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application

What Will Peoria Do?

When the 600 delegates of the Illinois State Federation of Labor gathered yesterday at Peoria, they faced a terrific responsibility. They are charged with the duty of organizing and carrying forward the struggle of the labor movement against the enemies that beset it. They must face the heart-rendering suffering of the miners, 50,000 of whom are totally unemployed, while the rest are on part time. They must take a stand on the Ku Klux Klan, which is being used by the employers to break strikes, to terrorize the workers, and to suppress labor generally. They must rally the labor movement against the state-wide "open shop" movement which is devastatingly rifling over the unions. These are only some of the most burning and immediate problems at Peoria.

How will these problems be faced? There are two points of view at Peoria. One it that of the officials, such as Walker, Olander, Farrington, and others. It declares against a fighting policy; it wants to form an alliance with capitalist politicians like Len Small, and win the bosses' support on the industrial field by producing more than the scabs, as Farrington proposed to the miners' convention. It is the policy of class collaboration that these men propose, and it is the most destructive policy for the labor movement that could be brought forward. It deserts the struggle and abandons the rank and file to the tender mercies of the employing class.

Against the class collaborators there will be brought forth the policy of the left-wing elements, led by the Communists and the progressive miners. This calls for a fighting policy; it demands relief for the unemployed, to be forced from the employers and the state government thru a series of gigantic mass demonstrations, rousing the entire working class; it declares for war against the union-wrecking K. K. K.; it calls for a great organizing campaign to bring into the labor movement every working man and woman in the State of Illinois. It denounces the alliances with the capitalist politicians, and call for a class political party of the workers and poor farmers. It asserts that the workers must begin preparations for taking over the government, for the overthrow of the power of capitalism, and the institution of a workers' and farmers' government.

What will Peoria do? Upon the line-up in the Peoria convention future history will judge the Illinois labor movement, and the rank and file will learn who are the agents of capitalism and who are the fighters for the working class.

Get a member for the Workers Party and a new subscription for the DAILY WORKER.

The Way of Counter-Revolution

Because the Communists have set their faces like flint against any splitting of the miners of Canada away from the United Mine Workers of America, the so-called One Big Union of Winnipeg has begun to pick up and reproduce the usual capitalist and anarchist slander against Soviet Russia. In addition they announce, in the current issue of their Bulletin, that they will split the miners of Nova Scotia at any cost. That these adventurers who run a "union" on the profits of a gambling game will do all the mischief they can is granted, but now that they are exposing their hand so openly, the damage will probably not be so large as threatened a few months ago.

The traitorous reactionaries, at the head of the U. M. W. of A., of whom John L. Lewis is the king pin, are deliberately provoking all the militant miners everywhere. Lewis has openly boasted that he will force the fighting miners to secede, or else he will throw them out. Lewis wants the militants out of the union, in order that he shall have a free hand to sell the miners again and again to the coal operators.

In spite of any good intentions that may animate individual members of the O. B. U., there can be no question that the split policy they advocate fits exactly into the plans of Lewis. In its effects it is equally a betrayal of the interests of the miners. And that the split policy brings counter-revolutionary effects in its train, in other issues besides those of the union, is proved again by the O. B. U. Bulletin which, because Communists in Nova Scotia and the United States fight against their split desires, turns around to slander the revolutionary Russian workers who have established the only workers' government of the world, cementing its structure together with their blood.

Spread the DAILY WORKER in this campaign and watch the big results in a stronger American Communist movement—a bigger Workers Party.

Every day get a "sub" for the DAILY WORKER and a member for the Workers Party.

Free Speech in Denver

The arrest of Ella Reeve Bloor on the streets of Denver last Friday has raised a storm of protest in that city, which is forcing even the reactionary labor officials to line up against the police practice of arresting speakers, and of attempting to censor their talks. Ella Bloor is one of the veteran agitators of the Communist movement, and wherever she goes, there things begin to happen. It was so in Denver, and while the free speech fight draws in larger and larger circles of workers, incensed at the police suppression, the Workers Party is growing in that city.

Colorado is a state that has long been noted for its brutality and stupidity in handling the labor movement in all its phases. From the days of the Cripple Creek fight, thru the Ludlow massacre, down to the deportation of Foster by Pat Hamrock and now the arrests Ella Bloor, Stanley Clark, and William Dietrich, it is a long record of cynical disregard of their own laws by the hirelings of capital, brutal suppression, and iron dictatorship.

All of which is a part, perhaps necessary, in the education of the working class. Every such incident in a text for a Communist lecture, and enlists more soldiers under the banner of revolution.

And Now It's Navy Day

Militarists in America have taken their cue from the Dawes plan. War is the inevitable outcome of that project, and the jingoes, sensing the fact, are rushing to get ready. The nation is to be mobilized on September 12, as a slap in the face of the rest of the world, and a warning that the Dawes plan has behind it more than pious wishes. Now comes announcement of Navy Day in October, which is to let the world know that on the sea, also, American imperialism is pushing forward.

The most tremendous armament race that the world has ever seen is now on. It is camouflaged behind the official shelving of obsolete battleships, called "disarmament" moves. But the really effective war machinery developed by the past ten years experience in mass murder—aeroplanes, submarines, poison gas, and mass mobilization—are being feverishly piled up in every country, not least in the United States which now has accepted the job, via Morgan, of ruling the world.

Navy Day is another demonstration of the brazen militarism that grips America. It fits right into the concerted drive, which will land this country in war just as surely as imperialism is the inevitable outgrowth of capitalist exploitation. For the working class there is but one answer: "Down with mobilization day! Down with navy day! Down with the capitalist system that breeds wars! Establish the dictatorship of the workers, the only alternative to the present dictatorship of the capitalists!"

Get a member for the Workers Party.

Nothing Doing, Mr. Batt!

The DAILY WORKER is in receipt of a letter asking it to support Mr. Dennis Batt for the State Legislature of Michigan. Mr. Batt is running on the ticket of the republican party and is, presumably, a member of the same party with Coolidge and Dawes. How anyone, who pretends to any working class consciousness, could think that this paper would give Batt anything but the public exposure that a traitor deserves, is hard to under stand.

Batt once proclaimed himself a Marxist, a revolutionist, and was a member of the Communist Party, later of the Proletarian Party. He went to Russia as a delegate from the Detroit Federation of Labor, and there declared himself one of the real "reds" of America. He always was in the front ranks when there were cheers to be given for the dictatorship of the proletariat.

And then gradually, upon returning to the U. S., Batt began looking for a nice fat job. The Communist movement has no fat jobs for anyone. So Batt became more conservative, gaining thereby the editorship of the Detroit Labor News. Then he became more conservative still, and was thrown out of the Proletarian Party by his 16 party comrades. Then Batt began to support the labor party movement, switching soon to the C. P. P. A. From the C. P. P. A. he quickly graduated into the Gompers camp, and thence into the republican party.

This renegade is now asking the workers to send him to the State Legislature. His name goes out, coupled with that of the millionaire Couzens, and upon the same ticket with "Open Shop" Dawes. The man who, in 1921 at the first convention of the Workers Party, said he could not join an opportunist and un-Marxian organization, now finds himself with the blackest camp in American political life.

Gompers was dragged into the LaFollette movement—only after he had received the price of his own dictatorship in the approval of congressional and state candidates on the republican and democratic tickets.

Dawes fights against the socialists—which is ungrateful, considering that the socialists are the instruments by which his plan is being put across on the European workers.

A panic is on among the reactionary labor officials. Each wants to outdo the other, in showing how respectable and how collaborationist he is. But the class struggle goes on and will throw them on the scrap heap of history.

Join the Workers Party and subscribe to the DAILY WORKER!

LaFollette Program Opposes Labor's Rule

(Continued from page 1.)

the private monopoly system over the political and economic life of the American people." During all these years the Wisconsin Senator has looked upon John Sherman, father of the still-born Serman anti-trust act, as his god. Even in the July 4th letter accepting the presidential nomination by the Progressive Conference, LaFollette spoke of Sherman as "The clearest-visioned Republican statesman of his time" and called the Sherman Law, enacted by a Republican Congress in 1890, "the most effective weapon that the ingenuity of man could devise against the power of monopoly."

This weapon has proved incenious indeed! The trend of economic development in the United States has for some time proved and proves today that the economics on which the LaFollette movement bases its politics is hopelessly wrong. Concentrating of industry and finance has been making strides in very leaps and bounds. No amount of indignant yapping could or can prevent this tendency. Assuming that all the witch-doctors' remedies against trusts proved successful, the very day on which free, capitalist competition could be restored, would be the day on which this competition would start to dig its own grave and thru elimination and mergers would continually beget concentration of ownership and centralization of control—trustification.

Trusts Go Forward.

Despite the fact of hunting the trusts with whips and torches, the giant corporations have steadily gained in strength. The march of the forces making for large-scale production has gone on apace. The thirty-three powerful Standard Oil subsidiaries whose oil wells and pipe lines overflow and undermine the country are thirty-three living monuments to the inefficacy of anti-trust legislation and to the uselessness of judicial dissolution suits. The tobacco, steel, copper, coal, and other monopolies tell similar stories.

But it is the dull, dreary, and apparently uninspiring figures of American economic development that plumb the depths of the economic fallacy of trust-busting.

We find that, in the manufacturing industries, the proportion of establishments employing 500 and more workers increased from 28 percent in 1909 to 39.6 percent in 1919. At the same time the proportion of manufacturing establishments employing from one to fifty workers fell from 26 percent in 1909 to 19.4 percent in 1919.

In 1909, only 25.3 percent of the manufacturing industries employing 75 percent of the workers and accounting for 79 percent of the total value of the committees produced, were corporation-owned. By 1919 the proportion of corporation-owned manufacture establishments rose to 31.5 percent; the percentage of workers employed reached 86.5 percent; and the value of the commodities produced by these workers mounted to 87.7 percent of the total.

During this decade, 1909-1919, the proportion of individually owned plants declined from 52.4 to 42.6 percent; the percentage of the workers thus employed fell from 12.2 to 6.9 percent; and the value of these products sank from 9.9 to 5.7 percent of the total.

And Wisconsin, the citadel of LaFollettism today ranks fifth in the proportion of its manufacturing industries which are corporation-owned. The Badger State has 92.6 percent of its manufacturing plants owned by corporations.

Concentration Goes On Apace

From 1914 to 1919 the number of manufacturing concerns producing less than $5,000 a year declined from 97,060 to 65,485. In this period the plants producing from $20,000 to $100,000 annually rose from 56,814 to 77,911; plants turing out from $100,000 to $500,000 rose from 25,847 to 39,647; plants producing from $500,000 to $1,000,000 yearly mounted from 4,320 to 9,208; and factories producing more than one million dollars advanced from 3,819 to 10,414. Thus, the most concentrated industries show gains in strength from 200 to 300 percent.

Last but not least, the number of wage earners employed by corporations producing a value of less than one million dollars fell from 4,560,241 to 3,923,662. On the other hand, the total employed in manufacturing industries increased in this period. At the same time the number of wage earners employed by manufacturing establishments producing one million dollars or more rose from 2,476,006 to 5,172,712.

Finally, in 1914 less than half of the total value of manufactured products were turned out in plants producing more than one million dollars. By 1919 the proportion of the total value of manufactured commodities turned out in plants producing more than one million dollars annually was well over two-thirds.

Hurting Workers

Indeed, in so far as the effectiveness of the anti-trust laws matters, they have proved their mettle only against the organizations of the workers. Such bitter experiences have thes anti-trust edicts proved to the workingman that, today, even the American Federation of Labor is for their repeal. It is significant that the Clayton Act, once called by Gompers the "Magna Charta" of Labor, has lost nearly all of its favor with its worshippers of yesterday.

But even if LaFollette's program were realized, would it be desirable? The answer is decisively No! It is not large-scale production, it is not highly centralized industry that is responsible for the suffering and hardships of the great mass of population. Small-scale competitive capitalist production, assuming that it could be perpetuated, is socially undesirable. It would deprive the masses of many of the evils achieved by them thru years of bitter struggle for higher standards of living.

Standing On Its Head

LaFollette's economic program is standing on its head. Marx would say that "it must be turned right side up again, if you would discover the rational kernel within the mystical shell." The trouble with the present system of production and exchange is not that it is highly developed. The basic trouble is that the highly concentrated, large-scale means of production and exchange, all socially used, are privately owned for private profits. The way to end these anti-social conditions giving rise to unemployment, long hours, degrading working conditions and numerous other causes of suffering among the masses is to end the private ownership of capital.

But this is precisely what LaFollette is inveterately opposed to. LaFollette is a determined defender of the private ownership of capital, of the means of the production and exchange, socially used. The socialization of the trusts, the socialization of the well-developed means of subsistence, is anathema to LaFollette, for it would mean the end of the private profit, the capitalist system.

Useless Immediate Objectives

Consequently, no one will swallow La-Follette's anti-trust proposals, at a gulp. In the light of the story of our economic development aim Number 1 of the "Progressive" platform striving for "The use of the power of the federal government to crush private monopoly, not to foster it" holds out no hope to the workers.

And so long as private owners, capitalists, are with us to coin the advantages of large-scale production primarily for the enhancement of their profits, point Number Four of LaFollette's program, "the repeal of excessive tariff duties especially on trust-controlled necessities of life," becomes a meaningless phrase.

Point Seven, seeking "legislation to control the meat-packing industry," is simply another instance of flying in the face of facts. For years LaFollette has been after the packing interests. Yet, today, their hold on the government is a strong as ever. This is due to the facts that the ownership of so vital a necessity is permitted to rest in private hands. This is just what LaFollette refuses to disturb.

Misleading Politics

Turning our attention to the second, the political phase of LaFollettism, we are not surprised to find the strongest opposition to working class action.

When the "Progressive" platform says that "class gains are temporary," it is merely befogging the issue. History's verdict on this point is as much opposed to LaFollettism as the science of economics is to his anti-trust program. The story of the American Revolutionary War, the outcome of the Civil War, the gigantic strikes waged by our workers, the demoralising attacks and outrages perpetrated by the LaFollette group against the movement for independent working class political action, and the very campaign LaFollette himself is now leading, all give the lie to this unfounded proposal.

The best way in which the greatest number of the members of any economic group can achieve the maximum politico-social advantages is thru coordinated disciplined political action on a broad scale against the opposing economic group. This, of course, is class action. This is exactly what LaFollette is attempting to do in behalf of his own class of small manufacturers, petty businessmen, and mushroom bankers.

More Empty Gestures

Hence Point Eleven of LaFollette's program asking for the "Election of all federal judges without party designation for limited terms" is an empty gesture. With the press, the means of government, information, and misinformation, all being in the hands of the exploiters, with the very men running for office having been trained in capitalist class law and institutions, it is a travestry on the workers' intelligence to expect them to accept such noisy but worthless phraseology.

Last but not least, it is natural for so energetic a spokesman of the middle business interests as LaFollette to denounce any attempt that might be made by the workers as a class towards asserting their political power. Such action by the workers would take them out of the Wisconsin Senator's political camp and would in time bring them into a sharp clash with the exploiters of all dimensions and all intentions, as a class. Defeat, for all capitalists of all sizes is the much-dreaded outcome that LaFollette foresees in all moves towards independent working class political action. This explains LaFollette's undermining the St. Paul Convention and his attack on the Communists.

Workers Do Organize

But no wholesale dabbling in the glorification of the non-partisan appeal by fraudulent progressives can change the course of economic development. Capitalist industry itself, and not evil men or bad spirits, gives rise to an increasingly sharpening class conflict. Capitalism itself tends to lay the firm foundation for the organization of the workers as a class, along political lines.

It is the very experiences of the workers in their struggle with all strata of the employing class that give rise to and prepare the ground for the working class setting up its own governing, state apparatus. These conditions and such experiences determine the character of the new state machinery organically and best suited to guarantee the rule of the working class, towards the end of building a social order free from the economic class divisions of exploiters and exploited—Communism.

AS WE SEE IT - -

By T. J. O'Flaherty

(Continued from Page 1)

out), and the Dominions beyond the seas, will reside temporarily in a swimming pool located on the Burden estate on Long Island, New York. The report did not say whether the prince's natatory exercises will be turned to good financial account by his keepers. We have not the slightest doubt but that Great Britain could pay off its obligations to the United States by inviting the public to have a look at His Royal Highness, at let us say, ten dollars a peep and one hundred dollars for a good substantial look, the prince exhibiting as much of his person as the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals would permit. Judging by the amount of space given to His Royal Uselessness by the capitalist press, he would attract more interest than the three man-eating savages, on exhibition in Riverview Park.

* * *

SHOULD Gompers die now, a great big question mark would follow him to his grave. What is exciting a large section of the politically animated citizens of the United States is, what induced Mr. Gompers to throw in his lot with Don Quixote LaFollette, sworn foe of the trusts and of the "predatory interests." It is true that Robert never gets beyond the swearing stage with the capitalists and none of them experience an unpleasant sensation around the gizzard at the thought of his occupying the White House, but besides capitalists there are also professional politicians who have their own private axes to grind as well as acting the part of general grinders for the capitalist class. So the present capitalist servants look on "Barkin' Bob" with misgivings. They view him with alarm—so to speak, because he may jockey them out of their jobs as capitalism's favorite servants.

* * *

BUT Sam Gompers. Trusts are his meat, even tho he "skins" the Beef Trust once in a while. But must he not show the enemy that his tomahawk is still sharp? Gompers does not like to have the government interfere between labor and capital except as little as possible. Of course, Samuel would make an important exception. If labor, for instance, wanted to change places with capital, that is, become the ruling power, Sam would then not alone excuse the government for butting in on the side of capital, but would head a deputation urging it to take action in defense of the status quo. But in ordinary circumstances, Sam as one who arrogates to himself the right to pose as chief labor manager, one whose job it is to sell the workers to the highest bidder, he resents the interference of the government. It should act as a referee!

* * *

LAFOLLETTE slams the trusts. He wants us to go back to '76. He would repeal the Sherman anti-trust law. He would do other things. "Pfft!" snorts Gompers. Sam says the trusts are alright. The Sherman anti-trust law is all wrong. Go back to '76. Well, perhaps he might be willing to go back when there are no restrictions on the sale of booze, but otherwise Sam is traveling with the big tent. He may grind his teeth once in a while at some particular capitalist, but the system is alright. Mark Hanna was not a bit out of the way, when he called Gompers one of his "trusted labor lieutenants." That historic phrase was uttered some twenty or more years ago. It's still good.

* * *

THE DAILY WORKER was of the opinion that Gompers jumped on the LaFollette bandwagon in order to capture the show. His own circus was losing its novelty, and William H. Johnston, manager of the C. P. P. A. outfit, was running away with the crowd. Johnston did not serve his time in the Salvation Army for nothing. He was a good circus performer. Gompers might have some ethical scruples against stealing the show, being a vigorous opponent of the "boring in vigorous opponent of the "boring in" tactics of the "bona fide" unions. But LaFollette was the classic "borer from within" in the Republican party and the socialist party was boring from within the LaFollette party, and Johnston and Warren S. Stone were boring from within in the Gompersian non-partisan camp, the Sam could see augure in all direction and the whole business did not augur any too well for his prestige as the Shah of organized labor. So he took out his gimlet.

* * *

WITH Gompers to think was to act. Being spurned like a faded prostitute by the pimps of the Republican and Democratic parties, Sam acted as if he was LaFollette's foster father, bestowed his blessing on the new crusaders, at the same time warning all other fakers that he was speaking for labor. A strange silence surrounded William H. Johnston, and it was suddenly discovered that Warren S. Stone found the job of handling the C. P. P. A. LaFollette campaign fund too heavy for him. Leave it to Sam. And if any disgruntled LaFollette supporter talks of organizing a Labor Party, or even a Third bourgeois party after next November, he will have to reckon with Gompers. Sam is a clever boy, if nothing else.

* * *

A sympathizer (with the author of this column) suggested that it might be a good idea if our readers were invited to send in contributions to "As We See It." The author of the suggestion hails from Detroit and an idea coming from such an up-to-date Communist hailiwick is not to be sneezed at. The invitation is hereby generously extended. But certain rules must be observed. First: Our readers must not try to be "funny," tho humor and sarcasm will be received with open arms. Second: Don't feel sore if your contribution should land in the waste basket. We expect to do a land office business and the competition will be fierce. Third: Be concise. Being tedious and long-winded is the prerogative of the column conductor. Fourth: Do not send poetry unless it has propaganda value. Poems about blades of grass, snails, electrons, atoms or ectoplasm will be frowned upon. Vermin however should prove an inexhaustible source of inspiration, as the supply is almost unlimited. This is not to be taken personally however. Under the heading of vermin come capitalists and labor fakers.

* * *

THOSE wishing to assist in turning out a good co-operative column should address all communications to THE DAILY WORKER, "As We See It" Editor, 1113 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Illinois.

DAWES PLAN WON'T GIVE HUNGRY GERMAN WORKERS CHANCE TO EAT

The extent to which Germany's trained industrial population is idle awaiting the arrangements of international financiers is indicated by a survey of the leading trade unions June 30, 1924.

This survey shows that over one-ninth of the German workers were wholly unemployed and nearly one-fifth partially unemployed on that date. Figures taken from the report show the total membership of the unions reporting and the percent of each wholly or partially unemployed:

German Unions	Member-ship	Wholly Unemployed Pct.	Partially Unemployed Pct.
Builders	291,500	9.2
Woodworkers	360,400	12.0	14.2
Metal Workers	947,300	16.5	31.4
Textile workers	355,100	4.3	20.8
Factory workers	312,000	8.9	13.5
Book printers	48,100	2.8	6.5
TOTAL	2,277,400	11.3	19.2

Thus in the metal industry one-sixth of the workers are wholly unemployed and nearly one-third are partially unemployed. It is this situation which underlies the prediction that a settlement along the Dawes plan will vastly increase the competition which American products will meet in world markets. The restarting of German industry at which the bankers are aiming will mean an increase in the productive power of German labor without a corresponding increase in their consuming power. For payment of reparations means that they must give away a large part of their product without receiving goods from other nations in exchange.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

YALE UNIVERSITY
NOV 22 1924
LIBRARY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Communist Candidates
For President:
WILLIAM Z. FOSTER.
For Vice-President:
BENJAMIN GITLOW.

Vol. II. No. 147. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THERE is a gentleman in Chicago, known in polite society as Mr. Joseph Weil, and among his cronies of the underworld, "The Yellow Kid." He is a successful business man tho in pursuit of it he sometimes finds himself on the wrong side of a penitentiary. But Mr. Weil is not a radical and his prison terms are only slight interferences with his business. Quite recently "The Yellow Kid" was coasting about the Chicago boulevards in a slick limousine and ran into a young lad who was sent to the hospital for repairs. Mr. Weil appeared in court the following day with his lawyer, informed the judge that he had settled with the wounded man who was perfectly satisfied with the settlement, declared Mr. Weil, "The Kid" was released. Yesterday the wounded man appeared in court and had a talk with the judge. What "The Kid" told the court was a pipe dream. The cops are now looking for Mr. Weil.

• • •

FORMER Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, is dead set against certain witnesses who may appear before the grand jury which is seekin further evidence in the "oil cases." Fall is one of the associates of Charles Evans Hughes who was running away with "our institutions" while Hughes and company were burning the midnight oil getting the "goods" on Soviet Russia. If Fall had a little more time to finish the job, Sam and Charlie would have to use electric illumination. As it is he put quite a hole in the oil supply.

• • •

MISS AMERICA of 1924 who won the beauty contest at Atlantic City may be sound in the body but judging from a telegram she sent to Calvin Coolidge she is reasonably safe from brain fever. She hasn't any. Here is the telegram: "The crown of honor of being Miss America was bestowed on me in the national beauty tournament in Atlantic City last Saturday night. To be worthy of this honor, I will endeavor to live the principles and traditions of the real American life." Which does not mean a thing. The lady also expressed her desire for the "red blooded type of man." We are not aware of any blood that is not red tho the Prince of Wale's gore is supposed to be blue.

• • •

WHAT is in a name? There is a good deal when it is properly used. Passing along by the Herald and Examiner Building in Chicago, my attention was called to a large sign which read "Hearst Square." I had seen it before and did not pay any particular attention to it. "Well, that takes the biscuit," remarked my friend. "Hearst Square. Why he is so crooked that he could sleep comfortably on a cork screw." And come to think of it, he was right.

• • •

THE PRINCE OF WALES got home at 5 o'clock one morning and his host immediately called in the doctor. The prince, explained however, that his early arrival was not due to indisposition but to the arrest of his footlegger by an Irish policeman. Despite the general warning created by the prohibition department, that the prince's booze runners should not be interfered with, the cop who happened to be a member of the Clan na Gael saw a chance to have a drink of good stuff and take a slam at British royalty. As the prince's slogan is that no party can exist half drunk and half sober he quit early and went to sleep.

• • •

HELSINGFORS took up lots of space in the papers during the war. It is a Finnish port and was used by the Allies as a base. The latest from Helsingfors is that Leningrad is under martial law because the troops refused to act against strikers. Helsingfors also learns that another bomb was found in the Lenin mausoleum and that the Moscow police are beginning to smell a plot. Who would ever believe that they could be so suspicious?

• • •

SOVIET RUSSIA is not going so badly. The total foreign trade turn-over figures for the first half of 1923-24 shows a considerable increase over the figures for the corresponding previous half year and with the first six months of the previous fiscal year. The figures for 1923 are 119,736 value in gold rubles, 1923-24, 262,765 in gold rubles. In quantity the increase is more impressive. In the first half year 1923-24 the foreign trade turn-over was 65,196 thousands of poods while the figures for the corresponding period of 1923-24 are 222,903. This looks very much like progress. But Charlie Hughes will not pay any attention to information that is not furnished by stoolpigeons.

MILITANTS PUSH PEORIA FIGHT

SCHOOL BOARD IN TRICKY AID TO MC ANDREW

Teachers Declare Fight to the Finish

Superintendent William McAndrew, waging war on the organized teachers of Chicago, may find unexpected help when a sympathizing school board, on whose action the calling of the teachers' councils depends, decides to ignore the entire controversy until the time for the teachers' meetings has passed.

In that case, the teachers are prepared to take more drastic action against the superintendent of schools, and fight the thing out to a finish, Elzy F. Downey, president of the high school teachers' council, intimated yesterday.

Expect Action Today.

The executive board of the high school teachers of the city, whom McAndrew has refused to call together for the regular meeting scheduled for next week, decided yesterday to postpone further action until the matter is taken up in the meeting of the board of education today.

Meanwhile, copies of McAndrew's statement have been sent out to every member of the councils, so that the teachers may be prepared to act after the decision of the board has been made.

That the board may fail to bring up the question for decision until after the date set for the teachers' meeting—in this way settling the question in their own favor by default—was discovered yesterday when Charles M. Moderwell, president of the board, told the DAILY WORKER that he did not expect the matter to come up today.

Moderwell Backs McAndrew.

President Moderwell, who is president of the Moderwell Coal and Coke company, and of the Mordue Collieries company, a mining company located in West Virginia, as well as being president of the board that runs the affairs of the thousands of teachers and the hundreds of thousands of school children in Chicago, expressed himself as being in complete sympathy with the action of Superintendent McAndrew in refusing to call together the only school organization in which the teachers have a voice.

"We are going to settle once for all the question of whether the board is running the schools, or whether the teachers are running them," is the way Moderwell phrases it.

"When Superintendent McAndrew last year attempted the same thing he is trying to do now, Margaret Haley, of the Chicago Teachers' Federation, preferred charges against him. The school attorney proved that McAndrew has no right to refuse to call councils together. In spite of that fact, he is trying the same trick this year," Mr. Downey told the DAILY WORKER.

Not Tempest In Teapot.

"If it were not that there is really something more to this controversy than the simple question of whether the teachers are to meet on their own or on school time, the whole thing would seem like a tempest in a teapot."

No action has yet been taken by the officials of the Chicago Teachers' Federation, and no indication has been given that the Federation will take up the fight, in spite of the fact that all of the teachers of the city are looking to the Federation for help.

Wash Streets For First Time.

JOHANNESBURGH, South Africa, Sept. 9.— Earth tremors here today upset huge vats in a soap factory and streets in the vicinity were flooded to a depth of three feet with the boiling soap.

Vote Communist This Time!

We Go on Massachusetts Ballot

By JOHN J. BALLAM
District Organizer, Workers Party
(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 9.—Electors for the Communist candidates, William Z. Foster, for president, and Benjamin Gitlow, as well as the entire state Communist ticket have been placed on the Massachusetts state ticket here for the fall elections. Petitions carrying 1,241 certified signatures have been filed with the secretary of state. More than 2,000 names were secured, altho only 1,000 were required to place the candidates on the ballot. Great enthusiasm prevails here for the Gitlow mass meeting planned for Sunday afternoon in the Scenic Auditorium.

• • •

MASSACHUSETTS is the third state to put Communist candidates on the state ballot. The first was North Dakota, the second, Pennsylvania, and now the third, Massachusetts. WHO IS NEXT?

FALL'S FOES STUB TOES ON LEGAL JOKER

Oil Thief's Operations Are Privileged

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The new grand jury probe into private oil business conducted by Albert B. Fall when he was a trusted member of the Harding cabinet is positively insulting, in the official opinion of Justice Siddons of the Washington Supreme Court. The judge gave it to understand that business is business even if it involves cash in satchels and ranches and cows and other desirable things.

When Fall fell from grace after his relations with Doheny and Sinclair came to light, the "average citizen" thought his goose was cooked. Perhaps is was, tho Fall prefers chicken a la Do. Anyhow, Fall employed a battalion of good lawyers who know capitalist law pretty thoroughly and Fall is learning that it is as easy to beat the law as it is to break it, provided there is plenty money to do the job with.

Red Foe Is Fall Friend.

A fellow by the name of Littleton was very active against the Communists in 1919 on the ground that they were out to smash "American institutions by force and violence." The same gentleman is now helping Fall to violate the laws of the United States.

The U. S. government gave Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts the job of lighting a fire under Fall. They had plenty of oil but no matches. They went to the court for a permit to carry lighting material and the judge looked at them like a pair of arson bugs.

By the time the Fall case is over and done with, we may have a Soviet Republic here, that is provided Samuel Gompers joins his fathers. Sam says the Workers' Republic will be established over his dead body. So be it. Amen.

Fall May Head Oil Trust.

The last we heard of Fall was that he was one of the attractions at a party given Mr. Doheny. Fall is a republican and Doheny is a democrat, yet they did not quarrel with each other.

The report that Fall is slated for president of the Standard Oil Company has not been confirmed.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

MAC DONALD LEARNS THAT GODLY MEN HAVE ONE HELLUVA TIME

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Sept. 9.—"Our common aim and aspiration should be to promote good will among nations and establish peace upon earth," said Premier Ramsay McDonald today, in accepting the freedom of the city. "When we put our hand to this work, however, we discovered how difficult are the minds of men. Peace, security, co-operation—what do they mean? There are men of critical minds who can prove beyond the possibility of a doubt that any scheme produced will not work."

LEFT WING URGES ACTION ON BIG PROBLEMS FACING LABOR AS PEORIA STATE CONVENTION GETS UNDER WAY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 9.—Assurances that a strong left wing fight would be made for progressive labor measures, at the convention here of the Illinois Federation of Labor, were found in the resolutions being presented for action by the annual gathering of Illinois labor.

These resolutions covered among other subjects those of amalgamation, organization of the unorganized, recognition of Soviet Russia, the Ku Klux Klan, Defense Day, and the vital issue of unemployment. These resolutions are published in full as follows:

• • •

Condemn Ku Klux Klan.

WHEREAS, We see plainly that there are different kinds of illegal organizations thruout the world appearing under different kinds of masks and names; and

WHEREAS, We see all thru experience that every one of those organizations has the same aim—to destroy the labor organizations; and

WHEREAS, We see one of the bosses' organizations—the K. K. K. —existing in this country and daily torturing the people, especially organized labor, as for instance at Herrin, Zeigler, Christopher and Dowell, and brutal murder right in the courthouse of West Frankfort, and etc.; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That we, condemning the illegal K. K. K. organization, also call on our brother delegates to the Forty-Second Annual Convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor to adopt this resolution and demand that the Illinois State Federation of Labor promote a series of anti-Klan mass meetings and demonstrations in the State of Illinois, especially in the southern part.

L. U. 3763, U. M. W. of A., at Dowell, Ill., and many other local unions.

• • •

For Soviet Recognition.

WHEREAS, The Russian Soviet Government, for a period of almost six years, has withstood all attacks launched against it not only by enemies within its own boundaries, but also from outside hostile governments, thereby demonstrating that it is a stable organization and has the support of the Russian people; and

WHEREAS, Many European and other governments have established diplomatic and commercial relations with the Russian government that have proven profitable to all such countries and are also enabling the Russian people to secure access to the foodstuffs, medicines, machinery and other commodities and supplies so vitally needed, in their great work of reconstruction; and

WHEREAS, The present administration at Washington, by thus far failing to give recognition to Soviet Russia, has greatly injured that country as well as our own, and

WHEREAS, Many labor unions, in common with liberal minded people generally, such as Senators La-Follette, Borah, Wheeler, Brookhart, Shipstead and Johnson are demanding that this belated recognition be granted Russia, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Illinois Federation of Labor in its Forty-second Annual Convention, in the name of solidarity with the First Workers' Republic, join this progressive movement and call upon the American Federation of Labor to extend all efforts in order that the United States government shall give full and complete recognition to Soviet Russia.—TOM PARRY, Delegate, Miners' L. U. No. 146.

Organize the Unorganized.

WHEREAS, Only a small percentage of the working class masses are as yet members of the trade unions, great numbers being still

(Continued on page 2)

STRIKE STILL ON IN BELLEVILLE; UNION AID SLOW

Determined Workers Get Small Assistance

By BARNEY MASS.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Sept. 9.—A committee of three, cosisting of Alice Jones, Lucille Boyce and Arthur Renfro, a Negro, who are the secretary, president and sergeant-at-arms respectively, of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Local in Belleville, Ill., and are now on strike, left for Chicago to solicit the aid of the general office for support in their fight. This committee left Sunday night after a meeting of the local's executive board, which authorized such action.

Committee Still in Chicago.

Up to last night the committee had not returned from Chicago. The reason for this action on the part of the strikers is due to the hesitant manner in which the union representative of the Amalgamated is handling the strike. Many of the pants makers live on their own resources and the strike has entered its seventh week. It is unnecessary to say, that scabbing for these determined strikers is one out of the question. In spite of the laxity of the union officials, the workers are set on winning their own strike.

After appealing for aid to Mr. Blumberg, organizer for the Amalgamated, time and again, the strikers decided to take things in their own hands, and the committee of action resulted. When speaking to Alice Huber, one of the girls fined $50.00 for violation of the injunction, also a member of the executive board, she said: "Winter is coming and we will need clothes, but we would rather die than go back defeated to that boss." This was made in reference to Chas. Meyer, owner of the factory. Out of 65 workers 50 are on strike.

The chief complaint of the strikers against the union is the failure on its part to pay the girls who are in destitute circumstances. Why doesn't Blumberg do something instead of sitting all day long in soft cushion chairs in the Belleville House? He merely kids the strikers when approached for assistance, was the accusation made by the girls interviewed yesterday.

Rumors of Settlement.

Rumors are current of a settlement to be reached within a few days. Mr. Blumberg refused to make any comment on this. Efforts to call a conference between the operator and the union representative were made by Dan Thomas, president of the Belleville sub-district U. M. W. of A., but it was of no avail. The greedy boss refused to even see anyone representing the strikers. He is bent on crushing the union.

Luke Coffey, vice-president of the Belleville sub-district U. M. W. of A., has contributed largely in helping the young pants makers. The question has been raised, why the aid of the miners is not obligined? Why doesn't the whole Central Labor Union of Belleville get behind the strike? When asked these questions, Blumberg replied, "these people know nothing of an injunction and how to fight it." It comes with ill grace from anyone to insinuate that miners don't know how to fight injunctions.

COOLIDGE GANG IS LINED UP ON RUSSIAN ISSUE

Erstwhile Liberals Are Silent on Recognition

Orders to line up a la Hughes on the issue of Soviet recognition have undoubtedly gone out to so-called liberal republicans who have shown a tendency to waver on the side of the Workers' Republic.

Both Raymond Robins and William Wrigley, Jr., now staunch supporters of the Coolidge-Dawes campaign, But formerly champions of the cause of Soviet recognition, refused to discuss this issue when approached by the DAILY WORKER.

Hughes Raises Issue.

The issue of Soviet recognition has been raised again by the campaign material combatting Soviet recognition furnished by Secretary of State Hughes, that will be circulated as official matter by the republican campaigners.

"We would like to quote your views on the hostile material furnished by Secretary Hughes," a reporter for the DAILY WORKER opened up on Mr. Robins.

"Nothing doing!" said Robins, closing the interview before it had hardly started.

Robins was a "Bull Mooser" in 1912, with Roosevelt. This year, it is said, the LaFollette forces tried to get him to run on the "Back to 76" ticket for governor of Illinois. But he has come out for Coolidge. Robins visited Soviet Russia and wrote articles very favorable to the Soviet government.

Wrigley Dodges Issue.

Efforts to get in direct touch with the Chewing Gum King failed. But the interview was carried on thru his assistants.

First efforts were greeted with, "Mr. Wrigley is very busy." Then finally, "But I'll ask him." The final decision was:

"Mr. Wrigley will not issue any statement to the press on the subject of the recognition of Soviet Russia."

Wrigley was formerly one of the chief backers of Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, in his primary race for the presidential nomination. But he deserted the Californian and the national republican campaign headquarters is now housed in his Chewing Gum Palace on "Boul Mich."

Borah Escapes.

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho who has urged recognition of Soviet Russia, and who is this fall in the Coolidge camp, could not be reached before he left for the west last night.

FOE OF BOXING GAME GRABS CASE OF PAMPA BULL BY THE HORNS

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 9.—In a last minute effort to stop the fight between Luis Firpo, "Wild Bull of the Pampas," and Harry Wills, scheduled to be held at Boyle's Thirty Acres on Thursday night, Herbert Clarke Gilson, attorney for the Society for the Prevention of Vice and Promotion of Public Morals, today announced he would seek a restraining order.

LEFT WINGERS FOR PROGRESS AT LABOR MEET

Quesse, Janitors' Head, Taboos Discussion

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 9.—The left wing delegates to the state convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor are responsible for the fight that is being waged here for progressive trade union policies against the opposition of the reactionary labor leaders.

The great majority of the resolutions printed for use at the convention were introduced by the left wing locals of the Miners' Union.

Seek Jobless Insurance.

Dan Thomas, delegate from the O'Fallon Miners' Local, brought in a resolution seeking a law for unemployment insurance and urging state and national governments to hire the unemployed for public works at trade union wages.

Other resolutions introduced called for: The six-hour day, demanding the formation of a state labor party, to be formed under the auspices of the State Federation of Labor; endorsing Len Small for governor; endorsing LaFollette for U. S. President.

Gaseous Quesse Fumes.

Delegate Quesse of the Flat Janitors' Union of Chicago, qualified as an expert on noxious gases when he succeeded in defeating a ruling of the committee on rules, that the introducer of a resolution be permitted to speak after motion to close debate.

"This rule gives delegates the opportunity to inject poison into the convention and is dangerous and unconstitutional," declared Quesse. He forget to say that it was "irrelevent, incompetent, immaterial and had nothing to do with the case," as the lawyers put it, when he put up the objection. William Near of the Chauffeur's Union supported the flat janitor chief.

Delegate Suggests Fumigation.

Delegate Henry Corbishley of the Ziegler miners, said: "If the delegates are afraid of being poisoned perhaps we ought to fumigate the place."

Delegate Corbishley explained that it was not poison in the atmosphere some of the reactionaries feared so much as enlightment in the heads of the rank and file.

Fight Occupational Diseases.

In a report presented by the committee on occupational diseases, the trade union movement was urged to fight for workers' compensation in occupational disease cases as well as in accident cases. The report is in part as follows:

"With the life of our organizations assured and with diminishing need for pressure on wage rates, unions should now assume a militant position in securing protection for the workers' health and thru that protection the opportunity to earn established rates of wages without a high degree of hazard of intermittent or permanent illness in the occupation itself.

Illinois Conditions Explained.

"Illinois has advanced in the prevention of industrial accidents and in the compensation of the accidentally injured; more persons are gradually having their health broken down by harmful conditions of work than there were fifteen years ago and there has been no improvement in provision of benefits for those stricken.

"There is just as much reason for workmen's compensation in occupational disease cases as there is in the case of accidents. If it is hazardous to human lives to produce an article of human usefulness, then the cost of production should include the cost of the conservation of health. Profiting by the experience of other states, Illinois should bring occupational diseases under workmen's compensation rules by amending the act to make it apply to all 'personal injuries.'"

Admire Len's Technique.

A capitalist judge, J. Harles, of Rock Island, addressed the delegates

(Continued on page 2)

RIFF TRIBESMEN CUT RAILWAY LINE WHEN FOES AREN'T LOOKING

(Special to The Daily Worker)

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 9.—It is reported here that the rebellious Riff tribesmen, fighting the Spanish troops in Morocco, have succeeded in cutting the railway line from Ceuta to Tangiers.

ITALIAN FASCISTI PLANNING BIG COUP AS DAY OF RECKONING NEARS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The Daily Herald quoted the Giornale, of Rome, as asserting that the Fascisti is planning a coup for September 21, having as its object the suppression of the opposition leaders.

WALKER WON'T PUSH PROGRAM FOR JOBLESS

Doesn't Know What the Convention Will Do

By KARL REEVE
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 9.—John H. Walker, president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, and chairman of the 42nd convention here, admitted to the DAILY WORKER today that he would recommend no action to solve the unemployment situation among the Illinois workers.

"I do not know what action the various committees will take on the unemployment problem," Walker declared. "But I will do nothing about the unemployment crisis. I mentioned it in my report and will take no further action."

In Walker's report there was only the most general reference to unemployment, and not even a vague or indefinite plan of action was suggested by Walker other than "the need for greater unity."

Walker declared to the DAILY WORKER that, "Press dispatches declaring me in favor of amalgamation misinterpreted my remarks. I am a member of an industrial union," Walker continued, "but I do not propose to tell other trade unionists what they should do. If other unions want the craft union form of organization, I am willing to let them have it."

Denies LaFollette's Radicalism.

So far no representative of the rank and file workers has yet spoken to this supposedly labor assemblage. Judge Charles Searles, of Rockford, killed most of the afternoon session, Thursday, praising LaFollette's individual personality and denying the charge that LaFollette is radical.

A resolution demanding action on the unemployment crisis was introduced by the Valier Local Union of the Illinois miners. It resolved, "that we call upon the officials of the Illinois State Federation of Labor to call an unemployed conference of representatives of the various local unions and central labor bodies of the state for the specific purpose of launching a fight for unemployed relief, as a means for forcing the reopening of the mines and factories, and to lay down fundamental plans for the solving of the unemployed problem."

"Further resolved, that we demand from the state government that an appropriation be made to relieve the distress caused by unemployment, and that work be supplied to the unemployed by the state-government at union wages under union conditions."

A resolution demanding that, "the Illinois Federation of Labor in the name of solidarity with the First Workers' Republic, call upon the Federation of Labor to extend all efforts in order that the United States government shall give full and complete recognition to Soviet Russia," was introduced by Thomas Parry, vice-president of the Springfield sub-district of the miners.

Introduce Anti-Klan Resolution.

Several anti-Klan resolutions were introduced, including the resolution indorsed by the Dowell Local Union of the miners, and many other southern Illinois miners' locals.

The Dowell resolution resolved, "That we condemn the illegal Ku Klux Klan and call on our brother delegates to the 42nd Annual Convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor to adopt this resolution and demand that they promote a series of anti-Klan mass meetings and demonstrations in the State of Illinois, especially in the southern part."

The Orient, Ill., Local Union of the miners and many others, introduced a resolution, "calling upon the American Federation of Labor to unite all its affiliated organizations for a great organization drive in all localities and industries in order to finally bring within the protecting folds of organized labor the masses who still remain outside.

Amalgamation Resolution Up.

"This resolution was also indorsed by Local Union No. 146, of the miners, which also brings before the convention a resolution demanding the amalgamation of all craft unions into industrial unions.

Henry Corbishley, president of the Ziegler Local Union No. 992, and progressive candidate for president of the West Frankfort sub-district, introduced the following resolution, denouncing Defense Day:

WHEREAS, September 12th has been proclaimed as National Defense Day, to be observed thruout the country as a means of testing the nation's preparedness for war; and

WHEREAS, This preparedness test is an avowed part of the efforts of the capitalist war mongers to build constantly greater armaments, to build a military machine ready to extend American imperialistic investments and exploitation of the workers of colonial countries, and other oppressed nations, as well as to be held in readiness to be turned against the workers at home in any conflict between capital and labor, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Illinois State Federation of Labor in regular convention, go on record opposing these efforts of the American war mongers including the proposed national defense day exercises and condemning militarism in general.

Seven Days to Go! Speed Up Your Signatures!

Presidential, State and Congressional Figures Growing.

Put Every W. P. Candidate on the Ballot!

COMRADES are now in the last stretch to get signatures to place the Workers Party candidates on the ballot in the State of Illinois. There is time yet for every candidate to go on the ballot, and judging by the reports coming in of Party and Young Workers League members out to get signatures, the job will be done. But only with effort exerted by more comrades.

* * * *

Young Workers League on the Job.

The Young Workers League branches have been to the forefront in the past week in attempts to get signatures. Y. W. L. branches, Englewood, John Reed, N. S. English, are especially active. 550 signatures have thus far been got for the First Congressional District candidate, Comrade Gordon Owens; over half this number is the result of work by four live Englewood Y. W. L. members. If other Y. W. L. and Party branches will do but half as well in the coming days, every Communist candidate will be on the ballot in the coming elections. As the paper goes to press, 525 signatures arrived for Hammersmark's candidacy. Fine stuff!

SEND IN YOUR PETITIONS FILLED OUT; THEN GET MORE OF THEM AND HUSTLE FOR SIGNATURES.

Every comrade out with petitions should turn them in as soon as filled out to his captain or to the local office. Monday night there were meetings of nearly all of the Congressional District Campaign Committees. No doubt hundreds of signatures were turned in which will be reported in Thursday's issue of the DAILY WORKER. The signatures turned in thus far are:

District	Candidate	Signatures obtained	Signatures necessary
No. 1	—Gordon Owens	550	1200
" 4	—Joseph Podkulski	248	1300
" 5	—Harry Epstein	122	1000
No. 6	—Frank Pellegrino	225	3500
No. 7	—Sam Hammersmark	950	4000
No. 8	—George Maurer	182	800
No. 9	—Jack Johnstone	524	1200
Presidential Electors (Foster-Gitlow electors) and Illinois State signatures		1176	2000

* * * *

500 Signatures a Day From Now on Our Aim.

We want to get from now on until the end of the time for getting signatures, 500 signatures per day. That is not very much with a little work. Let every Party and League member get an average of one signature per day and all our candidates will go on the ballot in two days. It is expecting but a little work to ask every member in the Party and League to get one signature. Get on the job every day, comrades, with petitions. Make your partner comrades go out with you. Be a doer for the Communist cause.

LEOPOLD AND LOEB AREN'T WORRYING; EXPECT LIFE TERM

Loeb and Leopold don't seem to be very much in fear of the verdict to be rendered tomorrow by Judge Caverly. In fact, Nate is betting with newspapermen as to whether or not Dickie and he will occupy the center position of a noose or merely get a life sentence to be served in Joliet penitentiary.

So jolly are the two cute young murderers that they are willing to take any side of the bet so long as it is a bet. Unfortunately for the gambling instincts of the young men, the bet was never closed due to the sudden appearance of the guard who came up and "raided" the party.

All signs indicate that the sentence of being hung by the neck until they are dead, will not be bestowed upon the killers of Robert Franks. Judge Caverly has requested that a guard of police be placed around the court room when the verdict is rendered, a sure indication that it is feared that the mob outside will raise a fuss when the verdict of a life sentence instead of hanging, is handed down by the judge.

At any rate, the young murderers are not much disturbed, and their glands are working well, according to latest reports.

FOREIGN TROOPS LAND IN CHINA AS WAR SPREADS

(By Cable to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Sept. 9.—Heavy Chekiang reinforcements were this afternoon believed to have stemmed the Kiangsu advance on Shanghai.

Heavy firing continues to the west of the city, but the intensity of the attack seems to have died down and the Chekiang defenders express confidence their new lines will hold.

Meanwhile, more than 1000 marines of the four leading powers landed this morning and took up their positions as assigned by the defense strategy board. The forces landed from allied naval vessels in the harbor included 250 American, 360 British, 400 Japanese and 100 Italians.

LEFT WING URGES REAL ACTION

(Continued from page 1)

unorganized in nearly all the industries; and

WHEREAS, This state of affairs not only militates against the unorganized, who are helpless, but also against the organized as well, who find themselves severely handicapped in their struggle for better conditions by the overpresent army of unorganized; and

WHEREAS, The approaching industrial crisis makes it all the more imperative that we bring these unorganized masses into the unions and thus enormously strengthen our ranks against the bitter onslaughts that are bound to come from the employers as soon as this industrial crisis becomes general, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Illinois Federation of Labor, in its Forty-second Annual Convention, calls upon the American Federation of Labor to unite all its affiliated organizations for a great organizing drive in all localities in order to finally bring within the protecting folds of organized labor the masses who still remain outside.

E. B. HEWLETT,
303 U. M. W. of A., Orient.
MIKE RUKAVINA,
303 U. M. W. of A., Orient.
T. C. MASON.

Also endorsed by Divernon miners' local union No. 146.

* * *

Amalgamation Is Demanded.

WHEREAS, The employers throughout the nation have solidly united, being bound together by a solidarity of interest and organization which leaves no room for divided action or desertions, and moreover, they are supported by the government, the courts, the press, in any union-smashing undertaking they engage in, and

WHEREAS, They are carrying on a vicious attack upon the labor movement, singling out the various unions and forcing them to engage in a bitter struggle for self-preservation; and

WHEREAS, These unions, because they are divided against themselves along trade lines and are thus unable to make united resistance against the employers, constantly suffer defeat after defeat, with heavy losses in membership and serious lowering of the workers' standard of living and working conditions; and

WHEREAS, The only solution for the situation is the development of a united front by the workers, to the amalgamation of the various trade unions, so that there will remain only one union for each industry; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That we, in regular meeting, call upon the American Federation of Labor to take the necessary action towards bringing about the required solidarity within the ranks of organized labor, and that as a first step in this direction the various international unions be called into conference, for the purpose of arranging to amalgamate all the unions in the respective industries into single organizations, each of which shall cover an industry.

Presented by Local Union No. 146, Divernon, and others.

* * *

Suffer From Unemployment.

WHEREAS, The workers of Illinois are suffering from terrific unemployment, especially the miners of the state, from which no relief is in sight, and to fight against which no policy has been adopted by the Illinois State Federation of Labor, and

WHEREAS, The employers are preparing to take advantage of this condition, in order to lower wage scales and break down union conditions in Illinois; and

WHEREAS, The glorious struggles of the past, which established the Illinois State Federation of Labor, and raised our conditions in former times, stands as a challenge to us to meet these problems and solve them in the same fighting spirit of the founders of the Illinois trade union movement, and to bring into this fight the plans and tactics necessary to meet the changed conditions of modern industry; and

WHEREAS, This necessitates wide council together of the rank and file, and frequent councils of war of our forces, just as the employers are holding councils among themselves, as witnessed in the Herrin open shop, wage-slashing conference; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That we call upon the officials of the Illinois State Federation of Labor to call an unemployment conference of representatives of the various local unions and central labor bodies of the state for the specific purpose of launching a fight for unemployed relief, as a means for forcing the reopening of the mines, etc, and to lay down fundamental plans for the solving of the unemployed problem, and be it further

RESOLVED, That we demand from the state government that an appropriation be made to relieve the distress caused by unemployment, especially amongst the miners. That this fund be administered by the union. That work be supplied to the unemployed by the state government at union wages and under union conditions.

Introduced by Valier, Ill., local union and several others.

PEACOCK MAY BE PROUD OF HIS NAME BUT NOT OF MRS. PEACOCK

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Kenneth M. Peacock, husband of Estelle Taylor, dainty motion picture actress, who has given the impression in a naive way that she might like to become Mrs. Jack Dempsey, has decided his beautiful wife may have her way as far as he is concerned.

Angered at the way in which the name of Mrs. Peacock, or Miss Taylor, as she prefers, has been linked with that of the ring gladiator of late Peacock has decided to sue for divorce and after that, says the irate husband, "Dempsey may marry her if he wants to."

DAWES SPEECH WON KLAN FOR G. O. P. IN MAINE

Big Boost for Tar and Feather Business

AUGUSTA, Maine, Sept. 9.—The Ku Klux Klan for once agreed with the DAILY WORKER. The hooded order understood "Hell an' Maria" Dawes' Augusta Klan speech just what it was, an endorsement of the Klan just as the DAILY WORKER understood it. With the aid of the Klan, the speech of General Dawes, the silence of Silent Cal and the general stupidity and uselessness of the Democratic party, Judge Brewster, Klan candidate for governor on the republican ticket, romped home several thousands votes ahead of his democratic rival.

Donkey Sick in the Head.

Republican campaign leaders have always tooted Maine as a political barometer. The only thing it indicates this year is that the donkey is either broken or badly bent.

The republicans are now saying Cal is the white haired boy for the next four years and that Maine is only a dark cloud on the landscape. "Maine has spoken," declared William M. Butler, fink expert and boss of Cal's campaign.

Demand for Dry Goods.

Dry goods merchants in Augusta are replenishing their supplies of pillow cases and night shirts, and barrels of tar are replacing the once familiar molasses in grocery stores. "The Klan lost Texas, but won Maine" was the remark of the King Kleagle, as he lifted his head from his latest report on the lynching of Negroes.

Coolidge Rushes to Greet World Flyers as They Land on U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The world flight airmen, Smith and Wade, landed on Bolling Field here today as thousands of Washington's officialdom stood waiting to see them land. President Coolidge forgot his silver silence and took off his hat, joining in the cheering which greeted the flyers. He rushed over to them and officially welcomed them back to the United States.

The flyers, who have tested out the possibilities of air warfare for the United States, are now the guests of General Patrick.

* * *

Cal Stands in Mud.

BOLLING FIELD, Washinton, D. C., Sept. 9.—Calvin Coolidge was obliged to get out of his car in the rain and mud to stand at attention while the army band mischievously played the national anthem while waiting for the world flyers to land. Cal's patent leather booties were considerably messed up, sad to relate.

Dead and Injured in Wreck.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 9. One trainman was killed and several injured in a wreck near Maricopa, Arizona, of the Sunset Special, Southern Pacific railroad.

Russia Didn't Belong to Czar, America Doesn't Belong to Wall Street

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, the campaigners of the Wall Street parties rush to the protection of the United States Supreme Court. "The pee-pul" are called upon, in the name of their "sacred liberties," to rise against the effort to strip this judicial oligarchy at Washington of its despotic powers. The strike-breaker Coolidge, present incumbent of the White House, puts it this way:

"The question is whether America will allow itself to be degraded into a Communistic or socialistic state, or whether it will remain American. Those who want to continue to enjoy the high state of American citizenship will resist all attempts to encroach upon their liberties by encroaching upon the power of the courts."

* * * *

The despotic role that the U. S. Supr. Court plays in the American capitalist form of government is best revealed in the rotund personage of William Howard Taft, the presiding officer of that black gowned aggregation of judicial fascisti.

"Bill the Fat" Taft was raised to the presidency by "Teddy" Roosevelt in 1908, and just as quickly hurled from this eminence by the "Bull Mooser" in 1912, when the "Hero of San Juan Hill," in the slaughter of Spaniards, in Cuba, in 1898, for the glory of the sugar trust, wanted to get back into the White House.

Taft received only the electoral votes of two states, Vermont and Utah, in 1912. Wilson was gloriously elected. All indications were that Taft's political days were over. The suffering "pee-pul" had spoken.

* * * *

But the privileged interests take care of their own. In time Taft was elevated to his present position, carrying with it more power than the presidency itself, the job of Chief Justice of the nation's highest Court. How the judicial lackey of big business, Mr. Taft, has used the despotic power placed in his hands, on behalf of special privilege, was best seen in the outlawing of the anti-child labor law passed overwhelmingly by congress. Thus the autocratic veto possessed by the Supreme Court over the acts of congress was startlingly revealed.

* * * *

To the forward-looking workers and farmers of the United States, it is very easy to see that "Cautious Cal" Coolidge, and his friends in the high places, are on the wrong side of the fence when they raise the issue of the only big struggle worth while in the United States today—Communism against capitalism.

* * * *

This nation has gone thru two great upheavals.

It was the Virginian, Patrick Henry, who raised his voice in the impassioned cry, "Give me liberty, or give me death."

Patrick Henry was raising the issue against the British king, on behalf of the revolutionary uprising of the colonies. The British king was on the going end of the issue. The colonies were on the arriving end of that issue. The colonies were victorious. Patrick Henry got his liberty from the British throne. The American republic was established.

* * * *

Nearly a century later, Abraham Lincoln declared, "This nation cannot endure half slave and half free." Lincoln was against slavery. The upholders of black slavery were on the going end of the issue, occupying the same place as the British king in 1776. Lincoln was on the arriving end of the issue. It took five years of bloody war to settle that issue. But in the end Lincoln won out and human slavery was driven from these shores.

* * * *

"Silent Cal" and his pals ought to profit from history. They are on the wrong side of the fence in the American class struggle of the year 1924. That is, the wrong side, if they want to speak for the interests of the great masses of workers and farmers, and if they desire to win in the end.

When Coolidge declares that the question is whether America will allow itself to be degraded into a Communist state, he has his feet in the shoes of the royal head of the British monarchy, in 1776, and he wears the cloak of the Southern slave holder of 1861. Coolidge is on the going end of the issue. The republican party, capitalism, is on the losing side of the fight.

* * * *

Only the Communists struggle for the abolition of capitalism in this campaign. The Communists alone are on the arriving end of the issue of "Communism against capitalism."

The question is whether the United States shall continue a nation of great wealth and growing poverty. In other words, "Shall capitalism continue?"

The candidates of three of the parties in the field declare that capitalism shall continue. The La Follette-Wheeler ticket is no less emphatic in favor of capitalism than the Coolidge-Dawes and Davis-Bryan tickets. La Follette today devotes most of his time trying to dodge the stigma of "radical," not to mention that of "revolutionary."

* * * *

The fight of the Wall Street candidates for the preservation of the United States supreme court is but a small part of this campaign. But it shows the tenacity with which the spokesmen of capitalism fight for all of their "sacred institutions."

The supreme court is not American, any more than the czar was Russian. America will still be here after Coolidge, Davis and La Follette, with their treasured capitalist social order have crumbled into dust. America ought to belong to the workers and farmers of this country, just as Russia now belongs to the workers and peasants, the producing multitudes of that country. Victory perches upon the standards of Communism in this campaign.

HOLD ROUSING GITLOW MEET IN CLEVELAND

Ruthenberg on Ticket for Congress

By J. A. HAMILTON
(Special to The Daily Worker)

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 9.—Benjamin Gitlow, vice-presidential candidate of the Workers Party, was received here at Bricklayers' Hall with a splendid ovation and his speech greeted with frequent applause in the first big election meeting of the Workers Party.

Flays Capitalist Candidates.

Gitlow attacked the old parties and the LaFollette movement as equally opposed to the interests of the workers and exposed "Silent Cal" Coolidge, the strike-breaker; Dawes, the open shopper, Fascist and Ku Kluxer.

He showed that Davis, the Wall Street attorney, has a black record as prosecutor of the West Virginia miners in spite of his lies to the contrary. LaFollette was excoriated as the small business men's candidate with much millionaire support—Spreckels, the sugar king; Vanderlip, the Wall Street banker, and told of how even Steel Trust Gary has spoken favorably of "Fighting" Bob.

The speaker mercilessly condemned the LaFollette movement for its treacherous plea for labor support while at the same time, wrecking the farmer-labor movement. He made an eloquent plea for support of the Workers Party as the expression of Communism, the only reliance of the workers for escape from capitalist oppression.

Speak On I. Y. D.

Martin Gordon spoke for the Young Workers' League in celebration of International Youth Day. He exposed the dangers of new wars and presented the league program against militarism and Mobilization Day, and for a shorter work-day and improved conditions for the young workers.

A good collection was taken and good sales of the DAILY WORKER subs and literature were made.

In the forenoon, Gitlow spoke before the Trade Union Educational League, Cleveland general group, and groups of metal trades, building trades, clothing workers and miscellaneous trades of workers were organized with quite a number of Labor Herald subs taken.

Ruthenberg On Ticket.

Sufficient signatures have been obtained to secure a place on the ballot for C. E. Ruthenberg, executive secretary of the Workers Party, John Brahtin, and A. V. Severino, as candidates for Congress in the Cleveland districts, and for a county ticket in Cuyahoga county.

Militants Pushing Fight for Progress at Peoria Convention

(Continued from page 1)

in behalf of the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket. John Gaffigan, president of the Central Labor Union, is canvassing the delegates for endorsement of Judge Jones, democratic candidate for governor, a notorious injunction judge, while Barney Cohen, republican office holder and delegate from the Cigar Makers' union, is strong for Cal and Davis.

But the federation officials have the ways greased for the endorsement of Len Small, whose sleight-of-hand work while state treasurer, kept the scandal crack lawyers busy ever since trying to learn his technique, very likely in order to emulate him.

Miners Have Their Friend.

Delegates from the miners' locals find considerable amusement in Small's explanation of how the mythical Grant Park Bank, where the state funds were lodged, disappeared. The story has placed Jonah and the Whale in the ranks of the "has beens." That a bank able to stomach a couple of million dollars could be blown away by a puff of wind is the bee's knees in the way of travel tales, but John H. Walker, Victor Olander and Frank Farrington, seem to believe that George Washington was an accomplished liar in comparison with Len Small.

The militant left wing delegates are talking Foster and Gitlow for president and they don't care who knows. They don't expect to put their candidates over this year, but they feel that the future is theirs.

To Broadcast Defense Daylems.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The war department today announced that speeches by Secretary of War Weeks, John J. Pershing and Brig.-Gen. J. J. Carty, on the subject of the so-called "Defense Day" would be broadcasted by various radio stations.

FOR INSURANCE OF ANY KIND
CARL BRODSKY
1123 Broadway, New York City
Tel. Watkins 3626.

HUNGER, COAL BARONS' ALLY IN MINE WAR

Desperate Conditions in West Virginia

By ART SHIELDS.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 9.—Can hunger win? This is the question the operators are asking as the strike begins at the two big Brady-Warner mines at Scotts Run near here. It is a fight watched keenly by some union operators who would like to go non-union.

Same Brady is counting on starvation and evictions to win for him. Several months ago he locked out his miners after declaring that he would not accept the Jacksonville pact. Now he is attempting to reopen on an open shop basis and under the 1917 scale.

The miners were hungry. No one who has not seen the suffering in coal camps where there has been no work for such a long time can realize how much they were suffering, but not a single miner entered the scab pits. Not a single miner heeded Brady's threats to put them and their families out of the company houses, the only homes they had.

Dedicate New Hall.

The Scotts Run miners had recently attended the monster mass meeting at Brady, 15 miles away, where the United Mine Workers of America dedicated the new union hall that rises on the ashes of the one Sam Brady's thugs burned down. They felt the spirit of mass solidarity there and they came back ready to fight regardless of empty stomachs.

But unemployment has brot an intense crisis to the union. In Scotts Run eighty per cent of the 5,000 miners, when they work at all, are still working under union conditions. Only the Shriver Coal company, the Bunker Coal company and the Jere Shaft concern are getting out any black diamonds without union sanction. But the situation is worse in other parts of West Virginia. Near Morgantown is also the M. & K. division, with non-unionism more general, Bethlehem Steel dominating. Radiating out from Fairmont and Clarksburg union and nonunion companies alternate.

Miners Migrating.

Unemployment is turning the miners into wanderers. Families have been migrating wholesale to Pennsylvania and to other parts of West Virginia. This industrial depression is the worst West Virginia has ever felt, miners everywhere tell me, and it is pulling the miners out of their old environments and throwing them on the world elsewhere.

Even the men who have been leading the fight have been forced to move on in the search for bread. Going several miles out of Clarksburg to see a certain local secretary I found I was just in time, he is in on the point of moving on, with his family, and turning the relief work for 75 families over to a successor.

Relief Is Meagre.

Relief funds are being distributed thru the state, but a maximum of nine dollars for a family of 12, in the vicinity of Clarksburg, can barely maintain existence under the scale of prices charged by the merchants in John W. Davis' community. And calls for relief are increasing.

Can hunger beat the miners? The operators are calculating on widening the open shop area while this hunger situation continues at its present desperate pitch. If one considered only the purely material factors one would agree with the pessimists. But the miners' army does not crawl soley on its stomach. It has an esprit de corps, a fighting spirit of union loyalty, that sometimes rises highest when physical conditions are almost at their worst. I saw it in the monster Brady meeting, and I found it in the miners' homes in the hearts of men and women who may be evicted in a few days.

Will C. Thompson, secretary of District 17, says that in the southern part of the district the morale has steadily improved in spite of the fact that relief rations have been cut.

"It depends on the winter trade," says Thompson: "When that demand for coal comes, we'll organize all Kanawha county again."

The union's fight now is to hold the lines until the demand for coal comes.

BIG DROP IN FREIGHT MOVEMENT SHOWS EXTENT OF BUSINESS SLUMP

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Sept. 9.—The tremendous dropping off in freight movements thru the locks here presents a picture which is a cross-section of the business depression and unemployment all over the country.

The movement of freight thru the locks during August aggregated only 10,050,605 short tons. In the same month last year, the figures were 14,343,044 short tons.

Shipments of wheat, grain, flour, iron ore and coal are also falling off rapid

SPANISH DICTATOR, BOUND FOR MOROCCO, FACING MANY DEFEATS

(Special to The DAILY WORKER)

ALGECIRAS, Spain, Sept. 9.—Another Spanish warship left for Morocco today, carrying General Primo Rivera, dictator of Spain and head of the Spanish military directorate, who will make a desperate effort to retrieve the fortunes of the Spanish troops in the colony.

The peasants of Morocco, infuriated by long years of oppression and exploitation, have inflicted defeat after defeat on the Spanish forces. In this they have the help of France, which hopes to wrest control of the colony from the hands of Spain. Morocco is one of the richest agricultural regions in the world.

Primo Rivera has been selected for the job on the strength of a long record of suppressing revolts in Spain. By consistent use of the militia in strikes, he has succeeded in nearly crushing the labor movement here. He has declared the General Confederation of Labor of the country illegal. Then, in spite of the fact that the unions were no longer supposed to exist, another law was passed requiring the presence of a government official at every union meeting.

"Liberals" in Spain are appealing to France for help against Morocco on the ground that defeat of the Spanish government in the colonies might bring a workers' revolt at home, and endanger the security of the French republic.

ALLIED POWERS PELT NOTES AT HELPLESS PEKING

Chinese Tuchuns Can Lie Like Christians

PEKING, Sept. 9.—Severe fighting still continues in the vicinity of Shanghai. The capitalist powers are engaged in a volley of badgering the central government. The governments of the United States, France, England and Japan joined in a note to the Peking government demanding that a neutral zone be established for the protection of foreigners.

How the Peking government can establish anything without the consent of the fighting generals is not apparent. But it seems that the powers are making demands for the sake of the record. In certain eventualities, they will be legally entitled to intervene with military forces and no doubt the League of Nations will say: "Yah Yah."

A United States army transport left Manilla, Philippine Islands, for China, carrying marines and military supplies. Other reinforcements are being prepared.

Can Lie Like Christians.

The fighting Chinese generals may not be up to date in modern warfare, but they can contradict each other as vigorously as the allied and Teuton generals during the world war.

One tuchun claims that his armies routed his foes with considerable slaughter on the debit side of his enemy's ledger, while the latter waxes equally eloquent reciting the number of dead left by the opposition on the field as he fled in disorderly retreat. This reminds one of the early days of the war when the British were retreating from the Germans and "inflicting severe losses on the enemy."

Unfortunately the generals are not getting killed in China any more than did the European generals. The dead and wounded are the poor workers who prefer to take a chance on losing their lives by joining the armies of the bandit generals rather than starving in the army of the unemployed.

Explosion In Cement Plant.

GREEN CASTLE, Ind., Sept. 9.—Earl Mathews, 32, was at the point of death here today as the result of burns received in an explosion Sunday, at the Indiana Portland Cement Campany plant which cost the life of William Prince, 58, who died today of burnms. Both men were working in the kiln when spontaneous combustion occurred.

A Successful Operation.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 9.—Expert yeggs opened the safe of Chas. E. Holloway and Sons, real estate firm, here today and escaped with from $1,000 to $1,500 in cash.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

1,000 PATERSON SILK STRIKERS ON PICKET LINE

Protest Against Injunction Secured by Bosses

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 9.—Over 1,000 pickets are on the picket line in the Paterson silk strike as a protest against an injunction secured by the Rosenstein Silk Company against picketing.

A hearing has been set for next Monday morning to decide whether the injunction will be permanent.

Pickets March Thru Town.

The strikers' committee has instructed the pickets to avoid clashes with the police and to keep right on picketing the Rosenstein Silk Company.

Every day the picket line marches from the Turn Hall, where the strikers meet, and gather more recruits as they march thru the town. At no time is there any disturbance. The motorcycle officers who accompany the pickets find no occasion to make arrests.

Strikers Out on Bail.

The 107 strikers who were arrested for picketing are out on bail and the hearing has been set for Friday at ten o'clock.

Appeals for aid for the strikers have so far met with good responses from the nearby co-operative stores which donate bread and meat. A general appeal is being sent out to all labor organizations to help the strikers with food and supplies and funds to carry on the strike.

In New York City a big mass meeting is to be held to launch the relief drive for the strikers.

Appeal for Funds.

The strike committee calls upon all sympathizers to help as much as they can with funds for continuing the strike. Anything that will be sent will help to keep up the fight until it is lost in a victory for the strikers.

The bosses have made every effort to secure scabs. They have secured some scabs, but work is practically at a standstill due to the inexperience of the scabs and the energetic fight put up by the strikers.

Gift Edge operates about 240 looms, and is bitterly opposed to the right to organize. It has refused to grant the demands of the Associated Silk Workers' union, which is conducting the strike, for the 2-loom and 5-hour day with wage increases.

15 Shops Settle with Union.

Fifteen more shops have settled, affecting 250 workers. More than 1,000 workers are now back at work under the new union conditions. Adolph Lesser, one of the union officials, asserted that the employers' talk of the mills moving to New York and Pennsylvania was propaganda to intimidate workers who have established homes here.

Jobless Insurance Plan Conference Held in New York

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The conference to work out the details of the unemployment insurance plan in the men's clothing industry here will be held next week, according to President Sidney Hillman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union. The meeting of the joint committee had to be postponed but will convene within the week, probably in the new office of the "impartial chairman," Jacob Billikopf. The unemployment insurance plan to be used here will differ somewhat from the Chicago system, because the settlement here was on the collective agreement basis. Representatives of the Amalgamated and of the New York Clothing Manufacturers Exchange are to be selected as trustees of the fund to be collected for the unemployment insurance of the workers.

PUT ON A FRONT

WORKERS who wish to impress their boss with the sort of personality which is dear to the American Magazine, especially if the boss belongs to an open shop organization should have, according to men's apparel manufacturers of the country, the following wardrobe:

Three ordinary suits.
One evening suit (other than night shirts.
One light topcoat.
One dozen shirts.
Two dozen neckties.
Two soft hats and one derby.
Three pairs of shoes.
A dozen pairs of hose.

At least it is supposed that this applies to the worker as it is the ideal wardrobe for "American gentlemen of limited means." If your means are unlimited, some underwear and a cane may properly be included.

PREPARING FOR BIG FOSTER MEETING AT NEWARK, NEW JERSEY

(By The Federated Press)

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 9.—William Z. Foster, Workers Party candidate for president, will speak at the Labor Lyceum Sept. 11 at 8 p. m. The hall is at 704 South 14th Street, Newark. Special circulars and dodgers have been broadcasted by the committee in charge of this meeting in order to attract as many workers as possible to this campaign speech of the car worker and member of the 1919 Steel Strike Committee.

YOUTH OF TOIL CELEBRATES ITS WORLD HOLIDAY

Young Workers Prepare for New Struggles

International Youth Day was the occasion of a rousing mass meeting in Chicago, Sunday evening. Northwest Hall was crowded with Chicago young workers who had gathered together on the tenth anniversary of International Youth Day to hear the speakers of the Young Workers' League and the Workers Party.

The speakers last night were Earl Browder, editor, Labor Herald, J. Louis Engdahl, editor, DAILY WORKER, and John Williamson, member of the Young Workers' League National Executive Committee.

Speak of Youth Movement.

The speakers dealt with the significance of the arising youth movement in America and how important it was to the Communist movement to organize the working class industrial youth.

It was pointed out that Youth Day arose in the late world war, when a small group of determined revolutionaries from the youth organizations raised the slogan of "War Against War." Yet today, ten years later, we are facing another imperial war and the capitalists in preparing this, have declared Sept. 12, Mobilization Day.

Fight Mobilization Day.

The Young Workers' League have issued their slogans against Mobilization Day, branding it propaganda in favor of the next imperialist war. International Youth Day was held throut the world under the auspices of the Young Communist International, of which the Young Workers' League is the American section.

Enthusiasm ran high throut the entire meeting and the young workers left with a determined will to treble their efforts at organizing the American working class youth into the Young Communist League.

The Young Workers' League orchestra was a welcome part of the program and played many revolutionary songs.

• • •

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE.
LOCAL CHICAGO
BRANCH MEETINGS.
Wednesday, Sept. 10.

Northside Branch, 2409 N. Halsted st.
Lincoln and Branch, 6311 S. Halsted st.
Marshfield Branch, Hebrew Institute.
Thursday, Sept. 11.
Maplewood Branch, 2323 Hirsch Blvd.
Friday, Sept. 12.
Rose Lawndale Branch, 3106 West Roosevelt Road. Shalfoy speaker.
John Reed Branch, 1224 S. Ahsaw Ave.
West Side Branch, 2322 Douglas Blvd. Close to Crawford. Manfolsky, Max Schachtman.
Hersh Lebert Branch, 2652 Hirsch Blvd.
Karl Liebknecht Branch, 1100 N. Scdgwick st.

Our Candidates

FOSTER'S DATES

Newark, N. J.—Labor Lyceum, 704 So. 14th St., Thursday, September 11, 8 p. m.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Musical Fund Hall, 8th and Locust Streets, Friday, September 12, 8 p. m.

Paterson, N. J.—Halvitia Hall, 56 Van Houton Street, Saturday, September 13, 8 p. m.

GITLOW'S DATES

Comrade Gitlow, candidate for vice-president, will address meetings at the following places.

Stamford, Conn. — Casino Hall, Thursday, September 11, at 8 p. m.

Bridgeport, Conn.—Carpenters Hall, 170 Elm St., Friday, Sept. 12, at 8 p. m.

Springfield, Mass.—Central Labor Union, 19 Sanford St., Saturday, Sept. 13, 8 p. m.

JAY STETLER'S
RESTAURANT
Established 1901
1053 W. Madison St. Chicago
Tel. Monroe 2241

MURINE FOR YOUR EYES
Night and Morning to keep them Clean, Clear and Healthy
Write for Free "Eye Care" or "Eye Beauty" Book
Murine Co., Dept. H. S., 9 E. Ohio St., Chicago

BIG ROBBERS PLAN CORNER ON NEXT WAR

Prepare Boycott of All Small Manufacturers

By ESTHER LOWELL.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—"All set for the next war!" seems to be the slogan of the Defense Test Advisory Board, headed by Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation.

Already the big munitions manufacturers and aircraft profiteers have been summoned to plan their division of the spoils of the next war so that the "fly-by-night manufacturers who," according to Brig.-Gen. Guy Tripp, head of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, "upset markets and were the real profiteers during the late war," will be out of the game.

Monopoly of Big Fellows.

The next war is to be a monopoly of the big militarists, judging from their outlined plans for industrial mobilization on Sept. 12. Incidentally, Gary's last war profits were three and a half times his peace gains. Gen. J. G. Harbord, president of General Electric's Radio Corporation of America; P. E. Crowley, head of the New York Central railroad; S. Parker Gilbert, jr., the young lawyer who has been chosen to succeed Owen D. Young as reparations chief under the Dawes plan for Europe; Samuel McRoberts, president of the Metropolitan Trust Co.; Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation; and William H. Woodin, president of the American Car and Foundry Co these are some of the public-spirited citizens associated with the American Fascist Gary in the "all set for war" preparations of Mobilization Day.

They were summoned by telegraphic orders from Washington to act with Col. James L. Walsh, chief of the New York ordnance district and acting chief of the eastern air service district.

Gary Is Very Serious.

Gary has taken his task of industrial mobilization with all seriousness, his associates report, and is making plans as tho war would actually be declared Sept. 12. Gen. Tripp remarked that: "The industrial defense plans give to each manufacturer specific information as to what he will be expected to do in an emergency." Gary comments that "with plans complete and ready for the rapid production of ordnance and airplanes, if and when needed, we can begin to talk of disarmament and safety in the same breath."

The steel lord's knowledge of the most convenient coal producers and distributors and of the materials necessary to a quick mobilization of industrial forces for military production is not only from his enriching experiences of the last war but from his constant study of war possibilities. He stated that in the event of invasion it "will require one out of every four wage-earners in the metropolitan area of New York) to forsake his regular employment and to turn his hand to new and unfamiliar tasks in the manufacture and inspection of non-commercial implements of ordnance and personal equipment."

Human Food for Cannon.

This indicates to what extent the next war will wreck the ordinary course of life for workers without saying to what lengths the actual military forces will enter their lives by compelling them to go into battle and be human food for the iron monsters that Gary and his gang will be making.

Join the Workers Party!

SOME SOCIETY NOTES CROWDED OUT OF THE SUBSIDIZED PRESS

(By The Federated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO.— For three weeks Edwin Armstrong, 19 years old, tramped the streets of San Francisco, "the city that knows how," trying to find a job as bookkeeper. At last, his money all gone, he swallowed poison, and will probably die.

• • •

DALLAS, Tex.—Elizabeth Perry, 18 year old high school girl arrested on a charge of stealing clothes, declared in court that at the time she robbed a house she was out of a job and with no money to make herself presentable during the two months she had been looking for work. She was bound over on a charge of burglary.

• • •

SAN FRANCISCO.—Mrs. Antone Cadle had a little boy to care for at home, but poverty forced her to work outside and let little Remo look after himself. One day recently, after weeks of unemployment, she kissed Remo goodbye and went to seek a job in the country. She returned at night, tired out, without the job—to find Remo dead. He had fallen down stairs in her absence and fractured his skull.

• • •

NEW YORK.— Julie Reinhardt, once an active young actress and worker for women's suffrage well known thruout the country, died alone and embittered by the long later years of neglect which the world had shown her. She was 80. She spoke of the monument the women's party is erecting for Inez Milholland and told how she had worked for women's votes even before her famous co-worker.

FOES MASS TO DITCH MAC IN EARLY ELECTION

Conservatives Gag at Russian Treaty

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Prime Minister MacDonald was greeted on his return from Geneva with the information that his foes were planning to drive him out of No. 10 Downing Street at the earliest possible moment.

The Tories and the liberals have joined in a hue and cry against the labor government because of its failure to mollify France, its softness to Germany and the Russian treaty.

Campaign Politics.

Of course this is campaign opposition. No matter which party wins out in the next elections, it is not likely that the British foreign policy will change to any considerable extent as British foreign policy is more or less fixed and is largely determined by the permanent officials in the foreign office.

The extreme reactionaries do not like the Russian treaty and the Liberals who were strongly in favor of Russian recognition and a treaty before the last elections are also opposing it.

The Tories' main point of attack will be on the Irish boundary question. When the parliament opens next month a lively time is expected.

Railroads To Amalgamate.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Total annual savings of approximately $3,470,650 will result from the unification of the Southern Pacific and El Paso & Southwestern railroads, Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific, today told the Interstate Commerce Commission at a hearing on the joint application of the two systems to bring about the proposed merger.

"MUM!" IS BIG WORD AT HAUNT OF LAFOLLETTE

Haven't an Idea About Soviet Recognition

"Mum!" is the big word that now rules supreme at the sumptuous Morrison Hotel headquarters of the LaFollette campaigners.

The most strenuous efforts couldn't get a single expression of opinion on the question of Secretary of State Hughes' most recent broadside on the vital issue of Russian Soviet recognition.

Nelson Dumb as Ever.

John M. Nelson, the Wisconsin congressman, is the campaign manager, but in the campaign, as in congress, his only reply on big problems is, "Ask the 'senator.'" By senator he means the Hon. Robert Marion La-Follette.

Campaign Manager Nelson was no lence on the question of Soviet recognition emphatic in maintaining his siognition than he had been previously in refusing to commit himself on the Dawes plan, the Ku Klux Klan and the growing unemployment.

"The declaration of Secretary of State Hughes should offer you an excellent opportunity to state the position of the LaFolette campaign on the question of Soviet recognition," a reporter for the DAILY WORKER pointed out to Mr. Nelson.

No Statements Whatsoever.

"I do not intend to make any statements whatever during this campaign," Mr. Nelson assured the DAILY WORKER. "Not as long as I am chairman of the LaFolette campaign committee."

So that's that. Wonder how the voters up in Nelson's district are going to be able to vote for him intelligently without knowing what he stands for. Or has LaFollette spawned a new brand of "Me, too!" office holders?

State Campaign Manager, Charles J. MacGowan, who discovered only very recently that the socialists and yellow laborites of England, France and Germany were backing up the Dawes plan, was pretty busy.

Only Candidates Talk.

But the DAILY WORKER got this much out of him:

"I want it distinctly understood that only the candidates are making statements to the press in this LaFollette campaign."

MacGowan then turned the LaFollette publicity manager, Robert S. Allan, over to the DAILY WORKER reporter. This publicity hound whined somewhat as follows:

"The LaFollette campaign is too intimately connected with Senator LaFollette to issue any statements other than those made by the candidates. We will at no time issue any statements to the press."

Why Is a Press Bureau?

Which should certainly raise the question of, "Why is a Press Bureau?" Perhaps the oracle, LaFollette, will speak at Washington. It is announced that the Montana senator, Burton K. Wheeler, candidate for vice-president, will be in town Sept. 20.

"Mum!" is the word!

Booze In Washington!

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Mrs. Anna Wilson, 38, was believed to be dying today as the result of a fall down an elevator shaft, and Benjamin Lust, a motion picture distributor, was held pending an investigation by the police, who charge that the woman's fall followed a, liquor party on the ninth floor of a downtown office building. Mrs. Wilson is said to be a divorcee.

Vote Communist This Time!

ARE YOU?

WE'RE PARTIAL! We admit it!

We see ONLY the interests of one particular class—that class of people who work for a living. Every day we fight their battles—AND ONLY THEIRS.

Perhaps you are also prejudiced in this manner? And perhaps you try to convince your shop-mate—your friends—everyone—of your ideas?

GET THEIR SUBSCRIPTION TO THE DAILY WORKER!

The DAILY Can Do It Better!

RATES in Chicago: 3 months, $2.50; 6 months, $4.50; 12 months, $8.00.
" outside of Chicago: 3 months, $2.00; 6 months, $3.50; 12 months, $6.00.

I'm Partial!

My name .....
Address .....
City .....
State .....

Convince My Shop-Mate!

Send him the DAILY WORKER for ..... months.
His name .....
Address .....
City ..... State .....

COMMUNISTS IN MEXICO FIGHT THE FASCISTI

Expose Obregon Rule as Ally of Mussolini

By ELLA G. WOLFE
(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 9.—To greet the good Fascisti ship "Italia," the Communists of Mexico have launched a special manifesto calling upon the workers to protest against the festivities the Mexican government is preparing for Mussolini's boat.

It calls upon all workers and peasants to get their organizations all over the country to organize giant demonstrations against Mussolini, "assassin of workers and peasants."

"And if the yellow labor leaders are unwilling to organize such demonstrations, shove the leaders aside and organize them yourselves."

Hit Obregon Government.

The manifesto goes on to say, "This is the moment for the formation of a united front of protest against Italian reaction, which is only part of the reaction of the entire world.

"The Obregon government, which has repeatedly called itself revolutionary, is committing servile acts in its preparations for festivities in honor of these criminal reactionaries of Italy. What role is the Mexican government (which claims to be a friend of the workers) playing in receiving the spokesmen of Fascism here? Does the hypocrisy of diplomacy come before the honor of the Mexican revolution?"

At a large festival arranged in the Ministry of Education for these Fascisti, the Communists distributed the above manifesto. A regular "scandal" was created and President Obregon has sent for the Minister of Education, asking him to see that "these people" be properly punished for the insults they hurled at Mussolini's representatives, in a manifesto which had the "shamelessness" to say:

"The Communist Party of Mexico (Section of the Third International) calls upon all the unions and all the peasants to organize a united front against the Fascisti.

"Down with the bourgeois reaction!

"Long live the proletarian united front!

"Long live Communism!"

Winter Activities of Society for Tech Aid Now on in Full Swing

The winter activities of the Society for Technical Aid to Soviet Russia, are in full swing. At the last meeting of the Society held this week, committees were elected to organize the various activities. Classes in Russian and in English will soon be started. The entertainment committee is arranging a series of concerts with Russian opera stars. The first Russian performance of the season will be given this Sunday evening, Sept. 14, at 7:30 p. m., at the theatre Hall of the Society, 1902 W. Division St.

The Russian Dramatic Players at the head of which is the well-known Russian actor, Anatoly Pokatiloff, will present "The Convert," a drama in four acts, from the life of the Nihilists, by the famous Russian revolutionary writer, Stepniak-Kravchinsky. Other performances are being arranged.

I. W. W. Lumberjack Arrested.

SUSANVILLE, Cal.—John Bruns, I. W. W. member, has been arrested for criminal syndicalism and is held in the Lassen county jail. The arrest was at the instigation of the White and Sugar Pine Association, notorious for its blacklisting of radical lumber workers.

You can get sample copies of the DAILY WORKER any time at the DAILY WORKER office.

The Workers Party in Action

Open Letter to the Volkszeitung Conference

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE NEW YORKER VOLKSZEITUNG CONFERENCE.

By the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party.

THE Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party is in receipt of the following communication from the New Yorker Volkszeitung-Conferenz:

"Central Executive Committee, Workers Party,

"Dear Comrades: The above named organization orders me to express its resentment in regard to your attitude in censuring the editor of the 'New Yorker Volkszeitung.' Your position, in our opinion, is detrimental to our organization inasmuch as it is likely to create animosity against some and to discourage active support which is so essential to any working class paper. We mean, under all conditions, to maintain a newspaper built up with tremendous sacrifices.

"We feel that your position in the matter has not been entirely fair. We take the position that anybody, before pronouncing censure upon him, should have the privilege of a hearing and defense a right expressly granted by capitalist court procedure. We do not know if you regard your method as comradely. Permit me to say we do not!!

"I wish to say in re merits of the case that it was the Advertising Department which accepted, without knowledge of the editor, the advertisement of the Hungarian loan bonds. The 'Volkszeitung' has a yearly contract with the banking house for a certain amount of space. It could have been sued for breach of contract at the option of the banking house. The result might have meant financial ruin. The paper has consistently denounced Horthy and his regime. On the next day the advertisement was discontinued. On the same day an editorial appeared stating the editorial position in the matter. Notwithstanding, you seem to feel justified in your action!

"I wish to discuss the question of principle involved because this is the most essential point. Does it help and assist Horthy if the public buys the bonds? Not one scintilla or one continental. The banking syndicate which buys the bonds buys them at a certain rate and pays a stipulated price. It does not matter in the least if the syndicate can foist them on the public or not, Horthy will get his amount. Small bankers buy same and act as retailers as in this case. A small bank inserted the advertisement in the 'Volkszeitung.'

"To boycott the bonds does not mean that Horthy will lose a cent. I may say, in parenthesis, that among the readers of the paper there are exceedingly few bond buyers actual or potential. If you are aware of these facts why did you act so tempestuously? Of is your knowledge of financial matters as deficient as your method of procedure in imposing censure?

"The only effective method of a boycott against Horthy might be not to buy any Hungarian products.

"Hoping that the facts set forth above will convince you of your hasty action, and in the future you will be guided by the old Roman proverb: "Audiatur et altera pars." I remain fraternally,

LOUIS BRAUN, Rec. Secy.
163 E. 92nd St.,
New York City."

The Central Executive Committee is glad to be able to say, in opening its comment upon the above letter, that the writer, Louis Braun, is not a Communist and not a member of the Workers Party. It would indeed have caused uneasiness in the minds of the members of the Central Executive Committee if a member of the Workers Party could have been guilty of writing such a non-Communist counter-revolutionary letter as the above.

We hope also that the sentiment expressed in this letter did not represent the views of the members of the New Yorker Volkszeitung-Conferenz, altho the letter is written in the name of this organization.

What are the arguments which are advanced in this letter to justify the appearance in the Volkszeitung of the advertisement offering for sale bonds of the murderous counter-revolutionary Horthy government of Hungary? First we are told that the Volkszeitung had a contract with the banking house selling these bonds and that it might have been sued and ruined financially if it had refused to publish the advertisement. In answer to this writer, we say that we would rather a thousand times have the Volkszeitung ruined financially by a suit than that it would sell its revolutionary honor by consciously publishing an advertisement of bonds of the murderous counter-revolutionary Horthy government. A Communist goes to prison, yes, sacrifices his life, rather than to sacrifice his revolutionary principles. We are glad to be able to say that it was thru gross negligence and carelessness that the Horthy advertisement got into the Volkszeitung and not for such a reason as the writer of this letter seizes on. Communist papers depend for their existence upon the support of the workers and not upon the good wishes of banking houses.

The discussion of the question of principle in this communication takes the same counter-revolutionary nonworking class attitude. Horthy sells his bonds to the banking houses, we are told. He gets his money whether they are advertised and sold to the public or not. We might answer this argument by stating the fact that banking houses will not purchase bonds which they cannot sell to the public, but such an answer would be on the plane with the argument of the secretary of the New Yorker Volkszeitung-Conferenz.

For us as Communists there is something more at stake than the question of the relationship between the murderous Horthy government, the banking houses, and the public, in connection with the sale of these bonds.

The New Yorker Volkszeitung is an organ of a revolutionary Communist Party, the Workers Party. The Workers Party is a fraternally affiliated section of the Communist International, as is also the Hungarian Communist Party. In other words the Workers Party is a part of the world organization of Communists which established a Soviet Government in Hungary. This government was overthrown by the murderous Horthy white guard regime. This murderous Horthy regime visited its vengeance upon the workers of Hungary by shooting and hanging thousands and casting other tens of thousands into vile prisons, resorting to the extremes of terrorism in order to break and destroy this working class movement.

We here in the United States today are the part of the world organization of Communists which is fighting against this murderous Horthy government. We stand shoulder to shoulder with our Hungarian Communist comrades in the struggle to end Horthyism in Hungary—and, yet, one of the organs of our party carries an advertisement offering for sale the bonds of this Horthy government.

No matter how this happened—and the Central Executive Committee has already declared that it was thru gross negligence and not consciously that the advertisement appeared in the Volkszeitung—it is a matter of shame and disgrace to the Workers Party. It should be a matter of shame and disgrace for the New Yorker Volkszeitung Conferenz.

We hope that the New Yorker Volkszeitung-Conferenz, after reconsideration of the letter of its secretary, will definitely repudiate the discussion of the merits and principles of this matter expressed in that letter and take its stand with the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party on a working class view of this advertisement as expressed in this letter.

Central Executive Committee, Workers Party of America.
WILLIAM Z. FOSTER, Chairman,
C. E. RUTHENBERG, Executive Secretary.

WORKERS IN BITUMINOUS MINE FIELDS LISTEN TO FOSTER AND GITLOW FLAY CAPITALIST SYSTEM

The bituminous coal fields of the United States are alive with revolt against capitalism. This is the inevitable conclusion to be drawn from the recent successful, enthusiastic and revolutionary gathering held by the presidential and vice-presidential candidates of the Workers Party in several of the bituminous coal cities.

Foster spoke at Ziegler, Ill., Gitlow in Walkerstown, Pa., the heart of the Pennsylvania coal fields and again at Bellaire, O., in the center of District No. 6 of the United Mine Workers of America.

The Bellaire, O., meeting was of especial significance as it is close to the West Virginia line and the miners apparently are intensely interested in the present political struggle. They flocked in full force to the Gitlow meeting in Bellaire from the various surrounding mining camps. Many of them came over the line in West Virginia.

The local fake labor leaders had intentions to rally the miners for a big demonstration on Labor Day, but only succeeded in getting out a bare forty-six miners, most of them under the influence of the "leaders." Consequently, when Gitlow in his campaign speech called attention to May 1st as Labor's real, international holiday, the assembled miners wildly cheered.

Workers Party Is Communist Party

Gitlow's exposure of the labor record of their next-door neighbor, John W. Davis of West Virginia and Wall Street, aroused from the assembled miners loud applause. They repeatedly made the rafters of the hall echo with their hand-clapping and foot-stamping, when Gitlow showed how LaFollette fought and betrayed the Labor Party. "The Workers Party of America is the Communist Party of the United States. The Workers Party betrayed the possibility of independent, political action. The workers, thru strong, militant, revolutionary unions and thru a powerful revolutionary party, like the Workers Party of America, must overthrow the rule of the capitalists and must, by storming up a workers' government, establish Communism on the ruins of capitalism."

Following this wonderful meeting, every miner who had sat in the large audience, insisted upon shaking the hand of our vice-presidential candidate, Benjamin Gitlow.

LaFollette Reactionary.

"The program of LaFollette is a reactionary program and is framed in the interests of the small capitalists. It is against the logical development of our present industrial and economic order."

Loud applause greeted this remark made by Benjamin Gitlow, Communist candidate for vice-president, from a large audience gathered at the most successful meeting of militant workers ever held in the home of the American Rubber trust, Akron, Ohio, last Saturday night.

Many Socialist and LaFollette sympathizers were on hand. The crowd was attentive, responsive and enthusiastic. Comrade Gitlow particularly addressed the LaFollette sympathizers when he said: "LaFollette will fail to bust the trusts just like Teddy Roosevelt did. The Standard Oil company is richer today and more powerful in spite of the fact that a few years ago it was dissolved by the United States Supreme Court. The workers have nothing to gain by replacing the exploitation of the workers by the big capitalists with that of the small capitalists."

Home of Rubber Trust.

The rubber plants of Akron are famous for the industrial spies and open shop conditions which prevail. The trade union movement of Akron is weak and poorly organized. Some time ago spies were discovered in the Akron Labor Union. They had for a long time occupied prominent positions and have always discouraged attempts to organize the rubber industry. Since the exposure of these spies, the labor movement of Akron has been a little more alive.

The Workers Party, particularly, is playing a major role in building up sentiment for a great concerted drive for organization of the workers in the local rubber industry. Gitlow's successful meeting will stimulate this sentiment tremendously. It was the best meeting ever held under the auspices of the Workers Party in Akron. The enthusiastic applause at the conclusion of Gitlow's speech indicated the revolutionary sentiment developing here and also marked the conversion of many who had up to the time of that meeting been sympathetic to LaFollette. Gitlow in closing said: "The only party organized in the interests of the workers is the Workers Party of America. It seeks to organize the workers, industrially and politically for the overthrow of capitalist government, and for the establishment of a workers' and farmers' republic. It seeks to do this by revolutionary means in order to abolish capitalism and institute the reign of Communism."

Where Cops Are Thick.

DETROIT, Sept. 8.—According to the Detroit police department, Philadelphia employs more policemen on a per capita basis than any other city of the country. After Philadelphia, the report says, Boston, St. Louis, Chicago, New York City, San Francisco, Cincinnati and Detroit follow in order.

FASCIST BANK GOES BROKE IN QUAKER CITY

Black Shirt President Kicks the Bucket

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—The closing by the authorities of the South Philadelphia State bank, operated by prominent Fascist sympathizers, has swallowed up the savings of the four thousand Italian working men and women who had deposited their savings.

A shortage of almost a million dollars in the reserves of the bank led to investigation and suspension of payment.

A warrant for the arrest of Edward A. Fichera, the treasurer, was sworn out by the chief examiner of the banking department. Fichera disappeared from his home the day before the bank closed and has not been seen since. Several of the minor officials are also missing. It is reported that they escaped with over $27,000.

The president of the bank, Joseph Cerrotti, collapsed in his home and died instantly. Receipt of the news of the bank's failure is supposed to have brought a heart attack.

All of the officials of the bank have been prominent at Fascist meetings and Fascist demonstrations. During the past three years they have organized dozens of pro-Fascist meetings in this city.

The bank, which was not a member of the Federal Reserve system, is thought to have had financial connections with the Italian govrnment.

WORKER IN GARY STEEL MILLS OF PENNSYLVANIA TELLS HOW LABOR IS WORKED FOR BIGGER PROFITS

To the DAILY WORKER:—After reading some of the letters in the DAILY WORKER from workingmen about the conditions in the shops and factories in the United States I feel that I must tell your readers about the factory I work in. I am employed at the Edgar Thompson Works of the Carnegie Steel Company which has its plant here in Turtle Creek, Pa.

Posters are hung on the walls in this plant for the workers to read. They warn the men against attempts to get them to join a union. The big boss is talked up as the workmen's benefactor. The posters go into lengthy accounts of the bad times that the workers had when the shop was unionized and how much better they are off now when they let the boss look after their interests. In addition to the posters, other literature in this tone is circulated thruout the plant.

But the conditions that exist in the plant show up the lies circulated thru these publicity channels.

Every man is given a booklet containing safety rules of the company. How he is expected to keep these rules under the high speed pressure he is compelled to work soon puzzle the new employee. But he must ask no questions.

The book admonishes all employes not to talk back to the foremen. That's all them always to be courteous to the heads of the departments and foremen. If a worker tries to talk back to any one of them he learns from the other workers that it is as good as asking for his pay. So he complies with the safety rules as nearly as it is possible for him with the result that many accidents happen thruout the day.

Tell Workers What to Eat.

The real joker in the book of rules is the part that tells the workers what to eat. Breakfast should consist of fruit and cereals. One meal of meat and vegetables and one meal of bread and butter and milk. But we who work in this mill do not get enough wages to even afford the little sample of food which the big steel owners think we are entitled to.

The wages are terribly low. Those who work eight hours a day get 50 cents an hour. Those who work 10 and 12 hours a day, get 46 cents an hour.

The main parts of the mill work the ten and twelve hour day. The eight hour day sections were originally piecework sections. The workers developed prodduction to such a height thru striving to make a little more money that the bosses knocked off the piecework system and put them on the eight-hour day.

Workers Driven.

Under the new system they do not need to give the workers that little extra pay as an incentive. They just drive. There are days when I come home from work and just drop on the bed and stay there till it is time to go to work the next morning. That is how they work us when we are given a chance to work.

We do not have steady work. The speeding up system makes it unnecessary for us to work every day. A large part of the time we only work three days a week. But the mill does not shut down. A certain number of men are employed each day.

Every man must report to an outer office every day. The foreman comes out and looks over the men. If you look rested up and strong and husky you are likely to be given a days' work, otherwise you are sent home to report the next day. Any man who fails to report each day is fired. One young man was sent home for five days in succession and on Saturday he did not report. On Monday morning when he reported for work he was told that he was fired.

Meetings for Workers.

The company does not stop at the use of posters and leaflets and safety booklets for propaganda. It uses still another means. Every week we have safety meetings. These meetings open with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner. Any man who does not sing, loses his job.

They next call on a few men who have met with accidents in the plant to speak. These men must declare that the accident was caused thru carelessness on their part and they go into a detailed account of the way it all came about to prove that it was no fault of the company. Men injured to the extent incapacitated enough not to be able to walk about, must report every day and sit around the plant as soon as they are able to do some kind of work, they are put to work.

The object in mind is to report as few accident cases as is possible. If these men report to the plant they are not incapacitated. If all the men who receive injuries in the plant were reported, it would knock up the accident report of the Carnegie Steel Co. at least five times the original amount.

Prosperity For Bosses Only.

The capitalist papers carried Judge Gary's report that mills are beginning to show signs of prosperity again. But we who work here in the mill know that they are closing down more furnaces and laying off hundreds of men and that all the men are working only on part time. Prosperity for the Garys yes, when he forces one man to do the work of two.

Here's to the day when we will wipe the parasites off the earth!

One of Gary's Slaves.
Turtle Creek, Pa.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

WORKERS PARTY—LOCAL CHICAGO
Branch Meetings

Wednesday, September 10.

Volt Naprastek School, Czecho-Slov. Branch, 2550 S. Homan Ave.

Entire City Executive Committee meeting, Room 202, 166 W. Washington St. The Problem of the Hungarian Federation will be the special order of business.

Czecho-Slovak No. 1, Spravedlnost Hall, 1925 S. Loomis St.

English, Class, 722 Blue Island Ave.

Thursday, September 11.

Class in Trade Union Tactics and Conduct, 722 Blue Island Avenue.

Lithuanian No. 2, 1900 S. Union Ave.

Czecho-Slovak North Berwyn, Roksd Oak Park, Roosevelt and Union Ave.

11th Ward Italian, 2429 S. Oakley Blvd.

Scandinavian Lake View, 3206 N. Wilton St.

Scandinavian West Side, Zeich's Hall, Corner Cicero and Superior Sts.

Scandinavian Karl Marx, 2732 Hirsch Blvd.

Friday, September 12.

Scandinavian South Chicago, 641 E. 61st St.

Lettish Branch, 4359 Thomas St.

Czecho-Slovak Hanson Park, Bohemian Free Thought School, Mansfield Ave. near Grand.

HARRY GANNES LECTURES JUDGE ON FREE SPEECH

His Honor Rules Cop's Time Was Wasted

Police interference with the street meetings of the Workers Party has not dampened the enthusiasm of the members or lessened the attendance at the meetings. As the campaign grows in intensity and the various candidates increase their efforts to gobble up the labor vote, the workers of Chicago are showing a decided interest in the Communist message of the Workers Party.

The large numbers of workers that come to hear our speakers apparently has aroused the anger of the business elements, who compel the police to try and stop the meetings and failing to do so, arrest the speakers.

Will Fight For Right.

Several of these attempts to deny the Workers Party the right of free speech on Chicago's streets have proved abortive. The party is determined to avail itself of every opportunity to present its message to the workers.

On last Saturday, while Harry Gannes of the Young Workers' League, was speaking at Orchard and North Avenue, he was taken off the box before he had a chance to begin his speech. Gannes was taken to the police station and booked for disorderly conduct.

Maurer Takes Stand.

No sooner was Gannes arrested than George Maurer took the platform and continued his speech despite threats of arrest.

It was learned that the cause of the arrest was a complaint made to the local police station by the North Avenue Improvement Association.

The crowd at Orchard and North Avenue sympathized with the speakers and resented the arrests.

Tells It To Judge.

Comrade Gannes ably defended himself yesterday morning before the police court judge and the case was dismissed. "Have I a right of free speech on the streets?" Gannes asked of the judge. The judge replied that he was not giving him legal advice, and suggested that his party was able to inform him on that point. "The case is dismissed," said His Honor.

The free speech fights in Englewood and Cicero have ended victoriously for the party. Last Thursday fronting a battery of Communist speakers were at 62nd and Halsted streets ready for a vocal scrap in case of police interference. But there was none. The lone cop in the vicinity gave the meeting a wide berth.

Negroes Interested.

Two very successful meetings that deserve special mention were held last week. One was on the South Side in the colored section with Gordon Owens as speaker. Twenty workers came up and signed the petitions for placing the Communist candidates on the ballot and several signified their desire to join the Workers Party.

At Roosevelt and Thalman over 300 workers listed attentively to the speakers, bought a large quantity of literature and several stayed after the meeting was over to inquire about the necessary procedure in applying for membership in the Workers Party.

This is the first Communist election campaign ever held in Chicago. One of the most satisfactory results from the campaign is the large quantity of literature sold at the meetings.

* * *

STREET MEETINGS IN CHICAGO.

Wednesday, Sept. 10.

22nd and Halsted Sts., auspices Lithuanian branches; speakers: Herd, George, Bleichacker.

Roosevelt and Marshfield, auspices Jugenburg No. 1.; speakers: D. E. Earley and others.

32nd and Morgan Sts., auspices Polish branches; speakers: Polish comrade and others.

Thursday, Sept. 11.

62nd and Halsted Sts., auspices Englewood W. P. and Y. W. L.; speakers: Bedacht and others.

14th and Union and 21st Ave., auspices Cicero branches; speakers: Earley, Lithuanian comrade and others.

47th and Ashland (and Gross), auspices Polish branches; speakers: Herd and Polish comrade.

Friday, Sept. 12.

Lawrence and Sawyer, auspices Irving Park branches; speakers: Peter Herd and others.

North Ave. and Washtenaw, auspices N. W. Branch and Y. W. L.; speakers: Bergeson, Klar and Earley.

Roosevelt and Homan, auspices W. S. (Ryker) and Y. W. L.; speakers: L. Lovell, Engdahl and Abe Harris.

Halsted and Belmont, auspices N. S. W. L.; speakers: Swabeck, Elsa Block, Gregory Maurer.

LESSONS ON TAKING A WALK

IF you don't know what possibilities there are in taking a stroll, you should observe well what a Workers Party member who takes his membership seriously, gets out of a walk. This comrade, who does not take shelter behind the fact that he cannot speak good-English, has discovered that the main thing that is needed in taking his kind of a walk is just plain, ordinary nerve to stop folks on the street and talk to them.

This is because, besides the exercise he gets out of taking a walk, he raises money as well. Starting from Milwaukee and Chicago avenues one morning, he walked up Milwaukee to Division street, then west to California avenue, south to Chicago and back east on Chicago to where he started. Now that is a good walk and a good walk is fine for one's health.

But this comrade's walk benefited the labor movement, also. He started with his thirty-two copies of the LABOR HERALD, and when he saw anyone approaching him on the street, he stopped him. No, he didn't ask them for a match. He asked them to buy a LABOR HERALD for 15 cents, and he explained to them all the virtues of the LABOR HERALD. That is, he started to do so. Unusually, after he had pointed out the chief articles, showing how important and interesting they are, the prospective purchaser succumbed to temptation and the comrade passed on down the street with one less LABOR HERALD. Why don't more Communists take such exercise?

WORKERS' STRAW VOTE

THE DAILY WORKER,
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

The workers employed in the shop of .....

..... have taken a straw vote on the presidential candidates, and the vote was as follows:

WM. Z. FOSTER ..... votes; LaFOLLETTE ..... votes;
Workers Party — No Party

DAVIS ..... votes; COOLIDGE ..... votes.
Democratic Party — Republican Party

I certify that this report is correct:

Name: .....

Address: .....

MITCHALL'S
INTERNATIONAL ORCHESTRA
Union Music Furnished
For All Occassions
Write for appointments to
M. MITCHALL,
(Teacher of Saxophone)
1640 W. Congress St. Chicago, Ill.

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

SILLINSKY IN BIG LEAD IN TAILORS' POLL

Sweeney Making Poor Showing in Election

By ANDREW OVERGAARD
(Special to The Daily Worker)

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 9.—The results of the election in a number of Locals of the Journeyman Tailors' Union clearly shows that the membership of the union is looking for a change, and if the same interest on the part of the members is shown by other Locals there is no doubt that Max J. Sillinsky, candidate for election as secretary-treasurer, will carry the election by an overwhelming majority.

The present incumbent, Sweeney, has been using the columns of "The Tailor" to make personal attacks against Sillinsky, and utilizes his staff of organizers to make his campaign.

But Sweeney's frantic efforts seem to be helping Sillinsky. We can judge by the result of the voting in four Locals which is as follows:

	Max Sillinsky	Sweeney
Cleveland	166	14
Pittsburgh	106	25
Houston	22	4
New York	24	5

This shows clearly that the sentiment is for Max Sillinsky and progress and the letter from Arthur Keep, published in a recent issue of the DAILY WORKER, and a letter which follows from a prominent member of the Local Union in Los Angeles, indicates also that the Locals that supported Soderburg in the last vote have thrown their support to Sillinsky. The letter speaks for itself and we publish it in full:

Stands First For Union.

Los Angeles, August 18, 1924.

Mr. Max J. Sillinsky,
2536 Euclid Avenue,
Cleveland, Ohio.

Dear Sir and Brother: I received your letter of the ninth inst., and altho you did not ask me to tell you where I stood in regard to the coming election, I feel it my duty to inform you anyway. I STAND FIRST AND LAST FOR THE WELFARE OF THE J. T. U. of A., and will do everything within my power to help lift our union out of the deadly morass into which it has drifted thru the utter incompetence of its present General-Secretary.

There was a time when the Journeymen Tailors' Union was a power in the Labor Movement, today it is weak and helpless, and this condition is not due to accident, but is caused by the ignorance and stupidity of one man, and should he by some misfortune be re-elected, I shall have grave fears for the future of our Organization. If only more of our members were acquainted with the man, there would be no doubt of the result—he would be overwhelmingly defeated. I have often noticed that when the members of a Local have a chance to see and hear him, they usually cast a strong vote against him at the different elections; which probably explains why he never accepts an invitation to visit a Local if he can find some excuse to get out of it.

As he is on every possible occasion claiming the credit for bragging about the Weekly System, I am going to give you a few facts.. In February, 1918, he stated in a letter to me that "the last convention (1917) cost more than eight thousand dollars, and the money might as well have been thrown into Lake Michigan, as not a single thing of any importance was accomplished." And mind you, that was the convention where the WEEKLY SYSTEM WAS ADOPTED. Later, when I was preparing to line up the Pacific Coast for Weekly Wage—and succeeding—he wrote me that he did not think our members wanted it. After numerous Locals wrote to him for advice regarding that section in our Constitution, he passed the buck to the Executive Board, evidently hoping that they would postpone enforcement indefinitely and save him labor and worry. And now he claims the credit! ! !

You say that Sweeny has no policy? You are mistaken. As a delegate to the A. F. of L. convention in Montreal, 1920, I stopped over in Chicago and had a chat with him to see if we could adopt some general policy for the benefit of our Organization and also on the important issues which were known to be brought up. As he did not seem to have any interest in the whole affair I asked him what was his policy, and here is the gist of his reply. Brother Trummer, the majority of our members are ignorant and they have no policy on anything, and that's my policy. I ventured to suggest that perhaps our members expected "Headquarters" to have its knowledge and experience to take the initiative in such matters, to which he replied that he would be foolish to take any trouble or work outside of the regular office routine "which was all the Constitution required of him anyway." I then wanted to know what in the devil we were going to do, and here is his reply, which is typical of the man: "Well, we are going to the convention hall, find a good seat, light our pipe or cigar and smoke; at noon we will take a walk and lunch then go back to the hall and light up again and smoke until they adjourn, and if they have any pleasure trips arranged we'll go along. Ha-Ha-Ha."

I could not help exclaiming: "So that's what our members are supposed to spend their hard earned money on?" Anyway, both Bolander and myself took part in the discussion on several measures—and by the way, my argument on the Plumb Plan was printed in full in the official proceedings, and I don't think any of our members know this, as it was not mentioned in my report to the Tailor.

I suppose you know that my first choice was Soderberg, but I sincerely hope that our members will wake up to the fact that we cannot afford to longer endanger the very existence of our Union by keeping a man in office who lacks all the qualities any man should have, and at the same time seems to be proud of it.

I feel sure that you will strive conscientiously to further the interests of our membership, and in so doing strengthen the standing and reputation of the JOURNEYMEN TAILORS' UNION OF AMERICA.

Sincerely and Fraternally yours,
M. A. TRUMMER.

Communists Oppose Revision of Trade Union Tactics

(Herewith is the second installment of the speech by Gregory Zinoviev, chairman of the Communist International, on the trade union question, which was delivered at the 29th session of the recent Fifth Cngress. "If there is a question on which the Comintern might lose its head," said Zinoviev, "it is just the trade union question." He proceeds to annihilate the theories of those Communists who want to revise the trade union tactics, a tendency highest developed as "Schumacherism" in Germany).

* * *

"Schuhmacherism"

In the German party there has been much talk of a "new trade union policy". What does this policy consist of? In "Schuhmacherism". It is only a pity that in our German party there are not whole Schuhmachers but also half Schuhmachers, who defend the same wrong policy less consequently. It is better when we have a whole Schuhmacher before us and can discuss the whole question.

Schuhmacher represents the view that a whole philosophy separates us from the social democrats; therefore he thinks we cannot remain in the same unions with them. Of course a whole philosophy separates us from the social democrats. They are the lackeys of the bourgeoisie, and we are Communists. Who does not understand that? It did not need a Schuhmacher to discover that. Or it is said: These dogs, these social democratic leaders are provoking us, in order to throw us out of the unions. We must therefore leave the unions. But just for this reason they are dogs. Just for this reason they are lackeys of the bourgeoisie, to provoke us and split the unions. We are not therefore sentimental dreamers, but straightforward proletarian revolutionaries, and can say: Dog remains dog, lackeys of the bourgeoisie remain lackeys of the bourgeoisie. We must hold out in spite of all, in order to win at any price, the majority of our class comrades in the unions, i. e. in the organizations which are still under the leadership of these accursed lackeys of the bourgeoisie (but which will not always remain so). The time is coming in which we shall win the majority of the workers in the unions. However much it may cost, we will not give up the wining of this organization of the working class.

The Mensheviki in Russia were just such lackeys of the bourgeoisie, they wanted just the same to push us out of the unions. We fought the same fight. We said: The greater the provocation, the more we must hold on to remain in the unions, and in spite of all, to win the majority of the workers. In the Comintern there were always elements who wanted to lead us another way. Already in the 1st and 2nd world congresses there were voices, from the party comrades from England and America, who said: "We do not wish to remain any longer in these unions." Lenin fought against them like a lion.

Now these comrades say: "We are all Leninists, but we want to get out of the reformist trade unions, we want to create a new form of the labor movement, a whole philosophy separates us from the old unions." The policy of the Comintern is this: Work in the unions as they are. Lenin understood how to send the first workers of our party, the first founders of our party into the reactionary unions, which had been founded by tsarist gendarmes, he even sent them into the unions which General Subatov had founded, only to draw the workers into our circle of influence. I must admit that the Dissmanns and the Grassmanns, the D'Arragonas, and the Gomperses are just such gendarmes, they are reactionaries. We know the gang: objectively they are not better than these Subatov. But we must go into these unions to win the majority of the workers, we must also remain in these Subatov-Grassmann- and Subatov-D'Arragona unions. If we do not do this, it means that we only want to win the majority of the workers with words. Or perhaps you really want it, only you do not know how. You cannot win the majority if you do not stay in the unions. Then you only pour your water on to the mills of these gendarmes. Schuhmacher may consider himself on the left, in reality he is playing into the hands of Grassmann and Dissmann.

No Compromise in the Trade Union Question

We can allow no compromise on the question. The Comintern must speak out clearly: We must remain in the trade unions. All Schuhmacherish arguments rebound against Leninism and prove the truth of our policy. Why do the social democratic leaders expell us? Because they are afraid we might win the majority of the workers. If there is a question on which the Comintern might lose its head, it is just the trade union question. If there is any question which can wreck our German party, it is the trade union question. (Loud applause.)

Today a comrade said to me: By some communal election or other, we had suffered a defeat. Naturally every defeat, however small, is unpleasant to us. But we do not belong to those revolutionaries who require of their comrades always and at any price, a victory; we know that there must also be defeats. But as Communists, we also know that in spite of defeats we must continue the struggle. But if the Leninist stand-point does not find firm footing in the German party, if the Leninist work does not appear clearly in the trade union work—that will bring such a defeat as we shall not be able to stand.

I must explain that the opposition in this question is not an "academic" one. Some Communist "academicals" try their very best to deepen every false step which we make, but the danger in the deviations in the trade union question is, that it is also made by good workers, and that is dangerous.

It is humanly comprehensible, that the workers clench their fists when they hear even the names of Grassmang & Co., and that hungry workers buy milk for their children rather than pay membership fees which go into the hands of social traitors. I can feel with them. But as a member of our class, as a member of the world party, as a class comrade, such a worker is not right. He must recognize that it is necessary to pay this fee, to win this organization accessible to every worker, that it is necessary to remain in it, and that we can only win it from within. If we do not do that, our whole program remains only on paper.

Comrades, what made us most anxious at the time of the German discussion of this question?

We understand that after the October defeat, after the Saxon comedy a crisis was inevitable. That is not so dreadful that we cannot make it good. But when the party as such, and very good workers who form the basis of our party, have no clear line of action on the trade union question, that makes us extremely anxious. And the party cannot follow a Communist line, if it has not a clear line in this question of all questions. There must be no lack of clearness here. It is not a question of words but of compromise, and we must be absolutely clear on this question.

The Frankfort resolution of the G. C. P. is theoretically right, it is the foundation of a right Leninist policy in the trade union question, but as every book has its own particular fate, so every resolution can have its fate, it may remain a paper resolution. We have spoken about it a good deal with our German comrades, with the best proletarians of Europe. They have many strong sides, but their weak side lies to some extent in this, that they have not yet fought out in the depths of their soul the trade union question. They have not yet conquered this question. They are still considering whether it is not opportunism to remain in the trade unions. Comrades, this inward battle must be fought to a finish.

Schuhmacher appeals to a whole series of resolutions from the transition period of the C. C. P., from the time of the vacillations, when the attitude to the trade union question was being taken up. That there were vacillations is not so dreadful. It was the time of moulting. But when these vacillations last for years it becomes a misfortune for the party. Schuhmacher's arguments prove nothing. We hope they are theoretically overcome in Frankfort. It only remains to overcome them in practice.

I was talking to a Berlin comrade, one of those proletarians who form the foundations of the party. I got the impression that he was to some extent ashamed before the masses, because we remain in the social democratic unions. In the undertaking in which he is working there are 20,000 workmen employed. Only a few thousands are organized in trade unions. Now he is ashamed to stand before them and say: You must go into the social democratic unions. Naturally he considers very good workmen. No, comrades, we know the masses well, we have had to do with thousands, yes, millions of workers. We already know those masses who say: "You don't get me into the trade union, it has no sense to go into that show." They sometimes make very radical gestures, but they often do not go into the party, and remain far removed from the revolutionary struggle. Then comes the moment when they say: "Where was the party when we went wrong? It is there to set our mistakes right." Of course we cannot carry out the revolution without these 30,000, but we must convince them that it is necessary to remain in the unions. If we do not do that, then we cannot destroy the bourgeois order.

(To be continued.)

FASCISTI NOW CAUGHT WITH TREASURY LOOT

Say Mussolini's Friends Got Billions

(Special to The Daily Worker)

TURIN, Italy, Sept. 9.—That Fascist officials have, during the past three years, put into their own pockets billions of dollars thru subtle operations in the printing bureau of the treasury department located here, has been discovered following the announcement of the Banca d'Italia that there are in circulation $300,000,000 in bonds and $700,000,000 in paper bills not accounted for in the records of the treasury.

That the surplus is not due to counterfeiting has been ascertained by careful examination of the money in circulation in the country.

Facts Are Suppressed.

Government employes working in the printing bureau have been taken into the pay of Fascist officials, and have been induced not to record a certain number of the bonds and bills that were turned out, it is reported.

Publication of these facts in La-Stampa, liberal-democratic paper published by Giolitti, former premier of Italy, has led to its immediate suppression. Mussolini has sent orders to the prefect of every district to suppress any paper which makes mention of the printing bureau scandal.

As a result, Unita, daily organ of the Communist party; Avanti, organ of the Maximalist and Turatti-della Serra, anti-Fascist liberal organ, have been temporarily suppressed.

Charges Hit Army Officials.

It is said that the same officials who until last year gathered in millions from the Banco Disconto, which in a few months made millionaires of a handful of penniless army officials, and which was closed only when the scandal could no longer be kept under cover, are responsible for the operations which have been going on in the printing bureau.

Over $3,000,000,000 is reported to have been presented to the Banco di Roma, in which all of the financial interests of the Vatican are tied up, in order to buy for the government the favor of the Pope, and the millions of Catholics whose votes the Church controls.

LEAGUE FOR MUTUAL AID TO EXTEND ACTIVITY NATIONALLY; IS HELP TO LUCKLESS RADICALS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The League for Mutual Aid, 70 Fifth Avenue, is planning to extend its activities to a national basis. The first step is to be the immediate establishment of a branch office in Boston.

The idea of a League for Mutual Aid came to Roger Baldwin when he was serving his involuntary prison sentence during the war. When he was released, he had his plans ready and gathered around him other kindred souls—Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Charles W. Ervin, and others. This was in Jan. 1920, when many of our best men were serving war sentences in Leavenworth and elsewhere for the expression of their ideals. In four years the membership spread to 600 souls scattered over the country. Their first office was nothing but a passage-way alongside the old office of the American Civil Liberties union. No door, but a faded green rep curtain, hid the busy secretary himself a conscientious objector from the many visitors that crowded the rooms of the American Civil Liberties union on West 13th street.

Has Aided Many.

Many a tired "red" found solace and comfort behind that old green curtain, and altho the office is more pretentious today—on Fifth avenue—the aid and assistance is just as keen. If a radical happens to need a loan to pull him thru, or a job, he is likely to come away satisfied. In fact, in any way, personal or otherwise, the league is at the service of its members. One well-known New York doctor, Allen Carpenter, has helped in numerous cases. Those who have not been able to afford medical attention.

Tragedy and comedy jostle one another every day. One day it is the case of an old anarchist fighter who has fallen on hitter days thru incurable illness and is sent peacefully and beautifully on the last lap with all the comfort that it is possible for him to have.

Loaned $6,000 To Date.

A farmer, out in faraway Oklahoma, who had been jailed during the war for obstructing the draft, needed $100 to pay off a mortgage and save his crops from disaster and his family from destitution. The league was told of his case and sent $100. Up to date, the league has made loans aggregating $6,000 and has secured many jobs for its members.

The membership is very interesting. A professor of ethics will find himself having a good time at one of the jolly winter socials with a talented bond carrier who is studying art. Another good-looking gentleman from Boston who is looking for a wife and will not worry about her before breakfast, thinks he may find one in the league. All sorts of people belong: poets, playwrights, bricklayers, artists, organizers, ministers, janitors and social school teachers. And they represent all types of thinking, anarchists, Communists, I. W. W.'s, wild and wild liberals, and yet all is perfect harmony at any of the gatherings held in winter.

The league leased 15 acres of camping ground at Mohegan colony near Peekskill, New York, where there is a lake for bathing and boating and members may pitch their tents for the warm holidays.

Confiscate I. W. W. Supplies.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 9.—R. V. Doyle, I. W. W. organizer, arrested in Sacramento, was released on condition that he allow all his supplies to be confiscated by the police. The defense committee applied for a court order to secure the supplies, which was refused by Judge Bledick, author of the anti-I. W. W. injunction.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

FATTY ARBUCKLE, T. N. T. REPORT ROCK CONVENTION

Klansmen Leave When Cal Gets Slapped

(Special to THE DAILY WORKER.)

SOUTH BEND, Indiana, Sept. 9.—The Indiana Federation of Labor, in session here, endorsed Robert M. La Follette, Burton K. Wheeler, and Fatty Arbuckle.

The resolution endorsing the re-entrance of Fatty into the motion picture world passed unanimously. The delegates weren't so sure about Bob and Burt as stars on the political screen.

Party Not a Party.

The endorsement of LaFollette and Wheeler came after a stormy debate on the report of President T. N. Taylor, advocating that the convention give its official approval to the endorsement of these candidates by Sam Gompers' executive council. T. N. T.'s report proved a bomb in the convention camp. It brought up the question of whether or not a labor federation could discuss politics. Delegate Perkins said that the Indiana organization was practically destroyed in 1894 because it entered politics. He predicted the same result if the federation goes into politics this year. He read a portion of the rule adopted in 1901 by the American Federation of Labor, forbidding the organization to tell its members to which political party they should belong.

The fact that LaFollette's party is not a party, helped in getting over that objection.

Cal Stepped On.

Thirty sensitive delegates left the hall when Calvin Coolidge's name was mentioned disrespectfully. They returned when the blasphemy was over.

The convention also went on record favoring recognition of Soviet Russia, after having tied a string to the resolution by amending it to read that any government established by its own people should be recognized.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A PRETTY APRIL.

A POPULAR SUIT FOR SMALL BOYS.

4566. Chintz or cretonne would be nice for this model. The free edges may be bound in a contrasting color, or finished with stitching or rick rack braid.

The Pattern is cut in four Sizes: Small, Medium, Large and Extra Large. A Medium size requires 2½ yards of 36 inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipts of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL AND WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

4566. Wool jersey, serge, velveteen or corduroy could be used for this model. It is also suitable for wash materials.

The Pattern is cut in three Sizes: 2, 4, and 6 years. A 4 year size requires 2⅝ yards of 36 inch material

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL AND WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address, The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

PRICE OF PATTERN HERE—The patterns being sent from the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. Do not become impatient if your pattern is

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Your Union Meeting

Second Wednesday, Sept. 10, 1924.

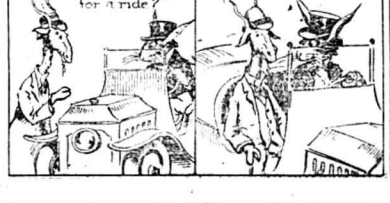
No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting.
181	Coopers, 8501 Escanaba Ave.
2	Firemen's Assn., 64 W. Randolph St., 2 p. m.
1	Boiler Makers, Monroe and Peoria.
526	Boot and Shoe Workers, 1938 Milwaukee Ave.
	Carmen's Dist. Council, 5445 S. Ashland Ave.
4	Jewelry Workers, 19 W. Adams St.
104	Carmen's Workers, Ladies', 328 W. Van Buren St., 6:30 p. m.
126	Machinists, 113 S. Ashland Blvd.
524	Machinists, 733 N. Cicero Ave.
576	Maintenance of Way, 626 W. 63d St.
7	Carpenters, 175 W. Washington St.
17	Carpenters, 3111 Garfield Blvd.
21	Carpenters, Polk and Western.
242	Carpenters, 6445 S. Ashland Ave.
1049	Carpenters, 814 W. Harrison St.
1784	Carpenters, 1638 N. Halsted St.
1784	CARPENTERS, 1528 N. HALSTED ST., H.H FEHLING, Rec. Sec'y., 2253 Grace St. Irving 7387.
3	Hod Carriers, 1352 W. Division St.
465	Sheet Metal, 5208 S. Halsted St.
219	Railroad Trainmen, 426 W. 63rd St., 7:30 p. m.
11	Roofers, 727 W. Adams St.
754	Teamsters, 220 S. Ashland Blvd.
759	Teamsters (Meat), 220 S. Ashland Blvd.
13046	Tuckpointers and Frt. Cleaners, 810 W. Harrison St.
924	Tunnel and Subway Workers, 914 W. Harrison St.
1922	Carpenters, 6414 S. Halsted St.
54	Painters, Sherman and Main Sts., Evanston, Ill.
4	Plasterers, 910 W. Monroe St.
73	Sheet Metal, 714 W. Harrison St.

(Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

Res. 1052 S. Trumbull Ave.
Phone Rockwell 5050

MORDECAI SHULMAN
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
701 Association Building
19 S. La Salle Street CHICAGO
Dearborn 3657 Central 4945-4947

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS



A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year $3.50...6 months $2.00...3 months

By mail (in Chicago only):
$5.00 per year $4.50...6 months $2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL ..... Editors
WILLIAM F. DUNNE .....
MORITZ J. LOEB ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application

Imperialism and the Elections

It would seem that, in a presidential election at least, the voters of the United States would be interested in what this country is doing in South America. But all the capitalist candidates, Coolidge, Davis, and LaFollette, have joined in proclaiming that domestic issues are foremost, and all three agree in keeping the blinds down on the invasion of South America by Morgan's money, United States marines, and all the other forces of American imperialism.

News from Chile yesterday discloses a new development in Morgan's annexation schemes. Hitherto the only section of Latin America, aside from Mexico, which has put up any decided resistance to Morgan, was the so-called A. B. C. alliance, composed of Argentine, Brazil, and Chile. These countries have the most favorable circumstances under which to resist imperialist influences. They are the largest in South America, contain the greatest natural resources, are farthest removed geographically from the American warships, and are the best developed industrially. They have the best armaments, military and naval, and altogether, when standing in alliance with one another, presented a formidable obstacle to J. Pierpont and his lackeys in Washington.

But America is lousy with money, and army officers of small countries are often "open to reason." Politicans who fail to get rich on domestic policies in South America have learned the fatal lesson—fatal for South American independence—that there is always a job to be had carrying thru the schemes of Wall Street. Therefore it happens that dissensions suddenly develop within the A. B. C. alliance. Therefore, also, news comes today that the "Army" in Chile is in revolt against the "politicians" (not of course against the "politicians" who have "listened to reason").

Coolidge will say nothing about these machinations against the peace of other nations. Hughes will not pronounce against the Wall Street International. Davis will keep a studious silence, much as he wants votes, because the policy of his paymaster is involved. LaFollette will keep silent, and will not even mention the seven countries of South and Central America where power is now wielded by American marines, because he is also essentially an imperialist. No party will expose the rottenness and corruption of American imperialism, which is not only enslaving the masses of Latin America but thereby also riveting the chains of the working class of the United States, except the Communists in the Workers Party, except Foster, the candidate of the Communists for president.

The Pacifist Preachers

What class-conscious workers have long been aware of, namely that the "pacifism" of the preachers of religion is of the same brand, essentially, as the "pacifism" of the army officers, received a striking demonstration yesterday. A gathering of ministers of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches, which had previously adopted resolutions deploring militarism, hastened to endorse mobilization day, while reasserting its pacifism.

At the same time is printed a dispatch from Berlin, quoting General H. T. Allen of the American forces, as stating that he is a "pacifist" and that is the reason he is in favor of mobilization day. The general wants a big army and big guns, with plenty of poison gas, to insure peace. His pacifism is much the same as the preachers'.

"This is a very inopportune time" to be anti militarist, was the tenor or argument used in favor of mobilization day. The only opportune time for pacifists to talk is when there are no war moves on. It is in the very nature of pacifism, according to its inner logic, that militarism cannot be actively fought because that creates a danger of building up a militant attitude of mind. This in turn must be rejected because it might lead to a real struggle against militarism. And all the preachers want is to have peace between themselves and the powers that be. The time is never "opportune" for pacifists to really do anything against war.

The workers are quickly learning that pacifism is merely another form of capitalist thought, just as deadly to their class interests as imperialism and militarism, because it leads to surrender to those very forces. Nothing but the militant class struggle of the workers against the exploiters, resulting finally in the struggle for power, in the civil war against imperialist war, will lead the working class out of its present slavery. The preachers and the pacifists are not friends of the workers but of the capitalists.

The workers must prepare their own "mobilization days," on which to muster their forces for the overthrow of capitalism.

A Threat of War

Secretary of State Hughes has again announced that Soviet Russia cannot be recognized by the United States. This time he sets up as the principal reason the existence of the Workers Party in this country, as a section of the international revolutionary movement, which he blames upon Soviet Russia. Until the Workers Party ceases to propagate the proletarian revolution in the United States no recognition can be given Soviet Russia.

But Hughes is not entirely frank. What the capitalists of America are afraid of is, in the long run, certainly just this international organization of revolutionists of which Hughes complains. But the immediate menace, that which dictates the question of recognition at the moment, is not the existence of the Workers Party but the fact that the proletariat is in power in Russia and shows not the slightest signs of weakening. Hughes lays down the principle that so long as the working class is in power the United States will not accept the Russian Government as a fact to be dealt with.

Hughes thus lays down a clear issue. It is an ultimatum to the workers of Russia to surrender their country back to the capitalists or to engage in war with the United States. For this is the only logical outcome of Hughes' position. The only alternative is for Hughes to change his mind. When we note that the capitalists of France and Great Britain, who also held the same attitude as Hughes for years, have finally changed and, formally at least, granted recognition to the Soviets, it is clear that Hughes may also find it expedient to do the same. But let there be no misunderstanding of the meaning of Hughes' present pronouncement; he tells the Russian workers to return to capitalist exploitation or prepare for war.

Marxism a la Sharts-S. P.

Marxism has always suffered terrible mutilation at the hands of the socialist party. It was rather to be hoped that all the great intellects of that moribund organization would now follow the lead of their two greatest men, Berger and Abe Cahan, and reject all talk of the class struggle and Marxism. But it seems that a few old-fashioned S. P.-ites cannot travel quite so fast; one of these is Joseph Sharts who, in a current issue of the Miami Valley Socialist, quotes Marx against the Communists and in favor of LaFollette. The Communists, by rejecting LaFollette, have betrayed the revolution, says Sharts.

Before the campaign is over we have an idea that Mr. LaFollette himself will teach Sharts who has betrayed the revolution. In the meantime let us appreciate thoroly the spectacle of this advocate of "revolution," quoting the words of Marx, "the Communists do not form a separate party opposed to other working class parties," as the justification for abandoning all party organization and merging in a middle-class melange that obliterates all class lines. If the LaFollette movement can be taken as an expression of the working class, then there is nothing to prevent Mr. Davis or Mr. Coolidge from serving in the same capacity.

The fact of the matter is, that Sharts, in the name of Marx, is repeating nothing more nor less than the identical philosophy which Gompers used against the socialists for a generation. Old Sammy (a better socialist) than Sharts himself, if Sharts' version of Marx has any validity. That was always Gompers' view that the interests of the workers must be advanced in the capitalist parties because that is where most of the workers vote. But, of course, Sharts is not a Marxian. He is a middle-class lawyer who cannot utter the name of Marx without slandering that giant of working class thought. And when he finds out that LaFollette does not like to have shyster socialists quoting Marx in support of him, then Sharts will quit even that.

Get a member for the Workers Party.

An Army Plot

The charges by counsel for Paxton Hibben, that army officers have entered into a plot to take his officers commission away from him, will be of interest to the workers. It is well that we become familiar with the inner workings of the army, because it is one of the chief instruments of suppression of the working class, and to combat it requires more knowledge of it than is now available. This plot against Hibben (who by the way is very, very far from being a Communist, his "crime" consisting of a few liberal opinions about recognition of Russia), may possibly reveal a corner of the inner life of the army.

It seems from the documents made public, that the army intelligence organization is habitually used to spy and frame up on "undesirable" officers in the army. In the case of Hibben, these instruments were put to work but, not wishing to bring the army directly into the case, the "officers' reserve corps" was made the channel for striking the blow.

A principal charge against Hibben, the one that reveals the animus behind the persecution, is that he helped to raise funds for the relief of famine victims in Russia some years ago, and that he has and still does advocate the recognition of the Soviet Government. Such a common sense attitude is taken as prima facie evidence of unfitness for service in the U. S. army. But because Hibben seems to be a fighter, and will not submit to the frame up against his without a scrap, it does not follow that the hoped for disclosures in the army life will really come about. What is now more likely, is that the case will be hushed up.

Get a member for the Workers Party and a new subscription for the DAILY WORKER.

The Terrorist Justice in Germany

How the German Government is Preparing for Carrying Out Experts' Report

By EMIL HOLLEIN, Communist Member of the German Reichstag

BOURGEOIS penal law in Germany has never been troubled with humanitarian scruples whenever it has been a question of wreaking vengeance for any attacks by its class enemies against the sacred institution of the capitalist state. Already in the time of the Kaiser brutal sentences imposed upon honest workers, have often aroused the horror and indignation of the whole civilized world.

Everything that happened under the Hohenzollern regime, however, appears as a mere trifle compared with the shameful vindictive administration of justice which we are witnessing in Germany today.

It must be noted that this is occurring in so-called republican-democratic Germany, at the head of which stands the social democrat Ebert and in the government of which a number of social democrats have for years held high and responsible positions.

The influence of the Experts' Report upon the administration of Germany's class justice is quite unmistakable. Never before in the German Republic, not even in the time of the greatest revolutionary tension of the last few years, and especially of last autumn when the misery of the masses in consequence of the inflation reached the highest point, has German bourgeois justice so openly and calmly exposed its vengeful character against the revolutionary workers as it has since the decision of the great bourgeoisie to carry out this pact of robbery and enslavement on the part of international big capital at the cost of the broad working masses in Germany.

Even the special court set up after the October armed rising in Hamburg showed—after the first death sentences intended to terrify the masses, which by the way have been commuted into relatively short terms of fortress imprisonment by president Ebert as a result of the pressure of the working masses—a far-reaching understanding for the desperate social and political conditions which were the lot of every honest worker at that time. The court to some extent passed milder sentences on the accused revolutionary workers because they had acted from absolutely honest motives.

All this however, was changed as soon as the Dawes plan appeared on the scene and its acceptance by the German bourgeoisie appeared more and more probable. It was clearly to be seen beforehand that only a completely physically and spiritually enslaved working class would put up with the terrible political, social economic and cultural consequences of the realization of the Experts' plan without offering the most bitter resistance.

For this reason it was necessary before all to defame and to trample underfoot the only genuine revolutionary party of the German working class, the C. P. of Germany, in order to break their resistance.

A monstrous reign of terror was instituted against it, accompanied by an unexampled campaign of calumny and instigation, which did not shrink from the stupidest as well as from the most blood-thirsty accusations, and which was participated in by all parties from the German Nationalists to the Social Democrats.

Of course, under these circumstances, German class justice could not show itself to be behindhand. It let loose a flood of trials for high treason, and glutted its revenge against the revolutionary workers, who in October, 1923, had made preparations for the fight to capture political power.

Altho the latter, contrary to the Hamburg workers who actually began an armed struggle, had restricted themselves to making preparations for the fight, they were sentenced to ever more brutal terms of prison and penal servitude.

These sentences expose even to the most undiscerning the true aims and intentions of this undisguised class justice: to create and spread terror among the broad working masses, so that they would shrink from any further resistance against their strangulation by international big capital under the terms of the Dawes plan.

And the choicest and the most characteristic feature of all this white terrorist justice is precisely the fact that it originates from and is supported by the famous state court of justice for the protection of the Republic; which was set up immediately after the Rathenau murder in order to combat the right radical (Fascist) murder bands.

This famous court of justice, which includes a great number of social democrats, among others the former minister Wolfgang Heine, the president of the metal workers' federation Brandes, the district chief constable Lange, etc., has, in those few cases where it has been compelled to deal with white guardist assassins, shown a very striking mildness and sympathy, while at the same time where Communists have got into its clutches it has given unbridled vent to its class hate.

We will cite a few examples to illustrate the so-called administration of justice of this model court of justice, against the decisions of which there is no appeal:

On February 14, 1924, Albert Barthel, a worker of Schwedt on Oder, received one year's fortress imprisonment and a fine of 50 goldmarks, because he distributed among the Reichswehr soldiers "leaflets of a seditious character" which advocate a change in the constitution by means of violence.

On April 15th, 1924, there were sentenced: 1. Max Birke, a miner, to one year's fortress imprisonment and 50 marks fine because in the previous November he distributed seditious Communist leaflets. 2. Emil Hagberg, a worker from Altona, to 15 months' fortress imprisonment and 50 marks fine, because he posted up a C. P. G. poster, which called for the setting up of the dictatorship of the proletariat. 3. Lechleitner, editor of the organ of the C. P. G. in Mannheim, to 13 months' fortress imprisonment and 50 marks fine, because he published an article in November, 1923, which propagated the dictatorship of the proletariat.

On June 4th, 1924, there were sentenced: 1. Hotopp, a clerk in Berlin, to 4 years' imprisonment and 5,000 marks fine on account of preparation of high treason and having knowledge of a store of weapons; 2. W. Schmidt, a mechanic and Bannert, Priss and Kroll, workers, each to two years and six months' imprisonment and 3,000 marks fine on a similar charge as above.

On June 18th, 1924, Alfred Oelssner, party secretary in Breslau, received three years' imprisonment and 1,000 marks fine on account of instigating and preparing high treason.

On July 10th, 1924, there were sentenced: Lambert, a tailor of Stuttgart to eight years' penal servitude, Brecht, a brewery worker, Rall, a turner, each to six years' penal servitude; Hausler, a turner, to three years' penal servitude and Glaser, an iron moulder, to one year penal servitude for possessing hand grenades and preparing high treason. The accused replied to the announcement of the bloody sentences with cheers for the world revolutions and for Moscow. It should be noted that these brutal sentences were based upon the evidence of a paid agent provocateur, who had been instructed by the authorities to enter the C. P. of Germany and there to arrange the "Tcheka" frame-up.

On June 19, 1924, there were sentenced in Koenigsberg: Delvendahl, a worker to seven years' penal servitude and 1,000 marks fine. Kalcher to six years' penal servitude and 600 marks' fine, Seipold to five years' penal servitude and 500 marks fine, Baumann to four years' penal servitude and 400 marks fine, Nautsch to four and a half years' imprisonment and 300 marks fine, Marwel to two and a half years' imprisonment and 200 marks fine, Lorenz, Mecklenburg, Lollies and Hoffman, each to 18 months' imprisonment and 200 marks fine on account of seizing a store of arms upon the estate of a junker in order to defend themselves from a threatened putsch and on account of alleged preparation of high treason. The president of the court, Niedner, revealed himself in this trial as an open Communist hater. He called the Communist flag "a Russian rag" and declared that every single member of the C. P. of Germany must from September last year, reckon upon being liable to punishment under paragraph 7 of the law for the defense of the republic.

The vindictive class justice of the German democratic republic is not only exhibited in the brutal sentences pronounced by the courts, but also by the treatment of the prisoners undergoing sentences, which is becoming harsher and more brutal. Not only are our comrades deprived of all Communist literature and not allowed to write to their friends; as a further means of punishment they are not allowed any change of underclothing, many of them are put into chains and beaten and brutally mishandled. The situation of the prisoners has become so desperate that they have been forced to adopt their only means of protest: the hunger strike. For instance, in Gleiwitz in Silesia, 70 of our comrades have entered on a hunger strike. The prison authorities replied to this action by entirely depriving them of water, thereby adding to their torture.

It is admitted that the present administration of justice aims at cowing and terrifying the masses. The German bourgeoisie, however, are making a great mistake if they believe they will be able, by means of such bloody sentences, to intimidate the working masses and cause them to shrink from ruthlessly defending their vital interests, which at the same time are the vital interests of the German nation. The terrorist sentences pronounced by class justice will not break the revolutionary fighting spirit of the working class. On the contrary, they arouse in the heart and brain the most powerful spiritual and moral forces, which will one day not only sweep away the terrorist justice and its upholders, but also the rotten state and social order, which provides the soil from which this terrorist justice must inevitably spring.

ON AMALGAMATION

"SOONER or later, the unions in all industries and in every country find themselves at the point where they are based upon industrial rather than craft lines. In arriving at this stage of development they ordinarily pass thru a more or less lengthy evolutionary process, marked by three distinct phases, which I shall call: (1) Isolation, (2) federation, (3) amalgamation."—William Z. Foster.

Unemployment and the Presidential Candidates

By JOSEPH MANLEY.
(Campaign Manager, Workers Party)

THE present unemployment of the Illinois miners is but a part of the general unemployment thruout the country, which in its turn is a manifestation of world unemployment. You men who dig the coal in Southern Illinois, must realize that your unemployment is caused by the logical development of American capitalism.

This problem of unemployment can only be met by a viewpoint which recognizes the class struggle as the basis of your trade union organization. This recognition will create a mental outlook which will allow of the organization adapting itself to the changing conditions of industry.

It will foster a militant spirit that will organize the unorganized. It will substitute for the present corrupt capitalist politics carried on by the representatives of your union, an interest in and desire for working class political issues and working class political struggles.

Capitlist Minded Leaders.

An instance of the capitalist political corruption attitude and viewpoint of "labor leaders" addressed by Calvin President John L. Lewis, can be cited in the fact that Lewis recently sent greetings and regrets, for his non-appearance at the Labor Day gathering of labor leaders," addressed by Calvin Coolidge in Washington. The same Coolidge who broke the Boston Police strike.

Your own District President Frank Farrington, clearly indicates his capitalist viewpoint when he endorses Len Small for Governor. Farrington, long, long dominated by this capitalist attitude of mind conceives a solution for your unemployment.

The solution put forth by Frank Farrington—the introduction of giant power, generated at the mouth of the mine—is a fake and a misleading scheme. Under capitalism and with the methods proposed it will simply enrich a few individuals. It will not benefit the miners at all, but will add further to their misery by fastening upon them one of the most up-to-date methods of capitalist exploitation.

The rank and file of the United Mine Workers of America must learn to clearly understand the roots of their present predicament. Which is that, modern American finance capital is out to destroy, root and branch the Miners Union. Finance capital—a combination of the giant banks—tried to destroy the union by a frontal attack, the union in the great coal strike of 1921.

Its method was its injunctions issued by the Government against the striking miners. The this frontal attack did not succeed, it caused the giant banks now behind the coal industry, to develop new strategy. An indirect smash upon the union.

Consolidation of Industry.

Finance capital has at last agreed upon the consolidation and complete mechanization of the bituminous coal industry. In carrying out this plan it has brought to the front and consolidated the various competing mines, especially in the non-union fields of West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, New Mexico and Colorado.

The consolidation of these competing mines and their mechanization, in its turn results in and necessitates the skill of the individual miner. It has increased and cheapened the production of bituminous coal to an unbelievable degree.

The coal from these highly mechanized mines in the non-union territory can undersell and compete with the old time mines of Illinois, operated as many of them have been, with methods not so up to date as now being used in the modern mine. This underselling is especially successful when old party politicians representing the capitalist system, control the tax buying up and consolidating the various competing mines. Great numbers of these mines it shuts down completely, in order to freeze out the union miners who have depended upon them for their living. Others they continue to operate as part of their plan to mechanize them and destroy the union. It is this desire to thoroly mechanize and standardize every operation down to the last retail, so that the individual skill and responsibility of the miner has no basis in reality.

This is the explanation of the demand by the Illinois operators, for the abolishing of the contract system. Only a human ostrich cannot see this inevitable economic development. The same course of development was followed in the steel industry, in the metal industry and in the anthracite. The same finance capital which has gained control of the bituminous non-union fields, is now reducing the Illinois union miners to unemployment, misery and suffering. It will by a process of attrition destroy your union, unless you begin to consciously recognize that you are an integral part of that working class which struggles against the capitalist class. You must displace your present republican and democratic union representatives—who stand four square for the capitalists and capitalism—with militant representatives who stand and fight on the issue of the class struggle against capitalism. Your organization, in order to survive, must be infused with a revolutionary spirit. It must organize the unorganized in the non-union field. It must fight for the socialization, thru a workers' and farmers' government, of the coal industry that is now being nationally consolidated by capitalist pirates. Your organization must fight to the end: that the cost of the present unemployment be borne by the industry itself and by the Government, so that the unemployed shall receive union wages.

Industrial Relief Thru Political Struggle.

In face of this crisis in your history, your apparent purely industrial problems have in reality become political problems. No real relief for unemployment can be hoped for except thru a great political struggle. No real nationalization of your industry can come about except thru a great political struggle.

Three Lawyer Candidates.

At this moment when millions of workers in America are unemployed a great political struggle is being waged. Coolidge, Davis and LaFollette are all running for the office of President of the United States. Two Republican lawyers and one Democratic lawyer. All of them standing for, and supporting the capitalist system of exploitation that is responsible for your unemployment and misery. You militant miners can have no political hopes from such candidates. You have been equally exploited by the big coal operator whom Coolidge and Davis represent, and by the little coal operator—now being crushed—whom LaFollette represents.

The Workers Candidate.

You coal diggers have a real political representative in the present election campaign. He too runs for President of the United States—William Z. Foster. Foster is the candidate of the miners and of the working class.

William Z. Foster, as the presidential candidate of the Workers Party stands upon its platform, which contains a real program for the relief of unemployment. This program will compel industry and the government to pay union wages to the unemployed. It contains a demand for: The nationalization of all large scale industries, such as mines, railroads, giant power plants and means of communication and transportation, and the organization of the workers in these industries for participation in the management and direction of the industries nationalized.

These are but a few of the points in the Workers Party platform on which Foster stands.

The Illinois miners must tackle this unemployment problem from a class conscious viewpoint. You must realize that it is the inevitable product of capitalism. You must force your present officers to stop their collaboration with capitalist politicians and capitalists, which simply perpetuates the present misery.

Illinois miners vote for Foster the Communist candidate and the abolition of capitalism!

YALE UNIVERSITY
NOV — 1924
LIBRARY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Communist Candidates For President: WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. For Vice-President: BENJAMIN GITLOW.

Vol. II. No. 148. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

DESPITE the civil war in China James Ramsay MacDonald is opposed to international intervention, according to a press report. As Mr. MacDonald delivered himself of this observation, British marines had already landed in Shanghai, presumably with the authority of the prime minister and ostensibly to "protect life and property." But do marines every occupy teritory not that of their master for any other reason? Of course not. There was a time when British arms went forth looking for new worlds to conquer and boldly announcing their willingness to "carry the white man's burden" but nowadays, Britain only assumes mandates or acts to "restore law and order." British capitalism can yet teach lessons in hypocrisy to its competitors.

* * *

THE PRINCE OF WALES is to spend the next year traveling around the world. He will visit South America and South Africa. Tho the prince is evidently having a good time, his mission is principally one of business, combined with pleasure of course. It might be said that pleasure is the prince's business, and that the prince's pleasure is the Empire's business. While playing polo on the estate of a Long Island capitalist, one of the inconsiderate animals kicked a bit of dirt into one of the prince's eyes. His Royal Highness like a real noble just covered up the injured optic and with the sound one located the prettiest society girl within his range of vision and trotted her around the ballroom floor until 6 o'clock in the morning.

* * *

THE PRINCE OF WALES is one of the wealthiest young men in the world. Besides receiving a handsome sum for his upkeep from the British Treasury, which, by the way was not reduced by the socialist chancellor of the exchequer, His Royal Highness owns extensive properties in England, Scotland, Wales and in Canada. It is a reasonably safe assumption that the capitalists with whom he consorts in New York will be urged by their wives under threat of divorce proceedings or worse to put the prince wise to little schemes that will help pay his expenses. The prince being one of "The Last of The Mohicians" is a great favorite with upper class women, being more in demand than even Haldemann-Julius, or Frank Harris. While the prince is having such a good time, 1,200,000 British workers are suffering from the effects of unemployment. When they work not they eat—not much. When the prince works, he does not eat. But he never worked.

* * *

AT last a headline that has it all over the DAILY WORKER'S chief "head" writer. "Coolidge Deaf-and-Dumb Clubs to Be Organized in All States." Neither is the headline misleading. The Boston director of the Coolidge and Dawes Clubs makes the following statement: "Mrs. Coolidge was a teacher in a deaf and dumb school before she married Mr. Coolidge. There are thousands of deaf and dumb voters in New York state alone. The work of organizing them has already been started." There is a barrel of wisdom in the director's statement.

* * *

IN the first place Coolidge is sure of the "dumb" vote. He stands a sporting chance of getting the "deaf" vote providing it is blind as well as deaf. That Mrs. Coolidge accepted Calvin for a mate was long the wonder of New England, but the puzzle is solved. Her training qualified her. Who else but a "deaf-and-dumb" teacher would tackle Silent Cal? And dumb! Vaudeville actors drew much needed inspiration for their "isn't he dumb" jingles from Coolidge. We are of the opinion, however, that the

(Continued on Page 6)

GOLD SAVES RICH KILLERS' LIVES

WALKER USES MUCH INK BUT SAYS LITTLE

Flowery Rhetoric Takes Place of Real Program

By KARL REEVE
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 10.—The report presented by John Walker, president, to the 42nd convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor here reveals in its first three pages the hopelessness, impotence and confusion which will result in leaving the affairs of organized labor in Illinois longer in the hands of this man.

Walker's report is distinguished for its remarkable fecundity of false economics.

Altho almost every line is crammed with flowery rhetoric and misunderstanding of the plight of the Illinois workers, not one constructive measure is put forward as a remedy for existing suffering.

Talks On Depression.

"Industrial depression has affected many of our members very injuriously," says Walker. "Hundreds of thousands of men," he has the astounding effrontery to admit, "among them a great many trade unionists, are walking the streets of Illinois and have been for the past year or more, seeking employment unavailingly. They and their wives and little children have suffered incalculable harm from the vicious so-called deflation drive."

"Our membership knows that a stronger and better equipped organization and better informed membership would have made impossible the bringing about of this inflation at all." says John Walker brazenly.

But Walker tells the DAILY WORKER that he does not propose to suggest any action on the part of the convention regarding the unemployment crisis.

He Can Be Optimistic.

Honest John, with his $5,000.00 yearly salary and his $2,211.05 expenses received last year, is remarkably optimistic. And Walker, to miners who have been out of work for seven months, keeps a straight face long enough to get off some of his mealy-mouthed and meaningless optimism.

It will all come out right in the end, says Walker, if only we keep paying him his salary and be patient little miners.

"There is need for greater unity," our oracle tells us. "More complete information on problems on vital interest. . . . a better understanding amongst each other. . . . a feeling of brotherhood amongst the common people of our state." This is the only apology for a solution that could be found after a diligent search thru Walker's incoherent document, for the industrial depression and for unemployment.

While the large employers, one hundred per cent organized, are in the midst of a wage-reduction drive, the great labor leader, shakes hands with them in the policy of class collaboration. Nero fiddles while Rome burns.

Report Full of Gush.

The DAILY WORKER has not the heart to bore its readers with all the gush disclosed in Walker's report, which devotes fifty pages to the flat janitor's case, and then jumps to que-

(Continued on page 2)

NEW YORK IN DRIVE FOR FIVE HUNDRED 'SUBS'

Foster Meeting Date is Time Limit

Five hundred new subscribers by the time of the Foster meeting is the immediate goal that the New York City organization has set for itself. The specific reason for this subscription campaign is to prove that there is sufficient demand for the DAILY WORKER in New York to justify placing it upon the news stands for sale.

Every reader of the DAILY WORKER in New York realizes what a convenience it would be to the workers of New York to find the workers' daily on the news stands every day, and how this would benefit the DAILY WORKER in increased circulation. Every reader, regardless of party affiliation, is invited to help achieve this end by hustling a sub or two of the necessary five hundred.

Much in Earnest.

The Party organization is very much in earnest about this. A contest has been launched among the Party branches, and the branch that makes the best record will receive a with Bolshevik emblem, Hammer, Sickle, Star and suitable inscription embroidered on it.

RED SILK BANNER

This banner will be officially presented by Comrade Foster, the Workers Party presidential candidate at his meeting in New York. The members of the winning branch, together with the members that make the best individual records in other branches, will have seats of honor at the Foster meeting.

Particulars are mailed to the branches, and will be sent to any one on request by the New York Agency of the DAILY WORKER, 208 East 12th Street. But no one need wait to start. The essential point is to get subscribers, at once, early and often, until the required number is reached. Then the DAILY WORKER will invade the news stands of New York.

POLICE THREATEN USE OF TEARGAS IN STEEL STRIKE

By MAX LERNER.
(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 10.—Police rushed into a meeting of steel workers of the Canton Steel Mills on strike and threatened the use of tear gas unless it was dispersed, thus breaking up a meeting called for the purpose of organizing the strikers into a union. Two of the strikers were arrested without any charges. One was immediately released. The other striker is still in jail.

Cut Wages.

The officials of the Canton Steel Mills informed the men that they would have to submit to a large cut in their wages and there would be an increase in the hours of work. Refusing to submit to those conditions the 500 steel workers employed in the Canton Mills left their benches as one man and have been busy organizing into a union until interfered with by the police.

The strikers are demanding recognition of the union, the eight-hour day and an increase in their wages.

The strike will continue in spite of the opposition that the men are meeting with from the police.

The local labor unions here are busy organizing the men and assisting them in every way possible in their struggle.

Officials Started Something.

The officials in the Steel Mills realize they have started something when they undertook to cut the wages of their organized workers. This strike will see the Canton Steel Mills workers organized into a union in addition to the men gaining the union scale of wages and hours

Daily Worker Campaign Launched

UNITED STATES RUSHES TROOPS TO QUELL HAWAIIAN STRIKE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

HONOLULU, Sept. 10.—Governor Farrington today ordered a national guard infantry company and two squads of machine gunners to the scene of the strike on Kaui Islands. Latest advices today showed that four policemen and fourteen striking Filipinos were killed in Tuesday's battle on Makaweli plantation.

Two other strikers were reported fatally wounded and others less seriously wounded, by the police.

Deputy Sheriff William Crowell was also wounded.

According to reports received here the strikers had kidnapped two scabs, beaten them and threatened their lives.

The sheriff sent police to the camp. He placed two men under arrest and was leading them away from the camp when Filipino workers began demanding their release. The workers followed the officers, the report said, and 300 yards from the camp the police opened fire on the strikers who returned it.

COMMUNISTS ON BALLOT IN TWO MORE STATES

Washington and Oregon Go Over the Top

By NORMAN TALLENTIRE
(Special to The Daily Worker)

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 10.—The Communist candidates for president and vice-president of the United States, William Z. Foster and Benjamin Gitlow, will be placed on the ballot in the states of Washington and Oregon.

At the state convention of the Workers Party held yesterday in accordance with state law, seven presidential electors were nominated in behalf of William Z. Foster's candidacy for president and that of Benjamin Gitlow for vice-president.

All Sections Represented.

Practically every section of the party in the state was represented in the convention.

The state convention of the Workers Party in Oregon was held on Sunday and a full slate of Workers Party electors nominated.

Preparations for the Foster meetings are in full swing. The Communist presidential candidate will speak in the following cities: Spokane, Sept. 22; Seattle, Sept. 23, Masonic Temple; Everett, Aug. 24; Tacoma, Sept. 24, Labor Hall, 12 South 23rd street; Portland, Sept. 25, Odd-fellows Hall, 10th and Salmon street.

Promise Foster Big Welcome.

All workers in this territory are working enthusiastically and the national chairman of the Workers Party and its presidential candidate will be given a rousing welcome at all points in the Pacific northwest.

You can get sample copies of the DAILY WORKER any time at the DAILY WORKER office.

When Money Talks

RICH KILLERS DON'T HANG

The above cartoon appeared in the DAILY WORKER, of Saturday, August 16, under the title of "The Most Perfect Murder Trial."

SHOP VOTE SHOWS THAT FOSTER SUPPORT IS GROWING IN K. C.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 10. — A straw vote taken in the shop of the Hesse Carriage factory here shows that the sentiment for the Workers Party candidate, William Z. Foster, is growing.

The 25 votes cast by the workers in the shop and the office force, gave Foster 7, Davis 8, LaFollette 5, and Coolidge 5. The office workers voted unanimously for Davis, while the Ku Klux Klan elements were unanimously for Coolidge. The other shop workers divided between Foster and LaFollette, with Foster in the lead.

Other shops in the city are discussing the straw vote, and locking over the candidates from the workers' point of view, and other shop ballots will be taken soon.

Look for the Straw Ballot on Page Four of this issue.

Klan Parade in New Jersey.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 10.—Running thru the streets in the dark of night with their white sheets on and all dressed for the perpetrating of their nefarious acts, the Klan presented a ghastly scene here. It was not until extra police and the militia were called out that the Klan marchers were dispersed. Due to the activities of the Klan racial feeling runs high here.

RIVAL LABOR FAKERS FIGHT FOR MASTERS

Lewis, Miners' Head, in War on "Loco" Chief

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—When two prominent labor fakers get into different political camps, the rank and file of the unions are bound to learn something. A goodly sized cat whose presence in the bag has long being evident thru his mewing has finally escaped. Or to be more exact, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, turned him loose.

Here is the story. Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and director of the dozen or so banks, industrial development associations and coal companies held by the union, got into trouble originally with the United Mine Workers of America thru his treatment of the members of the miners' union employed at the Coal Rivers Colleries Company in West Virginia, almost two years ago.

Miners Puzzled.

The question was brought up on the floor at the Indianapolis convention of the Miners' Union last Junary, and an official explanation was made as to the status of the case, which was not considered satisfactory from the union standpoint.

Delegates to the miners convention thought it strange that the head of a great labor organization should use the same tactics against the members of another labor organization as the railroad magnates use against the railroad brotherhood members. But business is business.

The Story Slept.

John L. Lewis did not say anything about the case at the convention. He let one of his mouthpieces do the talking for him. Since then no publicity whatever has been given to the matter, and it might continue to slumber but for the fact that John L. Lewis is on the advisory committee of the Coolidge campaign committee, and that Warren S. Stone is one of the most prominent of the Robert Marion LaFollette backers.

Two notorious labor fakers! One, in the so-called progressive camp; the other lined up with strikebreaker Coolidge.

John Got Busy.

Mr. Lewis, being high up in the Coolidge councils, no doubt was called upon to do his stuff. He therefore made public correspondence between himself and Warren S. Stone, relative to the Coal Rivers Colleries Company.

Up until April 1, 1924, the company operated its West Virginia mines on a union basis under a contract with the United Mine Workers of America. But when the operators in the central competitive field signed the Jacksonville pact last February, agreeing to continue the existing scale of wages for three more years, Mr. Warren S. Stone's concern was one of the coal companies that refused to make an agreement with the miners on that basis.

Union Against Union.

On the other hand, according to the statement of Mr. Lewis, the company demanded that the miners accept a reduction in wages. The miners flatly refused and the company closed down the mines.

The correspondence between Lewis and Stone—all of it that we have seen is interesting. Mr. Lewis charges Mr. Stone with joining other West Virginia coal operators, with attempting to starve his employes into an acceptance of a wage reduction. As if Mr. Lewis remembered the days when he worked in the mines and felt that the workers and the capitalists had separate interests, he writes to Mr. Stone: "I will be fair enough to presume that you are speaking as a coal operator and not

(Continued on page 2)

YOUNG SLAYERS GET AWAY WITH MURDER CHARGE

Millions Weigh Heavily on Scale of Justice

Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, the millionaire slayers of fourteen-year-old Robert Franks, have been sentenced to a term of life imprisonment in the state penitentiary at Joliet.

No emotion was visible on the faces of the slayers when Chief Justice Caverly rendered his decision. Nothing of the suspense, the tense excitement which might have been expected in the court room on the final day of the trial which has aroused the entire country, could be felt during the short half-hour of orderly, methodical, legal procedure.

None Surprised.

Neither in the court nor among the crowds which thronged the streets nearby was there any surprise when the verdict became known.

No one had expected Richard Loeb and Nathan F. Leopold to hang. No one had supposed that the millions which the families of the slayers have for five months lavished on attorneys and on alienists had been spent in vain.

Crowe Eats Crow.

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, alone, flushed hotly when he found that he had lost the case on which he had founded all his hopes of re-election. To send two perverted millionaires to the gallows for the slaying of another millionaire's child, might, he hoped, wipe from the minds of the voters of Illinois the record of which he had often boasted—of having secured forty-two convictions of laborers. That hope has been lost to Bob Crowe.

Interest now centers in the possibility of parole which the department of public welfare is free to grant at its discretion, and in the length of time which will pass before Richard Loeb and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., are again free. In spite of Chief Justice Caverly's strong recommendation that the term of life imprisonment be adhered to, no one really expects the two millionaires to remain in the company of the the men of empty purse who, between Monday and Saturday of the same week, are sentenced to Joliet for a term of life, and for whom thought of parole is far, far remote. Even the "minimum" sentence of fourteen years which the law of Illinois provides for the crime of murder, may be shortened by the "discretion" of the authorities.

Will Have Full Time.

That the two slayers, even during their stay at Joliet will lead the sort of prison life which has wracked the bodies of the hundreds of labor militants in the United States, is not even considered as a remote possibility. Already they are planning to act as instructors, to read and to write during the years they spend in jail. Every comfort and every assistance which wealthy families outside can give, Leopold and Loeb will have.

The house of Sears, Roebuck and Co., of which Richard Loeb's father is vice-president, still hires its girl-slaves at the pittance of $17 a week, and puts them on the streets when they are no longer needed. The box factories of Nathan Leopold's father, at Morris, Illinois, are still wearing down the bodies of boys of twelve who have been forced to lie in order that their families might not starve, are catching them in monster machines when they are too tired to be alert, are mangling them and torturing them. Profits are still being ground out for the Leopolds, for the Loebs, and for the Franks family. And Chief Justice Caverly is satisfied that "justice" has been done.

FIRPO WILL FIGHT; CANON CHASE CAN GO CHASE HIMSELF

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 10.—Governor Silzer today, in reply to the protests of Jersey City church organizations declared that he would not call off the Firpo-Wills fight scheduled to be held at Boyle's Thirty-Acres, Jersey City, on Thursday night.

COMMANDER OF MARINES CONFESSED MURDER OF 3,250 BY U. S. IN HAITI

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The "Sun's" editorial statement that Oswald Garrison Villard exaggerated the number of Haitians slain by United States Marines when he addressed the Williamstown Institute of Politics has been attacked by James Weldon Johnson, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Mr. Johnson made the first investigation and expose in 1920 of the American occupation of Haiti. He points out that Major-General George Barnett, former commander of marines in Haiti, admitted on October 25, 1920, that 3,250 Haitians were killed and that he "further regretted to report" that there "were many unlawful and indiscriminate killings."

Mr. Johnson also pointed out that these slain Haitians were not bandits, as the "Sun" charged, for they were fighting against the unlawful seizing of their country and he further declared that "the America of 1776 would have called them patriots, not bandits."

Mr. Johnson brands the statement that "our marines found 17,000 bandits murdering peaceful Haitians and devastating farms" as untrue. He says that less than twenty marines lost their lives in killing the 3,250 Haitians, and asks if that looks "like war or slaughter?"

ARISTOCRACY IN THE SADDLE AT PEORIA MEET

No Spokesman for Rank and File Gets Floor

By KARL REEVE.
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 10.—The forty-second convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor is dominated by "the aristocracy of labor" and directed by well-paid officials who have thrown off the mask of representing the working class and are openly indorsing capitalist political parties and favoring class collaboration.

While Harriet Silberman, of the Teachers' Union, was appealing for "a strong militant organization of the working-class to fight occupational diseases," the DAILY WORKER reporter heard members of the Milk Wagon Drivers' Union crossly condemning her for taking up their time.

Run Out of Speakers.

This delegation from Chicago is paid $25.00 a day each plus railroad fare, one of them admitted to me. Their elevating topic of conversation while Miss Silberman was talking on occupational diseases, was as to how late in the night each had stayed up the preceding day.

"She hasn't spoken for two years," one of these delegates said, "and I guess she wants to get it all out of her system at once. She ought to wait until next year, and let us go home."

There was no afternoon session Tuesday. The labor officials have run out of Catholic priests and Chamber of Commerce members, so they adjourned. It didn't cross their minds to make an exception and let a real worker have the floor.

Miss Silberman, representing the Workers' Health Bureau, declared that thirty-five thousand miners have been killed while working at their industry in the last ten years.

France Leads United States.

"It takes an overwhelming mining disaster or a big explosion to make the legislature act," said Miss Silberman. "The painters have made the first health agreement with the employers in the history of the American trade union movement. The use of benzol in paints was abolished. In France the labor unions are far ahead of America in this respect. In 1914 that country did away with the use of white lead in paints by a national decree."

"The workers are being oppressed on all fronts in the mad scramble of the employers for profits. Demands that the employers pay compensation are all right, but this form of labor relief has been over-rated. The employers pay as little as they have to. It is far better to organize the working class into a strong militant organization, and use means of preventing occupational diseases."

Promises Delegates Drinks.

The speakers that were foisted on the delegates here were an insult to the rank and file workers. M. J. Finn, who spoke as a representative of the Chamber of Commerce, made a grandstand play to capture applause by promising the delegates a drink whenever they wanted it. He has since been flitting about the convention, making good his boast that "The Peoria Chamber of Commerce at all times co-operates with the organized labor movement."

The delegates were entertained at "Dreamland," a dance hall here, recalling Finn's statement that, "I think I'm paying 90 per cent of the expenses of the entertainment anyway."

Skips His Custodian.

John Moran held by Illinois authorities for extradition to Minnesota, where he is wanted in South St. Paul in connection with a $35,000 mail robbery, escaped today from U. S. Marshal W. Lee Capps who was bringing him to Chicago for arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Henry C. Bettler.

WALKER TALKS MUCH, SAYS LITTLE

(Continued from page 1)

tation of what a college professor said about Abe Lincoln.

Walker could not be expected to come out and declare that he has surrendered the rights of the wage earners of the state, that he has spent the money of the Federation and devoted his energies to boosting Len Small whose big achievement is that he hires rah labor to build rotten roads, and LaFollette who completely ignores unemployment.

He Dodges Responsibility.

But Walker finds a way to dodge the responsibility of his collaboration with the open shoppers. He blames it all on the Senate Resolution No. 363, introduced by Senator McCormick and he gives the farmers a nice little lecture on how to increase their profits.

Due to this deflation drive against the farmers, Walker tells us, "The purchasing power of the farmers has been depreciated at least 50 per cent. This has wrought immeasurable injury on all the workers in our country. The impaired purchasing capacity of the farmer, along with increased freight rates, increased interest charges, and restricted industrial and agricultural credits, has resulted in thousands of industries being closed entirely, causing millions of men and women to lose their means of livelihood, forcing them on the streets vainly seeking employment."

Passed Buck to Farmers.

Walker, altho he offered the convention no action whatever against unemployment, altho he did not call up on the workers to rally against the employers, altho he did not mention one single thing he had accomplished in the past year to strengthen the Illinois unions, to organize unorganized workers or decrease unemployment, probably in an effort to obscure his impotence, is loudly solitious for the farmers. Walker calls the farmer the ultimate consumer, and he tells the farmers to "Bring about better prices, reduce interests and increase freight rates. Organize on your own part."

Now comes Walker's most laughable outburst—his pitiful effort to offer a solution to the problem.

"With greater improvements that have taken place in methods of production there is no doubt that, with wise united action on the part of the trade unionists of the state, not only will relief be gotten from the evil conditions that we are suffering from today, but improved benefits and conditions will come into our lives as a result of the greater productivity, thru improved machinery and more efficient processes, if we we can thru our united strength and influence arrange to participate in the benefits of those improvements."

Urges Waiting Policy.

Walker's logic is crystal clear. Unemployment will be greatly decreased as soon as labor saving machinery is perfected, which will afford jobs for less people. As a solution to the unemployment problem Walker tells us to sit back and wait—but to increase productivity for our employers. Never fear, he tells us, it will be easier to get a job when there are fewer jobs to be had.

Walker's "increased productivity" propaganda has a familiar ring. First we heard Farrington advise, "cheapen production," then we heard the coal operators at Herrin advise "produce more," and now John Walker tells us, "increase productivity," and welcome labor-saving machinery, even if you make no effort to control the exploitation of that machinery. The employers class collaboration program has been taken seriously by Walker and friends, the labor fakers.

RIVAL FAKERS FIGHT FOR MASTERS

(Continued from page 1.)

as a trade unionist. It must be interesting to have such a dual personality."

Could Not Make Profit.

Mr. Stone, replying to the miners' president, explained that he closed the mines because he did not want to operate them non-union. He wailed over the valuable contracts lost by the company because it could not operate its mines at a profit. The members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who have invested over $3,000,000 in these properties are entitled to some returns on their investment, but at the present price and the cost of mining under the Jacksonville agreement, it is impossible for the union mines to break even."

Now it is Mr. Stone's turn to be defended against the charge of anti-union activities by the LaFollette press.

Rivals Quarrel.

The current issue of LABOR, official expression of the railroad brotherhoods, in which combination Warren S. Stone is a leading light, carries a front page story, attacking the character of the labor delegation that listened to Silent Cal's piffle on Labor Day. The paper says that the expenses of the assembled labor fakers were paid by T. V. O'Conner, former Gompers lieutenant, ex-president of the Longshoremen's Union and now chairman of the United States Shipping board.

The LaFollette organ tries to prove that the Coolidge labor skates are lacking in "legitimacy," a quality in the exclusive possession of the labor fakers who support LaFollette. They are both legitimate traders in the economic lives of the working class of America.

A broadside from Warren S. Stone, exposing his competitor for the favor of big business, is expected at any moment. The capitalists are having a jolly old time watching their entertainers do their stuff while the workers suffer.

Bosses Call Police Months After Big Strike Has Passed

Months after the Ladies' Garment Workers' strike, police are again seen in front of the Seiden Bros. shop, at Van Buren and Market Sts. Meyer Pearlstein, vice-president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, and leader of the recent strike, when asked what he knew about the matter, denied any trouble at Seiden Bros., which is a settled shop. He did not know that the owners had called for police to keep union men on the outside from talking to the men inside the shop.

Further inquiry among the men and women employed in the Seiden Bros. shop brought the information that the owners are discriminating against the most active members of the union for their activities in the recent strike. These workers, who are deprived of a chance to work, have been picketing the Seiden shop to talk to the union workers and tell them about the condition that has developed as a result of their efforts to help win the strike. The employers getting wind of the matter, phoned for the police.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

INDUSTRIAL REGISTRATION IN CHICAGO SPEEDING UP

Five More Branches Send in Registration.

THE Italian Terra Cotta, Italian W. S. No. 2, Italian Grand Crossing, Scandinavian South Side and Douglas Park Jewish branches have sent in their Industrial Registration this week.

Twenty branches have thus far completed registration of their members. In the next few days, many more are expected to finish the classification and registration of the members. The industrial registration will prove of incalculable value in every department of Party work. In the work of the Trade Union Educational League, the T. U. E. L. groups will benefit at once, since the registration shows that many who could be active in union and T. U. E. L. work have been neglectful. The Party can follow the individual members up till every comrade is on the job. When the Party knows where every member works, a long step will have been taken toward beginning successfully the reorganization of the Party on the basis of Shop Nuclei. In registering, make sure the comrades fill in their place of work.

Don't delay the registration. As fast as branches get the information from the members, they are expected to send in the tabulated results to the Local Office, 166 W. Washington St., Room 307.

'HONEST' JOHN WALKER IS AGAINST THE KU KLUX KLAN—SOMEWHAT

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

PEORIA, Sept. 10.—John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, in a statement to the DAILY WORKER, declared himself in absolute opposition to the Ku Klux Klan. "I think it wrong," he said.

When asked what his attitude will be on the Klan resolutions coming before the convention, Mr. Walker said, "I do not know what the report of the resolutions committee will be. We cannot declare the Klan resolutions out of order, because the American Federation of Labor is now acting on it and we are part of that body. If the delegates choose to, they can rule it unwise to consider the Klan in this convention, but I do not know what action will be taken. I am however opposed to the Klan."

Flyers to Shed Bouquets.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Secretary of War Weeks today announced that the world flyers would drop flowers over the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National cemetery while flying over the capital on Defense Day. This is supposed to soothe the workers who died so that Morgan might live and prosper.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

DETROIT WORKERS TO HOLD MEET AGAINST MOBILIZATION DAY

DETROIT, Sept. 10.—Under the auspices of the Young Peoples' Conference Against Militarism, an anti-Mobilization Day meeting will be held here on next Thursday evening, Sept. 11, in McCollester Hall, Oass and Forest Avenues. The speakers will be Ella Reeve Bloor, Dr. Atkinson and Reverend Moon. Members of the Young Workers' League and the Workers Party are urged to attend.

REACTION RULES AT PEORIA MEET SAYS JOHNSTONE

Constructive Proposals from Left Wing Only

"Reaction is in full sway at the convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor at Peoria now," was the statement made to the DAILY WORKER by John W. Johnstone, assistant secretary of the Trade Union Educational League.

"The opening of the convention showed what it would be," continued Johnstone. "There were addresses by the mayor of the town and by a representative of the local chamber of commerce, who stated that it was paying for 90% of the entertainment being furnished the convention.

Propose Nothing Constructive.

"Nothing of constructive value is being proposed by the officialdom of the union. Not a word is said about unemployment, working class independent political action, the recognition of Soviet Russia, amalgamation of the craft unions or the organization of the unorganized. Their only interest is in their class collaborationist policy of putting over Len Small and LaFolette, as is asked in the reports of both John Walker and Vic Olander."

"Will the Ku Klux Klan be an issue at the convention?" Johnstone was asked.

Left Wing Fights K. K. K.

"Positively!" he replied emphatically. "But it is an issue that is going to be raised by the left wing, you can be sure. The Walker-Olander-Quesse-Neer gang will try their best to keep it out of the range of discussion on the grounds that it is a purely religious issue. They completely refuse to take note of the fact that the existence of the Klan and its activities is a menace to the existence of the United Mine Workers' organization.

"The left wing is small, it is true. The extreme poverty of the miners prevented numerous locals from sending their quota of delegates. On the other hand you can observe a solid voting bloc from the teamsters of Chicago, for example. One hundred and eleven of them, bound by the unit rule and voting consistently with the reactionary machine. No, this convention is far from being representative of the rank and file sentiment of the organized workers in Illinois.

"But it is there that the left wing, led by such men as Tom Parry of Divernon, Henry Corbishly, of Ziegler and E. B. Hewlett of West Frankfort, that will present constructive proposals on all the points I mentioned before. They are all miners and they represent a good portion of the sentiment of the workers in Illinois."

"How do the miners feel about the convention?"

Miners Disgusted.

"They think it is rotten, to be mild. It is a difficult situation to cope with here. Take a man like John Walker, elected by the Illinois miners on a progressive platform to the presidency of the State Federation of Labor. And now the miners point to his renegade record and say, 'What's the use?' But the Trade Union Educational League and the Workers Party are constantly agitating among the workers, especially among the miners where such sentiment finds its way quickly, to stay within the union. Where there is talk of dropping affiliation to the federation, we are carrying on a fight in opposition to it.

"The militants are the responsible factor in stopping all tendencies towards a split away from the bigger organization, a move that has always played and will continue to play into the hands of the reactionaries.

Rank and File To Speak.

"This convention is by no means decisive. The militants are going to continue their activity, more intensely than ever before, until the rank and file has had the opportunity to give full expression to its progressive demands and has taken away the control of the union from the Walker-Len Small-Olander machine and turned it back to where it belongs and will eventually find its place, the hands of the rank and file.

"The Peoria convention," he concluded, "is only a milestone in the road that leads there."

SECOND MEETING OF FOSTER AND GITLOW CONFERENCE SUNDAY

The second meeting of the Foster and Gitlow conference will be held Sunday, Sept. 14, at 10 a. m., at 3322 Douglas Park Boulevard.

Comrade Kastrell of New York will report the progress of the campaign in that section and Comrade Murtz will report the activities of Chicago in the Foster-Gitlow election battle. All labor organizations are invited.

The Bindery Girl Was Worried About Verdict in Loeb-Leopold Case

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, shortly after 9:30 o'clock, the girl who works in the bindery of the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO. slipped into our editorial offices and began scanning the tape coming off the news ticker.

She knew that at 9:30 o'clock, Judge John R. Caverly was to pronounce his verdict on Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., for the murder of young Robert Franks.

That was the thing uppermost in her life. It was the thing put foremost in her mind by the yellow press. And there she was, all eyes, waiting for this news to come over the wire.

* * * *

Our columnist, Thomas J. O'Flaherty comes in off the street, with a copy of the first extra. It has box car headlines, taking up almost half of the first page, proclaiming, "Life in Prison for Loeb and Leopold, Jr."

"They are selling like the proverbial hot cakes," says O'Flaherty, meaning that the gullible public was eagerly gobbling up news of the most recent development in this luscious sensation.

And that was to be expected. Today it is news of the Loeb-Leopold verdict that the kept press dishes out, in wholesale quantities, to the multitudes. Thursday night it will be the Wills-Firpo prize fight in "Boyle's Acres," in Jersey City, across the river from New York itself.

The so-called reformers, defenders of the nation's morality, have even carried their fight for the deportation of Luis Angel Firpo to President Coolidge, himself. But "Cautious Cal" knows there are more votes among the millions of sporting page followers, than there are among dwindling church congregations, and word comes from Cal's retreat in the White House that, "the prevention of the battle is not within his right."

* * * *

Next week there will be new extras about the arrival of the world fliers in Chicago, if some new murder sensation does not intervene and outclass this event.

* * * *

This is the reading matter that the "Brass Check" press places before its readers, each day bringing its latest sensation. In all this news is hash of sex, murder, sports for profit, there isn't even the remotest approach to the development of an idea that might educate the workers in the struggle for something better. In fact, it has exactly the opposite effect.

* * * *

The girl in the bindery, the masses upon the streets, forget to learn the meaning of the $200,000,000.00 loan that Morgan is today planning to float under the Dawes Plan, approved by the imperialisms of both Great Britain and France. They completely lose sight of the increasingly vital demand for the development of working class power in the United States. Labor's aggressiveness against capitalism is soothed and dissipated by the games and the side-shows provided by the established social order, just as the Roman Caesars, in the days of their decline, offered the orgies of the arena to a discontented populace.

* * * *

And just at that moment the Business Manager of our DAILY WORKER brings in copy for "The Power Column," that is to go into Friday morning's issue. "The Power Column," will appear again tomorrow. Its first sentence declares that, "Twice every week—this column will uncover to your view the motive power behind the DAILY WORKER."

The big motive power behind the DAILY WORKER is the desire of the workers of this country to join labor thru-out the world in struggling for the abolition of, capitalism and the building of a new social order—Communism.

The desire is clearly crystallized in the minds of the Communist vanguard organized into the Workers Party. It is rather hazy in the minds of hundreds of thousands of party sympathizers, of many nationalities, especially in the nation's big industries, where exploitation of labor prevails in its most brutal forms.

The desire is also dormant in the minds of the millions. It is as yet unconscious. It needs to be stirred into life; educated, organized, directed into action.

* * * *

That is the job of the DAILY WORKER—to rouse labor to intelligent action on its own side in the class struggle. Against it is the whole yellow press, with its endless streams of poison gas, seeking to chloroform the workers into inaction; which is just as good, for the purposes of the bosses, as if the workers were fighting actually on the side of the enemy capitalist class.

* * * *

"The Power Column," in the DAILY WORKER'S drive for new readers, for an increasing number of subscriptions, starts again in these columns, TOMORROW. If your mind rebels at the poison of the yellow press, get out and work for the only daily in the land that furnishes the antidote for that poison—the DAILY WORKER.

Thru increasing the power of the DAILY WORKER, the great masses of humanity will gradually come to think of themselves, of their own problems, and of the struggle that leads to their own emancipation. Lift the minds of the millions so that the DAILY WORKER will sell like "hot cakes" among the masses.

The masses can and must be won from their present unconscious slavery to the dope sheets of the capitalist social order.

Hughes' Conspiracy in China Causing Anxiety in Japan

PEKING, Sept. 10.—The Japanese government is beginning to look on the Chinese war with considerable anxiety. A Tokyo dispatch declares that Secretary Hughes of the United States government sent four secret telegrams to Wellington Koo, Chinese minister for foreign affairs, and the telegram charges Hughes with plotting to take advantage of the trouble in China.

It is reported here on what seems to be good authority, that back of the conflict is a well-planned effort to get rid of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the radical head of the Canton government. The credit for this plot is shared between the British and United States governments, who are expending millions in fixing the rival tuchuns and the central government at Peking.

That Japan will not look on unconcernedly while her most powerful enemy in the Far East hatches plots in China was manifested today. The Mobilization Day exercises in the United States are given considerable significance here, and are looked upon as a threat to the Tokyo government.

School Board Stands Back of McAndrew in His War on Teachers

Chicago's school board lined up back of school teacher-baiting Superintendent McAndrew, yesterday, when they voted to table a resolution calling upon the secretary of the board to send out notices for the teachers' council meetings. The next school board meeting will not be held until after the date set for the next teachers' council meeting, leaving the matter entirely in the hands of Superintendent McAndrew.

BIG COMMUNIST MEETING IN N. Y. HEARS GITLOW

Central Opera House Is Packed to Doors

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, September 10.—Despite unfavorable weather, Central Opera House was jammed to the doors with a cheering mass of workers when the New York campaign of the Workers Party was formally opened here last night with Benjamin Gitlow, candidate for vice-president on the Communist ticket and C. E. Ruthenberg, national executive secretary of the Workers Party, as principal speakers.

When Gitlow was introduced he was given an ovation that lasted 15 minutes. Hats were thrown in the air, the "Internationl" was sung, cheers were given for the Workers Party, Soviet Russia and Soviet America—that is to be.

For Soviet America.

Ruthenberg drew heavy applause, earlier in the evening when he said that the workers would take over the government to smash capitalism. He declared the workers were quitting the two old parties for LaFollette, but they would be disillusioned thru the failure of LaFollette and his program to solve their problems. The workers would then be demanding Soviet America, declared Comrade Ruthenberg.

Continuing, he said, that Coolidge, Davis and LaFollette could not give any jobs to the unemployed miners, or to the slaves of the textile, steel and clothing trusts. The Workers' Republic is the only solution.

L. E. Katterfeld, who was recently released from Joliet prison, Illinois, spoke for the DAILY WORKER subscription drive. Comrade Harry Winitsky acted as chairman.

HOLD BIG CROWD IN OPEN AIR AT CICERO MEETING

Altho the threat made by Capt. Svoboda, chief of Cicero's police, that he would have a brass band to counteract the oratory of the Workers Party speakers there, was not made good last night, there were other annoyances which did not, however, prevent the Communist message from being delivered to a few hundred workers who gathered on the corner of 14th St. and 49th Ave.

The speakers, comrades Clarence Miller and George Maurer, spoke to the crowd which stayed and listened attentatively despite the fact that opposite them was a Lithuanian missionary yelping for a little more attention by the slaves of Cicero, riding around the meeting were three automobiles constantly honking their horns, and in front of the stand an organized group of urchins who continued to make noises all thru the meeting.

Every single copy of the Young Worker and the DAILY WORKER that was there was sold. The comrades spoke on the election campaign and the menace of Mobilization Day.

STREET MEETINGS IN CHICAGO.

Thursday, Sept. 11.

62nd and Halsted Sts., auspices Englewood W. P. and Y. W. L.; speakers: Kline and others.

14th St. and 31st Ave., auspices Cicero branches; speakers: Earley, Lithuanian comrade and others.

40th and Ashland (and Grese), auspices Polish branches; speakers: Herd and Polish comrade.

Friday, Sept. 12.

Lawrence and Sawyer, auspices Irving Park branches; speakers: Peter Herd and others.

North Ave. and Washtenaw, auspices N. W. English and Maplewood Y. W. L.; speakers: Borgeson, Kjar and Earley.

Roosevelt and Homan, auspices W. S. (Hykory Y. W. L.; speakers: J. Louis, English and Ed. Harris.

Wilton and Belmont, auspices N. S. Y. W. L.; speakers: Swabeck, Elsa Block, Gregory Maurer.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

NEW YORK T. U. E. L. PLANS BIG SUPPORT TO COMMUNIST CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK CITY, Sept. 10.—A local conference of the Trade Union Educational League has been called for Friday evening, Sept. 12, to organize the campaign in support of William Z. Foster and Ben Gitlow. This conference will be be held at East 125th St. The most prominent militants in the local trade unions will be present. It is expected that a whirlwind campaign will be arranged here in support of the only class conscious ticket in the field—that of the Workers Party. This conference of militants will be a striking contrast to the C. P. P. A. conference of middle class merchants, bankers, and trade union bureaucrats.

JOHN W. DAVIS' GROUND-WORK DONE BY SCABS

Open Shoppers Ignore Union Workers

By ART SHIELDS

(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 10.—When John W. Davis came home to Clarksburg to be formally notified of the democratic nomination he found the old family estate on the hill overlooking the court house shining with a new and splendid front—the gift of the city.

Narrow little Lee Street, that had comfortable room for only one car, had been broadened and the bank above, on the Davis grounds, had been tucked up by a glistening balustraded retaining wall more than a hundred feet long, with a terraced sidewalk reached by steps from the street.

Done by Scabs.

This furbishing-up of the Davis home for the eyes of wondering visitors cost the taxpayers $7,000 and every cent of it went to an openshop contractor who hired nonunion workers. Clarksburg is a union town, with unemployed union men needing jobs badly, but city manager Harrison G. Otis and all other members of the arrangements committee showed their loyalty to the "American Plan" in spite of the protest of L. E. Brewer, business agent for the carpenters' union, and other representatives of organized labor.

By its $7,000 openshop gift to its famous absentee citizen Clarksburg city ended a long dispute with the Davis estate. The dispute over who should pay for the widening of Lee street began about 15 years ago when the city told John J. Davis, father of the nominee that a strip of his land would be torn away and the street improved, with the costs charged to the property owner, according to regular Clarksburg procedure. Other property owners fell in line but old John J. Davis, leading corporation attorney of Clarksburg, was then staunch in conservative to see such changes made,—at his own expense. He got the injunction courts to restrain the city and he did sentry duty on the bank himself, neighbors say. The city was eager to open up the street but the old man said nothing doing until the city paid the bill and put up a retaining wall. In that case he would cede a few feet of property.

Davis Is Discovered.

The deadlock lasted after the father passed away and after John W. Davis and his two sisters came into control. It lasted until suddenly one day this summer Clarksburg found its famous citizen was still more famous as the result of something that happened in Madison Square garden. So the fellows who run the city dug deep in the treasury and paid for all the things Father Davis had demanded.

City manager Otis says since told Clarksburg trade unionists that the choice of an openshop contractor was an accident—an unhappy accident for the democrats, as it turned out shortly afterwards, for the Central Labor union passed up the favorite son. The contractor selected for the job was the Concrete Steel Bridge Co., a notorious West Virginia openshop concern which invaded Clarksburg a year ago and began taking nonunion contracts, a new thing in Clarksburg. This firm made a rush job of it. Nonunion carpenters were employed on the concrete form work, Local No. 236 being ignored. There is no local concrete workers' union but the foreman discriminated against unemployed union miners who tried to get jobs as laborers, union officials informed The Federated Press. The jobless union coaldigger—and most union coaldiggers are unemployed in Clarksburg district—was asked where he came from. The work went to men from non-union mines.

Suddenly Remember Unionists.

When the street and wall job was finished the committee hurried up with the building of the reviewing stand on another location. The carpenter work was to cost $800. The committee asked Local No. 236 if it didn't want to donate the labor of its members, without compensation—in the name of civic pride, the unionists were told. This was a little too raw. The carpenters ironically suggested the committee get its scabs on the job. Otis apologized and said the openshop move had been a mistake. Union men were hired and paid for the reviewing stand work.

Came the day of notification. Thousands of autos rolled past Lee street, admiring the resplendent wall, which most of them supposed that John W. Davis had paid for. Union men know differently. That big chunk of white artificial stone is a rock around the neck of John W. Davis' chance with the union folks back home.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

RAT PRINTER IS DEAD BUT UNION LIVES ON, EVEN MORE POWERFUL

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10.—Edwin Brando, head of the rat printing shop that bears his name, is dead. For years he devoted his time and other people's money in fighting organized labor, but the typographical union still lives, while the earth worms today are building their winter homes in all that remains of the arch enemy of labor.

Which puts the writer in remembrance of the colored minister delivering a funeral oration over the remains of one of his flock, who dramatically said: "Ah hopes he is where I 'spects he ain't."

NEGRO TEACHER GIVEN GATE BY HEADS OF YWCA.

Qualified in Every Way; Rejected for Color

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 10.—Miss Geraldine Gardine, a young woman of exceptional ability in the teaching of Hygiene and Physical Training, has been rejected by the Young Women's Christian Association because she is of the Negro race.

Given the Gate.

Miss Gardine failed to state in her application that she is colored. So on the merits of her abilities, she was informed that she had more than satisfactorily met the requirements of the position she qualified for.

But when she arrived at the office of the Young Women's Christian Association, instead of being given the position she was given the gate.

Director Explains Reason.

The director of the school had only this to say in explanation: "If you had only mentioned the fact that you are by nationality an American Negro on your eligibility estimate blank, the matter would not have been carried this far."

Declines Ford Service.

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 10.—Farmers in some parts of Texas who have to haul their cotton pickers back and forth from town each day, are finding some of them very discriminating in their choice of vehicles.

A big colored woman was approached with reference to a job in the cotton patch. "Whut kind uv a car does yo' drive, Mistuh" was the query. "A Ford," was the answer. "Mistuh, I never rides in dem things," said the lady as she walked off.

To Examine "War Babies."

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—"War Children," youngsters who were born during the years of the last war, will be specially examined physically and mentally in Hoboken, N. J., schools this year, to determine the possible effect of parental influence, says Daniel Keeley, superintendent. Keeley's agitation to force out married teachers has failed; only two left the school system.

Depression in the South.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 10.—Autumn comes in with little industrial change noticeable in the south. Business is dull and there is a great lack of work. There is over-production of vegetables and other produce in South Carolina. Farmers have lost heavily. There has been a slight resumption in rail transportation.

Need 10,000 Signatures.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 10.—To secure a place on the California ballot for Foster and Gitlow, Workers Party candidates, 10,000 signatures must be secured before Sept. 25. All signatures must be of registered voters who did not vote at the May primaries and who have not signed a LaFollette petition.

In Ma Ferguson's State.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 10.—With 300,000 illiterates among our people it is time Texas realizes the great economic loss which this involves, says Prof. G. O. Clough, president Texas State Teachers' Association.

COMMUNISTS TO FRY CODFISH ARISTOCRACY

Party Candidates Will be on the Ballot

By JOSEPH MANLEY,
Campaign Manager, Workers Party.

The announcement by District Organizer John J. Ballam that Foster and Gitlow electors and a full state Workers Party ticket will go on the ballot in Massachusetts is getting close to home. The home of Codfish, Coolidge and his "common sense" government.

Boston and New England has determined the major portion of the policies enunciated as the "common sense" government of Calvin Coolidge in his Labor Day address. Coolidge's "common sense" is just so much nonsense when he says:

"One of the outstanding features of the present day is that American wage earners are living better than at any other time in our history. They have not only retained but actually increased the gain that they made during the war.

"We have here in the United States not only the best paid workers in the world but the best paid workers that ever lived in the world."

Birds of a Feather.

In this same Labor Day address, Coolidge boasted that one of his hearers, T. V. O'Connor, formerly president of the Longshoremens' Union is now the head of the United States Shipping Board. Boston and New England longshoremen will remember the traitorous role played by the same T. V. O'Connor in the famous longshoremen's strike in 1920, when the rank and file of the longshoremen of the New England ports had tied up the entire shipping of that section and when the strike was spreading like wildfire all along the Atlantic coast and over to the Pacific. Mr. O'Connor is the gentleman who helped to smash this strike. This was one of his principal recommendations for the present office he now holds, to the late President Harding who appointed him. Now two strikebreaker presidents go well together.

Cal Talks Thru His Derby.

Coolidge's nonsense about the increase in the earning capacity of the workers in shoe and textile industries during and since the war will cause nothing but cynical laughter from these workers of New England when they hear of that Coolidge Labor Day message. Coolidge's "common sense" government is the government of the Boston bankers, the New England Textile, Shoe and Leather Trusts. It is the government of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, which Calvin Coolidge, when but a precinct lawyer, threw into the arms of James Pierpont Morgan. The "common sense" Government of Coolidge is the Government of Wall Street.

Will Learn Truth.

The announcement that the Workers Party will go on the ballot in the State of Massachusetts means that the workers of the big industries of New England will now learn from the Communists in the coming political struggle the above facts and the true character of the Boston hero, Coolidge, puppet of the House of Morgan.

The opening gun in this campaign will be fired next Sunday afternoon at a monster meeting in Boston at Scenic Auditorium when vice-presidential candidate Benjamin Gitlow will rip the lid off Coolidge and his Boston backer.

Upple Flops For Bob.

PASADENA, Cal., Sept. 10.—Upton Sinclair has announced his support to LaFollette. The Upple's feet are still in good health, due to his new scheme for physical training. It is said that the sun is extremely strong in Pasadena and affects even writers.

BOB'S MODEL COMMONWEALTH FAILS TO HALT FALL OF JOBS OR WAGES

(By The Federated Press)

MADISON, Sept. 10.—Employment in Wisconsin factories in July had fallen to a level 10 per cent below July, 1923. Total wages had fallen 11.8 per cent and per capita earnings 2 per cent. Industries in which the decreases in employment in the 12-month period had been particularly sharp included iron and steel mills 28.9 per cent, foundries and machine shops 26 per cent, stone foundries 15.7 per cent, automobile plants 23.5 per cent, box factories 29.1 per cent, boots and shoes 29 per cent, chemical 33.4 per cent.

Outside of manufactures employment showed a drop of 11.7 per cent in agriculture, 19.1 per cent in mining and 25.2 per cent in highway construction. On the other hand there were 17.4 per cent more workers in building and 17.9 per cent more in railway construction than in July, 1923.

Sharp Drop in Wages.

Sharp drops in average weekly earnings include foundries and machine shops 24.3 per cent, aluminum and enamel ware 24.9 per cent, automobile plants 20.1 per cent, boots and shoes 22.4 per cent, hosiery and knit goods 12.9 per cent and tobacco manufacturing 25 per cent.

Average weekly earnings during July amounted to $22.45 in factories, in mining $23.68, in building construction $26.59, in steam railway transportation $28.80, and street railways $26.38.

FOUR NEW INDICTMENTS HANDED DOWN IN CASE OF VET BUREAU CHIEF

Federal officials yesterday released four hitherto suppressed indictments against "Col." Charles R. Forbes, former head of the United States Veterans' Bureau, who is scheduled to go on trial before Judge Carpenter next Monday.

The new indictments are substantially the same as those previously released with the exception that they go into detail regarding charges that Forbes was to get a portion of the payment of $56,666.66 to the late Charles Cramer, chief counsel of the veterans' bureau. The payment is alleged to have been a bribe from John W. Thompson, who is to be tried with Col. Forbes. Forbes will be remembered as one of the great "paytriotic" swindlers who was supposed to take care of the interests of the disabled veterans who went across to "fight for democracy."

Why the new indictments were hitherto suppressed is not related. Curious observers, however, are making significant remarks on the generous kindness of the courts.

NEW BETRAYAL OF LABOR PARTY IDEA IN PENNSY

Nine Parties on Ballot in Quaker State

By ABRAM JAKIRA.

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 10.—There will be an interesting election campaign in Pennsylvania this year. In addition to the Workers Party, eight other parties will be found on the ballots in this state—republican, democratic, socialist, prohibition, American, labor, industrialist and commonwealth-land. The Workers Party beginning with the letter "W" will occupy on the ballot the last place.

LaFollette Runs as Socialist.

The most interesting feature in this list of political parties lies in the fact that LaFollette is running on both the socialist and Labor party tickets. Both of these parties carry the same set of candidates of presidential electors.

Together with the list of presidential electors the Labor party carries on its ticket a number of candidates for congress most of whom are the candidates of the old capitalist parties—republican, democratic, prohibition—who received the indorsement of the LaFollette forces.

Guilty of Double Prostitution.

The LaFollette followers are apparently not satisfied with the destruction of the existing farmer-labor parties, but are prostituting the very idea of such a party by using the name "Labor" in order to help the politicians of the old parties.

It is the meanest attempt ever heard to befog the minds of the workers who have learned to look upon a Labor party as upon something apart and independent from the old capitalist parties.

And the socialist party is being dragged deeper and deeper into the camp of the old democratic, republican and prohibition party. It is but another step into backward evolutionary process.

Fundamental Errors of Fundamentalism to be Counteracted

(By Federated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10. The Science League of America (California Division) has been formed to fight fundamentalism, first in California and then thruout the country. At the first meeting, called by Maynard Shipley, thirty charter members pledged themselves to the protection of scientific teaching in the schools and the opposition to the reactionary teachings of the fundamentalists. Plans are being made for an initial mass meeting in San Francisco, and a sustaining fund is being raised by friends of freedom in and out of California. Anyone interested in the new organization is asked to write to Maynard Shipley, Box 573, San Francisco.

Prisoners in Protest Strike.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Sept. 10.—Another protest strike among criminal syndicalism prisoners was started here by the usual cause, over-work of political prisoners in the jute mill. John Terrell, sentenced from Eureka, being the victim in this case. After one day it was decided to abandon the strike at this time and to await a more favorable opportunity for a demonstration.

Women Protest to Coolidge.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10. The Women's Peace society has written President Coolidge protesting against militarization Day and has arranged a series of meetings at street intersections for the week of Sept. 12, to spread the society's program of immediate complete disarmament on a universal scale.

WAR MONGERS PUSH AHEAD DEFENSE DAY

Communists to Hold Counter-Meetings

By MAX SHACHTMAN.

Pacifist clergymen who attempted to carry a resolution deploring the preparations for Defense Day at a meeting of the Chicago Presbytery here, were promptly squelched by their fellow sky pilots for such an unfortunate lack of patriotism.

Inopportune Time.

"This is a very inopportune time to introduce such a resolution," said Dr. Carrier, as he moved to lay the motion criticizing the day on the table.

The venerable doctor didn't say at what time such a resolution would be opportune, and his colleagues didn't ask the question either.

The rounding up of the clergymen of the nation is proceeding quickly so that there shan't be any stragglers on the 12th of September, Mobilization Day, in Chicago preparations are being made on a grand scale. Most of the big corporations and firms in the loop district have made it obligatory upon their employees to take part in the demonstrations, an example of the method of carrying out this plan having been exposed in a previous issue of the DAILY WORKER, in connection with the Boston Store.

Plan Intimidation.

In other parts of the country the very same plans are being carried thru. In Bergen Field, N. J., intimidation of the citizenry is being undertaken by an order of the Mayor, Charles P. Warren, who has had a notice posted ordering all able bodied men between the ages of 18 and 45 to line up at the Borough Hall and comply with his Mobilization Day order. His order has caused considerable discussion because of the rumor that if, on Defense Day, any able bodied man is seen on the streets of the town without a registration card, he will be taken to the police station and kept until two and a half hours after the demonstrations are over.

Such intimidation is comparable only to the bitterest days of the war and is proof of the militarist purpose behind the whole maneuver.

In Missouri, the small towns have been lined up solidly, it seems, according to an announcement by William A. Chapp, chairman of the state defense committee and an adjutant-general to boot. More than 50 towns have joined the movement during the week ending today, making almost five hundred towns and cities in Missouri that have arranged programs for Defense Day.

Kept Press Piles It On.

Newspaper propaganda for the plan is increasing in space and much emphasis is being laid upon the fact that the "Day" is only a peaceful demonstration. This is given the lie direct by the statement of Lieut.-Col. John A. Scott, of the Reserve Officers' Army Corps, in a speech before an American Legion post in Washington, D. C., where he stated that another war is as certain as death and that Mobilization Day is a preparation for it.

Even General Henry T. Allen, who occasionally poses as a pacifist, has been persuaded to make a public statement in favor of the plan.

"I will tell you what kind of a pacifist I am," said the man who commanded the American troops in Coblenz on the Rhine. "I am that kind of a pacifist that does the utmost to keep peace as long as possible. I know there will be many wars. As a pacifist I need to do the utmost to prevent war, but, knowing that wars will come, I believe in holding national defense days so America will be ready at all times."

Preparing for New Wars.

The notorious fact that America is preparing to assert its control over the markets of the world for the capitalists who control the government, it is significant to see that Allen, as well as Scott and numerous others, are frank enough to say that Mobilization Day is the forerunner of new wars.

Communists in Counter-Demonstrations.

The counter-demonstrations that will be held under the joint auspices of the Workers Party and the Young Workers League will be the only real attempt to gather the protests of America's working class against the preparations for new imperialist wars and in favor of the "War to End All Wars," the war of the workers against their bosses until the workers' republic has been established.

Our Candidates

FOSTER'S DATES

Philadelphia, Pa.—Musical Fund Hall, 8th and Locust Streets, Friday, September 12, 8 p. m.

Paterson, N. J.—Halvitia Hall, 56 Van Houton Street, Saturday, September 13, 8 p. m.

GITLOW'S DATES

Comrade Gitlow, candidate for vice-president, will address meetings at the following places:

Stamford, Conn. — Casino Hall, Thursday, September 11, at 8 p. m.

Bridgeport, Conn.—Carpenters Hall, 170 Elm St., Friday, Sept. 12, at 8 p. m.

Springfield, Mass.—Central Labor Union, 19 Sanford St., Saturday, Sept. 13, 8 p. m.

MAC DONALD'S ADMIRAL WHOOPS IT UP FOR NAVY

Tells Canucks He Talks for Labor Govt.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

OTTAWA, Can., Sept. 10.—Despite the fact that the Ramsay MacDonald's "Labor" government is supposed to be pacifist and opposed to any increases in armaments, Vice-Admiral Field, in command of the British cruise around the world, has been repeating in eastern Canada what he said on the Pacific Coast as to the need of a bigger navy for the Dominion. He has been a little more cautious but the song has been the same.

He admitted that the need of naval defense in Canada was less than in Australia, but he asked if Canada would stand by and do nothing to drive off an attack upon another part of the empire. Canada, he said, might feel she could rely on the British navy and on the American, but he believed that would not meet the desires of the Canadian people.

Field has found support particularly from some imperialist papers.

Speaks For Ramsay.

On being criticised for preaching a big navy, when the Labor government is alleged to be doing its best to reduce armament by building more ships!—Field replied that so far as he knew he was not departing from the policy of the British government.

Toledo Readers, Notice!

The DAILY WORKER agent for Toledo, A. W. Harvitt, advises the business office that persons unknown are trying to make collections on DAILY WORKER subscriptions. This is done mostly in the daytime when men folks are away.

Do not pay unless the collector is known to you or can show proper credentials. If you are approached, communicate at once with A. W. Harvitt, 131 Michigan St., who is the DAILY WORKER agent in your city.

NEW SPLITLET NOW THREATENS BOBBIE'S CAMP

Farmer-Labor Party is Sore at Slur

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 10.—Another split threatens the pretty collection of political high binders, discredited labor fakers and bankrupt peanut stand owners that is supporting the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket for the presidential offices.

This time it is coming from the paper organization recently canned by John Fitzpatrick and the Chicago Federation of Labor, the "Farmer-Labor party," which moved its offices from Chicago to Denver where rents are said to be much cheaper.

Demand Slur Retraction.

It comes in the form of a demand by the chairman of the national campaign committee, Dr. C. B. Warner, of Biloxi, Miss., that the regional manager of the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign, Frank Harrison, make a public repudiation of his charges that Bert Martin, national secretary of the Farmer-Labor Party, was soliciting funds without authorization of the Wisconsin faker's committee.

This demand was voiced in 25 uncertain terms in a letter from the honorable Warner to the still more honorable John M. Nelson, of the national LaFollette committee. The letter denounces Harrison's statement as a "dastardly attack" on Martin, made without any attempt to find out the actual situation.

Unreliable People!

Harrison's statement was made last Saturday at Lincoln, Nebraska, after the receipt of a telegram from LaFollette, Jr., in which it was asserted that Martin's action was unauthorized and that "These people are absolutely unreliable."

This rather got under the sensitive hides of the defunct farmer-laborites and they are now raising the deuce. Martin declares that he undertook the collection of funds to pay off some of the expenses incurred at the Cleveland conference and that this was done at the request of the national committee of the LaFollette crowd, but that when they told him to lay off, he did so.

John Spurns His Former Love.

His appeals were sent out with the name of John Fitzpatrick on the letterhead as a national committeeman, but John, who is now living with Sam Gompers, denies his former love completely.

Now, Dr. Warner threatens that unless the apology is forthcoming in tiptop shape, the national committee representing the entire membership of 28, will drop its support of LaFollette.

But Bob is going his own serene way digging up millionaire supporters and he is probably snickering up his shirtsleeves at the way he roped in the poor innocents of the F. L. P. which can now say its last prayer and kick the bucket for good.

Telegraphers Appeal to Board.

OTTAWA, Can., Sept. 10.—A demand for higher wages and better working conditions, affecting commercial telegraphers in the employ of the C. P. R. and the Canadian National railways, is now before a board of investigation under the Lemieux act. Among the demands made by the men are: (1) equal pay for Morse and automatic operators, (2) standardization of percentage ratings, (3) standardization of clerical wage scales, (4) recognition of the union and establishment of the union shop principle. The C. P. R. telegraphers are asking for an increase of 45 per cent in pay, while that company is proposing a cut of 5 per cent.

ARE YOU?

WE'RE PARTIAL! We admit it!

We see ONLY the interests of one particular class—that class of people who work for a living. Every day we fight their battles—AND ONLY THEIRS.

Perhaps you are also prejudiced in this manner? And perhaps you try to convince your shop-mate—your friends—everyone—of your ideas?

GET THEIR SUBSCRIPTION TO THE DAILY WORKER!

The DAILY Can Do It Better!

RATES in Chicago: 3 months, $2.50; 6 months, $4.50; 12 months, $8.00.
" outside of Chicago: 3 months, $2.00; 6 months, $3.50; 12 months, $6.00.

I'm Partial!

Convince My Shop-Mate!

My name .....

Address .....

City .....

State .....

Send him the DAILY WORKER for ..... months.

His name .....

Address .....

City ..... State .....

WORKERS EAGER TO PUT NAMES ON W. P. PETITIONS

Foster Popular Among the Toilers

By EX-COLLEGE STUDENT.

One hour every day, for the six months I spent in capitalist universities, I sat with a group in "political science," discussing the matter of voting requirements.

Learnedly, philosophically, in the most approved college manner, we would sit tossing back and forth, back and forth, the empty axioms, the preposterous conclusions—based, all of them, on the tremendous sophistry of "democratic government."

Wise Nonsense.

We discussed the matter of residence requirements. "Is it justifiable that mere tramps, who understood nothing of the political philosophy of this country, should be allowed to vote?" "What is the fundamental idea back of the literacy tests, of the registration laws?" All these things and many others we talked of—never once questioning the system of which these things were but the painfully insignificant details.

I recalled that course in "political science" last Thursday evening. I had been ordered out by the South Side branch of the party to gather signatures for the Communist nomination petitions. Within half an hour I understood, as I had never understood before, the reasons for all the hundreds of petty regulations that hem in the prospective voter.

Little Technicalities.

For in the working-class district, I did not obtain the signatures of more than half of the people to whom I appealed. Yet all these people were tremendously enthusiastic over the program and the candidates which the Workers Party had to offer.

An eager workman would pick up his pencil to help nominate William Z. Foster. Then it would be discovered that he had lived in the district just sixty days—thirty days short of the ninety which the requires. But what is the residence requirement except another form of the property requirements? The middle classes who have property, are likely to stay put both physically and politically. The tramps who move all over the country, it has been found, often gather new and strange ideas. Suppose they were to bring them to the polls?

He Gets Pumped.

Most of the people who were willing, but unable, to sign the petitions, were disabled for one of two reasons. A great many of them were not citizens. Remember that seven long years must pass before an immigrant can become a citizen—seven years during which he is pumped full of propaganda in favor of the existing capitalist system. For immigrants often have queer notions, too—and they may acquire still queerer notions during the days when they are starving and freezing in their effort to adjust themselves to this strange industrial system.

Choice of Evils.

Then there were many workingmen who last year, in the absence of a real working-class candidate for whom to vote, did the best they could—or thought they were doing the best they could—in voting for the capitalist party they assumed to be least oppressive.

But a worker who found that he could sign the petitions, after all the possible and impossible reasons why he should not be allowed to sign had been eliminated, did it with a will. The Communist worker was, for instance, the case of the man who was apathetic until I spoke of William Z. Foster. He had heard of Foster during the steel strike. "He's the greatest man in the country!" was the verdict. And he wanted to sign his father's name too, for his father was out of town. I managed to stop him, after promising under oath to return with the petition in a week.

Foster His Choice.

Of course there were humorous phases of the thing, too. There was the enthusiastic workingman who signed, then rushed out of the house to get his son, Mickey, who was "down by the corner grocery," so that he could sign too. And Mickey went to get Grandma, who was out in the back yard talking to a neighbor. And so on. There was the house in which a neighborhood party was going on, and in which I had to form the group into line in the front parlor, and make them sign in orderly fashion, first one petition, then the other.

And of course there were women who couldn't seem to see that their signature was as good as their husbands! And there were the workingmen who were disgusted with modern politics and to whom I had to explain that the Workers Party, too, was disgusted with modern politics, and that was the very reason why the Workers Party was going into modern politics.

When I came to balance accounts, I found that in spite of the legalisms and technicalities with which the laws had tried to hinder me, I had in an hour gotten twenty-seven signatures, and had encountered only three refusals for other than technical reasons.

Six Days More! Are You Doing Your Share?

Presidential and State Figures Climbing. Congressional Districts Must Push Work Faster.

Put Every W. P. Candidate on the Ballot!

THE signatures to place the presidential electors (Foster-Gitlow electors) and the state ticket on the ballot in the November elections are increasing apace. More speed will have to be shown, however, in many of the Congressional Districts. Especially are Districts 4, 5 and 6 not doing as well as they should be. Yet the job should be comparatively simple in at least District 4 and 5 which have among the lowest number of signatures to get. The campaign managers in those districts must jerk up the branches in those districts. Some of them have laid down on the job, or else are not making themselves heard from 'till the last days. District 6 has some very good Party and League branches, which could easily turn in the needed number of signatures to place the congressional candidates on the ballot. How about it? Are districts 4, 5 and 6 going to permit districts 1, 7, 8 and 9 to trim their sails in this campaign to obtain signatures? If not, get busy. There is still time to get every Communist candidate on the ballot. Let's go! Put our candidates over!

The figures to date are:

	Signatures obtained	Signatures necessary
District Candidate
No. 1—Gordon Owens	550	1200
No. 4—Joseph Podkulski	248	1300
No. 5—Harry Epstein	122	1000
No. 6—Frank Pellegrino	225	3500
No. 7—Sam Hammermark	975	4000
No. 8—George Maurer	182	800
No. 9—Jack Johnstone	524	1200
Presidential Electors (Foster-Gitlow electors) and Illinois State signatures	1176	2000

COAL MINE BARONS SHOOT THEIR "SACRED CONTRACT" TO PIECES; WORKERS ARE VICTIMS AS USUAL

By THOMAS MYERSCOUGH.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 10.—The Glen Alden Coal Company, a giant subsidiary of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Reading Railroad, with extensive operations in the anthracite regions is at the present time showing the kind of regard it has for the "sacred" contract between themselves and the United Mine Workers.

And, altho approximately 1,500 miners are unemployed as a result of the coal company's action, President Rinaldo Cappellini, and his executive board, in District 1, seem to be satisfied.

The case is a complicated one, but it is quite obvious that both the coal company and the officials of District 1, United Mine Workers of America, are satisfied with the results.

Attack Polish Miner.

First there is a case of assault and battery perpetrated by two petty bosses at the Woodward colliery, belonging to the Gleh Alden, the victim being a Polish miner. To clear themselves of this grave offense, the bosses had the Polish miner sued for an alleged attack on them but when the grievance committee at the colliery interceded in behalf of their fellow miner, it was soon apparent that a trick was being played.

The case was handled by the officials of the district, and a settlement was made that the miner be paid at the rate of $8 per day for all the time he lost. Nothing has yet been paid, however, altho it is quite some time since the miner was assaulted in the mine.

That brought into play a move on the part of the company to rid itself of the presence of Stanley Edmunds, then president of the local union attached to the mine. Edmunds was very popular as the president of the local but he had become tired of the inactivity of Cappellini and, altho like many other local union officers in District 1, he had helped to elect Cappellini, he was now listed as an enemy and had to be dealt with.

Edmunds was elected by the miners as docking boss, but the company refused to let him serve in that capacity. This and a number of other reasons were seized as legitimate reason for a strike and one was called.

Cappellini Knifes Friend.

The Cappellini saw his chance to knife his one time friend, not so much because he was not now a friend, but because, it is said, Edmunds was being prominently mentioned as a possible opponent at the next election for president of District 1. The charter was revoked "a la Lewis" and after considerable controversy it was restored, with the understanding that Edmunds and the two local union secretaries could not hold office for a year.

A special meeting to elect officers was called by the district officials and when the smoke of battle blew away, the district was given an ignominious defeat and Edmunds' slate of friends were elected by almost unanimous vote.

It was generally thought that the company would open the mine after the election, but instead of that, they laid off the maintenance men in flagrant violation of the agreement. The men in the local union immediately called the attention of the officials of violation of contract and Cappellini agreed. There was talk of striking all the mines of Glen Alden, but there is no prospect of such a thing happening, altho the maintenance men are still out.

There is not a person to be found who knows anything of the trouble, that is not willing to say that it is a lockout by the company and in violation of the agreement. The company changes the word to shutdown, and claims it is not a violation of the agreement.

With this piece of nonsense Cappellini evidently agrees, for to date nothing has been done towards caring for the interests of the men thus locked out. The other mines of the Glen Alden are working every day, while miners from the Woodward, who seek elsewhere for work, are told that no Woodward men will be hired. A conspiracy is on foot to punish every man who supported the Edmunds faction by the weapon of starvation.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

WHITE GUARD PLOTTERS LOSE THEIR HEADS IN CIVIL WAR ATTEMPT

MOSCOW, Sept. 10.—Twenty-four Georgian White Guard—anti-Soviet forces have been executed for their part in the anti-Red uprising according to Batoum advises today. Some of them were members of the Menshevik executive committee.

RHODE ISLANDERS TO HEAR GITLOW SEPTEMBER 15TH

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 10.—Benjamin Gitlow, vice-presidential candidate of the Workers Party, will speak at a mass meeting in the A. C. A. Hall (Springer Square), 1752 Westminster St., on Monday, Sept. 15, at 7:30 p. m., according to an announcement of the local campaign manager, Dr. J. P. Reid.

This will probably be the only Providence meeting at which Comrade Gitlow will speak and preparations are being made to make it a tremendous success.

To Deal With Coming War.

Gitlow is a powerful speaker and he will give the Providence workers an opportunity to hear a real militant denunciation of the "Teapot Dome" government, labor injunctions, the open shop, strike-breaking presidents, unemployment and the coming war.

Behind him he has a record of service to the workers of this country in the labor movement, and more particularly in the Communist movement. The workers of Providence are invited and urged to be present at the meeting and to bring along their friends. All communications should be sent to Dr. Reid, 20 Olneyville Square.

Runs on Donkey Ticket.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 10.—Carl Magee, newspaper editor and publisher, today announced his candidacy for the United States Senate on the democratic ticket. LaFollette supporters in New Mexico are said to favor Magee.

Join the Workers Party!

MAYOR OPPOSES SPEECH FREEDOM FOR COMMUNISTS

Party Will Put Up Fight at Chester, Pa.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 10.—An interesting free speech fight is now taking place in this city of the open shoppers and Ku Klux Klan. The Workers Party recently held an open air election campaign meeting which attracted an audience of several hundred workers, it was the biggest and most interesting political gathering ever held in Chester.

Find Attentive Listeners.

For two hours the audience attentively listened to the explanation of the Workers Party platform given by the speakers. A Klanite was right there trying to advertise a picnic arranged by his hooded order. He did not like the speeches very well and made an attempt to interfere. He was told politely by those closest to him to shut up or else leave the place altogether, which he did.

The local comrades were surprised, however, to find out that an application for a permit to hold another campaign meeting was flatly turned down by the mayor on the grounds that "the speeches made at the first meeting were of a seditious character." The Chester workers now have the best opportunity to see for themselves that the Workers Party speakers were right when they pointed out that the American democracy is really an iron dictatorship of the ruling class.

Seek Party Recruits.

The matter is now in the hands of a well-known attorney who will take legal action against the mayor if he does not change his mind about allowing the Workers Party to come before the workers of Chester in order to explain the present campaign issues.

The Chester Local of the Workers Party appeals to all workers of the city to answer the mayor's action by joining the Party and help carry on the fight for the establishment of a workers' and farmers' government in this country. The address of the local headquarters is—721 Caldwell St.

Chester, Pa., Plans Picnic.

CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 10.—Extensive preparations are being made for the picnic arranged by Chester Local Workers Party for the coming Sunday, Sept. 14, at Brown's Farm, Ninth and Central Ave. A good time and plenty of fresh air is assured. Refreshments, dancing, plays. Everybody invited. Those who come from Philadelphia, should take the car to Darby and there take the Wilmington car.

This Shop Nucleus on Job for Communist Election Campaign

The Reichman Machine Shop nucleus in Chicago is on the job in collecting funds to carry on the Communist Election Campaign. Every week they make a collection in the shop for the Campaign Fund. This week, a sum of $7.00 was brought into the office from their nucleus and last week $5.12 was their contribution to our Campaign Fund. They promise to make weekly contributions and assist in every other way the campaign to place Workers Party candidates on the ballot.

Cleveland League And Party in Anti-Mobilization Meet

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 10.—The Workers Party and the Young Workers' League of Cleveland, will hold a joint meeting in the A. C. A. Hall (Springer Square), 1752 Westminster St., on Monday, Sept. 15, at 7:30 p. m., according to an announcement of the local campaign manager, Dr. J. P. Reid.

This will probably be the only Providence meeting at which Comrade Gitlow will speak and preparations are being made to make it a tremendous success.

To Deal With Coming War.

Gitlow is a powerful speaker and he will give the Providence workers an opportunity to hear a real militant denunciation of the "Teapot Dome" government, labor injunctions, the open shop, strike-breaking presidents, unemployment and the coming war.

Behind him he has a record of service to the workers of this country in the labor movement, and more particularly in the Communist movement. The workers of Providence are invited and urged to be present at the meeting and to bring along their friends. All communications should be sent to Dr. Reid, 20 Olneyville Square.

Runs on Donkey Ticket.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 10.—Carl Magee, newspaper editor and publisher, today announced his candidacy for the United States Senate on the democratic ticket. LaFollette supporters in New Mexico are said to favor Magee.

Join the Workers Party!

STEEL KINGS APPROVE TALK OF MACDONALD ON "ARBITRATION;" RAMSAY IGNORES WAR CAUSES

By LELAND OLDS.
(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

"Go on talking, Ramsay, we like to hear you," must have been the comment of the world's steel kings after hearing the words with which Prime Minister MacDonald, of Great Britain, opened the league of nations' debate on security and disarmament in Geneva Sept. 4. MacDonald's speech, which was strenuously applauded, completely disregarded the economic features of modern industrialism which make periodic wars inevitable.

"I am for arbitration, I see nothing else in the world," he said, describing arbitration as a system of watching for war clouds to appear and charming them out of existence before they became threatening.

War Clouds Gather.

Meanwhile the clouds which threaten war are gathering about the approaching trade negotiations between France and Germany. England is jealously fearing that too friendly an agreement would injure British markets or result in a powerful rival trade combine on the continent. E. L. James in the New York Times declares, "It has long been said by experts that an efficient business union of the French ore and German coal interests would make possible the world's greatest steel combination. England can never looked with favor on that project."

French Talk Differently.

The big French steel interests talk a different language. According to Robert Pinot, director Comite des Forges, interviewed by the Wall Street Journal: "There can be no real peace as long as economic warfare continues. The ideal solution would be a world iron and steel settlement which would secure to the industry in each country the necessary raw material, apportion markets and determine prices. Such a world combine would satisfy the interests of both French and German iron and steel industries. It would determine the division of European markets and apportion shares in foreign ones." Pinot believes a Franco-German treaty between steelmakers should parallel the Dawes settlement.

It is reported that England might use France's financial obligations to her as a club to prevent too close an agreement along the line suggested by Pinot. British coal miners are said to be protesting against the further delivery of German coal to France under the Dawes plan on the ground that the English coal industry suffers. Belgian miners are out of work and facing a severe wage cut because of the competition of German reparations coal.

Shows War Basis.

Walter Graham, a consulting engineer, prepared a table for the New York Times which showed the causes of future wars. It showed the principal coal fields of the world located in the United States, Great Britain, Germany and northern Asia with such countries at France, Belgium, Italy and Japan watching them with envious eyes. It showed the United States in need of the iron ore of Newfoundland, Cuba, Brazil and Chile; the German steel interests eager to grasp the iron ore of Russia, France, Austria and Hungary, and the ore of China and Siberia desired by Japan. It showed the chief petroleum reserves of the world located in Mexico, Venezuela, Colombia, Argentine, Bolivia, Russia, Mesopotamia, Persia and other parts of Asia, coveted by the oil interests of the United States, Germany and Great Britain.

The next war, says Graham, lurks in coal, iron and petroleum because the industrial nations will have these at all costs. That is probably why they are not mentioned out loud at the league of nations' assembly in Geneva.

OUR DATES

Workers Party Units and Friendly Organizations do not arrange conflicting dates in Chicago.

Saturday, Sept. 20—Concert and Ball—Benefit "The Young Worker" Workers Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd. Jewish Propaganda Committee.

Saturday, Sept. 27—Workers Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd. Entertainment and Dance by Lithuanian Junior Group.

Sept. 27—Communist Social—Benefit DAILY WORKER, North Side Y. W. L. Branch.

Saturday, Oct. 11—Dance—Hersh Lekert Lyceum, 2633 Hirsch Blvd. Workers Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

Sunday, Oct. 12—Foster-Gitlow Campaign Meeting, Ashland Auditorium (afternoon).

Saturday, Oct. 18—John Reed Memorial Meeting.

Saturday, Oct. 25—Preiheit Ball; Ashland Auditorium.

Friday, Nov. 7—Seventh Anniversary Russian Revolution, Ashland Auditorium.

Saturday, Nov. 15—City Mask Ball.

November 22—Thanksgiving Eve Social.

November 27-30—DAILY WORKER, Labor Institute Bazaar, Workers Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

Wednesday, Dec. 31—T. U. E. L. Dance, West End Hall.

Wednesday, Jan. 21—Lenin Memorial Meeting, Ashland Auditorium.

Saturday, February 28, 1925—Red Revel, Webster Hall Women's Club, 27 So. Ashland Ave.

Sunday, Sept. 14, at 7:30 p. m.—Society for Technical Aid to Soviet Russia, Russian garden, 1639 W. New Convert, at 1502 W. Division St.

NOTICE!

The new headquarters of the Workers Party in District No. 9 is Rooms 2 and 4 617—6th Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minn.

You should change your records at once in conformity with the above changes.

C. A. HATHAWAY,
District Organizer No. 9.

Have Some Prosperity

NEW YORK.—Bank stockholders are expected to vote for Coolidge for president in view of the prosperity they are now enjoying. The U. S. Trust Co. has just declared its quarterly dividend on common stock of 12½ per cent. This is a profit at the rate of 50 per cent a year.

PARTY HOLDING LARGE MEETINGS IN CONNECTICUT

Bring Communist Idea to Factories

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 10.—The Workers Party of district 15 has been holding very successful meetings here for the last number of weeks, its speakers addressing enthusiastic audiences of workers on the Communist platform for the fall elections.

Factory Meetings Held.

Meetings have been held in front of large factories like the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., and numerous copies of the DAILY WORKER and pamphlets written by Wm. Z. Foster distributed.

The district organizer, William Simons, announces that the following meetings will be held in the near future, and that comrades should be at the places announced whenever possible:

Thursday, Sept. 11.—Winchester Plant, Chester ave. and Howard.

Friday, Sept. 12.—Clock Shop, Hamilton between Grand and St. John.

Sept. 12, 8 P. M.—Hamilton, cor. Grand, Speaker, Argante, of New York, in Italian. Ausonico Italian branch.

Waterbury—Monday, Sept. 15: Speakers, Eichstein, Simons.

Hartford—Thursday, Sept. 18: Speaker, Gruber.

Stamford—Friday, Sept. 19: Speaker, William Weinstone, New York.

Bridgeport—Friday, Sept. 19: Rebecca Grecht, of New York.

LOCAL BRONX, ATTENTION!

If we are to put our candidates on the ballot, we must get on the job at once. Comrades, put your shoulder to the wheel and get busy. Come around to the headquarters, 1347 Boston Road, any night during the week, and you will be assigned to work. Don't be a shirker.—B. Robins, Sec'y.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

WORKERS PARTY—LOCAL CHICAGO
Branch Meetings
Thursday, September 11.

Class in Trade Union Tactics and Conduct, 2nd floor, 1902 Milwaukee Ave.

Lithuanian No. 2, 1900 S. Union Ave.

Czecho-Slovak North Berwyn, Sokol Oak Park, Roosevelt and Union Ave.

11th Ward Italian, 2459 S. Oakley Blvd.

Scandinavian Lake View, 3296 N. Wilton St.

Scandinavian West Side, Zeich's Hall, Corner Cicero and Superior Sts.

Scandinavian Jefferson Park, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

Friday, September 12.

Scandinavian South Chicago, 641 E. 61st St.

Lettish Branch, 4259 Thomas St.

Czecho-Slovak Hanson Park, Bohemian Free Thought School, Mansfield Ave. near Grand.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE, LOCAL CHICAGO,
BRANCH MEETINGS.
Thursday, Sept. 11.

Maywood Branch, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

Friday, Sept. 12.

Rosa Luxemburg Branch, 1910 West Roosevelt Road. English speaker.

John Reed Branch, 1224 S. Albany Ave. West Side Branch, 2322 Douglas Blvd. "Class in Communist Manifesto" Max Bachtman.

Hersh Lekert Branch, 2633 Hirsch Blvd.

Karl Liebknecht Branch, 1209 N. Sedgwick St.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

PERSECUTION OF 2 D'AUTREMONTS RENEWED BY R. R.

Southern Pacific Hounds Young Radicals

(By The Federated Press)

REDDING, Cal., Sept. 10.—Once more the persecution of the d'Autremont brothers is under way, and a renewed attempt is being made to prosecute California's Sacco-Vanzetti case. The Federated Press told last autumn of the railroad hold-up in southern Oregon in which four trainmen were killed, and of the effort to fasten the crime, without any evidence against them, on three brothers, Roy and Ray (twins) and Hugh d'Autremont.

The only apparent reason for connecting the boys with the hold-up is the fact that they have been known as I. W. W. organizers, and that one of the twins was in prison during the war as a draft evader. They were on a camping trip when the hold-up occurred, and have been missing since. Their father has always claimed that the real murderers made away with them, and there is a good deal of evidence to that effect.

Hugh Now Dead.

A few months ago a body found in a river was identified as that of Hugh. In spite of this, the woods near Redding are now being scoured for the three, on the report that they had been seen; and they are described by the brass check press as "desperadoes" and as having committed the crime with which they have never been formally charged. The attack on the d'Autremonts has been prosecuted by the Southern Pacific railroad, with the assistance of other railroads. Notices announcing a $4,800 award for their capture were removed from railway and ferry stations after Hugh d'Autremont's body was found, but have recently been posted again.

SUB-DISTRICT OF YOUNGSTOWN W.P. TO HOLD MEETING

(Special to The Daily Worker)

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Sept. 10.—In order to fully explain the new party program of action and to see that all branches in the Youngstown sub-district are properly instructed and organized to carry out the work, the Youngstown sub-district made up of all Workers Party branches in Youngstown, Warren, New Castle, East Liverpool, Farrell, East Youngstown, Bessemer, Niles and Leetonia, will hold a mass membership meeting on Sunday, Sept. 14, 2 p. m. at the Athletic Hall, 2384½ W. Federal St., at which the officials of the sub-district will go over the new program with the membership.

Readers Are Invited.

Readers of the DAILY WORKER in the sub-district are cordially invited to attend this meeting and affiliate with the party and help out in the organizational and educational work to be outlined for the fall and winter.

Sub-District organizer White and the industrial committee will hold a T. U. E. L. meeting after the general membership meeting, announces the sub-district executive committee, thru its secretary, Comrade Wallace T. Metcalfe.

NOTICE TO CHICAGO COMRADES!

Branches that are in charge of street meetings, see that a couple of comrades are on hand by 7:30 p. m. with a platform or box in order to hold the corner. Some instances require getting there by 7 or 7:15 o'clock. Also see that the literature and petitions, both state and congressional, are on hand with comrades to take care of those. This week, you should have the leaflets advertising Anti-Mobilization Day.

Get your live comrades on the job!

Dividend Passing Causes Flurry.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Failure of the American Woolen company to declare its dividends, caused quite a flurry in Wall Street.

WORKERS' STRAW VOTE

THE DAILY WORKER,
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

The workers employed in the shop of.....

.....have taken a straw vote on the presidential candidates, and the vote was as follows:

WM. Z. FOSTER ..... votes; LaFOLLETTE ..... votes;
Workers Party — No Party

DAVIS ..... votes; COOLIDGE ..... votes.
Democratic Party — Republican Party

I certify that this report is correct:

Name: .....

Address: .....

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

HOOPER THREATS ABOUT CONTEMPT ACTION CONTINUE

Union Chiefs Decline to Put in an Appearance

Steps to institute contempt proceedings thru the Federal Court will be taken by the United States Labor Board against the officers of the Locomotive Firemen and Engineers for their failure to appear at a recent hearing of the board to testify in their wage controversy. This statement was made to the DAILY WORKER by Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the Labor Board.

About ten weeks ago the brotherhoods of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers of No. 45 comprising all the big railways of the West and Southwest put in a demand for a wage increase similar to that received by the men employed on the Eastern roads. Instead of the railroad company taking the matter up with the men it was referred to a labor board appointed by the United States government much to the dissatisfaction of the union. To date nothing definite has come out of the controversy.

A few days ago the board resumed hearings in the controversy and called upon a committee of the representative of the Brotherhood of which Warren S. Stone, president of the International Brotherhood of Firemen was one of the members to appear to testify.

Only the representatives of the railroads were present the side representing the union declining to appear.

Dever Stumped On Traction.

As a result of the financial snag struck today in the Dever plan for construction of a municipal rapid transit system independent of existing facilities, the Mayor and Alderman U. S. Schwartz, today admitted that the traction problem is about to be tossed into the city council. Dever has gabbed about the proposition for months and he is still where he started.

Stop MacFadden's Plan.

A temporary injunction, halting the sale of stock in the "McFadden Newspaper Publishing Co." in Illinois, was granted in the Circuit Court here today. The company is headed by Bernard McFadden, of New York, editor and owner of "True Stories" and other purveyors of hokum.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

"To Win the Masses is the Great Task," Says Zinoviev

(In the third installment of the speech of Gregory Zinoviev on the trade union question, delivered at the Fifth Congress of the Communist International, he takes up the question of international unity of the trade union movement. "All the problems and tactical difficulties of the Comintern in the last five years," he says, "are due to the fact that the development went on much more slowly than we had thot." That is the factor in the situation which is ignored by those impatient ones, rebuked by Zinoviev, who want a new tactic for the trade union question).

* * *

The German party must be absolutely clear on this question. We can forgive many mistakes, but this question can become a mill-stone about our necks; then, where we should swim, this stone will drag us to the bottom, we may perish, if we have no clear understanding on this question. If the representative of the Schuhmacher tendency maintains that he speaks in the name of 20,000 comrades, that makes a sort of local patriotism, and we know these local isolated unions from the time of Legien, at that time the same number was mentioned.

We hope that of these 20,000, 19,000 will go with the Communist International when it has chosen a fixed line. With the rest we must part for a time, we can make no concessions. Schuhmacher is also a soldier of the revolution; the party has decided that he must carry this decision thru, not only in form but in practice. I do not think that the German party will put up with Schuhmacherism for long.

Schuhmacher and his followers say: We also do not preach leaving the trades unions, we also do not say "Come out of the trades unions." We only (!) advocate the formation of independent unions, and the watch-word of the "Industrial Unions." We believe that the party must support this watch-word."—Is that so? Does Schuhmacher think us so simple that he believes we do not know what it is about, if he says it in different words? He wants to bring us before such facts as will disturb the line of the party in the trade union question.

Back to the Trade Unions!

We must collect those workers who have left the unions with the one watchword: "Back to the trade unions! Yes! Back to the reactionary, anti-revolutionary menshevist trade unions, back to the unions which are still under the leadership of social democrats! Back to these unions to create in them a rallying center for our power. If we do not make this demand and carry it thru, then we are only revolutionary talkers, then we will never destroy the bourgeois order, then we will never seriously gain the majority of the workers. Here is not the place to joke, we do not believe in the truth of the words of the representative of the Schuhmacher policy, who says: "We do not advocate leaving the trade unions."

What Schuhmacher proposes is nothing else than a policy of secession, and objectively his meaning is: Out of the labor movement as it now is, with all its weaknesses, and that means: Out of the working class as it is. We do not wish to make ourselves any illusions: We cannot form our own great trade unions in Germany. Even if we could form them, we could not carry on a successful economic campaign with them; and if we wanted to do so, we should lose it. The result would be that the workers who are fleeing from the unions would stream back to the social democrats.

Cherish no illusions! The workers' councils represent a new form, but the trade unions remain even after the revolution, as we have seen from the Russian example. The soviets are a new revolutionary form of the labor movement, but you cannot create them every day; they can only be formed when revolution stands at the door. The real form of the present labor movement, which Marx and Lenin valued as such, is the trade union movement with all its faults and weaknesses, and with all the advantages which it offers to social democracy.

Absolute clarity must be reached on this question. If Schuhmacher does not give way, then he can no longer belong to the Comintern. If he unites 20,000 workers to lead them out of the unions, to take them away from the united front tactics, he robs us of 20,000 class fighters, instead of throwing them into the scale against the social democrats. At best he neutralizes, splits them off, and makes them into an enemy force over against us.

There Can Be No Question of "Marriage" with the Amsterdamers.

Now—the second question, what is to be our attitude to the Amsterdam International Federation of Trade Unions? In my opinion, this question is of secondary significance. Comrade Bordiga maintains here, that the plan of certain negotiations with the Amsterdamers would give the whole movement an "extreme right" character. In comparison with the so-called ultra-left wing we have often been reproached with a "right" position. At the Third world congress Lenin said: "I am speaking as a right-winger against the offensive theory." Good, you may call us right-wingers, we are not afraid. The real left Leninist wing is always there, where the workers are. To win the great masses of the workers from the social democrats, that is the real revolutionary orientation of Leninism.

The "Memorandum" of the German delegation, which we saw today for the first time, has been mentioned here. We do not know exactly when it was written. We beg the comrades not to judge our views on the basis of this memorandum. In this memorandum the point of view of the Russian party is not expressed. If you wish to know our point of view, we are ready to set it forth, but the memorandum is false. It says that we are striving for a "marriage" with the Amsterdamers. I am afraid that was written by those comrades who have prepared such a "marriage" in the Saxon "Labor Government." The question is put in the following way: One of two things: either union with the Amsterdamers, or out of the trade unions.

But think, there is another way of putting the question. Ask the Russian mensheviki. With them we had really no "marriage," but we also did not retire from the unions when they oppressed us. We won the unions not in 20 months but in 20 years. If you wish for such directions as will guarantee you victory in 20 months, we cannot give you such; whoever undertakes such a thing can only be a charlatan. But we know that, in spite of all, we shall win the majority of the workers. If we do not manage that, then there will be no proletarian revolution.

Of a "marriage" with the Amsterdamers there can be no question. We saw such a "marriage" last year with the social democrats in Saxony. But not in the Russian revolution, there we shall never see it.

One more reason which must move the German party to think this question thru consequently, if it at present still has objections to certain negotiations with the Amsterdamers, I believe that is not out of international, but out of purely inner party reasons—it is because our party in Germany is not fighting out the question of unity in the trade unions.

I was talking with a few comrades, and it seems to me that some of them are thinking: Let the Russian unions join up with Amsterdam, we have nothing against it; but do not let them force us in Germany to work in the social democratic unions. Can such a point of view be regarded as an international point of view? Not in the very least. If the Russian unions were to go over to the Amsterdamers without the R. I. L. U. that would be a real capitulation of the Comintern and of the R. I. L. U. and that we will never do. Our Russian trade unions are Leninist unions, and they do not act as Russian unions but as a part of the Red International of Labor Unions, and carry out what the international decides. The German comrades must consider this question, not from the purely German but from the international point of view.

The Winning of the Trade Unions Is Progressing Too Slowly.

At the congress we see three groups of delegates: Delegates from countries where the Communists already have the majority in the unions, as for example, France. In this case it is fairly easy to make a resolution for union with the reformists; the reformist minority can give way to the majority.

To the second group belong countries in which we have no important influence, in the trade unions. Here the comrades are more or less indifferent to the question at issue. To the third group belongs Germany and to some extent Czecho Slovakia, where we have no certain majority behind us but where we are nearing it, and where a sharp struggle is taking place between the Communists and the social democrats. Here the question is most difficult. We see that. But these difficulties cannot be decisive in the matter.

The proposal from the Russian delegation is both from the international as from the national point of view, perfectly right.

Comrade Bordiga says and it is repeated in the memorandum, it would be our moral death if we should make the suggested proposal to the Amsterdamers and they should refuse it. That is a curious standpoint. We make our class enemy a proposal and he refuses it: does that mean that we are morally defeated? How is that? Let us take an example from civil life. The Russian Soviet Government proposed disarmament to the international bourgeoisie, the international bourgeoisie refused it. Was that a moral defeat? Suppose we should declare to the social democrats that we are in favor of unity in the trade union movement and they should be against it, would that be our moral death? No, not at all. Read once, how the yellow "Vorwarts" in Berlin rages against that unity in the unions in its international dimensions. Why? Because these gentlemen are afraid it may be a blow against them. That may become anything only not a blow against us.

How Did the R. I. L. U. Originate?

Further it says in the memorandum, the German delegation and the whole German party spoke against the foundation of the R. I. L. U. at the time, but if it is founded, it must keep the old forms. That is not right. You know the history of your own party very badly. Not the German party, but Paul Levi, was against the foundation of the R. I. L. U. That is a very different thing. The German party was with us for the foundation, and the R. I. L. U. was founded at a time when it seemed as if we should break thru the enemy front in a direct attack, and soon win the unions. I can very well remember the foundation session of the R. I. L. U. The session was participated in by D'Arragona in the name of the Italian delegation and by Robert Williams in the name of the English delegation, some delegates introduced amendments to the resolutions. We can even mention the fact that at that time a Spanish professor came to us in Moscow, and said:" I am a reformist, but the Spanish workers are Communists, and they demand that I join the Third International." We answered him: "As long as you are not a Communist you cannot be taken into the Communist international." Such times we had then. "It was at a time when we thot that we should in the very shortest time win the majority of the workers. You know, comrades, that the movement calmed down later. All the problems, all the tactical difficulties of the Comintern during these five years, are due to this, that the development went on much more slowly than we had thot. The social democrats have become to a certain extent stronger than in the unions. Now we must fight them in a much slower much more difficult way. That is the new thing that you do not wish to grasp.

(To be continued.)

AMERICANISM IS HANDED WORKERS INSTEAD OF JOBS

New Patrynuts' Society is Founded

(By The Federated Press)

DETROIT, Sept. 10.—The American Viewpoint society has been founded to issue textbooks and films to schools, among other things, to create better citizenship, according to the announcement of its promoters.

Does anyone remember the movement a few years ago for American flags at the top of every Christmas tree? President Harding, friend of Jake Hamon, Harry Daugherty, Albert B. Fall, William J. Burns and Gaston B. Means, enthusiastically supported it. Santa Claus was to be Americanized. The man who initiated that movement was Richard C. Fowler. Fowler is general manager of the American Viewpoint society.

A Famous "Major."

Fowler is also vice-president of Campbell, Trump & Co., advertising agency in Detroit. The Campbell of this firm is Harvey, J., secretary Detroit board of commerce. Fowler got his American viewpoint by being a major in the 551st battalion of the Michigan state militia and by being one of Detroit's 10 "majors" in the Liberty loan campaigns. These comprise his "major' boasts.

While unemployment spreads in mines and shops with winter approaching, Fowler will be in clover in his New York office with his American viewpoint. The money that will support him and his output of textbooks, films and literature will be paid by the bankers and industrialists who will take it out of the wages of the workers.

Fair Held Unfair.

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 10.—On account of the boycott by the Central Labor Council, of which the musicians' union is a member, of the state fair here, the open shop association in announcing that it has plans under way for the organization of a non-union band to play at the fair. This enterprise has been put on the unfair list because it will not employ union men on its buildings.

Russia An Unholy Place.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 10.—Russia is an unholy place where the Communists do not believe in God, is the finding of Senator William H. King, Utah, according to a speech delivered before a joint meeting of the American Legion and its female auxiliary. King was in Russia for 10 weeks and admires its cavalry tremendously.

You can get sample copies of the DAILY WORKER any time at the DAILY WORKER office.

NEW YORK'S JOBS GROWING SCARCER IN ALL INDUSTRY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Factory unemployment continued downward during August, according to the report of industrial commissioner Bernard L. Shientag of the state department of labor. The manufacturing of building materials was seriously curtailed and threw brick makers, workers in cement mills, cut stone yards, paint, lumber and house trim plants out of work. There was a slight increase in employment in the wood-working industries, furniture and piano-making.

Contrary to manufacturers' statements that the New York silk mills had been profitting by the Paterson strike, the commissioner reports that 1000 silk workers were laid off. Eight percent more of the knitting mills workers were thrown out of work. The working forces in the cotton mills of the state were little more than half of the number working last year during the summer months.

No Jobs Available

The shirt and collar factories in the Troy district cut their working staffs further during the month. There were no gains in other lines of work in this area to offset the unemployment figures of the commissioner and the workers themselves find that they can do little more than make time until their employers see fit to reopen the factories. No other jobs are available.

In New York City the clothing industry has been slow in reviving and many workers are still out of work. The fur workers are finding great difficulty in getting jobs. Shipyards let out 700 men. Fewer workers were employed in the brass and copper mills and in the auto parts manufacturing plants. The packing plants and stockyards cut their working staff. More biscuit makers were laid off.

Shoe workers around Binghampton, most of them employed by the Endicott-Johnson concern and totally unorganized, lost work also during the month. Shoe workers of Rochester managed to hold their own. But on the whole the situation for the workers all over the state is not yet bright enuf. None of the big political fires have fooled the workers into seeing sun dawn yet, but the campaigns are just beginning.

I. W. W. CHALLENGE AMERICAN LEGION ON CENTRALIA CASES

(By Defense News Service)

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Sept. 10.—When the American Legion opens its state convention here tomorrow, one outstanding topic of discussion is doubtedly will be the Centralia case. Attorney Elmer Smith of Centralia has written a letter to the chairman of the convention challenging the Legion to let him present all the facts in connection with the killing of four legionaires and the lynching of an I. W. W. ex-service man in Centralia on Armistice Day, 1919.

It is known that numerous members of the Legion are smarting over nation-wide publicity now being given to the Centralia affair. Many of them feel that their organization ought to make an exhaustive inquire into this case and place the blame for the five killings exactly where it belongs.

Last February the Spokane Daily Chronicle announced that Dr Robert Farley of that city, district commander of the Legion, would call for immediate investigation of serious charges, including an allegation that the American Legion had participated in creating an atmosphere of terror at the trial of the Centralia case which caused the jury to convict eight I. W. W. members whom they knew were innocent of murdering Lieut. Warren Grimm. But apparently no such investigation was ever made, or if it was made no publicity was given to the official findings.

Refused Speech Permit.

Elmer Smith recently sought a permit to speak on the streets here concerning the Centralia case. Police Chief Frederick Boerker refused to grant his request. Smith spoke, however, in a hall on two nights. His audiences necessarily were smaller, there, rival attractions being staged in town on both evenings. He served notice that he would come back later and fight out the issue of free speech.

While here, Smith spent an hour talking with the eight Centralia defendants in prison. He reports that they are hopeful, and that their one message to their fellow-workers outside is "Organize!"

Postal Clerks Lose Jobs.

TORONTO, Ont. Dismissals of postal workers who participated in the strike of last July still continue. Thirty men in Toronto have received their notice of dismissal, to take effect on Oct. 1. A majority of these are understood to have been out on strike, tho some are men who are being retired because of old age.

Child Labor Amendment Favored.

SAN FRANCISCO. A poll of all candidates for the legislature, made by the California League of Women Voters, indicates that the child labor amendment will certainly be ratified at the next session. 70 per cent of the candidates responded, and those answering were 100 per cent for the amendment.

To Reopen Bootleg Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The senate investigation of the bureau of internal revenue, including the enforcement of the prohibition law, will be reopened on September 17, it was announced today.

Your Union Meeting

Second Thursday, Sept. 11, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting.
5	Brick and Clay, A. O. F. W. Hall, Dalton, Ill.
13	Carpenters, 112 S. Ashland Blvd.
62	Carpenters, 4416 S. Halsted St.
701	Carpenters, 1440 Emma St.
434	Carpenters, South Chicago, 11637 Michigan Ave.
584	Carpenters, Ogden and Kedzie.
112	Engineers, 9222 Houston Ave.
17456	Federal Labor Union, 2110 N. Robey
499	Firemen and Engineers, Springfield and North Aves.
248	Hod Carriers, Harrison and Green
14	Ladies' Garment Workers, 218 W. Van Buren St.
3	Marble Polishers, 816 W. Harrison
12329	Nurses, 721 Lincoln Ave.
	Painters' District Council, 1446 W. Adams St.
271	Painters, Tutt's Hall, Chicago Heights.
26	Paper Rulers, 59 E. Van Buren St., 2nd floor.
17301	Park Employes, 816 W. Harrison
774	Railway Clerks, 55th and Blackstone.
1269	Railway Clerks, 3124 S. Halsted St.
1269	Railway Clerks, Harrison and Green Sts.
877	Railway Trainmen, 64th & University, 8:15 P. m.
159	Signalmen, 180 W. Washington St.
742	Teamsters, 2722 Houston Ave. (Note—Unless otherwise all meetings are at 8 P. M.)
136	Waiters, 180 W. Washington St. (Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 P. M.)

SICK & DEATH BENF. SOCIETY
MEETING TONIGHT.
German-Hungarian—634 Willow St. John Freifogel, Sec'y, 3741 Seminary Ave.

ED. GARBER
QUALITY SHOES
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN
2427 LINCOLN AVENUE
CHICAGO
Telephone Diversey 5129
Vote Communist This Time!

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A GOOD MODEL FOR MATURE FIGURES

A COMFORTABLE PLAY SUIT FOR THE SMALL BOY

1486. The combination of plain and striped material here portrayed is very appropriate for this style. The long lines and "V" shaped vest, are especially becomming to woman of mature figure. Ratine and linen or gingham and chambrey could be used for this model.

The Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 5⅝ yards of one material 36 inches wide. To make as illustrated requires 2 yards of plain material and 3⅛ yards of striped material. The width at the foot is 2¼ yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

4854. Seersucker, linene or cotton repp would be suitable for this style. The free edges may be bound with braid or bias seam tape.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. A 3 year size requires 2¼ yards of 27 inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The patterns being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. Do not become impatient if your pattern is

E. W. RIECK LUNCH ROOMS
Seven Places
62 W. Van Buren | 42 W. Harrison
169 N. Clark | 118 S. Clark
66 W. Washington | 167 N. State
234 S. Halsted
PHONES: HARRISON 8614-7
Specialties: E. W. Rieck Boston Baked Beans and Brown Bread
Fine Soups and Fresh Made Coffee
Commissary and Bakery:
1612 Fulton Pl. Phone West 2549

CLEVELAND, OHIO
A $500,000,000.00 GRAFT

This is the drug trust's annual toll from the gullible rich and poor. For this, not only Northern sulphur is also dangerous and habit-forming drugs are given, and as a result, "Medicine destroys more than war, pestilence and famine combined. Patent medicine is responsible for about 70 per cent of the inmates of all insane asylums."

Progressive men and women have discarded drugs as a relic of the superstitious past, and are now using Natural Methods only.—When ill see

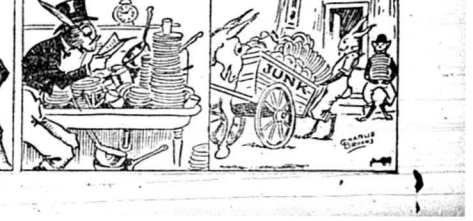
Dr. J. J. SCHOLTES
Chiropractor and Electrotherapist
2838 W. 25th St. Linc. 5340

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
73 W. VanBuren St.
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 22 Years.
815 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1027 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN



THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:

$6.00 per year $3.50—6 months $2.00—3 months

By mail (in Chicago only):

$8.00 per year $4.50—6 months $2.50—3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE.....Editors
MORITZ J. LOEB.....Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application

Would LaFollette Follow MacDonald?

Mr. Villard, editor of the Nation, thinks that if LaFollette should be president, "we should have in Washington the same spirit of amity in the conduct of our international affairs which so glorifies the ministry of Ramsay MacDonald."

We are not sure of just what "glorious" items in the record of MacDonald Mr. Villard refers to. Perhaps he means that, just as MacDonald has followed the principle of "continuity of policy," carrying out the established course of British imperialism as laid down by the Conservative and Liberal parties, so also would Mr. LaFollette continue the imperialism of the U. S. as applied by Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding, and Coolidge.

Or, it may be that Mr. Villard, remembering that MacDonald has continued the practice of dropping bombs from aeroplanes upon the villages of Mesopotamia, one of the chief "glories" of the Labor government record, is rejoiced in the thought that LaFollette will continue to shell the defenseless cities of Latin America if they do not come across for the American capitalists.

And then again, it is probable that what Mr. Villard has in mind, in looking for LaFollette to repeat the "glories" of the MacDonald regime, the fact that it was MacDonald who was the chief instrument in putting into effect the Dawes plan, otherwise known as the Morgan plan. Mr. Villard evidently expects, and with good reasons, that LaFollette would follow MacDonald in this also, and support the project of Coolidge's running mate.

All in all, it is quite probable that LaFollette will not thank Villard for raising these questions. They are just the kind of questions which he does not wish to answer during the campaign, preferring that they be left for the practical exegencies of the moment to determine them. Mr. LaFollette wants to cash in on all the MacDonald sentiment that he can, and Villard has much grounds in thinking that he would repeat the Scotch Sunday school teacher's record rather closely, but it is rather embarrassing to have the thing put so bluntly, at a time when "Battling Bob" must make a pretense, at least, of being different from Dawes.

Why So Tender with Lewis?

John L. Lewis, one of the foremost labor fakers of America, was one of the group of "trade unionists" who, on Labor Day, paid their respects to Strikebreaker Coolidge and pledged the support of "labor" to the republican department of Wall Street.

That little pilgrimage got the LaFollette backers all peeved. The current issue of Labor, weekly organ of the railroad unions and principal advocate of the C. P. P. A., plays up a big front page story denouncing and exposing that group of "leaders," claiming that it was organized by T. V. O'Connor, former president of the Longshoremen's Union and now, by appointment of Coolidge, chairman of the U. S. Shipping Board, and claiming further that O'Connor paid the expenses of all those "not on the government payroll."

Strangely enough the name of John L. Lewis is not mentioned, either in the story or in the long editorial that follows. Lewis is not, so far as public knowledge goes, as yet on the government payroll, altho rumor has it that Coolidge has promised to make him Secretary of Labor if re-elected. Did Lewis have his expenses paid by T. V. O'Connor? And if so, why does not Labor mention his name and come out with the facts about Lewis? The miners would like to know.

Perhaps one reason for the tenderness towards Mr. Lewis is the fact that Lewis is exposing War ren S. Stone, grand chief of the Engineers' Union and pillar of Mr. LaFollette's church, as the operator of scab mines in West Virginia. Mr. Lewis is not putting up any kind of a fight for the 100,000 Illinois miners who are being starved to death by the coal operators but, since joining the camp of Coolidge and needing a weapon against the LaFollettites, he has become an ardent champion of the sweated slaves of Warren Stone.

"I will be fair enough to presume," writes Lewis to Stone, dealing with Stone's coal mines, "that you are speaking as a coal operator and not as a trade unionist. It must be interesting to have such a dual personality."

Why is Stone so tender with Lewis? We are interested to hear the report courteous? For it is when thieves fall out that honest men learn something about the ways and means used to rob them. Let the controversy go on unhindered. What do you know about Lewis, Mr. Stone?

Get a member for the Workers Party and a new subscription for the DAILY WORKER!

Stir the Shops!

The very best place to carry on a working class campaign is in the shops and factories where the workers gather to earn their living. It is there that minds are open to the measures, parties, and candidates that stand for concrete solutions of the problems of bread and butter facing the working class. It is in the shops that the workers will see most clearly, for example, the difference between Foster, the union organizer and fighter for the workers, and LaFollette, the lawyer and fighter for the middle class.

And the very best instrument right now for stirring up discussion in the shops on the class issues, is the workers' straw vote. It opens the discussion, places the issues before thousands of workers who would otherwise not think or who would take their opinions from the capitalist papers, and crystallizes their class convictions so that they will register and vote for Communism when election day comes.

An example is seen in the vote taken in a carriage shop in Kansas City. The results were: Davis 8 votes, Foster 7, LaFollette 5, and Coolidge 5. The office force was reported as unanimous for Davis and the K. K. K. went entirely for Coolidge. The other workers divided between Foster and LaFollette, with Foster having the edge. That vote was undoubtedly quite an educational factor in the life of the shop where it was taken.

This week another method of shop voting is being tried in Chicago. Ballots are being distributed at shop gates, and boxes are carried there for depositing the votes as the workers leave their jobs. It is not only excellent propaganda means, stirring up all sorts of discussion, but the results will be of great interest. Every supporter of Foster and Gitlow should stir the shops of the nation with the workers' straw vote.

Politics in the Unions

Republican and democratic politics are more than ever the determining factors in union affairs. LaFollette has given a new lease of life to the buying and selling of working class votes. Thus we see in the Illinois miners' union the most flagrant trading going on, the result of which has been the settlement of a "misunderstanding" between Farrington and Len Small, completing the united front of all fakers in the state.

Farrington's announcement that he is a candidate for re-election as president of District 12, gives new interest to republican party politics for the miners. Len Small had been holding a whip over Farrington, to force his support, in the shape of the candidacy of William Sneed, Small bench man and member of the miners' union, for Farrington's job. After Farrington finally united with the other fakers behind Small, Sneed announced his withdrawal in favor of Farrington. Thus is the fate of the unions made the object of trading in the offices of the capitalist parties.

In his announcement of his candidacy, Farrington promises to lambast a "deadly enemy" that is working stealthily against him in the miners' union. He certainly does not mean the K. K. K., for he has the support of that organization. Perhaps he means the Communists, who are certainly against this prince of labor fakers, but very publicly and openly. The Communists will have a good deal to say about Farrington before the miners' elections are over. But that is another story to be told in full at another time. Suffice it now to note how republican politicians like Len Small have a great deal to say about who shall control the affairs of the miners.

"By Mutual Consent"

"The really important thing," says the Nation, organ of liberalism in the United States, in connecting upon the adoption of the Dawes plan, "is that Europe has at last made a treaty by mutual consent."

The thinking of liberals is a weird and wonderful thing. That the eight hour day is to be abolished is an unimportant incidental factor. That the railroads are to be de-nationalized and turned over to private exploitation is nothing to worry about. That J. P. Morgan establishes his power to control production and the standard of living thruout the capitalist world is something hardly worthy of comment. The only thing that is important to our liberals is that an "agreement" has been reached.

The same paragraph is which the Nation felicitates the world upon the settlement "by mutual consent" of the world's troubles, starts out with the statement that the action of the Reichstag in adopting the Dawes plan was taken because Chancellor Marx had threatened to put it into effect without parliamentary consent if that were not forthcoming. Nothing could be more illuminating of the farce of parliamentary democracy, worshipped by the liberals, or of the profound illusions that are typified by the phrase "mutual consent."

All the class collaborationist labor officials in the country will be watching anxiously to see the fate of the infamous "L. A. O. plan" at the Machinists' Convention in Detroit next week. If the workers are awake to their own interests, then the plan will be buried so deep that it will never be heard of again.

Hughes wants the Soviet Government to repay him that $187,000,000 that he gave to Rakmetieff to use against the Soviets. That is as logical as to demand payment from the victim of an assault for the gun which shot him, because the assailant failed to kill him and therefore cannot pay. It is the logic of capitalism.

Get a member for the Workers Party.

AS WE SEE IT - - -

By T. J. O'Flaherty

(Continued from page 1)

dumb who will vote for Coolidge are not those afflicted ones who cannot speak, but the dumbbells who cannot think. Of the latter kind there are millions and tho New York has its share, other states are equally prolific in producing the species.

• • •

SECRETARY HUGHES demands no more than the British bankers exacted from Moscow: payment of debts, security for private property and an end of Communist plotting." The above is not taken from the Wall Street Journal or the Chicago Tribune but from the socialist Milwaukee Leader, organ of Victor Berger who has represented himself in favor of recognition of Soviet Russia. No Czarist stool-pigeon in the Burns International Detective Agency, once known as the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice could spew his anti-Soviet venom more openly than this. But the worst is yet to come. "If the American government would only recognize Russia first as MacDonald did, Moscow could save its face." Here we have the Milwaukee Leader, openly lining up with Charles Evans, Hughes, Gompers and Bahkmateff against Soviet Russia.

• • •

IN the same editorial the Leader claims that the Anglo-Soviet treaty negotiations which were broken off were finally carried to a successful conclusion because the Soviet government backed down. Had Berger's scribbler read the London Daily Herald, official organ of the British Trade Union Congress and mouthpiece of the Labor Party, he would have learned that the signing of the treaties was due to the action of prominent left wing members of the British Labor Party in parliament who brot pressure to bear on MacDonald. The British workers were strongly in favor of the Russian treaty and had the leaders allowed the Tories and Liberals to prevent them by threats from signing the agreements, they would hear from the unions.

• • •

THE most ticklish point in the Anglo-Russian negotiations was the Soviet demand for a British loan guaranteed by the British government. That this guarantee was given is sufficient proof that the backing down was not done by Moscow but by London. The Milwaukee Leader says the treaty was a surrender to the bankers on the part of MacDonald as well as Moscow. If so, why has the London Chamber of Commerce, which is presumably on speaking terms with the bankers so bitterly opposed to the treaty? But this should be enuf for the mentally ossified yellow socialist who writes the editorials for Berger's official organ.

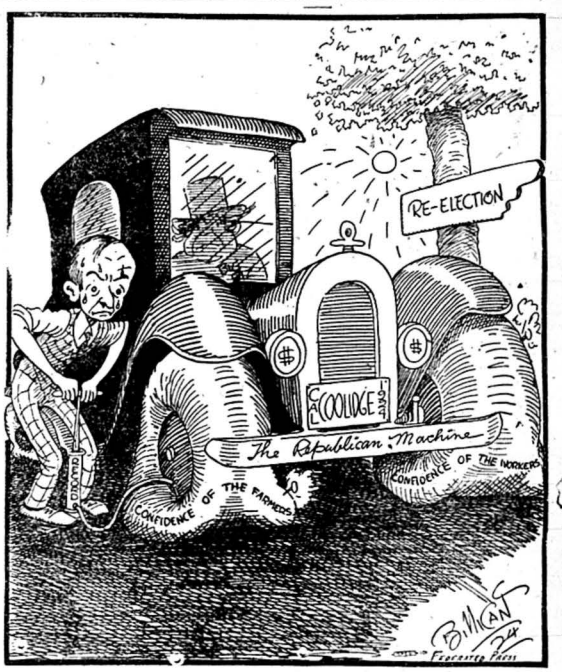
• • •

THE official bulletin of the socialist party, is trying to keep up the morale of its few remaining members by holding before them a vision of a labor party, following the November elections. "You are sure to hear more of this in due time. Nothing small is contemplated . . . No little plans can be tolerated at this time. And the situation calls for every comrade to stretch his soul and vision for greater things." This is a political confidence game. The socialist party members must have elastic political souls ustless they have not already cracked under the strain of deferred hope. Simple Simon was a skeptic compared to the worker who expects the socialist party, which has humbly accepted the job of licking the boots of the bourgeois LaFollette, to take the lead in organizing a labor party. And nobody, outside of an insane asylum expects Sam Gompers to do it.

• • •

LAFOLLETTE had much consolation coming to him in complimentary letters on his Labor Day speech. 51.85 per cent of the letters came from Republicans and 48.15 from Democrats. The remaining per cent came from the socialists. La Follette was disappointed in the results of the Maine election. It was hoped the victory would go to the Democrats after Wheeler's New England campaign. But it didn't. Another important adjunct to the LaFollette conglomeration is ExUnited States Senator Moses Clapp of Minnesota. The Republican party, however, claims that Clapp was never anything but a liability in the Minnesota machine for seyeral years and glad to be rid of him.

NOT SO GOOD



IT LOOKS BAD FOR THE FAT MAN.

"White Supremacy" and Working Class Sports

By WILLIAM F. KRUSE.

SPORTING news seldom finds its way into the DAILY WORKER—the life and struggle in the labor world have such urgent claim on every inch of space that there is none to spare for the masters or mannikins of the profitable business of commercialized sport. We realize that the master class, like the Caesars of ancient Rome, keep the worker's interest riveted to the myriad-ringed circus of professional sport, for purposes of its own. A mind steeped in batting averages has little room for unemployment statistics; a head filled with ponies' past performances seldom thinks of past performances, or present day problems, of human society.

It is much safer for capitalism to have the primitive combative instincts vicariously expended at a prize-fight or football game than to face the possibility of the same instincts finding direct expression thru the labor and revolutionary movements. The workingman's sports who will spend good money for bleacher seats and general admissions are foolish. A thirty-day ticket-office boycott would bring free admission to every form of professional sport, paid for by the reactionary elements whose interests are served.

A Political Angle.

But when a sporting item assumes a directly political character, as in the case of the belated arrest of Luis Angelo Firpo on an immorality charge, on the eve of his battle with the colored heavyweight champion, Jack Johnson, there is good reason for the workers' press to take interest. This is not the first charge of its kind to be directed against Firpo or against others of his profession. So hardened have we become to these charges that a pugilist dispersed for his sexual perversion in the realm of sex relationship is almost expected in prize-fighters, perhaps as a reflex of their primitive method of getting a livelihood.

When Firpo was training for his fight with Dempsey he was not menaced with deportation proceedings. When he first began to train for the Wills fight there was a little flurry, but it soon subsided. It must be remembered that in his early training the "Wild Bull of the Pampas" looked good. He was fat and slow, but the sport writers were not worried—had not the "Bull" knocked the mighty Dempsey clear out of the ring?

Then the experts went over to the Wills camp to hand the razz to the dusky champ. Wills had not done so very well in his last few fights against comparative second-raters, reports had it that he was getting old as fighters go, and that dissipation had taken heavy toll of this former longshoreman. They were in for a big surprise. According to their own stories they found a clean-limbed fighter with the body of a Johnson and the brain of a Gans. They found that his age had been "exaggerated." Instead of a toothless old man with one foot in the grave and the other on a cake of wet soap they saw an athlete training to the pink to remove the last logical obstacle to his meeting the white champion.

Keep Down the Black Man!

In this country it is not good form that a black man meet a white man in the ring on equal terms. Fight fans may point out numerious mixed battles but there generally was a catch somewhere. Thus Battling Nelsons' business manager made Joe Gans boil down to skin and bones in his Goldfield battle by his unspoken demand that weight be made in full fighting togs, instead of stripped as was the custom. The fight lasted forty-two rounds and Gans died of consumption, penniless, some years later, partly due to this terrible ordeal. And fight fans still raise their eyebrows over the way in which "Al Arthur" Johnson lost the title to Jess Willard. Johnson himself admits he laid down.

It will also be remembered that when Jim Jeffries sacrificed "white supremacy" to the dollar sign he had to go to a country where human equality is proclaimed less and practiced more than in the United States. Immediately after the crowning of a black man as king of the heavyweights Congress passed a law forbidding the importation or interstate shipment of fight films. Had the black man been beaten that law would never have been thot of. Since that time, altho the law is still in force, no great trouble has been found to evade it—but the spectacle of a Negro defeating a white pugilist has never been shown widely in this country. Perhaps the politicians are solicitous lest white supremacy be reasserted by burning, skinning alive, and boiling in oil a hundred or so of Negro grandmothers and babies in arms.

The Real Issue.

The Negro worker, especially in the industrial centers of the North toward which he migrates in ever larger numbers, is beginning to realize his true class status. He knows that it is immaterial to the machine or its product whether the hand that tends it be dark or fair. And he knows, too, that on the industrial battlefields, the words, "black' or "white" make no difference; it is the terms "striker" or "scab" that tilt the balance of victory either to the workers or to their enemy, the boss. Not the fistic prowess of the professional pugilist settles the question of racial equality—the inventor of the steam engine and the electric motor had much more to do with it.

Every phase of social life must reflect the basic economic conditions of its epoch. Thus sport today clearly shows capitalism on its every side—in itself a big business, it at the same time serves well the interest of the business elements at large. If Harry Wills will promise to allow himself to be beaten by the "Wild Bull" there is not likely to be any deportation. Otherwise there will be a lug of war between the fight promoters on the one hand, and the Klan politicians on the other to see which of the conflicting business interests shall be served by the immigration officials. "The Fight Game" is a phase of capitalist society and obviously has close economic and political relationship to the present order.

The Remedy—Workers' Sport.

Commercialized sport is the prostitution to capitalist ends of the healthy play and combat instincts of the masses. The American labor movement, and especially its more progressive sections, should answer by building up a sports movement of its own in which the workers would build up their bodies, revivify their minds, and develop their own team spirit and champions in an atmosphere of their own ideology. And on the negative side of the workers' answer should be an absolute boycott on all capitalized play, all newspaper space devoted to it, and everything connected thereto.

There are hundreds of working class athletic societies in the United States, they should be combined into a workers' sport federation for purpose of mutual support and contest. Most of them have been formed by different foreign language speaking elements; the meeting and mingling of these workers on the playground would help melt down the barriers of racial difference which now hamper class organization effort. These elements are among the most virile and energetic in the whole working class, given a revolutionary ideology this splendid physical energy could be transmuted into terms of revolutionary activity.

The Communist International has called to the attention of its various national sections the importance of this field of workers' sport. In Europe the greater development of the movement is reflected in immediate results. In this country the lack of class consciousness even among existing workers' athletic societies makes our task more difficult—on the other hand the intense, avid interest of the workers generally in all branches of athletics makes our field much more promising once we get a sufficient start. Any reader having inside information on conditions of workers' sport organizations in his locality would do well to get in touch with the Young Workers League which is in charge of this work.

No avenue of workers' mass activity can be overlooked by the Communists. Our motto in the struggle must be: class industrial organization, class politics, class education, class sport, class life, class struggle, class victory!

ARE YOU OBTAINING YOUR BUNDLE OF THE DAILY WORKER and CAMPAIGN LEAFLETS to distribute when you are out getting signatures to petitions?

YALE UNIVERSITY
NOV 1924
LIBRARY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Communist Candidates For President: WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. For Vice-President: BENJAMIN GITLOW.

Vol. II. No. 149. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

SUGAR STRIKE DEATH LIST GROWS

Communists In Anti-Defense Day Meetings

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

REPUBLICANS are jubilant over the G. O. P. victory in Maine. The Democrats say it does not mean anything one way or the other. It means nothing to the working class one way or the other which one of the agents of capitalism won the election fight. The workers as usual fell for the victims to the hysteria raised by the rival political confidence men over an issue whose fundamental characteristic they did not touch. The Klan as an organization preaching religious and radical intolerance was denounced by the Democrats and upheld—silently—by the Republicans but the Klan in its strikebreaking role was ignored.

• • •

GENERAL CHARLES G. DAWES, starts on another swing thru the Northwest, in an effort to gather in the farmer vote. According to inspired newspaper stories prosperity has come to the farmers with a shock that is almost fatal. Those of them who were beginning to look like Andrew Gump, receding chin, prominent Adam's apple, and the rest of it have undergone a physiognomical transformation, since the political campaign began in earnest. Protruding chin and protruding stomach, beaming eyes, Adam's apple comfortably esconed in layers of hard flesh—these are the signs of prosperity that greet the eyes of G. O. P. news hounds all thru the great Northwest.

• • •

UNFORTUNATELY the farmers don't yet know how lucky they are. Banks continue to get busted. Farmers continue to pack their belongings on their wheezing tin lizzies and cough their way to the great industrial centers. The corn harvest is good but chiefly for the elevator trusts. Of course the depression in the farming region may be merely psychological, but it is just as bad. Many people die for no reason in the world except as a result of a too lively imagination. The farmers imagine they are poor and actually feel hungry. They do not see the checks that come in the mails. So, leaving affluence behind them, they join the army of the unemployed. It's tough but it cannot be helped. Even the rough eloquence of the cussing Dawes cannot convince the farmers that they are rich.

• • •

YOU will be glad to learn that the Prince of Wales' injured optic is much better. An inconsiderate American pony kicked a bit of common clay into the royal lamp, temporarily dimming it, but this did not prevent His Royal Highness from shaking a wicked ankle at a dance later on. Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt II. plans to give a dance in honor of the prince at Jericho. So the prince is going to Jericho. His Royal Highness also planned to leave fog his ranch in Alberta, but several interesting dancing engagements make the bleak prairie look very dull. To get used to the cows and the horses after his gay time on Long Island, is reported to be causing the prince some misgivings.

• • •

UNFILLED tonnage of the United States Steel corporation is reported to have increased 102,505 tons between July 31st and August 31, according to the monthly statement of the corporation. This means more profits for the steel trust, a little more work for the steel slaves and another argument for the Coolidge campaign managers who will claim that these orders are the result of G. O. P. management. But these little boomlets are only flashes in the pan, soon to pass away. They afford scant consolation to the millions of workers walking the streets without a job.

(Continued on page 6)

In the Name of Religion.

In Illinois, on the road near Paxton, eighteen-year old Ralph Aron of Rankin, was branded with the letters, K. K. K. by a party of three men and one woman whom he met on the road.

FARRINGTON IN CONFESSION OF HIS FAILURES

Admits Ignorance of How to Fight the Bosses

By KARL REEVE
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 11.—If Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois miners, repeats the same speech he made before the convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor every time he goes on the stump for re-election, he will defeat himself as candidate for president of the Illinois miners.

Farrington retailed a history of failure during his regime as president. He told how the coal operators had made terrific onslaughts.

Farrington Confesses Failure.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission has now wiped out the one and only remaining thing that enabled the Illinois coal operators to sell eight million tons of coal in the northwest," said Farrington, referring to the cheaper freight rates.

"They have struck the Illinois mine workers the most deadly blow that has ever been dealt them," Farrington continued, and then admitted, "I don't know what can be done about it."

Farrington made serious contradictions thruout his speech. Following out the general practice of the convention so far, Farrington began his speech by praising himself, and then patting himself on the back for his modesty.

"The miners of Illinois have retained their war wages," Farrington boasted, "then, after we successfully resisted a wage cut, other organizations began to take courage and the post war wage cuts stopped. The employers were unable to carry them out to the extent that they had hoped."

Paints Dismal Picture.

But almost in the next breath Farrington painted a dismal and hopeless picture of the present plight of the miners, and admitted he was powerless to stem the open shop wage cutting drive. It was hard at times to tell whether Farrington was speaking on behalf of the Illinois miners or the Illinois coal operators.

"The non-union operators have been given an advantage," Farrington said on behalf of the Illinois coal barons. "That it has been impossible for the Illinois operators to cope with." Farrington referred to the ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which, beginning today, requires the Williamson, Saline and Franklin County coal companies to pay 82 cents a ton more for shipments as compared to the non-union rates, than they did before the I. C. C. ruling.

Farrington Upholds Small.

Yet Farrington indorses Len Small who belongs to a political party which upholds the scab rulings of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Farrington misrepresented the true conditions of the Illinois miners. He admitted, in one part of his speech, that, "thousands of miners with their families are living and crying for food." But at another point he left the impression that an average number of miners are at work this year. He declared that the miners are working from 160 to 170 days per year, which is the average. He declared that there are twice as many miners as are needed, that the industry is overstocked with labor, but it never entered his head to plead for a short work day with the same number of miners working. Farrington greatly underestimated the present number of unemployed miners.

Then came the usual tirade against

(Continued on page 2)

CLAIM LABOR PREMIER HAS GONE INTO BISCUIT MAKING BUSINESS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The London Daily Mail today asserted that labor premier J. Ramsay MacDonald has become the largest stockholder in Mc-Vitie-Price Ltd., large Scottish biscuit manufacturers.

UNITED TEXTILE WORKERS OPEN CONVENTION IN NEW YORK CITY

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—One hundred and nine delegates from 11 states and 45 cities were present at the opening of the convention of the United Textile Workers of America at the Great Northern Hotel here.

President Thomas F. McMahon in his report declared that the depression of the last two years had caused two thirds of the union membership to be exempted from per capita payments. He declared, however, that the union was now holding its own and would resist all plans for wage reduction.

Commenting on the lack of buying power in the agricultural districts of America, as one of the causes for the depression on in the industry, Mr. McMahon said that the farmer and the industrial worker must get together. He declared that trade unionists will maintain the right to strike as one of their inalienable weapons.

LLOYD GEORGE OPENS WAR ON RUSSIAN PACT

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Sept. 11.—A general election, aimed at the overturn of Premier Ramsay MacDonald's laborite government, was indicated today as a result of the announcement of former Premier David Lloyd-George that the liberal members of the house of commons will oppose the Anglo-Russian treaty.

According to all signs, the laborite government is facing certain defeat upon the Anglo-Russian treaty, for both liberals and tories have signified their intention of opposing ratification.

A defeat would mean the immediate dissolution of commons and a new election. In this event the election probably would take place before Christmas.

The Laborite ministers are not going to be caught napping. Already they are touring the country making speeches in favor of ratification. Labor is prepared for an election upon Day and is not obligated in any sort," believe that the rank and file of the public is with the government, on the Russian issue.

THREE NABBED FOR CAMPAIGN AGAINST N. B. C.

Twin City Young Reds For Biscuit Co. Slaves

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 11.—Three members of the Young Workers League here, Carl Cowl, Leslie R. Hurt, former national publicity director of the World War Veterans, and Morton S. Green were arrested here today by Minneapolis police at the gates of the National Biscuit Company.

The league is carrying on a nation-wide campaign to better the conditions of the biscuit company slaves and the Minneapolis young Communists were taking care of their share of the drive by open air meetings in front of the factory.

Workers Cheer Reds.

When comrade Green began to address the workers they were all pinched by the cops while the workers cheered the young Communists. As they were escorted to the police wagon, company officials demanded that the officers make the arrests and then warned the workers away from the meeting.

The comrades were immediately released and will continue to hold noon meetings in front of the company plant in spite of the city ordinance which abridges the constitution.

Getting The Bees Busy.

PARIS—The ministry of commerce today began work on a plan to impose 5,000,000 bees monthly from South America to reduce the high cost of living.

WORKERS PARTY AND Y. W. L. IN UNITED ACTION

To Expose Imperialist Hand Behind "Day"

By MAX SHACHTMAN

The American Communists are the only ones today engaged in militant opposition to the Mobilization Day maneuvers which are to take place today under the official guidance of the War Department of the United States.

The Workers Party of America and the Young Workers League, in a statement denouncing the "day," are calling upon the workers of America to refuse to have anything to do with capitalist mobilization days but to join, instead, in the mobilization of the workers to carry on the struggle against their exploiters.

Backed By Militarists.

For months the militarists of America have been engaged in a feverish activity to push the plan for Mobilization Day. An auxiliary committe, to aid the War Department in the demonstrations, has been formed, composed of such jingo capitalist organizations as the Daughters of the American Revolution, veterans of various imperialist wars, the American Legion, the infamous National Civic Federation, the Military Training Camps Association and similar anti-working class organizations.

As an example of the personel behind some of the organizations pushing this day for the preparation for the next capitalist profits war, the Military Training Camps Association can be taken as typical. On its national committee can be found such names as Richard T. Crane, chief of the anti-union Crane Co. in Chicago; Frank O. Lowden, of the Pullman Co., in which Morgan is a prominent director, Stanley Field, of the slave-driving Marshall Field Co., the National City Bank, the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank and others; Cyrus McCormick, chairman of the board of directors of the International Harvester Co. and director of the National City Bank; Julius Rosenwald, of Sears, Roebuck

(Continued on Page 2)

COMMUNIST MEETINGS BEING HELD ALL OVER COUNTRY ON 'THE DAY'

Meetings in militant opposition to capitalist Mobilization Day are being held today all over the country under the auspices of the Workers Party and the Young Workers League.

In Detroit, the meeting is being held in McCollester Hall, Cass and Forest Avenues, with Ella Reeve Bloor, Dr. Atkinson and Reverend Reed Moon as the speakers.

In Chicago, the following meetings will be held tonight.

Lawrence and Sawyer, auspices Irving Park branches; speakers: Peter Herd and others.

North Ave. and Washtenaw, auspices N. W. English and Maplewood Y. W. L.; speakers: Borgeson, Kjar and Earley.

Roosevelt and Homan, auspices W. S. (Rykov) Y. W. L.; speakers: J. Louis Engdahl and Abe Harris.

Wilton and Belmont, auspices N. S. Y. W. L.; speakers: Swabeck, Elsa Block, Gregory Maurer.

All workers are urged to attend to hear the Communist message.

New Jersey Mayor Announces Martial Law for Defense Day

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BERGENFIELD, N. J., Sept 11.—Martial law will prevail here on September 12, and imprisonment may be the fate of those who fail to comply with the mandatory conditions outlined by the military committe in charge of arrangements.

Dr. Charles B. Warren, mayor of Bergenfield, has plastered the entire town with a "mobilization order," which, he says, has received the approval of the War Department.

Proclamation Posted Everywhere.

It greets the passerby at every street corner, on every lamppost and on all billboards, and thus far the citizens have not openly demurred. The proclamation reads, in part, as follows:

"I hereby order every able-bodied citizen of Bergenfield, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years to report at the Borough Hall on Friday, September 12, at 7:15 p. m. sharp. Citizens above the age of forty-five years may participate if they desire, but their enrollment is not mandatory. Enrollment for National Defense Test Day entail no obligation of any sort."

In the Saturday Review, a newspaper edited by W. R. Jones, one of three members of the military committee in charge of Defense Test Day in Bergenfield, appears the following:

"During the progress of the demonstration from 7 to 9:30 p. m., September 12, Bergenfield will be placed un-

(Continued on Page 2.)

16 STRIKERS MURDERED BY HAWAII COPS

Workers Rebel Against U. S. Sugar Barons

By JOSEPH CATLIN
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Sept. 11.—Sixteen Filipino strikers and four policemen mark the dead today following a clash between the desperate sugar slaves and the uniformed tools of the sugar barons of Hawaii, at Hanepe, on the island of Kauai.

U. S. Lords Responsible.

The responsibility for this slaughter of the workers can be placed definitely on the shoulders of the American capitalists who control practically the entire market there and who have had the police instructed to shoot down every striking worker who approaches.

Distracted Filippino widows, their children following them, wander from the jails to the hospitals and from thence to the morgues in search of missing strikers, who have been forced into hiding with the exception of those occupying prison cells, hospital beds or death beds.

Police Slaughter Workers.

The clash was the result of the interference of the police in the peaceful attempts of the strikers to induce the scabbing workers to join them in the movement for better conditions and higher wages.

The Filipino sugar laborers are on the level of the worst paid and most ill-clothed workers in the world. American capital, in its furious march towards greater profits, has wrecked the lives of thousands of the workers.

The average plantation worker receives a starvation wage of one dollar for a twelve-hour day and is supposed to get a bonus if sugar goes above five per cent. The bonus is a fake, pure and simple, as was stated by George W. Wright, president of the United Workers of Hawaii, in his recent letter to the president of the Hawaiian sugar planters' association.

Hit Fake Bonus.

"Your are forcing them (the workers) to gamble with their unpaid quota of wages on the fluctuations in the price of sugar," he wrote. "They give their day's labor and you pay them half a day and bet the rest of the wages with yourself that the price of sugar stays down. If it does, you win, and keep their money; if it goes up, you lose the bet and pay them back

(Continued on Page 2.)

ILLINOIS LABOR DENOUNCES "DEFENSE TEST" AS WAR MOVE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 11.—The Illinois State Federation of Labor in session here today went on record against the Defense Day test program scheduled for tomorrow. In a resolution adopted by the federation it was set out that the Defense Test program "is a mobilization movement and not a test of national preparedness and that it will have tendencies toward war at a time when the world is greatly in need of peace."

The Loeb-Leopold Sentence

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

NATHAN Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, the confessed murderers of Robert Frank will not forfeit their lives on the gallows for one of the most cold-blooded crimes ever committed in America. Life imprisonment is the sentence. It is just what we expected.

The murderers belong to two of Chicago's most wealthy families. The victim was the young son of a millionaire. It was exceedingly regrettable from the bourgeois point of view that such a monstrous crime should be committed by two young men, who could not be charged with any tinge of radicalism. That fathers were "self-made men." The youthful murderers were educated in our best goose-step universities. It is true that Nathan Leopold, Jr. announced his disbelief in a personal God, but that is a permissible bourgeois intellectual luxury, and under ordinary circumstances, forgivable.

The capitalist rags published in Chicago are as vulgar, blatant and blood-thirsty as any in the United States. When they are not howling for the blood of some unfortunate criminal—victim of the rotten system of society in which we live,—they are crying for the blood of some foreign people, whose wealth their masters covet. It may be Mexico, Japan or China. When a poor man commits a murder these rags not alone call for the extreme penalty with gusto and vigor but like sewer rats they dig into the private affairs of the family of the criminal and spread juicy tidbits of scandal before their readers. They insist justice must have her bucket of blood, but justice must help business, which to a capitalist paper means advertising.

But in the Loeb-Leopold case, this procedure was not followed. It is true that the most conspicuous yellow journal among the prostitute press called for the extreme penalty with unusual mildness. But what is a neck more or less when balanced against the circulation ambitions of a Hearst sheet? The Tribune, that gory rag, showed remarkable calm. The parents of the families must be given consideration. The Loebs and Leopolds are wealthy. And they are honorable men. They advertise, in the capitalist press. Franks, the father of the murdered child is wealthy. He also must be considered. He is an honorable man and the sob sisters of capitalist journalism, must follow his movements and the progress of the deepening furrows on his cheek.

Both sides must be catered to. The side that is fighting to evade the gallows and that which wants its "eye for an eye."

The bloodthirsty capitalist papers found themselves in an unhappy situation. Here was high crime committed by young sons of millionaires. It is the usual thing to take poor murderer or murder suspect third degree confessions out of them and grease the ways to the gallows without any publicity, except a headline announcing the sentence and a sermon when the hanging takes place. Their glands are not examined in search of "mitigating circumstances;" their family history is not unearthed in order to prove that heredity may be partly responsible for the criminal's abnormality, his environment is not considered in an attempt to show that the murderer is sinned against as well as sinning. These things are not done because under our capitalist system it takes money to purchase "justice."

The state's attorney wanted the blood of the young slayers. That was his business. His career depends on the number of convictions he secures and on the number of executions that glut the gallows of Cook County as the result of his efforts. Of course he kills legally, therefore his part in taking life is approved by the law and is not heinous in the eyes of God because the Christian ethics and capitalist law work in perfect harmony.

Fortunately for the young slayers, their parents belong to that class in society which lives on the toil of others. Therefore they had plenty of money with which to purchase the expert opinion of alienists. How

(Continued on page 2)

FRENCH AND BELGIAN COLLECTORS QUIT AS DAWES' MAN GETS BUSY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PARIS, Sept. 11.—Carrying out the terms of the London reparations protocol, France and Belgium have ceased the collection of customs duties between occupied and unoccupied Germany, the foreign office announced this afternoon.

Collections ended at midnight. Under the new scheme all revenues are controlled under the Dawes plan.

MINERS OF ILLINOIS!

THE man who now holds office of president of your district organization, Frank Farrington, has announced that he is a candidate for re-election. William Sneed, a dummy candidate put up by Len Small's political machine to force Farrington to settle their quarrel over spoils, has withdrawn in favor of Farrington, showing that a united front of all the fakers is established.

All of you miners know something of the history of this so-called labor leader, Farrington. But it is a long one, and a crooked one, and has never been told in full. Probably much of the juiciest part of it will never be told. But the DAILY WORKER has been looking up the part of it which is on the records. We are going to tell the miners of Illinois some of the FACTS about Frank Farrington which should be widely known before the miners vote for their next president. A series of articles, written by Thomas J. O'Flaherty, and citing the records for verification of every statement made, will start soon in the DAILY WORKER.

This advance notice should serve to prepare every militant miner in Illinois, for a wide-spread distribution of these articles among the miners. We bring you the facts. You must distribute them.

WHEELER SEEKS THIRD, BUT NOT TOILERS' PARTY

Wouldn't Bar Access to Free Automobile Rides

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—A permanent third party, resembling the British Labor Party, is advocated by Burton K. Wheeler, progressive party candidate for vice-president and democratic senator from Montana.

The senator's statement of third party policy is given in an interview which is expected to arouse considerable comment in the labor movement.

Opposes Class Party.

On the one hand it throws the influence of La Follette's running mate towards the organization of an organic third party; on the other it specifically opposes a purely proletarian political movement of industrial workers and farmers only and advocates the admittance of bankers and manufacturers to the proposed party. The interview follows:

"Do I believe that a definite, organic third party movement will be the outcome of the present movement?"

"I do: it ought and it will," the senator declared.

"Are you in favor of a definite, organic third party developing out of this movement?" asked the interviewer then.

"Yes," replied Wheeler.

"Would you like to see it a labor party, say the American Labor Party," the interviewer continued.

"No," answered Wheeler; "You must remember that laborers constitute only a certain proportion of the people. What about the farmers?"

Shies at Communists.

"Well, of course," explained the interviewer; "I mean all workers—a party made up of industrial workers and farmers."

"Well, there is already a 'Workers' Party'—a Communist group," answered Wheeler. "We don't want to have anything to do with Communists. And as for industrial workers—I confess I do not like the use of that term either. There are the Industrial Workers of the World."

"Well, what about a party made up of all people who gain their living by useful work, whether of brain or brawn?" Wheeler was asked.

He Likes His Auto.

"I am less interested in the avocation of a man than in his ideas—what he believes in," answered Wheeler. "I would welcome into the party any man who subscribes to the aims and purposes of the party. I will tell you what I mean. In Connecticut I had placed at my disposal a beautiful, enclosed automobile. And the man who owned it also contributed liberally toward the campaign fund. Are we to debar him because he happens to have money—even though he is sufficiently with us to do these things. Take the British Labor Party. Aren't there many such in it. In the British Labor Party in Britain, you will find all possible sorts of people—workers, farmers, school teachers, bankers, manufacturers, etc. They are all of them agreed on one common ground—the aims and purposes of the party."

FARRINGTON ADMITS HIS FAILURES

(Continued from page 1)

the "reds." Altho Farrington did not mention the Communists, he put on his regular inciting to riot act. Farrington left the impression that a person who criticises the officials of a union are traitors to labor and stool pigeons of the employers. He pleaded with the delegates to throw out of the unions any person who criticises the union officials, and held up to them as models the Oddfellows, Redmen and other fraternal organizations which, "will not tolerate criticism of officers."

Intimation was given that he has serious apprehensions as to his re-election in the coming miners' elections. He admitted that, "hundreds and hundreds of miners and many mining camps are against me." But Farrington blamed it all on "stories circulated among the mining camps from outside the organization about me. In the light of these stories that have been circulated against me," said Farrington, glancing pointedly toward the press table, "many members of the miners' union feel that I am the most unworthy member in the miners' union. Every member of the miners' union seems to feel that he has the right to defame the officers and attack our policies, tear down our work, and eat at the vitals of the organization."

Call Farrington's Bluff.

Miners told the DAILY WORKER in commenting on this section of Farrington's speech that, "Farrington knows that there is provision in the United Mine Workers that a miner making false accusations can be brot to trial and punished. If he really believes that stuff why doesn't he prefer charges and clear these so-called 'scandalous statements' up."

"There are hundreds of mine workers in Illinois who believe I am unworthy of their trust," Farrington declared, "because somebody has told them that."

Farrington's speech was a classic confession of the failure of class collaboration. In my opinion, when printed in pamphlet form it will react tremendously against Farrington as a typical example of the chaos resulting from class collaboration. Farrington stands and surveys the wreck he is creating. As he talked it became apparent that under his leadership, the Illinois miners are drifting toward destruction. He pleaded for the Illinois coal operators. He sang his eternal song, "I have done what I could and that was nothing."

Under Farrington's Regime.

He told of terrific unemployment, of miners starving, of scab coal mines increasing in prestige. He neglected to point out the fundamental truth that the coal trust, controlled by, Wall Street, monopolizes both scab and union mines.

Farrington stood there, pointing first with pride to what the union was when he first took hold, painting the terrible picture of what he has made out of it, offering no solution, and brazenly admitting his impotence. Then he said, "It's all the fault of the reds."

UNITE AGAINST GOOSE-STEP DAY

(Continued from page 1)

Co., specialist in turning working girls into prostitutes by paying them coolie wages; Harry A. Wheeler, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; and numerous other notoriously labor-hating gentlemen.

Gompers Tacitly Consents.

It is with men of this type that Mathew Woll, the man whom Samuel Gompers is grooming for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor, in an unofficial statement, aligned himself in pushing Defense Day, as it is more soothingly entitled by Silent Cal Coolidge.

While the big labor leaders are tacitly giving their consent to this imperialist move, the rank and file of organized labor in the country are taking a stand against it. Resolutions of denunciation have been pased by various working class bodies, that of the Minneapolis Trades and Labor Assembly being typical. The Chicago Federation of Labor, in spite of the fact that the petty politicians added a little rider to the Communist resolution, also passed a molon condemning the proposition.

Big Biz Holds Reins.

In practically all the large and small city and town the arrangements for demonstrations are in the hands of business men, who are forcing their employes to participate in many instances as shown by the DAILY WORKER to be the case in the Boston Store, and local American Legionaires. Labor is largely conspicuous by its absence.

Even part of the American Legion is rebelling against what they can see as another attempt to prepare them for war—and some of the veterans are just about fed up on capitalist slaughter. In Indiana, the state convention of the Legion developed quite an opposition to participation of the organization in Defense Day. This is a healthy sign and shows that even the reactionaries in control of the Legion cannot forever keep down some rank and file sentiment against more imperialist wars.

Despite the fact that even the preachers have been rallied to the support of the demonstrations—altho some of them have condemned the day, not on the basis of its capitalist, imperialistic character, but because it will disturb their sweet pacifist ideals—the Workers Party and the Young Workers League are today holding meetings in practically every part of the country as the only political group actively engaged in counter-demonstrations to Mobilization Day. These meetings are the culmination of a number of meetings held all during the time since the plans for the day were announced. Active anti-military work will continue to be carried on by the Communists.

The Slogans to Issue Slogans.

The slogans of the Workers Party and the Young Workers League are:

Refuse to have anything to do with capitalist Mobilization Day!

Join in the workers' struggle against capitalism! Join with the Communists in the fight against the Dawes Plan, against imperialism, and for the rule of the workers thru a workers' and farmers' government!

Make Mobilization Day count against capitalism by giving your support to the Workers' Communist Party!

Join in the Communist mass meetings against Mobilization Day!

Vote for the Workers Party candidates, Foster and Gitlow, as a demonstration of your support of the workers, and farmers' government!

Join the Workers Party or the Young Workers League and be a member and become a fighter against capitalism and imperialist wars, and not a fighter for capitalism!

The Loeb-Leopold Sentence

(Continued from page 1)

much this expert opinion is worth can be seen from the fact that the experts always testified as those who paid them demanded. Crowe's alienists testified that there was nothing the matter with the slayers' glands. The defense alienists testified that their glands were defective forty different ways. But for the money behind the defense, their glands would have never been heard of.

They go to Joliet with a cynical grin. The authorities at the state penitentiary issue publicity to the effect that the young murderers must live on prison fare. Radicals who have experienced the inside of prison for political offenses will not take this announcement seriously. They will not take it any more seriously than, the delusion hugged by so many people, that "justice" is impartial to rich and poor alike. Pardons come to those who wait but they come quicker to those who can afford to buy them. And the Loeb-Leopold family have many more millions, with which to influence what is known as "public opinion" in favor of a pardon for their sons. The slaves who toil in the Leopold factories and in the mail-order sweat shop of Loeb, will continue to turn out the dollars that will be used to win freedom for the slayers.

But why so much fuss about two young killers for taking the life of a young parasite, while the slow torture by excessive toil of thousands of youthful boys and girls by the fathers of the slayers is tolerated nay, even approved? And does anybody outside of a radical ever question the source of the wealth which enabled the father of the murdered boy to offer thousands as a reward for the apprehension of the slayers? For the one life that the young scions of the millionaire capitalists took their fathers take thousands. But the lives of the thousands are taken legally, just as legally as Robert E. Crowe takes the lives he sends to the gallows. It is the law of capitalism and it is alright. And what is true of the Loeb-Leopold exploiters is true of the thousands of others who toil not and neither do they spin but who live in luxury while their slaves speed themselves to an early grave in the living hells of America.

This angle of the situation has not found expression in the columns of the capitalist press. Capitalist society is rotten to the core and this murder case has turned the Klieg light of publicity on it as it was never turned on before, not even in the cases of Harry K. Thaw, who murdered Stanford White or the Ward Baking company heir who killed the poor boy, Peters. Millionaires don't hang in this country. Workers do. But this is a millionaires' government.

Wonderful system is capitalism! To accumulate wealth is the great incentive. Therefore "radical" lawyers argue that wealth is a liability in court and not an asset; Catholic prosecuting attorneys forget the fifth commandment and froth at the mouth hollering for blood; alienists testify according to the wishes of their paymasters, capitalist newspapers treat the case in accordance with the interests of the advertising columns; and preachers when they are not detained in the divorce courts, make capital of out it in order to drum up more business for God.

Their incentive for prostituting themselves is to accumulate wealth and it is legal, therefore ethical.

The result of the Loeb-Leopold trial proves again that there is one law for the rich and another for the poor and to those who have eyes to see it proves much more.

It proves that capitalism is the capitalist system which takes from the workers the greater part of the product of their toil. A robber system, but it is a filthy thing, which poisons all the institutions that spring from it including courts, colleges, newspapers and churches.

The capitalist system must be destroyed.

20,000 GO ON STRIKE IN AUSTRIA

(Special to The Daily Worker)

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 11.—More than 20,000 workers in the iron, steel and electrical industries went on strike today following the refusal of the companies to increase their wages. A general strike is expected.

The social-democratic government of the country, which has thus far been acting as a tool of the League of Nations, is expected to act in the capacity of official strike-breaker.

NEW FASCISTI BLOW AT LABOR DAILY FOILED

Mussolini Ambassador at Washington Busy

A desperate effort by the Italian ambassador at Washington, Mussolini's representative in the United States, to suppress "Il Lavoratore," daily organ of the Italian Communists in this country, failed yesterday when three detectives, who had been sent from the federal department of Chicago left the headquarters of the newspaper after an unsuccessful attempt to trap Antonio Presi, editor of the "Il Lavoratore," into making statements on which a charge could be based.

The detectives carried a letter from the Italian ambassador at Washington to the Italian consul at Chicago, charging that "Il Lavoratore" has published facts which it is illegal to publish, and that the attacks which it has made on the Fascist government of Italy have been biased.

Urge "No Mercy."

The letter urges that the federal department show no mercy to the editors and managers of the Communist daily.

"Is it true that Il Lavoratore has made attacks on the Fascist government" one of the detectives demanded of Presi.

"Why don't you get after the capitalist newspapers who have described the Mussolini dictatorship as a 'blackhanded regime'?" answered Presi. "They seem to be in perfect agreement with us on that point."

Hangs Charge on Thin Thread.

The occasion for an investigation, which had been eargerly seized by the Fascist headquarters at Washington, was the attempt some weeks ago by the business manager of the paper, who was ignorant of the postal regulations, to conduct a lottery. The lottery was undertaken without the authorization of the Workers Party.

The refusal of postal authorities to permit the lottery, the Italian consul characterized as a "raid on the headquarters of the newspaper."

16 Sugar Strikers Die Under Bullets Fired by the Police

(Continued from Page 1.)

a part of the other dollar they have earned. . . . Your bonus system is a crooked, dirty game to rob your laborers."

Together with this dastardly plan goes the terrible housing conditions of the workers. In the majority of cases the laborers are housed in quarters packed like sardines, presenting an appearance very far from what any civilized community would permit.

Millions Made in Profits.

This has enabled thirty-two sugar plantation companies of the Hawaiian Islands, owning the California & Hawaiian Sugar Refining Corporation, which operates the Crocket sugar refinery at San Francisco, to have an extremely profitable season in 1923, notwithstanding some falling off of the island's output. The plantation companies sent approximately 385,000 tons of their raw sugar to the Crockett refinery.

It is significant to note that Governor Wallace H. Farrington, appointed by the United States to rule the islands, is himself a large sugar baron, and it is therefore not at all surprising to find that when he was in Washington, Farrington gave glowing reports of conditions in the Pacific slave pen. The profits of the sugar lords had been immeasurably increased by the importation of thousands of agricultural laborers from the Philippines.

It is these workers, of whom there are about 40,000 at present, who are revolting against their industrial slavery under American capitalism, who rule with the direct aid and consent of Washington officialdom, and who are being shot down for demanding that they be accorded the treatment of human beings and not of cattle.

New Jersey Mayor Announces Martial Law for Defense Day

(Continued from Page 1)

der martial law, and citizens who neglect to enroll and report at the stated time will be subject to being drafted unless they have a valid excuse for not attending."

Quotes Army Officer's Letter.

Mayor Warren says he had notified the War Department of his plans and received from H. J. Pice, assistant chief of staff, Second Corps Area Head quarters, Governor's Island, the following letter:

"Your plans are approved and are considered excellent. The corps commander wishes you success in carrying out same."

Bergenfield has 9,000 inhabitants and a large number of the "able bodied males" are commuters. The mobilization hour was fixed to give these commuters time to reach Bergenfield and do their duty as the military committee sees and has proclaimed it.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Once Miners' Offical; Also Baiter of Radicals; Now He Fights the Union

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, it should not be difficult for the workers to estimate the worth of some of their misleaders, by judging the records of a few of the radical baiters of the past.

Let us consider the case of Thomas Haggerty, formerly Executive Board Member of the United Mine Workers of America, representing District No. 2, Central Pennsylvania.

* * * *

In the days before the war Haggerty was one of the big guns of the Miners' Union. He was an active participant in all the international conventions. He was given important work to do in the union. Strike and organization activities in the key state of West Virginia were nearly always placed in his hands.

* * * *

But there came the day when Haggerty dropped out of the Miners' Union, just as former International President Tom L. Lewis dropped out, and became the agent of the New River, West Virginia, mine owners.

When Haggerty ceased his membership in the union, he went to West Virginia, like Lewis, but he became himself a non-union mine owner in that state. How long he had been in league with the "open shop" mine owners, before actually becoming an employer of scabs himself, is not known. But his actions since indicate that he was serving well the interests of the enemies of the miners' union, long before he ceased being an official of the coal diggers.

* * * *

Haggerty was a red baiter in his day, even before the workers and peasants rose to power in Soviet Russia, and made Bolshevism a living issue wherever labor gathers. He was a good friend of Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois Miners' Union, and John H. Walker, also a member of the Miners' Union, but now president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, who spend most of their time attacking the Communists. When Farrington and Walker give voice to their slanders against the militants in the labor movement, it is well to remember what happened to their friend, Haggerty.

* * * *

This Haggerty, who now runs the New Export Coal Company, on Campbell's Creek, in the Kanawha Field, in West Virginia, in the words of the United Mine Workers' Journal, "has been fighting the union in every possible manner," ever since he left it. To continue:

"Haggerty is now numbered among the most hard-boiled of the non-union operators of that hard-boiled field. In recent weeks he has evicted a number of his employes who have refused to accept a reduction of the 1917 wage scale. He even went so far as to evict his own nephew, Andrew Haggerty, and his family, because the latter refused to work at the reduced rates.

"Haggerty served notice of the reduction on all of his employes and notified them that unless they accepted the cut they would be required to move out of their houses."

* * * *

This document should be rather historic, the eviction notice of a former miners' union official to his present helpless, non-union slaves. A sample is therefore reproduced here in full as follows:

CINCO, West Virginia, July 16, 1924.

To A. T. CAMPBELL:—

You are hereby notified that the company desires that you report for work at the scale of wages heretofore posted by the company, on or before the 19th day of July, 1924, at 10 o'clock a. m. In the event you do not accept the employment here offered on or before the said 19th day of July, 1924, then, and in that event, you are hereby notified to vacate, at once, the premises now occupied by you. Your failure to vacate the premises in accordance with this notice will make it necessary for the company to take over the possession of same without further notice and without further or additional process.

Dated this, the 15th Day of July, 1924.

The New Export Coal Company,
THOMAS HAGGERTY,
General Manager and Hereunto duly authorized.

* * * *

The case of Thomas Haggerty is not exceptional. In the American labor movement it is rather the rule for reactionaries, who have won influence among the workers, especially in the trade unions, to sell that influence to the enemies of the workers.

Take a good look at the radical baiter of today and you will no doubt see in him tomorrow's open agent of the employers.

* * * *

It was T. V. O'Connor, former Gompers' lieutenant, and ex-president of the International Longshoremen's Union, as the DAILY WORKER pointed out yesterday, who led the so-called "labor delegation," including President John L. Lewis, of the Miners' Union, to the Labor Day luncheon at the White House, in Washington, to advance the candidacy of the strikebreaker president, Cal Coolidge. O'Connor is now head of the United States Shipping Board.

It is George L. Berry, still president of the International Printing Pressmen's Union, who gives a "labor" complexion to the Davis-Bryan ticket.

To this list might be added a large number of other similar examples. But our space is limited.

* * * *

In fact, the Coolidge, Davis and LaFollette candidacies have had no difficulty in rounding up support of officials of labor. This official labor support is united on one proposition—it is opposed 100 per cent to the Communists, to every militant program of progressive action in the labor movement.

* * * *

When some capitalist political candidate for office boasts of the support of "labor officials," and parades their hostility to the Communist candidates as an asset, let the workers and farmers remember Thomas Haggerty, the ex-official of the miners' union, evicting helpless, non-union coal diggers from his company-owned shacks along Campbell's Creek, in West Virginia.

The labor official who fights Communism, fights the best interests of the workers and the poor farmers. He is an enemy of the whole working class.

WORKER PAYS FOR HIS LAST RIDE ON FREIGHT TRAIN WITH HIS LIFE

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Sept. 11.—Plans were made today for the funeral at Jacksonville for Fred Walters, 27, coal miner, who died here two hours after his arms and legs were severed beneath the weight of a freight car on which he attempted to ride to South Bend.

UNCOVER CLOWN, NO ACTION AT LABOR MEETING

Peoria Sees Convention of the Near-Dead

By KARL REEVE
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 11.—Days pass, one after the other, at the convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, and still not a single action is taken to consider the vital problems which are confronting the workers at this time.

Most of an afternoon session was taken up by an address by Frank Farrington, reported in another column.

Since the convention opened, the reporters have been sitting at the press table gnawing their pencils, and talking about leaving if nothing happens. It is admitted that under the control of the Chicago labor officials, the convention is about the deadest ever convened.

An Ambitious "Red Baiter."

The only light touch afforded the delegates, weary with oratory, has been the ridiculous figure of William Quesse, of the flat janitors' union.

Quesse's spirit is willing but his brain is weak, and in his efforts at red baiting he has been so over-zealous that his fellow Smallites are now guarding him and whispering to him when he speaks on the "wrong" side of a motion, as he has several times done.

But Quesse at one point demonstrated his radicalism and militancy to the convention. Delegate George Slater, of the Garment Workers' Union, of Chicago, introduced a resolution that a committe of nine be appointed to investigate the character and record of Charles G. Dawes. Quesse, not realizing that Slater was against Dawes, arose and protested violently against having anything to do with Dawes.

Clown of Convention.

"I move the motion be tabled," Quesse shouted, and the delegates, who recognize Quesse as the official joke of the convention, roared with laughter.

An effort was made to side-track Quesse on the ground that no one had seconded his motion, but our old friend, Anton Johannsen, finally seconded it. Bob Fitchie, however, saved the day for Quesse by whispering into Quesse's ear what it was all about, whereat Quesse got up and said if Slater would agree to conduct a "real" investigation he would withdraw his motion to table. Slater's motion was unanimously passed.

Walker Is Peacemaker.

Delegate Corbishley moved that, since Sept. 12, is "Defense Day," the resolution protesting against capitalist militarism be made a special order of business and considered Thursday morning. Delegate Quesse, his fangs hungering for Communist blood, moved that the resolution be considered at once. Chairman Walker, however, ruled both motions out of order and adjourned the convention. "The time for adjournment is past," he declared.

The afternoon session was opened by the singing of "My Country 'Tis of Thee," with the delegates standing, after Victor Olander had suggested that, "This will have a good effect on everybody."

By unanimous consent of the convention, Guy Young, of the Herrin Miners' Local Union, was permitted to introduce a resolution asking the state federation to work for a state law to compel Illinois institutions to purchase only state mined coal.

Back-Slapping Begins.

The committee on officers' reports read what appeared to be a preliminary statement on John Walker's report. "We did not all agree on this report," Secretary Edwin R. Wright, of the committee, announced to the convention.

"But where we departed on one line we made it up on another line. Our motto has been the greatest good to the greatest number."

After this brief speech, the convention passed Wright's statement on behalf of the committee.

This statement consisted mainly of flowery praise of Walker and Olander, with indorsement of their stand in favor of Len Small and LaFollette, and a tirade against Norman Jones, democratic candidate for governor thrown in.

The statement of the committee on officers' reports "urges the affiliation of local unions into district councils and the strengthening of the craft unions," which is reported to be Walker's stand on amalgamation.

The Score Is Even.

The speech of Frank Farrington and the coming speech of Sid Mercer, both District 12, Illinois miners' officials, pays back the political debt Farrington incurred when Walker and Olander came into the Peoria convention of the Illinois miners last May and denounced the reds for Farrington.

HERESY HUNT PROCEEDS IN HIBBEN CASE

Liberal Army Officer Is Feared As "Red"

By ESTHER LOWELL
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The U. S. war department was directly charged with attempting to get Captain Paxton Hibben, 152nd Field Artillery, discredited and removed from the reserve corps of the army without itself appearing to be involved, when Col. John J. Bradley, counsel for Hibben, answered the reserve officers' board of inquiry which is investigating the case.

Col. Bradley filed a copy of the Boston Transcript issue in which Orrin Kennedy, former Associated Press writer, had made charges of Capt. Hibben's "radical activities." Col. Bradley had marked the Boston Transcript article and the six or eight reports, including the Burns' report, of the Army files which were almost verbatim duplicates.

Used As Tools.

The colonel charged that the inference was that the Army, the Military Intelligence Division, either through carelessness or intention, had allowed its files to be used to spread false accounts of Capt. Hibben's alleged "red activities," when he himself, Capt. Hibben, had not had access to the files nor opportunity to deny the charges. Col. Bradley stated that it was a reflection on the board of inquiry and on the reserve corps that the war department should thus attempt to remove Capt. Hibben "without the war department appearing in the matter."

Whitney Slammed.

Major Thomas Hefferman, judge advocate of the board, in cross-examining Capt. Hibben, after the officer had read his own statement answering the charges of the Army reports, continued to read from R. H. Whitney's book "Reds in America" on Capt. Hibben's work, especially with the Russian Red Cross Commission, altho Capt. Hibben had filed issues of the "New Republic" which exposed Whitney and destroyed his authoritativeness on radicals. Capt. Hibben characterized Whitney's (assumed) statements as "monstrous misstatements, doubled quoting," and "falsehoods" and "Mr. Whitney knew it," he added.

Capt. Hibben said that he had been persecuted and his personal effects subjected to repeated search, his mail even from his wife opened, and that "not one iota of evidence" had been found against him by such methods used against him while he was on duty with the army. He quoted from Woodrow Wilson and filed opinions of numerous national government figures with whose views he agreed and asked why, as a citizen, he was not allowed to hold those views when there were at the same time members of the government who held them.

Russian Views Come In.

The discredited Mr. Whitney's motive in writing what he had about Capt. Hibben was asked by the board, and Capt. Hibben replied that he headed the American Defense Society whose purpose was to "frighten people" about "radicals." Much of Whitney's article was from the report of the ousted and totally discredited head of the bureau of investigation, department of justice, William J. Burns. The persecution of Capt. Hibben for his views on the recognition of Soviet Russia and for his activities in Russian relief work is a hang-over from the "red" hysteria which Burns fostered while employed by the U. S. government in order that his private detective agency, which he was still secretly connected, might thrive by the patronage of scared capitalists.

The inquiry is being held in a dingy and deserted locker room of the Army building, 39 Whitehall street, with participants gathered informally about a long table. The display of gold braid and buttons that one might expect is missing, for not all of the reserve officers are in uniform. During the part of the proceedings in which Capt. Hibben's remarks upon American imperialism in Latin America were under discussion, one of the board of inquiry members suddenly shouted: "What good is the navy if you don't use it?"

Capt. Hibben declared that he believed that liberty should be reconstructed for each successive age. He said that the analysis of existing conditions" makes speakers seem radical. He said he thought we should "go forward with the growth of industrialism." He concluded his answer to the board by saying that he had one thing to leave his daughter, the record of "an honest man who was unafraid."

ARE YOU OBTAINING YOUR BUNDLE OF THE DAILY WORKER and CAMPAIGN LEAFLETS to distribute when you are out getting signatures to petitions?

BUTLER, CAL'S MANAGER, EMPLOYER OF SHERMAN SPIES IN WAR AGAINST LABOR, CLAIMS GOMPERS AS FRIEND

Butler is a friend of Gompers!

And by the same token William Morgan Butler, multi-millionaire textile mill owner of New England, now national campaign manager for "Silent Cal" Coolidge, thinks the strike-breaker president in the White House is going to get some labor votes this year.

The DAILY WORKER didn't get this information directly from the lips of Cal's manager himself. Butler is a busy man, surrounded by an army of office boys, stenographers and private secretaries, to shoo the undesirables away from the vicinity of his private sanctum in the Wrigley Chewing Gum Tower, on Michigan Boulevard.

Employs Anti-Labor Spies.

And Butler had no cause to desire to interview anyone from the DAILY WORKER, especially not since the publication of the series of articles showing Butler, Cal's manager, as an employer of spies and strike-breakers thru the "Sherman Service," a polite name for a private detective agency.

It was especially charged that Mr. Butler made extensive use of the "Sherman Service" in placing undercover men in his textile mills at Bedford, Mass.

The DAILY WORKER felt that the series wouldn't be complete without a statement from Mr. Butler himself. But it was only after several batallions of office boys had been overcome that a stone wall was encountered in the person of James C. White, of Boston, Mass., ultra-gallant and suave, the custodian of the inner conscience of Mr. Butler, himself.

If you expect these sleek owners of industry, by self-proclaimed divine right, in the New England states, to confess themselves enemies of labor, you are doomed to bitter disappointment. Nothing of the kind.

He Is a Friend of Gompers.

"Oh, Mr. Butler is for union labor," declared Mr. White to the DAILY WORKER. "Why, he is a personal friend of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor."

"Only the other day Mr. Butler said to me, 'Those men and women in the mills have a larger stake in my mills than I have. I can pull out tomorrow, and still have my interests, but they only have the mills, or starve. What else is there for them to do in Bedford where they have their homes?'

"And Mr. Butler keeps those mills running all the year around; and he pays the workers good wages."

Sticks at Minimum.

"What is the scale of wages in the mills," the reporter inquired.

"I don't know that, but we have a minimum wage in Massachusetts you know."

Pays Minimum Wage.

"Does Mr. Butler pay the 'minimum wages?'"

"He must do that."

"But he doesn't pay more."

"I don't know. Is your paper a La Follette paper?"

"No, our paper is a workers' paper. It is a Communist paper."

The polite, suave Mr. White turned a shade whiter in the course of the above explanation.

"Ah, I'll see what I can do to get you an interview with Mr. Butelr," he politely bowed himself out.

Reporter Waits In Vain.

The reporter waited a long time. But Mr. Butler did not leave "Room 246" that day.

Wobbly Freed in Kansas Criminal Syndicalism Case

(By Defense News Service.)

GREAT BEND, Kan., Sept. 11.—The district court of Rice county has just reversed the conviction of George B. Williams, I. W. W. organizer, sentenced several months ago to serve ten years in prison under the Kansas criminal syndicalism law. Williams was a delegate for the Agricultural Workers' Industrial Union of the I. W. W. during the 1923 drive of that union for new members in the harvest fields.

There was no evidence against him except the simple fact that he was a member of the I. W. W.

Attorney Charles L. Carroll of Great Bend handled the appeal in Williams' case.

You can get sample copies of the DAILY WORKER any time at the DAILY WORKER office.

NEGROES WISING UP ON GARVEY'S EXODUS SCHEME

"Flight from Egypt" No Solution for Problem

Try campaigning with the Workers Party in the South Side districts—the Negro districts of Chicago. It's there that all the difficulties with which the laws surround Communist campaigners are increased hundredfold by the curious difficulties of that most intricate of intricate problems—the Negro in the revolution.

The South Side comrades are doing that, of course. Already they have gathered almost enough signatures to put comrade Gordon Owens, a Negro who has been through the mill of the industrial system, and who has thought and written and lived revolution, on the ballot for representative from the first Congressional district. Already they have created a little whirlwind of revolutionary ardor on the South Side by distributing literature, by circulating pamphlets, by speaking to gatherings on street corners. They have had the help, in this work, of enthusiastic comrades from other branches.

It hasn't been easy. They have had to meet and conquer the illusion of Republicanism—the strange notion, which the Republican party has exploited, that just because it was the Republican party that happened to take the measure—the economically necessary war measure—of freeing the Negro slaves—the descendants of these slaves are bound forever to the political chariot of that party.

They have had to meet and conquer the fetish of Garveyism—that curious philosophy that tries to teach the Negroes not to fight for their rights in their own country, but to leave the fight and go to another country—where they would be at the mercy of French bullets and British warships, seeking booty for their imperialist governments.

But many Negroes of Chicago have come to see, since this campaign got into swing, that their only hope lies in staying right here, and fighting side by side with their white brothers the battle against industrial greed and exploitation. Already the South Side branch has increased its membership. Already hundreds of Negroes are thinking about this organization called the Workers Party.

Here's a fight worth fighting!

Contributions for Foster-Gitlow Fund Must Be Pepped Up

Have you sent in your campaign fund contributions? Get busy, there is not much time left and money is needed for the Foster-Gitlow campaign.

The following is a list of contributions collected by Frank Mitek, of Royalton, Ill., for the Workers Party Campaign Fund. Send in yours.

Wm. Patsch, $1.00; F. H. Edick, 50c; A. Simon, 50c; Wm. Trainis, 50c; M. Matsuk, 50c; A. Andejaitis, 50c; I. Bertuli, $1.00; J. Andejaitis, 50c; J. Jeksbosky, 50c; Frank Hynikuis, 50c; I. Valiuk, 50c; Frank Yaskis, 50c; J. Mayer, 50c; M. Grishka, 50c; M. Dobel, 25c; Wm. Manyik, 50c; J. Rauka, $1.00; S. Yesuk, 50c; C. Plusinik, 50c; F. Yesuk, 25c; J. Rauka, 25c; W. Gorlowskis, 50c; 43 B. Workers Party, $5.00; A. Wimevsky, 50c; J. Black, 50c; J. Sirkas, 25c; F. Kirsis, 25c; M. Sirkis, 50c; A. Skovron, 50c; A. Markels, 25c; J. Jenasiunis, 50c; P. Pearl, 50c; Jaskovsky, 50c; C. Brazinsky, 50c; J. Dvartesky, 50c; I. Mayaik, $1.00; Wm. Nusevige, $1.00; K. Kembel, $1.00; A. Brazinsky, 50c; S. Rusesky, $1.00; A. Sirkis, 50c.

Total, $26.25.

At It Again.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Sept. 11.—Postmaster F. K. Hahn confiscated literature calling on citizens to refuse to participate in Mobilization Day on September 12th. The literature which was mailed in San Francisco by E. Barkus was turned over to the federal authorities.

OFFERINGS OF THE NEXT ISSUE OF THE

The DAILY WORKER Magazine Section

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 13th

1. Three Principles of the Program of Action ... By William Z. Foster
2. The Confession of a Political Horse Thief ... By T. J. O'Flaherty
3. Foreign Policies of the British Labor Government ... By Karl Radek
4. How to be a Trade Union Reporter ... By Earl R. Browder
5. Letters from Moscow ... By Anna Porter
6. The New Culture ... By a Teacher
7. The British Left Wing ... By Alexander Bittelman

And Many Other Interesting Features

VERSE——PICTURES——ILLUSTRATIONS

ORDER NOW!

THE DAILY WORKER

1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

GITLOW TAKES LABOR'S FIGHT TO CONN., MASS.

Invades Coolidge's Own New England States

(Special to The Daily Worker)

STAMFORD, Conn., Sept. 11.—Benjamin Gitlow, Communist candidate for vice-president, invaded Cal Coolidge's own New England states here today with a stirring address to the workers of Stamford, in Casino Hall, here tonight.

Ambitious arrangements have been made for big meetings at Carpenters' Hall, in Bridgeport, for Friday night, and in the Central Labor Union Temple, at Springfield, Mass., Saturday night. Gitlow invades the New England state after the tremendous ovation he received at the Central Opera House meeting in New York City, Tuesday night.

Hits Coolidge and Davis.

"Coolidge and Davis are the candidates of the big capitalist interests of the country," said Gitlow. "They are both the candidates of Wall Street.

"Coolidge is the breaker of the strike of the Boston policemen. Davis is the former attorney for the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. Coolidge represents the republican party, the party that smashed the strike of the 400,000 railroad shop men against a wage cut. He is the representative of the party that is famous for the Daugherty injunction.

"Davis is the representative of the democratic party, the party that as the one in control of the government in 1919 smashed the strike of the steel workers against inhuman conditions in the steel mills of this country. Davis promises to work in the interest of peace, knowing that if he is elevated he will at the command of Wall Street as Morgan's right man lead the country into an imperialist war to protect the investments of American capitalists should their investments abroad be jeopardized.

Explains LaFollette.

"LaFollette is the candidate of the small capitalists in the United States. He is supported by Vanderlip, the retired multimillionaire and banker, and Spreckels, the sugar king. He is out to organize a reactionary bourgeoisie party. He is opposed to a Labor party. He is the man who was able to kill the Labor party movement. He did so by issuing a vicious attack against the June 17 convention at a time when it was drawing in support from farmers' and workers' organizations thruout the country who had definitely decided to break with the parties of Wall Street to organize a united front against the dominance of Wall Street in the government of the United States.

"LaFollette wants to bust the trusts but Roosevelt failed to do so and the Standard Oil Company is more powerful today in spite of its dissolution by the United States Supreme Court. LaFollette besides being against industrial progress, desires to replace the exploitation of the workers by the big capitalists with their exploitation by the small ones.

"LaFollette has been a member of the republican party for 45 years and has used his ability and intelligence and influence to fasten the rule of Wall Street upon the workers and farmers.

"Imperialists of the United States, the monopolists, the capitalists, will win if either Coolidge, Davis, or LaFollette is elected. The workers have nothing to gain from those candidates and the parties they represent.

States Stand of Communists.

"The Workers Party is the only party that serves the interest of the working class. Its candidates are the candidates pledged to support the workers.

"The Teapot Dome government will be destroyed and a Workers' Republic established if the Workers Party will gain the support of the workers and poor farmers of the country.

"Coolidge is now leading the country headlong into war. The Japanese Exclusion Act and the present conspiracy of the big powers in China led by the United States are laying the basis for a future conflict. The Dawes plan adds fuel to the flames and it but a means to help Morgan and Company enslave the workers of Germany.

Sees Industrial Crisis.

"An economic crisis is developing in this country. Capitalism can no longer assure a livelihood to millions of American workers and farmers. Unemployment is increasing. Discontent is growing. The Workers' Party claims that the workers will eventually free themselves only thru their organized power when they abolish capitalism and capitalists' rule and set up a government of Soviets in which the workers and poor farmers, the producers shall rule."

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

EFFICIENCY OF WORKERS ON RAILROADS ON THE INCREASE; CAN'T SAY SAME ABOUT WAGES

By LELAND OLDS
(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

Train and engine service employes on the railroads of the country are turning out more service per man hour of work than they did in pre-war years.

Between 1915 and 1923 the ton miles of freight produced per man hour of work contributed by road freight service employes increased 14 per cent. And the initiation of this increase in efficiency came under conditions established by governmental control.

These facts stand out in a study of railroad statistics since 1915 by the National Industrial Conference board, an employers' organization. Comparing the years 1919 to 1923 with the four preceding years the board shows not only more ton miles produced per hour worked by freight service employes but also more passenger miles per man hour worked by passenger service employes and more equated traffic units per man hour worked by the yard service employes and by the train and engine service employes as a whole.

Increase Due to 8-hour Day.

The average number of men in the train and engine service of Class 1 railroads in 1915-16 was 284,824. In 1923 it was 343,352 an increase of 21 per cent. But this increase in numbers was in part due to the establishment of the 8-hour day in 1917. From 1915 to 1923 the number of man hours of all train and service employes increased from 820,206,076 to 940,674,563 or by somewhat over 14 per cent. Over the same period the revenue ton miles carried increased by more than 21 per cent and the passenger miles by 13 per cent.

The number of employes in road freight service increased from 145,262 in the year 1915-16 to 163,292 in the year 1923, or by 12 per cent but the number of man hours worked in this branch of the service only increased 8 per cent. As a result the average man in the service was not only producing more ton miles per hour of work but actually more per year in spite of the reduction in hours. The ton miles per man hour for each year covered by the board's study are shown in the following table together with the index based on the year 1915-16 as 100 per cent.

	Ton miles per man hour	Relative to 1915-16
1915-16	849.6	100 %
1916	826.1	99
1917	839.6	100
1918	845.5	101
1919	902.4	107
1920	885.6	105
1921	946.8	113
1922	921.9	110
1923	945.6	114

Perhaps British Lions?

BEIRA, Portugal, Sept. 11.—Portuguese East African lions have carried off two women, and efforts to rescue them have been unsuccessful.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

ARRANGE BANQUET FOR FOSTER IN NEW YORK FOR SEPTEMBER 14TH

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—A banquet is being arranged for William Z. Foster, the steel strike leader and presidential candidate of the Workers Party, by the Noodle Trades Election Campaign Committee. The banquet will be held in Beethoven Hall, 210 East Fifth Street on Sunday evening, September 14. This affair will be attended solely by rank and file militant workers. The bosses, lawyers and millionaires, who have been trying to secure tickets for this unique affair, will be referred to Coolidge, Davis, and LaFollette. However, no workers will be turned down as long as there are seats to be had. Tickets are now on sale at Room 8, 208 East 12th St., and at the Freiheit, 153 East Broadway.

Join the Workers Party!

TIN LIZZIE KING SHIPS FORDSONS TO SOVIET LAND

Hughes Gets Fit as Ford Does Business

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. — King Henry of the auto kingdom has recognized Russia. At least he has shipped 900 Fordsons consigned to the soviet government at Novorossisk. This is the largest shipment of tractors event sent to Russia. All the tractors will be used for agriculture. According to a Detroit dispatch the soviet government now uses Fordson tractors almost exclusively.

U. S.-Russ Trade Grows

This shipment comes as a sidelight on the department of commerce report that the United States has shared in the direct trade with Russia in the period January-March 1924 to the extent of 12.8 per cent of Russia's imports and 3.8 per cent of her exports. This marks a gain over the same period last year in which the United States got only 3.8 per cent of Russia's import business and 5 per cent of her exports.

The extent to which the United States is being outstripped in this important world market is indicated by figures of the department which show the relative share of Germany, England and the United States in Russia trade in terms of the per cent enjoyed by each:

	Per Cent of Russian Exports	Per Cent of Russian Imports
Germany	23.4	31.7
England	8.2	29.8
United States	3.8	12.8

However, the United States in spite of Secy. Hughes is pushing up at the expense of the others. Russian imports in the first quarter of 1924 were valued at 37,873,000 gold rubles (a ruble, 50c). This marks an increase of more than 85 per cent over the same period in 1923. Such imports mean jobs for many workers.

Russia Able To Pay

Russia, according to the commerce department, is more than able to pay for these imports by the export of her products which were valued at 78,766,000 gold rubles. This is more than twice the value of the goods purchased abroad during the three months under consideration.

Russian Dramatists to Present Famous Revolutionary Play

Do you understand Russian? If you do, attend the performance given by the Society for Technical Aid to Soviet Russia this Sunday, Sept. 14th, at 7.30 p. m., at the Soviet School, 1902 W. Division St.

The Russian Dramatic Players at the head of which is the well-known Russian actor, Anatoly Pokatiloff, will present "The Convert," a drama in four acts, from the life of the Nihilists, by the famous Russian revolutionary writer, Stepniak-Kravchinsky.

Matsui U. S. Envoy?

TOKIO, Sept. 11.—Insistent, but unconfirmed reports here say that Baron Matsui, ex-foreign minister in the Japanese cabinet is the leading candidate to succeed M. Hanihara as ambassador to the United States.

DAVIS' CITY DOESN'T GET PROSPERITY

Uemployment Growing in Johnnie's Town

By ART SHIELDS
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 11.—The likeness of John W. Davis stares blandly down from all the banks and smarter places of merchandise in Clarksburg. The campaign picture is the most displayed piece of window dressing along Main and Pike Streets. The gem establishment of R. E. Gill, supplements the photo with a placard that recalls those "Jewelers to His Majesty" one finds along the business byways of London. Gill asks the public to buy his stuff because he has for many years been Jeweler to the Davis family.

Trade Is Wary.

But all the Davis pictures and all the Davis men have not succeeded in bringing trade to Clarksburg this summer. The county seat of Harrison county is going thru the worst period of depression the town has ever known, old timers say. Loyal democrats may flatten their noses at the panes in front of the picture of their favorite son but their dollars are not clinking in the tills behind the picture.

This much one can see by a walk thru the town but the extremity of the depression and the suffering of the workers can only be learned by longer investigation. Clarksburg depends on mining and on its nine glass factories. Of these five are completely shut down and the other four are running one, two, or three days a week with reduced personnel. Of the hundred coal mines in this territory two-thirds are shut down and the rest are working part-time. Less building is going on than in any other city in northern West Virginia.

Unemployment Hits Hard.

The unemployment crisis has Clarksburg by the throat. It is the vital, pressing issue facing the folks here. It is the issue John W. Davis had nothing to say about in his homecoming speech here last month.

Thousands of folks in his audience were out of work and suffering but Davis apparently didn't know anything about it. Of course as Noah Zinn, state chairman Farmer-Labor Party of West Virginia and a citizen of Clarksburg, said, "a lot of things happen in Clarksburg that one doesn't hear about in Locust Valley, Long Island. Davis doesn't visit his political residence often. And the folks he rubs shoulders with when he comes are not the out-of-work carpenters, glass workers and miners with their nests of little ones waiting to be fed."

Babbits Boost Johnnie.

The Rotary, Kiwanis and Lion luncheon clubs of Clarksburg are all boosting Davis.

Not so the folks who have no lunch and they are many.

RAWTHER BEASTLY OF THE DUKE, YOU KNOW! PRINCE TROTS DUCHESS

LONDON, Sept. 11. — Vacation court today refused the request of the Duchess of Westminster for an injunction restraining her husband from ejecting them from his home, Bourdon House, in Berkeley Square. The domestic troubles of the duke and duchess date back about a year.

The Duchess of Westminster is now visiting in New York. She has recently attended social affairs on Long Island where the Prince of Wales was a guest and danced with her.

ARE YOU?

WE'RE PARTIAL! We admit it!

We see ONLY the interests of one particular class—that class of people who work for a living. Every day we fight their battles—AND ONLY THEIRS.

Perhaps you are also prejudiced in this manner? And perhaps you try to convince your shop-mate—your friends—everyone—of your ideas?

GET THEIR SUBSCRIPTION TO THE DAILY WORKER!

The DAILY Can Do It Better!

RATES in Chicago: 3 months, $2.50; 6 months, $4.50; 12 months, $8.00.
" outside of Chicago: 3 months, $2.00; 6 months, $3.50; 12 months, $6.00.

I'm Partial!

My name .....

Address .....

City .....

State .....

Convince My Shop-Mate!

Send him the DAILY WORKER for ..... months.

His name .....

Address .....

City ..... State .....

UNIONS JOIN LABOR FIGHT UPON HEARST

Condemn Janus Policy of Bill Randolph

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 11.—Letters continue to come to the headquarters of the local typographical union which is conducting a strike against the Hearst sheet, the Post-Intelligencer, which show that the men are being backed by labor all over the state.

The unions are unanimous in condemning the action of the Hearst paper, published by a man who always yelps about his friendship to labor. The resolutions of solidarity come all parts of the state.

Labor With Strikers

Among those adopted recently are resolutions from the painters and decorators of Aberdeen, the Building Trades' Council of the same city, the carpenters and joiners of Hoquiam and numerous other unions in various cities and towns.

One member relates a visit to surrounding towns and reports that the circulation of the Post Intelligencer has fallen off considerably and that if it were not for fact that Hearst is throwing the full weight of his resources into breaking the backbone of the union, the local rag would long ago have surrendered.

Swat Hearst Piffle

The strikers' committee has been particularly strong in its denunciation of Hearst's labor day editorial in which he piously affirms his love for the workers and the unions and suggests that they launch a big movement for independent political action. Hearst's sudden solicitousness might ordinarily arouse the amazement of workers who have seen him in action, but for the knowledge that he has his good right eye on the presidency and is looking around for some wave to wash him to the shores of the Potomac.

The strikers are holding firmly and with the support of the state labor movement and even the newspapers of various towns, they are expected to bring Hearst to his knees in a short time. Hearst will not very long be able to get away with his two-faced policy of swatting the workers whenever he is affected by a demand for better wages or shorter workdays and praising the unions when it doesn't cost him anything.

Edwards to Speak at An Open Meeting of the Northside Branch

RUSSIA will be the subject JOHN EDWARDS will speak on at the regular meeting of the North Side English Branch, Workers Party, Monday Sept. 15, at Imperial Hall, 2409 Halsted St.

Edwards is a very fine speaker. He has just returned from Russia, where he spent five months studying conditions there.

Everybody is welcome.

NOTICE! CLEVELAND READERS!

The DAILY WORKER is sold daily at Schroeder's News Stand on E. Superior, opposite the Post Office.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

THE POWER COLUMN

TWICE every week—this column uncovers to your view the motive power behind the DAILY WORKER. Here for the interest and inspiration of every reader—and especially the DAILY WORKER agents and committees—are tried and proven suggestions and accomplishments to drive the DAILY WORKER to further conquests.

Here is POWER—the power of brain and effort of men and women of the working class who not only believe—but ACT!

We are in the midst of a political campaign. The workers are willing to listen to our views—to read our literature. Increasing unemployment is making more willing listeners and readers. If we gain nothing for the movement and for the DAILY WORKER at this time—RIGHT NOW—we will have missed a rare opportunity to serve the cause of Labor.

Is your local or your branch ORGANIZED to work most efficiently at this time? Unless it is you are not making most of today's opportunities.

Many locals and branches have already done so. For those who have not the following letters from LIVE locals should offer valuable suggestions:

* * *

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 18, 1924.

Dear Comrades:—I have withheld my report because I wanted to wait until the organization committee was organized. I submitted at this meeting the following plan of activity which was unanimously adopted:

1. To distribute old copies of the DAILY WORKER and other party publications to the workers outside factories and plants when leaving or going to work for the purpose of arousing their desire to buy and subscribe for same. This distribution of free literature should be followed up by the SALE of same and should be carried out in regular and systematic manner.

2. To be present at all workers Party and OTHER WORKING CLASS MEETINGS and sell our literature.

Places of distribution of free literature to begin with the flour mills, all railroad shops and manufactories of steel and machinery. The committee should meet at least once a week to work out plans to carry out its work in the most effective and efficient manner and submit a report on all its activities to the organization committee at its regular meetings. This applies to all sub-committees.

Speakers' Committee.—To see that a speaker from the organization committee is placed on the program of all Workers Party meetings, picnics, entertainments, etc., and, if possible, all other working class meetings. The speakers to speak on the subject of the DAILY WORKER and other party publications for the purpose of obtaining subscriptions and organization.

3. Speakers should visit all labor organizations for the same purpose.

Committee on Renewal of Subscriptions.—Every comrade on the organization committee will be assigned permanently to a certain portion of the city. It will be his duty to visit every house and build up the widest circulation of the DAILY WORKER in his district.

We had a very successful meeting and the comrades expressed a willingness to serve on the committee.

Yours fraternally, WALTER N. FRANK.

* * * *

At the same time that these suggestions reached the office a similar plan of reorganization arrived from St. Paul, Minn. And to prove without question that the livest locals are doing this generally the following mail brought us this letter from Worcester, Mass., with the plan applied TO BRANCHES.

Dear Comrades:—At the last meeting of the Scandinavian branch in this city the entire branch was organized on a committee basis, with five different committees.

As a result I have been relieved of the position of DAILY WORKER agent and the work has been transferred over to a committee of between 10 to 15 members. This committee is to work exclusively for the DAILY WORKER and NY TID. One member was appointed chairman and is held responsible. I suggest you send him 8 or 10 subscription books for branch agent's use.

Until the branch was organized on a committee basis all the work was put on a few comrades and under such conditions it was impossible to do any constructive work at all. But now it is different and you should have seen the spirit under which the different committees accepted their tasks. I was put on the propaganda committee as responsible chairman and I can guarantee that the Scandinavian branch is going to do some wonderful work this coming winter. If you think it is of any use you can publish this information in the DAILY WORKER, for the only way to avoid the petty quarrels and disorganization of the party units is to organize them on a COMMITTEE BASIS.

With comradely greetings, EVALD ANDERSON.

Application of such plans as these "brings home the bacon." The evident practical nature of them needs no comment.

If your local—your branch—has not done what Minneapolis, Worcester, St. Paul and others are doing—DO IT NOW!

Or perhaps you have further suggestions—better plans? Let other locals know it. What's good for your city is good for others—and it's POWER for the DAILY WORKER.

WALT CARMON, Circulation Manager.

STATE TICKET IS CHOSEN BY PARTY IN CONNECTICUT

Mackenzie Is Candidate for Governor

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 11.—Nomination papers have been in circulation in the important centers of Connecticut for the Communist national and state tickets. The state ticket is as follows: William Mackenzie, of Stamford, for governor; R. S. Kling of New Haven, for lieutenant-governor; John Gombos, Bridgeport, for comptroller; Mary Dworkin, Bridgeport, for secretary of state; and Charles Crasnitski, Waterbury, for treasurer. Mackenzie is a member of the Carpenters' union and has been a rebel for a good many years; Bob Kling is a young, live scrapper, driven from one machine shop after another because of his militancy, now driving a laundry truck; Gombos is an office worker; Mary Dworkin, a bookkeeper, and Crasnitski, a worker in a brass factory.

Electors Chosen.

A full slate of seven comrades has been placed in the field for presidential electors in support of the Communist candidates, Foster and Gitlow.

Connecticut does all it can to make it difficult for an independent ticket to appear on the field, it being necessary to get signatures of those whose names appeared on the last completed voting list, to the number of 1 per cent of the votes cast at the last election for similar offices. This is difficult in a state as small as Connecticut, 3,655 signatures being required. The active members of the Workers Party of Connecticut are busy at this task. We want to make sure that we get on the ballot. The co-operation of all sympathizers is solicited. If you have not seen any nomination petition in circulation, write for one to William Simons, 38 Howe St., R. 6, New Haven, Conn.

Just a few weeks remain for this important task. Do all you can now while there is still time to get a real working class ticket on the ballot.

The work is made easier thru the distribution of the party election program, 5,000 each having been ordered by the New Haven, Hartford, and Bridgeport locals.

Tell It to Morgan; Or to Rockefeller; Warmakers, Churchmen

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—It is the people who should decide on war, and there should be created an international organization of the governments for peace, says the National Catholic Welfare Conference, social action department, in an interpretation of the attitude of the American Catholic hierarchy as set forth in the pastoral letter of the bishops in 1919. The letter is quoted by the conference to prove that America should take part in a world-wide movement and organization to preserve good will and maintain justice.

As a basis for the safe participation and control by the people in this field of war-decision, the conference declares for "making the principles of charity and justice an essential part of education," so that human intelligence would be directed to finding new means of binding the peoples together in common purposes.

Machinists' Lodges Urging Retrenchment In Face of Crisis

(By Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Several lodges of the International Association of Machinists have proposed the abolition of their official monthly Journal, while others have suggested the establishing of a daily newspaper, as matters to be voted upon at the international convention which meets in Detroit on Sept. 15.

Editor Hewitt, commenting in the current Journal on these proposals, indicates that while the organization is far from prosperous condition in which its 350,000 members viewed it at the time of the last covention, in 1920, it is still strong enough to maintain its present headquarters organization, ready for the anticipated new era of expansion and development which more favorable industrial conditions may bring.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

WORKERS PARTY—LOCAL CHICAGO
Branch Meetings
Friday, September 12.
Scandinavian South Chicago, 641 E. 61st St.
Latvish Branch, 4359 Thomas St.
Czecho-Slovak Hanchett Park, Bohemian Free Thought School, Mansfield Ave. near Grand.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE.
LOCAL CHICAGO.
BRANCH MEETINGS.
Friday, Sept. 12.
Rosa Luxemburg Branch, 1910 West Roosevelt Road. English speaker
John Reed Branch, 1224 S. Albany Ave.
West Side Branch, 1322 Douglas Blvd. "Class in Communist Manifesto." Max Shachtchan.
Hersh Lekert Branch, 2413 Hirsch Blvd.
Karl Liebknecht Branch, 1559 N. Sedgwick St.

FIVE DAYS MORE!

All Districts Speeding Up Signature Drive.

How Many Will Be Over the Top by Sept. 15?

CONGRESSIONAL District 6 has made up its mind to get definitely in the running to put Comrade Frank Pellegrino, candidate for Congress, on the ballot, reports Comrade Rose Karsner, district campaign manager. Cicero comrades are out to get 600 signatures in this district. Comrades B. Mittleman and Sahkin of the Douglas Park Jewish, Spiegel of Douglas Park English, Martin Sabin and Ruth Levin of John Reed Y. W. L., and Crck of the Czecho-Slovak Cicero branch are the comrades in the Sixth District who are doing good work. The Douglas Park English branch will go out as a unit next Sunday to get signatures. Other branches in this and other districts would do well to emulate the branch in this respect. Then there will be no doubt that enuf signatures will be got. The comrades in this district propose to put on the movie, "Beauty and the Bolshevik." A few hundred signatures came in from this district.

Every Workers Party Candidate Must Go Over.

Districts are shooting in their signatures faster now, as can be seen from the figures below. Bill Edwards of the N. S. English branch has been doing good work in District Nine, Jack Johnstone, candidate. District 8 and 1, speed right along. Foster and Gitlow will be a dead cinch on the Illinois ballot with a little more work.

The score to date is as follows, with a few rounds to go:

District	Candidate	Signatures obtained	Signatures necessary
No. 1	Gordon Owens	625	1200
No. 4	Joseph Podkulski	310	1300
No. 5	Harry Epstein	215	1000
No. 6	Frank Pellegrino	650	3500
No. 7	Sam Hammersmark	1150	4000
No. 8	George Maurer	300	800
No. 9	Jack Johnstone	614	1200
Presidential Electors (Foster-Gitlow electors) and Illinois State signatures		1400	2000

The Party is making an effort to get the necessary signatures for all Workers Party candidates by September 15th. 500 signatures per day from now on are the number expected. We have no doubt that the Party and League members will make good. Let all members get out every evening. Let branches set a night or Sunday morning to get every member out with petitions. Push the work for Communism.

CONNORS, I. W. W. GETS THREE YEAR TERM IN FRISCO

Contractor Gets 5 Days on Same Charge

(By Defense News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Sept. 11.—Tom Connors, secretary of the California branch of the General Defense Committee, who was convicted on February 1 of "tampering with a juror," was brought before the prison board in San Quentin penitentiary a few days ago and his sentence was definitely fixed at three years.

Connor's conviction is declared to be without precedent. At his trial it was proven that he had never heard of the person whom he was accused of tampering with. The sole evidence was that a leaflet issued by the defense committee criticising the state authorities for unjust convictions under the California criminal syndicalism law fell into the hands of a juror serving in a syndicalism trial.

Different with Rich.

In the week after Connors' trial, a tractor was convicted on the same charge in an adjacent county. It was proven that not only had he talked with a juror, but had introduced the latter to a defendant who was on trial in the court where that juror was serving. But the contractor was sentenced only to five days in jail.

Connors' case is being appealed. Arguments on his appeal will be heard this month.

Letters From Our Readers

Mobilization Day.

To the DAILY WORKER: As an ex-officer of the army I do not agree with you that Sept. 12 is a "threat against other countries." Most if not all professional officers are awful dumbbells but even they are not so damn dumb that they think the U. S. military forces will be in better shape after Mobilization Day. No indeed—the white collar slaves and trousered hash-slingers will be just as useless on Sept. 13 as they were before the compulsory parade on their poor blistered feet. Sept. 12 from a military viewpoint will be a colossal joke to all soldiers—French, Japanese and Russian!

Good Thing for Bosses.

From a psychological viewpoint it is a good thing—for the boss. There's a widespread belief that there will never be another war. This folly is an obstacle of the Reds and a nuisance to the bosses, who want their slaves always ready to fight. Mobilization Day will help make people think of war as a reality.

Propaganda Not Preparedness.

Sept 12 is a big piece of propaganda—no more. It is not military preparedness. It is on the same plane as the army training in colleges and high schools. These kids don't learn enough to be good scab herders, since such a thug should know how to fire his gun and (if very bright) how to reload it. The kids don't. That expensive "training" is kept up, so that they'll think of war as "not bad." . . . I take leave to doubt its being an unmixed good—for the boss.

Don't Want to Go.

In 1920 the U. S. bandits made faces at Mexico. While the situation was acute our Aero Club held a luncheon. Of 32 members (all ex-officers) seventeen claimed we should under no circumstances invade Mexico; fifteen thought it necessary. The fifteen were not in the reserve, the seventeen were—and liable to call! I remember I was one of the seventeen!

GEO. McLAUGHLIN,
Ex-Reserve Military Aviator,
Lieutenant Air Service,
Military Aeronautics.

P. S.—I shall spend Defense Day preaching Bolshevism to some of Alex Howat's coal diggers.

Toller Not Communist.

To the Daily Worker:—In a recent issue of the DAILY WORKER, it was wrongly stated that Ernst Toller is a Communist. As this is not the first time the DAILY WORKER gives a picture of this gentleman, different from that drawn by history, as our German comrades have it in mind, allow me to say a few words about this matter.

Ernst Toller is a gifted dramatist and a pacifist like f. i. G. B. Shaw or Romain Rolland, but not a Communist.

The "Vossische Zeitung," a Berlin democratic newspaper, declared in July after the released Toller had attended a performance of his "Limping Man" for the first time, that "he intends to turn away completely from politics and devote himself to only one task, the liberation of his imprisoned comrades from Niederschoenefeld." This means the same as if one resolves never again to jump into the water and devote himself to the art of swimming.

The liberation of the political prisoners is a political task and has been a slogan of the C. P. of G. since several years, arising powerful every day in meeting, newspapers and even before the Reichstag. But Toller wants to solve this problem individually. Perhaps he suffered his term in prison also as an individual and not as a member of the rebellious class.

He certainly is a victim of class justice. But the role he played in spring 1919 was a very sad one. He declared the Bavarian Soviet Republic despite the protest of the communists, who foresaw the marching-in of the white guards. After the communists, summoned by Toller, joined the lost game, it was Toller who warned the shop-councils of the "terroristic communists." He demanded protest-demonstrations where an armed defense was necessary and lost sight of the real danger, while anxious watching the terrible communists. The climax of the tragedy arrived when he before the judges confessed he didn't stand for the "Dictatorship of Love."

Therefore got Toller away with 5 years, while Erich Muehsam, the anarchist received 15 years and the Communist Eugene Levine got nine bullets into his body which extinguished the noblest soul and the sharpest brain the German movement had to show after the death of Liebknecht and Luxemburg. But he died with a smile, exclaiming: "Long live the world revolution!"

Toller is today the darling of the liberals, social-democrats and saloon-revolutionists, besieged by photographers, reporters and autograph collectors. His plays, of course, are worth being attended; (if one does not expect communistic ideas) Toller the artist I shall let it pass. Toller the revolutionary leader is dead. Toller the Communist never existed.

Arthur Necker, Chicago.

Wants Leaflet on LaFollette.

To the DAILY WORKER: It seems to me that LaFollette has made himself the most vulnerable of all the three capitalist candidates. I think a leaflet should be gotten up by the Workers Party to show him up to the workers.

He has corralled the treacherous leaders of the workers but I do not think the rank and file support their leaders.

By showing up the hypocrisy of the so-called progressive movement a large mass of the workers would go over to the Workers Party.

LaFollette a Fraud.

The whole thing is just a colossal fraud intended to head off the workers from consolidating into a true workers party. "Divide and Conquer" has always been the greatest weapon that the ruling classes have used to keep the masses in subjection.

LaFollette has shown his cloven hoof most conspicuously.

He denounces the two old parties viciously for their treacheries to the "people." He says they have both been owned and controlled by big business for the past 25 years and that these same interests have controlled the governments of both parties. He says that they do not carry out any of the promises made in their platforms but use them merely to get votes. He says the trusts have been growing without hindrance from the government.

Never Did Anything Against Capitalism.

He says that during the late war the "profiteers" (which is a smooth word to cover thieving, robbing and general swindling) had a perfect riot of robbery and fraud against the treasury as has ever been known hitherto in history.

Now Mr. LaFollette has been a member of the Republican party ever since he has been in public life and all the offices he has ever held have been thru that party. All thru this long era of public corruption he has been a member of the government and knowing of all this corruption what has he done to stop it?

LaFollette Reforms Futile.

He boasts that during that time he has initiated some 30 reforms and that all but one have been "enacted into law."

He shows that the trusts have never paid any attention to any laws and have never been punished for their lawlessness.

So he admits that his "reforms" have absolutely proved futile in their purpose. But "reforms" are his hobby and he is still offering them as a remedy for monopoly in spite of this fact. This completely proves his utter insincerity in his present movement.—From a War Veteran, Soldiers' Home, California.

DAILY WORKER Draws Fire.

To the DAILY WORKER:—As expected, your articles on the unemployed situation of the coal miners has drawn fire. Your article of August 22, under the caption "Miners Live in Decrepit Old Houses," has drawn the fire from the superintendent of this mine in Riverton.

He called me up on the phone to tell me of how many lies were in that article, also that he is going to deny it in the capitalist press; of course, I am going to answer him in the capitalist press as far as they will let me do so.

It becomes necessary that you correct the article for many reasons. Where you say, "the houses are mere shells of one story with two small rooms" that is a misstatement, as the houses are four rooms and a summer kitchen and have only been erected six years. Also we have no back yard pumps; we draw our water with buckets. Please make these corrections. Also correct the statement where you say that the company was forced to give in to the use of the fuse; that is not correct, since we are still using the old ancient method of shooting shots, namely: squibs.

Yours for the Cause,
TOM PARRY,
Diverson, Ill.

Daily Worker Is Necessity.

To the DAILY WORKER—I have been reading your paper for a long time, but it does not come in my name. I keep in the background because I am an employe of Uncle Sam. Altho my job is far from fat-paid, it gives me at least a living and keeps me off the unemployment line in our land of prosperity.

I was a reader of the Labor News, in Detroit, a union weekly, and I thought they told the whole truth about labor conditions, but since I read your paper it has opened my eyes in a different direction.

We are so accustomed to fill our minds with one-sided news from the Detroit News, the Free Press, the Detroit Times and all the press on the other side that we have become lop-sided. Why, I even heard some American workers say that LaFollette is radical—just think of it! Therefore I think a paper of your caliber is not only good, but necessary.

Your vigilant daily is certainly an eye opener and a refreshing tonic every day. Keep up the good work. —L. J. L., Detroit, Mich.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Join the Workers Party!

Vote Communist This Time!

Placate Workers With Big Eats

By W. J. WHITE.

GIRARD, Ohio.—At Struthers, Ohio, just below Youngstown, is located the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., presided over by the open shopper, James Campbell, one of the foremost union baiters in the country. The company employs about 20,000 workers and every Labor Day it is the policy of this company to have a big affair in a park which they maintain for their employes. All day they serve to the workers of the company coffee, ice cream and sandwiches.

No speakers of the working class are ever allowed to place the issues of the workers before the slaves of this company. Coolidge or Davis would be a welcome visitor in this park and even the voice of Fighting Bob would be welcome sounding his purile platitudes in the ears of the workers, but that is as far as the question could go in the way of speech making.

They repeated this same game in the present Labor Day plans and the wage slaves were out in force at the park and regaled with the same old stuff about this being the greatest country on the globe. The boy scouts and the girl scouts and the camp fire girls marched and the workers were regaled with the same old bunk about the necessity of upholdindg the law and of patriotism.

There is method in the madness of Campbell and his kind for it was at this town a few years ago that the workers, driven to desperation by the miserably low wages and the inhuman conditions which they had to endure, were forced to take the law in to their own hands and bugs down the town and defy the authorities in order that their condition might be brought to the attention of the United States, hence the paternal care of Campbell and his fellow capitalists about the welfare of the wage slaves employed by the company. In all of this place during the Steel Strike that free speech and the rights that are supposed to be enjoyed by the people of this country were abrogated and denied by the servile tools of Campbell and his fellow capitalists.

Thousands of these same workers are working part time and other thousands are forced to walk the streets in search of that precious thing, a job, and perhaps Campbell and his ilk are thinking of that riot by the workers a few years ago. Some day they will not be able to keep the working class in subjection thru this method. Some day the worker is going to awake and take the industries and run them in the interest of the working class.

WORKERS' STRAW VOTE

THE DAILY WORKER,
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

The workers employed in the shop of.....

.....have taken a straw vote on the presidential candidates, and the vote was as follows:

WM. Z. FOSTER ..... votes; LaFOLLETTE ..... votes;
Workers Party — No Party

DAVIS ..... votes; COOLIDGE ..... votes.
Democratic Party — Republican Party

I certify that this report is correct:

Name: .....

Address: .....

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

MINERS' UNION ISSUES APPEAL FOR CHILDREN

No Education for Miners' Children this Fall

By ROSS WHITE
(Special to The Daily Worker)

SESSER, Ill., Sept. 11.—Winter is now close at hand and with the mines having been shut down here for almost a year the miners' families are not only hungry but they cannot send their children to school due to lack of clothing.

To meet this situation a committee has been appointed from each local union to get together and work out a plan for supplying clothing to the miners' children of Illinois. The children must not be deprived of an opportunity to attend school this term.

We make our appeal to the readers of the DAILY WORKER who have been following Karl Reeve's articles, depicting the destitution that exists in the mining towns because of the months and months of unemployment.

No Wages for Many Months.

You know, that the miners of Sesser have been out of work for many months and that some of them have had their salaries withheld for many months even while they were working. You know that the stores have been forced to shut down because they have given credit to the miners until they no longer could continue. You know that the miners have left for other parts of the country seeking employment but have returned after months of searching in vain. You know that the families of the miners are hungry. Now they are going to be clotheless and cold. We appeal to you for the children.

Send Packages to Ross White.

We need all kinds of clothing for children from the age of 6 and over. Send any clothing that can stand a little more wear and it is of no use to you to Ross White, Sesser, Ill.

Anything you will send will be appreciated by the miners' families of Sesser, Ill., for whom this appeal is being made.

Walk Off With Jewels.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Jewels valued at $150,000 were stolen by burglars from the mansion of J. S. Cosden, millionaire oil man, at Sands Point, Long Island, it was learned today. Cosden is sorry. Not so the burglars.

Communists Must Win the Majority in the Trade Unions

(In this, the concluding installment of Comrade Zinoviev's speech on the trade union question at the Fifth Congress of the Communist International, he deals with the latest developments in the Amsterdam International, forecasting the move which was later made of proposing a world congress which should unite the trade union movement. Zinoviev makes it clear that this stand for unity at all costs is far removed from any capitulation before the agents of capitalism; that unity of the trade unions is one of the most powerful weapons for the revolution, and he closes with the words: "We do not challenge you to an 'extreme right' course, as Comrade Bordiga said. But we challenge you to go forward against the bands of the bourgeois lackeys, to the winning of the majority of the trade unions, not only nationally but internationally.")

* * *

Something New in the English Trade Union Movement.

We are asked what there is new in England. The left wing is new, which is of course no left wing: that is only a delusion.

Think of it, comrades, England is the land with the most developed labor movement. Wynkoop was perfectly right when he said that the English labor movement was in this sense the decisive one. In England a new chapter is beginning in the labor movement. We do not know exactly where the mass Communist party in England is to come from—whether it is to come from the door of Stewart, MacManus, or thru an other door. And it is very possible, comrades, that the mass party will come thru another door perhaps, we must not forget that.

What is now happening in England is of no less historic importance than the events in other lands.

I have already said to the German comrades: "It is quite natural, that we all cling to our own party, our own organization. I also cling to Leningrad. Other comrades bring examples from Ludwigshafen, and Hamburg. Comrades, we have all a great respect for Ludwigshafen, Hamburg and Leningrad, but I must say openly that London also has its significance and a not less one than the above mentioned towns.

What is now happening in England is of world-wide historic importance If we are not blind we must see that. Otherwise we would have to found a German-Russian, or only a continental international. We found something quite different, however, we founded a world international, a world party. Therefore the German comrades may not say: "What business of ours are They are our business because they the Russian or the English unions?" form an important part of the present labor movement.

What is there new? This, that the Amsterdam international is beginning to fall to pieces, that in the English labor movement an extremely important process is beginning.

I have no illusions. I am convinced that the English lefts are not, of course, revolutionaries, that they are not better than the "left" German social democrats. But that they are there, is very important thing. We must understand that, otherwise we shall create no proletarian mass movement in England, and also not accomplish the proletarian revolution.

There is now a proposal being made to the Russian trade union movement. Now I ask, has this any special significance, if only for Russia and England? Yes, and that a very great one. The answer which the trade unions give here in Moscow, will have great consequences in London.

How ought we, then, to answer? We must answer on the standpoint of the whole international demands. There are people who think that we are guided here by some or other diplomatic considerations. That is nonsense. MacDonald and his guards are afraid as of the devil, of the English movement approaching us. If it says in the German memorandum that this approach will hinder us in the mobilizing of the masses against the experts' report, that is such holy innocence that I cannot even find any objections against it. Quite the contrary, Comrade Heckert. You who have collected so great a revolutionary experience in Saxony (amusement) should not expose such holy naivity. Do you really think that MacDonald or Grassman or the "Vorwarts" sincerely believe in an alliance between us? That will be such an alliance as will leave the gentlemen a blaze as only four or three cents.

On the contrary! The first question which we should put these gentlemen would be the following: "Now, gentlemen, what about the Experts Report? We will put them against the wall, we will force them to answer, we will tell them what the policy of the Amsterdam International in the question of the experts' report looks like. Their policy is the policy of 1914. It is only a continuation of the social betrayal with other means. It is the same betrayal of the masses as on August 4th, 1914. These gentlemen want to settle the question in secret. At the moment when we can put the question in international dimensions, they and not we, will be in a tight corner.

The Arguments of the German Comrades Are False.

All the arguments, then, of the German memorandum are artificial arguments.

One hindrance only remains in the way of our German comrades, that in the depths of their own party, they have not yet given Schlageterism. We must be grateful to the Amsterdam International, if only for this, that it give us the opportunity to put this question once more before the German party at a world conference. We have nothing more to say to those who believe that it is really a question of "marriage" with the Amsterdamers. If I wished for a "marriage" with them I would deserve to be put out of the door, at least that is what I would do to the man who was striving for such an alliance.

We wish to use our weapons as the class war demands. This demand at present is, that we try in direct ways, to preserve the unity of the trade union movement, and to win the majority in them. Formerly we hoped to win by a direct attack, but that was not successful. We must now ask ourselves the same question, but approach our end along a slower path. We must win at any price! He who is for the work in the trade unions of his own land, will be just as singsely for the unified policy in international questions. That is quite clear, that he who has stomach-ache in national affairs, will also have it in international ones. (Amusement: quite right!)

Only then does one write a memorandum on the "marriage." I believe that this episode must be absolutely wound up. I am not afraid that that will injure the German party. That is an illusion. The moment we really spread the watchword of unity in the trade unions among the masses, it will be much more difficult for the social democrats to carry on such a shameless fight against you, as they now do. If only the question can be put really internationally.

Only on one point do I agree with our German comrades, and that is that the question is not sufficiently prepared, and that one cannot get it thru the masses in a few weeks. There they are right. The matter really must be prepared. We may not create a unified front only from above. That we have already seen, we must carry on a campaign of preparation for months among the masses of the comments. The bourgeois with us in that, every difference disappears at once. It must certainly be decided that we prepare the ground among the masses, that we should organize propaganda on an international scale for unity in the unions, that we should now call meetings thruout the world, prepare the ground, and only then begin negotiations. There is no hurry. But we must not forget there is something new here. For that reason we are here, for that reason we are leaders, for that reason we wish to be leaders, to see things already in the germ. After two years every duffer will understand it. But the tendency is already clear, we must already undertake something new.

We will prepare the ground, we will go to the masses, with the watchword of unity. We have nothing to fear. Should our enemies try to attack, we will answer with a mass campaign for unity in the unions, in England, in Germany, in France, in the whole world.

In the memorandum it says the workers have a certain distrust for a maneuver-policy which gives no immediate results. That is not true. The workers are not children. They know that the class war is a war which needs strategy. The workers understand that very well. I give only a small example. Everyone who knows the psychology of the present-day Russian worker knows that our policy enjoys a popularity in no region so great as in the region of our foreign policy, that is just there where we are maneuvering against the enemy. The masses like that. They say to themselves: Our party can maneuver, it can trick the enemy and so defend our interests. I think it is also the same in Germany. It often happens that the leaders try to put their mistakes on to the masses. The masses very well understand our policy against the anti-revolutionary leaders of German social democracy.

We must reckon internationally with Schuhmacherism. Our policy must now consist in an energetic winding up of Schuhmacherism, not only in the German party but also in the whole international. There are still elements. The bourgeoisie is still strong. It will surely break to pieces but its present collapse must not be exaggerated in order not to create illustions. The matter is not so simple. The bourgeoisie is stronger than we, it will collapse, we shall defeat it if we make no stupid mistakes. But the greatest danger for the German party today is in undervaluing the strength of the bourgeoisie and of the social democrats. We understand the revolutionary feelings, the psychology of the German workers. Without them there would be no Communist International. But that is not enuf. We must be real disciples of Lenin, we must see the strength and the cunning of the German bourgeoisie and not undervalue them.

We will, enuf of Schuhmacherism, nationally and internationally. We are considering certain steps with regard to the Amsterdamers, but we will not say that must lead to "marriage" with them. We do not challenge you to an "extreme right" course, as comrade Bordiga said, But we challenge you to go forward against the bands of the bourgeois lackeys, to the winning of the majority in the trade unions, not only nationally, but also internationally. (Long and tempestuous applause.)

AUSTRALIAN BANK SYSTEM ON VERGE OF FALLING DOWN

Appeal Frantically to Govt. for Relief

By W. FRANCIS AHERN
(Staff Correspondent of The Fed. Press)

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Sept. 11.—Financially, Australia is nearer a serious crisis today than it has been since the big bank smash in 1893. An inflation boom started during the war, has resulted in the extension of paper credit to such an extent that private finance is no longer in a stable condition. Instead of a reserve of 33 per cent of real money against loans made by private banks, there is not even 20 per cent.

To re-establish its stability private finance would have to call in millions of credits. But this would cause economic chaos on a wholesale scale. To allow the present condition to continue means that the private banking system must gradually totter.

Ask Federal Aid.

To prevent a crash the private banks demand that the federal government in Australia shall see them thru their difficulties. A bill was rushed thru the federal parliament to allow the Commonwealth Bank owned by the nation, and founded by a previous Labor government to prop up the shaky edifice of the private banking system.

Today the total real currency in coin and bullion in Australia is $250,000,000 or about $50,000,000 more than before the war. Yet upon that additional $50,000,000 legal currency, the private financiers have issued a loan to the extent of $730,000,000. Against the total loans issued by the banks at the present time—$1,240,000,000—there is a legal reserve of only $250,000,000.

Finances Tottering.

Private finance in Australia is tottering because it is carrying a paper credit that is bankrupt to the extent of $600,000,000. It is to stabilize this huge amount, which is without real financial backing that the Australian federal government is throwing the government-owned bank behind the private banking system.

MAINE TEXTILE MILLS IDLE FOR ALL LAST YEAR

Coupon Clippers Having Usual Good Time

By F. W. LEIGHTON.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

BIDDLEFORD-SACO, Me., Sept. 11.—Textile mills in the twin cities of Biddleford and Saco on the Saco river, which normally employ up to 5,000 workers, have been practically idle the past year. The Saco-Lowell Textile Machinery shops are working 200 men in place of the normal 2,000.

The Pepperell Mfg. Co., keeping its cotton goods plant running only three days a week. Across the river the huge York Gingham mills run three days every two weeks.

Summer Resorts Dull.

The depression in New England is showing its effect on the Maine summer resorts. The luxurious places are doing pretty well because dividends and interest checks are keeping up in spite of the drop in wages and in employment. But the famous Old Orchard Beach, frequented in past years by thousands of workers and their families in vacation time, is finding business very dull this summer. Old Orchard depends on mill workers, office workers and the families with modest budgets.

Kennebunkport and Ogunquet beach, on the other hand, are entertaining the usual rich stream of idle coupon clippers.

Mill workers and their families are beginning to leave this section of Maine in considerable numbers.

Better Babies Move Weakens in Face of Numerous Suicides

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—"Isn't business bad!" The woman limped rheumatically into the office and thrust a Better Babies pamphlet into my hands. "It effects me, all right," she added taking a dime. "Everywhere it's dead and I can't make very much."

"Do you have to live on what you get this way?"

"Yes, and sometimes I can't stay at it more than an hour a day. But I got a cheap room and don't eat much. I don't know who publishes Better Babies."

Better Babies—the solicifor limping about—and every few days a man jumps off Brooklyn bridge and the divers go after his body—something to think about.

WHEELER LOOKS LONGINGLY BACK TO THE BOSTON TEA PARTY WHILE HILLQUIT APPEALS TO THE PEOPLE

By JACK STACHEL
(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, candidate for vice-president of the United States on the LaFollette ticket, spoke here at the historic Cooper Union Hall and urged the workers and farmers to help him and LaFollette bring back to this country the spirit of the Boston Tea Party, if they want to do away with the ills of the present day.

The senator made a typical old party speech and as to "progressivism" he was a poor rival to the erstwhile democrat, now deceased, Woodrow Wilson. His only claim to progressivism consisted in his promise to uphold the constitution, a document that was drawn up to represent the interests of the ruling class of 1776 and designed to safeguard for all time the interests of the property owners of the country. His further claim to progressivism lay in the fact that while he was in New England, bankers, merchants, business men in general came to him and promised their support.

Hillquit Is There.

The other speakers were Morris Hillquit, Sidney Hillman and Harriet Stanton Blatch.

Hillquit, the "Marxian socialist" urged the "people" to support La Follette and Wheeler as they represent a movement to "restore the government to the people," while Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America asked the tailors to vote for La Follette because he represented the people of the United States. Hillman did not mention that in the state of Wisconsin, child labor flourished and the most frequent weapon against organized labor in that state is the injunction.

Not a Word on F. L. P.

Thruout the entire meeting not a word was mentioned about the building of a farmer-labor party altho there were plenty of phrases designed to catch the farmer and labor vote.

There was nothing in the whole meeting that would make it difficult to believe that it was not a republican or democratic campaign meeting. The speakers, the majority of whom were rich lawyers, the phrases, the entire atmosphere, was bourgeois. Bankers, business men, lawyers and old women of the Peace Party occupied the platform seats and contributed to the collection, while in the audience a few bankrupt business men, insurance agents, who are also members of the Socialist Party, together with professional cheerers, tried to make as much noise as possible.

On the platform sat a former president of a socialist daily and his wife. While his wife seemed to enjoy it all one could easily see from the grimaces he made that the entire show was too much even for him. But he should not be discouraged. Time heals all wounds.

Fire Destroys Factory.

Fire destroyed the plant of the Whitaker Manufacturing Company, Maple avenue and Sixty-fifth street. Damage could not be estimated by the owners. The factory had been closed for three weeks. The cause of the blaze could not be ascertained.

EARN YOUR COMMUNIST MEMBERSHIP STAMP BY GETTING A NEW MEMBER FOR THE PARTY AND ANOTHER READER AND SUBSCRIBER TO THE DAILY WORKER.

Your Union Meeting

Second Friday, Sept. 12, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting.
237	Bakers and Confectioners, 3420 W. Roosevelt Road.
122	Blacksmiths, 64th and S. Ashland Ave.
429	Boiler Makers, 105th and Ave. M.
434	Boiler Makers, 55th and Halsted.
633	Boiler Makers, 6256 and Halsted.
2200	Building Trades Council, 180 W. Washington St.
14246	Carpenters' District Council, 505 S. State St.
9	Electricians, 2901 W. Monroe St.
1752	Electricians, 19 W. Adams St.
683	Engineers (Loc.), Madison and Sacramento.
845	Engineers, 190 W. Washington St.
674	Firemen and Enginemen, 5429 Wentworth Ave.
45	Fur Workers.
37117	Gardeners and Florists, Village Hall, Morton Grove.
21	Garment Workers, 175 W. Washington St., 6 p. m.
84	Glass Workers, Emily and Marshfield.
118	Hod Carriers, 1856 Sherman St., Evanston.
7	Janitors, 166 W. Washington St.
	Ladies' Garment Workers, Joint Board, 228 W. Van Buren St.
4	Lithographers, 439 S. Ashland Blvd.
113	Machinists, 312 S. Ashland Blvd.
199	Machinists, 113 S. Ashland Blvd.
273	Machinists, 55th and Halsted St.
746	Machinists, S. E. cor. Lexington & Western.
1225	Machinists, 534 Fl. and Halsted.
72	Metal Polishers, 119 E. Throop St.
427	Painters, School and Sheffield Ave.
73	Pattern Makers, 119 S. Throop St.
78	Photo Engravers, 314 W. Harrison St., 6:30 p. m.
310	Plasterers, 180 W. Washington St.
562	Plumbers, 5212 S. Halsted St.
412	Plumbers, 9251 S. Chicago Ave.
297	Railway Carmen, 39th and Halsted
308	Railway Carmen, Blue Island, Ill.
1307	Railway Carmen, 524 and Robey.
562	Railway Clerks, 9 S. Clinton St.
6467	Rope Splicers, 1508 Milwaukee Ave.
2	Teachers (Men), 315 Plymouth Ct., 7:30 p. m.
	Telegraphers, O. R. T. Cort Club, Atlantic Hotel.
111	Upholsterers, 159 N. State St.
201	Watchmen (Stock Yards), 3743 S. Halsted St., 8 p. m.

(Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

Weyler to Command Spaniards.

MADRID, Sept 11.—General Weyler who commanded the Spanish troops in Cuba before the United States walked off with it, will command the Spanish army hereafter. He is going to Morocco to wallop the tribesmen.

School Backwardness In Texas Is Charged To Absent Landlords

(By Federated Press.)

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Sept. 11.—Absentee landlordism was blamed for the backwardness of the schools in many Texas counties by Prof. W. L. Hughes of the A. & M. college in addressing the Northwest Texas Teachers' institute here.

He declared that there was plenty of money to be had for rural schools if the people would only increase their tax rate. "There is a certain black land county," he said, "which is one of the richest agricultural sections in the world, yet which has an average attendance at its rural schools of only ninety-five days per year."

Complain of Cold Flats.

Complaints of inadequately heated flats are pouring into the health department from various parts of the city, according to Herman N. Bundesen, city commissioner.

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
445 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1427 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

MURINE
For YOUR EYES
Night and Morning to keep them Clean, Clear and Healthy
Write for Free "Eye Care" or "Eye Beauty" Book
Murine Co., Dept. H. S., 9 E. Ohio St., Chicago

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A SMART AND PLEASING FROCK

4871. Figured silk and crepe are here combined. Cotton print could be used with voile. Also linen and ratine. The sleeve may be short as in the large view, or finished with the long bell portion.

The Pattern is cut in 3 Sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. An 18 year size requires 4¼ yards of 32 inch material, if made with short sleeves. For waist portion of contrasting material 1½ yard 32 or 40 inches wide will be required. If made with long sleeved 4¾ yards will be required 32 inches wide. The width of the skirt, at the foot is 1½ yard.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

A "SMART" JUMPER DRESS FOR THE GROWING GIRL

4878. One could use crepe, repp or gingham for the dress, and lawn or batiste for the guimpe which is separate from the dress. The sleeve may be in wrist or elbow length.

This Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size requires 1¾ yard of material 32 inches wide for the guimpe, and 2¼ yards for the dress. If made of one material dress and guimpe will require 3¾ yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: THE DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The patterns being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. Do not become impatient if your pattern is

Vote Communist This Time!

Join the Workers Party!

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year $3.50—6 months $2.00—3 months
By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year $4.50—6 months $2.50—3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE ..... Editors
MORITZ J. LOEB ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application

Enter the Liberals

In the interview with Burton K. Wheeler, published in the news columns of this issue, is disclosed that gentleman's conception of where the LaFollette movement is going. Only a short 60 days ago, Mr. Wheeler stated very emphatically, "I am still a democrat," at the moment he was accepting the LaFollette-Vanderlip invitation to run for vice-president. But it is very, very hard, indeed, to make a campaign against the democrats and republicans while still protesting one's pure democracy or republicanism, and the logic of the situation is driving Wheeler to talk of some sort of party organization for his hybrid movement.

The "party" that Wheeler forecasts is described in the name he suggests for it—Liberal Party. He wants bankers and manufacturers in a leading position in it, he doesn't want to have anything to do with Communists, and he confesses that he "does not like the term 'industrial workers.'" Inasmuch as he does not even mention what the program of such a party would be, it must be assumed that he proposes nothing further than the present proposals to put salve on the blisters of the working class and regulate Wall Street for the benefit of the small capitalists. And Wheeler shows a fine instinct for reality when, altho wishing to correl labor party sentiment by kind words for the British Labor Party, he picks out the name rather of the party of Lloyd George and Asquith. That is what he wants—the party of the middle class and small capitalists.

When Wheeler says he wants exactly what the British Labor Party now is, he confuses two things—the party and the Labor government. What he wants is a party that is the same as the British Labor government of Ramsay MacDonald. And that is so indistinguishable from the Liberal governments that preceded, except in its greater lack of courage, that Wheeler should be excused for confusing them. But the British Labor Party, because it is based upon the trade union movement, is something bigger and more important than the Labor government, with which it is already profoundly dissatisfied. As crude and compromising, as muddled and reformist, as the British Labor Party is, it cannot escape going forward to some sort of struggle with capitalism which is already developing a left wing leaning towards the Communists. Wheeler's proposed "liberal party" could not develop in that way, because it would be organically a petty bourgeois party.

Every day get a "snb" for the DAILY WORKER and a member for the Workers Party.

Public Benefactors

What would we do without the thieves who, by stealing the pretty jewels of our rulers, give us a look in upon how the "better classes" live, by making news of the loss of their toys. The public benefaction of such thievery is shown by a couple of jewel thefts, totalling a half million dollars, calling our attention to facts that would otherwise entirely have escaped our attention.

Here is the unfortunate Lady Montbatten, member of the party of the Prince of Wales on Long Island, who once had $250,000 worth of gems to hang upon her aristocratic body, but who has them no longer because a wicked thief in the night purloined them. Of course, the jewels lost were only an inconsiderable part of the wonderful collection of Lady Montbatten, who has to compete with several rivals in this field of extravagance.

And then there is the $250,000 pearl necklace of Mrs. Margaret Savell, which was stolen from that estimable lady while she was in Paris, not, the American Embassy hastens to inform a palpitating world, to get a divorce, but apparently to show off her jewels. Another $75,000 worth of jewels that were under the same pillow were not stolen, and we are given all sorts of delicious thrills by the wide field opened for conjecture as to who and why slipped his or her hand under the pillow of the wealthy and aristocratic lady, thereby making her jewels a matter for our entertainment as well as that of the small circle who could enjoy them on the lady's person.

We certainly are good providers for our rulers.

Mayor Dever finally called on the citizens of Chicago to observe defense day, rehaptised from mobilization Day. The mayor did not like to do it, but when backbones were handed out His Honor drew a string of spaghetti, and Mr. Dever is just a nice little tool of capitalism who does what he is told even tho it may rub his conscience the wrong way. Anyhow it was Dever's democratic political conscience rather than the original article that gagged at the defense day proposition. It is a Coolidge scheme and Cal will get much publicity out of it.

Albania Is Naive

"The Dawes plan is a tortuous, complicated, diabolical, infernal concoction of bubbles. It may secure a vice-presidential chair for its author, but it will produce very little in reparations." So spoke the representative of Albania in the League of Nations' Assembly.

But what Mr. Fannoli overlooked is, that the Dawes plan is only incidentally concerned with reparations, and it really does not matter a great deal to those responsible for it if reparations result or not. What the Dawes plan unquestionably does accomplish, is to establish the rule of J. Pierpont Morgan over Europe, and that is the vital point. Of course, that Dawes shall also become vice-president is desireable, and to squeeze a lot of wealth out of the German workers will be a thing to drive for. But when Morgan gets his fingers thoroly fixed upon the throat of Europe, he will find ways and means to carry that purpose out, in addition to the Dawes plan.

This Albanian representative, by the way, ought to soon find himself in the good graces of Morgan. For he seems to be a good Fascist dictator, with plenty of contempt for democracy a la Mussolini, and still more contempt for the workers and farmers. He still has to learn the lesson that "good taste" and the upholding of the pacifist illusions of the masses require that he speak not so bluntly in public, but that is a minor matter, and Morgan can teach him that and use him to good advantage for American imperialism.

Get Ready for War

With the supreme ruler of the United States, J. Pierpot Morgan, reaching out to extend his dominion over new millions of unruly subjects, preparations must be rushed for rejuvenating the war machine and increasing its capacity. For Morgan's plans mean war, and Morgan's wars must be fought by the workers and farmers of the United States. Hence the fact that today we are having "mobilization day." Get ready to protect Morgan's billions, is the message to the American workers of the agents of capitalism.

Against this message, which promises more death, destruction, suffering and slavery for the working class of the world, the Communist International calls upon the workers and farmers to mobilize their forces against the capitalist system. Morgan's wars will inevitably continue, at the price of working class blood and suffering, unless the workers overthrow Morgan's rule. Against the government of Morgan, the Communists call for a government of workers and farmers; against the imperialist wars, against fratricidal struggles between workers of various countries serving their capitalists, the Communists call for the civil war of the workers of the world against the world's capitalist class.

Going Up in Smoke

Norfolk, Virginia, will be the scene of a very interesting event when 218 wooden ships, built by the government during the war at a cost of $235,000,000, will be burned. A salvage company has an option on purchasing the ships for $262,000, provided the metal in the first ten ships destroyed shows the purchasers a fair profit on their investment. Oil to the value of $25,000 will be used in starting the bonfire. The bonfire material listed above is only a part of the big fleet that has been floating idly in the James river for several years.

Who said wars did not pay? It is true that approximately one hundred thousand young men, the flower of America's manhood, laid down their lives on the gory battlefield of France and Flanders, and several hundred thousand were gassed, wounded and broken in mind and body in order to protect the millions with which the House of Morgan backed up the allies in the late war. The only compensation these victims had was the satisfaction of dying for the glory and profit of Wall Street!

But what about the shipbuilding firms that turned out these wooden tubs at an enormous profit? What a pity the war did not last a few more years! Our patriotic capitalists were just beginning to learn how to do their tricks. But a bigger and better war is coming and a portion of the swollen profits made in building wooden ships that hesitate to go beyond their depth, airplanes that refuse to fly, and submarines that either fail to submerge or else once submerged stay in that condition—could not be more profitably invested than in "patriotic" movements to jazz up the cannon fodder for another war. Some of the dough made in turning out the wooden ships will pay the traveling expenses of the atavistic generals who will belch forth on "Defense Day" for preparedness.

By the time the last wooden ship is burned with the aid of whatever oil Albert B. Fall overlooked while he was Secretary of the Interior, our ship builders may be called upon to start turning out another flock of wooden ducks to carry our cannon fodder within shooting distance of the Japanese guns. And when the show is over, the navy department will be careful that the millionaire junkman who buys the cast-off navy does not get checked on his purchase. It's a grand and glorious system.

The Chicago Tribune wanted war with Mexico because the life of the land pirate, Mrs. Rosalie Evans, was lost in a battle between the gentle lady and persons unknown without the killers being brought to "justice." Now it is Mexico's turn to threaten war on the United States for the latter's failure to break the necks of Loeb and Leopold for a murder which calls for the death penalty. All up-to-date wars are fought for civilization, and how can civilization be preserved unless the old Mosaic law is lived up to?

Moving Towards the Russian Unions

By ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG.

THE Russian press carries a bit of news which, I believe, is of interest to the readers of the DAILY WORKER. The General Council of the British Trade Union Congress has sent a letter to Comrade Dogadov, Secretary of the All-Russian Council of Trade Unions inviting the council to send a fraternal delegate to the annual British Trade Union Congress which convenes September 1, at Hull. The letter points out that the only other fraternal delegates will be from the International Federation of Trade Unions (Amsterdam International), the Canadian Trade Union Congress and the American Federation of Labor. Albert Thomas, head of the International Labor Office of the League of Nations, we read in the letter, will also grace the occasion.

Considering the fact that the American and Canadian labor organizations have been officially exchanging fraternal delegates with the British Trade unions for over twenty years, the present invitation to the Russian unions singles out the Russian labor movement among the labor movements of all other countries.

Towards Unity.

Why this sudden desire of friendly relations with the Russian unions? Various international labor unions have during the past year or two, tried to enter into cordial relations with the respective Russian unions. We all remember the activities of Edo Fimmen last year in trying to bring about a rapprochmont between the Russian unions and Amsterdam. To show that he meant business, Fimmen brought the Russians to the international conference of transport workers. At the recent meeting of the Amsterdam International at Vienna, the British delegates were particularly active in championing the idea of opening negotiations with the Russian unions for their admission into the Amsterdam organization. The influence of the British unions in the international organization at the present time is consonsurate with the influence which the German unions used to exercise before the war. Forming with Fimmen's and other organizations a "left" block on the question of co-operating with the Russian unions, the British unions have made it the biggest issue in the international labor movement today. The invitation to the Russian unions to send a fraternal delegate to the Hull congress can be looked upon only in the light of this general campaign.

Conservatives Fear Militants.

Just as the various capitalist governments had to give up their policies of isolation and come to an agreement with the Soviets, so the conservative labor movements are realizing that they cannot effectively organize an international labor movement without the militant Russian unions as an integral part of it. In addition, and which has particularly brought about this feverish action, the revolutionary wings of the labor organizations are growing more menacing every day and the conservative leadership believes that it will neutralize the opposition by including the Russian unions in the international family of organized labor.

When the representatives of capitalist governments meet the delegates of the Soviet Government to negotiate a treaty for the resumption of diplomatic relations, one of the cardinal conditions usually presented to the Russians is a promise not to carry on revolutionary propaganda. That the urge toward a revolution is overpresent in each country on account of prevailing economic and political conditions, seems to escape the agents of the capitalist governments. Similarly the reactionary labor leaders who hope that the inclusion of the Russian unions will call off the attacks upon them forget, that the rank and file opposition is caused by the very nature of their leadership and the inherent weakness of the organization for which they are responsible.

Russians For Unity.

The Russian unions have long evinced a desire to aid in unifying the shattered forces of organized labor. To prove their sincerity they propose that all existing labor organizations shall be brought together at an international conclave where an all-inclusive labor international shall be built. Realizing the present attack of international capital upon labor the Russian unions propose an effective united front of all labor organizations. This project would not only add the Russian unions, but all revolutionary labor organizations included in the Red International of Labor Unions which are now independent of the Amsterdam International or its component organizations. The Russian unions which are the backbone of the R. I. L. U. will only then heed the invitities of the Amsterdamers when they are convinced that they are really interested in building a militant labor international. The first step in this direction is the calling of a constituent international congress to which all labor unions should be invited. The Russian unions are pledging themselves to belong to the international organization which will be formed there. The recent R. I. L. U. congress at Moscow has approved this policy. The Amsterdamers must now act.

Forced Towards Left.

Whatever the outcome of the present development in the international labor field, one thing is certain. Thanks to the growing urge from below, some of the Amsterdam leaders who have been struggling for some time between an orientation toward the A. F. of L. and the Russian unions, were forced toward the left. With a British trade-unionist, Purcell, president of the Amsterdam International, the invitation to the Russian unions to the Hull congress looks as though these Amsterdamers want to have the door between them and the Moscovites open.

It is well that that Peter Brady, the Tammany politician, sailed ignorant of this Russian invitation. If the A. F. of L. fraternal delegate to the British Trade Union Congress thought that he would have as co-fraternal delegate Tomsky, who, as president of the Russian unions, is a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party(member of the Central Executive Committee of the Soviet Government, etc., etc., he would have taken sea-sick before embarking. As it is, he might have a pleasant voyage and the exchange of delegates between the A. F. of L. and the British unions was never meant to be anything else but a junket for the lucky fellow who is sent across the water.

Vacationing With the Workers in Russia

By ANISE.

AUGUST, 1924. I am down in a health resort in the Caucasus Mountains. I am staying in a sanitarium that is run entirely for workers. Just now as I write the strains of a piano come upstairs from the social hall, indicating that they have been having a concert this evening. That is because it is raining; if it were fine weather they would be out as usual, strolling along the cliff in the moonlight or sitting on benches under the trees.

Perhaps the word "Caucasus" suggests wild bandit tribes and rough living to the average American. Just as a "sanitarium" suggests a place where sick folks lie in bed. I assure you that neither of these pictures is a true one. Imagine the mountains of Southern California turned into a summer resort. Assume that some one has discovered sulphur springs, and sparkling soda springs, and iron springs, and lakes of sulphur mud, tucked away in the various valleys, and has established there a host of hotels with open verandas, and vast stone bathing pavilions with many rooms and hundreds of attendants and scores of rest couches for use after the baths.

Musicians Entertain Patients.

If any have anything the matter with you, from rheumatism to heart trouble, there is a big clinic in the center of each town, and smaller clinics in all the sanitariums, where your doctor will tell you what kind of bath to take and what kind of water to drink for what ails you. If you disdain medical care, and have merely come for a rest, then there are mountains to climb, and band concerts in the various parks. Many of the best musicians of Moscow are down here, paying their way by their performances.

The best sanitariums in all these towns are run by the Sostrak, or Social Insurance, and are exclusively for workers. The lucky chance of a vacancy occurring at the last moment, together with my trade union card and my credentials as correspondent for the labor press of America, got me a room in one of these. It is in Essentuki, where they have 20 different mineral springs of varying strength and qualities, and hot mud baths that are supposed to be good for various ailments.

On Comradely Basis.

As soon as I got my paper entitling me to live at Sverdlova Sanitarium, a pleasant maid took me upstairs to my room. In an American hotel I suppose one would call her the chambermaid, since she makes my bed and washes the floors every day. But in the friendly atmosphere of Sverdlova, she had her arm around my waist before we got upstairs and was confiding to me that she was just a new Communist and was ever so glad to meet a comrade from America who could tell her all about the workers there. Did they have sanitariums like this? he wanted to know. Or was it only after the revolution that workers got sanitariums like this.

While I was taking off my things she brought me in a pile of linen. I gasped as I surveyed it. Not only sheets and bed spread and towel, and table cover, but also a set of underwear, a pair of sandals, a handkerchief! And a new tooth brush with a box of tooth powder. And a new cake of soap. Evidently the Social Insurance which is run by the Department of Labor, believes in setting certain standards for the workers who come from all parts of Russia.

I forgot to mention the bath cloak! The maid took me down to a bath house where I received a hot bath and a shampoo. Then I was presented with the garment which was to be my most comfortable friend for the rainy weather which unfortunately followed, a large cloak of warm fuzzy material which you wear around the park after taking your various baths.

The dinner bell rang and we all trooped into the dining room, which consisted of a large veranda supported by great white pillars and closed on three sides. On the fourth it looks out towards avenues of tall trees, under which you stroll after lunch or sit on benches. There were seven long tables in the dining veranda, each with a different diet. A doctor who was a specialist on diets arranged the menus; and if you needed more milk or more acid or more or less of anything in your system, you just sat at the proper table and got it.

There are 225 guests at Sverdlov, which is only one of a dozen or more sanitariums opened this summer by the Sostrak. It must not be supposed that these are all the sanitariums for workers. There are many more. Five minutes walk away is a special sanitarium owned by the Oil Workers of Baku; they have quite a number of sanitariums and vacation houses in the mountains. For Baku has a hellish climate in summer, and these are the nearest mountains; so large numbers of them come here for their vacations.

Unions Have Sanitariums.

Other large unions have also their own sanitariums and vacation houses; for the first two night of my stay in Essentuki I stopped at the House of the Trade Union of Educational Workers, the union I belong to. We have half a dozen vacation houses of our own around Russia, and also have all the other organizations. But the Sostrak is the special organization of the Department of Labor, which care for the health of workers. It is supported by special taxes on employers. (I myself, for instance, have to pay into it an amount equal to 16 per cent of my interpreter's salary because I am to that extent an employer of labor). But it is administered by the Department of Labor in close cooperation with the unions.

Next to me at table sits a worker from Siberia. He makes felt boots. He is here because of rheumatism acquired by standing many weeks in water during the civil war, and by keeping on standing in water during his work. I asked him why he didn't wear rubber boots if the place where he worked was so wet. He laughed.

Hope for Better Technique.

"On Monday when they heat up," he said, "it is so full of steam that you can't see the next worker six feet away. If you changed your underwear fifty times it would be always wet. It drips into any boots you have and makes pools of water inside. Some day we'll get better technical methods, and the factory will be improved; but Russia is still poor; we haven't the money for proper technique."

But he told me that he liked making boots, in spite of the fact that he knew it gave him rheumatism. "I changed once to typographical work," he said, "but I didn't like it. I wanted to get back to the felt boot factory."

"Who'll Do The Dirty Work?"

"Why?" I asked. He looked a trifle nonplused for a moment and then replied that he supposed it was because he was skilled at the job. . . . There you have the answer to a lot of fake questions that have been raised for generations about the possibility of socialistic work. "Who will do the dirty work, or the mechanical work, or the dangerous work?" . . . Conditions in Russia are certainly not ideal yet, and thousands of men are doing disagreeable and unhealthy jobs on account of mere lack of money for improvements. But, once you take the social stigma away from manual labor, and give the worker a pride in his group and his organization, and men will not only do work, but will LIKE it, even work that is dirty and unhealthy and dangerous. They will like it because they are skilled in it and because they get out of it the sense of achievement.

Across the table is a tall, handsome man in white trousers and white Russian blouse. He tells me his "specialty" is making window glass. He announces it just as a doctor might say that his specialty was nose and throat, or internal diseases. He wants to know all about me, because I am an American.

Only Learning.

"Don't you find it very lonesome in Russia?" he says. "We are so much less cultured than you Americans." . . I gasp at this and ask him what he means. . . "We have only just learned to read and write," he tells me. "The things that come after this, science and technique, and art and how to behave courteously to each other—we have hardly begun with those things yet. But your American workers—they know how to read and write since they were children. They must be much more civilized than we are. You must find us very dull and crude."

Quite the contrary is the case, I assure him. For what good is reading and writing if you spend it reading comic supplements and trashy stories. The average Russian worker, I tell him, has a much wider interest in the world at large than the average American.

Russia "Not So Bad."

"Politically, I suppose that is true," he says, "because of our Revolution. But in all other things you must be ahead". . . . the I think of the excellent symphony music which the workers in Sverdlov Sanitarium enjoy both in the park and in their own "veranda concerts," and assure him that even in other things Russia is not so uncultured as he thinks.

Four or five women and girls sit also near at hand at our table. A stenographer from the Ural Metal Trust at Ekaterinburg, a textile worker from near Moscow, and an office employee from the War Industrials Organization. Two of them have their babies with them; babies seem to be less in the way in Russia than in any other country.

Not only have the workers the best sanitariums, with the possible exception of a few for the highest officials of the Republic (the sanitariums of the Central Committee, which are just as good), but when we go for our baths in the various establishments, we have it all arranged beforehand by the sanitarium. The private people are standing in line and waiting sometimes for hours if there are many of them. But the organized people in the sanitariums, and that means among others the workers, go in without waiting.

We have free tickets to parks and concerts that all the private people have to pay for, it is part of the sanitarium privilege. Also everything, from food and beds to doctors' treatment, is all free in the Sostrak Sanitariums. There is no cashier's desk where you can pay for anything; I myself will have to settle my bills when I get back to Moscow, and no one down here seems to be authorized to accept money. The workers are sent on a slip of paper from the Sostrak, and that entitles them to everything the land provides.

A Trip to Kislovodsk.

Yesterday I went for an all-day excursion to Kislogodsk, another summer resort higher up in the mountains. We got a worker from the Donetz Basin took me, as he knew the ropes. After we had climbed over half a dozen hills and visited several friends, we came upon another sanitarium, the highest up in the mountains.

We noticed that it, too, belonged to Sostrak. So we walked in and showed our little tickets and were told to stay to dinner. We had vegetable soup with perozhniks (a frech baked roll with meat filling) and tomato and cucumber salad, and chicken and ice cream. It was so good that we decided to come back for supper! And we did, on the strength of that little Sostrak ticket.

We discussed how pleasant it would be when Communism really arrived, to be able to go anywhere just on one little card, and drop in for meals at the places you liked, not merely in a dozen Sostrak vacation houses, but in all the vacation houses in the world. . . . The average American won't understand this at all. He will say that he can go now to any hotel and pick out his meal, on the strength of a ticket but of a dollar bill. So he can, but there's a world of difference in the feeling. All the difference between strangers—and home. We didn't know anybody in that new Sostrak place, but they felt and acted like comrades. If we could go to places all over the world and feel like that . . . . .

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

(Continued from page 1.)

GOVERNOR GENERAL LEONARD WOOD of the Philippines is coming to the United States to testify before congress on Philippine affairs. Before he makes his report to congress, however, the general will have a nice chat with the Wall Street boys whose servant he was in the islands. Is it surprising that Wall Street is interested in "defense tests" and "mobilization days"? In case some other capitalist nations make an attempt to grab the islands or the natives make a vigorous fight for freedom from the United States imperialist government, Wall Street will need help to hold the place.

SO Charles Evans Hughes does not spend all his time plotting against Soviet Russia! According to Dr. Sun Yat Sen, Hughes and Ramsay MacDonald, avowed capitalist and alleged socialist are putting up a united front to get their puppets in control of that rich country. There are rich pickings in China for the capitalist robbers of the world, but unfortunately for them they are so greedy that they cannot agree among themselves. Japan wants all there is to be looted out of China for her own capitalists, therefore the Hughes' game is meeting with obstacles. Soviet Russia alone is taking a friendly interest in the welfare of China.

YALE UNIVERSITY
NOV 22 1924
LIBRARY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

5 CENTS Including Saturday Magazine Section. On all other days, Three Cents per Copy.

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. II. No. 150. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 5 Cents

FAT MEN MARCH ON GOOSE-STEP DAY

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THE NEW YORK NATION fears the spread of German militarism among us. But why German militarism? Why not American militarism? However we are not concerned with the cock-eyed conception of militarism entertained by the political ostriches who edit that weekly collection of illusions, but with the confident hope expressed in the same paragraph of the Sept. 10 issue, which contains the above, that the moment Robert Marion LaFollette takes office, Mars will park his sword in William Jennings Bryan's monkey house and international bankers will hire a private collecting agency to go after their debtors, instead of having the job performed by the United States army.

* * *

SUCH innocence might be excusable on the part of one of H. G. Wells's Martian visitors, but it would be straining credulity to believe that a man who has spent so many years among the editorial dens of Wall Street should be so naive as to expect the capitalist system to surrender its weapons the moment LaFollette takes office. It might be remarked that Mr. Villard was equally hopeful, when the great moutebank, Woodrow Wilson, moved into the White House and the Wisconsin senator never expressed so many harsh things about the moneypower as did the late Woodrow, and it must be confessed that Mr. Wilson delivered his indictment in flawless English.

* * *

MR. VILLARD'S scribe might be excused for his optimism, but we can hardly excuse him for the following comment on the actions of the British Labor government in view of what I have read in the London Daily Herald. This is what the Nation says: ". . . we believe that active militarist measures would reserve the minute he took office and that we should have in Washington the same spirit of amity in the conduct of our international affairs which so glorifies the ministry of Ramsay MacDonald and thru him has brot about a temporary solution of the political mess of Europe.". This matter has already been dealt with editorially in the DAILY WORKER and the reason for this added comment is the following news item in the London Daily Herald of August 16:

* * *

"SEVERE fighting and more bombing of natives by the Royal Air Forces is reported by the Central News from Transjordania." Apparently bombing natives does not stain the pacifist purity of Ramsay MacDonald in the eyes of American liberals. What counts in his favor is, that he was more or less successful recently in maintaining peace between the big capitalists powers, so that they could go on peacefully exploiting the wage slaves in their own countries, the unfortunate peoples of their colonial empires and the countries that are nominally independent but cannot sneeze until the rulers of the capitalist powers take snuff. Ramsay MacDonald bombs Indian villages because the British imperialists must keep these people in subjection. Refusal on the part of MacDonald to protect their interests

(Continued on page 6)

"No Cut," Say Textile Workers.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 12.—A determined fight against attempts to cut wages in the textile industry is the outgrowth of a discussion in the convention of the United Textile Workers of America here, on the attempted cut of 10 per cent in wages by Rhode Island and North Carolina mills and affecting 10,000 workers. The executive board of the union was instructed to draw up resolutions expressing the union's flat refusal to accept the cut.

CHARGE LABOR HEADS SOUGHT TO SHIELD KLAN

Urged Withdrawal of Anti-KKK Resolution

By KARL REEVE

(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 12.—Delegates Robert Speedie and Eli Lucas, of the Dowell Miners' Local Union, charged that Victor Olander and Frank Farrington asked them in the Jefferson hotel to withdraw the anti-Klan resolution introduced by the Dowell miners at the 42nd convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor here.

Victor Olander, secretary of the state federation, had them called to the Jefferson hotel, the two Dowell miner delegates told the DAILY WORKER, and asked them if they would not withdraw the Klan resolution.

They abruptly refused. Olander did not definitely state to them the reason for his request, they declare, after he found that they were hostile to withdrawing the resolution denouncing the Klan.

Farrington Shows Klan Letter.

"We met Farrington at the Jefferson hotel headquarters of the Federation," Lucas told the DAILY WORKER. "Farrington showed us a letter, evidently written by a Klansman, which declared Farrington would lose thousands of votes among the miners if he did not oppose our anti-Klan resolution."

Farrington then asked the Dowell delegates if they would object to the withdrawal of the resolution, if he had the resolution withdrawn they declared. They replied they certainly would. It is significant that Farrington was absent from the convention when the Klan resolution condemning the Klan passed.

The substitute motion resolution brought in by the resolutions committee, which passed the convention with less than 20 dissenting votes, while it condemned the Klan by name, left out that part of the Dowell resolution which "demands that the Federation of Labor promote a series of anti-Klan mass meetings and demonstrations thru-out the state."

The resolution condemning the Klan, which is the same as was adopted by the American Federation of La-

(Continued on page 6)

NEW JERSEY LABOR CONDEMNS THE KLAN; FIGHTS INJUNCTIONS

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 12.—The New Jersey Federation of Labor convention went on record condemning the Ku Klux Klan. This action follows soon after the Klan's effort to turn Labor Day at Trenton into a Klan demonstration day. The Klan's plans were opposed by local labor and the parade mustered only a few thousand—marching outside the city limits—instead of the 100,000 boastfully forecasted.

The convention also got behind a legislative program for the passage of a law legalizing peaceful picketing. President Arthur A. Quinn, in urging the legislative program, emphasized that the injunction against picketing had become the employers' accepted method of breaking strikes.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY SUGAR WORKERS ARRESTED IN HAWAII; STRIKERS MAY TAKE NEW ACTION

By JOSEPH CATLIN

(Special to The Daily Worker)

HONOLULU, Sept. 12.—One hundred and thirty Filipinos, alleged to have been involved in Tuesday's massacre of the striking sugar workers by the police, in which 16 strikers and 4 policemen were killed, were brought into Kauai County court under a strong guard for a preliminary hearing.

The authorities, who are under the thumb of the American sugar interests, are preparing to file charges of murder, kidnaping and rioting against the suspects.

A full report has been sent to Governor General Wood of the Philippine Islands by the labor commissioner, and action is awaited.

In the meantime the situation, tho quiet, is filled with tense expectations from both sides, and it is predicted that if summary action is taken against the workers, a more serious outbreak of the striking laborers will be brought about.

WORLD'S GREATEST AIR MURDER WEAPON BEING PREPARED FOR THE U. S.

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 12.—The world's greatest airplane, the Zeppelin Z R-3, built for the United States Navy set out today for her third and most sever trial flight.

The route lay over the Alps to Zurich and other Swiss towns. The Z R-3 sets off on her Trans-Atlantic flight to Lakehurst, N. J., about Sept. 23.

The air boat will probably be the most powerful weapon in the next world war for which the capitalist nations with the United States in the forefront, are now pushing towards for the purpose of redividing the resources and markets of the globe.

EXPOSE U. S. AS OPPRESSOR OF CHINESE LABOR

Workers Face National, International Foes

Editor's Note.—In view of the world interest that centers in the latest internal eruptions within the Chinese nation, the DAILY WORKER herewith publishes correspondence received from "Rosta," the Russian Official Telegraph Agency, giving the declarations of the Chinese delegation to the Fifth World Congress of the Communist International, on their national problem. It is as follows:

* * *

(By Rosta)

MOSCOW (By Mail).—The following is a declaration submitted by the Chinese delegation to the recent Fifth World Congress of the Third (Communist) International, in connection with the discussion of the national question:

"China is, under the yoke of world imperialists, on the one hand, and home militarists, on the other," the declaration sets forth.

"Inasmuch as the militarists are subordinated to the influence of one imperialistic power or the other, they are agents of the latter. Therefore, the national movement ought to be

(Continued on Page 6.)

FEDERATION OF LABOR IN WASH. LOVES BOSSES

Short Wants Chamber of Commerce Affiliation

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

SEATTLE Wash., Sept. 12.—W. J. Miller, delegate to the State Federation of Labor convention from the Central Labor Council here, scored the policy of class collaboration laid down in that gathering, in his report which was accepted by the council.

Miller Fights Short.

"If the policy laid down by President Short, of the State Federation of Labor, is a sound one," said Miller in his report, "then I move that our unions should be disbanded, and all strike committees be abouished.

"We must now be in that state of bliss where the lion and the lamb lie down together. But Brother Short has not vouchsafed any information to show that struggle has been relegated to the garbage dump."

The president of the state federation has been instrumental in cementing close relations between the chamber of Commerce of Olympia, Washington, and the central labor body there.

Auxiliary For Bosses.

These two bodies exchange delegates, with the result that the labor movement is made into a sort of labor auxiliary to the Chamber of Commerce.

Short declared to the convention that it was his purpose to establish the same kind of relations with the business interests thruout the state.

NO AID FOR JOBLESS FROM STATE LABOR

Olander-Walker Clique Worry Only About Len

By KARL REEVE

(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 12.—A small left wing stubbornly fought black reaction in the convention of the state federation of labor, and altho 107 votes in favor of the recognition of Soviet Russia were mustered, the resolution condemning the Defense Day was sugar-coated with flowery Fourth of July patriotism, Len Small and La Follette were indorsed after Walker had cut off left wing criticism by ruling Tom Parry of Divernon out of order.

Amalgamation Was Voted Down.

The report of the resolutions committee on the unemployment resolutions is typical of the attitude of Walker, Olander and their reactionary brethren toward the vital problems which now confront Illinois labor.

The report, which was passed by the convention, while it "thinks the unemployment problem should receive the attention of Illinois labor, we recommend the subject matter to the executive board with instructions to give such co-operation and helpfulness as their means and time will permit."

None of the specific recommendations of the unemployment resolutions were acted on by the convention.

The class conscious pleas of Henry Corbishley, of the Ziegler miners, and Thomas Parry, of the Divernon miners, for a helping hand to Soviet Russia and the time of International working class solidarity were instrumental in mustering the comparatively large vote for recognition of Soviet Russia.

The resolutions committee recommend non-concurrance with the resolution offered by the Dowell miners' local, "calling upon the American Federation of Labor to extend all efforts in order that the United States government shall give full and complete recognition to Soviet Russia."

Johannsen Stands Up.

Anton Johannsen, of the Chicago carpenters, and secretary of the resolutions committee, asked to be excused as favoring the recognition of Soviet Russia, being the only member of the committee who dissented with the non-concurrance recommendation.

Parry flayed the reactionaries in the convention who pretend to be progressive.

"Even the Ramsay MacDonald government of England recognized Soviet Russia," Parry declared, "and you sit here and vote against this resolution and try to call yourselves progressive. I am in favor of the recognition of Soviet Russia because it is a real working class government. In the name of international solidarity of the workers, we should favor the recognition of Russia.

"Capitalism, especially under the Dawes plan, is organized internationally, and it is up to the workers to or

(Continued on Page 2)

OLANDER AND WALKER CONFESS THEY FAVORED THE WARS OF BIG EMPLOYERS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 12.—In line with the reactionary policy of President John H. Walker and his companions who control the convention, Secretary Victor Olander declared to the delegates to the Illinois Federation of Labor that, "I regret that the resolution condemning Mobilization Day was introduced."

Olander made a lengthy, patriotic harrangue declaring against mobilization day mainly because it was promoted by Cal Coolidge and Dawes. He made it very clear, however, that he is in favor of preparedness and also of capitalistic wars.

He bragged about the patriotism he had shown in the last capitalistic war and praised the soldiers who fought to establish American capitalism in Europe.

Olander was followed by Walker, who violently denied he was either a pacifist or was against preparedness. His remarks, altho his speech was incoherent and he rambled from the Bisbee deportation to a tirade on the I. W. W. and the detective agencies, were in the same patriotic vein as those of Olander.

"The trade union movement believes in preparedness against attack," said Olander. He described what made a good soldier, and declared that one of the reasons the workers demand better working conditions in the mines and factories is to serve the country better in times of war.

Corbishley, as introducer of the original Defense Day resolution, denied he is a paid agent of the Soviet government, as Lieutenant Burt, who spoke for Defense Day charged. "However," he added, "I am favorable to that form of government because it is a work ers' and farmers' government."

SECOND MEETING OF FOSTER AND GITLOW CONCLAVE TOMORROW

Comrade J. Costrell, secretary of the left wing committee of the Workmen's Circle, will report the progress of the Foster-Gitlow campaign in New York, to the conference of working class organizations that will be held Sunday, Sept. 14, at 10 a. m., at 3322 Douglas Park Boulevard.

Comrade Murtz will report the activities of the Chicago conference on the battle front here. All labor organizations are urgently invited.

CHANG TSO-LIN ADVANCING UPON CITY OF PEKING

Japs Refuse Permission to Use Trains

(By Cable to The Daily Worker)

PEKING, Sept. 12.—All available cars and locomotives have been seized by the government in a desperate move to check the advance of Gen. Chang Tso-lin upon Peking.

Newspapers have been suspended or placed under strict censorship and a number of editors are in jail.

Japs to Refuse Railway Use.

It is reliably reported that Japan will refuse the request of Gen. Chang Tso-lin, who has declared war against Wu Pei Fu to use the South Manchurian railway for the movement of the troops. Troops are, however, arriving in Mukden from both Kirin to the north and Antung in the southwest. The Mukden regiments are ready to move on short notice.

The indications are that a major engagement will take place about 100 miles from Shanghai, at Tai Lake. Wounded arriving in Kashing, on the Shanghai railway, are being brought from Huchow and Kienping. Both towns are in Chekiang province.

Vigilance of foreign governments, whose embassy troops are under the central control of the American officer Loomis, has not ceased. They are looking after property interests very well, as usual.

Spain Faces Civil War by Losses in Moroccan Venture

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Spain is face to face with civil war today as a result of continued reverses on the Moroccan battlefront, according to dispatches received by the Daily Telegraph.

The correspondent declares the latest appeal to the nation from General Primo Rivera to stand by the directory was occasioned by a division in the ranks of the army.

The older generals damand a continuation of the Moroccan war to a bitter finish, while regimental officers and enlisted men are demanding withdrawal from Africa, adding:

"Whichever way the directory decides, it is bound to result in civil war all over Spain."

Tough Black Jack Quits.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The Army is saying "good-bye" today to General John J. Pershing.

General Pershing will be succeeded by Maj. John L. Hines, who has been deputy chief of staff for several years.

BIGGEST FEATURE OF CHICAGO CELEBRATION IS BURNING OF 50 COPIES OF DAILY WORKER

"Defense Day—Selz Good Shoes!" "Defense Day—Balaban and Katz, movie producers!" "Defense Day!"

Fat men marching behind the Selz banner. Fat men marching behind the Balaban and Katz flag.

A straggling line of the Boston Department Store employes. Another straggling line of Post Office clerks. A couple of drunks bringing up the rear.

The Kaiser Had 'Em.

An enterprising corporal with tight breeches shouts: "Hey, youse—trow yer chests out, will ya?" Laughter from the standard-bearers.

From the side-lines: "Aw, c'mon, let's beat it! C'mon, Madge, we gotta get those shoes before the sale is over."

No trouble at all to get room to stand. No trouble getting to the very front. A couple of policemen handling the whole gang that had turned to witness the much-heralded Chicago celebration of Defense Day.

Only Stores Flaunt Flags.

I counted rows and rows of houses without flags. One block, two blocks—almost three—but there's a small dingy one in a store window. Almost all of the flags aresin store windows—but they are never placed in such a way as to obscure the window displays.

Here comes the parade making its way to the grandstand at Michigan Boulevard, the entrance to Grant Park. A few stragglers start up a faint cheer. It dies out quickly. Here's the flag. A few hats go off—not many.

Now comes the grand body of the parade.

An Opportunity to Advertise.

Defense Day—it pays to advertise. Here they come—the Illinois Merchants Trust company. Here they come—the department of constabulary, the Carson, Pirie, Scott company, the Marshall Field company, the Peoples' Gas, Light and Coke company, the Commonwealth Edison company, the Selz-Schwab Shoe company, the Federal Reserve bank, the Continental and Commercial bank, the Chicago State bank, the Boston Store, the John V. Farwell company, the Davis Dry Goods company, Mandel Bros., the Kiwanis Club, Dartmouth College, the Chicago Board of Trade, Balaban and Katz.

And here's "The Fair," another department store, purveyors of "Happy Home" dresses and shirts—prison-made goods.

Refreshments!

The "crowd" goes quickly to the grounds where the Daughters of the American Revolution, beloved of Cal Coolidge, distribute bottles of milk and sandwiches. It is the only spontaneous move that the crowd has made so far. But the enthusiasm wears off quickly, for the milk is warm and curdled and the bread is stale and the ham and beef are fatty.

"Let's make Defense Day twice as big next year. And let's make every day in the year a Defense Day."

Colonel Thomas, chief of staff of the 65th Cavalry division, is shouting hoarsly from a fake-shift grandstand in the park. The platform is almost empty, and the "crowd" apathetic, even when the speaker tries to form and obedient to orders, throw bull into the folds of an imaginary red flag.

The band tries the Star Spangled Banner, then. A few falsetto voices take it up.

Burn the "DAILY WORKER."

"Is that all?" the crowd begins to ask.

That's all, except for a little bonfire that the khakied officers have started.

It's the DAILY WORKER—the only working class newspaper in the United States, fifty copies of it, going up in smoke. News of the sugar strike in Hawaii. News of fight of the Work-

(Continued on Page 2.)

MILITANT MINER FLAYS BOOSTERS OF LAFOLLETTE

Wisconsin Senator Does Not 'Belong' with Labor

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 12.— The left wing of the miners' union struck a fierce blow at the LaFollette and Len Small backers today when Walker and Olander in long speeches, tried to get the convention to buy bonds for the LaFollette campaign.

Olander splashed tears all over the convention in his plea to the delegates to buy bonds because LaFollette had such a lovable personality.

Tom Parry, a militant miner, spoke after Olander. He said he is opposed to the convention buying bonds for the LaFollette campaign because LaFollette represented the small capitalists and this was a convention representing workers.

LaFolette for Capitalist System.

"LaFollette is in favor of continuing the capitalist system which enslaves the workers," he said.

"It is strange that our labor leaders, including Olander, when trying to work us into a frenzy in support of LaFollette always go backward. Olander points out the dark and dismal days of long ago, of the Seamen's union. But to the workers it is a question of what LaFollette is doing today and what he will do in the future."

He said the miners average $8 a day when they worked. In his mine 700 men draw $5,600 a day in wages. Every day they work they produce $16,000 of wealth. How can they be expected to buy back what they produce?

System for Exploitation.

Parry said he was against the capitalist system because so long as it continued, exploitation of the workers would continue and he was against LaFollette because he stood for the perpetuation of that system, of exploitation of the workers.

"What is LaFollette doing on the unemployment question? I and thousands like me in the mining industry alone, have been out of work for many months and still LaFollette is silent on the unemployment question.

Must Have Workers' Party.

"I know that there is no individual Moses who can lead the workers out of their present industrial and economic chaos. We will be compelled to organize into a clear cut political party."

All the time that Parry spoke there was the utmost confusion in the convention hall. Walker was continually rapping his gavel for order and the LaFollette supporters were shouting at the top of their lungs while the left wing delegates demanded that Parry be given a chance to talk.

Condemn Convict Labor Products.

The convict labor system, particularly as it applies to the marketing of prison-made goods in competition with the products of free labor, was discussed and generally condemned. Resolutions urging the prohibition of public marketing of all such material and recommending its use exclusively in state institutions were adopted.

The convention went on record as favoring legislation to provide compensation for those suffering form occupational diseases, and it urged the creation of a state division of labor statistics to study labor conditions.

HERRIOT APPOINTS COMMITTEE ON SOVIET RUSSIA RECOGNITION

PARIS, Sept. 12.—Premier Herriot, of France, today took an important step looking toward the recognition of Soviet Russia when he appointed a committee to study the manner of re-establishing relations between France and Russia and the formula for recognizing the Soviet government.

Soviet recognition was one of the main planks in the platform on which Herriot was elected to office. The efforts of Charles Evans Hughes during his recent visit to Europe to organize a new drive against the Workers Republic has obviously not been a pronounced success.

AMALGAMATION IS DEFEATED IN STIFF BATTLE

Delegates Put Up Fight for Strong Declaration

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 12.—A substitute for the Dowell amalgamation resolution was presented by the resolution committee and passed but not without a battle on the floor by several delegates who stood behind the original resolution.

The substitute resolution which was passed reads as follows: "It is neither the prerogative nor the desire of the State Federation of Labor to determine what form of organization shall be adopted in any given industry."

Resolution for Amalgamation.

The Dowell resolution on Amalgamation reads as follows:

WHEREAS, Only a small percentage of the great working masses are as yet members of the trade unions, great numbers being still unorganized in nearly all the industries; and

WHEREAS, This state of affairs not only militates against the unorganized, who are helpless, but against the organized as well, who find themselves severely handicapped in their struggle for better conditions by the ever present army of unorganized; and

WHEREAS, The approaching industrial crisis makes it all the more imperative that we bring these unorganized masses into the unions and thus enormously strengthen our ranks against the bitter onslaughts that are bound to come from the employers as soon as this industrial crisis becomes general. Therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Illinois State Federation of Labor, in its forty-second annual convention, calls upon the American Federation of Labor to unite all its affiliated organizations for a great organization drive in all localities and industries in order to finally bring within the protecting folds of organized labor the masses who still remain outside.

Delegates for Amalgamation.

Delegates Parry and Corbishley opposed this substitute vigorously. Parry, in speaking against the substitute, said: "The owning class is amalgamated 100 per cent." He showed how in the 1922 shopmen's strike the rest of the railroad crafts scabbed on the shopmen.

Delegate Corbishley made a strong plea for the original Dowell amalgamation resolution. He showed that here is monopoly of industry by trusts which is detrimental to labor. He showed how the coal operators fear Ziegler, his home town, are buying up coal mines and shutting them down to starve the miners into accepting a wage cut. He said:

"The trade union movement must keep pace with the development of industry or the movement will collapse because of the amalgamation of wealth."

He declared the miners at their last May convention in Peoria were in favor of the fight for amalgamation in the federation convention.

Paul King, of the printers' union, declared for amalgamation.

Walker's Alibi—"Unconstitutional."

"This discussion is taking place in every part of the labor movement. We all want it and can't get it—funny, isn't it?"

Walker took the stand that the international unions must first request amalgamation before the federation, under the constitution has the right to lend its aid."

Delegate Wrigert of the typographical union, taking the hint from Walker, got up and declared the amalgamation resolution unconstitutional.

CHILE SENATE WON'T LET PRESIDENT QUIT AFTER MILITARY COUP

(By Cable to The Daily Worker)

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 12.—The Chilean senate this evening declined to accept the resignation of Arturo Alessandri, president of the republic, which was tendered today at the request of the cabinet and the military group headed by Gen. Luis Altamirano. The vote was 16 to 11 against acceptance.

After the action of the senate this evening, Alessandri sent the cabinet a note insisting that he be permitted to resign. Meantime he remains a guest in the American embassy here, where he went early this morning after he resigned.

When Senor Alessandri quit the assumed the office of the vice-president and took over the duties of the chief executive.

TEXAS KLUXERS IN NEW WAR ON "MA" FERGUSON

Try to Block Her Way to Governorship

(Special to The Daily Worker)

TEMPLE, Texas, Sept. 12.—The "fighting family Ferguson" was today preparing for another battle.

Veterans of copious writs and injunctions, Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, democratic nominee for governor and her husband, impeached Governor James E. Ferguson, summoned their counsel for the latest battle of statutes, the contest to prevent Mrs. Ferguson becoming a candidate in the November election when her victory is unquestioned.

Charles M. Dickson of San Antonio and Judge I. W. Stephens of Fort Worth have filed an application for temporary injunction seeking to enjoin the name of Mrs. Ferguson from appearing on the November ballots.

Mere Puppet, Says Klan.

Their application charges that not only is the woman nominee for governor ineligible for the post under the Texas constitution because of her sex, but she is a "mere figurehead for governor in name only" and that "James E. Ferguson is the real candidate for governor for the purpose of circumventing and evading the force and effect of the impeachment decree."

Ferguson was denied a place on the ballot in the recent primaries because of his impeachment.

HARD TO SWALLOW, YET IT'S A DARNED GOOD FISH STORY

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 12.—Capturing wild sea elephants, strange beasts said to weight themselves by swallowing rocks when they wish to descend to the levels of the ocean to feed, is an exciting sport, according to United States naval reservists who returned here today from a trip to Mexican waters.

Four of the elephants were captured in huge nets by the navy men off the Guadalupe Islands south of San Diego, Calif., one of the sea creatures will be shipped to New York City for exhibition.

UNITED FRONT MEET TO HELP SILK WALKOUT

N. Y. Arranges Meeting on September 16

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—A monster mass meeting for the benefit of the Paterson silk strikers will be held at Webster Hall, 119 East 11th Street, near Third Avenue, next Tuesday, September 16, at 8 o'clock sharp. The principal speakers will be H. M. Wicks, of New York, and Adolph Lessing, of Paterson.

Wicks has long been prominent in the labor movement thruout the United States and has been taking a leading part in the Paterson strike, and he has been made the target of the vilest abuse by the local kept press of Paterson.

His inspiring speeches day after day have aided materially in holding the lines intact in the present struggle, which is in many respects the most brilliant ever staged in Paterson.

Lessing a Noter Fighter.

Adolph Lessing has long been recognized as a leader of the Paterson workers, a veteran of a whole series of labor struggles having been the secretary of the great strike of 1913, in which Bill Haywood, Gurley Flynn, and others played an important part and were imprisoned for their fight against the silk mill owners. Lessing was arrested with Haywood and Flynn for his part in the strike and as the organizer and leader of the present strike conducted by the Associated Silk Dye Co. workers. In addition to these speakers, there will be a number of others prominent in the New York City labor movement. Other Paterson strikers will also be present, including women and children whose labor has contributed to build up the silk industry of Paterson.

The strike is now in its 9th month old and was called against the infamous four loom system, which has been imposed upon the workers in this industry during the past decade. Tho there has been no marked change in the productive power of the loom for many years, the gradual speeding up from one loom to a worker to the two loom system and then the three and four loom system, forces the workers to exhaust every ounce of energy they possess. Vital statistics in this industry show a marked rise in the death rate since the introduction of the multiple loom system. So in the last analysis, these workers are fighting not merely for conditions, but for life itself.

Other demands include the 8-hour day and the 44-hour week, a raise in wages, recognition of the union, and the right of organizers to enter the mills on doing business.

Police and Injunctions.

Though this strike has been the most peaceful ever conducted in Paterson, still there has been considerable police terrorism and the use of the infamous injunction. On one occasion 197 pickets were arrested while picketing one mill. So effective has been the strike that the mill owners finally resorted to the ancient weapon, the injunction. The first injunction against the strikers was obtained last Monday by Rosenstein Bros. Immediately steps were taken by the union to fight this injunction and no sooner had the fight begun than a number of other firms including Kauffman Bros. Hasenflatt Bros., Samuel J. Aranson, and the notorious Gilt Edge concern, before whose plant the 197 were arrested, secured a blanket injunction against the organization, naming specifically Adolph Lessing, Fred Hoelscher, the secretary of the union, H. M. Wicks, and others.

This injunction follows closely the language used by Harry M. Daugherty, a now discredited member of the Harding-Coolidge oil cabinet in his injunction against the striking shop men in 1922. At the Webster Hall meeting, the speakers will inform the audience regarding tactics to be pursued in fighting this injunction. The purpose of this meeting is to organize a united front of all sympathetic labor organizations for the purpose of aiding the Paterson strikers in their present struggle. Admission will be free. All militant workers of New York should make it a point to be at this meeting and show the Paterson strikers that labor elsewhere is opposed to the mill slaves of Paterson, being reduced to the economic condition of Chinese coolies.

WORKERS PARTY STREET MEETINGS IN CHICAGO

Saturday, Sept. 13th.

North Ave. & Orchard St.—auspices German-Hungarian, branches. Speakers, John Edwards, Charles P. Ruthenberg.

114th Pl. and Michigan—auspices Fullman branches. Speakers, M. Shachtman, and others.

30th & State, Sts.—auspices So. Side Jewish branch. Speakers, Jos. Manley.

Division and Washtenaw—auspices N. W. Jewish branch. Speakers, Gomez, P. Herd, and Jewish orator.

Roosevelt & St. Louis—auspices U. P. Jewish branch. Speakers, P. Lariy, Ihnenberg, Siegel.

Milwaukee & Paulina—auspices Polish branch. Speakers, Mauer, and Polish comrade.

Sunday Evening—Sept. 14.

Washington Park "Open Forum"—Speaker for Workers Party—D. E. Early.

WORLD IS IN HELLUVA FIX WITH REVOLT, WAR AND PILLAGE POPPING

ALLAHABAD, India, Sept. 12.—Fifteen persons have been killed in rioting between Hindoos and Mohammedans within the past 24 hours. The police are in full control today. Part of the Hindu quarter was burned.

* * *

ATHENS, Sept. 12. — Generals Tseroulis and Panayotopoulos were arrested today on a charge of attempting to foment a military revolt to overthrow the present regime.

* * *

MILAN, Italy, Sept. 12.—Armando Casalini, a Fascist member of the Chamber of Deputies, was shot and mortally wounded by a private guard on his villa estate today.

He was shot by Giovanni Corvi, a worker, who, when arrested, told the fascist militiamen that he had fired upon Casalini to avenge the late Giacomo Matteotti, murdered by Mussolini's black shirts.

Casalini died without regaining consciousness.

* * *

MADRID, Sept. 12.— Ex-Minister Osorio Gansaliva was imprisoned today at the disposition of the military courts for spreading rumors prejudicial to the discipline of the army.

* * *

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 12.—Wahabi (Arab) tribesmen who are on the warpath against Trans-Jordania, Hedjaz, and Irak, have captured, pillaged and burned the town of Taif, according to word received here today. It had 10,000 population.

State Labor Body Decides Against Aid for the Jobless

(Continued from page 1)

ganize internationally to combat the employers and exploiters of labor.

Dictatorship of Workers.

"You may be against Soviet Russia because it is a dictatorship, but it is a dictatorship of the working class. Did not the United States government recognize the capitalist dictatorship of Italy, Spain and Poland.

"We have a dictatorship of capitalism in our own country. An example of this is to be found in the steel industry where one man, Judge Elbert H. Gary, dictates how thousands of exploited steel workers shall live."

Corbishley told how the miners of Ziegler had the spirit of international solidarity. He told how they had been shipping mining tools and supplies to their fellow miners in Russia, who because of their suffering during the world war are badly impoverished.

Tells of Persecution.

Corbishley recounted the history of persecution of the workers of Russia by the imperialist Czar. He related their sufferings during the world war and afterwards, thru civil war and famine, and blockade by foreign capitalist nations including the United States. "And on top of that," Corbishley declared, "the convention of workers here is asked by the resolutions committeee to ignore the only working class government in the world.

"We, as working men and women, and as trade unionists, should extend a fraternal hand to the working class government of Soviet Russia when capitalist governments are trying to strangle the workers there and put a Czar back on the throne. If Russia has a better form of government, should we not be afraid to investigate it? We don't expect the Morgans and Rockefellers to favor recognition of the workers' and farmers' republic, but we expect a labor body such as this to favor recognition. There is no room there for the capitalists."

Postal Clerk for Russia.

Delegates William P. Stelzer, Local No. 1, of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks, declared in favor of recognition of Soviet Russia.

"Just because we don't agree with their ideas are we going to be against them and try to keep their people down?" he asked. "Russia has been settled with her form of government for six years now and it seems to me we ought to allow her to have the form of government the people there have indorsed."

Not one person voted, spoke against recognition. Altho 255 voted in favor of the committee's report against the recognition resolution, not one out of those 255 stood on his feet and gave a single reason against Soviet Russian recognition.

Anton Johannsen told the DAILY WORKER he is for recognition of Soviet Russia because he believes in freedom of the peoples of each country to determine its own form of government.

The resolutions offered on unemployment demanded immediate formation of unemployment councils, the calling of conferences to devise unemployment relief, especially for the miners, agitation for unemployment benefits, to be paid by the state and demands that the industry take care of its own unemployed. None of these recommendations were indorsed by the convention.

NOTICE! CLEVELAND READERS! The DAILY WORKER is sold daily at Schroeder's News Stand on E. Superior, opposite the Post Office.

Laugh with Sid Smith at Race of Andy Gump for the White House

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, the business of electing a president of the United States has become a comedy, insofar as the capitalist candidates are concerned. It is the sport of the comic strip artists, who enter their own ludicrous characters in the race for the White House. They have the nation laughing at what the 100 per cent paytrioteers excitedly refer to as "the highest office in the land."

It is dangerous to set the millions laughing at something that is supposed to be serious; especially such an important bulwark of the American capitalist system as the presidential pillar, long held up as the desired and possible achievement of every American youth.

* * * *

"Bud" Fisher, the creator of "Mutt and Jeff," only indulges the performing creatures of his pen with sporadic spurts for the White House. Between having them act alternately as presidential candidates, he uses them as sparring partners for Dempsey, boon companions of the Prince of Wales, or outstripping the world fliers with their paper feats in the air.

Before "Silent Cal" Coolidge can work up enough exertion to take offense at Fisher's comic slurs at his job, Mutt and Jeff are turned loose on new exploits. Even to preach the doctrine of servile labor, either of Jeff serving Mutt, or the other way around. Perhaps that is Fisher's way of "covering-up."

But Sidney Smith, who has given "Andy Gump," "Chester" and "Min" to the World, has hurled his hero "Andy" into the presidential ring with more seriousness than any comic artist has yet attempted.

There is almost a whole page of stuff in the Chicago Tribune, in which not only "Sid" and his hilarious friends, but also the staid Tribune itself, in pictures and news articles, all join in laughing at this exalted job called "The Presidency."

* * * *

The story is told of the great celebration when Sidney Smith invited all his friends to the unveiling of a "bronze statue" of "his candidate," heralded by none other than former Judge Adelor J. Petit, of Chicago, as "more silent than Cal."

The unveiling ceremonies were held at the estate of the comic artist, on the shores of Lake Geneva, near the border line between Illinois and Wisconsin. It pays to be a comic artist for the capitalist press. Radical and revolutionary artists do not have beautiful lake shore villas. They usually have a hard time finding where the next meal comes from.

But the space given the unveiling of the bronze statue of "Andy Gump" must now take its place with the wide publicity extended to the recently conducted, cross-country race participated in by Barney Google's "Spark Plug," the premier attraction of the Hearst comic pages.

It was appropriate that Richard Henry "Dick" Little, the humorous paragrapher, should explain Gump's platform to the friends of his creator. One of "Dick" Little's greatest newspaper achievements, on behalf of his class, in the service of William Randolph Hearst, was sending to Chicago the most perverted and false accounts of the great strike of the Michigan copper miners some years ago.

* * *

This making fun of the esteemed things in the capitalist social order, indicates a rotting way at the foundation of this passing system of society.

Leonid Andreyev, the Russian dramatist, in his play, "He Who Gets Slapped," must have had something like this in mind when he has Briquet, the manager of the circus protest to "He," the clown, against the liberties the clown is taking with his audiences.

* * * *

"But they laughed, nevertheless," protests "He."

"But without pleasure, without pleasure," returns Briquet. "It's not the right game—they won't like you."

Someone else interjects with, "The orchestra did not laugh."

"Because they were getting it," puts in Jackson, an older clown, "but the galleries did, because they were looking at the orchestra getting slapped."

Later Jackson adds, "He had already begun to make them angry."

* * * *

The clown "He" was getting under the skins of the respectables in the high-priced orchestra seats with his cynical humor. They were the butt of his shafts of wit. Andreyev's clown, "He," was an intellectual from this same "upper class," driven by his own domestic troubles to assume the role of mirth provoker in the sawdust arena. And he knew his own class and could therefore the better poke fun at it.

* * * *

We do not doubt that Coolidge, Davis and La Follette suffer mental twitches of agony at being entered in the presidential race with Andy Gump, with Mutt and Jeff, and no doubt also with Barney Google before this campaign is over. Yet why should they? Gump, Mutt, Jeff, Google and "Tillie the Toiler" are as much a part of this social system as the presidency to which Cal, John Wall Street and "Bobcat Bob" aspire.

Imagine the workers and peasants of Soviet Russia refusing to take seriously the high offices in the Workers' Republic. Such a thing could never be. Imagine the revolutionary artists under Soviet Rule poking fun at the men and women who occupy the most important positions in the land. That could never happen. In Soviet Russia the whole struggle of the multitudes is in building the new order. It is a serious business, from the most prominent to those who serve the least, because of their limited abilities.

In the United States, in the period of the decadence of capitalism, artists and writers use their best brains poking fun at the nation's popular idols. The most active press workers at the conventions of the capitalist parties were the jokesmiths, the funny columnists and the humorous sketch artists.

There is only one candidacy that is being taken seriously in this presidential struggle. That is the candidacy of the Communists—the only menace to the doddering capitalist order.

Workers and farmers, while giving their most intense efforts in aid of the Communist ticket in this campaign, may well laugh with Sydney Smith in his offering of "Andy Gump" as an opponent of the capitalist candidates racing for the White House.

When the whole working class begins to look upon Wall Street's government as a grim joke perpetrated upon them, the end of the days of capitalism in these United States will draw rapidly nearer.

Even humorists may help as the hangmen of Morgan's capitalist social order.

HAD HARD TIME TRYING TO GET "CHESTS OUT!"

But the Chesty Corporal Tried to Do His Best

(Continued from Page 1.)

ers Party and the Young Workers League for decent living conditions among the slaves of the National Biscuit company. News of the union meetings all over the country. Not a single union represented at the "parade" to put a stop to the destruction of the DAILY WORKER.

The fifty papers had been torn from the hands of a Workers Party member who had attempted to distribute them at the end of the "celebration." The "khakied" officers fell on the girl with the papers, pushed her, mawled her, pushed her, and tore the papers from her hands.

"Damn Bolshevik," shrieks a ten-year-old boy.

"G'wan back to Rooshy!" yells a fat man.

Police Grab Girl Communist.

Two police escorted the girl towards Wabash avenue. The patriots followed. A guard whipped out his pistol. "If you come a step nearer, I'll shoot."

The patriots fall back. Dare a pistol shot to get at the enemy? Never!

The police hurry the girl into a Yellow scab taxi, with two little flags in front.

All the Yellow scab taxis carried two little flags in front on Defense Day.

Later the DAILY WORKER booster arrived at our office to tell her story.

Hoodlums Fails to Break Up Communist Meet in Pittsburgh

PITSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 12.—While a, terrified and cowardly representative of "law and order" watched from behind a telephone pole, a drunken crew of hoodlums attempted to break up a street meeting held by the Workers Party at the corner of 34th and Penn Ave., the heart of the Pittsburgh foreign district.

The meeting was addressed by Comrades Pat H. Toohey in English, and Kowalski in Polish. Both speakers exposed the LaFollette illusion, the war schemes of the American imperialists and the workers' movement. Hence, The rowdy element tried everything in their bag of tricks to break up the meeting, finally assaulting a Party member who was selling literature. A large and attentive crowd listened to Toohey and later yet to Kowalski, who spoke in Polish, after the rowdies were disposed of.

Open Air Meeting Tonight.

Gordon Owens, a Negro, Communist candidate for congress, in the first district and Joseph Manley, campaign manager of the Workers Party, will speak at 30th and So. State streets at 8 p. m. Regular weekly meetings at that corner are attracting hundreds of Negro workers and many of them are joining the So. Side Branch of the Workers Party.

Be on hand to distribute literature.

Fakers Flop For Faker.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Sept. 12.—The The Ohio Federation of Labor here today endorsed the candidacies of Senator Robert M. LaFollette for president, and Senator Burton K. Wheeler for vice-president.

NEW YORK T. U. E. L. TO HELP RAISE FUNDS FOR WORKERS PARTY TICKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Members of the Trade Educational League in New York City are preparing to carry on a two-week campaign in the shops for the purpose of raising funds for the Election Campaign Fund of the Workers Party.

During the period from September 14 to September 28, many shops will be visited. Workers are urged to be prepared to contribute and prepare their fellow workers to help out in the work of raising funds to carry on the campaign and thus co-operate in reaching the masses of workers in this country with the message of Communism.

The Trade Union Educational League which is solidly behind this political effort of the Workers Party, is working out the detailed plans for the great Shop Collection Compaign Drive. At its conference to be held Friday, Sept. 12, these plans will be finally approved and put into operation.

Militants are preparing to take part in the celebration of the opening of the Shop Collection Campaign at the Proletarian Banquet that is being given in honor of Wm. Z. Foster, the candidate for president on the Workers Party ticket, at Webster Hall, 11th St. and Third Ave., Sunday evening, Sept. 14. The banquet is being held under the auspices of the Needle Trades Section of the T. U. E. L.

Four Days to Go! Put the Candidates Over!

All Districts Putting in Special Efforts This Week.

REPORTS from the districts are that members will be turning in hundreds of signatures each day from now on in an effort to put every Workers Party candidate in Illinois on the ballot. Many comrades are now turning in filled-out petitions to their captains, and by the time September 15 rolls around, we expect to have the Presidential Electors (Foster-Gitlow electors) and the State candidates and most of the Congressional candidates on the ballot. Then strong licks will be put in for a few extra days to get sufficient signatures for those who will look the required number on September 15.

Comrade Bill Edwards of the N. S. English branch is setting a corking good example for every Party and League member by being on the job in a number of places. He has gone into various territories and has turned in lots of signatures for District 7, 8 and 9 and now is going after another batch in District 1. Comrade Mankoff of the Maplewood Y. W. L. turned in a bunch yesterday for the State and 7th district. Italian and Greek comrades send in word that they will turn in a large bunch of signatures in the next few days. Douglas Park Jewish, Mid City English and others announce that their membership will all be out next Sunday getting signatures. Good—but hurry, hurry up with your signatures!

The results to date are:

District Candidate	Signatures obtained	Signatures necessary
No. 1—Gordon Owens	700	1200
No. 4—Joseph Podkulski	400	1300
No. 5—Harry Epstein	320	1000
No. 6—Frank Pellegrino	810	3500
No. 7—Sam Hammermark	1400	4000
No. 8—George Maurer	415	800
No. 9—Jack W. Johnstone	700	1200
Presidential Electors (Foster-Gitlow electors) and Illinois State signatures	1475	2000

Comrades, faster and better work is needed from everyone. Many comrades are slacking and letting a few do all the work. In these remaining days, let every League and Party member get out with petitions and place the Communist candidates on the ballot.

MARTIAL MAYOR CALLS OFF HIS DEFENSE BLUFF

Wanted to Wake People Up, Is His Alibi

(By The Federated Press)

BERGENFIELD, N. J., Sept. 12.—Local militarists' plans for conscription for Defense Day went awry. Mayor Charles B. Warren admits the city was just bluffing when Chief of Police Scott Coombs threatened that any citizen who failed to register for Defense Day and who was found taking the air while demonstrations were going on would be thrown into a cell. Chief Coombs backs down also:

"That was just printed to wake people up," said Chief Coombs when indignant protests came streaming into his office. "Of course we would be foolish to try to arrest citizens."

Threats of Arrests.

The mayor's original proclamation ordered "every alebodied male citizen of Bergenfield between eighteen and forty-five" to enroll for the Defense Day exercises. Blue registration cards were issued. Chief Coombs backed this with his arrest threats.

The mayor's order got indifferent response. Too many of the eligible males had been "Over There" and gotten fed up with mobilizations.

Backing up the objectors was the pledge of the American Civil Liberties Union to put its legal staff at the disposal of all persons arrested for refusing to accept this compulsory military service.

Arrogant Nonsense.

In a sharp letter to Mayor Warren the Union denounced his act as "arrogant nonsense," and assurance was given that legal defense would be furnished objectors and suits would be financed against the officials responsible for interference with liberty.

They'll Do It Every Time.

LONDON.—Rumors are circulating at Tangier that a British company has advanced Alibel Krim, leader of the Moroccan rebels $1,500,000 to assist his campaign against the Spanish in return for commercial concessions, said a Tangier despatch of the Times today.

IT IS GOING TO BE TOUGH ON THE IDLE RICH; TO KEEP THEM OUT OF MURDER THEY MUST WORK

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CHARLEVOIX, Mich., Sept. 12.—Dickie Loeb, slayer of Robert Franks, will be the last of the Loebs to lead a life of idleness.

Never again, his parents have determined, shall the family include a member of "the idle rich" and it became known today that they already have carried this determination to the point of placing their youngest son, Thomas, 12, at work on their 1,500 acre estate here.

Thomas, under the new plan, must rise at dawn and report at the model dairy where, before breakfast he must carry milk from the stables to the churnery and do whatever other tasks the superintendent may assign. This work done, he goes to breakfast and then reports to the farm where he works with the other hands digging potatoes, husking corn, pitching hay or doing whatever may be required.

TEAPOT DUM TUCHUN CHARLEE WUN LUNG BEHIND CHINESE WAR

If language means anything, William Hale Thompson is more interested in the Chinese civil war, than in the smothered battle between Fred Lundin and himself for the political affections of Len Small.

When asked by a reporter if there was any truth in the story that the ex-mayor and the governor had buried the political hatchet, Mr. Thompson began to talk like a military expert.

"I hear Woo Foo Tung has Shang Hang Lung on the run," said the noted politician and naturalist. That he was a military strategist was made plain for the first time, when he succeeded in showing that he had a powerful grasp on the Chinese situation which was puzzled the brains of some of the best Chinese experts in Chicago.

"Charlee Wun Lung Hu is Mum dictator of the Teapot Dum government is the power behind the civil war," said Mr. Thompson emphatically. "My knowledge of the real estate business gave me the clue. When Charlee was in Europe recently, he had a conference with Me Too, the tuchun of Lun Dun, with the result that a conspiracy was hatched between them to get behind Wu Pei Fu, provided that gentleman had generous intentions."

At this point in the interview, Mr. Thompson's attention was called to a ringing telephone. As he returned he said, "The interview is off for the present. I am arranging a banquet which will be attended by 2,500 hungry politicians and it is some job to get enough grub together to feed them. I am hopeful however, that the task can be accomplished. The Wilson Co., packers, are again buying hogs and according to General Dawes, the crops are excellent in the state of Maine. So long."

POSTAL CLERKS' NEW WAGE BILL UP FOR ACTION

Post Office Employes Plan to Get Action

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 12.—The dominating issue before the convention of post office clerks and postal supervisors in session here, which is to be followed by a convention Sept. 15, of the National Federation of Rural Letter Carriers, is consideration of the new postal clerks' bill, which was approved by congress and then vetoed by President Coolidge.

The bill calls for an increase in wages and changes in pension requirements. About 300,000 employes in positions requiring the passing of civil service examinations, which includes the men who work inside the post offices, railway mail clerks, rural free delivery carriers, city letter carriers and also fourth class post office clerks are affected by the requirements of this bill.

The bill would bring up the salaries of the postal clerks, which at present are from $1400 to $1800 a year, $300 a year. The changes in pension requirements calls for $100 a month pension instead of the present $65 and the requirement of 25 years of service to take the place of age limits at present stipulated.

Our Candidates

FOSTER'S DATES

Paterson, N. J.—Halvitia Hall, 56 Van Houton Street, Saturday, September 13, 8 p. m.

BUTTE, Mont.—Sunday, September 21st, 2:00 p. m.

SPOKANE, Wash.—Monday, September 22nd, 8:00 p. m.

SEATTLE, Wash.—Masonic Temple, Tuesday, September 23rd, 8:00 p. m.

TACOMA, Wash.—Eagles' Hall, Wednesday, September 24th, 8:00 p. m.

ASTONIA, Ore.—Saturday, September 27th, 8:00 p. m.

PORTLAND, Ore.—I. O. O. F. Auditorium, 10th and Salmon St., Sunday, September 28th, 8:00 p. m.

BERKELEY, Cal.—High School Auditorium, Tuesday, September 30th, 8:00 p. m.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—California Hall, Turk and Larkin Sts., Wednesday, October, 1st, 8:00 p. m.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Friday, October 3rd, 8:00 p. m.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Unity Hall, 138 So. 2 East, Sunday, October 5th, 8:00 p. m.

DENVER, Colo.—Auditorium, Curtis and 14th St., Tuesday, October 7th, 8:00 p. m.

GITLOW'S DATES

Comrade Gitlow, candidate for vice-president, will address meetings at the following places:

BOSTON, Mass.—Scenic Auditorium, corner Berkeley and Warren Sts., Sunday, September 14th, 2:30 p. m.

NORWOOD, Mass.—Sunday, September 14th, 8:00 p. m.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—A. C. A. Hall, 1753 Westminster St., Monday, September 15th, 8:00 p. m.

MAYNARD, Mass.—Tuesday, September 16th, 8:00 p. m.

GARDNER, Mass.—Wednesday, September 17th, 8:00 p. m.

WORCESTER, Mass.—A. O. H. Hall, Trumbull St., Thursday, September 18th, 8:00 p. m.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Hermonson's Hall, 158 Crown St., Friday, September 19th, 8:00 p. m.

HARTFORD, Conn.—Educational Alliance, 287 Windsor Ave., Saturday, September 20th, 8:00 p. m.

Anti-Meetings Injunctions.

WEST VIRGINIA, Sept. 11—Following announcement by Attorney General Enland that evictions of striking miners from company-owned houses without court proceedings was illegal, ten coal operators filed a petition asking an injunction to restrain the United Mine Workers from giving relief to miners and holding mass meetings.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

JAP PACIFISTS OBSERVE PEACE DAY AGAINST U. S. "DEFENSE DAY"

(Special to The Daily Worker)

TOKIO, Sept. 12.—The Japanese Educational Society here today observed "Peace Day" in opposition to America's defense day tomorrow. Speakers condemned "Defense Day" ideas as harmful.

MODERWELL IS FOR SCAB MINES, SCAB SCHOOLS

Fears the Discussion of Wages and Hours

"Questions of higher wages and shorter hours, which the teachers councils discuss, are not of enough importance to justify their taking five hours of school time during the year."

That is how Charles M. Moderwell, president of Chicago's school board, dismisses the controversy between Superintendent of Schools William McAndrew and the Teachers' Councils.

He Likes Farrington.

Regrettable as the fact may be, the teachers' councils do not discuss questions of higher wages and shorter hours. Mary O'Connor, organizer for the Chicago Teachers' Federation, assures the DAILY WORKER that such matter never come up in the sessions of the councils.

Charles M. Moderwell has had plenty of experience in dealing with "union" labor, he told the DAILY WORKER yesterday. "I ought not to be having any trouble," says Moderwell. "I operated in Illinois back in 1917, and Frank Farrington and I always got along fine."

He's Scab Mine Owner.

Mr. Moderwell isn't dealing with union labor at present. The Mordue Collieries company, in West Virginia, of which Moderwell is president, is a strictly non-union concern.

"Not a union man in it," announced Moderwell.

Moderwell was one of those who voted at the meeting of the board of education to put off the voting on the measure proposed by J. Lewis Coath, directing the school board to instruct Superintendent William McAndrew to call the teachers' councils together. The council meets next week. It was pointed out to Moderwell that if the board fails to take action this week, the proper time for the council meeting will have passed. In spite of this fact, and in spite of the fact that members of the board denounced Mr. McAndrew as lacking in tact, discretion and leadership, Moderwell helped to get the decision put off.

Passes Buck to McAndrew.

That the technical question of whether the teachers are to meet on their own time on school time merely provides the entering wedge which will lead to a complete reorganization of the school council is shown in the statement which Mr. Moderwell made to the DAILY WORKER yesterday.

"I am heartily in favor of permitting Superintendent McAndrew to do as he sees fit in this case," said Mr. Moderwell. "I think that Superintendent McAndrew should be permitted to reorganize these councils so that there will be school principals present, if he so desires."

Object To Principals.

The presence of school principals at the teachers' meetings was the very thing so bitterly fought by Ella Flagg Young, when she was the driving force behind these councils, because she realized that the principals would serve only to gag the "rank and file," and prevent them from expressing their opinions.

The injunction which parents of the children who have been transferred from the Harper school have been seeking, was denied yesterday by the Circuit Court on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction over the matter.

Young Workers League Plans Sunday Hike to Milwaukee Woods

Sunday, Sept. 14, the Chicago Young Workers League is going on an organized hike to the Milwaukee Woods near Niles, Illinois. Young comrades all over the city will gather at the following points and proceed in jolly bunches to the Milwaukee car line:

On the North Side they will gather at Fullerton and Halsted at 9 a. m.

On the Northwest Side at the Workers Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd., at 9 a. m.

On the West Side at 3322 Douglas Blvd. at 9 a. m.

From there the comrades will proceed to the end of the first Milwaukee car line and await till all the forces gather and then hike to the woods.

The program for the day is:

Bishop of Cantalonge" will speak on "DON'T EAT NOW, WAIT TILL YOU DIE."

Hot dogs will be served to those who won't wait. Baseball games—Soccer Ball Games—Football—Races.

With the fine brisky fall weather promised us for Sunday a great gathering of young folks is expected at this last outing of the season.

FORMER GOVERNOR McCRAY, OF INDIANA, WHO ROBBED BANKERS IS GIVING FISCAL COURSE IN JAIL

(Special to The Daily Worker)

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 12.—Former Governor Warren T. McCray, an honor convict at the Atlanta federal penitentiary where he was sentenced on charges of violation of the national postal law and embezzlement, is teaching a Sunday school class regularly at the prison, according to word received from John Reese, former Terre Haute deputy sheriff serving sentence for alleged protection of bootleggers.

U. S. AND J. BULL CHINESE NOTES WORRY THE JAPS

Hint Tokyo May Back Manchurian War Lord

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PEKING, Sept. 12.—Japan is reported to be alarmed over the exchange of notes between London and Washington on the Chinese situation. The Tokyo government, in a semi-official dispatch diplomatically objects to being left out in the cold and just as diplomatically hints that if Charles Evans Hughes and Ramsay MacDonald find it to their advantage to back Wu Pei Fu, general in command of the central government forces, the Mikado might feel it good business to offer General Chang, war lord of Manuchuria, a satchel full of gold yen.

Rain Holds Up Fighting.

The military competition between the rival Chinese tuchuns for the favors of the capitalist powers are held up owing to the rain. A significant sidelight on the character of the Chinese rulers can be seen from the fact that the bandit chiefs are well supplied with funds while the only outstanding Chinese leader who has the welfare of his people at heart, Dr. Sun Yat Sen, hasn't enough funds to treat his troops to a rice soup-breakfast. The armies of the other bandits march on their stomach, but so far as the bankers are concerned, Sun's troops must live on their nerves.

The rival generals are taking advantage of the lull in fighting due to the rain, to visit the fighting fronts. Like their Occidental co-workers in the field of organized murder for profit, the Chinese generals are to be found where the communiques fly thickest and they only visit the front when the enemy is all out of shot. Chinese generals are good insurance risks.

Fu Has Long Finger.

The Peking government is now in the hands of a military council. This is believed to be a development of the Hughes and MacDonald policy. The minister of finance is endeavoring to raise funds for military purposes. Funds will not be lacking if Wu Pei Fu carries out his part of the bargain, and there being no richer capitalist countries than the United States and England, it is likely that he will.

Chang on the March.

According to reports received here, Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian war lord, began the movement of his advance guard southward today toward the Manchurian border for an invasion of Chihli and the ultimate capture of Peking. The report said the main body of troops would follow tomorrow.

The Peking government issued a formal statement declaring none of its troops were concentrated along the Manchurian border.

Protect Russian Crops.

MOSCOW.—The Council of Labor and Defense has requested the People's Commissariat of Foreign Affairs to enter negotiations with the governments of Persia, Afghanistan and China anent the adoption of measures against the crop-damaging insects, and in particular the locusts, which come mostly from Persian and West of China regions contiguous upon the U. S. S. R.

JUMPY NERVES SAVED JOSEPH LOWE $175 AND KNOCKED DOWN BANDIT

CINCINNATI, Sept. 12.— Excitement saved Joseph Lowe of Lawrenceburg, Ind., from three bandits last night when they halted him on a bridge near Elizabethtown, Ohio. He still has $175, which would have gone to the trio if he hadn't been so excited that he stepped on the accelerator of his car instead of the brakes. The machine leaped forward, ran over one of the trio and sped down the road.

UNION MAN SHOT BY THUGS WHILE ENTERING HALL

Officials of the executive council of the Hod Carriers' and Building Laborers' Union professed absolute ignorance of the cause for the shooting of Fred R. Stilnicki, an active member of the Hod Carriers' Union, who was shot in the thigh as he was about to enter the hall of his union meeting at Noble and Division streets, where he was to be elected president. They knew nothing other than that which had appeared in the morning newspapers, the fact that he had been shot.

Was to Be Made President.

It is known that Stilnicki's active participation in his union has been a bone in the throat of certain elements in his union. When his election as president of his local was imminent, they became desperate. They sent all kinds of warnings to him to keep away from the election meeting. As late as an hour before he left his home he received a telephone call saying he would surely meet his death if he attended the meeting.

Thugs Employed to Shoot.

One of the thugs employed to do the shooting is alleged to have been sentenced less than a year ago to the penitentiary for twenty-five years on a charge of murder, but he was pardoned after serving a few months of his sentence.

LIBERTIES UNION HITS ARRESTS IN PATERSON STRIKE

Nabbing of 107 Pickets Held Illegal

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The action of the Paterson police in arresting 107 pickets of the striking silk workers was scored yesterday by the American Civil Liberties Union in a letter to Mayor C. M. McLean as an "unwarranted invasion of the established right of peaceful picketing." The Union called on the Mayor to protect the rights of the strikers, which have been exercised for over four weeks without interference. Lawyers representing the Civil Liberties Union will be in court when the cases come to trial. The Union was appealed to by the Associated Silk Workers, who are conducting the strike for an eight-hour day and a maximum of two looms per worker. The Union says the picketing cases will be appealed, if necessary, to establish the strikers' rights.

More than 700 strikers were picketing in front of the Gilt Edge Plant last Thursday when the police ordered them to disperse. When the crowd continued to parade in silence, the police stepped in and arrested 99 men and 8 women. There was no disorder, according to the Civil Liberties Union, except in the case of one striker who struck a policeman with his fist. The men were all released under $50.00 bail each, and the women under $20.00.

Keeping His Toe Hold.

GIBRALTAR.— General Primb Rivera, head of the Spanish directory, and his staff are remaining at Tetuan, on the western end of the Moroccan battle zone, despite the advances of the enemy in that direction, said advices from Melilla today.

CASHIER WALKS OFF WITH $700,000 AND BANK GOES TO DEVIL

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PUTNAM, Conn., Sept. 12.—The First National Bank of Putnam, closed after its cashier, G. Harold Gilpatrick, former state treasurer, attempted to commit suicide, is short $700,000 in its accounts as a result of the cashier's embezzlement, a representative of the comptroller of the currency made known tonight. The representative had been sent here to investigate the affairs of the wrecked institution.

Many depositors and stockholders are greatly disappointed at the amount of the shortage it being in excess of their expectations.

Jewish People's Institute
1258 W. Taylor St.

Sunday, September 21, 1924 3:30 p. m.

PERFORMANCE AND DANCE
The First Time in Chicago
The Russian Dramatic Actors of the Society "ZVUKI RODINY" will present
"THE THOUGHT" IN 6 ACTS BY L. ANDREEFF
Dancing After the Performance — Music by C. Klasin Union Orchestra

MULLER'S RESTAURANT
A good place to eat
1010 RUSH STREET
Tel. Superior 7079

Young woman or man to share cozy apartment. Convenient to L and Bus. Opposite Park. Reasonable rent. Call Jacobson, Dearborn 3861.

LEARN ESPERANTO
The international Language
BY CORRESPONDENCE
Complete Course $4.00
We also sell books for the study of Esperanto
SCAND. ESPERANTO INSTITUTE
ROCKFORD, ILL.

Furnishings
LADIES' MEN'S INFANTS'
Trade Where Your Money Buys the Most
Martin's
651 West North Avenue
East of Halsted St.

Dust Proof Slip Covers to protect Your Furniture
Call or Phone.
Illinois Slip Cover Co.
Not Inc.
Warwick Bldg., 551 E. 47th St., Chicago
Telephone Atlantic 0631
Estimates cheerfully given everywhere

Meet us at the
Prudential Restaurant
752 NORTH AVE.
The only place to eat.

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years
66 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1427 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

ED. GARBER
QUALITY SHOES
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN
2427 LINCOLN AVENUE
CHICAGO
Telephone Diversey 5129

JAY STETLER'S
RESTAURANT
Established 1901
1053 W. Madison St. Chicago
Tel. Monroe 2241

MAC'S BOOK STORE
DETROIT
Full line of Sociological and Labor Literature.
Periodicals and Newspapers
27 JOHN R STREET

Tel. Monroe 7281
We Serve Nothing But the Best
VICTORY
Restaurant and Lunch Room
Pronos Brothers
1064 West Madison St. Chicago

Amalgamated Food Workers
GENERAL HEADQUARTERS
81 East 10th Street, New York, N. Y.
THIS IS OUR EMBLEM
An Industrial Organization For All Workers in the Food Industry

HOT FROM THE PRESS!
The New and Vital Pamphlet Everyone Is Talking About
RUSSIA IN 1924
By WM. Z. FOSTER
Chairman of the Workers Party, Secretary of the T. U. E. L. and Communist Candidate For President
The Capitalist Press and All the Enemies of the Workers Have Been Spreading the Lie That the Russian Revolution "Has Failed"
FOSTER SPENT FOUR MONTHS IN RUSSIA IN 1921
SIX WEEKS IN RUSSIA THIS YEAR
In This Pamphlet He Tells the Story of How the Russian Workers Have Fought Their Way Through All Obstacles to Victory! How They Have Succeeded in Government and Industry! How They Are Free!
32 pages, paper cover, 10 cents—Bundles of ten or more, 7 cents.
TRADE UNION EDUCATIONAL LEAGUE
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year $3.50...6 months $2.00...3 months

By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year $4.50...6 months $2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL } Editors
WILLIAM F. DUNNE }
MORRIS J. LOEB ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

380 Advertising rates on application

Dawes in Milwaukee

The windy armchair general who has taken the silence out of the republican party election campaign, paid a visit to the city that was once made famous by Schlitz beer and perverted socialism. The object of the general's visit was to reveal Robert Marion LaFollette in all his native nakedness as the most finished demagogue that ever charged the American political ozone with things that appeal to the passions of the masses, but not to their reason.

There is an old saying, "It takes a thief to catch a thief." It is quite obvious that one acquainted with the profession of thievery should be better fitted to track people following this line of business than one who was never in the game. So with demagogues. Hell an' Maria is an expert tho he lacks "Fightin' Bob's" technique. While LaFollette defends the capitalist system with certain reservations, the general defends it from Abraham Lincoln to Harry Daugherty.

In his Milwaukee speech Dawes followed his usual line of attack. LaFollette was trying to undermine the constitution; he was wrapped in the red flag; he was the leader of the "forces of disorder" ad nauseum. Nobody knows better than Dawes that LaFollette is no enemy of the constitution or of the capitalist system. LaFollette repudiates the charge that he is radical. At least 75 per cent of his publicity is devoted to proving his loyalty to our so-called American institutions. In accusing LaFollette of being wrapped in the red flag, Dawes reveals himself as the most vulgarly brazen demagogue in America.

Between LaFollette and Dawes the American workers have only a choice of two evils. Dawes appeals for the support of the American workers on the grounds that the republican party, political organ of the dominant faction of American capitalism, will keep their dinner pails full. LaFollette tells them that his antiquated nostrums, such as restoring competition in industry, curbing the power of the supreme court, and in general clipping the claws of the capitalist tiger, will bring them prosperity.

The Workers Party alone of all the parties contesting the election, thru its candidates William Z. Foster and Benjamin Gitlow, tells the workers that no tinkering with the capitalist system will bring them prosperity. Capitalism itself is the cause of the evils from which they are suffering, and before they can even make a beginning to solve their problems they must abolish the capitalist system, the capitalist government and establish a workers' and farmers' government in the United States.

Burning the Ships

News that $265,000,000 worth of wooden ships, built by the government during the war but never used, are to be burned to recover the few thousand dollars worth of metal used to hold them together, will probably leave the public rather cold. It has become old stuff, this matter of revelations of the gigantic graft and waste of the war, and no one will get excited about it any more.

Capitalism is continualy burning its ships, however, and the incidents of war waste and corruption have a much more general significance than merely to illustrate the evils of imperialist wars. What happened when the United States entered into the world conflict was not a sudden orgy without connection with the "normal" course before and after. Incidents like the wooden ships, which can be multiplied to account for many billions of war debts, were but intensified and magnified examples of what capitalism is at all times.

For the capitalist system has passed beyond the point where it is constructive, where it builds and develops the machinery of production as a whole. It stands now as a fetter upon the development of world economy. It is continually producing wooden ships only to burn them later. It keeps constantly increasing millions of workers, who are anxious and willing to create more wealth for society, in a state of unemployment, and general degradation and unproductiveness.

The reason for this is that capitalism is built upon profits and not production. If profits can be increased by a curtailment of the volume of commodities produced, then capitalism immediately shuts down on production. When the big capitalists at the top of the machine can increase their wealth by building wooden ships to be later burned, why should they build anything that would give them smaller gains for themselves? Which is one of the guarantees, also, that capitalism is headed for the graveyard. Its date of burial depends upon the rulers of the future, the working class, but its death is made sure by its own inner corruption.

Get a member for the Workers Party and a new subscription for the DAILY WORKER.

The Slave Mind

That the American Negro is going thru an awakening process is evidenced by the number of organizations that have sprung up in recent years, designed to give expression to the volume of discontent that is rapidly growing among that most exploited and persecuted people. All Negro organizations of any numerical importance are in the hands of either bourgeois professors who follow the policy of dignified begging from the capitalists or else are directed by such charlatans as Marcus Garvey, who also begs but without the polish of his competitors.

Among the Negro workers there is a rapidly developing sentiment that the progress of the Negro toilers toward freedom from industrial slavery —the same kind which their white comrades suffer from—and from comparative social ostracism, depends on their ability to organize themselves on a class rather than on a racial basis and to throw in their lot with their white fellow workers in assailing the power of their only enemy, capitalism.

Capitalism is the real enemy of the black man as it is of the white man. Negro editors who try to arouse the hatred of the black workers for the white workers are not serving the cause of their own people. They are either silly fools or paid agents of the white capitalists. The workers have no rights except those they have secured by fighting. They can hold no rights except those they are willing to fight for. This applies to black and white.

The subserviency to the American ruling class which finds expression in editorial whining in some Negro papers is disgustingly advertised in the current issue of the Chicago Defender, a Negro weekly published in Chicago. In an editorial on Defense Day, the writer, after blatantly declaring that: "If Uncle Sam wants to know what he has at his command for the future defense of the country let him look at the 12,000,000 of us and count every one as present in time of need," goes on to boast of the half million Negroes who helped in the late Morgan war, and even tho on their return from France, they had their uniforms torn off and some of them starred as the principal attraction at lynching bees and tar and feather parties, before the stench from the rotting corpses in Flanders ceased to pollute the atmosphere, this slave-minded editor tells us that the Negroes are willing to do the same thing again. We doubt it. At least we hope he is talking thru his hat.

The Chicago Defender hopes that by thus groveling in the mud before the military army of the American capitalist class, which is the government, that the masters will deal more leniently with the Negro. The American Negro will be treated with respect when he learns to rely on his own ability to protect whatever rights he has now; when he ceases to follow the grovelling humbugs and charlatans who now lick the boots of his masters for a consideration; when he no longer gives ear to the siren call of race hatred that is chanted by the prostituted editors and bourgeois mountebanks of his race; and when he learns to join with his white brother for the overthrow of the robber system that condemns all workers black and white to a life of toil, misery and degradation.

The Chinese Tell a Story

Just listen to the Chinese for a while. Let them tell you the story of what is going on in their country. It will be a different tale altogether from what you are accustomed to find in your home newspapers, in the organs of the capitalist press.

The Chinese delegation to the Fifth Congress of the Communist Internataional has given us just a few of those excellent doings of the foreign governments in China with which the history of world imperialism is replete. Listen to it:

For an attempt to search an American merchant at Kalgan, who was suspected of carrying on illegitimate business and who resisted the Chinese authorities, the American government demands payment of fifty thousand dollars of "compensation" and punishment of the "guilty" officials. Guilty of what? Nobody knows.

Chinese textile operatives at Hankow, employed by an English cotton mill, declare a strike in protest against the dismissal of some of their fellow workers for joining a union. A street demonstration takes place. Whereupon the English soldiers stationed at Hankow attack the strikers, disperse the demonstration, wound some of the participants and have a number of them arrested and given jail sentences.

Examples of this sort could be related without end. We listen to the story told by the Chinese themselves and we get the true flavor of imperialist rule in China. And we ask again: How long are the workers of America, England, France and Japan going to keep quiet about it?

Luckily for China and for ourselves, the Chinese masses themselves are beginning to move. Just a few weeks ago there was formed in Peking, China, a new organization that calls itself "The Society for Combatting Imperialism." And the first public act of this new organization was to send a letter of greetings to Comrade Trotsky, expressing recognition and gratitude to the Soviet government for its humane, sympathetic and brotherly attitude towards the sufferings of the Chinese masses. Which again proves the old truth that the only real friend of the oppressed nations the world over is the revolutionary working class and its leader—the Communist International.

"During the last few years," said Sidney Webb, a leader in the British Labor Party, "this party (Labor Party) has enrolled bishops, and peers, landowners, a banker or two and not a few manufacturers and other employers of labor." Is it surprising that LaFollette should favor a party of that composition here, minus the name?

AS WE SEE IT - -

By T. J. O'Flaherty

(Continued from page 1.)

would mean his quick departure from Downing Street. LaFollette, who is not a pacifist—this much is admitted by the Nation—would do just as MacDonald is doing. He is busy now proving that he is not a radical. If he gets into the White House he will be in a better position to prove his loyalty to capitalism.

* * *

THE NATION also congratulates Calvin Coolidge for "two excellent things since the beginning of his campaign for which he is entitled to all praise," namely his approval of the nomination of a colored man in New York on the socialist ticket and his refusal to come out for the elevation of the guns on American battleships in order to bring the fighting efficiency of the United States navy up to the British standard. Perhaps Villard is thankful for small mercies and Calvin's record is so black that these two liberal virtues shine like the glow of a firefly in a swamp. We once knew of a rather undesirable farmer who took his passage beyond the dark ocean. The neighbors gathered around at his wake and as it is not considered good taste "to speak ill of the dead" the mourners maintained a discreet silence with the exception of one who succeeded in finding one thing that could be put down on the credit side of the deceased's ledger. "If he wasn't much good for anything else," he said, "he could smoke a good pipe of tobacco."

* * *

THE socialist party was afflicted with a set of principles as recently as the year 1920. Since then it has reorganized and listed its 1920 declaration of principles under the general heading of "unrealizable liabilities." Many socialists who have forgotten all about their principles may be interested to read paragraph five of the 1920 declaration of principles: "Around and about the capitalist class cluster the numerous and varied groups of the population, generally known as the 'middle classes.' They consist of farm owners, small merchants and manufacturers, professional and better paid employes. Their economic status is often precarious. They live in hope of being lifted into the charmed sphere of the ruling classes. Their social psychology is that of the retainers of the wealthy. As a rule they sell their gifts, knowledge and efforts to the capitalist interests. They are staunch upholders of the existing order of social inequalities."

* * *

THIS seems to fit the leaders of the movement that now finds in La-Follette its modern Moses. "They are staunch upholders of the existing order of social inequalities." They are selling their gifts, knowledge and efforts to the capitalist class. This is just as true of the socialists as it is of Gompers, the chief American labor faker, Warren S. Stone, the labor banker, and non-union mine operator; Rudolph Spreckles, the sugar magnate and the hundreds of other disgruntled capitalist retainers who are trying to boost their sale price by shaking the LaFollette club at the heads of the master class. The socialist party has as little stomach for the exhuming of its past class declarations of policy as the British government would have for the publication of the skeletons in the war department closets.

* * *

THE state convention of the New Jersey State Federation of Labor adjourned sine die after a resolution endorsing the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket, was tabled by a vote of 206 to 95. The New Jersey labor fakers are for Davis and for open booze openly arrived at. While Bryan, the missing link on the democratic ticket is as dry as the lone proverbial Scotchman in a saloon, Davis is judiciously wet. The labor leaders of the Mosquito State are as corrupt as Chinese tuchuns. So are the reactionary labor leaders of the other states.

* * *

SOVIET RUSSIA shipped abroad during the first half of the current fiscal year, 758,000 tons of oil, which is more than 80 per cent of the total exports for 1913. Russian petroleum is again competing with American in the European market. A capitalist editor commenting on the remarkable progress made by the Communist government in bringing its oil industry up to within twenty per cent of the pre-war production, assumes that Russian peasants are going without oil. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw the enemies of the Workers Republic readily grasp every possible assumption that would minimize the victories of the Russian Communist government on the economic front.

* * *

A GENTLEMAN who styles him self president of Georgia (not the state that cast its solid vote for MacAdoo at the Democratic convention but Soviet Georgia, a contented member republic in the United Social ist Soviet Republic) had better secure the services of an alienist, or else go on a tomato and lettuce diet. He is rambling about Europe telling strange tales of revolutions in Georgia, cities captured, Soviet troops revolting, etc. The gentleman has written a letter to Rykov, Soviet premier offering Russia a "most favored nations" commercial treaty in Georgia, provided Rykov recognizes the independence of that country. But the gentleman is rather late with his offer. The Georgian workers and peasants are under the impression that they are already free and independent and are heartily enjoying their status in the great Union of Socialist Republics with headquarters in Moscow. Another case of defective pineal glands.

Expose U. S. As Oppressor of China

(Continued from page 1)

directed against imperialists and their agents.

Cites Imperialist Oppressions.

"A number of outrageous events having occurred during this last year are an evidence of imperialistic, arbitrary and oppressive action in China. The following are but a few instances thereof:

"(1.) The case of the American merchant at Kalgan, who, when searched by the Chinese authorities, resisted and was wounded—whereupon the American authorities demanded $50,000 compensation, apologies and the punishment of the local officials, and the Chinese authorities had to submit to these conditions.

English Break Strike.

"(2.) The strike of the Hankow textile workers, following the dismissal by an English cotton mill of 200 Chinese operatives, as a reprisal against their attempt to form a union. The elected workers arranged a demonstration, which was however dispersed by English armed force, many of the workers being wounded in the affair. Thirty-three of them were arrested and five were sentenced to five months and the rest to two months in prison by the British consul.

"(3). The Gold Franc question. As is known, the French government, owing to the fall of the franc, demands payment of the French part of the Boxer indemnity in gold, instead of paper francs, which means a loss of some 55 millions taels to the Chinese people.

Japan Gets In An Oar.

"(4.) The Port Arthur and Dairen leases. Altho the term of lease for which these areas were handed over to Japan after the Russo-Japanese war expired last year, Japan is still refusing to restore them to China.

"(5.) The Lincheng affair. After the attack of the bandits on the express near Lincheng, in which about 100 Chinese and 20 foreigners were robbed and made prisoners, the diplomatic corps demanded $8,700 compensation for every robbed foreigner, the organization of railway protection control of foreign chiefs and the dismissal of a number of officials. These demands were complied with.

"(6.) Cotton exports. The diplomatic corps demanded that the prohibition to export cotton be lifted, and, in spite of the protests of Chinese merchants, the government submitted to this demand.

Dodge $200,000,000 in Taxes.

"(7.) Tobacco taxes. The British-American Tobacco company in China is exempted from paying the tobacco tax, which means a loss to the country of some $200,000,000 yearly.

"(8.) The Canton duties. When the Kuomintang government of the south of China decided not to hand over the revenue from levying of customs duties to the Peking government —or, in other words, due to certain circumstances to the control of foreign powers—twenty foreign warships were despatched to Canton, to force the authorities there to reconsider their decision.

Demand Naval Squadron.

"(9.) Foreign fleet. The imperialistic powers have an agreement between them regarding the formation of a joint naval squadron on the river Yang-tse-kiang, and are making efforts to have the Chinese government agree to this plan."

"The list of such examples," the authors of the Chinese declaration continue, "could be prolonged indefinitely. The government is under the influence of imperialists, but in response to the arbitrary conduct of foreigners, the national movement in China is growing, in which the Kuomintang influence is steadily growing.

Organize Revolutionary Movement.

"We consider necessary to create such a national revolutionary movement, under the direction of a strong centralized party, which could draw broad masses to the movement.

"The national congress of the Kuomintang adopted the party program, demanding the abolition of all oppressive agreements of exploitation, concluded with foreigners, regarding concessions, consular rights, foreign control of customs, and also the repudiation of all loans contracted by irresponsible governments. In the field of home policy, the party demands general suffrage, freedom of speech and meetings, the enactment of labor legislation and the protection of labor organizations, the reorganization of the agrarian system and nationalization of means of communication.

"After this congress, the Kuomintang entered into a new phase. Many laborers and intellectuals have now joined the party.

Hold May Day Demonstrations.

"A number of big demonstrations in various towns were arranged on May Day under our direction. When the Chinese government at first broke up the agreement with the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the Kuomintang arranged a demonstration in Peking, which was dispersed by the police.

"Today, the Peking government is beginning to persecute the Kuomintang. Thus, five members of the party were arrested at Hankow on May 1st, and then executed, while five other Kuomintang members were apprehended in Peking and jailed without court judgment."

The authors of the reported declaration conclude by stating that their party is still small in China. They state that it is the party's program, in accordance with the resolution of the Fourth World Congress of the Third (Communist) International, to direct the labor and participate in the national movement in China.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF DEFENSE DAY

Charge Labor Heads Sought to Shield Klan

(Continued from Page 1)

bor several years ago, declares in part: "We feel that the attempted usurpation of the power of government by the Ku Klux Klan is of paramount importance to every American. We cannot belive that any American after giving full thought to the purposes and objects sought to be obtained by this organization can either join or condone such a conspiracy.

Hit Klan Intolerance.

"The American people cannot tolerate the threat or the accomplishment of usurpation of the powers of government by any organization or be denied by intimidation, fraud or duress. The intolerance of the Ku Klux Klan is its stock in trade. By the arousing of blind hatreds it seeks to nerve its adherents on to a policy that falls little short of treason. Thru prejudice it attempts to swerve its followers to a course that could not be made attractive to any following by any other means. We cannot refrain from pointing out the fact that great wars have been fought for the very freedom that the Ku Klux Klan seeks to deny and destroy.

"The trade union movement for itself has always sought to keep its own councils free from either religious or racial bigotry, intolerance. We have the highest regard for legitimate fraternal organizations, and we pay the highest tribute to them for their good works. But the K. K. K. seeks to overthrow laws and deny constitutional rights which we prize above everything else. They constitute the breath of life itself to free men and women.

Condemn "Invisible Empire."

"We condemn this secret conspiracy, this hideous and sinister movement that proudly calls itself 'the invisible empire,' cloaking itself in masks and mummery while it eats at the hearts of our institutions. We call upon America in general, and trade unionists in particular, to beware of this menace and to conduct themselves in the open under the law. It is the trade unionist's duty of the highest order to shun this conspiracy."

Reverence for democracy as it is constituted today in the United States was woven into the resolution which denounces the Klan.

WORKERS' STRAW VOTE

THE DAILY WORKER,
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

The workers employed in the shop of.....

.....have taken a straw vote on the presidential candidates, and the vote was as follows:

WM. Z. FOSTER ..... votes; LaFOLLETTE ..... votes;
Workers Party No Party

DAVIS ..... votes; COOLIDGE ..... votes.
Democratic Party Republican Party

I certify that this report is correct:

Name: .....

Address: .....

"The idea becomes power when it penetrates the masses." —Karl Marx.

SPECIAL MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT
THE DAILY WORKER

SECOND SECTION
This magazine supplement will appear every Saturday in The Daily Worker.

SEPTEMBER 13, 1924.

Three Principles of the Program of Action

By WILLIAM Z. FOSTER.

THE development of the Workers Party into a mass Communist Party is a tremendous task, one that calls for the exercise of the utmost intelligence, militancy and courage of the whole membership. The work of party building must be carried on much more planfully, continuously, and determinedly than is now the case. There is far too much sluggishness, too many lackadaisical methods in existence at present. The sooner our party gets rid of these evidences of youthfulness the sooner it will lay the basis for a real organization.

In the program of action, recently adopted by the Central Executive Committee and then laid before the membership as a whole, there is offered the means to develop our party along the way it must go if it is to take on the ideology, structure, and functions of a real Communist mass party. The party units, high and low, should study this program carefully and put its provisions diligently into effect.

Three principles of the program of action deserve especially to be called to the attention of the membership. These are, (a) the conception of a balanced program of work; (b) the creation of the machinery necessary to get this work accomplished; (c) the means to make this machinery actually work. The first deals with the ideology, the second with the structure, and the third with the functioning of the party. Let us consider these principles one at a time:

A Balanced Program of Work.

Because of the complexities of modern social organization, the Communist Party perforce must carry on activities simultaneously in many spheres. This necessity is seen best expressed, of course, where the party is in power. Then it has to supervise and direct every living institution, including the government, the industries, agriculture, the army, the trade unions, the schools, the co-operatives, etc., etc. The party must have the breadth of vision not only to develop proper policies for all these institutions, but also to put them into effect simultaneously and continuously. Great injury, if not actual disaster, results if any of these urgent tasks are neglected.

Even under capitalism the need for a highly diversified activity exists, altho naturally upon a minor scale than in a proletarian society. Our party is confronted with a multitude of tasks, all imperatively demanding attention. It must, of course, wage a militant struggle against capitalism at all points, including the carrying on of vigorous election campaigns, creation of united fronts around burning political issues, leading of strikes, warring against the reactionary union bureaucracy, organizing the unorganized, establishing shop committees, defending class war prisoners, etc., etc. But while the party is waging this struggle, which is its reason for being, it must not forget the vital task of educating its membership, of utilizing every possible opportunity to attract sympathetic working class elements into the party, of re-organizing itself upon the basis of shop nuclei, of building the party press, etc., etc. In short, we must not only use the party continuously in the class war, but we must also carry on continuously the process of strengthening it numerically and ideologically.

Unfortunately our party membership has not yet reached the point where it realizes the necessity for such continuous work on all the fronts of party activity. A most decided tendency is for the members to concentrate upon certain issues, whether these in given instances be the maintenance of some struggling paper, the organizing of labor parties, or the carrying on of trade union work, and to disregard everything else. Consequently, vitally necessary work is not done. The final effect is that as a whole the party has neglected many of its most urgent tasks, including the bringing in of new members and the education of the membership at large. The tendency to neglect the industrial work is also quite marked, only a very small percentage of the members taking any interest or part in it whatever. Naturally, the party suffers from this tendency to neglect necessary work; it fails to properly exploit the opportunity to develop itself into a well-rounded mass organization.

A leading principle of the program of action aims to correct this evil by educating the party to the necessity for carrying on work systematically and continuously in all the fields open to it, and then to provide the necessary policies for such work. The seven policies of the program of action, including the election campaign, intensification of the trade union work, the membership drive, the DAILY WORKER drive, the reorganization of the party upon the basis of the shop nuclei, the organization of the unemployed, and the extension of the educational work, constitute a balanced program of work corresponding to the most necessary tasks now confronting our party. If the membership can be educated into applying these policies vigorously then the power and influence of the Workers Party will be enormously increased. Advancing on all fronts simultaneously, fighting the capitalists on the political and industrial fields, organizing and educating itself and the masses, it will begin to make real strides towards its goal of a mass Communist Party.

The Necessary Machinery.

It is not enough, however, that the membership be educated to the necessity for activity in all the fields above indicated and then equipped with the necessary policies. The party must also be organized to put these policies into effect. This the Program of Action proposes to accomplish thru a series of committees for its various policies.

For an organization, whether it is the W. P., a trade union, or whatnot, to legislate without creating the machinery necessary to carry out its decisions is futile. Nothing is accomplished. Everyone engaged in any kind of organized activity knows this well. To get results an individual or a committee must be charged with the responsibility. The mass cannot lead itself spontaneously. It must be organized. A case in point: Several years ago the Chicago Federation of Labor voted to hold a mass meeting for Tom Mooney. Ed Nockels went at the job in the usual unorganized way that prevailed in the federation. He merely sent out a letter to the affiliated local unions inviting their members to attend the meeting. These letters met the customary fate of such communications, winding up mostly in the unions' waste baskets. Consequently the meeting was a complete failure, not over 200 workers attending. Indignant at this typical failure, the rebel delegates in the federation determined to really organize a Mooney meeting. They had the federation adopt another motion for a meeting, over the protest of Nockels and Fitzpatrick. Then they created a big committee to build up the meeting. This committee, headed by J. W. Johnstone, hired the Coliseum, the biggest hall in Chicago, got a speaker of national repute, and advertised the meeting widely. Result, 20,000 people in attendance and one of the greatest labor meetings in the history of Chicago. Organization got results.

Many examples such as the foregoing could be cited to show the value of committee organization. But they are needless. Recognizing the principle involved, the Program of Action provides organization for each of its policies. In the C. E. C. some one member or committee will be held responsible for the enforcement of each policy. The same principle shall apply in the C. C. C.'s, D. E. C.'s, and local branches. All shall have their committees on the election campaign, industrial work, membership, DAILY WORKER, education, and unemployment. In the smaller branches of 25 or less, every member should be attached to some committee. Only in this manner can results be achieved with the Party policies. The Workers Party must not remain an amorphous mass; it must become an organized body which actually brings the membership directly into the Party work. The Program of Action provides the way. By now every unit of the Party should have the necessary committees organized to apply the several policies of the Program of Action.

Making the Machinery Work.

But the setting up of the essential committees is not enough in itself. Such machinery must be made to work. This is a very important consideration provided for in the Program of Action.

Every one with experience in organization work knows that often committees are created which do nothing. Such committees instead of being a help, hinder even the slight degree of action that would take place without them. They are a delusion and a snare. Hence, the units of our Party must not only establish the necessary committees, but they must see to it that they actually function and are the means of drawing the mass into the work.

For thus purpose the Program of Action proposes that all committees and individuals who are instructed to direct the work of applying the policies shall be required to report regularly to the units commissioning them. In the C. E. C., the various committees must report from time to time relative to the progress that is being made in working out the policies which they are specializing in. The District Organizers shall also submit regular reports to the C. E. C. as to what is being done in their districts to enforce the Program of Action. Following out this principle, the D. E. C.'s, C. C. C.'s, and local branches must likewise insist upon periodical reports from the committees they have appointed on the Party policies. To simply appoint committees and then to let them vegetate is futile. The success of the Program of Action depends upon a constant check being kept upon its series of committees.

In addition to being a fighting movement, the Communist Party must be a working movement. Every member must be a militant, an eager toiler in the cause. Mere dues payers and card carriers are of little or no value to our Party. The time will come, with our growing power and prestige, when they will be weeded out as useless lumber. The Communist movement is a poor resting place for

(Continued on page 5.)

WHEN YOU ARE CALLED UPON TO CELEBRATE "DEFENSE DAY"—

Remember the Results of the Last War!

The New Culture - -

By a Teacher

THE INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION has turned life topsy-turvy. Haughty culture has performed several interesting gyrations, feebler and feebler as its strength was being sapped by numerous collisions and humdrum needs. Experimental science has gained apace. The marvels of the universe (no longer idly adored as holy mystery) are being utilized for common drudge's sake. A socio-political metamorphosis is everywhere fermenting. Socialism has leaped to the front. These rattling changes have necessitated a newer culture: The socio-scientific or sociologic culture. By a series of terribly wasteful conflicts, the dawning culture has emerged partly triumphant, shining too often by the reflected light of the older resistant cultures . . . .

Though Professor James Harvey Robinson smartly defines theology as an imaginary subject, many intelligent persons still cling lovingly to its consoling mysteries. Mystery worship maketh ignorance at home in a hostile world! Metaphysics is still the exclusive delight of those merry men who are so bored by the sordid problems of workaday life that they needs must romp and frisk in the green fields of El Dorado. They "corrupt" youth by shunting its limited capabilities from immediate intelligible things to remote, largely meaningless abstractions. Still, peace be with them! Bad habits do not die in a day.

The ancient linguistic culture has so demoralized the educated snobs, they actually believe science to be of secondary,—possibly tertiary,—importance in a well-balanced curriculum. Schopenhauer made the hysterical prophecy that the world of culture was committing suicide by permitting the supersession of Latin and Greek by "modern" languages. He forgot that before Greek and Latin had become transcendent cultures, great civilizations had flourished and vanished, like the Minoan in Crete, the Hittite, Egyptian, Babylonian, Aztec, et. al. What exasperating nonsense it is to claim that there is only one royal road to Salvation by Culture. A scholar may be chock full of linguistics and yet be a pathetic dullard in analyzing his own emotions and prepossessions. What a babbling incompetent such a scholar really is. More poetry, more drama, more knowledge, more reverence and wisdom are to be culled from the study of embryology or geology or any other of the marvelously stimulating ologies than the most incorrigible linguist could ever garner from his worshipful, memoriter studies. Languages should not only not be studied as desiderata "per se," but solely as aids to understanding the scientific achievements of man. The whole evolution of life is our star witness to prove that language stumbled into the world as an aid to recording and facilitating useful inventions. Language itself is a useful invention. Excessive leizure, dwelling on a mount of security, remote from the afflicted vulgus, prostituted scholarship by its too exclusive worship of culture for culture's sake, i. e. for the sake of prestige.

Our immediate inference is that the logic of culture's evolution unmistakably points to the ascendency of a socio-scientific culture, (Professor Robinson called it anthropological), as the best adapted to an understanding of the age in which we live. Shortly we shall witness in high school and college (later in university and elementary school) a radical change in curriculum. There will be either no absolutely required subjects at all or more probably social sciences will be gladly accepted in lieu of linguistics. We shall all learn as of necessity to orient ourselves in our new cultural spheres. And the generations to come will be equipped to be critically active citizens in a vital social democracy.

The sociologic culture consists of three interrelated branches: the physical-scientific, the industrial, and the social-scientific. No sooner have you begun to teach "pure science" with its useful generalizations then you touch at once upon so-called "applied" science, i. e. industrialized science. (Huxley objected vigorously to the artificial separation of these aspects of science because as he clearly pointed out, the laws of science are prerequisite for any intelligent improvement in the processes of manufacture. Theory and practice are not opposed but supplementary). When you have touched upon science in industry, you have opened the first gate that leads to social science. The interdependence of the physical, industrial and social sciences is abundantly clear. Our high school and college curicula must take their clue from life's needs and establish numerous courses in these useful knowledges. Sociological subjects should be centralized as containing those vital problems of our social life which the critically active citizen must understand in order to serve the collectivity, usefully. Industrial science courses deservedly come next as providing an intelligent appreciation of the co-relation between science and productive industry. Thirdly comes the physical science group with its study of the large assumptions and fruitful hypothesis of science. As Tyndall (in his historic Belfast Address) said: "Science desires not isolation, but freely combines with every effort toward the bettering of man's estate. If the time now devoted to languages (especially ancient) and mathematics and other "cultural" odds and ends were transferred to the sociological science, an amazing transformation would ensue with profit to student and to our social citizenship." A consummation devoutly to be striven for! To understand one's own passionate age is task enough for the best brains. Why saddle the younger generation with the irrelevant culture of the "dark ages"? The scholarly Bernard Shaw has autobiographed the following: "I deal with all periods; but I never study any period but the present, which I have not yet mastered and never shall." Is there not a lamentable lack of Humor's common sense in the minds of those haughty culturists who desire our "educated" youth to understand Greek and Roman cultures, to boot?

Matthew Arnold, in his sentimental essay on culture, swam triumphantly in a nebulous eternity where clocks were a superfluity. Only with Timelessness as our base, can we endorse so vague an ideal as his, that culture is the striving for perfection. (I should like to add that the first need of any culture is a striving for perfection in its choice of intelligible terms). "Perfection" is so imperfect a symbol of each man's conceit that we get nowhere by employing it. To strive for "Sweetness of Light" is not objectionable if, seduced by that idealization, you do not blunder into asking energetic human beings like Tolstoi, Nietzsche, Voltaire and Heine to bow down to the prejudices of their contemporaries for the sake of "Peace, brother, peace." No, sir. The world is desperately in need of aggressive radicals, muckrakers, fearless fighters, iconoclasts. Sweetness and light must wait yet awhile, beloved Quietists! What more noble, but more silly ideal, than Arnold's: "Culture should seek to make reason and the will of God prevail." Hasn't the bungling world of man had enough bitter fun out of the sport of trying to decipher the will and codicil of God? Even the shrewdest attorneys at law have found the will hopelessly confused. Let's not bother our little heads about the will of God. He has ample time for that amusement Himself. Why mar His pleasure? We must not be too severe with the noble Arnold: He was limited by his own ignorance of science. His ideal, tho vague and incoherent, was something sacred to him. He realized that "the sweetness and light of the few must be imperfect until the raw and unkindled masses of humanity are touched with sweetness and light."

He believed naively enough that the acquisition of culture, "the passion to make the best that has been thought and known in the world current everywhere," would do away with classes! He had never pondered the iron historic truth that no "superior" class has ever voluntarily yielded any of its prerogatives to other less fortunately circumstanced groups. Enough of haughty culture! It has been a failure: An obstacle to the progress of the disinherited.

Ruskin's passion for human service lucidly discerned the inadequacy of a hothouse culture in a world like ours. He understood profoundly what Arnold wrote superficially and sentimentally:

"We are here as on a darkling plain,
Swept by confused alarms of struggle and flight,
Where ignorant armies clash by night."

His own poignant confession that he could not endure the very light of day nor paint nor enjoy the passing hour because of the distress of his bruised fellows is the humane counterpart of the sociological culture; a culture which worries its head over living proletarians and incidentally squanders a leizure hour with paeans to bygone ages, dead philosophers and their deader philosophies. Ruskin's lectures to the workingmen on their own homely (bread and butter) problems marked the turning point in culture's evolution. Soulessness of antecedent cultures broke Ruskin's heart with the bitter knowledge of their wilful irrelevancy, their contemptuous unconcern for the uncultured. The loving admiration bestowed by the quickened common people on Thomas Huxley was another tribute to the efficacy of the newer democratic culture. . . . Speaking of Savants and Amelioration, I recall with delight Monsieur Berthelot's great view of duty. In "Some New Conceptions of Science," Carl Snyder gives us a fine pen-portrait of one of our most genuine humanitarians:

"He answers to the fine conception he himself drew, when, a few days later, he stood in the great hall of the Sorbonne. It is not, he said, 'For the egotistical satisfaction of our private vanities that the world today renders homage to the savant. No! It is because the savant worthy of the name consecrates a disinterested life to the grand work of our epoch: I mean the amelioration—too slow, alas, to our view—of the lot of all, from the rich and the happy to the humble, the poor and suffering. That was what was implied by the public nine years ago in this same hall, in honoring Pasteur. It is what my friend Chaplain has endeavored to express on the beautiful plaque which the President of the Republic is about to offer me. I do not know if I have completely filled the noble ideal which the artist has here delineated, but I have tried, at least, to make this the object and end, the directing purpose of my existence."

Superior brains had actually become ashamed of its quondam ineffectual intellectuality. It essayed the great experiment of the ages: To discover what latent powers "inferior" men possessed, what development they were capable of inaugurating, what response they could make to "higher" appeals. This experiment is now in process.

Those who sympathize with the masses are unanimous in their desire to experiment some more; not to cease, until every available electron of superior talent has been given off to polarize the minds of common men. These experiments in democratic culture are the hope and inspiration of our age; the generous endeavors of a richly scientific epoch. The reader may remember the apt illustration in Maeterlinck's "Wisdom and Destiny" of what may be called the telescopic and microscopic views of life. Two men were strolling peripatetically along golden fields of wheat when in the distance they espied peasants laboring. The rhythmic sway of hands, the lovely undulations of bodies, the burnt golden hair of the workers shining brilliantly in the sun—what poetry in that labor of love. This the long-distance view! But oh, what sadness of mien, what tragic ignorance of speech, what ignoble bent backs, as the space was foreshortened and the short distance view clarified the vision. The microscope is more dependable than the telescope! It probes mysteries more searchingly, more accurately. And yet our perverse human minds are set in the very opposite bent. We love to prattle about the moon long before we have any knowledge about Mother Earth. Strange lands are more fascinating far than our own countries. The prophet is appreciated in all lands, but his own. Distance lends enchantment. The upshot of our perverseness is that we love to meddle with all manner of things and interests provided they tantalize us by remoteness, by novelty. All the cultures pre-

(Continued on page 5)

SO FAR IT'S DONE!

By Oskar Kanehl.

Who console still: the time will come?
So far it's done.
The white muskets are willing to shoot.
The white bayonets are willing to spit brute.
The white horror cries for blood.
Prolet, guard up!

Who console still: the time will come?
So far it's done.
The generals are commanding.
The gold-larded mercenaries are obeying.
The fascisti-pack goes off set-to.
Prolet, and you?

Who console still: the time will come?
So far it's done.
The misery blooms on palid lips.
The hunger grins through your naked ribs.
If you duck, it's too late.
Riot, prolet!

Who console still: the time will come?
So far it's done.
The capital panders to every vice.
The working bees on the pavement he drives.
Behind you is barred the way.
What do you delay?

Who console still: the time will come?
So far it's done.
Dead or slave? What like you rather?
Clear stand master and servant against each other.
For last assault. To fire go on!
So far it's done.

Translated by Paul Aeel.

Nations and Colonies -

By P. MANUILSKY

REPORT TO THE FIFTH CONGRESS OF THE COMMUNIST INTERNATIONAL

(Continued from previous issue)

The many mistakes made by the various Sections of the Comintern in connection with this question are due to the fact that many of our comrades are not yet rid of social democratic ideology. These mistakes can be said to be of four fundamental types, all of which are survivals of the attitude of the Second International on the national question. The first type of these mistakes is personified in the attitude of some Yugo-Slavian comrades, especially of comrades Sima Markovitch and Milliokovitch who are now in prison. I have already given you figures of the national composition of the Yugo-Slavian Communist Party. And yet, according to the opinions of comrades Markovitch and Milliokovitch the national question in Serbia is a purely bourgeois invention. According to comrade Markovitch the question as to whether Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes are three nations or one, is only a purely theoretical question which should not influence the practical policy of the party. Comrade Milikovitch goes even further than that. He asserts that in Yugo-Slavia there are no nations, but only linguistic differentations. In his pamphlet "National Question in the Light of Marxism" and in a number of articles published in the organ of the Yugo-Slavian Communist Parties, "Radnik," Comrade Markovitch brings forward, as a practical slogan for the Communist Party, the fight for the revision of the constitution, that is to say, he places the whole question of national self-determination on a constitutional basis. Very characteristic is Comrade Markovitch's attitude towards the Macedonian question. You know that Macedonia plays at present, after its partition between Serbs, Greeks and Bulgarians, the very same role in the Balkans that the Balkans play in Europe. A fierce fight is being waged around Macedonia, and especially around the question of an outlet into the Aegean Sea and the fight for the port of Saloniea between the small robbers in the Balkans. At the same time, there is in Macedonia a strong national movement for the re-establishment of an independent state. What is Comrade Markovitch's attitude to this national movement? In his articles he expresses the opinion that the Macedonian question is not by any means a Balkan but a European problem, which cannot therefore be finally solved before a victory of the European proletariat over the bourgeoisie has been achieved. If the question is put in this way, what will be the result? Only a passive attitude of the Communist Party to one of the most burning questions which are agitating the various Balkan nationalities at present. A careful study of the situation will show you that the origin of this kind of view is to be sought in the Second international. Markovitch holds the view that the proletariat must accept the bourgeois state such as it has been created by a series of wars and violations. We find signs of this theory in the interpretation of the national question by the "famous" Austrian school of thot. (Otto Bauer and Renner). In connection with the national question this Austrian school of thot insisted on the preservation of the frontiers of the former Austrian Empire at all cost. Therefore, the entire national question resolved itself for this school of thot in a country with as many nationalities as the former Austro-Hungary, into a fight for the revision of the constitution. Comrades, we know that our Russian school of thot on the national question declared war to the knife on the Austrian school of thot on that question. And nevertheless, after our polemics with Otto Bauer and after the Communist International has been in existence five years, we witness a revival of the views of this Austrian school among our Yugo-Slavian comrades. Similar mistakes are made by our Greek comrades in connection with the Macedonian question. A few months ago, when an armed conflict seemed imminent in the Balkans, the Executive Committee of the Balkan Federation issued a manifesto which called upon the proletariat of the Balkan countries to stand up for Macedonian independence. The Greek Communist Party not only did not publish this manifesto, but even sent a reasoned protest against the issue of such a document by the Executive Committee of the Balkan Federation.

Where, I ask you, should we search for the cause of such a state of mind? Undoubtedly in the survivals of the views which at that time were energetically expounded by the Austrian school.

The second type of mistake is bound up with certain traces of social imperialism. As the Austrian school in the course of the European war stood for the recognition of the integrity of the Austrian boundaries, so the German social-imperialistic school of Cuno and Pepcha and the rest started from the conception of a state in which the productive forces had outgrown the limits of the country. This school approaches the position of the obscure Dutch Social colonizer, Van Kolya, who at one of the International Congresses of the Second International recommended that each socialist party should formulate its own colonial policy. However distressing it may be to admit it, we find that this viewpoint even finds reflection in the political conclusions of certain individual party members. About a year ago the Comintern addressed an appeal to the colonial slaves, calling on them to revolt against their subjugation. When this appeal reached one of the Communist sections of the French Communist Party in Algiers, Sidi Bel-Abes, that section passed a resolution condemning such appeals of the Comintern to peoples of another race exploited by French imperialism.

In its decleration this section expressed great agitation over the fact that at the very moment when the noble French nation was bringing civilization to the colonies, the organization of the international working class should appear, calling on the colonial people to answer the benevolent efforts of the French colonizers with black ingratitude. (Laughter.) I ask the French comrades whether these possibly excellent Franchimen, but very indifferent Communists have been excluded from the party. I take the liberty of inquiring further of those comrades the whereabouts of those documents in which the French Communist Party loudly proclaimed the slogan of the separation of the colonies. (Sellier interrupts: "In the program of the Party.") Where are your declarations supporting the liberation of the colonies from French imperialism? You, French comrades, have 800,000 native workers in France. I ask you, what have you done to organize these workers, to prepare revolutionary agitators for the colonies from among their ranks? In your army there are 250,000 black soldiers. Do you think that you will be able to make a social revolution if these 250,000 are on the other side of the barricades? Will your working class be able to win a single strike if the bourgeoisie have at their disposal these black reserve troops which they can incite at any minute against your heroic proletariat? Have you carried on any anti-militaristic propaganda among these black troops? (From the French section: Yes. Yes. Yes.)

No. No I do not know of a single serious documentary proof of it. I do know that we must wage a vigorous fight against this attitude in the party. I will cite a certain fact which on the surface may seem to be quite unimportant, but which is extraordinarily indicative of the psychology of our parties. During the Lyons Congress the Comintern addressed an appeal to the French workers and the colonial peoples. The editors of the Central organ of the party, "Humanite," in publishing the appeal deliberately cut out from the text the words "to the colonial peoples." Is it possible for a party having an attitude like this to carry on propaganda among the "natives"? I heartily wish that in this question at least the French Party would return to the traditions of Jaures. We differ greatly from the dead leader of the French Socialist Party in both theory and practice. Jaures was a pacifist, he personified all the genius and all the weakness of a whole epoch in the development of the labor movement. But anyone who remembers those years which preceded the war knows that Jaures always expressed himself firmly and decisively against the colonial adventures undertaken by the French government. You remember what a courageous campaign Jaures conducted at the time of the Moroccan adventure which threatened to bathe all Europe in blood. I will cite one more fact from recent events. Not long ago general elections were held in your country, comrades from France. Why was there not a single native among the seven candidates allotted to the colonies? Why could you find only representatives of the ruling race who have stirred up general indignation against themselves, to act as candidates for the colonies?

Colonial Slaves in India in the Service of British Imperialism.

Still greater reproach is due to our English comrades for their passivity in the matter of colonial propaganda. The British comrades represent a proletariat more infected with colonial prejudices than all others in the Comintern. Marx once wrote on the question of Irish independence that the English workers would never be free until Ireland was free. Marx understood very well that the British proletariat would never succeed in destroying the powerful capitalist organism of the British Empire without the support of those peoples suppressed by the English Lords. These words were uttered many years ago when the British Empire did not yet represent so great a colonial power in the world, occupying one-third of the earth's surface. Do our English comrades think that the revolutionary process begins with the English proletariat liberating itself, and then in the capacity of a Messiah, carrying deliverance to the colonial peoples? We do not think so.

In none of the documents on the relations of the British Communist Party to the colonies which have been brot to us for perusal have we found a single declaration in which our British comrades have clearly and unmistakably demanded the separation of the colonies from the British Empire. Show us the documents in which you have defended Ireland's right to independence. And yet there are constant opportunities for declarations of this kind. Since the labor government of MacDonald has been in power you have not taken advantage of a single opportunity to bring this question before the proletariat of your country. Under the labor government the oppressive burden of British imperialism weighs down the colonies as it did before. Lord Reading, the celebrated hangman of British India, the same viceroy under whom the famous trials were conducted against even such moderate revolutionists as Ghandi, the Brothers Ali, and others, remains intact in his post. MacDonald's government has not taken the trouble even to replace the 200,000 bureaucrats who are ruling over the population of British India. Where is your fighting spirit, English comrades? Where is your readiness to carry a decisive struggle for freedom into the most far-flung corners of india?

The Russian comrades are grateful to you for launching the slogan "Hands Off Soviet Russia!" at the time of the armed intervention of Russia. But the entire International would rejoice even more if you were now to launch another no less courageous call: "Hands Off the Colonies."

3. To the third class of mistake belong those connected with the theory of Rosa Luxemburg. Rosa Luxemburg's viewpoint might be characterized as the theory of national nihilism. Rosa Luxemburg based her theory on the assumption that in the imperialist epoch every national movement is inevitably doomed to be used by the imperialist powers in their own interests. Therefore Rosa Luxemburg believed that the proletarian party should eradicate from its program the clause relating to the self-determination of peoples. Just as Cuno's theory of government represented the latest phase in the development of imperialism, so Rosa Luxemburg's theory represented the childhood stage of the labor movement when the question of the seizure of power seemed a far off problem to the working class.

It was only the Leninist Bolshevist school which put forward the question of the seizure of power as a question of the present day, and which was able to connect this problem with the interests of those millions who represent the intermediate stage in the social mechanism and on whose behavior depends, in the last analysis, the victory of the proletarian revolution. We have only to examine some of the resolutions on tactics of our European comrades to realize that we are still not quite free from the influence of Rosa Luxemburg's views. I have already cited the resolution of the Yugo-Slavian comrades who subordinate the self-determination of peoples to the victory of the proletariat in the Balkans and thruout Europe. A still clearer reflection of

(Continued on Page 6)

The British Left Wing

By Alexander Bittelman

IT is true that what we are witnessing at present in the trade union movement of Great Britain is only the beginning of a Left Wing, the first move in the right direction. But because it is based on the awakening rank and file, and is prompted to action by the ever-sharpening critical position of British Imperialism, and because it is inspired by the ideals of the revolutionary class struggle, this British Left Wing is headed directly towards victory all along the line in the not very distant future. We refer here to the National Conference of the revolutionary minorities in the British trade unions recently held in England.

The Illusions of "Progressivism."

Many have been wondering at this side of the ocean, as to why this British left wing was so terribly slow in crystallizing, so late in coming. In our own party, many have been asking the question: How is it that the British militants and Communists do not make themselves felt in the trade unions? Why don't they organize? Why don't they fight. Aren't conditions ripe for a successful militant Left Wing?

The answer was, it is hard to tell. On the one hand, conditions in England seemed to be over-ripe, rotten-ripe for such a left-wing to come into existence. For didn't we see the British trade unions actually going backwards, losing membership, prestige and power? Didn't we see a whole series of strikes broken and the workers driven back to the shops in defeat because of lack of centralized organization and militant leadership? And, lastly, did we not hear of a wave of "unofficial" (we call them outlaw) strikes having taken place in England in recent months in opposition to and in defiance of the expresse will of the official leadership? All of which would seem to indicate to us that the conditions were all there for a left wing to make its appearance and, by organized effort, to attempt to bring back to life the British trade union movement.

But then, on the other hand, there were in the British trade-unions (and still are) the so-called "progressives," many of them holding very responsible positions of leadership, men of the type of A. A. Purcell, Will Lawther, Robert Williams, who refuse to be classified in the same category with the reactionaries of the Henderson type and who are accepted by the rank and file as something different and better than these reactionaries.

Now, it stands to reason, particularly if we add to our reasoning a little of our actual experience in building the left wing in the American trade-unions, that the presence of such a group of "progressive" leaders would, as a rule, tend to deter and to hamper the crystallization and development of a militant Left Wing.

Just one little illustration. If we ask ourselves, where was it, in what particular union did it happen that we found the most difficulties in crystallizing and organizing a definite left wing? the answer will be; in those unions that are being led by a so-called "progressive" leadership. Take, for example, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (A. C. W. A.). Its president is Sidney Hillman, a "progressive." Its secretary is Joseph Schlossberg, a man of still more pronounced "progressive" tendencies. This "progressive" leadership, whatever its real nature, does one thing effectively, it breeds illusions in the rank and file, it makes the workers believe (for a time, at least) in its sincerity and ability to do things for them, to move ahead, and to meet successfully the new problems of the class struggle. What happens, under such conditions, is this, that before a left wing can begin making real headway in an organization which is led by "progressives," the rank and file must pass thru a period of at least partial disillusionment in the sufficiency of "progressivism." When the rank and file has had a chance to learn the true value of its "progressive" leadership, it is then that the rank and file becomes ripe for the acceptance of the militant policies of the left wing. And it is then also that a left wing can definitely crystalize its ideology and organization. That's what is happening in the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and in the Chicago Federation of Labor which has the "progressive" Fitzpatrick at its head, and in many other similar organizations. The same thing is beginning to happen in the trade unions of Great Britain.

The Illusions of MacDonaldism.

Another factor that undoubtedly exerted a powerful deterent influence upon this crystallization of a definite left wing in the British trade unions was the illusion of MacDonaldism. What was it?

It was the belief in the second coming of Christ. It was the ardent hope of the masses that when the Labor Party comes into power it will do something to make life better, easier and more secure. That's what it was. That's what we call the illusion of MacDonaldism.

Now, one has got to realize what this state of mind of the British masses meant for the development of a Left Wing. It meant a state of comparative tolerance and patience with the evils of the official trade union leadership. Why? Because, well because whatever is wrong with the trade unions will surely be corrected when we get a Labor government; because whatever we fail to get thru the trade unions will certainly be given to us by a Labor government, and because the Labor government, being our government, will surely stand by the unions with all the tremendous powers of the state in any conflict between ourselves and the capitalists. Just wait till the Labor government gets into power! And don't do anything to spoil its chances!

With such a state of mind it should be very difficult, indeed, to arouse the masses to militant action of any kind. But now the Labor government is here. MacDonald has been in power for quite some time. His government has begun to show itself up for all it is worth. Hence, the beginning of disillusionment in MacDonaldism. Hence, a gradual change of mind and spirit of the rank and file, a strong urge to move, to organize and to act. And as a result of all this, the beginning of a definite, militant Left Wing in the British trade-unions.

Symptoms of Awakening.

That we are dealing here with a new spirit in the ranks of British Labor can be seen from the fact that even the so-called "progressives" felt compelled to assume a somewhat more aggressive and militant position. When we saw the British delegation at the Vienna Conference of the Amsterdam International (held recently) demand an understanding with the Red Labor Union International (R. I. L. U.), we knew the reason. It was because of the restlessness and demand for action by the rank and file. When we find that Robert Williams speaks in Hamburg, at the Congress of the Transport Workers' International, in favor of joining hands with the Russian unions, we know where to locate the cause: the British rank and file. And when we see the British trade Union Congress, in session at Hull, granting more power to its General Council, authorizing it to call general strikes, and framing all kinds of demands upon the capitalists and the government, we know that the British working class is at last beginning to move.

And in order that there be no misunderstanding, we want to say right here that we have very little trust in the ability of the British "progressives" to assume leadership of a real militant movement. Even if they go along for a while, it will be only as a result of pressure—constant pressure by the rank and file. All the important decisions of the Trade Union Congress at Hull will not be worth the paper they were written on, if there is no militant Left Wing, based upon rank and file organization, to compel and to drive to action. Fortunately for the British Labor movement and for the working class the world over such a Left Wing has begun to crystallize. The recent Conference of the revolutionary minorities in the British trade unions has laid the basis and has created the machinery for the successful development of such a Left Wing.

Political Horse Thief Confesses

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

To call a man a horse thief is a serious charge. To accuse a man of being a horse thief without sufficient evidence to back up the accusation is a foolhardy venture. But when the horse thief admits his guilt, no further prof is necessary and the only thing left is to pronounce sentence.

The Communists have repeatedly accused the socialists of the world and those of Europe in particular of being the agents of capitalism. Since the Dawes plan was framed and the leadership of the capitalist forces that urged its adoption was handed over to the socialists, the Communists charges were supported by overwhelming evidence. But yet, there was something lacking. That was a confession of guilt. Well, it has come at last.

In two editorials unsurpassed for incoherence and crazy logic, by any piece of journalism seen by the writer since the notorious Harry K. Thaw gave his famous "rabbit" interview to the newspapers after his successful fight to dodge the insane asylum, Victor Berger's Milwaukee Leader in its issue of Sept. 3, admits that but for the socialists of Europe the Dawes Plan would now be as dead as the shin bone of Saint Anne, yet attempts to justify this act of treason to the working class.

Berger has bitterly attacked the Dawes plan since it was first broached. So have many of LaFollette's supporters. Denunciation of the Dawes plan was usually mixed with euloiges of James Ramsay MacDonald, the plan's chief midwife. Suddenly it dawned on Victor Berger and the LaFollette crowd that in denouncing Dawes for giving birth to his plan, they were inconsistent in showering praise on the socialist midwife.

The political horse thief, at his wit's end to get out of a nasty mess, prepares a careful confession. After beating around the bush and indulging in windy threats against the ferocious Dawes, for his slam at the socialists, the Leader in a "don't bite the hand that feeds you" spirit pens the following:

"We call the general's attention right at the start to the important fact, that the experts' plan would never have been adopted by the governments of Europe, if it had not been for the socialists." (Bold face ours. Communist villians that we are, this catching of a yellow socialist, politically shirtless in the market place gives us joy.)

The editor proceeds with the confession:

"Every European reactionary fought the plan to the last ditch. It would never have become the basic law of European economy with Poincare, Lloyd George or Ludendorf in power. It was adopted after French and British democracy with socialist help had overthrown the reactionaries and after German socialists had forced the Marx government to disavow the nationalists."

At this stage of the confession His Honor the infuriated and betrayed proletariat turns down his thumbs and mutters "To the lions with the vile caitiff", but the People's Commissar of Justice, stop the wrath of the mass jury. He allows the culprit to proceed, and asks if he has anything to say in mitigation of his crime. The culprit says:

"But European socialists did not accept the Dawes Plan because they loved it for itself. They accepted it because it gave them a chance to force European imperialism under the yoke of American bankers. This was the only available way to prevent the European imperialists from starting another war right away."

This is where the editorial apologist knocks Harry Thaw's "rabbit" dissertation for a head full of ossified brains. The capitalists feared that another war would spell their doom. Therefore they hatched the Dawes plan to prevent a war or at the worst postpone it and the socialists, faithful servants of capitalism stepped up and told the workers that the Dawes plan would bring them prosperity and prevent war.

The scheme worked. Sending the socialists forward as a smoke screen in order to cloud their intentions, the capitalists succeeded. But what ungrateful wretches they are. While the socialists were serving them so faithfully, here is what was taking place in Europe according to Berger's Leader:

"We know that Hughes, Mellon and Dawes conspired with the reactionaries in London, Paris and Berlin to start a grand fight on Socialism after the European socialists should have done Wall Street the favor to have put the Dawes plan over . . . ." '

This is a confession with a vengeance. But every cloud has a silver lining and even tho the European socialists may have acted as the tools of Wall Street, out of evil good will come, because forsooth Ramsay MacDonald is a Christian and well versed in the ways of the Lord. The Leader continuous. It is now in the field of prophecy:

"The Dawes Plan will work out as a peace plan, but not in the way that the House of Morgan figures. It will be a peace plan without the House of Morgan and without Wall Street generals. . . . Thanks to the Dawes plan, socialism will triumph, first over Europe then over American capitalism."

The culprit began by admitting that the socialists were the tools of Wall Street. The oft-made charge of the Communists is hereby admitted by the daily organ of the socialist party of America. The socialists are condemned out of their own mouths, but the sentence cannot be yet pondered. The betrayed workers of Europe will deliver it some day and it will not be light.

Meanwhile Victor Berger is hammering away at the Dawes plan in his daily column on the front page of Milwaukee Leader, blissfully oblivous of the editorial page viewpoint that the Dawes plan, will bring peace and socialism.

European socialists are surely a pack of accomplished traitors. American socialists, like Barkis in the Dickens novel are also "willin'" but in addition they seem to be candidates for the madhouse.

SOCIALIST PREMIER'S SON PRESENTED TO STRIKEBREAKER CAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Malcolm MacDonald, son of Premier MacDonald, of Great Britain, was presented to President Coolidge today by Secretary of State Hughes. Young MacDonald is in the United States with the Oxford debating team.

Foreign Policies of British Government

By KARL RADEK

II.

The Policy of the English Labor Government

The policy of the English Labor Government regarding the Reparations Question is pursuing the same ends as those which the Lloyd George and the Baldwin cabinet pursued. These aims are: Stabilization of European capitalism in order to restore the European markets, reduction of expenditure on armaments, limitation of the possibility of the restoration of Germany as a strong competitor, removal of the danger of an economic and military hegemony on the part of France. The policy of the labor government differs very little in its methods from the policy of the preceding cabinets. And even that difference in methods which is to be observed is not due to the fact that MacDonald is now occupying the position of Foreign Secretary instead of Lord Curzon, but that MacDonald came into power at a moment when France had become somewhat weakened and there was a certain change in the attitude of the United States.

In order to judge English foreign policy it is necessary to bear in mind the fundamental facts of the economic situation of England. This has considerably improved in the last year or so. The output of coal for last year amounted to 278 million ton and was only 11 million tons behind the output for 1913, the output of iron amounted to 7.04 million tons, while in 1913 it amounted to 10 million tons. The textile industry is still laboring under a crisis. This can best be seen by the fact that whilst in 1913 England imported 19 million cwts. of cotton, in 1923 she imported only about 13 million cwts. The import of wool, which in 1913 amounted to 21 million cwts, in 1923 only amounted to 7.04 million cwts. Imports of jute flax etc. fell from 600,000 tons to 265,000 tons. English foreign trade, reckoned according to the index of prices for the year 1913 affords the following picture:

	Price index in million pounds sterling			Percentage compared with 1913
	1921	1922	1913	1923	1922
Imports	735.7	659.4	768.7	93	85.8
British Export	404.4	361.8	525.2	74.5	68.9
Re-Exports	94.0	89.3	109.6	81.3	81.5

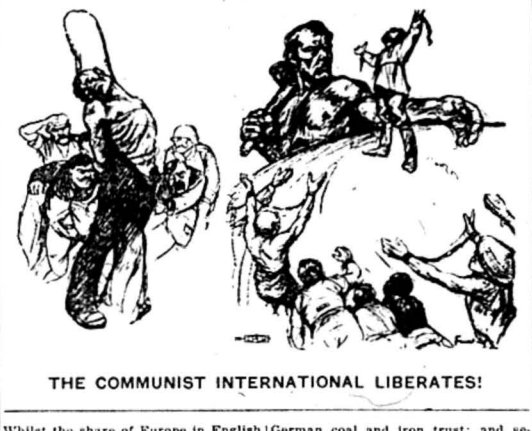
As is known, England has always covered the deficit in her trade balance by the interest on capital invested abroad, with income from shipping, banking etc. Unlike France she has not lost the greater portion of her capital invested abroad. This balance of so-called invisible exports, according to the figures of the Board of Trade Journal of 31st January 1924, is made up as follows:

In million pounds	1913	1922	1923
Income from capital invested abroad	210	175	150
Income from shipping	94	110	110
Income from banking	35	40	40
Total of invisible exports	339	325	300
Surplus of imports	158	170	203
Favorable trade balance	181	155	97

When it is remembered that the pound has lost 42 percent of its value, it is seen that the favorable balance has decreased by 124 million pounds. All these figures however do not give a clear indication of the economic position of England. Prof. Bowley, the English economist, is of the opinion that in 1923 England only reached 87 percent of her pre-war production. The "Economist" disputes these figures and claims that England has reached 95 percent of her pre-war production. Keynes (in the "Nation" of 12th of April) agrees with the later, but points out that the population has increased by 2 million. The difficulties in all these calculations are best to be seen by the fact that prices of raw material have increased by 50 percent, the prices for articles of necessity by 78 percent, and the prices of exported goods by 90 percent. It is very difficult on the basis of these factors, which indicate a very different grade of development, to give a uniform picture. That England has not yet reached the pre-war level in industrial production is best shown by the fact of the existence of one million unemployed, even if one bears in mind that which the editor of the "Economist", Layton, in the discussion over the economic position of England (London "Nation" 3rd May 1924) rightly points out: That the average number of the unemployed before the war amounted to 400,000.

But the English bourgeoisie are not comforting themselves with this improvement in the economic situation. Before all they ask what will happen, if the economic power of Germany is re-established. Already last year Lloyd George said: "If we assume that the reparations question is settled to-morrow and Europe has a real peace; will it bring you prosperity? The moment when peace is restored in Europe and the valuta stabilised, you will be face to face with a real competition." Lloyd George referred to this question again in April last, when he wrote: "The monthly surveys indicate improvement and a decrease in unemployment. Can any reasonable man however risk his fortune and calculate that normal conditions will recur in the next five years."

English trade has maintained in the last years that level to which it attained as a result of the increase of economic relations between England and her colonies. Whilst imports from Europe since 1913 to 1923 have fallen from 41.6 percent to 34.01 percent, the share of English colonies in the imports have increased from 24.08 percent in 1913 to 29.07 percent in 1923.



Whilst the share of Europe in English exports has decreased from 36.09 percent in 1913 to 35.02 percent in 1923, the share of the colonies has risen from 37.2 perecent in 1913 to 39.2 percent in 1923. This was due in the first place to the fact that the export of English capital was chiefly directed to the colonies. In 1913 England exported capital amounting to 200 million pounds, in 1922 only 150 million pounds and in 1923, 120 million. ("Statist" of 5th January 1924.) These capital sums are invested as follows: in 1913 England invested 98 million pounds in foreign countries and 99 million in her own colonies; in 1922 foreign loans absorbed about 20 and in 1923 about 30 million pounds less than colonial loans. If England desires now to participate in the restoration of European economy, she must reduce her export of capital to the colonies which will mean reducing their purchasing power. At the same time she must reckon with the fact that the industrial production of her colonies is increasing and as a result, the prospect of their forming an ever-increasing market for English goods is fading.

In view of these facts the English bourgeoisie at the last elections renounced the utopian ideas of the Conservatives to disregard Europe and rely in the first place on the colonial markets. The English bourgeoisie, who since the Ruhr expedition of Poincare have looked passively on at the events in Europe, only attempting behind the scenes to egg Germany on to offer resistance, have decided to take an active part in European affairs again. Their role as spectator during the time of the Ruhr adventure was an enforced one; by what means could they hold back France when she had taken the solution of the reparations question in her own hands? They were not only unable to venture on war, from the blows of which they had not yet recovered, they could not even venture to oppose sharply the policy of the French, for this would have meant the breaking up of the Entente. How could England decide to break with France, when she did not have a single ally in Europe, and when she did not know what would be the relations of the United States to her in the future?

The only thing to do was to hope that Poincare would break his neck against the German resistance, or that he would exhaust himself, even in the event of a victory over Germany. The latter is what actually occured. The time came when England intervened. Its first form was the participation of England in those manipulations which brought about the fall of the Franc. This led France to recognize the Experts' Plan. The present task consists in compelling France to evacuate the Ruhr basin. This assures in the first place equal conditions for England and France in the attempts to arrive at a bargain with the German coal and iron kings, and abolishes the danger of the creation of a Franco-German coal and iron trust; and secondly, it reduces the pressure of France upon Germany in general, lowers the prestige of France in Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, in Roumania and Yugoslavia, in which countries England has recently begun very successfully to counteract French influence. If the loan for Germany amounting to 200 million dollars is carried out, half of which is to be contributed by America and the other half by English banks, then not only Germany, but France also will be rendered dependent upon Anglo-saxon capital. The carrying out of the experts' plan internationalizes the German liabilities. Germany will not be the debtor of France. France's place will be taken by the International stock exchange. France will then not be in a position to put pressure on Germany, to disorganize her economy and by this means to limit the English market. So soon as things are proceeding in this direction France will be strongly impelled to reduce her armaments. Thus reckons English capitalism.

France demands as recompense for her concurrence in such decisions, the renunciation by England of the debts owing to her from France. The English government has not agreed and does not agree to cancel the French debts. MacDonald has refused up to now to give any promise in this respect and certainly will not do so unless France makes certain concessions as regards foreign policy and the armaments question. France is aiming at obtaining from England a guarantee for the territory occupied by France and a pledge that she, together with France, adopts punitive measures against Germany in the event of the latter failing to fulfil the obligations taken over by her. England is endeavoring to avoid the last named obligation by depriving the reparations commission of the right to decide whether Germany has failed to fulfil her obligations. This right is to be transferred to the banks who have granted the loan. By this means England seeks to transfer the blame for showing clemency to Germany on to America, without whose help it is impossible to finance the loan. MacDonald, who in Paris was driven to the wall, has thought out a temporary formula for the participation of a representative of America in the solution of the question of default on the part of Germany, according which the representative of America will appear as the agent of the Experts' Commission. He hopes that with the help of the Americans he will succeed in arriving at clear decisions at the London Conference which will remove the possibility of the French sabotaging the proposals of the experts. As regards the guarantee for French security, England is endeavoring with all her powers to transfer the responsibility for this to the League of Nations.

The active policy of Macdonald appears in this light as the result of a weakening in the position of France and of America's participation in the solution of the reparations question.

Program of Action

(Continued from page 1)

drones and sluggards. It wants doers, not observers.

At present the degree of activity of our membership is very low. Only a comparatively few members are really active. They carry on the life of the Party. This is an unhealthy condition. The mass must be brot into the Party work. The fate of our Party depends upon this. The Program of Action provides the way to do this. The membership must be educated to the necessity of working in all the fields of Party activity; they must be organized to carry on this work effectively; and finally, this committee machinery must be made to function. If these principles are borne in mind and applied faithfully, then our Party will rapidly advance in size, intelligence, discipline, and influence. It will soon become a real power in leading the workers to their eventual goal of the Communist Revolution.

Russian Dramatists to Present Famous Revolutionary Play

Do you understand Russian? If you do, attend the performance given by the Society for Technical Aid to Soviet Russia this Sunday, Sept. 14th, at 7:30 p. m., at the Soviet School, 1902 W. Division St.

The Russian Dramatic Players at the head of which is the well-known Russian actor, Anatoly Pokatiloff, will present "The Convert," a drama in four acts, from the life of the Nihilists, by the famous Russian revolutionary writer, Stepniak-Kravchinsky.

Who's Next?

Japan announced a Defense Day for Nov. 8th. The report says every able bodied man in the Japanese empire will participate in a war maneuver. An army of 80,000 will lead. The latest military devices will be employed.

Japan officially declared that the maneuver will be executed to work out a problem of defense "should an imaginary enemy cross Bering Sea, march thru Siberia, take Korea and cut off Japan from the continent."

It is said that Japan's defense day is directed entirely against America because of the recent Japanese exclusion immigration law.

How To Be a Trade Union Reporter

By EARL R. BROWDER.

AS I write I have before me a telegram supposed to be reporting an important labor convention for the DAILY WORKER. It was sent by a very good comrade, a fighter and a real militant, and he spent almost five dollars of our funds (ouch! it hurts, for money in a working class paper is almost as scarce as hen's teeth), because this was such an important convention. But we couldn't print a story about that convention, in spite of it all, because this good comrade knew so little about reporting that in more than 300 words he didn't tell us anything from which we could write a story.

We haven't got enough reporters. The DAILY WORKER cannot hire experienced writers to go around everywhere, where things of importance are happening. Our readers must be our reporters. The DAILY WORKER, to a great extent, must be made in reality a workers' paper, in that you, the readers, must write for it as well as read it. And so, with that telegram in front of me, to add ferver to my sermon, let me put down a few side, with conservatives on the other? "golden rules of writing" about trade union matters, that may help some of our comrades to get onto the DAILY WORK staff.

• • •

What is important enough to report? All conventions, whether they be international, national, state, or district, that are composed entirely of trade unions or in which trade unions take an important part, should be reported for the DAILY WORKER. In addition, all regular meetings of local unions, city central bodies, and executive councils, in which action is taken upon issues of general political importance, on issues of wages and hours, on strikes or demonstrations against grievances, should be written up.

What should a report contain? Whenever one is reporting such a meeting, the following points should be included by all means, whether anything else is or not, remembering that what the DAILY WORKER needs, above all, is FACTS:

(a) Name of organization being reported upon.

(b) Date and place of meeting, and whether it is regular or special meeting, whether it is a convention, and otherwise the nature of the gathering.

(c) What the important issues were that came up for action.

(d) What action was taken? This means to state, as briefly as possible, what resolutions were presented, whether they were passed or defeated, what action they called for, and on which side of the question did the union align itself.

(e) What sort of struggle took place over the question? Were the radicals and revolutionists on one side? Give the names of the outstanding figures on each side of the question.

• • •

The question of how to write these things up has already been dealt with very ably, in the articles by Karl Reeve, published in previous issues of the DAILY WORKER. This does not pretend to tell you how to write; it points out the most important things to write about, the things that it is necessary for us to know, if we are going to publish anything about the event in question. And if you send in such information as this, we will write the story for you in shape for publication, if you cannot send it to us in a finished form. The big thing to remember is, THAT THE DAILY WORKER WANTS TO KNOW EVERY IMPORTANT OCCURRENCE IN THE LABOR MOVEMENT. Give us this information and the job is more than half done.

NATIONS AND COLONIES

(Continued from Page 3.)

Rosa Luxemburg's views is to be found in the position of some of our German comrades.

4. Finally it is necessary to call attention to the fourth type of mistakes. To this category of mistakes belongs the position of our Turkish comrades from "Aidynlyk" who actually advocate the class collaboration of the proletariat and the bourgeoisie. This position represents nothing new. Anyone who remembers the position of the Ukrainian Social-Democrats of the former Austrian Empire and that of the Polish Socialists of Austria will understand that the mistake of our Turkish comrades has its root in the entire social patriotic ideology of the Second International.

THE UNION OF SOCIALIST SOVIET REPUBLICS.

A Great Experiment in Solving the National Question Under the Dictatorship of the Proletariat.

I PASS on to the last part of my speech—the question of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics that was formed during the interval between the Fourth and Fifth Congresses. You know, comrades, that Russia, from the point of view of its national composition was much more complicated than the old Austro-Hungarian Empire. There were only eleven nationalities in Austria before the war while we have more than a hundred different large nations and small nationalities on the enormous territory of the previous Tsarist empire. It was very difficult to solve the national question in a country with such a variegated national composition, and the methods applied for its solution must serve as a lesson for comrades from other countries.

Another difficulty was that the proletariat was Russian in nationality while the peasantry, for the most part was of other nationalities. There are sixty-nine million Russian and sixty-five millions of other nationalities in the U. S. S. R. Our first problem was to establish solidarity between the three millions Great Russian and the millions of peasantry of other nationalities. There was still a third difficulty that confronted us. This many millioned mass was, in reality, at different stages of economic development. Side by side with highly developed industrial centers we have about ten millions that have not yet developed from being nomadic tribes. The formal declaration of equality was insufficient, and would have had as little value and achieved as few practical results as the declaration of equality in the great French Revolution. The proletariat of our country had to get itself the problem of establishing a real economic equality, which is the only security for the normal development of nations forming part of our workers and peasants' republic. We had to solve this problem in a country with limited economic resources.

Comrade Lenin once said that Soviet Russia, because of its geographical position, is a natural bridge between Europe and Asia. This is undoubtedly true. Our revolution had a double result. It reacted on the European proletariat in the sense that it made him believe in his own power and in his ability to seize power. Simultaneously, it reacted on the Oriental nations. Kautsky prophesied, after the 1905-1906 revolution, that the Russian revolution would awaken the nations of the Middle East and Asia to historical life. This prophesy has proved to be correct. After the October Revolution, 1917, Soviet Russia became the center of gravitation and attracted the

A French Colonial Negro in the Service of French Imperialism

Oriental nations to itself. This situation obliges the Russian Communist Party and the Russian proletariat to justify the hopes placed upon them by the Eastern nations. We know very well that we would never have succeeded in preserving the independence of the Soviet Republics in our present situation of capitalist encirclement had we not formed an united front between the oppressed nationalities and the proletariat from the Baltic Sea to the farthest Asiatic plains. The Russian Vendee deliberately chose the borderlands of the old Russian Empire for their offensive against the victorious proletariat of Moscow and Leningrad. And it was only the fact that we had behind us the sympathy of millions of the population in these borderlands that helped us to smash Dutov, Semenov, Koltchak, and Denikin, the leaders of the counter-revolution in the border countries. The notorious renegade Paul Levi, can ridicule the Bashkir and Kalmik Communism as much as he pleases, but we know that the jokes of such gentlemen as Paul Levi, serve to show their colonisatory character.

Such clauses are characteristic of our constitution, and professors of bourgeois state law cannot understand this. For example, Monsieur Milyukov recently in a white-guard newspaper occupied himself with an investigation of the legal nature of the constitution of our workers' and peasants' Union and he expressed the opinion that it was without any legal foundation since it lacked the element of force, and therefore such a government with a variable composition cannot take upon itself any international obligations. Monsieur Milyukov considered that his legal analysis must create a fearful impression on the Western European bourgeois governments, and withhold them from recognizing the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. However, comrades, the very fact that this element of force is lacking in the organization of our union forms the tremendous power of our moral influence over nationalities taking part in our Union.

The other means whereby we succeeded in uniting the different nationalities into one brotherly amalgamation was the socialization of the riches and natural resources of the country and converting them into the public property of the population of the U. S. S. R. According to the theory of bourgeois state law all the riches and natural resources are the property of that nation that exists on this bourgeois theory of law. Naturally the question of sea routes, ports, borders, and customs acquires enormous importance and is the source of armed conflicts between bourgeois states. The formation of the Soviet Union advanced a new theory of state law, where the question of borders has a secondary importance. In our Union a man from Murmansk has the same right to the Black Sea ports and the Donets Basis as a peasant from Poltava or a miner in the Donets coal basin. At the same time the populace of Odessa and the Don basin have the same rights to the Siberian gold mines as the Siberian peasant or a nomad from Turkestan. You understand comrades that the question of borders between states forming the Soviet Union, can have only an administrative importance in such a state of affairs, and cannot cause any conflicts.

The formation of our Union must be a powerful weapon of propaganda in the hands of our European parties, since it gives them the ability to compare the methods of solving the national question adopted by the Soviets and those applied by the bourgeois states. This is why our experience must become the property of all the European proletariat. I wish to conclude my speech with this generalization and I know that in the communisation on the national question that will be formed at the Fifth Congress we shall be able to find those practical solutions that will stimulate the national movements in different countries and impart to them a revolutionary character. The time for declarations of a general character has passed; we have now a period of creative revolutionary work in the colonies and among national minorities. If we fulfil these tasks we will have created half the chances for the success of the international revolution to which we are devoted and which is guarded for the workers of the world by the Communist International. (Applause.)

Telephone Monroe 2284
Genova Restaurant
ITALIAN-AMERICAN
1238 Madison Street
N. E. Cor. Elizabeth St.
Spaghetti and Ravioli Our Specialty
Special Arrangements for Parties on Short Notice

Res. 1632 S. Trumbull Ave.
Phone Rockwell 5050
MORDECAI SHULMAN
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
701 Association Building
19 S. La Salle Street CHICAGO
Dearborn 5657 Central 4945-4947

Cleaning House in the International

By O. Carlson

EXIT HOGLUND.

Editor's Note—The following is the first of a series of three articles by Comrade O. Carlson on the intense situation in a number of European Communist parties. The writer has been engaged for the last 18 months in active party work in the Scandinavian countries, in Germany and in Great Britain. He was also present at the Fifth Congress of the Communist International. He is, therefore, well equipped for his task of familiarizing the readers of the DAILY WORKER with what is going on in the Communist parties of Europe. The next articles will appear in the following issues of the magazine.

• • • •

WOE unto him who does not follow the decisions of the Comintern! Mistakes committed by the rank and file of the parties can be forgiven and forgotten, but not so in the case of the leadership. The International may not always be in a position to act as quickly or as drastically as some of our more eager members desire—but act it does once the proper objective and subjective conditions make it possible. Those who have been entrusted with the task of guiding and directing this world-wide revolutionary movement of ours are fully aware of the fact that Communist parties and Communist leaders are not made nor founded over night. They develop; they grow. It is only in the process of the struggle that the weak and strong, the demagogues and the sincere revolutionists are separated from each other. Each world congress of the C. I. has been a gathering of the ablest and best forces within the whole movement, where a critical examination was made of the strong and weak points of the movement, nationally and internationally. Each world congress has been the means of tightening up the movement, uniting it more and more into a WORLD PARTY. As this process has gone on we have witnessed the dropping off of many would-be revolutionary leaders. To the degree that our international has made actions and not words the criterion of membership and leadership within it, it has gained the confidence of larger masses of the exploited and has lost the approbation of phrase-mongers, centrists and opportunists of all descriptions. Many of the well-known revolutionists of former days have fallen by the wayside. The last of these is Zeth Hoglund of Sweden, whose actions within the last few months in particular, have been of such a character that he has been excluded from the C. I.

Opportunism in the Swedish Party.

The fight within the Communist Party of Sweden against the opportunist deviations of Hoglund and his group have been going on for over three years, but had never become acute until within the past year. The E. C. of the C. I. has taken Hoglund to task many times for his attitude on fundamental questions, trying in this way to have him see the error of his ways and to bring him and the whole of the party on the right track. Time and again he has given statements or declarations to the effect that he accepted the decisions of the international and would do all within his power to put them into effect. This he did as late as at the Fifth World Congress which was held this summer, altho immediately upon his return to Sweden he launched into a most vitriolic and dastardly attack upon the C. I. and in particular upon its real adherents in Sweden. All attempts at unity have failed, altho the C. I. was exceedingly lenient in the case—too lenient in the eyes of the writer.

"The executive committee of the Communist International is of the opinion that all possibilities of working together with Hoglund are at an end. By a persistent continuation of the false road which he is moving on he most certainly will put himself outside of the Communist International," declares an official statement from the praesidium of the C. I., dated August 11, addressed to the members of the C. P. S., in which it reviews the various actions of Hoglund that were contrary to the principles and tactics of the C. I.

Hoglund Expelled.

Less than a fortnight after the C. I. had issued the above statement, we find Hoglund officially excluded from the C. I. and the C. P. S. A statement issued by the representative of the E. C. in Sweden, dated August 23, declares: "Hoglund and those members of the C. E. C. who identified themselves with him are outside of the C. I. and the C. P. S., which even as formerly continues to remain a section of the C. I." The basic reasons for this action are that the party majority in the C. E. C. (Hoglund had four members, the minority three) had excluded the minority members from the party, altho the minority actually represented the big majority of the party membership; that the Hoglund majority on the C. E. C. refused to allow a referendum to take place on the question of accepting the decisions of the C. I. altho a far greater number of members had petitioned for such a referendum than was needed according to the statutes; that Hoglund gave out statements to the bourgeois and socialist papers which were direct lies relative to his own place on the party paper (the board of directors of the central organ of the party had decided to establish an editorial board of three—Kilbom, Hoglund and the representative of the C. I. to be responsible for the paper instead of Hoglund alone.); that he refused to continue working on this basis but instead accepted a position on a syndicalist paper, editing one page in the the name of his party group. The Hoglund group has been attempting to force a split within the party in such a fashion that those who were the supporters of the C. I. would leave the C. P. S. but in this it has not been successful. Not only that, but the Hoglund outfit has lost the central organ of the party, "Politiken," as well as the following daily, semi-weekly and weekly papers: Norrskenflamman, Vestsvenska Kuriren, and Kalmar Lans Kuriren. The Communist Women's magazine Roda Roster and the Y. C. L. paper Stormlockan are also supporting the Comintern. Hoglund has on his side two weekly papers. His group have also issued notices that they intend beginning the publication of a new central organ for their group.

These are the bare facts in the case as seen in the most recent developments—but behind these facts lie a mass of interesting material which throws light upon the struggle and the split. What I want to do is to deal with this material, to explain the why and wherefore of the case, and in general, to see what lessons it may have for us. I shall begin with some of my personal experiences or observations.

• • •

Hoglund Supported Levi.

My first contact with the mighty Hoglund, or Zeth—as he is called in the Scandinavian countries—took place at the time of the national convention of the Y. C. L. of Sweden, May, 1921. I had just come from Germany, where the C. P. was in the throes of a bitter internal struggle arising out of the now famous "March Action" of that year. Paul Levi, who up to then, had been the leader of the German party, had denounced the party and the central committee for its participation in the uprising. At a time when large sections of the workers in central and southern Germany were rising in armed revolt and when, more than ever before, it was necessary for the party to act as a unit, Levi resigned from the central committee, sabotaged the party decisions and issued articles and pamphlets attacking the party. Hoglund became an ardent supporter of Levi. In long leading editorials in "Politiken" he attacked the German party executive and praised Levi to the sky. At the Swedish League Convention he followed the same policy, using the Levi case as a means of attack against the more aggressive and militant elements within the league who demanded a more revolutionary policy. We were called "foolish and irresponsible youngsters," "putschists, suffering from Bakuninism," etc., etc. But the Y. C. L., despite the thunderings and threats of Hoglund took the road of the Comintern.

Just at that time there was a great deal of unemployment in Sweden. The party officialdom was not doing any too much to cope with the situation, altho the unemployed were not only willing but anxious to be given leadership and a program. They came in thousands to hear the Communist speakers. I spoke with Strom, the party secretary, about the unemployed problem. To my surprise he told me that the C. P. could get 15,000 members directly from the ranks of the unemployed at any time if it only made an attempt to get them. I wanted to know why the party was not drawing them into its ranks. He replied, "They can't pay any dues, so we won't let them in."

I had expected almost any other answer but this. Imagine, not allowing workers to join the party because they were unable to pay dues! How can a Communist party become a mass party under such conditions?

Last winter when I was in Sweden this same party secretary, as the leader of the Communist group in the Stockholm city council, brought in a motion to the effect that the city of Stockholm take the initiative in arranging for an Inter-Baltic States' Exposition in 1935. They wanted to advertise to the world the white-guard states like Finland, Latvia, Esthonia, Lithuania. Of course, the motion carried. But it seems unbelievable that a Communist should vote for such a motion, much less introduce it. Nevertheless, it was Hoglund's right-hand man and most staunch supporter who did this. At about the same time there appeared two particularly remarkable articles in the Saturday supplements of "Politiken," official organ of the C. P., and of which Hoglund was the eidtor. The first was a two-page laudation of American prisons, but of Sing Sing in particular. Why, it was enough to cause anyone to want to go to the United States for the special purpose of gaining admission to Sing Sing. I wonder what some of our comrades who have made shorter or longer involuntary stays there have to say about it. The second article (clipped directly from a big bourgeois sheet in Great Britain) dealt with the wonderful work done by Scotland Yard in Britain and the Pinkertons in the United States. They were held as two of the greatest and finest achievements of mankind. Not a word was said about their role in spying upon workers' organizations, upon their tasks in framing-up revolutionists, in hounding them about from place to place, in intimidating workers and in general serving as mercenaries of the capitalists. At the time when General Von Seekt had become the virtual dictator in Germany and was crushing all economic and political organizations of the working class there appeared a lengthy article from Germany stating that now for the first time the German workers were really enjoying the eight-hour day. Never an editorial correction or statement on any of these glaring articles ever appeared, altho Hoglund's attention was called to them on more than one occasion.

Hoglund was and still is an important figure in the National Journalists' Association—an organization made up of the editors of all the capitalist papers in Sweden. Under his editorship the "Politiken" has in the last few years become an extremely "respectable" paper. Of course, the other papers attack in on occasion, but this is always done in a slightly sarcastic manner, and they inevitably refer to it as, "our worthy, the Communist contemporary." Time and again Hoglund refused to put able workers and Communists on the paper because they were not "journalists." Consequently, the paper featured scandals, murders and other sensational news, while the really pressing problems confronting the workers of Sweden were given scant attention and were dealt with in a few sentences or paragraphs on the inside pages.

Only a short time ago, Gustav Moller, secretary of the social-democratic party of Sweden, wrote a lengthy article wherein he maintains that Hoglund, despite his radical phrases is at heart a social-democrat. He is glad to see that Hoglund has been regaining his senses and is not allowing himself to be pulled about under orders from Moscow. Not only have many of the social-democrats spoken words of praise in honor of the valiant (!) fight which Hoglund has been waging against the "asiatics," but even bourgeois papers make him the savior of Swedish "culture and freedom."

For every paean that is sounded by the socialists and the bourgeoisie on behalf of these "good and true tho mistaken men" we have a growing feeling of disgust on the part of the wide-awake sections of the workers. That is why every large industrial section where the C. P. is organized, has repudiated Hoglund and Strom. They say that their fine phrases are empty and cannot win the day. They are not afraid of being called "Moscovites," for their aim is to accomplish that which the Russians already succeeded in doing—to rule in their own class interest.

A Courageous Judge.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 12.—In refusing to grant an anti-picketing injunction to Gottlieb and Sieff, garment manufacturers at Jamaica on August 20, Supreme Court Justice MacCrate held that employers should not ask the courts for injunctions in labor disputes until all other remedies have been tried.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

POINCARE'S MAN IN HERRIOT'S CABINET

General Nollet.

THE DAWES' MAN IN GERMANY

Chancellor Marx.

Letters From Moscow

By Anna Porter

(Continued from previous issue)

How else should I have known some nights ago that all over Moscow they were celebrating the 10th anniversary of the outbreak of war, with protest meetings against the capitalist preparations for the next outbreak. We could not get tickets for the meeting at which Trotsky spoke, but perhaps there was no more interesting one than that we did attend; a meeting of women delegates each representing a group of 20, and accredited to a permanent central body formed for the purpose of encouraging solidarity among the workers. These women filled the great white marble—or near-marble—pillared hall of the Moscow Central Labor Council, formerly a nobleman's club. With the exception of one man, all the speakers were women, among them a Chinese delegate to the Red Trade Union International. She spoke with the hardly suppressed violence of voice and gesture, of the woman still in subjection, while it seemed to me that the others, however impassioned, expressed a sense of liberation—liberation of their class rather than of their sex, for the one implies the other. After each address, the band played a few strains of the International, all rising and in the change of attitude relaxing and resting for the next address.

Suddenly the roll of drums was heard without the door, and way was made for a company of Young Pioneers, boys and girls, with their gorgeous red and gold banners and red neck-kerchiefs. Down the isle they marched to the roll of their own drums, and up to the stage, where they formed in two long lines across it, while one of their number stepped forward and spoke for them. Great enthusiasm was shown for the little band, for these young people are the government pillars of the future. Two hundred thousand of them there are, enrolled thruout the country, with a large membership in Moscow. Their watchword is "Be prepared!" and they know very intelligently just what they must be prepare for—to stand for their class against the armed threat of the capitalist world without. Again the international, this time sung by the whole audience thru three long stanzas. I have never heard it so cheerfully sung, with no hint, in the tone, of the dismal and rebellious idea conveyed by the words; rather, a suggestion of happy fulfillment.

After a short intermission, the stage was cleared for a children's performance. A mixed group of boys and girls from Homes and Trade Union schools gave in song and dance, a very beautiful interpretation of the Carmagnole, which had to be repeated. A little play in dance and song was put on by the Young Pioneers, called "The Pioneers' Dream." The preliminary acting was spontaneous, and the dancing of flowers, butterflies, frogs, fish, etc., pretty and amusing, but this part might just as well have been anywhere in America. Then came an effective drill; the bare-legged girls, in white blouses and short skirts carried sickles at their hips, or large army stars held high, the boys, stripped to the waist, swung huge hammers over their shoulders; and all went to work with an energetic rythm. The whole little company then gave a marching drill in army fashion, with a great deal of snap. Finally a group of young people, gathered from the famine districts, from all sorts of alien races, gave songs in chorus from some of their own music. Two young boys sang together a strange barbaric thing, with plaintive unfamiliar intervals. They were in charge of a very unassuming leader, who led them out and simply indicated when they should begin, and then effaced himself. I should have mentioned that the children opened their program with an artistically sung memorial song for Lenin, whose huge portrait hung behind them, decorated with greens. Everywhere "Leninism" is the conspicuous inspiration, and in spite of Max Eastman, this is not a static conception; its very essence is flexibility.

About midnight, the International again, and when we came out, keyed up with the inspiration of it all, we found ourselves faced with an American movie thrown high on the wall of the building across the square. A beautiful girl on horse back in a wild country was being rescued from a low browed villain by a handsome officer. It seems to be a permanent free show, and not having paid for it, you can go on when you please without a sense of extravagance. Perhaps the workers sit at the windows of their noblemen's club, and view it at ease. They are run at a much slower tempo than our films. The next night as I passed, the electric army star still blazed above the labor temple and the sickle and hammer above its door, framed in scarlet bunting, and on the film canvass they were throwing anti-war propaganda in cartoon and text, while the great cobble-paved square was filled with thousands, standing or sitting cross-legged on the cobles, in silent interest. And it is no pacifist propaganda, this anti-war protest, for the watchword of the Workers' Government, like that of the Young Pioneers, and like that of every government, but with more sincerity of purpose, is "Be prepared."

Yesterday, I just missed entrance to the Lenin Mausoleum in the Red Square, with a contingent of correspondents, to whom, with some nerve, I should have attached myself had I known in time. Every day at 5 P. M. long lines of the devout assemble at the doorway opposite, where permits are given. Instead, I was shown about the Kremlin, (which is now difficult of access) by Mrs. Fischer of the Children's Improvement Committee whose office is there in a beautiful old 16th Century palace, and who sacrificed her valuable time to go about with me in the hot sun, and through the state room of the palace. But alas, I could not enter the proup of old churches with their picturesquely-massed domes and towers, whose somberly beautiful interiors I remember of old.

Leaving the Kremlin gate, I saw long lines of marching citizens with scarlet banners and buntings, with portraits of Lenin and Marx, and texts and slogans, pouring in from all directions and massing for a great demonstration march. My way lay with theirs, so I paralelled them on the side-walk. Companies of soldiers, companies of workers, of women, of students, of Young Pioneers,—school and gymnasium groups, down to the smallest tots, who marched as valiantly as their elders through the hot sun and the long hours. In front of the Comintern, where an official group was gathered on a high balcony, each company halted for salutes and "yells", for like our own youths, each group has its yell. I dropped out for awhile and had lunch at a small cafe, and when I came out, they they were still passing. On they went, past the Moscow Soviet, where the saluting and yelling was repeated, while the bands played continuously the "International." Long ranks of mounted troups passed, blocks of them; each time I though the end had come, more swung into sight around the bend of the street. Finally, I gave up my review of the Labor parade and went home to rest, while they seemed to go on endlessly,—and I hope this is symbolical—in their great demonstration against Capitalist war.

This morning, in an aimless ramble, I skirted the walls of the Kremlin in the little terraced parts of the park that surrounds them. The park-strip was full of people but most of them were occupied, in a leisurely way. Children played about under the trees. The long grass and weeds had just been cut with the traditional sickle, and students and young intellectuals lay about reading or discussing with open books. It had a restful withdrawn atmosphere, very pleasant in contrast with the confusion of the streets; for everywhere I go,—in the streets, the shops, the officies and bureaus,—I feel that things are out of order, and that everyone is working evry hard to get them in order again. The streets are kept clean, nothing is really disordered, I find plan and system everywhere, but there is the feeling you have at home when the rugs are up and the furniture moved into useless corners and you sit on the chair-arms, flut you know it is getting into order, and you don't mind for awhile. There is a sense of impermanence and transition with a clear object ahead. Moscow is getting into order,—Russia is getting into order,—you feel that everywhere, in spite of what seems to be—and is—confusion.

A company of red soldiers, in dust-colored uniforms and peaked caps with the army-star in front, and with camping blankets slung across their shoulders, have just passed by, singing lustily, and in their wake a clearing thunder-shower is sweeping up the street.

NEW CULTURE

(Continued from page 2)

ceeding the proletarian—the Metaphysical, the Theological, the Linguistic—were long-distance views of life. Concrete aspects were overlooked as insignificant; common life suffered accordingly. Proletarian culture alone is potent to make us realize the large significance of common things. The great lesson of Darwin's life work: "The cumulative importance of infinitely little things" is also a true basis for our Use-Culture. Bygone cultures declared with contempt that the toiler's life was an infinitely little thing, but they knew not the cumulative importance of infinitely little things' Hence their perverse bungling.

The Nouveau Regime is well on its way. No longer shall it be legitimate to assail Superior Brains with a formerly just condemnation; "tho ye boast an hundred wise ones amongst ye, what shall it profit me, too, hard-driven as I am for the enjoyment of culture and wisdom." Culture versus Life shall one day simply become an apt phrase for denoting the colossal mistakes of caste-rule. Henceforth our ideal shall be a social democracy guided by a sociologic culture generously devoted to the discussion, analysis and solution of life's daily problems. Lilies must be made to bloom otherwheres than on dung hills.

In the humanized tomorrow, no man of genius will repeat but with deep humiliation those callous sentences of Oscar Wilde's:

"The poor are poor creatures and must be hewers of wood and drawers of water. They are really the dung hill out of which men of genius and artists grow like flowers. Their function is to give birth to genius and nourish it. They have no other raison d'etre."

Haven't they?

THE WORLD'S GREATEST TONIC for lowered vitality

makes your blood tingle with joy the minute you taste it. Take a wine glass full of

LIPSEY'S BITTERS

before meals and note the improvement of your health in a few days. Order a bottle by coupon below.

LIPSEY PRODUCTS CO.
1133 Foster Ave., Chicago

Enclosed is $1.85. Please send one bottle of LIPSEY'S BITTERS at once.

Name .....
Address .....
City ..... State .....

Money Back Guarantee

MITCHALL'S
INTERNATIONAL ORCHESTRA
Union Music Furnished
For All Occassions
Write for appointments to
M. MITCHALL,
(Teacher of Saxophone)
1640 W. Congress St. Chicago, Ill.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
73 W. VanBuren St.
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

CLEVELAND, OHIO
CHIROPRACTIC AND ELECTRO-THERAPY
As intelligent and revolutionary workers you have freed yourselves of the trammels of capitalistic religion and politics. But you probably still adhere to the greatest and most harmful superstition, cloaked as a science—MEDICINE. People who know refuse to be practiced upon with knife and powerful drugs. When ill they resort to (drugless) NATURAL METHODS of treatment. For speedy recovery and your health's sake see
Dr. J. J. SCHOLTES
2838 West Twenty-fifth St., Cor. Wade
Phone Linc. 5340

FOR INSURANCE OF ANY KIND
CARL BRODSKY
1123 Broadway, New York City
Tel. Watkins 3626.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

YALE UNIVERSITY
NOV 22 1924
LIBRARY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Communist Candidates
For President:
WILLIAM Z. FOSTER.
For Vice-President:
BENJAMIN GITLOW.

Vol. II. No. 151. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

BIG MACHINISTS' CONVENTION STARTS

PATERSON MILL OWNERS FORCE STRIKE-BREAKERS TO COMMIT PERJURY AGAINST SILK STRIKERS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 14.—The strike leaders in Paterson who have been served with injunctions from four of the larger shops affected by the strike, declare that the silk mill owners are using terroristic tactics against their scabs.

They are not satisfied with degrading these miserable slaves to the level of scabs, but they even forced them to commit perjury in order to aid the fight against the strike.

Examination of signed affidavits showed that more than a dozen of them are identical in wording, and they are signed by scabs in various shops and it is plain to anyone that no twelve people would make identically the same statements word for word.

The strike leaders further point out that the scabs are so totally ignorant of the English language that they are incapable of making such statements.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

PEOPLE passing thru Madison street on "Mobilization Day" paused for a moment in front of the Morrison Hotel, to look with more or less surprise on the American flags that flew from the windows of the spacious LaFollette-Wheeler campaign headquarters on the fourth floor of that building. "We thot LaFollette was against 'Defense Day,'" was a remark frequently heard from passers by. There were no flags flying from the headquarters of Michael Igoe, on Clark street. He is Democratic candidate for states attorney. The war test is a Republican proposition. LaFollette is a Republican. Igoe is a Democrat.

* * *

EVEN tho soldiers are not ab this moment marshalled in opposing camps on the continent of Europe, we learn that the money of the different capitalist nations is carrying on a bloodless war. A Paris dispatch of Sept. 9 states that Morgan may renew the $100,000,000 loan to France. The weakness of French exchange is attributed to the fact that British financiers are using their reserves in francs to defend the pound sterling against the American dollar. When this pound-dollar war nears the break point the Prince of Wales had better look to some other country for his jazz. His popularity will quickly fade.

* * *

RAMSAY MACDONALD is very much favor of world peace. He will stand for any drastic scheme for the reduction of war armaments. But the British navy must not be touched. His Majesty's water wagons demand the right to grab anything afloat whenever they feel like it and John Bull thinks it is the height of insolence for any outsiders to interfere with them. It would never do for the British fleet to be under the jurisdiction of the League of Nations. That kind of thing is alright for the French army. It looks good for peace does it not?

* * *

JOHN W. DAVIS, attorney for the House of Morgan, ex-ambassador to the Court of St. James, and general lackey for ,capitalism,, gets 'madder 'en madder" against the Republicans as the campaign developes in intensity. His first election speeches were models of politeness, but now,

(Continued on page 6)

Hire Notorious Lawyer.

Merritt Lane, a notorious corporation lawyer of Newark, has been employed by the Paterson silk manufacturers to carry on their legal fight against the strikers. Lane, in connivance with a local jay bird lawyer by the name of J. J. Clancey, is responsible for these scabs perjuring themselves in the interest of their bosses.

The attorneys for the strikers will point out this evident perjury on Monday, when they appear in court to contest the injunction and demand that these scabs be arrested for perjury. Knowing the general character of courts, it is doubtful if any action will be taken against the paid liars who are scabbing in the mills of Paterson.

However, the fact that they are exposed, ,strike leaders point out, will create added determination on the part of the rank and file of the Union to fight against the injunction.

Fight Against Injunction.

If the injunction is made permanent, the strike leaders declare that they will deliberately order wholesale violations of it and that they will not permit the injunction to interfere with the progress of the strike.

They point out, too, the fact that the strike has been the most successful ever called in the history of Paterson. To date, more than 11½ mills have yielded to the strikers' demands. The fact that the ranks of the manufacturers are breaking has caused many of the larger concerns to become desperate / in their struggle against the union, hence they appeal for the injunction.

Preparations for Defense.

Arrangements have been completed for the defense of the Paterson workers and for raising funds for relief of the suffering strikers.

At the mass meeting to be held in Webster Hall, 119 East 11th St., Thursday evening, Sept. 18, the leaders of the Paterson strike will tell a story of the injunction, police terrorism and the fight against the mill owners.

This meeting is free to the public and millitants should attend, in order to become familiar with new strategy developed during the present struggle of the Paterson silk workers.

Join the Workers Party!

MACHINISTS' DELEGATES IN DETROIT ARE TOLD OF SCAB AGENCY MASKING AS "B. & O. CO-OPERATION SCHEME"

What is the "B. & O." plan? What do the workers think of it? What does it mean for the employers? What relation has it to the Taylor system of speeding up? Why is it knocking out the "company union" plans of the bosses?

These questions are answered in this article by one who attended the special week course of study on the B. & O. plan that was held at Brookwood school, Katonah, N. Y., by the Machinists' Union officials, as a part of their preparation for putting the plan across at the convention now in session in Detroit. Machinists! Read the words of these men, examine the facts, and you will realize that to preserve the I. A. of M. as a real union, you must defeat the B. & O. Plan!

* * * *

The international officers of the Machinists' Union and the "economic experts" advising them are much perturbed as to their ability to continue buncoing their rank and file as to the alleged benefits of the B. & O. plan. Many members of the executive board had planned to quietly take a week's coaching course in the early part of July on the best way to sell this scheme to the delegates at the September convention in Detroit. However, the C. P. P. A. convention at Cleveland prevented all except a few eastern representatives from attending this course.

Otto Beyer, Jr., the concocter of the B. & O. plan, who gave the final lecture of the coaching course, appeared to be appreciating officially for the Sun Yat Sen government. Ma Soo also declared that Wu Pei Fu, with the secret support of certain powers has openly provoked war with Chekiang as the first step in the subjugation of the south western provinces of China.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen has long been a thorn in the side of the imperialists and is looked on as the strongest bulwark in China against the schemes of the robber powers, particularly England and the United States.

The attempt of Wu Pei Fu, military leader of the Peking government who evidently is a purchasable chunk of animated protoplasm, to overrun southwestern China in the interests of foreign capitalists, will be stoutly resisted, declared Ma Soo. Continuing, he said: "Under the leadership of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, we will not only repel the invaders, but seize the opportunity to batter down the strength of the militarists and bring about a stable and truly democratic government.

Warn Powers.

"We must twarn the powers against any attempt at intervention. Having failed to exert their influence on behalf of the people, they should now use it in the interests of the militarists.

"We call the particular attention of Great Britain to the plottings of Comprador of Hong Kong. The Shanghai Bank is using Hong Kong as a base for operating against our government. Arms have been secured by Comprador from this British bank to foment rebellion in Canton. It is difficult to conceive that these hostile acts of the British in China have altogether escaped the notice of the British government."

MacDonald's Hypocrisy.

Privately the officials of the Sun government comment acidly on the liberal expressions of Ramsay MacDonald, his great love for humanity and his peaceful aims. But they notice his desire for peace is not so keen in India, Mesopotamia, Egypt and China as it is in Europe. While Mr. MacDonald is anxious to keep the big powers from each other's throats, he allows his agents in other countries to foment rebellion in the territory of friendly but comparatively helpless nations.

The Chekiang forces defending Shanghai have secured possession of a number of new French armored trucks. This would make it appear that the French are playing a role in China similar to what they played in Turkey, that is taking the side opposite to that taken by the British.

Plenty of Man Power.

The Manchurian war lord, General Chang, is in a position to send 100,000 troops against the Peking government without causing him any inconvenience. General Feng Yah Siang has

(Continued on Page 2.)

McDonald Scandal Shocks England

BRITISH BANK IN CHINA IS PLOTTERS' BASE

Supplying Reactionary Tuchuns with Arms

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CANTON, Sept. 14.—That the British bank in Shanghai is supplying plotters against the radical government of Canton with guns and munitions is the charge made by Ma Soo speak-

U. S. GOVERNOR IN HAWAII ORDERS SUPPRESSION OF SUGAR STRIKERS; HAS LARGE PLANTATION INTERESTS

By JOSEPH CATLIN
(Special to The Daily Worker)

RONOLULU, Sept. 14.—A sample of how American governors of U. S. colonies use their office to protect the interests of American capitalists, including themselves, is shown here by the activities of Governor Wallace Farrington, in his moves against the striking plantation workers.

Declaring that he was "convinced that there is an organization to prevent laborers from returning to work and that the time has arrived when we must determine whether an aggregation of leaders operating under a false idea of their authority to establish a government of their own shall prevail," the governor today directed the attorney general to investigate and take vigorous steps towards suppressing the attempt of the Filipinos to better the conditions under which they are slaving.

This is not at all surprising when it is known that Farrington is one of the biggest owners of sugar plantations in Hawaii. His interest in "law and order" is the interest he has in maitaining the profits he squeezes from the labor of his slaves.

GASOLINE FOR MOTOR COOKS MAC'S BISCUIT

British Premier Caught in Big Graft Deal

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Not since the Marconi stock scandal, which involved David Lloyd George, then chancellor of the exchequer, has the financial pursuits of a cabinet member

(Continued on Page 6)

Workers Party Goes on Ballot in Colorado

COLORADO is the sixth state in which the Workers Party has filed its petitions placing its candidates on the ballot. Petitions with the required number of signatures covering the State ticket as well as presidential electors were filed Sept. 8th.

The states in which the work of complying with the legal requirements for the nomination of political candidates has been completed by the Workers Party are Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, North Dakota, Colorado, Oregon and Washington.

Work is under way in a dozen other states and the legal requirements will likely be fulfilled in these states before time for filing petitions for the nomination of candidates has expired. These are Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri and California.

The national ticket of the Workers Party will not appear on the ballot in Ohio, altho local candidates have been nominated in Cleveland and other sections of the state. Under the Ohio law some 20,000 signatures are required to place candidates on the ballot and the organization in Ohio was unable to fulfill this requirement before the time expired for the filing of petitions last week. The Ohio situation is made particularly difficult by the large number of signatures required and the fact that the petitions must be filed 60 days before the elections, whereas in many other states, filing is not required until 30 days before election.

Reports received at the national headquarters indicate that the Party will have its candidates on the ballot in at least 12 of the great industrial states of the country, and that the workers of these states will have the opportunity of casting their ballots for the Communist candidates, Foster and Gitlow, and thus indicating their support of the proletarian revolution, Soviet Rule and the dictatorship of the proletariat.

ITALIAN LABOR IN DEFENSE OF REBEL JOURNAL

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MILAN, Sept. 14.—Armed workers march up and down before the offices of "Unita," daily newspaper of the Communist party of Italy, and of "Avanti," organ of the Maximalists, to protect their machinery from destruction at the hands of Fascist officials.

The offices of "La Giustizia," organ of the United Socialist party, and of "Il Corriere della Sera," which is published by a group of liberals, have already been seized by government agents and the machinery confiscated.

Seizure Legally O'Kayed.

The seizure of these papers is legally sanctioned by a decree of the Chamber of Deputies, passed under pressure from Mussolini, making "any newspaper which publishes material detrimental to the interests of the government and the nation subject to confiscation."

With the killing of Armando Casalini, a Fascist member of the Chamber of Deputies, by Giovanni Corvi, a worker who "wanted revenge for the murder of Giacomo Matteotti," Italy has again been thrown into turmoil.

Communists Call for Unity.

Communists are calling for a united front with the Unified Socialists and the Maximalists to deal a death-blow to Fascist reaction. The Maximalists, however, who refuse co-operation with the Third International in spite of the fact that they have broken connections with the Second International, and the Unified Socialists, have continued their policy of weak-kneed opportunism and, after ignoring the call to arms of the Communists, have joined a loose federation of liberals and social-democrats, organized into a body known as "Italia Libera," or "Free Italy."

The presence of former Fascists in this federation is natural in view of the fact that Fascism is in itself an opportunist movement most of the Fascist leaders being former revolutionaries, socialists and syndicalists in league with the social-democrats are the leaders of the popular party, a group composed largely of Catholics and led by the priest, Don Sturzo, of poets like Sem Benelli, and of sentimental socialists.

The Communists, who have refused to join the "constitutional opposition for legal action," are growing daily in numbers and in influence.

B. & O. RAILROAD USES "CO-OP" BAIT TO DRIVE LABOR AT HIGH SPEED; "OWN YOUR HOME" BUNK EXPOSED

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 14.—The much-talked of "B. & O. Plan" by means of which the railroad unions are being turned into production machines for the employers, is generally judged in Baltimore as a great success—for the employers.

In addition to the other well-known features of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad policies towards its employes, the workers here tell of other ways in which the B. & O. is "nice" to its workers. It helps them own their homes by loaning them money. Sounds good, doesn't it? "Own your own home with the help of the B. & O. Railroad."

A Sting In The Gift.

But—like the "B. & O. Co-operation Plan" being boosted before the Machinists' Convention in Detroit—there is a "but" in this gift to the workers also. The workers who have taken advantage of the "own your home" propaganda have found out that there is a sting in the tail of all B. & O. gifts.

Most of the old employes bought properties, expecting to settle down and live the rest of their lives with their good masters. The writer spoke to several machinists, blacksmiths, and carmen. All of them told the same story:

"Oh, before the strike it was not so bad. One could work like a man. But now it is regular hell. Inspectors follow every move one makes. At quitting time a check-up man counts the product of each worker, and sets the standard for all by the highest production. One must work like the very devil to keep up, and those who fail to do so are laid off."

"Homes"—With a String.

And that's where the "own your home" proposition comes in. When the worker doesn't keep up with the constantly increasing speeding-up, he not only loses his job—he loses "his own home" which he has purchased on the payment system with the "kindly aid" of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

"This is not even ordinary competition," said one worker. "It is worse than anything I have ever worked under. It is rush and rush, with no end to it. It is racing, it is suicide."

This is the wonderful scheme, and the wonderful railroad, that is being boosted today at the Convention of the International Association of Machinists meeting in Detroit. This is the kind of "co-operation" being urged upon the unions by "leaders," who seem anxious to ogjdo the Taylor efficiency system or Henry Ford, and the other slave-drivers of our capitalist system.

Cal Issues Hot Statement.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.— President Coolidge today issued a proclamation naming Thursday, Oct. 9, as fire prevention day. This will make the 53rd anniversary of the great Chicago fire.

PATRICK GROON RIGHT ON JOB FOR COMMUNIST CAMPAIGN DONATIONS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Sept. 14.—After a morning of bricklaying on a palatial new Fifth Avenue apartment house to be inhabited by our idle rich, Patrick Groon took a sandwich in one hand and a Workers Party Fund Subscription list in the other and commenced a canvass of his fellow bricklayers. Patrick Groon refused to wait for the opening of the Trade Union Educational League Shop Collection Drive which is scheduled to run for two weeks to Sept. 8. He pitched right in and went for his fellow workers at the earliest opportunity.

No bricks were thrown at Pat as he passed the list around among the bricklayers who were eating their lunches. In fact Pat received cash, altogether eight dollars, sixty-three cents. That same evening he brot the proceeds of this neat little collection to the headquarters of the Workers Party Campaign Committee, 210 E. 12th St., and what is more, he took a new subscription list and went back on the job.

Pat was so delighted with his achievement that he decided to be even more effective in the class struggle, and he filled out an application for Party membership.

Great interest has been aroused for the work of raising funds in the shops to carry on the campaign. The Shop Collection Drive is on. Hundreds of Patrick Groons are on the job. All workers are urged to encourage our Patrick Groons with substantial contributions, and not waste their time with useless dickering.

WORKERS PARTY IN CHICAGO OPENS STRAW-BALLOTTING IN FACTORIES

By MARTIN ABERN

A straw ballot, the only straw ballot of the working class, is being organized by Local Chicago, Workers Party, to take place between September 16 and 25 inclusive.

A cross section of Chicago industry has been selected so that a fairly accurate picture can be gotten of the attitude of the workers toward the

(Continued on page 6)

MACHINISTS TO CONSIDER B. & O. PLAN AT MEET

Officials Plotting to Expel Radicals

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 14.—The convention of the International Association of Machinists, the first since 1920, opens here tomorrow at the Hotel Tuller.

About 300 delegates are expected to be in attendance to consider the important problems facing the organization.

Fight "B. & O." Plan.

Outstanding among the controversial matters before the convention is the so-called "B. & O. plan," initiated by President William H. Johnston, of the machinists, under which the unions become efficiency agencies of the railroads in return for the privilege of collecting dues.

The "B. & O. plan" is the especial object of attack from the left wing of the machinists' organization, striking as it does at the very basic principles of unionism, and a bitter fight is expected because the officials have committed themselves to this collaboration with the employers so completely that they can hardly find a compromise.

Fifty Amalgamation Resolutions.

Hundreds of resolutions and amendments to the laws of the union have been submitted by the local unions. More than 50 resolutions calling for amalgamation of the unions along industrial lines, for the establishment of a labor party, for recognition of Soviet Russia, against the "B. & O. plan," for the reinstatement of suspended and expelled members, are already filed for the convention.

Local Union No. 459, of St. Paul, has proposed an amendment to the constitution, providing that the union shall actively work for amalgamation and a labor party.

Try to Outlaw Workers Party.

The general executive board has made a decision, just before the opening of the convention, against the appeal of seven suspended members in Toledo. This decision demands that before the members can be re-instated they must renounce membership in the Workers Party and in the Trade Union Educational League.

This case is an attempt to launch a campaign of expulsions similar to that recently carried out by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

The officials have been holding the Toledo case in abeyance for months, right up to the eve of the convention, in order that they may be able to keep it off of the floor of that gathering, and yet at the same time claim authority from the convention to proceed with their disruptive polity. The suspended members will appeal to the convention to give a complete hearing to the case, however, and will make every attempt to stop this policy that threatens destruction to the union.

Expulsion Is Threatened.

It is well-known in the machinists' union that the suspensions and expulsions that are taking place are to crush opposition to the "company union" "B. & O. plan."

It is pointed out that the officials are not expelling stool pigeons, like in the Lennon case in Pittsburgh, nor acting against such Fascist organizations as the Ku Klux Klan, but that it is only against the rank and file who protest against the dictatorship of the officials, in its attempt to ram the "B. & O. plan" down the throats of the membership, that the suspension and expulsion power is called into play.

Open New Factories.

EKATERINBURG, Russia, Sept. 14.—Three canning factories opened in the Urals during July and one chemical factory which had been closed since 1918.

OLANDER AND FARRINGTON JOIN FORCES IN DEFENSE OF THE KU KLUX KLAN, COAL MINERS SHOW

By KARL REEVE
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 14.—Secretary Victor Olander, following his failure to induce the Dowell miners' delegates, Ell Lucas and Robert Speedie to withdraw their anti-Klan resolution and keep the Klan issue off the convention floor of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, at the last session pushed thru one of his famous "pacifying" resolutions aimed to soothe the ruffled feelings of the Klansmen.

It now transpires that Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois miners, conferred with Secretary Olander in an attempt to keep the Klan issue off the floor of the convention.

Delegate Robert Speedie told the DAILY WORKER how Farrington attempted to squash the anti-Klan resolution in his bid for the Klan vote at the coming election of Illinois miners' officials.

Olander Gets In His Oar.

"My name and Lucas' name were written on the black board during the first day of the convention," Speedie told the DAILY WORKER, "and we were told to come to the convention headquarters at the Jefferson Hotel. There Olander met us and we were asked to sign the Dowell anti-Klan resolution. As we signed it Olander said, 'I'd advise you to withdraw that resolution. It would be to the best interests of the federation if the Klan issue didn't come up on the convention floor.' I replied that the Klan resolution was there and there it was going to stay. I demanded a copy of the resolution, and when Olander assured me the resolution would come up on the floor, I read it over carefully to make sure it would come up just as we had introduced it.

Farrington Is Busy.

"A little later we met Frank Farrington in the lobby of the Jefferson Hotel. 'You are the Dowell boys, aren't you?' Farrington asked us. 'Aren't you the fellows who introduced the resolution condemning the Ku Klux Klan?' When he found out we were, Farrington asked us to withdraw the Klan resolution.

"Farrington showed us a letter addressed to him, with the three letters K. K. K. typewritten at the top and bottom. The letter warned Farrington that he would lose thousands of votes unless he used his influence to keep the anti-Klan resolution from coming up on the floor of the federation convention, and to fight it if it did come up.

"Farrington then said," Speedie told the DAILY WORKER, "'Boys, I wish you would withdraw that resolution from the convention. I have just had a talk with Olander and we want to withdraw that resolution. If I use my influence to quietly withdraw the resolution, will you fellows keep quiet and not bring it up on the convention floor?'

Speedie Stands Pat.

"I replied," Speedie continued, "Frank, that resolution was passed by the local union of the Dowell mine workers. It has been presented to the resolutions committee, and it is before the convention to stay. It it is not printed in the book of resolutions, we will bring it up on the floor of the convention.'"

The resolution aimed to pacify the Klansmen, which Olander succeeded in pushing thru the convention, declared, "The convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor urges all working people, regardless of nationality, race, color or creed to join and remain members of the trades unions having jurisdiction over their respective occupations, and that trade unionists should not permit themselves to be divided by differences of opinion regarding individual affiliations, actual or supposed, with other forms of organizations or by differences in religious views or political beliefs.

Olander Loves the Klansmen.

"Further resolved, that nothing that has transpired at this convention shall cause division within local unions or central bodies or be used to discriminate against any member or members of any trade union movement within this state.

"Further resolved, that nothing in this resolution shall be construed as an attempt to interfere with the constitution or by-laws of any national or international union, local union or central body."

Olander evidently is more concerned with the feelings of the Klansmen than he is with those of the militant trade union progressives, who have been denied the floor so many times in the convention.

Judge's Wife Hurt.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Sept. 14.—Mrs. Floyd E. Thompson, wife of the supreme justice of the Illinois Supreme Court, was recovering today at St. Anthony's hospital here from injuries suffered when she was pinned beneath an automobile when it overturned on the Knoxville Road near Sherrard. Judge Thompson, who was driving, suffered minor injuries and an infant daughter, thrown clear of the wreck, escaped unhurt.

MILITARISTS GATHER TO ST. PAUL MEETING OF AMERICAN LEGION

Numbers of delegates are now passing thru Chicago on their way to the national convention of the American Legion at St. Paul, which opens today. It is the sixth annual union of the war veterans' organization, which is controlled by a most reactionary clique of capitalist politicians.

American Legionaries are among the most prominent in the preparation of the American workers for the next war, having taken a big part in the recent militarist fizzle, known as "Defense Day."

The convention is looked upon as the place for having a great time, a recent one having been the scene of a drunken orgy by the delegates who forget their Americanism in the excitement of defying the police and "law and order" for the period of the convention.

At this convention not a word will be said about the betrayal of the slogans that were shouted by the imperialists when they sent "our boys" across, and hauled them back later to continue the home struggle of the worker against the boss. Harmony will reign and a good time is expected by all the delegates.

BARBERS ADMIT WOMEN MEMBERS IN THEIR UNION

Bobbed Hair Responsible for New Ruling

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 14.—Women won a victory in a battle for equality with men at the annual convention of the Journeymen's Barbers' International union which is being held here when the convention voted to admit women barbers to membership.

For 15 years women barbers knocked at the door of the barbers' union in vain. On the other side of that door battles raged and fumed between the ultra-conservative barbers from the country who would exclude the women and the more reasonable barbers from the large cities who were confronted with the problem every day of the year and believed in accepting the inevitable, that women had come into the trade to stay.

With the advent of bobbed hair and the consequent influx of women patrons to barber shops the question became one of immediate importance to the barbers. To exclude women only meant that they would meet them in competition instead of working with them for their common interests.

Barbers from large cities came to the convention determined that this year membership would be open to women barbers and they won.

British Bank in China Offers Base for Imperialist Plots

(Continued from Page 1)

25,000 christians who are willing to cut anybody's throat in the name of the Lord.

An interesting event took place here a few days ago when a brigade of the christian troops came to Peking, carrying old guns, and other equipment. They came to get baptised. Not alone were the machine gun-bullets blessed but also their guns were given divine benediction.

Dr. Sun has forty thousand men at his command, but it will be necessary for him to leave part of his force to guard Canton. So far the laurels in the fighting are on the side of the Chekiang forces. Or, to make the situataion clearer to American readers, it may be said that the forces backed by the United States and British governments have the worst of the fighting.

* * * *

Soviet Interested in China.

MOSCOW, Sept. 14.—Soviet Russia is taking the Chinese civil war very seriously. "Hands off China" meetings are being held all over the country. Columns of space in the papers are devoted to the Chinese situation and the leading Communist papers are bitterly attacking the bewhiskered American State Secretary, Charles Evans Hughes, for his part in bringing about the blood deluge that is now drenching China.

Warned Against U. S. Imperialists.

The Moscow Pravda warns the Chinese revolutionists that American imperialism is their most dangerous enemy. The only tricks, it continues, that China has are the Bolsheviks and they will stand by the oppressed people of that country.

Soviet Russia was the first country to treat China as an equal, declared the Pravda, and when China decided to demand similar treatment from the big capitalist powers, trouble started. Hughes is the most bitter enemy of Soviet Russia, and tho he may rave in Washington against the Workers' Republic and boast of his ability to prevent U. S. recognition of that country he finds that Soviet Russia is today a powerful influence in China and in a position to fight the robber policies of the United States imperialists.

REFERENDUM IS BURIED BY THE REACTIONISTS

Miners in Protest At New Backward Step

By KARL REEVE
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 14.—After denouncing Charles G. Dawes, republican candidate for vice-president, because "he expressed opposition to extension of the initiative and referendum, both of which he appears to believe contrary to American constitutional principles," the 42nd convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor abolished the referendum in its own organization, after the left wing put up a stiff battle to retain it.

About 35 miners walked out of the convention hall in protest after the reactionary Chicago delegates, led by William Quesse, Robert Fitchie, Secretary Victor Olander and President John H. Walker, had abolished the referendum.

Thomas Parry pointed out to John Walker that the question of the abolition of the referendum would itself have to be put to a referendum vote.

The question of the referendum came up in a resolution introduced at the last minute by Delegate Briggs that section 86 of the constitution be abolished. Section 86, passed at the Rockford convention, declares, "No alterations or amendments to the constitution of the Illinois State Federation of Labor shall be made without first being submitted to a referendum vote."

Walker Takes Things in Hand.

In direct violation to this section of the constitution, Walker ruled that the resolution abolishing this section will not be submitted to a referendum "Because at the time the section was passed, it was not submitted to a referendum." Delegates pointed out, however, that at that time there was no law in the constitution necessitating a referendum vote on all matters, but since there is at present such a clause in the constitution, according to the laws of the federation, the abolishment of the referendum must be submitted to a referendum vote to make it legal.

Delegate William Pierce, Local Union 4049, Mine Workers, charged that Briggs had introduced the resolution abolishing the referendum to enable the officials of the state federation to levy larger assessments on the coal miners.

Walker Lets "Cat out of Bag".

Walker, in reply, indirectly admitted the truth of this statement, by declaring that the federation does not have enough funds, and expressing the hope that more funds would be supplied in the future. Delegate Henry Corbishley, of the Ziegler miners' local, charged that those who opposed the referendum were those who had something to slip over on the membership. He declares it to be the right of the membership itself to change the organic laws of the federation. He warned the delegates that if a larger burden is placed upon the 45,000 miners the reaction will be so severe as to be detrimental to the federation.

Officers Will Now Make Laws.

Delegate Thomas Parry, after extracting a ruling from Walker, that "It is a matter of common sense that anything a convention does it has the right to undo and therefore the resolution abolishing the referendum will not be submitted to the membership," denounced Walker's stand. "I hate to go back and tell my union that this convention has ruled that the officers are to make the laws and they are to pay the freight," Parry declared. "This move is an indictment against the men who sent us here. We want the confidence of our membership we must give them our confidence. The referendum is an instrument to educate the rank and file workers as to the issues before the federation."

"Gag Rule" Rang Thru Hall.

Delegate William Stacey of the Peoria Cigarmakers' union declared that only those in the higher positions of the union are against the referendum.

After Anton Johannsen and Ben Ferris had declared against the referendum, Robert Fitchie of Chicago, took the floor and derided the miners. "The miners will not have as much to say from now on," Fitchie said. "The Chicago delegates are going to have more to say. The referendum was put thru the Rockford convention more as a joke," Fitchie added.

Walker then made a speech, insulting the miners, declaring they only came to the convention when they had a measure they wanted passed. Then he said, they came "by the freight train load." After Walker's speech, debate was closed and shouts of "gag rule" rang thru the hall. Delegates were on their feet demanding to be heard, but were not granted the floor to speak against Briggs' resolution. The miners then walked out of the hall in protest.

Join the Workers Party!

LaFollette Waves Flag of Wall Street; Workers' Flag Everywhere Is Red

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, Burton K. Wheeler, the vice-presidential appendage to the LaFollette ticket, stumps up and down the land, voicing radical phrases in industrial centers, soft-pedalling, wherever necessary, and completely silent where that becomes the best policy. In Philadelphia he got rid of the following:

"The issue is peace, and on election day you women will have an opportunity to express your opinion in votes, just as the people of France and England have expressed theirs by electing their present labor governments."

* * * *

But Wheeler fails to show how the LaFollette campaign leads toward peace. He does not show how the MacDonald government, in England, or the Herriot government in France, lead toward peace.

* * * *

In fact, on Defense Day, the LaFollette Campaign Headquarters, in Chicago, displayed the flag of Wall Street just as enthusiastically as did the Coolidge and Davis headquarters.

Every window of the LaFollette headquarters in the Morrison Hotel had a flag all its own. Morgan's emblem, under which Wall Street slaughters natives in Haiti; workers in Hawaii, and subjects nations everywhere over the globe to American financial domination, is accepted as the flag of the LaFollette campaign.

* * * *

MacDonald's government, in England, under the flag of British imperialism, fights with Thomas W. Lamont, of Morgan & Co., as to whether the British pound sterling, or the Almighty American Dollar shall act as the measure of value in floating the bonds under the Dawes plan for extending Germany its $200,000,000 loan.

LaFollette's flag, the flag of Wall Street, is the emblem carried in the struggle to make the American dollar more than ever, the sole monetary standard of the world.

MacDonald's flag, the flag of Lombard Street, is the emblem of the greatest British financiers, striving to maintain the dwindling strength of the British pound sterling. And the British chancellor of the exchequer, Philip Snowden, the socialist, fights just as hard on the side of the British pound, as Andrew Mellon, the American secretary of the treasury, a Pittsburgh multi-millionaire, fights for "The Dollar."

* * * *

Herriot's flag in France is the flag of the greatest French financiers. It is the emblem of the French Franc. It is the flag carried at the head of French militarism that is trying to push the French Franc ahead of the British pound sterling and the American dollar.

Herriot's flag is the flag of the French Franc that flies at the head of the largest army of any capitalist nation, and that is carried by the largest air fleet of any capitalist nation in the world.

* * * *

And Wheeler might also have put Germany on his list. For, altho the kaiser is gone, it is the flag of the kaiser, the flag of the biggest German capitalists that flies over Germany. It is the flag of the capitalists trying to put strength into the German Mark, to make it a contender again, some day, with the Franc, the Dollar and the Pound Sterling.

Fritz Ebert, president of Germany, calls himself a "socialist," but his flag is the flag of the German capitalists, just as much as the flags of Herriot, MacDonald and LaFollette, are the flags of the labor-crushing capitalisms of France, Great Britain and the United States.

* * * *

It has just been shown that the State of Prussia, an important part of socialist Ebert's German republic, has paid, since the war, about $8,000,000 for the upkeep of some of the members of the family of the former kaiser, now Herr William Hohenzollern.

Millions of Germans are starving, and more will starve under the Dawes plan, but Ebert, the socialist, winks his eye as new millions of dollars are turned over to the ex-kaiser in order that he and his family may live in luxury and plot their return to power.

* * * *

Workers are hungry in France, but Herriot, the radical socialist premier, joins in the spending of new wealth for greater armaments for the protection and the aggrandizement of French imperialism.

Workers are hungry in Great Britain, but MacDonald, the labor-socialist premier, and his socialist minister presiding over the treasury, turn tens of millions annually over to the family of His Royal Majesty, to squander as they please. MacDonald himself confesses getting a high-priced automobile and enough stock in the British Biscuit Trust to maintain it, while the donor, the biscuit millionaire, is knighted by the king. And MacDonald praises the king for the good deed and keeps his automobile.

* * * *

Workers are hungry in the United States. Millions are out of jobs. Other millions work on short time. But LaFollette, who likens himself to Ebert, who waves the flag of the mark; to Herriot, who waves the flag of the franc; to MacDonald, who waves the flag of the pound sterling, is himself the energetic waver of the flag of the dollar.

* * * *

Where the fight goes on for the victory of the working class, there the Red Flag of Communism is unfurled to the breezes; it matters not whether it is in Moscow, in Berlin, in Paris, in London, or in the United States of America.

Whether the fight is on the side of the workers, or against them, is shown by the flag that leads in the struggle. The flag of the workers' struggle in all nations is the Red Flag. The flag of LaFollette, MacDonald, Herriot and Ebert is not red. They join the master class in making war upon the workers who carry the Red Flag in the struggle for labor's world victory. They are the enemies of the workers.

LaFollette and Wheeler fly the flag of Wall Street in the fight against the workers and farmers of the United States of America. They fly the flag that leads the forces into the war against labor; to the war for Wall Street; to the war to make the American dollar the greatest power in the world.

Was Worth Fighting for Democracy; You Get in Free to Races

EXPOSITION PARK, Ampa, Ill., Sept. 14.—For six years no one paid any attention to them. They had fought in the war for democracy, but what of it? Today, they were treated to a free place in the race track. On Defense Day, the management of the track let in all veterans free of charge providing they wore uniforms. It certainly was worth while going across and coming back without a leg or arm or some such more or less useful portion of your body, and then get in free at a race track for one day.

ARE YOU OBTAINING YOUR BUNDLE OF THE DAILY WORKER and CAMPAIGN LEAFLETS to distribute when you are out getting signatures to petitions?

A Few Days Left to Finish the Job!

Congressional, Presidential and State Figures Growing Rapidly.

Let's Put Every Candidate on the Ballot!

WITH more Party and League comrades than ever before now on the job getting signatures for the Workers Party candidates for President, State and Congressional offices, and with the steadily increasing signatures coming into the local office, the Workers Party in Illinois feels confident that every Communist candidate will be on the ballot in the November election. The Presidential Electors (Foster-Gitlow electors) and the State ticket have almost got the necessary number of signatures. A few hundred more and Foster, Gitlow, for the Presidential ticket, and Bill Dunne, candidate for Governor, Louis Engdahl, candidate for United States Senator and other candidates on the State ticket will be sure bets to go over the top. Further, most of the Congressional candidates running from Chicago Congressional districts ought to have sufficient signatures in another day or two. Comrades will be transferred to help out in other Congressional districts as fast as possible.

Don't slacken on the job. There are still many days in which to get signatures.

We have been making an effort to get as many of the candidates over the top by September 15th, and therefore the Workers Party set that date as the date up to which the comrades were expected to get the needed signatures. That also would give the Party time to check up on every possibility and angle of the work before filing the signatures. The candidates have not yet quite gone over in the time prescribed by the Party. However, the last possible date on which comrades can send in signatures to the Local Office, 166 W. Washington St., Room 303, is OCTOBER FIRST.

Now that the Party and League comrades have two weeks yet to get signatures, the Party expects renewed energy and enthusiasm from every comrade. It should be plain to all that the Communist candidates can get on the ballot if the membership in Chicago will get out every day for signatures. Rally to the duty. Every comrade out each day for signatures.

The results to date are:

District	Candidate	Signatures obtained	Signatures necessary
No. 1	Gordon Owens	780	1200
No. 4	Joseph Podkulski	750	1300
No. 5	Harry Epstein	425	1000
No. 6	Frank Pellegrino	1000	3500
No. 7	Sam Hammermark	1750	4000
No. 8	George Maurer	500	800
No. 9	Jack W. Johnstone	850	1200
Presidential Electors (Foster-Gitlow electors) and Illinois State signatures		1800	2000

Two weeks more in which to get signatures! That's great stuff and greater possibilities. Are the comrades going to make good on this job? The Party thinks they are. Let's see some smoke from now on. Send in hundreds of signatures every day. Put the Communist candidates over. Every Workers Party candidate on the ballot to help in the work of smashing capitalism. What'll be the score tomorrow?

CHICAGO HEARS ABOUT BURNING DAILY WORKER

Audiences at Open Air Meetings Buy Paper

By ELSA BLOCH

An enthusiastic crowd of workers, at the corner of 30th and State Streets, waited thru a dreary drizzle of rain thru the honking of the auto horn of an infuriated "plute," thru the deafening howl of an old "minstrel" on the corner opposite, while I told my own story of how I had been pushed and mauled, jeered at and followed for blocks, for attempting to distribute a few copies of the DAILY WORKER on Defense Day, in Grant park, on Chicago's lake front.

And within a few minutes after I left the platform, hundreds of copies of the DAILY WORKER had been placed in eager hands.

"What is this paper that the authorities are so anxious to keep from us?" was the universal question.

From soap-boxes all over the city, Workers Party members spoke on Friday and Saturday nights, telling of the real meaning of Defense Day, of the business interests behind the last war, of the imminence and horror of the next capitalist war. Always, when the speaker told of the criminal destruction of the only working class newspaper in the country, at the hands of half a dozen patriotic newsies, an eager group crowded about to get hold of a copy of the DAILY WORKER.

Manley and Owens Speak.

Joseph Manley, campaign manager of the Workers Party, and Gordon Owens, candidate for congress from the first congressional district on the Workers Party ticket, spoke to a crowd of Negro workers on the South Side.

They told how Defense Day, among other things, had been made a Jim Crow day—how the Negro workers who showed themselves willing to march behind an imperialist flag had been segregated in Washington park, and forced to go thru with a celebration entirely separate from the "white" celebration in Grant park.

One of the most successful meetings was that held at the corner of Roosevelt and Homan Sts., under the auspices of the Young Workers League, where J. Louis Engdahl, Editor of the DAILY WORKER, and Abe Harris, talked to an ever-increasing crowd on the subject of imperialism and war.

Herd Feels Police Fist.

So successful were the meetings that the cops have again begun to get busy. At the corner of Lawrence and Sawyer Sts., Peter Herd, member of the Young Workers League, was taken from the box and marched off to the Racine avenue station. Members of the League believe that the police may have been the agents of the Irving Park Business Mens' league, which had drummed up the charges of "disorderly conduct" and "hindering traffic." Comrade Herd was released and the case postponed to allow the police to bring in witnesses.

Thru these meetings, literature—the DAILY WORKER, the Liberator, the Labor Herald, pamphlets of all sorts—is reaching the masses. And hundreds of signatures are being obtained at these meetings which will help to place in the field this fall working class candidates—candidates of the Workers Party.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

STREET MEETINGS IN CHICAGO.

Monday, Sept. 15.

Madison & Wood Sts.—auspices Mid-City branch. Speakers, Anna Bloor, Roosevelt & Morgan—auspices Marshfield Y. W. L. Speakers, Manley and others.

Tuesday, Sept. 16.

16th & Kedzie—auspices West Side (Douglas) Y. W. L. Speakers, Wat Kaplan and others.

Wilton & Belmont—auspices N. S. English branch. Speakers, Ella Reeve Bloor and others.

W. 14th & 49th Ct.—auspices Cicero Lith. branches. Speakers, English & Lithuanian comrades.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE ACTIVITIES.

Monday, Sept. 15.

Industrial Class, 2611 Hirsch Boulevard, 8:00 p. m. All members who work in shops should attend this class.

Tuesday, Sept. 16.

Russian Branch, 1902 W. Division St.

Workers' Party, Sept. 17.

City Executive Committee meeting, Room 303, 166 W. Washington St., 8 p. m.

North Side Branch, 2402 N. Halsted St.

Englewood Branch, 6414 S. Halsted St.

Marshfield Branch, Hebrew Institute, Taylor and Ida Sts. Social meeting.

Wednesday, Sept. 18.

Bridgeport Branch, 2756 Emerald Ave.

Maxwell Branch, 1902 Racine St.

"Fourth Congress" of the Y. C. L. Nat Kaplan speaking.

Friday, Sept. 19.

West Side Branch, 2323 Douglas Blvd.

Class in Communist Manifesto.

Rosa Luxemburg Branch, 1910 W. Roosevelt Road.

John Reed Branch, 1224 S. Albany Ave.

Herach Lekert Branch, 2812 Hirsch Blvd.

Karl Liebknecht Branch, 1500 N. Sedgwick St.

Saturday, Sept. 20.

Concert and Dance for the benefit of The Young Worker, Workers Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

ANTI-LABOR TEXT BOOKS IN USE HERE

Supt. McAndrew Forgets Past Words

Said William McAndrew two years ago:

"The text-books which are supposed to discuss our civic problems do not know enough to keep a women's whist club from financial and moral bankruptcy."

That was before William McAndrew was imported to Chicago from New York by a business regime. That was before he paid his well-known visit to Chicago's Chamber of Commerce, and received his instructions as superintendent of Chicago's schools.

That Civics Course.

William McAndrew has just instituted a whole new series of "civics" courses in the elementary and in the Junior high schools. He hasn't taken the trouble, however, to find better texts. To the DAILY WORKER he said: "I don't know anything about the texts that will be used in the civics courses."

Go to the school librarian and ask to see the books in use in the "civics" courses in Chicago. Here they are—all the old ones. Published in 1915, published in 1917, the same books that couldn't keep a "women's whist club from financial and moral bankruptcy."

Here's A Sample.

Open the most popular of these books—Hughes' "Elementary Community Civics." The first thing that strikes the eye is the three-quarter page picture of our heroic Massachusetts militia, breaking up the Boston police strike of 1919. "They have arrested some crap-shooters," says the caption.

Boost Sammy Gompers.

Another of Hughes' books, "Community Civics," is in use in the higher grades. At the end of each chapter is a problem for discussion. Here's one: "Show how the innocent public often has to suffer during a strike." And the children can do it, too, after learning that the reasons for unemployment are "sickness, injury and strikes," that "the best type of this (the union) movement is the American Federation of Labor," that "its president, Samuel Gompers, ranks among the most intelligent and far-sighted of labor leaders."

Try "The American Government," by S. E. Forman, published in 1915. "In the morning paper which lies on my desk," writes the author indignantly, "I read that the leader of a powerful labor union threatens to inflict a meat famine upon the people of the United States if the demands of his union are not acceded to."

"One thing is certain," says Forman, speaking of the proposed laws which would restrain employers from discriminating against union men. "The government ought not to insist on driving working men into unions against their will."

WALKER HELPS PUT IT OVER FOR HIS FRIEND LEN SMALL AT PEORIA

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 14.—The steam roller was run over those who disapprove of the politics of Len Small and President John Walker and his colleagues in the convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor. The resolutions committee brought in a report concurring in a resolution to indorse Small for governor.

Tom Parry, of Divernon, arose and said, "I am against the report of the resolutions' committee because Len Small believes in capitalism, and is an upholder of the system whereby a few employers exploit the masses of the workers." Parry got no further, because Walker ruled, "The convention has already acted on this matter by indorsing my report yesterday."

Walker Loses Memory.

"If I am not in order, why did the committee on resolutions report on the resolution?" asked Parry..

"I don't know," was Walker's reply.

"Well, I would like the committee to answer my question," Parry persisted. Anton Johannsen, of the resolutions committee, refused to answer the question.

Walker then put in that he was not running a machine and Parry declared the records would show that the committee on officers' reports had declared their report did not cover the resolutions, which would be acted on after the report of the resolutions' committee.

He Knocks 'Em Out.

Later in the day when Oscar Nelson, vice-president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, was talking in favor of a resolution he had introduced relative to the postal clerks, a delegate in the back of the hall fainted. Nelson kept on with his speech and all attempts to revive the delegate failed. He was carried out of the hall unconscious, with Nelson still talking.

Our Candidates

FOSTER'S DATES

BUTTE, Mont.—Sunday, September 21st, 2:00 p. m.

SPOKANE, Wash.—Monday, September 22nd, 8:00 p. m.

SEATTLE, Wash.—Masonic Temple, Tuesday, September 23rd, 8:00 p. m.

TACOMA, Wash. — Eagles' Hall, Wednesday, September 24th, 8:00 p. m.

ASTONIA, Ore.—Saturday, September 27th, 8:00 p. m.

PORTLAND, Ore.—I. O. O. F. Auditorium, 10th and Salmon St., Sunday, September 28th, 8:00 p. m.

BERKELEY, Cal.—High School Auditorium, Tuesday, September 30th, 8:00 p. m.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—California Hall, Turk and Larkin Sts., Wednesday, October, 1st, 8:00 p. m.

GITLOW'S DATES

Comrade Gitlow, candidate for vice-president, will address meetings at the following places:

HAVNARD, Mass.—Tuesday, September 16th, 8:00 p. m.

GARDNER, Mass.—Wednesday, September 17th, 8:00 p. m.

WORCESTER, Mass.—A. O. H. Hall, Trumbull St., Thursday, September 18th, 8:00 p. m.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Hermonsen's Hall, 158 Crown St., Friday, September 19th, 8:00 p. m.

LABOR UP AGAINST IT IN HOME STATES OF COOLIDGE AND DAVIS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—West Virginia, home of John W. Davis before he became Morgan's lawyer, has shown the greatest decline in mine wages since the war, just as Coolidge's state, Massachusetts, is the place where textile workers have suffered severe cuts in their pay.

POLICE ARREST YOUTH LEAGUE MEMBERS AGAIN

Minneapolis "Nabisco" Plant Drive On

By EMIL S. YOUNGDAHL.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 14.—In their second attempt to hold meetings in front of the National Biscuit Company plant here, Comrades Carl Cowl, Morton Green, Gerry Pett and Leslie R. Hurt, of the Young Workers League were again arrested by Minneapolis police.

A charge of disorderly conduct was placed against them and bail was set at $25, but the young Communists refused to accept bail expressing their preference to spend the night in jail.

Given Swell Meal.

Altho they were arrested at 12 noon Thursday and had no dinner they were not fed until four o'clock and then only on two frankfurters, two slices of bread and black "coffee."

There was only a hard board on which to sleep and no blankets.

The Farmer-Labor Federation of Hennepin County, meeting last night, demanded the immediate release of the young reds and called upon the labor members of the City Council to repeal the ordinance under which the arrests were made. The committee from the Farmer-Labor Federation presented the case to a meeting of the labor councilmen this morning and the fight will be made in the City Council in the afternoon.

Case Postponed.

This morning the comrades were brot up in court and the case was postponed until the next day. The superintendent of the National Biscuit Company and his attorneys were in court for the plant.

The comrades were not fed this morning. The conditions of the jail are almost indescribable. Sanitation is conspicuous by its total absence.

NOTICE! CLEVELAND READERS!

THE DAILY WORKER is sold daily at Schroeder's News Stand on E. Superior, opposite the Post Office.

One Comrade Shows How to Aid Party Campaign

By C. E. RUTHENBERG
Executive Secretary, Workers Party

OUR Party is endeavoring to mobilize all its strength to win the support of the workers for its Communist principles thru their casting their votes for Foster and Gitlow in the election campaign.

In order to make an effective fight for those Communist principles, our Party must carry on more intensive propaganda work than ordinarily to support its Communist principles and its candidates.

This means that we must hold many public meetings. It means that we must prepare and distribute pamphlets, leaflets, posters and other forms of propaganda to arouse the workers and win their support.

For this work we are endeavoring to raise a campaign fund of $100,000, which should be distributed among the various Party organizations so that the work can be intensified all along the line.

The Party cannot fulfill its position in the election campaign without the support of the membership and sympathizers with the movement thru contributions to this campaign fund.

All Party branches have been furnished with campaign stamps and subscription lists have been mailed to Party sympathizers for use in securing contributions to the campaign fund.

Many comrades have done something to help raise the money for this Communist campaign but the general response thus far has not been great enough to promise that the substantial sum needed will be raised thru the campaign.

* * * *

WHAT ONE COMRADE DID.

One member of the Party, however, has given an example which should serve to inspire others to more aggressive work. One comrade has taken the work of raising campaign funds seriously and proceeded energetically to do his Communist duty along this line.

This comrade is M. Popowich of Orient, Ill. His branch received the campaign stamp books. There weren't many active workers in the branch so Comrade Popowich himself took charge of the books and inside of a few day's time he sold the stamps in three campaign stamp books and remitted $30 to the national organization of the Party.

If we had 25,000 such members in our Party the work of building our organization, the work of carrying on a Communist campaign, the work of mobilizing the workers behind our candidates would not present such tremendous difficulties.

If we had even 5,000 members in our Party who would go to work in the manner that Comrade Popowich did, we would be able to distribute literature, hold mass meetings and carry on our propaganda work in such a fashion that we could make a showing for our principles which would make every member of the Party proud of the organization.

How many comrades like M. Popowich have we in our Party?

The Party needs their support. It needs their work. It needs aggressive energetic efforts to raise funds for the election campaign. We have only seven weeks now to do our work in this period when we have the best opportunity to work.

Now is the time for action. Sell the campaign fund stamps. Every branch should raise the quota assigned to it thru the number of campaign fund books it has received. Prompt remittances periodically made should be sent to the respective officers to which the funds are to be directed.

Sympathizers with the Workers Party can give their support thru circulating the subscription lists which have been sent to them.

The campaign fund means a bigger Communist movement. It means more energetic work for Communist principles. Help build it quickly!

CANTON STEEL STRIKERS OUT; TWO ARRESTED

Workers Party Seeking Support for Men

CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 14.—Police broke up the meeting of the striking chippers of the Bergoy Steel Company here and arrested two of those present, one of whom is a member of the Workers Party.

The chippers went out on strike against a reduction of their wages thru the taking away of a bonus which had been previously been given the workers. The strikers now demand the eight-hour day and fifty-five cents an hour instead of forty cents.

Communist Aid Strikers.

The strikers are all either Greek or Spanish workers and the local members of the Workers Party are working in close harmony with them. The Communists are advocating the formation of a union to defend the interests of the workers.

Members of the Workers Party who are delegates to the Central Labor Union of Canton, are using their influence to get that body to come to the aid of the strikers. So far the conservatives have taken a disinterested attitude typical of the Gompers' type of unionist.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

10,000 SIGNATURES NEEDED TO PUT W P. ON SLATE IN CALIF.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 14.—The Workers Party has three weeks to secure 10,000 signatures for Nestor Mattson as presidential elector for Foster and Gitlow. It will also place James H. Dolsen in nomination for congress in San Francisco, Alfred Ruis in Oakland, and Emanuel Levin in Los Angeles, besides naming Morris Biehl in Los Angeles as candidate for the state assembly.

MINIATURE LAYOUT OF SPECIAL EDITIONS OF THE DAILY WORKER FOR FOSTER AND GITLOW MEETINGS

SPECIAL NEW YORK EDITION

THE DAILY WORKER ESPOUSES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT.

THE DAILY WORKER

Communist Candidates For President: WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. For Vice-President: BENJAMIN GITLOW

FOSTER SPEAKS IN N. Y. FRIDAY

MASS MEETING HERE IN SUPPORT OF WORKERS PARTY CAMPAIGN

COMMUNIST PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE HAS LONG RECORD OF SERVICE TO LABOR

William Z. Foster, candidate on the Workers Party ticket for president of the United States, needs no introduction to masses of this country. Never has any American been able to look back upon a record so full of earnest and able service to the working class. Never has the American working class had a leader from whom more could be expected in continued devotion and able leadership in its immediate and future struggles. That the ablest and most talented worker in the American labor movement heads the ticket of the Workers Party in the coming elections is proof a hundred-fold that it is the only party of labor will enter the campaign militantly and with all the energy the thousands of adherents of industrial and working class politics can command.

Foster is speaking tour of the country has brought out to-day new hundreds of workers men and women into the Workers Party campaign.

A real leader and organizer the working class Foster is an ideal candidate to head a labor party political ticket. There is no mere formulator of phrases and ideas; Foster has demonstrated by years of actual experience in the class struggle, that he is not only able to point out the correct path, but is

(Continued on page 2)

Unemployed Hail Workers Party Program.

Severe unemployment, constantly growing in every part of the country as the season progresses, is proving to be a bitter but a valuable lesson to thousands of workers. They are becoming convinced that the Workers Party has the only solution for the unemployment problem. Among them Foster and Gitlow and the rest of the Workers Party ticket is finding a great and ever greater strength.

Miners Hard Hit.

Miners in the soft coal districts are going to be working 100 per cent strong for Foster and Gitlow as steel towns of Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania where Foster is known and loved.

(Continued page 2)

Young Workers League Takes Leading Part in Campaign

While it is true that the greater proportion of its membership is not yet unable to vote, the Young Workers League throughout the country is taking a leading part in getting the campaign of the Workers Party before the workers. In the unions, in front of

(Continued on page 2)

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER
Communist Candidate for President

PLACING FULL TICKET IN FIELD IN NEW YORK

The Workers Party of the New York state organization is being placed in the field and petitions are now being circulated and put in circulation. Workers Party members and sympathizers are now hard at work in securing signatures to these petitions. A non-partisan organization has been worked out for every district with captains in charge.

More solicitors, however, are necessary. Those who are willing to help in this work should apply for their supplies at once at one of the following places.

WORKERS PARTY LOCAL OFFICE.
208 E. Twelfth St. Greiheit.
47 Chrystie Street.
Volkszeitung.
15 Spruce Street.
Workers' Home.
349 East 84th St.
Jones' Restaurant.
425 East 110th St.
Jimmie Higgins' Book Store.
127 University Pl.

All Workers Party branches have applied for supplies both for state and district petitions.

GREAT CROWD EXPECTED AT OPENING MEETING OF COMMUNIST ELECTION DRIVE

In what is expected to be one of the greatest meetings ever held by Labor in this city, the Workers Party will open officially its election campaign here with a mass meeting in the big Madison Square Gardens. With William Z. Foster as the principal speaker of the evening and a score of other leading labor men and women on the program, the opening of the Communist campaign in New York will make the records of the capitalist candidates fade into insignificance.

Plan Parade

Great preparations are being made to make this meeting a striking example and beginning for the entire campaign. Enthusiastic militants have prepared to meet Foster at the railroad station on his arrival here from Boston. A parade is being arranged from the station to the hall.

Seats at Premium

Because of the known demand for seats, the committee in charge has found it necessary to permit admittance by ticket only. Tickets have been printed in sufficient number to provide for each seat in the hall. No more will be issued. Those who wish to be sure of obtaining entrance to the hall should secure their tickets in advance. They may be obtained at any of the following places:

Workers Party Office
47 Chrystie Street
208 E. Twelfth St.
Jimmie Higgins' Book Store.
127 University Pl.
Greiheit.

Trade Unionists Line Up for W. P. Ticket

Sam Gompers and W. H. Johnson may have pledged their labor vote to LaFollette but they are going to have a hard time to deliver it. The sentiment among the trade unionists of many trades in this city indicates anything. A strong rank and file movement has developed which is rapidly swinging hundreds of workers into the Foster-Gitlow camp. Out of the storm of the campaign a strong and militant labor movement will result.

Rank and File For Foster

Particularly among the garment workers and the metal trades workers is the Foster-Gitlow sentiment manifesting itself.

Workers Party Campaign for New Members

If you are a supporter of Foster and Gitlow, if you believe in the class struggle and are willing to fight on the side of the working class—in other words, if you are a revolutionary worker belong in the party of the revolutionary working class, the Workers Party. During August, September and October, the Workers Party is campaigning for new members, and militants who can qualify are welcomed into the ranks.

Party Campaign Fund Mounts but Thousands are Still Needed

Pronounced success has been met in the efforts made both locally and nationally to finance the Foster-Gitlow campaign. While Wall Street is producing the sinews of war indicates that Coolidge and Davis and Little Wall Street is forking over the necessary funds for La Follette, the wage workers who have a heart for fighting and a head for thought and a heart for fighting are digging deep to make the Communist campaign possible. Coolidge campaign managers are planning a cheap campaign this year and expect to spend less than $10,000,000.00. Foster will make the struggle along with even less than that. La Follette spokesmen admit that swing the country for a paltry $5,000,000.00.

Against these forces the Workers Party is waged a fight to believe in the class struggle and are willing to fight on the side of the working class—in other words, if you are a revolutionary worker belong in the party of the revolutionary working class, the Workers Party. During August, September and October, the Workers Party is campaigning for new members, and militants who can qualify are welcomed into the ranks.

FOR YOUR CITY!

A SPECIAL EDITION

WITH A LOCAL HEADLINE—LOCAL NEWS AND A LOCAL STREAMER AD (as in the adjoining miniature)

At a Cost Lower Than Your Advertising

For the Foster and Gitlow campaign meetings

New York has ordered	60,000	copies	(Two editions)
Milwaukee "	"	20,000	" (Wisconsin State Edition)
Chicago "	"	10,000	"
Erie, Pa., "	"	2,000	"
Toledo, O., "	"	1,000	"

Detroit will have FOUR editions–Foster and Gitlow meetings and two special Michigan campaign editions.

Campaign Managers! The Workers Party National Campaign Committee has made the special edition a part of the campaign plans. You can build the party with a special local or state campaign edition.

The Daily Worker Goes With Foster and Gitlow

How many thousand will your local order?

WRITE OR WIRE FOR FULL DETAILS.

THE DAILY WORKER

1113 W. Washington St. Chicago, Ill.

WORKERS PARTY ELECTION CAMPAIGN MASS MEETING

Speakers: WILLIAM Z. FOSTER and Others

MADISON SQUARE GARDENS

SUNDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 19, AT 8 P. M.

Admission 25 cents

Doors open at 6:30

OMAHA'S LABOR FAKERS DIVIDE THEIR SUPPORT

Hellava Mess with Bob, Dawes and Davis

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 14.—As pretty a political stew as was ever concocted is now bubbling in the organized labor movement of Omaha, with the American Federation of Labor officially tooting the horn for Fighting Bob, A. J. Donahoe, who served as president of the Central Labor Union, tuning in for Dawes, and two other famous fakers, George Norman and George Kleffner, hitting for the Democratic slate.

At a time when trade union organization is about in the worst shape in its history, the labor skates are adding delusion to confusion on the political field as a direct result of the fossilized policy of the A. F. of L. in rewarding its friends and punishing its enemies.

Dawes' Labor Support.

When Hellan-Maria Dawes came here to deliver his speech, Gould Dietz, national republican committeeman in this state, realizing that Nebraska might easily skip into the column of another candidate on November 4, hunted around for some labor support to Dawes. He conceived the brilliant idea that if he could get some prominent "republican labor leader" to team with Dawes while he was in the state, it could be used to show the republican's love for the worker.

When the great day arrived together with Dawes, Dietz prevailed upon Charlie to take second place for once and had him photographed, in numerous poses, with the prominent "republican labor leader." This extinct dodo was resurrected in the form of A. J. Donahoe, more familiarly known as Tony, who has been misleading labor in Nebraska for over a quarter of a century.

A Perfidious Faker.

Donahoe is a switchman, affiliated with the A. F. of L., and as president of the Omaha central labor body the best work he carried on was in the wrong direction. On one occasion the meat-cutters' union went into the C. L. U. to get a certain meat market put on the unfair list. Their case was just and the firm was declared unfair to organized labor. Donahoe presided.

A copule of days later, Donahoe, president of the C. L. U. was caught coolly entering the unfair place where he got his meat. When accused of this piece of perfidy by a meat-cutters' delegate, the only excuse he had to offer was that he saw no pickets around the place; whereupon the delegate accused him of having pulled the same stunt in another place, and Donahoe didn't deny it.

Omaha's Red Raids.

A short time later the same Donahoe was the leading spirit in the famous "clean-up of the reds" in the Omaha labor body. Someone had to be the goat for the rotten condition of organized labor in the city under Tony's leadership and so Tom Mathews, a butcher workman was unseated, and David Coutts, a stonecutter, was "censured," altho this censure was never delivered. At that time Tony was emphatic in his loyalty to the A. F. of L. and would not tolerate anything that smacked of breach of discipline of its decisions.

Now he has sold out to Dawes, the most outspoken enemy of organized labor in America today. The last political job Tony thot he might like was United States marshal in the Omaha district, but his desire was all he got. Some years ago he got the nomination for sheriff on the republican ticket, the usual equivalent to election. The rest of the ticket was elected. Not so Tony. Two years ago he ran for sheriff again, this time on a "progressive" ticket and the same fate got him.

Altho he wears a Buffalo Bill hat and goatee, his activities are more reminiscent of Sitting Bull—or Standing Bull, as you like it.

Another Pretty Pair.

The picture is incomplete without the story of the other leaders in the fight against the "Reds," George Norman, a machinist last and politician first, and George Kleffner, an ex-mail carrier who has been carled on the public pay roll ever since the "oldest resident" can recall. These two political rah-rah-binders are now running around this piece of territory rounding up the workers for the democratic party, at so much per roundup.

If the fakers in Washington thot they could line up the entire labor movement of the country behind Fadling Bob they reckoned without the lesser fakers who are regetating gently in their old camps.

Clarity comes only from the Communists. The workers of Omaha are becoming gradually sickened with the political mess into which their "leaders" are trying to drag them and are throwing their support to Foster and Gitlow and the Communist platform.

"B. & O." Scheme Is Exposed

(Continued from page 1.)

hensive as to the growing dissatisfaction among the men on the B. & O. lines. He seemed particularly nervous because the fate of his negotiations with the Seaboard and Canadian National Railways relative to instituting the same scheme of collaboration on these lines hangs upon the decision of the coming convention in Detroit. He made a bitter attack on the Communists for supplying leadership to the dissatisfaction of the rank and file.

"However, we don't fear these Communists," he continued, "they cannot cause trouble. What we fear is the mass of ordinary workmen who join a union because it promises to get them more wages and better conditions. We cannot enthuse or intrigue these men into this for any length of time. We must be able to show that the B. & O. program will yield them concrete benefits. This plan has already resulted in stabilization of employment, effective machinery for settling grievances and welfare work. But the question of more wages is now being discussed by the men and is bound to cause trouble. We have as yet been able to find no solution for this difficult problem of wages. The B. & O. Railroad has increased its profits to the extent of $80,000 in the not end book department alone. The company will be able to pay its dividends and that is a good thing. The men have been given to understand that they were to share with their employers the fruits of increased production. We will have to show the worker that he is benefitted not so much by higher wages per hour as by more work per year. If we weren't working under the wage system it would be much simpler to put the B. & O. program thru. However, we haven't run out of things to tell the workers and keep them satisfied"—presumably up to convention time.

Various lectures during the week developed the philosophy of labor's responsibility for increased production. Their selling talk to the workers consisted of phrases like "workers' participation in the management of production," "higher wages thru increased production," "stabilization of employment," etc. When analyzed it was discovered that these phrases were empty and fraudulent. Stabilization of employment, for instance, turned out to mean the manufacture of B. & O. locomotives in their own shops, which had formerly been manufactured in outside shops. No more work was created, no more men were employed in the trade at large. Work was simply taken away from one group of men and given to another. Formerly the employers had transferred the manufacture of locomotives, etc. from their own unionized shops to outside shops working under open-shop conditions because the cost of production was cheaper in these unorganized shops. Now the unions have guaranteed that their men would turn out locomotives more cheaply, i.e. manufacture more product per dollar of wages, than "scabs" in open shops. The employers accordingly have reversed the movement to the place of greater profits and are again manufacturing in their own union shops. Beyer triumphantly pointed to the secret of success of his plan. It was that collaboration with the machinists' union to increase production was proving more profitable to President Willard of the B. & O. than the company union scheme on the Pennsylvania instituted by Atterbury.

Just what Beyer's alleged stabilization of employment really amounts to can be best understood from a story he relates with great satisfaction. The men in a certain shop working under the B. & O. agreement were threatened with a "furlough" by the management because of lack of work. However, they were informed that if they co-operated loyally and drummed up more business for the company they would be kept at work. The men, accordingly, launched an advertising campaign in the surrounding towns, addressed Kiwanis and Rotary meetings and gave exhibitions of their shop to business men. They succeeded in taking away business from the Pennsylvania Line, and "made" more work for themselves at the expense of machinists in the Pennsylvania shops.

Beyer and the union officials are opposing every form of action to improve the conditions of the men which might hamper their pet scheme of collaboration. Beyer is against amalgamation because "the present form of union organization into three federated departments (transportation, maintenance of way and maintenance of equipment) is ideal from the engineering point of view." Beyer is now engaged in reorganizing the unions on the Canadian Pacific along these lines. Union officials are quick to permit reorganization for class collaboration, but discover insuperable barriers in the way of amalgamation for class struggle. Beyer sneered at nationalization of railroads (Plumb Plan). The four years term for international president, and more autocratic methods of disciplining the membership are favored in order to guarantee to the employers a continuous policy of collaboration. Beyer indicated that it was only necessary to win over 10 per cent of the membership, the keymen, to the B. & O. plan in order to put and maintain this policy over the union.

If any worker is still doubtful as to the meaning of the B. & O. plan, he ought to listen to the selling talk handed out to the employers by his union officials and their economic experts. These exponents of co-called industrial democracy are pictured to the employer as an improvement on the Taylor System, guaranteeing increased production by labor without the old brutality which actually hampered production. The best theoretical expression of the employers' viewpoint is to be found in an address, referred to by one of the lecturers, reprinted in the Bulletin of the Taylor Society of December, 1923. Robert G. Valentine, the author of the address, declared his complete agreement with the principles of the Taylor System, but opposed Taylor's application. He desired to co-ordinate the Taylor System with the vital economic and social principles of private property, state socialism and syndicalism. Taylor overlooked two prime factors making for efficiency in production. These were (1) the removal of the workers and (2) their self-organization and discipline. For this reason co-operation with trade unions in instituting plans for increased cheaper production was superior to the open shop or company union. Such co-operation with his own organization kept the worker satisfied and gave him the feeling that he had equal power with the employer. Valentine, therefore, proposed to improve the Taylor System by substituting the organized consent of the workers in place of their individual consent and interfactory consent in place of factory consent. It is this philosophy which underlies the pseudo industrial democracy being peddled by the officials of the Machinists' Union and of the entire Compers bureaucracy.

HE FOUGHT FOR DEMOCRACY AND GOT IT IN NECK

Seems Like Prosperity of Cal Is the Bunk

By JOSEPH GIGANTI.

(For The Federated Press)

Frank Lapka a lad of 26 who fought in the war for democracy is lying in the Cook county hospital in this year of Coolidge-Dawes prosperity suffering from a combination of pleurisy and pneumonia. Recovery is doubtful.

After Frank was discharged from the army in very weak physical condition he was forced to take the first job he could find. It happened to be with the Peoples Gas and Light Co. in their plant at Division St. and Elston Ave. His work was hard and one morning he was unable to rise from bed.

No Aid from Co.

Frank lived with his parents and little brothers and sisters in a three-room flat at 1444 Clever St. His parents immediately scraped enough money together to pay for a doctor but since the gas company refused to give any help he had to be brot to the county hospital.

The only wage-earner left in the family is the father. He is paid $17.50 a week and must get up at three in the morning to be on the job on time. Rudolph, 14, has been looking for work for three months. Everywhere he receives the same reply. Not today.

Food Comes—Occasionally.

Rose and Joe are twelve and ten. Their clothing is worn. Replacement is almost out of the question. Food comes at irregular intervals, and then of the cheapest kind.

All this is happening in Gen. Dawes' own town.

Unemployment in Bridgeport.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 14.—Bridgeport was given an opportunity to guage its unemployment problem when one of the stores here advertised for a clerk. The entrance to the store was borne down upon by an army of unemployed that took the owners by surprise. Over one hundred applicants were taken in person that day, besides the continuous ringing of the telephone. The lowest bidder naturally was given the job. All the shops here are on a three day run without any hope for improvement.

EARN YOUR COMMUNIST MEMBER IT STAMP BY GETTING A NEW MEMBER FOR THE PARTY AND ANOTHER READER AND SUBSCRIBER TO THE DAILY WORKER.

RENTS FOR WORKERS SHOW NO LIMIT TO ALTITUDE RECORD

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Landlords tightened up on the workers last year to the tune of a six per cent rent increase, the National Industrial Conference Board shows in a report just issued.

Their survey was of rent costs for wage earners' apartments of four and five rooms with bath, refates to the period from July 1, 1923, to July 1, 1924, for the industrial cities of the United States.

Average increase since 1914 for 187 cities is set at 86 per cent. Johnstown, Pa., in the heart of the steel district, was cited as one community where wage earners' rentals had advanced 150 per cent in the last ten years.

Promise of "Land Fit for Heroes to Live In" Just Ain't

(By The Federated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 14.—A one-armed veteran, arrested for neglecting his five children, proved so overwhelmingly what his plight was in England that Lloyd George had promised would be made a "land fit for heroes" that the tables were turned and the court, instead of punishing him, gave him some money in relief.

Edward Painter, the veteran, had been evicted with his family from their home and could find no other shelter than an abandoned mail wagon with a leaky roof and infested with vermin. A doctor who called found it surrounded by mud and in such an insanitary condition that the only thing possible was to burn it down."

The children were let while Painter tried to convert his small pension into ready money in order to buy a house where the evicted family could live. The judge acquitted him of the charge and six shillings ($1.25) was ordered given him from the poorbox.

Thus is England made a land fit for heroes.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Edwards Speaks Tonight at N. S. English Branch

John Edwards, a delegate from the Workers Party, Young Workers League and Trade Union Educational League to the Fifth Congress of the Communist International has just returned from Russia. He will speak at the North Side English Branch, W. P., tonight at Imperial Hall, 2409 N. Halsted Street.

Comrade Edwards is crammed with information of the lastest sort on the revolutionary political and economic conditions in Russia, Germany and other European countries he has visited. In addition to being informed, he is also a good speaker. So come along to the meeting and bring visitors.

AMERICAN GRASP ON CANADA BEATS THAT OF BRITIAN

But Canadians Still Hold Whip Hand

(By Federated Press.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 14.—The British investors' hold on the Dominion of Canada is weakening and the American investors' grip is growing but the native Canadian capitalist's fist is getting bigger even faster, according to figures gathered by H. M. Bartholomew.

Canucks Supreme.

The bulk of Canadian capital is owned by Canadian investors, he says, and the percentage is on the increase to a marked degree. This partly explains the Canadian move for complete political autonomy within the British empire.

The ratio of British to American investment in Canada was ten to one in 1910, as Scott Nearing has shown. In 1914 it was still ten to two, after Great Britain had been at war five months. In 1923 England had given way to Wall Street and the ratio was ten to thirteen, favor America.

In the single field of mining, Bartholomew finds that in 1922 British capital amounted to 13 per cent of the $769,256,108 total; American capital to 31 per cent, while Canadian capital held 54 per cent or more than half. "The central fact is," he says, "that Canadian investors have responded to the needs of Canadian industry."

Oily Proposition.

At the same time the Canadian National Railways, a government enterprise, is floating a $26,000,000 bond issue in the United States, with principal and interest payable in gold in New York City, and the National City Bank (Standard Oil) as the trustee.

Lose Heads in Excitement.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 14.—Despatches received here today told of the sentencing to death of 56 counter-revolutionaries in Tiflis and Batoum, where rebels have fought stubbornly for possession of the strategic Berbent Point, which would have closed access to Trans-Caucasus.

SOVIET RUSSIA'S KIDS ARE HAPPY IN GOV'T HOMES

American Money Helps to Brighten Lives

(By the Federated Press.)

BUZULUK, Russia, Sept. 14.—American money is helping to brighten the spirits and build the bodies of 140 children in the Talli children's home in Samara, Russia.

Ruth Stout gives an account of the home's progress to The Federated Press in which she gratefully acknowledges the receipt of $1,275 from American friends and tells how the money is being used.

Money to Good Use.

The home bot ten sewing machines for $150, thread $25, carpenter's tools $50, repairs on engine, electric plant and mill $75, six cows $300, two separators and churn $75, school books, paper, pencils and crayon $100, a total of $775.

They still have about $500 with which to buy material for making shoes, tools for a machine shop, for cap making and a horse or two, if possible. Ten cows came from the Quakers. Surplus milk is made into butter and cheese and sold at the bazaar, to buy more material for industries. A number of cows had calves which were exchanged for chickens, turkeys, geese, ducks and rabbits.

Fifty additional beds have been made which gives a bed for each child, the only home in this part of Russia where there are not two or more children in many of the small single beds.

The peasants of the village and the local government are tremendously interested in the electric light scheme, and have been trying to collect enough money for the home to light the entire village from its plant.

Children Happy.

What impressed Miss Stout was the change of spirit in the children. Last October they were apathetic and hopeless looking. Now they look happy and talk with great excitement about their plans. Most of the girls have their rooms decorated with their own drawings. They love pictures. Even in their hopeless days some of them had milk can labels pinned on their walls.

There is no duty to pay on books. If any American readers have books or magazines to spare, with pictures, it will make the children very happy at Talli Children's Home, Talli, Samara, Russia.

Short Items From Soviet Russia

Russ Oil Output Grows.

MOSCOW.—The output of oil at Baku during the first eight months of the working season (October, 1923—May, 1924) reaches 169.7 million poods which is 27.5 million poods or 19.3 per cent more than the production of oil during the corresponding period of last year. The stocks of oil products by June 1 ran up to some 63 million poods.

Increase Shipping Service.

LENINGRAD.—In view of a large increase of the export via the port of Leningrad of goods, such as eggs and meat, that require prompt shipment and transportation, the Baltic Shipping Board has decided to put four ships on the fast Leningrad-London service, and these ships actually ply twice a week in each direction between the two ports.

Ask Russian Archives' Safety.

MOSCOW.—In a telegram to Mr. Herriot, the People's Commissar of Foreign Affairs, Mr. Chicherin, expresses the hope that the French government adopt the necessary measures for preventing the imminent danger of illegal seizure and robbing of the archives of the former Russian Embassy in Paris.

Replying today, the French premier informs the Soviet government that he will take up this question of the Russian Embassy upon his return to Paris, and that meanwhile he has already given orders that the question be gone into and regulated in accordance with the rulings of international law.

Welcome Soviet Representatives.

MOSCOW.—It is reported that a brilliant official welcome was arranged at Djedda to the newly arrived Plenipotentiary Representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics at Hedjaz, Mr. Hakimoff.

Pinch Bank Sharp.

ROME, Sept. 14.—The arrest of Olindo Fiorani, director of the Banque Hondi, on the charge of disseminating false information, was regarded today as another attempt by the government to restore trading stability in the Bourse.

Government authorities closed the Banque Hondi and seized the books.

Quit Ruhr Region.

ESSEN, Sept. 14.—French occupational troops today evacuated the country districts around Dortmund, Bochum and Gelsenkirchen, in the Ruhr.

GERMAN DEMOCRATS' ARREST EDITOR OF COMMUNIST JOURNAL

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—The editor of the "Rote Fahne" (The Red Flag), official organ of the Communist Party of Germany, has been arrested on the charge of violating the law for the defense of the republic. He will be tried before the special jury in Leipzig. The newspaper itself, which has been suppressed numbers of times, was not affected by this incident.

It is noteworthy that the law under which the Communist editor was arrested was enacted last year when it was feared that the Fascisti would carry thru their threatened coup against the republic. In practice, however, the law has been used almost exclusively to the detriment of the Communists whose growing influence has aroused the bitter opposition of the social democrats.

FORM SOCIETY TO IMPROVE ENGLISH-RUSS RELATIONS

To Promote Cultural Intercourse

(By ROSTA.)

MOSCOW.—The founders' meeting of the Society for Cultural Relations between the British Nation and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics was recently held in London, under the chairmanship of Miss Davis, per interim Chairman of the standing committee. In her opening speech, Miss Davis expressed the hope that by restoring the bands that had been torn by years of war and revolution, the new society could promote the cause of social intercourse and the loftiest aims of civilization.

A number of speakers followed, among whom Dr. Polovtzeva, representative of the Russian Red Cross Society, told of the progress achieved in the Union of S. S. R. in the field of public health and also of the increase of popular schools. The speaker also submitted suggestions as to the best means by which the West could get acquainted with art and science in the Union of Soviet Republics. Professor Kryloff spoke of cultural relations between Russia and England, while Mrs. Vengeroff, a woman writer, made a survey of the development of Soviet Russian literature in the post-war period.

Hobson for Close Relations.

The resolution on the foundation of the society was moved by Mr. Hobson, the well-known English economist, and seconded by Mr. Gorus and Mrs. Ruth Frey. Mr. Hobson remarked, in the course of a brief address, that the cause of international intercourse can be promoted not so much by political or economic measures as thru assiduous study and understanding of other nations' psychology.

Professor Hobhouse, lecturer on Sociology at the London University College was elected President, and Mr. G. D. May, Secretary of the International Co-operative Union, Treasurer of the newly-founded society. Among the members of the executive committee were elected Miss L. Davis, Mrs. Ruth Frey, Ashley Dukes, Dr. Polovtzeva, Mrs. Vengerova and others.

Dallas Movie Operators Strike.

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 14.—Motion picture machine operators are on strike in Dallas against nine theatres. Twelve houses were originally involved but three have settled for $6 a week increase on the wage scale of $25. The additional sum is asked for work done at two matinees each week. Picketing is going on without interference.

DEMAND COOLIDGE CAN GOVERNOR OF VIRGIN ISLANDS

U. S. Empire Notions Do Not Please Natives

A demand on President Coolidge to withdraw Captain Phillip Williams as Governor of the Virgin Islands has been made by native groups in the islands because of his appointment of George Washington Williams, United States government attorney in the islands, to the post of district judge "over the protests of the overwhelming majority of the natives," according to information received by the American Civil Liberties Union today.

Natives Protest Appointment.

Prior to the appointment of Washington Williams, large protest meetings were held in St. Thomas and St. Croix. A mass meeting of over 1,500 persons held in New York City on June 22, under the auspices of the Associated Virgin Islands Societies sent a message to President Coolidge urging him to intervene to prevent "the civic scandal and judicial disgrace" of the appointment. The American Civil Liberties Union also added its protest in the interest of the protection of the nation's rights.

Opposition to the appointment, according to the report that Washington Williams is "an official propagandist for the naval regime which the inhabitants are seeking to substitute by a civil form of government. He has practiced gross abuses in the exercise of his judicial and administrative functions. The feeling between him and the natives has been so bitter that they fear he will use his new post to settle old scores. His appointment in the face of overwhelming opposition from the natives and their American sympathizers is an affront to the inhabitants of the Virgin Islands."

To Show Pictures of Russia and Germany in 'Frisco on 21st

SAN FRONCISCO, Sept. 14.—The latest events in the struggles of Russia and Germany are protrayed in a new motion picture that has recently arrived in this country, and will be shown for the first time in San Francisco, Saturday evening, Sept. 20, and Sunday afternoon, Sept. 21, at California Hall, Polk and Turk Sts.

This new film was taken in Europe by an American cameraman, who traveled thru 15,000 miles of Russian and German territory to get scenes of actual events in these countries. In technic and dramatic interest, this new film is better than any heretofore shown in this country.

After the showing on Saturday evening, which will begin sharp at 8 p. m., a dance will be given. On Sunday afternoon children will be admitted for a reduced price of 25 cents, regular tickets of admission being 50 cents and 75 cents.

George E. Pashas
COZY LUNCH
2426 Lincoln Avenue
One-half block from Imperial Hall
CHICAGO

FOR INSURANCE OF ANY KIND
CARL BRODSKY
1123 Broadway, New York City
Tel. Watkins 3626.

First Time in San Francisco
Russia and Germany
"A Tale of Two Republics"
See German Workers' Revolt—Hunger and Starvation
See Russia's Reconstruction
Eight reels of wonderfully interesting pictures
TWO SHOWINGS ONLY
FIRST SHOW—
SATURDAY, SEPT. 20, 8 P. M. SHARP
With Dance Following
Admission: 50c; Reserved, 75c
SECOND SHOW—
SUNDAY, SEPT. 21, 2 P. M. SHARP
Admission: 50c; Children, 25c
Proceeds to German Relief, International Workers' Aid

The World of Labor - Industry & Agriculture

10,000 PAINTERS IN N. Y. ESCAPE DEADLY POISONS

Get 5-Minute Period of Rest Every Hour

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Ten thousand painters affiliated with District Council No. 9, of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America are now working under a new agreement freeing them from benzol and wood alcohol poisoning, providing for ventilation and rest periods and furnishing other much-needed health safeguards that are expected to reduce the high death rate of the men who follow this line of work.

The 15 health rules, which contractors must observe, were drawn up by the Workers' Health Bureau with which the painters' organization is affiliated.

They provide for the complete elimination of paint containing the deadly benzol and wood alcohol that have wrecked so many painters; they require a 5-minute rest period every hour, open windows, the turning over of all doubtful paint materials to a trade board for investigation; the labelling of paints, adequate washing facilities for the workers; the prohibition of sandpapering or dry scraping of surfaces painted with lead, and other provisions.

Dr. Emery R. Hayhurst of the painters' health department found that 60 per cent of the first 267 records tabulated this year showed symptoms of lead and other poisons; 35 per cent had non-occupational diseases, while only five per cent could be considered in good health. The Metropolitan Life Insurance company recently found that while only 19½ per cent of their policy holders showed heart defects that 39 per cent of the painters were so affected, due to the effects of the poisons among which they worked. Benzol, a petroleum product, has come into more general use since the war. The union's action against it has been taken because employers failed to remedy the condition at their own initiative. The elimination of benzol and wood alcohol will require employers to find substitutes regardless of whether these substitutes cost more or less. The union declared that human lives come before profits.

In a statement issued by the Workers' Health Bureau, it is pointed out that other health reforms still remain to be accomplished in the New York district. However, the action taken by District Council No. 9, for the painters of Manhattan and the Bronx, leads the way for 140,000 other painters of America to follow.

Six Hurt in Crash.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Sept. 14.—Six persons were recovering today from injuries when their automobile crashed into a concrete viaduct on the Sageville road near here.

A Steel Worker on Gitlow's Speech

By W. J. WHITE.
A Steel Mill Worker.

One of the most effective speeches ever delivered in the heart of the steel and iron territory was that made by Benjamin Gitlow, vice-presidential candidate on the Workers Party ticket, in the Hippodrome, Girard, Ohio, a short time ago.

Gitlow took as the subject of his talk the different candidates of the republicans, democrats and the so-called independent candidacy of "Bob" LaFollette, and he proceeded to discuss these in one of the most powerful speeches it has been the good fortune of the writer to have heard in a long time.

The first candidate to feel the wrath of Gitlow was Silent Calvin Coolidge, and in opening his guns upon him the question was raised whether he was a working man and if he was a member of a labor union, with a negative answer in each case. The record of Coolidge was raked with grape shot for the part he had played in the Boston Police strike, and the part he took in breaking that strike, against the inhuman conditions which the police had tried to remedy by going out on strike.

Butler, the man behind the campaign in this Coolidge fight for the presidency, was shown to be an open shop advocate, in his textile mills, in the state of Massachusetts and also to be an open and implacable enemy of the eight-hour day in all of his plants.

Miller, another backer of Coolidge, was shown to be like Butler, a millionaire and like Butler was shown to be a union baiter and advocate of the open shop and strongly opposed to the eight-hour day. Butler is the political manager of Calvin Coolidge, and if Coolidge is elected labor can rest assured that he will be found on the side of big business at all times, as he was in the strike of the Railroad Shopmen in their last strike.

In other strikes the capitalists went into court and asked for injunctions but in this strike we have the spectacle of the government going into court thru its Attorney General, Harry Daugherty, and asking and getting one of the most drastic injunctions, and, you see all the powers of government marshalled on the side of big business.

In the light of this record, stated Gitlow, can labor think for one minute, that he will not be on the side of the millionaires as against their class, the working class?

Dawes, the vice-presidential candidate of the big interests, was flayed as the author of the plan which is now being foisted upon the backs of the workers of Europe, and which if successful, will make slaves and peons out of the workers for all time in order that the house of Morgan may profit from the millions and millions of finance capital which he and his fellow financiers have loaned to the capitalists of Germany, France, Italy, Japan and other countries, which have been unable to revive since the war which cost the lives of hundreds of thousands of the working class.

If Dawes if elected will be like Coolidge, on the side of big business and the millionaire financial oligarchies of the United States.

Davis, the candidate of the democratic party, was shown to be the hired attorney of the house of Morgan, and one of the worst enemies of the laboring masses, and one who had never missed an opportunity to go into court in the interest of the house of Morgan, and secure injunctions for his client in the many disputes between the miners of West Virginia where Morgan has many of his millions invested. And the democratic party the strike of the steel workers was broken, and Davis was there to see that his client, Morgan, had every protection for the millions he had invested in the giant steel mergers and combines of which he is the head and front.

Both Dawes and Davis were shown not to be working men, and they were both shown to be not only not members of labor unions, but the one as the organizer of the Minute Men of the Constitution, and the other as the lawyer responsible for the verdict in the Coronado Case against the miners' union, opened the way for an attack upon the treasury by the capitalist class of every union in the country were shown to be enemies of labor. Gitlow, once for all, put an end to the story gotten out by the publicity department of the democrats, in which Davis is supposed to have come up to the rescue of Mother Jones, and Debs in some organizing trouble in which they were involved in West Va., by showing that both Mother Jones and Debs had emphatically denied the story and branded the story a lie out of the whole cloth.

LaFollette was flayed to the leadership of Herriot in France, and the leadership of MacDonald in England, and the infamous Noske and Ebert government and its rank betrayal of the German workers to the Dawes plan in that country, and the point made that if LaFollette was put into the white house he could not do otherwise than stick by his friends in the big business world and betray the working class.

The candidates of the Workers Party were then taken up by the speaker and the fact shown that they were both members of labor unions. Foster of the Railway Carmen's organization, while Gitlow was shown to be a member of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union and the fact was emphasized that both had been the victims of the wrath of the master class. Both having been dragged into the courts of the masters for their activity in the fights of the working class on the industrial battle field.

The speaker laid great stress on the fact that the Workers Party had no hopes of emancipating the working class thru political action, but that in the struggle of the workers for the establishment of the soviet form of government in this country, politics played its part in emphasizing the class struggle of the workers against the exploiting class, and that every form of activity would have to be resorted to in their struggle for power.

International activity was enlarged upon by Gitlow and the necessity of the workers being united with the Third International and that in this way only could the workers of this country act in unison with the workers of India, Russia, China and Europe in stopping the great war that was pending and threatening to once again drown the world in blood, and setting the working class at each other's throats. This is the meaning of the masters' Mobilization Day said the speaker and it is the duty of the workers everywhere to resist to the last this dastardly attempt to once again raise the spectre of race hatred in the land.

106 POLITICAL PRISONERS ARE STILL IN JAIL

Gitlow Case Expected to Come Up in October

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The total of political prisoners in America is being perceptibly reduced, according to figures compiled by the American Civil Liberties Union. Eighteen politicals have been released in five states this summer. This leaves a total of 106 men serving penitentiary sentences under criminal syndicalism laws or peace-time sedition laws in six states as compared to 121 three months ago in eight states. Three new politicals have been added, however, under an anti-boycott law in Maine.

All the 106 politicals are members of the I. W. W. All but 12 are in California penitentiaries. The Golden State is the only one still prosecuting under criminal syndicalism laws. Illinois, Pennsylvania and Arkansas have released all their political captives. The states still incarcerating men for their opinions or for mere membership in the I. W. W. are listed as follows: California, with 94, Washington, 5; Idaho, 1; Oklahoma, 2; Kansas, 1; and Maine, 3. Seven more convicted men out on bail include six members of the Workers Party.

Appeals are before the courts in Kansas and Oklahoma, and the Union is hopeful that all the 12 men held outside of Chicago will soon be pardoned.

Gitlow Case This Fall.

"The fate of the criminal syndicalist and sedition laws hangs upon the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court in the case of Benjamin Gitlow of New York, expected this October," says a statement issued by the Union. "That decision will determine whether or not the states have the right to penalize mere expressions of opinion. In the Charlotte Anita Whitney case from California, which will be argued before the U. S. Supreme Court this fall, the court will be called upon to decide whether mere membership in a radical organization can be penalized. Whatever the decision of the court in these cases, it seems likely that as a practical matter, these laws are at present headed for discard."

KUSBAS INDUSTRIAL COLONY IS SHOWING BIG PROGRESS DAILY; NEED SCIENTIFIC PUBLICATIONS

By WILLIAM BENDER
(For the Federated Press)

KEMEROVO, Siberia, Sept. 14.—Many important things have happened in the industrial colony at Kusbas lately and many more are due to happen. Since February 1 we have been producing an average of 300 tons of coke each 24 hours. In the beginning we had to store the coke at the back of the plant, but during April the coke began to move to the Urals and now shipments are a matter of daily routine.

Coal sells slowly at present and we have large quantities stored against the winter market. We are shipping barge loads down to Tomsk by the river. In the chemical plant we have developed a coal tar which is richer than tar produced in any other country. We have also raw benzol, heavy oils, light oils, clear benzol, naptha and pitch. The latter is also of exceptional quality. The ammonia is at present going to waste, excepting such as we use for fire extinguishing apparatus in the plant.

Orders Coming In.

All the by-products are stored in large containers where they are ready for immediate shipment. We now have orders from Moscow for "sublimated naptha." A small addition to the tar plant had to be built for this purpose. In the tar plant the comrades are also manufacturing a wonderful black paint which is excellent for iron, wood, concrete, steam pipes, etc.

I am in charge of the electrical station in the chemical plant. We do not use coal here but utilize the waste gases from the coke ovens so the production power is practically costless. Great efforts are now being made for the electrification of the villages and towns in the vicinity of Kemerovo. This will be part of next year's electrical program as will be the installation of a second turbine. We have also to build a new pumping station to replace the old one which is defective. We are soon to take over the mines at Koltchugnia, 80 miles south by the Kuzetsky railroad as we need much of their coal in making our coke. Work, which is planned, also covers the erection of the second battery of 50 coke ovens and the building of a bridge across the Tom River.

New Houses Built.

The construction department has built many new houses this year, but we will need many more. Kemerovo is growing rapidly and is entirely different to what it was when the first Americans arrived in 1921. It is a lively place as well.

Six devoted comrades from Germany who have thrown in their fortunes with Kusbas and who are working in the chemical plant include two engineers, two coke-masters, one benzol-master and a tar-master.

During the last week we had a delightful visit from Tom Mann. He left for Tomsk yesterday. When he returns to England he can tell the British labor movement the real story of what we are doing at kusbas.

Need Late Publications.

The workers in the colony will appreciate any scientific literature. Such magazines as "Radio News," "Power" and "Science and Invention" will be appreciated. And all radical periodicals and newspapers of all languages. Send them to William Bender, Kemerovo, Tomsk Gubernia, Siberia.

Russia Recognition by Central American Republics Predicted

(Rosta)

MOSCOW, July 22 (by mail)—Commenting upon the recognition of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics by Mexico, a member of the Mexican delegation of the Fifth World Congress of the Third Communist International said that, in his view, this fact was most important inasmuch as it will doubtless be followed by new moves on the part of neighboring countries of Central American and the northern states of South America—and this despite their governments being strongly under the influence of the American capital.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

DAY OF REST LAW WIPED OFF BOOKS BY LAW'S DECREE

Capitalist Courts Again Score One for Bosses

By ADOLPH TINDMAN.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 14.—District Judge Dickinson of the Hennepin District Court rendered a decision here today declaring the "one-day-rest-in-seven" law, passed by the 1923 Minnesota state legislature, unconstitutional.

This law provided that employes must have one day of rest for each six working days, save in listed exempted occupations.

This bill was introduced by the Minnesota State Federation of Labor, and was looked upon as a distinct victory for the working class in this state.

Labor's Ire Aroused.

The reactionary officialdom used the passage of this bill as a justification of their old-guard political policy.

The action of the District Judge has caused considerable adverse comment among the labor officials in this state. R. D. Cramer, editor of the Minneapolis Labor Review, when informed of the court's decision said: "This decision proves what many of us have believed that labor cannot expect anything from the old-line politicians, but must have a strong working class organization powerful enough to take that which labor is justly entitled to."

Triple Turnover of Two Years Ago in Big Baku Fair

(Rosta)

MOSCOW.—It has been officially reported that the total turnover of the recently closed Baku Fair reached 1,174,031 poods, which is three times the amount of the first Soviet fair at Baku two years ago.

State trade and industrial organs have sold goods for over 5.4 million roubles and purchased nearly two million roubles worth; the cooperative societies purchased over 2.8 million roubles worth, while private firms sold for nearly 1.7 million and purchased for some 243 thousand roubles' worth of various goods.

The results of the fair are to all expectations and are considered to be quite favorable.

PASSING OF DIVIDENDS OF THE AMERICAN WOOLEN COMPANY SHOWS BAD WINTER COMING FOR WORKERS

By LELAND OLDS
(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

Continued unemployment with the probability of a wage cut after election in November is the prospect opened up before the eyes of the low paid employe of the woolen industry by the failure of the dominating corporation to pay its regular quarterly dividend on common stock.

Thousands of employes of American Woolen Company had been induced to invest their savings in its common stock with the idea that dividends would help to tide over periods of unemployment and part-time work. Now these trusting employes are out of luck.

Forty Per Cent of Capacity.

The operations of American Woolen mills are reported as averaging around 40 per cent of capacity as compared with 61 per cent last June. Two of the company's largest mills, the Ayer and the Wood mills, have been shut down practically all summer. A dispatch from Lawrence says: "With the American Woolen mills running about 40 per cent capacity and the prospects not bright for an immediate resumption of full-time schedules, a bad winter is being looked for by mill workers."

* * *

The entire woolen industry, according to the U. S. department of commerce report, is operating far below capacity. In July woolen spindle hours represented 71½ per cent of single shift capacity compared with 90 per cent a year ago, worsted spindles 44 per cent compared with 90 per cent a year ago, wide looms 58 per cent compared with 81 per cent a year ago and narrow looms 50 per cent compared with 74 per cent in July 1923.

Dawes Comes in Here.

At the same time financial details have been arranged with a combination of German mills looking to the sale of large quantities of German woolens in this country. This suggests how the low wages and long hours forced on German workers by the Dawes reparations plan will undercut wages and conditions among wage earners in this country.

Referring to the attitude of New Bedford and Fall River mill owners toward a wage cut in the textile industry C. S. Kelly, Jr. of Sanford & Kelley, New Bedford, said to the Boston News bureau: "I gather that the concensus of opinion now is that after election a sincere endeavor will be made to cut wages. The feeling about postponing the wage cut until after election is due not only to the political situation but a feeling that with the two cities strongly unionized they would have a better chance of success with cold weather coming on and the union treasury somewhat depleted than they would if they tried it now when the weather conditions make it so pleasant to loaf."

This is the language of the textile autocrats who are backing Coolidge for president.

LONDON.—A "General Peace Conference" will open in Berlin next month with Germany and France among the participants, said a Central News Dispatch from Geneva today.

RICH YOUNG KILLERS NOW SAFELY SETTLED IN THE JOLIET PEN

Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb today occupy their cells in Joliet Penitentiary. The two rich young murderers of Robert Franks, against whom it is now charged that their money saved them from the death noose, are sentenced to serve in prison for the rest of their natural life and 99 years more. How they will serve the other 99 years after they have kicked the bucket is not explained.

It is beginning to be rumored, on good grounds, that they will not serve more than five years of their term. Clarence Darrow, chief defense lawyer, is already making statements to the press that in a short time both of the slayers will be obliously insane. Insane people are removed to insane asylums. From the insane asylum to the private sanitarium is only a short distance and from thence to real freedom, still shorter, especially if there is such an obliging governor like Len Small in power by that time.

In the meantime the two supermen will be obliged to eat their daily apology for a meal together with ordinary crooks, second story men, confessed and professed killers, con men, crooked labor leaders, and absconding bank cashiers.

BABSON BEMOANS WAGE DEMANDS OF STREET CAR MEN

These Common Workers Are Simply Awful.

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Roger Babson, in a current confidential circular, protests that street railway employes are showing "a deplorable tendency" to demand 75 cents or even 80 cents an hour, when they "are, for the most part, only one step removed from common labor." Babson argues that a man can be taken from the ditch and in a few weeks be trained to run a street car, and, by virtue of his new position and contact with the passengers, "develop into a higher type of man than he would have become if he had remained in the ditch. It should not be forgotten, however, that the source of supply is the ditch and the unemployed from other trades who will be looking for work with the advent of cold weather, no matter what business is." Babson says he does not oppose reasonable wage increases, but in this case the demands "are unreasonable" and should be stoutly opposed in the interest of "the entire community" and the real estate values.

Boston Common has lots of free lodgers, these nights, Babson finds, and this indicates that fresh "timber" for car crews is easy to get.

ARE YOU OBTAINING YOUR BUNDLE OF THE DAILY WORKER and CAMPAIGN LEAFLETS to distribute when you are out getting signatures to petitions?

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A VERY ATTRACTIVE FROCK

4869. Plaid flannel is here combined with plain flannel. This is also a good model for silk alpaca, for crepe or linen.

The Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 5¼ yards of 40 inch material. For collar, cuffs, and plaiting of contrasting material ¾ yard is required. The width of the dress at the foot is 1¾ yard.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

A PLEASING PLAY SUIT

4853. Comfortable and very practical is the model here protrayed. It may be finished with the sleeves in wrist length or short as in the back view.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. A 3 year size requires 2¾ yards of 36 inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The patterns being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. Do not become impatient if your pattern is

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
645 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1437 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

Join the Workers Party!

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year	$3.50....6 months	$2.00....3 months
By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year	$4.50....6 months	$2.50....3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE, MORITZ J. LOEB ... Editors ... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1922, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application

A Little Brother to the Rich

Prime Minister of His Majesty's government, James Ramsay MacDonald, received a gift of $135,000 worth of stock in the McVitie-Price Biscuit Co., from his close friend Alexander Grant, member of the conservative party. That was in March of this year, shortly after MacDonald assumed office in the name of the British Labor Party.

In June, a few months later, Alexander Grant was elevated to the peerage by the government of J. Ramsay MacDonald, and became Sir Alexander Grant.

This is what the capitalist papers call an "unfotunate coincidence." What they mean, of course, is that the present publicity is unfortunate. "Conservative and liberal party leaders understand perfectly Mr. MacDonald's reasons for accepting the gift and intend to maintain silence," remarks one capitalist reporter.

Of course, all the old-time servants of British imperialism understand. Gifts of this kind are an established thing in British politics. The only ones who will not understand are the workers who labored under the illusion that they had put a "Labor Party" into office. To suddenly find out that their highest representative is accepting secret gifts of huge sums of money, from the hands of a leading member of the conservative party, and from a man who later becomes a direct beneficiary of the "Labor" government, does come rather as a shock to the simple-minded workers who believed in the label "Labor."

Mr. MacDonald explains that he "was forced, against his will" to accept this gift because the cost of living is so high at No. 10 Downing Street, that even his huge salary could not meet it. He had to have a battery of automobiles to conserve his health. Mr. Grant presented him with the automobiles, just as a "personal friend" interested in Mr. MacDonald's health, and then added the big block of biscuit company stock to take care of the upkeep. "Against his will," Mr. MacDonald accepted all these kindly favors, and, presumably also "against his will," Mr. Grant later received a tit-for-tat in the shape of a peerage.

Burton K. Wheeler must have had some inside dope on the British Labor Party. Last Friday we printed an interview with this American disciple of MacDonald, in which he declared for a third party in America "exactly like" the British Labor Party in everything but name. He said he wanted bankers, manufacturers, and small business men generally in "his" party, because, he said, he saw no reason for refusing such little aids to politics as the offer of automobile rides which such kindly supporters could give. We trust that we are not unduly suspicious when we entertain the thought that Wheeler might have known how it was that MacDonald was able to ride in automobiles while carrying out the policies of the British Empire in the name of a "Labor" government.

The LaFollette-Wheeler movement in the United States promises that it will give us a government like that of J. Ramsay MacDonald in Britain. The more we learn of MacDonald and his government, the more we are inclined to believe that such would probably be the case. The "little brothers" of British capitalism and imperialism are being imitated as closely as possible by the American "little brothers."

Probably the most unkindest cut of all, however, that MacDonald has received as a result of his venture into the biscuit business, was the welcome into the capitalist class given him by Otto Nicholson, conservative member of parliament, who remarked before the Junior Imperial League, that it would be interesting to see if the newly-made capitalist, MacDonald, would now support the capital levy that is advocated by the Labor Party.

"Defense Day"

There were flags hanging from some windows and on a few wagons. The capitalist press tried hard to whip up excitement. The prostitute Hearst press outdid itself in jingoism. The pen pervert, Arthur Brisbane, was more asinine than usual. He used Jack Dempsey as an argument for preparedness. But Jack stayed at home during the great war. And his preparedness did not prevent Angel Firpo, the Argentinian, from knocking him into the press section during the early part of the big fight in Boyle's Thirty Acres a few years ago. Germany's preparedness did not keep the Kaiser out of the woodyard in Holland. It did not save the Czar from sleeping in the bottom of a deep hole in the ground.

The American capitalists have planned "Defense Day" because they see the need for having better prepared and better trained cannon fodder when they need it in the next war to protect their graft. There were too many defectives to be separated from the sound ones in the late war.

If the test was a success, we may have them more frequently and "Black Jack" Pershing may not be retired from the "active list" in the army. Silent Cal may re-engage him. "Defense Day" is the product of his brain. So we are told. He is a willing tool of capitalism and progressive ideas are as welcome to his brain as a lettuce sandwich to a hungry cannibal.

The masses do not appear to be greatly excited over this "Mobilization Day." Even the labor fakers know that the workers do not want another capitalist war. It is true that Gompers thru his Good Man Friday, Matthew Moll, endorsed it, but the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor did not dare endorse it officially.

One Chicago labor faker, official of the Teamsters' Union, got his beefy face in the papers by issuing an order advising all teamsters under his jurisdiction to carry flags on their wagons. The department stores turned out their thousands to join the patriotic exercises. The swaggering militarists have their day. If the voters can be convinced that a bigger army and a larger navy is required, congress may be more generous with appropriations.

The capitalists are preparing for another war. It may be with Japan. It may be with England. Or it may be a war for the conquest of Mexico. Their armies will be composed of members of the working class. The workers will be used to forge the chains of slavery tighter than ever on their own limbs. But the capitalists, besides needing cannon fodder to protect itself against the foreign foe, namely other capitalist nations that covet the wealth of our native capitalists, need them still more against the "enemy within." That enemy is the working class which is bound to throw off the shackles of slavery that now keep them chained to the chariot wheel of the capitalists. This is the strongest reason for the frenzied efforts made by our ruling class and their military tools to turn the United States into a gigantic barracks.

The capitalist government of the United States is keeping itself in readiness to defend capitalism against its natural enemy, the working class. The working class must also prepare to come to grips with capitalism. In order to do this, education and organization is necessary. The Workers Party of America, fraternally affiliated with the Communist tInternational, calls on the class conscious workers of America to join its ranks and prepare for the day when the workers of this country take over the power from their masters, and establish on the ruins of this war-breeding capitalist system a Communist society which will abolish war and the threat of war by eliminating the profit system, the cause of all wars.

The Reason Why

Do you remember the sudden and terrific onslaught of telegrams in the capitalist press about a new anti-Soviet revolution in Georgia? It was supposed to have occurred just about a week ago coincident with the opening of the assembly of the League of Nations in Geneva, Switzerland.

And were you wondering at the meaning of this new "revolution" particularly in conjunction with the meeting of the assembly? Well, if you were, if you couldn't get at the significance of it at a first glance, so to speak, you can see it now. It is very simple, awfully simple. Here is the reason why:

The league took cognizance of the Georgian revolution by passing a resolution, proposed by Francee, Great Britain, and Belgium, directing the council to "seize any opportunity to help return that country to a normal situation."

Do you see it now? The so-called great powers have been looking for an opportunity to step into the affairs of the Soviet Republics of the Caucasus for the noble and most humane purpose of returning these countries to a "normal situation."

And should you inquire into the meaning of these significant words: "normal situation," we shall beg you to consider the normalcy (bless the spirit of Harding!) that prevails in such countries as China, India, Egypt, Mexico, Brazil, Chile, etc. We would request you to look into the state of affairs of every nook and corner in the world where capitalist imperialism is holding sway, where the capitalists of America, England and France (not to speak of the lesser powers) are engaged in cultivating civilization by means of rapine, murder and robbery.

We know what this normalcy is, and this is the sort of murderous business that the League of Nations is planning to do in Georgia.

And should you further inquire into the reasons for the particular interest that the great powers are now taking in Georgia, we shall ask you to read the following:

Indications that Great Britain and France are contemplating eventual intervention in Russia came up today in the assembly. The rich oil deposits in the Caucasus caused the big powers to renew an interest in Georgia coincidently with the outbreak of a revolution in the soviet state, altho during the last four years delegations of Georgians seeking independence and support from the league have been turned away.

The rich oil deposits in the Caucasus. That should be sufficient to explain the reason why. It's all too simple this logic of the imperialist robbers. It is something like this: We have got to have new resources of oil. Georgia has lots of them. But Georgia is ruled by a Soviet Republic, by a government of workers and farmers, which intends to use the riches of its country for the benefit of the toiling masses. Therefore, move on Georgia. Fabricate revolutions and then send troops to suppress them.

This and nothing else is the meaning of this latest decision of the League of Nations to establish "normal conditions" in Georgia. In conclusion we want to express our gratitude to the Chicago Tribune, out of which we took the above quotations, for supplying us with the Reason Why.

Oh! Mr. Davis! - - -

By C. E. Ruthenberg

MR. JOHN W. DAVIS, the Wall Street lawyer and democratic candidate for the presidency, is growing belligerent, almost revolutionary in his utterances. At least, so the headlines which feature his speeches would lead us to believe.

At Grand Island, Nebraska, Saturday, Mr. Davis cast himself in the role of a valiant knight who donned his armor and rode forth as the defender of the Holy Grail of our liberties.

The constitution, our knight declared, in a spirit of high exaltation, is the defender of our liberties. It grants us, simple American citizens, the freedom of speech; freedom of press; freedom for assembly; trial by jury; the right of religious worship according to the dictates of our conscience; freedom from search and seizure; freedom from conviction by bill of attainder at the hands of our legislature; and all that long calender of things that makes every man a free-born and independent citizen."

These we will never surrender our Knight of the Holy Grail of Liberty thunders: "Never! Shall we surrender them at the will of the majority of the people? Not so long as individuals remain to claim them! Shall we surrender them at the demand of any legislature or a majority of the legislature? Never! Shall we surrender them at the demand of a majority of Congress? Never!"

And then our Knight rises to the high note of defiance and tells us what to do if these liberties are attacked:

"And if we are disposed not to surrender them, what is our guarantee and our protection for their perservation?

"It is that when any congress, any legislature or any executive passes a law or undertakes to enforce a law that would deprive us of them, we will ignore the law and declare that it has not value or substance."

That is good revolutionary doctrine, indeed. "We will ignore the law and declare it has no value or substance." That is the spirit of '76, and of the Declaration of Independence, which said that the people had the right to alter or abolish a government which did not serve their needs, if need be by force. We will ignore the criminal syndicalist laws which rob us of the right of free speech and freedom of assemblage. We will ignore the espionage laws which congress may pass in war time, in violation of the constitution. We will declare that the Daugherty injunction and its hundreds of prototypes, which rob us at one blow of the right of freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of assemblage, "and all that long calendar of things that makes every man a free and independent citizen." It is our right and our duty as free-born American citizens to ignore and declare of no value these laws.

And if we thus assert our rights, what will happen to us and what shall we do? Our Knight of Freedom tells us:

"And when we are arrested for its disobedience, what happens? We stand before the court and say, "This law under which arrest has been made is no law at all, and we call upon you to so declare; to declare that our liberties have been invaded, and release us from this unlawful custody."

Oh! Mr. Davis! Oh!! Mr. Davis!! Oh! Knight of the Holy Grail! Oh! Oh! How our thundering, defiant Knight of Liberty and Freedom has fallen!

We shall go to the courts! The courts that sent Eugene V. Debs to prison for ten years when he dared follow your precept for the preservation of liberty, Mr. Davis? And weren't you Solicitor-General of the administration in power and charged with prosecution of this case? The courts which have declared every assault upon the Bill of Rights constitutional! The courts which have held in the case of Benjamin Gitlow, the Communist candidate for vice-president, that the mere utterance of the words of a doctrine of social change warrants ten years imprisonment under the constitution! The courts which issued the Daugherty injunction and hundreds of similar injunctions which are the worst form of infringements upon the liberties supposedly given the people by the constitution!

Oh! Mr. Davis, Knight of Liberty and Freedom, what a farce you have made of your effort to be Mr. LaFollette and Mr. Coolidge roiled in one—to compete with Mr. LaFollette, the exponent of recall of judicial decisions and Mr. Coolidge the exponent of constitution as the guarantee of our liberties.

But beware, Mr. Davis. Your appeal for defiance of infringements upon our liberties will be felt particularly by the class which suffers from these infringements—the working class. It may find other means of expressing its defiance than an appeal to that worst expression of the class government of this country—the last bulwark of the property system which robs the workers of their liberty—the courts.

Straw Ballot Drive Starts in Chicago

(Continued from Page 1.)

Communist candidates, William Z. Foster and Benjamin Gitlow, and the capitalist party candidates, Coolidge, Davis and LaFollette.

The largest establishments in various industries have been selected, among them being the printing, machinery, electric, clothing, food and packing, candy, mail order, railway shops, street car shops, automobile and building industries.

The various factories and plants will be covered by Workers Party and Young Workers League members within nine days' concentrated campaign. Each factory is in charge of a Factory Captain. This work will be done during the noon hour, when the workers are having their lunch, or at other places between five o'clock and seven o'clock in the morning when workers are coming to the shops or some plants are changing shifts.

Distribute 25,000 Ballots.

At least 25,000 ballots will be distributed during this Straw Ballot. The ballot is called the DAILY WORKER straw vote, one side of the card containing the names of the United States presidential candidates and the other side an advertisement for the DAILY WORKER. Thus, in addition to the straw ballot within the main industries of Chicago, which will be a better gauge of the attitude of the workers than the bourgeois ballots being taken at county fairs, etc., the DAILY WORKER will be made known to thousands of other workers. Straw ballots have but little real meaning, of course, since even the actual elections are only of straw value to the workers, but we can use them as a medium for getting Communist ideas, literature, the Workers Party program before the workers. Then, too, it is another way of carrying on the Communist election campaign in addition to the street and other meetings.

Distribute DAILY WORKER.

The party in Chicago will follow up the factory straw ballot by organizing squads to distribute the 10,000 Special Chicago DAILY WORKER edition for the Foster-Gitlow campaign meeting on October 12, at Ashland Auditorium.

The 10,000 DAILY WORKERS of that edition will be distributed free among the workers at the same factories and plants which will be covered in the straw vote campaign.

This is a logical follow-up of the straw vote and campaign to obtain signatures to place Workers Party candidates on the ballot in Chicago and the State of Illinois.

Party Orientation Toward Factory.

However, the important factors growing out of these campaigns of various kinds in the factories and shops is that gradually the party members will begin to think of carrying on the political work of the party in the shops, mills and factories and will get away from purely internal branch activity or routine parliamentary, neighborhood, middle-class work. Instead of distributing the DAILY WORKER or other literature from house-to-house and which takes a much longer time, comrades will take it for granted in time that literature should be distributed at the factory gates, either from the outside or inside, preferably the latter. In carrying on these factory campaigns, comrades are learning how much more effective the Communist work is that way. If organized politically within the shop, as shop nuclei, the work will be even better, far more systematized and organized. Factory activity and organization is in the direction of real Communist activity. As such campaigns increase in Chicago and elsewhere, the party members will see the greater benefit and need of shop nuclei-organization and will work to organize the party on that basis.

Comrades Asked To Aid.

The party will need an average of 20 comrades a day to cover the various factories properly. There are unemployed comrades who could help every day in putting over the straw vote campaign and DAILY WORKER and other literature distribution. Comrades should send their wives, daughters, sisters or brothers who can get off for a few hours during the noon period, to help out. The job is not easy and every comrade we can get will be needed. The date of the straw vote campaign is Sept. 16-25 inclusive. Send in your name if you can help; also the days you can go to the factories. Address the Local Office, 166 W. Washington St., Room 303, or telephone State 7985. You will be assigned to a Captain of the factory and be given the time to report, etc.

Reports of the straw ballot campaign in the factories will be printed regularly in the DAILY WORKER.

MacDonald Exposures Shock Great Britain

(Continued from page 1)

created a sensation equal to that which is now agitating British public life over the uncovering of the $150,000 dollar bribe received by James Ramsay MacDonald, socialist premier of Great Britain from Sir Alexander Grant, millionaire Scottish owner of the great biscuit manufacturing firm known as the McVitrie and Price Biscuit Company of Edinburgh.

Of course Mr. MacDonald has an alibi but it must be frankly admitted that it does not sound very reassuring, particularly to those British workers who have had to go on strike recently for an increase in wages and who were warned by the Christian MacDonald against causing strife in the country or striving for "material" things.

Biscuit King Gets Title.

MacDonald was given the $150,000 worth of stock in Sir Alexander's company shortly after he became premier. It is also worthy of note that Grant received his title only a few months ago and as the purchase of titles in England is an open secret, the connection between the title and the generous gift is rather obvious.

MacDonald's own explanation of the affair is as follows: When he became prime minister, Mr. Alexander Grant, not then knighted, was worried about Mr. MacDonald's health, and offered him a powerful and expensive automobile with sufficient funds to maintain it and pay the chauffer. His salary as prime minister and the expenses allowed by the British government for maintaining Downing Street, according to MacDonald's version of the incident, forced him against his will to accept the gift. The $150,000 was an endowment to pay the expenses of keeping the automobile.

This explanation might be accepted without even the batting of an eye, provided all Englishmen were imbued with MacDonald's christian socialist ideas, but unfortunately they are not and already the radicals in the Labor Party and the left wing elements in the trade union movement are calling for the head of the man who betrayed them to the capitalists.

The British workers are now beginning to realize that MacDonald had only his eyes and ears open for the capital levy" demand after he entered Downing Street. How many more members of the Labor Party government have been puchased by the capitalists is the question now on the tongue of every British worker who has eyes and ears open.

MacDonald received the stock to "endow" the car last March and the biscuit manufacturer received the title in June. In an interview given by MacDonald while returning from a golfing expedition in Scotland, he stated that he was considerably pained over the publicity received by the stock transaction. (Anybody in his position would.) He was not so much concerned about himself as he was for the reputation of his good friend, Sir Alexander, who should be able to enjoy his title, which was given him by the King, because of his munificience in giving away libraries a la Andrew Carnegie. It takes as much money to endow libraries and keep automobiles in gasoline as it does to buy a title.

Conservative and liberal party leaders, being in the same boat with the premier, are not saying very much But the masses are disappointed. They trusted "Mac," which showed that they lack discernment. This affair has done more to disillusion them in their "hero" that any number of interviews on socialism acording to Saint Ramsay.

Some of the opposition papers, urge MacDonald to surrender the car, which would mean surrendering the "endowment." It might be said that the car would be a public reminder of the graft, whereas the people would forget all about it as they did about Lloyd George's connection with the Marconi scandal if the car is parked out of sight.

Sir Alexander Grant, made matters worse by explaining the "endowment": "I gave the car to Mr. MacDonald in order to save his health, for he was riding altogether too many hours in the crowded subways."

If the anger of the British working class means anything, MacDonald may need a subway to save his health by keeping out of the way.

The extreme right wing in the British labor movement has received a severe blow in MacDonald's exposure as a common grafter. The comparison between his venality and the stainless record of the Communist leaders of the Soviet government is frequently drawn. While the conservative and liberal parties may reap immediate political advantage from the situation, it will mean more for the British working class that this false image is knocked down, than a mere election victory.

With a Bolshevik-hating, christian socialist, democratic, church-going pacifist, British premier, is now exposed as the Albert B. Fall of the Labor Party government.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

(Continued from page 1)

he actually accuses the Republicans of being crooks. He says they have not honesty or virtue and lacking both how can they be otherwise than crooks? The orgy of open graft that reigned in Washington during the Harding administration furnishes the Democrats with plenty of ammunition with which to assail his political competitors, but we have a faint idea that two prominent Democrats figure in the graft, one of them at the receiving, the other at the giving end.

* * *

BUT for the "non-partisan" conduct of Edward L. Doheny and Harry Sinclair in bestowing their favors on Democrat and Republican alike in return for services rendered, it is extremely unlikely that Mr. Davis would be leading the "embattled forces of progressive democracy" today. That duty would have fallen on the shoulders of the beady-eyed William Gibbs MacAdoo, whose long nose smelled the flesh pots around which Harding's bonny buzzard's hovered and whose long fingers found their way into the spacious pockets of the generous Doheny. The G. O. P. is graft ridden. But the elephant can stick out his tongue at the donkey and say "You too."

* * *

"U. S. Rushes Ships to Honduras: Land 100." So runs a headline in the daily press. And why does the United States rush ships to Honduras? The answer is: to protect American interests? Whose interests? The answer is: The interests of American bankers, and manufacturers who are exploiting the natural wealth of Honduras and the workers of that country. Yet there are millions of American workers who get thrilled when they see the pictures of American warships in the movies. They applaud as if they belonged to them. But the American warships never travel far to protect the interests of the workers.

* * *

THE American Charge d' affaires, in Honduras has warned the rebel leader, Gen. Gregorio Ferrerra, that the holding of a peace conference is impossible unless they stop their advance on the city of San Pedro. In other words the United States government will insist that the civil war continue until whatever faction is approved by Wall Street wins the upper hand. And then the rebel leaders will face the firing squad. When Charles Evans Hughes puts forth the alleged interference of the Soviet government in the domestic affairs of the United States, he evidently forgot that his agents were working in every country from Mexico to Argentine, openly stirring up revolts, when it suits the interests of American capitalists suppressing them when the situation is the reverse.

* * *

THAT pious but bloodthirsty fraud, Cardinal Mercier of Belgium, who aided the Allies so well during the world war is again misrepresenting Jesus. Like all the sky pilots who howled for blood during the great carnage, the Cardinal is now as vigorously howling for peace. He makes exceptions tho. The "notorious Communists" are the exceptions. Bolshevism, says the worthy peddler of spiritual dope, is radically atheistic. "Christ and He alone is King of peace." Too bad the bloodthirsty cardinal did not remeber this in 1914 when the Germans invaded Belgium. He might have left the defense of Belgium to Jesus. Mercier, like the American windbag, Billy Sunday, is one of the foremost ranter against the working class move ment.

* * *

RAMSAY MACDONALD has published a new edition of his book on Socialism. He deplores the materialistic spirit which the workers have developed since the war. It seems they were more spiritualistic prior to the year 1914. But today, they sometimes are tempted to violence in their struggles against the capitalists. The workers in MacDonald's opinion should suffer in silence rather than dislocate the social machinery by unseemly quarreling with the capitalists. What a disgusting hypocrite!

YALE UNIVERSITY
NOV 22 1924
LIBRARY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Communist Candidates
For President:
WILLIAM Z. FOSTER.
For Vice-President:
BENJAMIN GITLOW.

Vol. II. No. 152. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $5.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

PROBE MURDER OF 20 WORKERS

Legion Speakers Defend Big War Grafters

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

NOT since Albert B. Fall, and his friendship for Edward L. Doheny the oil magnate lit up the political atmosphere of America with a glare in which could be seen the figures of Coolidge, Daugherty, Denby and other prominent republican officials, taking their share of the precious oil cake, has such a man-sized sensation broken from its moorings as the recent story of how Ramsay MacDonald took the biscuit. It is true that great events sometimes cast their shadows before and it was thus with MacDonald's contribution to the gayety of nations.

* * *

BEFORE the real sensation was sprung the capitalist press broke the news gently. It was reported that Ramsay MacDonald invested a considerable sum of money in a biscuit manufacturing concern. Where did he get the money? That was the question on every lip. Then the bomb burst. Sir Alexander Grant, a friend of MacDonald's being consulted over the premier's health and the fact that he had to ride in the subway, offered him an automobile and to make sure that Ramsay would not run out of gas, endowed the automobile with $150,000, which invested in Sir Grant's cracker factory, would bring in an income sufficient to purchase gasoline, tires and everything else that an automobile uses.

* * *

CHARITABLE people would accept this explanation without shaking their heads, sticking their tongues in their cheeks or placing the thumb against the right side of the nasal appendage while moving the other fingers fan like in the vicinity of the optics. But it appears that the English are not charitable, tho they are quite generous. To prove the latter, they allow Mr. MacDonald to draw four salaries. One as a journalist and writer of books on socialism; another as a member of parliament; another as prime minister and still another as minister for foreign affairs. But the charity may be related to generosity it would seem that in this case the relationship was not recognized.

* * *

MR. MACDONALD, in order to escape from the fetid atmosphere of the London subways was obliged to accept the above token of the friendly wishes of his good friend, Alexander Grant, millionaire biscuit man. Four salaries cannot support a man decently in London as any London docker can tell you, so when Mr. Grant, later on "Sir," asked Ramsay how was that cold of his and if he had had that ugly wheeze on his chest, and Mac replied that his throat was getting dusty, the biscuit man gently hinted that he would take steps to take his friend out of the subway, where the foul air is everything but beneficial to wheezes and coughs.

* * *

IT took great courage for Alexander to make the suggestion, for everybody knows what a hard customer a social-democratic-presbyterian-Scotchman is in an attempt to force money on him without due process of law. Alexander, however, was a friend of his so he made bold to approach the premier and in the following language eased his ideas into him: "Ramsay, old pal, you are a socialist after my own heart and the way you are rubbing it into that confounded sinner Marx is pleasant to my sense of

(Continued on Page 6)

PRODUCTION IS SLOW; WAGES, JOBS FALLING, BUT CAL STAYS QUIET

(By Federated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Business is still slowing down, and jobs are becoming more scarce. Leading manufacturers of locomotives report to the department of commerce that they shipped 139 locomotives and had orders unfilled for 361, for August, 1924, as contrasted with 272 locomotives shipped and 1,497 orders unfilled in August, 1923.

August production of pig iron, this year, was 1,891,000 tons, and on August, 1923, was 3,449,000 tons. Steel production this August was, in ingots, 2,542,000 tons, as against 3,696,000 tons last August.

FOSTER SLAMS DEFENSE DAY AND GEN. DAWES

Cal's Head Like Wall Street Dictaphone

By JOSEPH MANLEY.
Campaign Manager, Workers Party.

That the Communists are the only real opponents of capitalist war, and its consequent slaughter of the workers, was amply demonstrated at the enthusiastic gatherings just held for our presidential candidate, William Z. Foster, in the cities of Elizabeth and Newark, New Jersey.

Both of these meetings held just preceding Coolidge's Defense Day aroused great interest and crystalized the anti-capitalist war sentiment in both of these places. The "democratic" government of New Jersey was well represented at both of these meetings by large details of police.

Foster was in fine trim, especially at the Elizabeth meeting, he flayed Coolidge and his "Defense" Day. He said: "Coolidge's quick change of front in calling the original Mobilization Day, Defense Day, illustrates the calibre of the man. His one-cylinder intellect responds only to the wishes, dictates and desires of his Wall Street masters.

"Why all the mobilization for 'Defense?' Defense against whom? Where is the great and powerful enemy with battleships, poison gas and armies, to attack the United States? Separated as we are from both Europe and the Orient by thousands of miles of ocean. The 'enemy' whom Coolidge wants to mobilize against are primarily the workers of America. This great display of military force has several objects. To overawe and intimidate the workers at home, to prepare for the slaughter that will result from a war precipitated by the backers of Coolidge and Dawes, to collect the debts of these American imperialists; or a war caused by their ruthless struggle for supremacy in the world markets. This whole scheme is symbolized in the person of Dawes the running mate of Coolidge. This so-called warrior, who never fired a shot, and who stayed safely far behind the lines in the last world war, is a Brigadier General.

"The only war he fights in is a class war for his own class, the capitalist class. He "fights," surrounded by comfort in luxury with an attempted use of hardboiled language, against the reds and organized labor. In Illinois, this cross roads capitalist hero organized the Minute Men of the Constitution.

Dawes, Financial Tool.

"One of their chief objects is to fight the 'red menace' and to protect scabs. Banker Dawes, president of the Illinois Trust Company, is an unscrupulous and demogogic champion of the financial oligarchy which owns the United States government. The plan which bears his name and which is administered by Owen D. Young, another agent of Morgan, will enslave to American imperialism millions of German workers. This American peonage will require the use of terrific force to fasten the collar of American gold around the throats of the German workers; just the kind of capitalist force that you are asked to glorify in the present Mobilization Day. The next international imperialist war is the war of "Defense" which Coolidge and Dawes are attempting to rally the American workers to.

"All the talk about the yellow menace and the question of Japanese immigration are false issues. The real issue behind this political smoke-screen is the struggle of American imperialism for the markets of Asia and the domination of the Pacific."

Foster dealt in an equally virile and ruthless manner with the other candidates, Davis and LaFollette. He said: "Davis may come from West Virginia, but it is a long time ago. He is "from" West Virginia all right. Part of the

(Continued on page 3)

LAFOLLETTE

AN ENEMY OF LABOR!

EDITOR'S NOTE.—This week Senator LaFollette leaves Washington and starts on a speaking tour in support of his presidential candidacy. His first meeting is scheduled to take place at Madison Square Garden, in New York City. The DAILY WORKER, voicing the Communist message in this campaign, will show how LaFollette is the enemy of the workers and farmers, as much as Coolidge or Davis. Here is our first message, directed to the workers of New York City, in this fight:

* * *

The Workers and LaFollette

THE great fraud of the 1924 election is the "Labor" endorsement of LaFollette. It is the same deceit against the workers practiced in every country by the small business class, the petty capitalists, to get by false pretenses the help of the working masses in futile political struggle to subordinate big capitalism to little capitalism—an attempt to reverse the evolution of productive forces by "busting the trusts."

This is not to benefit the workers, but to give to small business the chance of sweating the workers now sweated by big business. But LaFollette and his kind are not strong enough to fight big business successfully, so they speak lying words to the working class, making promises to get workers' support.

Listen to Barron's Financial Weekly, a banker's paper, tell how LaFollette acts: "LaFollette talks ten times as radical as he acts. Unless you class the Railroad Valuation Act—one of the best things that ever happened for the railroads—as radical, his name is identified with scarcely a single measure that truly goes to extreme."

In fact LaFollette's chief supporters are bankers. A lumber baron named Stephenson gave him his start years ago. Now Frank Vanderlip, once President of the National City Bank, backs him. Rudolph Spreckles, the sugar king, owner of Hawaiian plantations where strikers last week were murdered by the dozens and arrested by hundreds, backs LaFollette. Ask LaFollette to denounce this massacre.

LaFollette's machine has run Wisconsin for thirty years, and he says it is a "model commonwealth." Ask LaFollette why his machine in the Wisconsin Legislature in 1923 defeated the following bills: For 8-hour day on public works; for 8-hour day on state printing; for one day rest in seven; for shelter of railway shop workers; for unemployment compensation; for old age pension; for a general 8-hour day in factories; to abolish private detective agencies. Ask LaFollette, too, why, the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, right this year, meeting on July 15-18, 1924, said of LaFollette's state legislature: "No recognition has been given labor. Labor was encouraged, but finally ignored." Ask La Follette! Ask him if it is not a fact that today, in the national election, "labor is encouraged" only to be "finally ignored."

Another strong LaFollette backer is W. T. Raleigh, a patent medicine millionaire who, in his factories at Freeport, Illinois, fights the unions and upholds the "Open Shop." Ask La Follette about this "friend of labor."

La Follette rails at "monopolies." Ask him why Daniel Hoan, now mayor of Milwaukee, a socialist who wrote a book on LaFollette called "Failure of Regulation," said, "Not only were trusts not prosecuted while LaFollette was governor, in spite of the statute 'Section 1791-j,' but when Attorney-General Morgan of Wisconsin tried to irritate some of the big trusts with fines and dissolution orders, LaFollette, then a senator, hurriedly left Washington to defeat Morgan for re-election."

In LaFollette's 'model commonwealth' in which image he promises to make the whole United States, the average wage is only $91.69 per month, while in the whole country the average wage is $5.00 more, $96.50. Ask La Follette if he thinks labor wants its wages reduced to the Wisconsin level!

In LaFollette's "model commonwealth" only 31.3 per cent of the workers have an Eight-Hour Day. In the country as a whole, 48.6 per cent have the Eight-Hour Day. Ask La Follette if he will lengthen the work day throughout the United States!

In LaFollette's "model commonwealth" nearly a thousand more children are working than in New York state which has four times the workers. Ask LaFollette why he hasn't stopped Child Labor in Wisconsin!

LaFollette has praised the fake "labor government" of England. Ask him what difference there is between Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald, who sold a baronetcy for $135,000 worth of stock owned by Sir Alexander Grant, and Secretary Fall's bribe by Doheny. Ask La Follette, who says MacDonald's government is like his would be, if he and MacDonald are not representatives of the petty bourgeoisie, and not of the workers. Ask LaFollette if he is not a fraud on these things. If you want to support a worker in the election—Joint the Workers Party!

WORKERS' STRAW BALLOT BEGINS TODAY IN CHICAGO'S FACTORIES

For the first time in the country a straw ballot of workers will be taken by the Workers Party of Chicago on the preferences of the employes of Chicago's big industries in the presidential race.

The biggest establishments, of every kind, have been chosen and at least 25,000 ballots will be distributed for the duration of the drive of nine days. The various factories and plants will be covered by members of the Workers Party and the Young Workers' League during the noon hour and elsewhere between the morning arrival and the evening departure.

The workers will mark their ballots for any one of the four candidates so that an idea can be obtained as to the preferences of the capitalist slaves in the shops.

The Workers Party will follow up this campaign with special editions of The DAILY WORKER to be handed out free. Comrades are needed to help in this work and should get in touch with the local office, 166 West Washington St., Room 307, or phone State 7985.

Push the Workers' Straw Ballot!

FASCIST MEET WON'T ATTACK U. S. ACTIONS

Criticism Is to Be Kept On the "Q. T."

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 15.—There will be no criticism of the shameful treatment accorded veterans of the World War by the United States at the convention of the American Legion, just opened here.

Mussolini There.

That is the tenor of the speech made at the beginning of the first session by General Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau of the United States government.

Hines Lays Down Law.

"You and I know very well that there was at one time something amiss in the Veterans' Bureau," General Hines said, "that until lately there was always something considerably wrong with the administration of soldier relief. The roots of the trouble lay far back in the beginning when these government agencies were hastily organized under stress of actual warfare.

"There are rumors," continued the general, "that attacks will shortly be made upon the Veterans' Bureau, publicity and propaganda campaigns which are under way to drag out the mistakes of the past and so to visit, as it were, the sins of the fathers upon the children of the third and fourth generation.

"No one set of men, it seems to me, can righteously lay upon the shoulders of any other set the whole responsibility for the conditions which prevailed."

This forestalling of all criticism of the government's amazing record of bribery to the young men who laid down life and limb and health to fight for a non-existing democracy is the keynote of the entire convention.

A Valueless Convention.

Nothing of any value to the workers who were conscripted into the late war will result from this convention. Undoubtedly some kicks will be made about the fake bonus, so-called, which was slipped over on the veterans, and which they later found to be nothing but an insurance plan. But the American Legion has outlived any reason that it may have had for existence for the soldiers or for the capitalists. The only form in which it may continue, or be resurrected is as an aid to any fascist actions that the masters of the Legion, who are in control of it at the top, may see fit to take against the workers in the event of the latter making any more towards wiping out of the system that brings misery to them.

They Have A Good Time.

The annual conventions are used by the delegates who come to the city, as the time when they have a corking good time at the expense of the Volstead Act, anti-gambling laws, the modesty of girls and women on the streets and general law and order. At the last convention in Kansas City, the delegates indulged in a veritable orgy of "law breaking." Girls were insulted on the streets, the town was shot up, cops were beaten up for interfering with crap games in the hotel lobbies and alleys were littered with the drunken bodies of ex-second lieutenants.

It is said that precautions are being taken against a recurrence of the same thing at the present convention.

ATTENTION NEW YORK WORKERS PARTY! BE AT DISTRICT OFFICE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—All members of the Workers Party are especially urged to be at the district office of the party, 208 E. 12th St., Thursday, September 18, at six o'clock sharp. This is extremely important and no comrade should miss the meeting.

SPAIN SIMPLY WON'T QUIT MOROCCO; PUT ON NEWS CENSORSHIP

MADRID, Sept. 15.—Reports that Spain is preparing to evacuate Morocco as a result of the continued offensive by the Riff tribesmen, were formally denied by the directory today.

Spanish troops have cleared the Tetuan-Tangier road as far as the international line.

A communique admitted further retirements by the Spaniards.

Several advanced garrisons were recalled.

* * *

LONDON, Sept 15. — Spanish authorities have placed a severe censorship on all war news from Morocco, said a dispatch from San Sebastian to the Daily Telegraph today. Comment upon Moroccan operations has been forbidden upon pain of court martial.

LABOR IN NEW JERSEY FAILS SILK STRIKE

Federation Convention "Talks" an Injunction

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 15.—The New Jersey convention of the American Federation of Labor concluded a four days' convention here and in spite of the fact that the strike of the Associated Silk Workers is the most important labor event in the state during the past three years, this convention completely ignored it.

A committee was appointed by the strike committee of the Associated Silk Workers to secure co-operation of the New Jersey Federation of Labor convention in the fight against the injunction.

The Usual Red Herring.

When the committee appeared at the convention, a number of delegates spoke in favor of co-operating in this fight. The officials in charge of the convention were in a quandary and it was some time before they could organize their forces to meet the situation brought about by the appearance of the committee from the strikers.

Finally, Delegate Isaac Young, of Paterson, representing the United Textile Workers, arose and in an unintelligible harangue asserted that

(Continued on page 6)

G. O. P. SENATOR MAIN SPEAKER AT MACHINIST MEET

(Special to the Daily Worker.)

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 15.—The convention of the International Association of Machinists was opened here today by Dennis E. Batt, former revolutionary of the purest water and now a close associate of the president of the international, William H. Johnston.

He introduced Judge Jeffries as a friend of labor, in spite of the fact that the honorable judge is still a respectable member of Silent Calvin's political party and Jeffries launched into a speech which was intended to be a eulogy of the candidacy of LaFollette.

Frank X. Martel, speaking on behalf of the Detroit Federation of Labor, assured the anxious delegates that if they were brought up before Judge Jeffries while in Detroit, they "would be treated right." This made a strong appeal to the delegates who felt that they might be prevailed upon to indulge too strongly in the amber fluids.

Martel's reference to Jeffries is an indication as to how far this particular "friend of labor" will go to treat the poor workers with leniency.

May Peake, the president of the

(Continued on page 2)

HAWAII SUGAR SLAVES CLAIM BETTER WAGES

Dept. of Labor Knows Nothing About It

By LAURENCE TODD
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Scores of Filipino strikers on the sugar plantations of Hawaii have been shot down by company gunmen and police, and hundreds more are crowded into jails, because these workers were not satisfied with wages ranging around a dollar per day.

The U. S. Department of Labor, conciliation division, knows nothing about the affair, and its spokesmen direct all inquirers to "write to the Governor of the Territory" for information.

Gompers Investigates as Usual.

After a brief study of the list of casualties in this latest skirmish between the strikers, armed with bare fists and hunger, and the gunmen and police, equipped with riot guns and rifles, the American Federation of Labor of this here has decided to start an investigation in Hawaii. Cabled requests for immediate action are being sent to affiliated unions in Honolulu.

Some two years ago the labor department sent John Donlin, president of the building trades department of the A. F. of L., and four other men as a special commission, paid by the Hawaiian territorial legislature, to investigate and report upon the question—Is the existing supply of plantation labor in Hawaii efficient? The commission found that the Filipinos who numbered 25,000 or more, and the Koreans, who had mustered some 2,000 laborers to help break the strike of the Japanese workers, were sufficient, with the Japanese, to operate the plantations.

Filipinos Organize.

When the Japanese realized that they had been beaten, despite their strong unions, in the fight for a living wage in the sugar industry, many thousands of them turned to the building industry and to truck farming, and discovered that they were better off than when serving the sugar kings.

The Filipinos, at the bottom of the economic scale, began to organize, and about a month ago many thousands of them went on strike for wages equal to those already paid the Koreans. The plantation owners, assisted by local and territorial officials, inaugurated a reign of terror, according to reports sent here. Strike leaders were virtually berated in their homes; strikers were forbidden to approach them; all meetings were forbidden; guards were given orders to shoot at sight any strikers who might approach them.

The first result of this outlawry by the sugar kings has been the murder of 20 strikers, and wounding of a great number, and the jailing of hundreds, while widows and children are distracted with grief and fear. Scenes recalling the Ludlow massacre in Rockefeller's suppression of the Colorado coal strike of 1913-14 are reprised. Racial antagonisms, cultivated by the plantation owners between the Japanese, Koreans and Filipinos, have kept the strike from becoming general.

DEFENSE DAY; FREE ADVERTISING; THREE CHEERS! DEFENSE DAY!

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 15.—The parade here on Defense Day was a farce. There were only about 150 people in the parade and these included children. Autos were prominent in the parade. In them sat the fat, well-fed business men of South Bend. Funny how patriotic they are when a chance for free advertising is on the horizon.

NEGRO WORKER MADE TO SCAB BY EXCLUSION

Ask West Va. Labor to Open Books to Negro

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 15.—A scathing attack on the trade unions of West Virginia for excluding Negro workers from membership was made by Thomas Edward Mills, Negro, of the Bureau of Negro Statistics of Charleston, at the 17th annual convention of the West Virginia Federation of Labor held here.

"Negroes do not want to work in non-union shops, on non-union jobs or on jobs where other men have walked out on strike," Mills told the delegates. "By refusing to take them into your organization you force them to work against you. Were every labor union in West Virginia to open its rolls to Negro workers you would see the Negro strikebreakers disappear entirely in a very short time."

The consideration of a candidate for the office of president of the Federation is being given much of the convention's time, W. T. Harris, the present president is to be ousted under charge of misuse of the organization's funds. Frank Keeney, former President of Dist. 17 United Mine Workers who resigned his office because of a request from John L. Lewis giving way to ap appointed president in Southern West Virginia is being slated for the office but not without opposition. In fact it is understood that practically all locals from the Wheeling district and a number from other parts of the state have threatened to withdraw from the Federation if Keeney is elected. Among the other names mentioned for the presidency is that of Ned Sims of Wheeling.

Mother Buries Babies.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Sept. 15.—The grand jury will meet in Toms River tomorrow to consider the case of Mrs. Estelle Saunders, charged with burying her new-born baby alive in the woods near here at Forked River.

Police will start on a hunt to discover whether or not this attempt to kill her last child was the first time Mrs. Saunders had done the same thing. Her husband, according to the story to the police, believes that she buried at least two previously born babies in the same manner.

Dicks Held For Blackmail.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 15.—Three private detectives today faced one to five years in prison each and fines of $100 for blackmail on sentences passed by Judge Collins in criminal court. They were Robert F. McElroy, superintendent of O'Neil Detective Service; Chas. Hasselberg and Frank Cordell, operatives, the latter recently sentenced to sixty days in Louisville for assault and battery in connection with the kidnapping of a Chicago man by a jealous husband.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Our Candidates

FOSTER'S DATES

FARGO, North Dakota.—Friday, September 19th, 8 p. m.

SPOKANE, Wash.— Monday, September 22nd, 8:00 p. m.

SEATTLE, Wash.—Masonic Temple, Tuesday, September 23rd, 8:00 p. m.

TACOMA, Wash. — Eagles' Hall, Wednesday, September 24th, 8:00 p. m.

ASTONIA, Ore.—Saturday, September 27th, 8:00 p. m.

PORTLAND, Ore.—I. O. O. F. Auditorium, 10th and Salmon St., Sunday, September 28th, 8:00 p. m.

BERKELEY, Cal.—High School Auditorium, Tuesday, September 30th, 8:00 p. m.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—California Hall, Turk and Larkin Sts., Wednesday, October, 1st, 8:00 p. m.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Friday, October 3rd, 8:00 p. m.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Unity Hall, 138 So. 2 East, Sunday, October 5th, 8:00 p. m.

DENVER, Colo.—Auditorium, Curtis and 14th St., Tuesday, October 7th, 8:00 p. m.

GITLOW'S DATES

Comrade Gitlow, candidate for vice-president, will address meetings at the following places:

GARDNER, Mass.—Wednesday, September 17th, 8:00 p. m.

WORCESTER, Mass.—A. O. H. Hall, Trumbull St., Thursday, September 18th, 8:00 p. m.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Hermonson's Hall, 158 Crown St., Friday, September 19th, 8:00 p. m.

HARTFORD, Conn. — Educational Alliance, 287 Windsor Ave., Saturday, September 20th, 8:00 p. m.

ARRIVAL OF FLIERS IS CAUSE OF EXCITEMENT AMONG ALL THE MORONS

The heralds of American imperialism in the form of the three world flight airmen, reached Chicago today amid the blowing of whistles

All sorts of preparations are being made to receive the pilots of America's "victory" in right royal order and it is expected that there will be a real hot time in the old town tonight.

Thousands of morons are gathering at Maywood, where the fliers will land, in order to get a glimpse at the red-blooded American pioneers. Special trains will be run and there will be more excitement in Chicago, than if the news had come that the King of Afghanistan had married the Queen of Sheba.

Traffic has been suspended in many districts to permit the inhabitants of Oak Park, who will drive to the field in their Tin Lizzies, to go ahead without any delay. A squad of sixty-nine flappers are prepared to mob the airmen with osculatory affection. When the airmen recover they will attend the reception of the bigwigs that has been arranged.

B. & O. BOOSTERS FAIL TO ROUSE ANY ENTHUSIASM

By CYRIL LAMBKIN.
(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 15.—Taking advantage of the presence in Detroit of members of the general executive board of the International Association of Machinists, who are here for the convention, Detroit Local No. 83, has arranged a series of open meetings for the purpose of recruiting new members. The first of these meetings was addressed by four members of the general executive board.

Surprised at 10-hour Day.

Nicholson, the first speaker, admitted that the union had lost ground since the organization campaign in 1916, conducted under his leadership. He said he was surprised to find many shops maintaining a ten-hour day. Suddenly he was fired with eloquence in speaking of the millennium when the devil will be chained and there will be no sin for a thousand years.

He rapped the democratic party for its failure to nominate McAdoo and urged those present to vote for La Follette. He concluded by expressing his pleasure at the renomination of the multi-millionaire James Couzens for U. S. senator. A casual remark about Couzens being the man who created the fine conditions in the Ford plants brought bitter smiles to the face of many a Ford worker present at the meeting.

Announce Brownlie Meetings.

Mr. Fickert, who followed Nicholson, announced the meeting next Thursday, which will be addressed by President Brownlie, of the Amalgamated Engineering Union of Great Britain.

Brownlie, who is the fraternal delegate from Britain to the Canadian Trade Union Congress, is to address meetings in the principal cities of the United States for the purpose of interesting the tens of thousands of British mechanics in the U. S. who, according to this official, not only do not join the I. A. of M., but in many instances directly scab on the American machinists.

The keynote of the next speaker was: Gain respectability. He urged the trade unionists to speak to the butcher, the baker and others of the so-called public on the gentle aims and objects of the labor movement. Mr. McMahon, the last speaker pleaded for pep and for appreciation of the noble cause of labor. But like the previous speakers, he failed to suggest a single concrete issue that would inspire a worker to join his fellow workers and battle for better conditions.

Militant Sees Lack of Spirit.

A militant in the machinists' union who heard for the first time four leaders of his international union, remarked at the close of the meeting that the thing that impressed him most was the spiritlessness and utter incapacity of such men to inspire discontented workers, and the consequent opportunity for the militant who have an inspiring message to win the workers. All that is necessary is an indomitable will and thoro organization to accomplish the feat of winning over an important trade union to the revolutionary position.

Telegraphers' Wage Dispute Comes Before Railroad Labor Board

A dispute over a demand for an increase in wages by the telegraphers employed on the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will come up for hearing before the Federal Railroad Labor Board here on September 22.

The dispute involving wages and rules has come up between the men and the company, but under the new ruling railroad employes cannot settle their disputes with the company but must submit their grievances to the Labor Board. J. R. Hindmarch is chairman of the telegraphers' committee

MACDONALD IS HARD PUT TO EXPLAIN GIFT

"Endowed" Auto Keeping Mac's Tongue Busy

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The repeated attempts of Ramsay MacDonald, socialist premier of Great Britain to explain away the gift of $150,000 and the Daimler car from Sir Alexander Grant, millionaire biscuit manufacturer and member of the Tory party, appear to make matters worse instead of better. Close friends of the premier advise MacDonald to keep his mouth shut and give the confounded thing a chance to die down. But there is hardly a billboard in the city that does not carry a headline advertising some newly discovered detail connected with the troublesome gift.

Graft Story Funny

Had the story of MacDonald's sudden good fortune been one of plain and vulgar graft, while it might have created a storm of anger among the betrayed workers, an element of unconscious humor which is present in this case would be lacking.

"Taking the biscuit" from now on will be understood to mean accepting a bribe or participating in graft. The alleged fight made by MacDonald against acceptance of the gift is commented on derisively and writers of headlines are straining their ingenuity in inventing the simplest combination of words possible to put the premier's financial pursuits in a ludicrous light.

The following are samples: "Mac's Car Drinks Much Gas: Would Drain the Teapot Done." "Takes Thirty Thousand Pounds To Keep Her Thirst Quenched." "Dough Makes Biscuits; Ramsay Makes Dough."

Strange Bedfellows

The Communists are calling attention to the points of similarity between the generosity of Edward L. Doheny, of America to Albert B. Fall, member of the Harding cabinet and that of Sir Alexander Grant to James Ramsay MacDonald. Doheny is a democrat, while Senator Fall was a republican. Sir Grant is a Tory while MacDonald is a socialist. Political grafters are something strange bedfellows.

The left wing section of the British labor movement is furious, and demands the premier's political head. His recent statements repudiating the class struggle and calling for closer collaboration with the bourgeoisie have helped to kill his reputation as a radical among the class conscious workers but this exposure helps to put the tin hat on him as a working class leader.

MILITANT YOUTH UPHOLSTERERS IN FIGHT FOR UNION

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

BOSTON, Sept. 15. — A general strike of upholsterers was called for today in this city by Local No. 37, for the purpose of organizing the "open shops."

Three hundred youths, comprising two-thirds of the union, have established the 40-hour week, with a scale of one dollar per hour, in the organized shops, and they are now trying to establish the same terms with the bosses operating what are now "open shops."

Wheat Drops in Price.

LEWISTOWN, Mont., Sept. 15.—The old trick of wheat in a good price when the farmer has none to market and a big drop in the price as soon as he starts to thresh a new crop, has again been resorted to here. The wheat figures of the local market show that spring wheat dropped 21c, winter 15c and durum 22c in a month, an average drop of 19½c per bushel.

Catch Coin Counterfeiters.

MADRID, Sept. 15.—Police today arrested five counterfeiters making five pound Algerian notes. The plates were confiscated.

$2,500,000 DAMAGE AND 6 DEAD IS TOLL IN CALIFORNIA FIRE

MONTEREY, Cal., Sept. 15.—This old seaport, one-time capital of California, and popular beach resort, today was under virtual martial law as a great oil fire which already has taken a possible toll of six lives and $2,500,000 in property damage roared on unchecked.

Military authorities at the Presidio took charge of the situation when after a fourth great explosion the oil fire, started by a bolt of lightning, which has been raging for 24 hours, spread into New Monterey and burned six homes.

Soldiers who have been on the fire line since early yesterday, and completed a fourth great trench around the oil fire, started by a bolt of sreeting dikes across all streets and other possible channels thru which the burning oil liberated by explosions can run into the town.

The whole population of the town spent the night on the hills fringing the bay, fearful that another gasoline explosion might shower a flaming rain upon the town and destroy it.

ARREST DETROIT BOYS FOR FIGHTING WAR DAY, THEN TURN THEM LOOSE

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 15.—Three members of the Young Workers' League were arrested by the police as they were handing out the anti-Mobilization Day leaflets published by the Workers Party and the Young Workers' League.

The police swooped down upon the young workers as they were distributing leaflets from door to door.

These stalwart upholders of law and order with drawn revolvers demanded to see the leaflets and found nothing seditious until one of them discovered the name of Trotsky. Then they decided to bring the youth to the station where they were given a lecture by the sergeant who tried to convince them that they should spend their time to better advantage and suggested that one of these comrades, a Norwegian by birth, should be deported. But after the examination to determine whether he could afford to let them loose without any great danger to our society of bootleggers, grafters and oil scandaleers, the sergeant asked whether they were against the Germans, and when he was answered in the negative, he said: "You better not, I am a German myself."

The young workers were then released and will of course, continue to carry their fight against militarism and spread the message of Communism to the workers in Detroit.

CHANG'S TROOPS MOVING SOUTH ON NIPPON RAILROAD

Tokio Fighting U. S. On Chinese Policy

PEKING, Sept. 15.—The troops of General Chang, war lord of Manchuria, are moving south over the Japanese South Manchurian railway. Tokio declares this is merely a matter of business and has no political significance. Nevertheless, it is significant that the United States and Britain are reported to be supporting Wu Pei Fu and that the French are supplying the Chekiang forces with armored cars.

Japs Against Fu.

Japanese papers give considerable publicity to news and articles hostile to Wu Pei Fu. Headlines suggesting that the ousting of Wu Pei Fu is necessary to the peace and unity of China are common in the Tokio press.

Wu has not made a real start yet, but once he does, the fat will be in the fire and a first rate civil war will be on, involving the whole of China.

G. O. P. Senator Main Speaker at Machinist Meet

(Continued from Page 1.)

Women's Auxiliary of the machinists' union, stated that the women have both feet in this election.

After the favorable impression that is usually created by the speech of a woman, Dennis Batt, the renegade revolutionary who was recently subjected to a severe drubbing in his race for the legislature in the republican primaries, took the opportunity to present Johnston with a new gavel from the Detroit local. This is more of a symbol of Dennis' willingness to be beaten into line by Johnston who has finally rallied Batt to the class collaboration standards of the infamous Baltimore & Ohio "get-together" plan.

Millionaire Couzens Speaks.

Johnston then took the chair. He immediately introduced the millionaire senator from Michigan, James Couzens, who spoke on the subject of liberal legislation. The report of the resolution committee, which is in charge of all the propositions brought in both by the left wing delegates and locals and the right wing, will begin this afternoon. It is expected that a number of preliminary skirmishes will take place before the chief issues before the convention, to be emphasized by the militant bloc in the convention, such as the B. & O. plan, amalgamation, the organization of the unorganized and the question of independent political action, will come up for action. A hot battle is expected especially on the subjects of the B. & O. plan and amalgamation of the metal trades unions, due to the reactionary position of the officialdom on both points.

An indication of the attitude of intolerance towards the militants and any of their literature, was evidenced when the news boy of the DAILY WORKER was summarily ordered to leave the convention hall.

Seek Explosion Cause.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 15.—Efforts were being made today to determine the cause of the explosion Sunday in the canning factory of J. O. Bernard, at Henderson, Md., in which three persons were killed and five others, including four children, were injured seriously.

Join the Workers Party!

U. S. Fascist Elements Meet in Gathering of the American Legion

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, the American Legion, organization of Fascisti elements gathered from among veterans of the recent world war, opens its Sixth Convention in St. Paul, Minnesota.

Reports say that St. Paul is ablaze with color. Every business house has been decorated. The Legionaires have been given the freedom of the city.

* * *

It was only three short months ago that the June 17th Convention of the National Farmer-Labor forces gathered in the same city. There was no blaze of flags on the main streets. The business houses were not decorated.

Instead the newspapers were openly hostile, even the so-called "labor" sheet, the Minnesota Star. At one point it was threatened to drive the convention from the Municipal Auditorium, thru the use of the police, if not the militia. It was even noised about that the farmers and workers, striving to build a class party of their own, would be driven from the city or thrown in jail.

* * *

But the farmer-labor forces were striving to make progress for labor. They were planning to build a liberating Workers' Power. They were seeking emancipation from war-breeding, hate-creating capitalism. For that reason the forces of capitalism fought them.

* * *

Capitalism opposes progress. It worships those who fight its wars. That is why it is showering its hospitality on the American Legion meeting it St. Paul.

Morrow Krum, in the Chicago Tribune, today, tells of the invasion of St. Paul by the friends of the Fascist, Charles Gates Dawes, republican vice-presidential candidate. It reads like the reports in thumbnail form, of the hysterical American press, in telling of the German invasion of Belgium in the early days of the war in 1914. Morrow Krum says:

"It may be reported frankly that St. Paul has been a bit apprehensive of the Yanks' convention. Things have been said. Parents have discussed it. Even in the office where this is being written, the young women operators have hoped they would be permitted to go home early.

"This night before the opening of the convention is a bit different from that at the Kansas City and New Orleans meetings. There are no dice games in the hotel lobbies at present. If cups have been flowing, there is little evidence of it."

* * *

But the gathering of the Fascist Legions is just starting. There is plenty of time yet. Drunken mobs of the friends of Vice-Presidential Candidate Dawes will yet parade the streets, committing the many crimes that only drunken, cowardly mobs can be guilty of. The craven defenders of things as they are always travel in mobs, whether they wear the hood and cloak of the Ku Klux Klan, or the badge of the American Legion.

The cups will be filled to overflowing. The dice games will run 24 hours a day in all hotel lobbies. Communists will be denounced in speeches and resolutions on the convention floor. The women and girls of the working class, on the streets, will be insulted and worse, as they have been in previous years, in the cities where the Legionaires have already met. Soviet Russia will be scourged in varied denunciations with the slanders that super-pay-triots always call to their aid in the absence of facts.

The annual report of these American Fascisti proudly proclaims that, "We have been unrelenting in our campaign against revolutionary radicalism."

* * *

Some so-called "labor leaders" may be expected to precipitate themselves into this mess of capitalist hoodlums, in order to give a "labor" atmosphere to this annual bacchanal.

"Major" George L. Berry, head of the Printing Pressmen's Union, is an annual attendant at these affairs. He even tried to win the job of leading the organization. He had the Legion support in his drive for the vice-presidential nomination in the democratic convention at New York City. But his democratic affiliations, and his endorsement of the Davis-Bryan ticket will not prevent him from hob-nobbing with Mr. Dawes.

Sam Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has also been a regular visitor at these affairs. He has urged what he calls a "soldier-labor alliance."

The American Legion is not a rank a file organization. It has some Henry Dubb rank and filers, but it is officer-controlled. It is run from the top. It is with this sabre-rattling, goose-stepping soldier officialdom that Compers would link up the American Federation of Labor.

* * *

It is well for the workers, as the American Legion gathers, to remember the denunciation of this organization, in resolutions adopted at the Second General Conference of the Trade Union Educational League. The Legion is here denounced as having engaged, since its formation, in the breaking up of peaceful meetings of workingmen, in opposing strike movements, and various other anti-labor activities. It is shown to have given abundant evidence of hostility to the aims of trade unionism and of loyalty to the big employing interests which finance it so liberally.

* * *

It will be remembered that last year the American Legion invited Benito Mussolini, the bloody Fascist dictator of Italy, to grace its gathering along with Berry and Gompers. But Mussolini was too busy clinging to his tottering power at home.

* * *

Mothers may fear for their daughters in St. Paul, during the days ahead, as a result of the invasion of that city by the American Legion. That is an imminent danger.

But a broader menace faces the whole working class. Labor's growing power confronts a standing threat from the great robber interests as long as this Fascist menace exists. Labor can best fight this menace now by making war upon any effort to ally the American Federation of Labor with the American Legion.

Spanish Claim That Moroccan Rebels Are On British Payroll

LONDON, Sept. 15.—According to the Standard today, a British company advanced money to Abdel Krim, leader of the rebellious natives of Morocco, in return for oil and mineral concessions.

The paper said there is little doubt that Abdel Krim is using part of the money to finance his present campaign against the Spaniards.

There Are Nuts In England.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Little Jackie Coogan, America's child film star, nearly created a riot here today while visiting royalty.

Jackie appeared at the window of St. James Palace to view the changing of the royal guard and the news went around at once. Thousands of women fought to get a glimpse of the boy and only the appearance of police reinforcement prevented a riot.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

MUSSOLINI IN FIT AT DEATH OF CASALINI

Wasn't Like That When Matteotti Died

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ROME, Sept. 15.—An elaborate public funeral for the body of Armando Casalini, Fascist deputy who was killed by Giovanni Corvi, a worker, "in revenge for the murder of Giacomo Matteotti," will be held here tomorrow on the authorization of government officials.

Prominent among the mourners will be the figure of Mussolini. The premier has already visited the body of the Fascist deputy, and has publicly expressed his "anger that such an outrage should be committed."

The action of the government in this case is strikingly in contrast with the attitude taken towards the funeral of Matteotti. In spite of insistent demands of workers all over the country, no permission could be obtained for the holding of a public funeral for the socialist deputy.

Workers Arrested.

The police are making wholesale arrests of all workers suspected to be in sympathy with Corvi. A fourteen-year-old boy has been thrown into jail for no reason other than that he is known to have been on friendly terms with the slayer of Casalini.

Foster Slams Wall Street's Defense Day and 'General' Dawes

(Continued from page 1)

money which enables him to own and occupy that great palace he calls his home at Locust Valley, Long Island, comes from the non-union coal operators of West Virginia and the rest of his fortune comes from J. P. Morgan, and other Wall Street financial pirates.

"As for LaFollette he says he will "bust" the trusts. You New Jersey workers know very well that the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, is stronger and wealthier than ever. It is more unscrupulous toward its workers than at any time in its history. You know that the Standard Oil was to be broken up by the Sherman anti-trust law. A law proposed by Sherman, the former friend of LaFollette. No laws of this kind, which LaFollette at this late day proposes, can be enforced.

Abolition of Capitalism.

"Neither by LaFollette's middle class business men nor by his labor skate followers, as long as capitalism continues or as long as Wall street continues to own the government at Washington. The Workers Party stands like a rock against this whole capitalist combination. Coolidge, Davis and LaFollette. We stand for Communism; the abolition of the capitalist system; the organization of Soviets and the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat.

The meeting at Elizabeth was remarkable. A large audience sat in rapt attention for almost two hours listening to Foster. They repeatedly broke in on him with loud applause. A large number of tickets were sold, admission was charged and in addition a collection of almost two hundred dollars was taken up. On the following night an equally successful meeting was held. There also a large detail of police watched over the meeting. Apparently the New Jersey "democratic" government is ready to overawe the rising militant spirit amongst the workers. These two meetings just held in New Jersey point toward a bright future for the Communist movement in that state.

You can get sample copies of the DAILY WORKER any time at the DAILY WORKER office.

PRIZE FIGHTERS NOT LIKE COMMUNISTS AT ALL, CANON IS TOLD

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—That heavyweight prize-fighters are becoming as respectable as other captains of finance was made clear to canon Chase, Brooklyn preacher, when he was defeated in his second attempt to K. O. the Firpo-Wills fight. The second stopping of the canon was given by federal judge Runyon of Newark, who refused to issue a warrant for the wild bull's arrest on a charge of violating the Mann act.

Time was when a prize-fighter was a much harried individual, with the law always on his back but that was in the old days before the million dollar gate. In those days the young Argentine slugger would have been rushed before deportation authorities with the scant ceremony now accorded an I. W. W. or Communist. But now it took a colored fighter to give this alien the bum's rush.

SPLIT PIFFLE UNSUCCESSFUL IN GLACE BAY

O.B.U. Earns Righteous Wrath of Miners

By JOE NEARING.

GLACE BAY, Nova Scotia, Sept. 15.—The split propaganda conducted by Ben Legere on behalf of the One Big Union of Winnipeg is meeting with greater and more stubborn resistance from the miners here. Recently a meeting was arranged by Legere at which he attempted to persuade the miners that a split was the only thing left for them to do.

The audience of about three hundred listened to him patiently for more than an hour and then the audience took the platform and informed Legere that he and his crazy split notions were not wanted around the district.

Bruce Floors Bennie.

Malcolm Bruce, recently returned from Moscow where he attended the congresses of the Communist International and the Red International of Labor Unions, was at the meeting and was able to floor Legere and his split policy. Bruce is able to speak with authority on the O. B. U. question since he was one of the leaders of that movement in the West in 1919. Unlike the present leadership of the O. B. U. Bruce saw that the splitting of the labor unions of the West was bringing disaster upon the labor movement, and because he openly changed his tactics he incurred the wrath of the O. B. U.

A series of large meetings has been held during the past week with Malcolm Bruce as the chief speaker. At these meetings he is explaining the policies of the Communist International and the R. I. L. U. The meetings are very well attended. The miners are very much interested in hearing about the progress the revolutionary movement is making thruout the world. They also are interested in Bruce since during his last visit to Nova Scotia the British Empire Steel Corporation attempted to throw him in jail on a trumped-up charge of "sedition."

Legere Is Licked.

So badly licked is Legere in his attempt to create a split in the ranks of the miners of this district that he is splitting his spleen all over the pages of the One Big Union Bulletin. In his tirades against the Communists because they are blocking his plan for a split he stoops to the slimy statement that the Communists are betraying the miners into the hands of Lewis and Besco. This stuff is simply digging the grave of Legere deeper, because the miners know that the Communists have proven themselves to be the best fighters against the Besco-Lewis combination.

The statement of the Trade Union Educational League urging the miners to have nothing to do with the O. B. U. and its splitting tactics has been printed in the Maritime Labor Herald and has created great interest among the miners. All in all Legere is finding that he is dealing with workers who have been thru the mill and who did not need to wait until the Messiah from the West came to teach them what tactics to employ in their struggle against the Besco-Lewis gang.

It can be safely predicted that so far as the miners of Cape Breton are concerned, more than half of the total number of miners in the district, that there will be no runing away from the fight against Lewis and his reactionary administration by means of a split.

LaFOLLETTE BOOSTER GETTING DISILLUSIONED WHEN SENATOR DROPS EVEN "LIBERAL" PLANKS

WE are reprinting a story by Laurence Todd, the Washington correspondent of the Federated Press. Mr. Todd was and still is one of the most enthusiastic boosters for LaFollette. He looks to the Wisconsin senator to inaugurate the favorite dream of the liberal: Industrial Democracy. He expected of LaFollette leadership in the formation of a new party, representing the "producers," as opposed to the corrupt capitalist parties. The story of Mr. Todd is significant as showing the growing disillusionment of the more intelligent followers of La Follette with his political chicanery. Coming from so prominent a supporter of the Senator we think it worth while publishing without, of course, subscribing to Todd's opinions. It should be noted that, despite his eyes beginning to open to realities, Mr. Todd is still hoping against hope that after all, maybe, perhaps, it is yet possible that something more than a job for some politicians will come out of the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign.

* * * * *

By LAURENCE TODD
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Prospects for the new radical-liberal party which may be born next January, as an outcome of the LaFollete-Wheeler campaign, grow more confused as the structure of voting elements is built up.

Day by day the discussion of legislative program falls by the wayside, as new recruits, with new interests, join the army of voters espousing these candidates.

Drop Embarrassing Planks.

Two months before the polls are opened, and at a time when the most important fighting is just begun, the fight is simplified to one for "return of the government to the people." Public ownership of railroads, mines and super-power is no longer mentioned. Abolition of the veto power of the federal courts is not stressed. Headlines dealing with big speeches deal chiefly with the charges and proofs that republican and democratic politicians were individual crooks. The system of production and exchange of wealth which endlessly has produced crooks, in all countries and under all forms of private-exploitation government, is accepted as inevitable for the future.

This strange suspension of economic thinking in a presidential contest is emphasized in the case of the visit of a delegation of representatives of the Steuben society, sent by the national convention in Buffalo to Sen. LaFollette that German-Americans are unanimously with him in this contest. They spoke of Lincoln and Carl Shurz, and LaFollette told them it was Carl Shurz who advised him to come to Washington from Wisconsin to carry on the struggle to free the people from the power of corrupt special privilege.

Bob As Good As Warren.

The spokesmen of the German-American organization asked only that the Versailles treaty be revised according to the promises made by Woodrow Wilson and included in the armistice terms. They did not ask for social or industrial justice in Germany or in America. They had been satisfied to vote for Harding in 1920. These German-Americans will slow down the enthusiasm of the labor elements supporting the independent ticket; they want no class issue raised by the nominee who has their support.

Nevertheless, the enlistment of class-conscious workers in the La Follette forces is proceeding. The radicals are saying that there is time yet, before January, to educate the millions of LaFollette voters to the program that alone will enable the movement to create for itself a permanent and effective organization. It must be a public-ownership program. Industrial democracy in terms of an age of electrical machinery, of big-scale production, must be made real to them.

That Poor Hope.

To the extent that the present campaign opens a way to arouse the hunger of 100,000,000 of the 112,000,000 American people for improvement in their relative position in the nation, the purpose of the new party will be achieved. Half of the placers at Coolidge headquarters is traced to the delay of results in this field. Their hope is to keep the contest strictly personal—to let the people's lives have as little as possible to do with it.

FRENCH FLUNKEY DENIES TRUTH OF FUNDING TALE

Therefore Story Must be Based on Fact

PARIS, Sept. 15.—The ministry of finance in an official statement given this afternoon denied that it had any knowledge of the plan for the settlement of the French war debts as advocated by Edward N. Hurley, member of the American debt funding committee.

Long Term Payments.

The Hurley plan provides for payments by France over a period of 67 years, five years longer than the period for the funding of the British debt.

The plan is similar to that for the funding of the British debt except that the United States government would use part of the money received from France to invest in French industrial securities, and would grant France a five year moratorium during which time there would be no accumulation of interest.

* * *

Story Called Phantasy.

The declaration said to have made by Hurley that France was giving serious consideration to the plan is false. "We have absolutely no information concerning the plan to which Mr. Hurley refers."

* * *

Plan Worked Out.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Informal consideration has been given by the American debt funding commission to a plan worked out by Edward N. Hurley, one of the commissioners, for the payment of the $4,000,000,000 French debt to the United States, but no action has been taken looking to its execution, it was learned at the treasury department.

Good Clothes Will Cure All Our Ills Is Saphead Advice

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 15. — William Hobart Weintraub of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers has a remedy for the ills of America. It is good clothes. Mr. Weintraub, who is director of the "Dress Well and Succeed" movement of the association launched six months ago, has just returned from a six months' swing over the United States and Canada and reports that the entire Pacific Coast and much of the East has been organized for good clothes.

Needle trades unionists who have second hand after it percolated thru gotten Mr. Weintraub's propaganda the doors of luncheon clubs say there is only one difficulty with his idea, and that is that millions of American workers are too busy chasing the elusive three meals a day in these hard times to "Dress Well and Succeed."

Barons Are Getting Scarce So Baroness Married Plain Piper

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 — Baroness Von Koppen, a writer became the bride of Fritz Febranfeld, who plays the part of the piper, in "The Miracle" in the municipal building chapel today. Lady Diana Manners, the star of the production and Morris Guest, the producer were the witnesses.

Enroute to the ceremony the taxicab in which the bride and groom were riding, was in a collision and the baroness' ankle was slightly injured.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

CONVENTION CALL ISSUED BY I. W. W. ADMINISTRATION

Doyle Group Yields to Rank and File

Just one month from the day the Red International Affiliation Committee begin its campaign for a special convention, the Doyle-Fisher administration yielded to the outstanding necessity of preventing an irremediable split, and has issued a call for a special convention of the I. W. W. to meet at Chicago, Monday, October 13, 1924.

On August 13, 1924, the DAILY WORKER carried the statement of the Red International Affiliation Committee against a split in the I. W. W., which said in part: "We urge that every shred of red tape be brushed aside and delegates representative of the entire membership be called into convention at once."

In spite of Doyle's ostrich-like efforts to cover up the danger to the organization, his characterization of the deplorable crisis as a "little flurry" which would "blow over," etc., recognition of the fact that the faction which prevented rank and file expression thru an immediate special convention would be adjudged guilty by the membership of continuing the split, finally compelled the Doyle-Fisher administration to issue the call.

Force Splitters' Hands.

The same feeling that the membership would hold responsible for the split the faction which obstructed unity by an immediate convention, has also caused the Rowan-Bowerman injunctionlte faction to issue a "suggestion" that the various industrial unions "hold conferences as soon as possible and bring up the matter of a constitutional convention." These splitters were compelled to do this in spite of their reluctance to leave to the rank and file an issue which they much preferred to be decided by the capitalist courts.

This Rowan-Bowerman faction, which has given up the rival headquarters at 2418 West Madison street, and "gone underground" awaiting the decision of a capitalist court to give them possession of the headquarters now locked up by temporary injunction, has engaged Justus Ebert as intellectual leader and editor of a publication called "The Weekly Bulletin." It is not expected that Ebert's adhesion to the Rowan group will enhance its prestige among the western migratory element, as Ebert is a well-known bitter opponent of organization work among the "bum element," as the S. L. P. terms it, which naturally resents such belittling of its real importance. It was Ebert who, a few months before the split, argued vividly in the General Office Bulletin against efforts to organize the migratory workers, which, he scornfully observed, was making the I. W. W. into the "Industrial Workers of the Woods."

"The Most Important Issue."

The call for the special convention issued by the Doyle-Fisher administration also calls for funds to finance the meeting, reciting the fact that the Rowan injunctionites have tied up all funds. In part the call reads:

"The necessary preparations for this convention are now the most important issue confronting the I. W. W. Organization and is crippled by its present split. We cannot allow capitalist judges and lawyers to decide the destiny of our organization. The time has come for the rank and file to take charge, to express its decision without delay and to save the I. W. W. from the disaster which threatens it.

"Remember the proud record of the I. W. W. It has withstood undaunted every attack of the master class. Are we going to allow a few dollars to stand between us and future victories? Only the decision of the membership expressed thru a convention can save the I. W. W. This convention must be held dimmediately and it must be financed."

The statement of the Red International Affiliation Committee, mentioned above, warned against any division of any really representative delegates, and expressed the necessity of bringing up in the special convention, besides the simple matter of getting authorized officials, the ideological questions, confusion upon which has been the fundamental cause upon which the present controversy and organizational danger have grown. It remains to be seen what action in this respect will be taken by the two groups, but it is certain that no real settlement can come without definite action on these two issues.

Dever For City Ownership.

Mayor Dever still stands firm for city ownership of the transportation system. The fact that the workers are not one whit the better off whether they are exploited by the government or by private corporations never enters the calculations of the clever administrator of Chicago's rotten administration. He goes his own serene way without thinking about the workers at all.

Vote Communist This Time!

"BILL" FOSTER IS ONLY REAL WORKERS' CANDIDATE, MINERS TELL PEORIA CONVENTION

By KARL REEVE
(Staff Writer, Daily Worker)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 15.—"William Z. Foster is the only trade uionist running for president of the United States," Thomas Parry, Divernon miner, told the 42nd convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor when a special committee, appointed to investigate Dawes brought in a report which attacked Foster.

"The report is merely a political maneuver of the adherents of LaFollette to try to discredit the Workers Party candidate as well as the others," Parry charged.

"You ruled me out of order," Parry declared, "when I attempted to speak against LaFollette yesterday. Now you bring into the report on Dawes an indorsement of LaFollette and an unfair attack on Foster. The attack on Foster is unjust, unfair and entirely out of order.

Foster Only Union Candidate.

"Bill Foster is the only presidential candidate bearing the union label. He is for the workers and farmers government. Even his enemies know that Bill Foster is a clean fighter for the rank and file workers and a loyal trade union organizer."

In that part of Walker's report dealing with the Labor Press delegate Henry Corbishley declared "the trouble is our trade union labor papers are used by the official family as a medium for keeping their machine in control of the unions." Corbishley cited the Illinois Miner and the United Mine Workers' Journal as an example. He charged that the letters from the rank and file miners taking up vital problems of unemployment, and putting forth progressive measures for relief are allowed in the Illinois Miner. "Ninety-five per cent of the rank and file miners are opposed to the propositions advocated in the Illinois Miner," Corbishley said.

Miners Applauded.

"It is the same as the attitude taken by the officials on amalgamation," Corbishley stated. "Amalgamation means doing away with the officials jobs and that is why they are opposed to it." Corbishley was vigorously applauded when he finished his remarks.

Walker replied to Corbishley, defending Oscar Ameringer, characterized him as "the best labor editor in the world." "The miners use the same language I used twenty years ago. I've gotten away from it. I have the same ideals, but I am being practical and dealing with things as they are."

KLUXER'S BAIL NOW AMOUNTS TO KING'S RANSOM

BENTON, Ill., September 15. — S. Glenn Young, paid Ku Klux Klan raider of Williamson County, yesterday was under additional bonds totalling $25,000 given here late the day before in the office of United State Commissioner W. W. Hart, on five indictments returned against him by a federal grand jury at Danville, Ill., charging impersonation of a federal officer during the famous Williamson County liquor raids of last spring. Young is now under bonds aggregating $230,000 including the cases pending against him in Williamson County.

Many Kluxers With Glenn.

Young was accompanied by his wife here and a large party of Klansmen from Herrin, Marion, and other southern Illinois cities.

While here, Young stated he left Atlanta, Ga., about a week ago and went to Washington where he claimed he conferred with Attorney-General Stone.

STREET MEETINGS IN CHICAGO.

Tuesday, Sept. 16.

16th & Kedzie—auspices West Side (Ryan) Br. I. W. L. Speakers, Nat Kaplan and others.

Wilton & Belmont—auspices N. S. English Branch Speakers, Ella Reeve Bloor and others.

W. 14th & 49th Ct.—auspices Cicero Lith. Branch. Speakers, English & Lithuanian comrades.

RICH YOUNG SLAYERS MUST UNDERGO HORROR OF WORKING IN JAIL

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 15.—The two slayers of Robert Franks today actually had to enter a factory and do some work. This horrible fact was made known when the warden announced that Leopold was starting work in the rattan factory and Loeb in the chair factory.

The young men, who are now in the life and 99 years, went at their work rather clumsily, but, it is said, with a will. It is quite possible that after a few years of sweating at their benches they may learn how their parents earned enough money for the children to slither around in automobiles and to parties. In fact, they may actually realize that Loeb, Sr., is sweating his workers in the Searsroebuck plant at starvation wages and that Leopold, Sr., is his rival in doing the same thing in the paper box plant at Morris, Ill.

The boys were separated in different cells and will not see each other at all probability, until next July 4. A terrible calamity.

MC ANDREW ASKS MILITARIZATION OF THE SCHOOLS

Plea Follows Victory of School Teachers

A complete "militarization" of the school system, with the superintendent in supreme control, was the demand which Superintendent McAndrew made in an address at the Art Institute to the principals and district superintendents of Chicago's schools.

McAndrew's plea for greater authority followed the clear-cut victory which the organized teachers, whom he is fighting, gained by the refusal of the committee on rules to accept his report, recommending the amendment of the rules of the teachers' councils in such a way that he can call them out of school hours, and can reorganize them so as to include officials of the school system.

He Won't Be Bossed.

"A former superintendent's clothes do not fit me," said McAndrew. "I do not propose to be bossed by the teachers."

The former superintendent referzed to is Peter A. Mortenson, who was heartily applauded by hundreds of school teachers when he appeared before the committee on rules to deny McAndrew's assertion that he, too, had been opposed to the calling teachers' councils on school time.

"I did say that the schools have too many celebrations, too many unnecessary interruptions," said Mortenson. "I did not say that teachers' councils should be dispensed with in school time. The teachers' councils have been very valuable, and more than justify the few hours which they consume."

Power All by Himself.

With the open declaration of Mc Andrew that he does not think the 12,000 teachers of Chicago worthy of giving him advice, the breach between the militant teachers and the Chamber of Commerce superintendent becomes wider. On one side there are the teachers, organized in the teachers' councils, a few members of the school board, and the Chicago Teachers' Federation, which has now come out squarely against McAndrew. On the other side stands McAndrew, backed up by the rest of the school board, notably Charles M. Moderwell, president of the board and director of scab mines in West Virginia.

Moderwell, who is a member of the committee on rules, voted consistently against the teachers and for McAndrew during the course of the hear ing on Saturday.

In spite of the stand of Moderwell McAndrew received such a sound drubbing at the hands of the committee that he was forced to leave the building before the meeting was over. "An act quite in line with his usual discourtesy and lack of tact," was the comment of J. Lewis Coath, another committee member.

The militant stand of Margaret Haley, business agent for the Teachers' Federation, in fighting McAndrew during the committee hearings, was unanimously approved by the Federation at its meeting on Saturday. To prove her contention that teachers who dare to complain against the action of the authorities are severely penalized, Miss Haley cited the case of Catherine Baird, a teacher who was thrown out of a job in the Junior high schools, and frankly told that a speech which she had made before the administration committee, compaining of the lack of co-operation between superintendents and teachers, was responsible.

A fight is expected in the near future on McAndrew's proposition to the committee on rules that an old law be re-enacted forbidding the sending of notices to teachers without the approval of the superintendent.

"Teachers should in this respect be subject to the same restrictions as the children," is the way in which McAndrew phrases it.

That the victory which the teachers have now gained over McAndrew is nothing more than a legal victory, and that it must be followed up by militant aggression so that the rules will be enforced, is the substance of a warning sounded by Margaret Haley to the teachers organized in the councils. It is understood that further aggression on the part of McAndrew will follow.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE ACTIVITIES.

Tuesday, Sept. 16.

Russian Branch, 1902 W. Division St.

Wednesday, Sept. 17.

City Executive Committee meeting, Room 202, 166 W. Washington St., 8 P. M.

North Side Branch, 2409 N. Halsted St.

Northwest Side Branch, 6414 S. Halsted St.

Marshfield Branch, Hebrew Institute, Taylor and Lytle Sts. Social meeting.

THOUSANDS IN PHILLY CHEER WM. Z. FOSTER

Rips Into Capitalist Candidates

By ABRAM JAKIRA.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 15.—The Workers Party election campaign opened officially in this city with Comrade William Z. Foster addressing a meeting at the large Musical Fund Hall which was packed to capacity by more than two thousand workers.

All seats on the main floor of the hall, the stage and even the steps leading to the stage were occupied and hundreds of workers were compelled to remain standing during the two and a half hours of the meeting. About fifty uniformed and plain clothes officers, who came to "preserve law and order," added color to the gathering which was about the largest and most enthusiastic political gathering held in this city for many, many years.

Cheer Foster.

The audience arose to its feet as one man when the chairman introduced comrade Foster as the presidential candidate of the Workers Party to give him a prolonged ovation which lasted for several minutes. This was followed by singing of the International. Three cheers were then given to comrade Foster, to the Workers Party, to Soviet Russia and Soviet America.

Comrade Foster went into details to point out that the existing system of wage slavery is the cause of all labor troubles, of unemployment and of wars and that all these evils can be abolished only by abolishing the existing wage system of exploitation and by establishing a dictatorship of the proletariat which, he explained, means nothing but a Workers and Farmers Government.

The speaker was met with laud applause when he pointed out that the "Gold Dust Twins," Coolidge and Davis, are but two wings of the same buzzard, a bird that lives on dead bodies, in this case the dead bodies of the working class.

Foster Hits at Bob.

Special compliments were paid to LaFollette who was denounced as the arch betrayer of organized labor. Speaking of LaFollette comrade Foster said: "Millions of workers and poor farmers will probably be fooled into voting for this defender of capitalism. But the election of LaFollette will not solve the problem of unemployment, it will not prevent war because he is a staunch supporter of the existing wage system and of capitalism.

Comrade Foster denounced in most vigorous terms the Defense Test Day as an unmistakable sign of the coming of a new bloody capitalist war. He then proceeded to outline the platform and policies of the Workers Party and was again interrupted when he appealed to the workers of this country to organize and prepare for the establishment of a Soviet government. With facts in his hands he proceeded to show that the American government, the press, the church and all means of education are under the iron dictatorship of Wall Street and that the workers must choose between the dictatorship of the capitalist class and that of the working class.

Expose Fake Party.

Comrade A. Jakira, District Organizer, who presided at the meeting, in his introductory remarks pointed out that in the State of Pennsylvania LaFollette is trying to go thru the "Labor" Party which is neither labor nor a party and then the Socialist party which is not socialist and which has long ceased to exist as a party. He called the attention of the audience not to be misled by the name "Labor Party," which in this instance is nothing but a fake and a caricature of a Labor Party as used by the labor fakirs and followers in order to get the workers of the state to vote for the politicians of the old capitalist parties.

Comrade Harry Winitzky, Communist candidate for Congress in New York, also delivered a short and eloquent speech which was met with enthusiastic applause.

Over three hunder and fifty dollars were collected in addition to the admission fee charged at the door.

Pledge Candidates on Child Labor.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. — The women's committee for the fake child labor amendment, representing 18 women's organizations of national scope, are preparing to pledge all candidates for office on the ratification of the amendment which does not seek to abolish child labor, but merely empowers congress to do so.

DUCKIE LUIE MENCKEN FLOPS FOR BOB

By MAX SHACHTMAN.

A CLOSE perusal of the political history of the United States falls to disclose a collection of all-versified elements, supporting a ticket for presidential office, that in the remotest manner resembles the aggregation that is tooting and bellowing for Robert LaFollette.

Assembled around his banderole is the most unenviable throng of labor fakers, discredited and disgruntled political hacks, adoring members of the Women's Peace Society, journalistic pot-boilers, sighing editors of The Nation, ward heelers, Bush Baptists, lime-lighters and jobless—but hopeful—office holders, bankrupt peanut stand proprietors and cockroach clothing manufacturers, and flotsam and jetsam from variegated sources.

To this assortment has now been added none other than Henry Louis Mencken, editor of The American Mercury, erstwhile editor of The Smart Set, and still more erstwhile editor of Nietzchen piffle in book form. Mencken, or as he is better known by his waggish friends, "Duckie Louie," the idol of flappers, New Republic editors, and Greenwich Village boozehounds, fake skeptic and chief buffoon of the half-baked bourgeois intellectuals, has flopped for the Messiah from Wisconsin.

In a statement issued by him thru Bobbie's headquarters, he spills the following piffle: "Thruout the country there is a rising tide of discontent with the ancient political buncombe." We understand, therefore, that we are now to be treated to a heavy taxation of the modern political buncombe, a la LaFollette.

Duckie Louie continues: "All persons of even the slightest intelligence revolt against the attempt to inflate Mr. Coolidge to the proportions of a first-rate man. He is actually a purile and hollow fellow and the current blather of his partisans, most of whom hope to profit personally by his election, cannot conceal the fact. I believe that His nonsensical speeches and the childish billingsgate of his running-mate, Mr. Dawes, are making hundreds of thousands of votes for Senator LaFollette."

With the deepest respect for the editor of a respectable litry magazine like The American Mercury, we venture to comment shortly and concisely:

"Blah!"

Join the Workers Party!

6 POOR WORKERS FACE THE LORDS OF STEEL TRUST

Fight Against Tyranny is Battle to Finish

By W. J. WHITE.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

FARRELL, Pa., Sept. 15.—In one of the most beautiful farming communities in the industrial part of western Pennsylvania, in a hamlet of some 2,500 souls, one of those historic battles of the working class is being fought. Two workers have already been convicted; but the defense has remained firm, with the result that the outlook for ultimate victory is much improved.

Late in January of this year, the police of Farrell, Penn., raided the local headquarters of the Workers Party South Slavic branch, confiscating a good many dollars worth of radical and non-radical literature, for which the Farrell Communists will never be reimbursed. The notorious Federal dick, Lennon, was called in from Pittsburgh to examine the literature for "radicalism."

Raid Workers Homes.

That was not all. Fagrell is a steel trust town and it was enough. A few days later the police raided the homes of 13 workers, with warrants charging "Sedition against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania." The police were unable to locate all of the 13 and arrested the following: Tony Kovacovich, Andy Kovacovich, John Radias, Tony Marich (all members of the Workers Party) and John Sarich and Andy Dugan (not Party members).

Free Speech Not for Communists.

Andy and Tony Kovacovich were tried before a jury of Mercer County farmers last May. The power of the Steel Trust was everywhere manifest behind the scenes. Despite the fact that not one scintilla of evidence of conspiracy was brot out, the two Communists were declared guilty of violating of sedition law of Pennsylvania. The spirit of the trial was that free speech for Communists is not permissable in America.

Now, however, the tide appears to be turning, altho any sign of weakening in the defense will spoil everything. The prosecution has "found it convenient" to agree to a tacit understanding that none of the other Farrell defendants are to be brot to trial until the appeals in the two Kovacovich cases are disposed of. With proper financial support, there is a chance to win the appeals, which would probably mean that there would be no more trials.

One of the remaining defendants, Andy Dugan, who was in jail for weeks because he could not secure the $2,000 cash bail, has at last been released on his own recognizance, thru the good work of Attorney I. E. Ferguson of Chicago.

Ferguson of Chicago, Attorney.

Arguing before Judge McLaughlin on the motion for a new trial in the Kovacovich cases, the defense pointed out the legal absurdity of considering the Workers Party an outlaw organization in steel trust territory, while it is a recognized and lawful political party everywhere else in the United States. Attorney Ferguson showed that the Workers Party has its candidates, William Z. Foster and Ben Gitlow, in the field for president and vice-president, and that the Party will have state tickets in about 20 states. The Workers Party is now printing thousands of papers and pamphlets and books in its own plant, on its own printing presses, in its own building, and all this is recognized by state and federal statutes.

Ferguson made a strong point for the defense when he proved that the imported federal gumshoe artist, Lennon, posing as an expert in all things radical, had been allowed to testify in a manner which implied that the Workers Party was an "underground" party, a circumstance which is directly counter to the facts.

Attacks Pa. Sedition Law.

What stood out most in Ferguson's argument before Judge McLaughlin was his well-documented attack on the constitutionality of the Pennsylvania sedition law. He cited Stevens' work on criminal law in which this authoritative commentator considered "sedition obsolete since the year 1830." The brutal Pennsylvania statute, he showed, was the product of the hysterical condition of our lawmakers during and immediately following the world war.

The Kovacovich case will come up again in October.

The Farrell cases, involving six hard-working Pennsylvania steel workers, is a fight for elementary rights against the arrogant autocracy of the steel kings. The fight must be fought to a finish. The Labor Defense Council, which is collecting funds to defend the workers, calls on workers everywhere to help with their dollars. All contributions should be sent to Room 307, 166 W. Washington St., Chicago.

Hold Young Wreckers.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Sept. 15.—Juvenile authorities here today were holding John Davis, 12, and Louis Boodish, 9, following their confession that they attempted to wreck a Pennsylvania railroad flyer by placing a heavy car knuckle on the rails.

The Workers Party in Action

Report to Fifth Congress of Communist International Discusses United States

From "From the Fourth to the Fifth World Congress, Report of the Executive Committee of the Communist International," Pages 76-80.

"Since the Fourth Congress the Communist movement in the United States has made great progress. The Fourth Congress was obliged to discuss the question as to whether the American Communists should abandon the illegal party and concentrate its Communist activities in the Workers Party. The Fifth Congress, however, will take up the question of how the Workers Party can carry out complicated maneuvers within the mass movements of the workers and farmers.

"The fears expressed by the comrades who considered a separate illegal party indispensable for Communist activity in the United States were dispelled at the congress. Even before the decision of the congress reached the American comrades, the problem was being cleared up in America so that at the Second Convention of the Workers Party, which took place on December 25, 1922, assurances could be given that the conflict raging within the ranks of the party between the supporters of the illegal organizations and those of the open party, would shortly disappear. The Central Committee of the Communist Party, which assembled directly after the convention of the Workers Party, adopted a resolution for the gradual liquidation of the illegal party. The convention of the Communist Party, which took place April 17, 1923, dissolved the illegal Communist Party.

Develop Centralized Party.

"With the elimination of the factional struggle, it became possible to gather the half-dozen Communist groups, which had existed inside and outside the party, into a solid, centralized party.

"The united front was the basis of general policy of the Workers Party of America. The party succeeded in finding the special forms which the united front must assume in America and in adjusting these tactics to American conditions.

"The first great campaign of the party was the struggle for the support of the Communists who were arrested at the Illegal Communist Party convention in Bridgeman, Michigan. The party succeeded in organizing Labor Defense Councils in all the large cities and industrial centers, which rallied ten thousand workers.

"A second very important activity of the party was the fight against the exceptional laws, which the American government is planning against the foreign-born workers of America who comprise the lowest strata of the proletariat. The Workers Party was the only political party which concerned itself with the struggle, and the Councils for the Defense of the Foreign-born Workers, which were organized by the party, have developed into organizations that embrace several hundred thousand workers.

Discusses the T. U. E. L.

"In the Trade Union Field, the party developed its activity in the Trade Union Educational League, which is the American section of the Red International of Labor Unions. This league, which is under the leadership of the Communists, is active in the left wing of the Trade Union movement. The principal campaign carried on in the Trade Union field was the campaign for the amalgamation of the craft unions into industrial unions, and the propaganda for the Farmer-Labor Party. The bureaucracy at the head of which stands the Gompers clique, is fighting the Communists most bitterly and not a Trade Union convention goes by at which the question of "Moscow" is not brought up. It is evident from the capitalist press, and that of the American Federation of Labor, that the question of Communism has become the principal point of conflict within the Trade Union Movement.

"During the past year the Party took up the fight against American imperialism and strongly supported the important movement for the independence of the Philippines. It is to the honor of our American party that it received the openly-expressed thanks of the mass organizations of the Philippine workers and farmers for this fight. Of course, the Party must enlarge and increase its activity against Imperialism.

"The Workers Party took part in the 'Race Conference' of the Negroes which took place in February, 1924. This conference was a mixture of the petty-bourgeoisie, fraternal, and Labor organizations. The Negro members of the Workers Party and the African Blood Brotherhood submitted an extensive labor program, which was rejected by the petty-bourgeois elements, but the Communists succeeded in bringing up the social question among the Negroes for the first time, and in getting it discussed in connection with the Workers Party in the entire Negro Press.

Takes Up Farmer-Labor Party.

"The most important problem for the American Communists around which it has conducted a great campaign, is the question of the Farmer Labor Party. The question of the form of the united front in America centers around the Labor Party and the Farmer-Labor Party. The world war, the consequent development of strongly centralized government power, the brutal interference of the government in the Labor disputes, the great agricultural crisis which is driving millions of farmers from their farms, has thrown up a strong mass movement which may split the non-capitalist classes from the two great historical bourgeois parties. This great new movement is flowing in two channels. One is the so-called Third Party movement, which wants to combine all classes whose interests clash with those of the class of big capitalists, i.e., the town petty bourgeoisie with the industrial workers, the rich farmers with the exploited tenants. The other movement is flowing in the direction of a class party of the industrial workers and the exploited farmers. The Workers Party takes part in the second—the class party; on the other hand, the Socialist Party, which is the American Section of the Second International, is affiliated with the petty-bourgeois Third Party.

"This complicated situation and the necessity of maneuvering in this great and in many ways novel, mass movement, has caused differences of opinion in our American Party, and the question of the tactics to be adopted in the Farmer-Labor movement will be submitted to the Fifth Congress for decision.

Party Still Young Here.

"The Workers Party is a young Party, without revolutionary traditions, but in the agrarian question, in the question of the relations between the working class and the farming class it has found the correct revolutionary orientation. The Party has set up an agricultural section, has sent organizers among the most exploited sections of the farmers who are going bankrupt, founded a paper for the farmers and issued the slogan of the Workers and Farmers government with great success. There is still some opposition in the Workers Party to the work among the farmers, but these old, mistaken social democratic traditions will be completely eradicated. The Party is taking into its ranks only the really Communistically inclined farmers, so that out of the 2,000 members of the Party, not less than 25 per cent are industrial workers. The non-Communist farmers who want to fight against Imperialism, finance, capital, and the trusts, are being organized by the Workers Party into the Farmer-Labor Party which was founded in Chicago, July 3, 1923. At the inaugural convention, which will have an important place in the history of the American revolutionary movement, there were over 600 delegates, who represented 600,000 industrial workers and farmers. The Socialist Party betrayed this important movement, and even the so-called progressive Trade Union leaders of the Fitzpatrick group, went over to Gompers at the eleventh hour, and did not take part in the founding of the Party. The formation of this Federated Farmer Labor Party and the break with the Fitzpatrick Group, also caused differences of opinion in the American Party. The Executive of Comintern in its letter of December 7, 1923, endorsed the founding of the Federated Farmer-Labor Party and also sanctioned the break with the Fitzpatrick Group. The Executive at that time wrote:

United Front Tactics Right.

"The Workers Party has applied Communist tactics correctly in seeking a united front of all forces to fight the Capitalist system in the United States. It has sought a united front not only on the economic, but particularly, on the political field. That Gompers and the reactionary Trade Union officialdom oppose it because of their anti-quated treacherous policy of safeguarding the friends and punishing the enemies of Labor" in the Capitalist parties; that the Socialists, having renounced every revolutionary idea, and lined up with the reactionary forces of the country, also oppose it, and that a few so-called "progressive" Trade Union leaders of the Middle West have betrayed the workers and gone over to Gompers, that they denounce the ideas they once stood for, and, therefore, also oppose the united front,—is creating the best basis for the united front policy . . . The organization of the Federated Farmer-Labor Party was an achievement of primary importance. The coming together of the militant farmers and workers for the attainment of political power against the control of the Capitalist parties revealed an awakening consciousness and a rising spirit no longer to tolerate political domination by the bourgeoisie."

"At the same time the Executive did not overestimate the importance of the establishment of the Federated Farmer-Labor Party and immediately said:

"In the Federated Farmer-Labor Party are organized only a small portion of the militant workers and farmers. The united front of all proletarian and farmers' parties and organizations for the fight against Capitalism, is the demand of the hour. The Communists must spare no effort to bring this about. This is all the more necessary in view of the presidential elections of 1924. Delegates representing 600,000 exploited workers and farmers took part in the inaugural convention of the Federated Farmer-Labor Party, but until now the Party was unable to organize this great mass in its own organization. The affiliated workers and farmer organizations have only 190,000 members. That is only a beginning but it a great achievement for a Communist Party which has only 25,000 members. The Workers Party now has two important tasks in the Farmer-Labor movement: (1) To attend the June 17 Congress of the class party of the workers and exploited farmers, and there unite the greatest possible number of proletarians and farmers. (2) To endeavor to crystalize a Communist mass party out of all these mass movements.'

Laud Starting of "Daily."

"Since the Fourth Congress the Workers Party has forged a very important ideological weapon. Thru the devotion and enthusiasm of its members, the Party collected 100,000 dollars and founder a daily paper In the English language, "The DAILY WORKER" which already has its own building and printing plant, is the first and only Communist daily in the English language. The Party has also issued Marxist literature, not only on general Communist questions but also on the concrete conditions of America, and the valley made good that which the Social Democrats of the Second International neglected to do for decades. That the Party is actually on the road to becoming a party of the masses is excellently illustrated by the fact that not less than 30,000 workers attended the meeting which our party held in New York in memory of Lenin.

"The Party is recognized as a sympathizing section of the Communist International."

The Situation in America.

From speech in reply to discussion on report on the work of the Executive Committee of the Communist International delivered by Chairman, Gregory Zinoviev. He said:

"A few words on Comrad Amter's speech on the American situation. I must say that Comrade Amter often does the American movement a bad turn. The situation in America is difficult. The Executive Committe has complete trust in the American Central Committee, headed by Foster and Ruthenberg, two of the best men in America. Both the groups formed round these two leaders must unite and work together without friction. We know that the situation is serious there, but the line of action has been found and it will be followed honestly and revolutionally.

Must End Factional Struggle.

"The American and English comrades both require aid. If a tendency toward the right is to be seen among them, we must understand that it is not the same as that among the German comrades. As far as the question concerns the English and American comrades, it is to be explained by their youth and inexperience. These are young parties. Comradely help and not faction struggle is what is required of them. The Executive Committee will see that the faction struggle in America will be brot to an end so that these young parties receive the needed help. Only serious results can come from this."

You can get sample copies of the DAILY WORKER any time at the DAILY WORKER office.

WORKERS' STRAW VOTE

THE DAILY WORKER,
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

The workers employed in the shop of .....

.....have taken a straw vote on the presidential candidates, and the vote was as follows:

WM. Z. FOSTER ..... votes; LaFOLLETTE ..... votes;
Workers Party No Party

DAVIS ..... votes; COOLIDGE ..... votes.
Democratic Party Republican Party

I certify that this report is correct:

Name: .....

Address: .....

RUSSIAN SHEET IN CHICAGO HAS OWN LIE FACTORY

Takes Its Dope Right Out of the Sky

By M. A. SKROMNY.

Not being satisfied with the reprinting manufactured "news" about Soviet Russia, which comes from Berlin, Riga, and points west, the local Chicago Russian counter-revolutionary sheet, Russky Vestnik, went into manufacturing business on its account.

A few days ago the readers of this yellow sheet were informed with a big four-inch headline about a great split taking place in the Workers Party of America. The party is going to pieces, the leaders are in panic, and much more to the same effect, cried the paper. Do they have any facts? They don't bother about such trifling matters.

Facts Tell Different Story.

In vain did the readers look for facts, figures, or any proofs about the "split." It was just a trick borrowed from the big yellow newspapers. Under the headline about the split were the usual attacks, insinuations and lies.

Couldn't they get the facts? Of course they could! But the facts tell just the opposite story. The facts prove that the Workers Party is growing stronger every day. Five thousand new members joined the party within the last few months, and the campaign has just been started. The first time in the history of the United States, the Communists participate in the presidential elections. This alone is sufficient proof of the growth of the party, and those who care, can see it.

But the gang of the white-guard sheet does not care about facts. What they care about is to slander Soviet Russia, to slander the Communists.

Weep For Counter-Revolutionaries.

In another article in the same sheet they cry about the "political prisoners" in Soviet Russia. "Save the political prisoners!" Do they give the facts as to why they are in the prisons? Do they remind the readers about the murders of Volodarsky, Uritsky, the attempt to murder Lenin, the bombs thrown at the sessions of the Executive Committee of the Communist Party, the thousands of Communists and non-party workers executed by the white-guards and anarcho-Machno bandits? Oh, they don't bother about such trifling matters.

Tries To Talk For Labor.

In still another article this sheet attempts to talk in the name of labor. There is a Soviet School on Chicago. During the hot summer months there is no school in this school. As usual there were some deficits. At present the activities are again beginning, as it was already reported in the DAILY WORKER last week. But the local counter-revolutionary sheet, that knows everything that is going on in Soviet Russia, does not know it, and therefore proposes a "conference of all" to talk over the matter of taking over the building of the Soviet School, for the use "of everybody."

The czarist diplomats abroad took hold of the Russian government buildings and refused to turn them over to the Soviet authorities. This sheet proposes to do something like that with the Soviet School. The building of the school is at present the headquarters of many labor organizations. The doors of the school are wide open for every labor organization, but not for "everybody," as this sheet wants it. There is no room for the counter-revolutionist organizations, for the czarist generals, for the white-guard emigrants.

Workers Reject Brass Buttons.

This is what bothers the local sheet. They are "everybody's" paper, they are interested in "everybody." But the Russian workers are not! They don't give a snap for the brass buttons and gold epaulets of the czarist colonels and generals, and they are going to keep that gang out in the cold. The counter-revolutionary sheet may bark and cry, may fret and lie, it won't help any!

NOTICE! CLEVELAND READERS! The DAILY WORKER is sold daily at Schroeder's News Stand on E. Superior, opposite the Post Office.

THE POWER COLUMN

Twice every week—this column uncovers to your view the motive power behind the DAILY WORKER. Here for the interest and inspiration of every reader—and especially the DAILY WORKER agents and committees—are tried and proven suggestions and accomplishments to drive the DAILY WORKER to further conquests.

Here is POWER—the power of brain and effort of men and women of the working class who not only believe—but ACT!

TELLING the truth is sometimes a difficult thing to do. Especially when we must admit that in a Communist Party of so many splendid successes some units have fallen woefully in the campaign for building the DAILY WORKER. But they have—in a most sorry fashion. That is, SOME have.

Others have been a joy to the Party and the DAILY WORKER. Many units have risen to the occasion in a fashion that shows clearly why the DAILY WORKER has in reality become "The National Labor Daily."

Among these are the South Slavs. Here is the most recent accomplishment of South Slavic Branch No. 17 of Detroit: They have sent in 17 subscriptions totaling $55.50. Among these were six 3 month subs, nine 6 month subs and two for one year. This is the record for ONE branch. Regarding this splendid performance Comrade Edgar Owens, organizer for district No. 7, writes:

"Now read that and weep. The 17 subs above the dashes are due to the splendid efforts of our South Slavic Branch, and I indicate what can be done if our membership will set about in real earnest to build up the sub list of the DAILY WORKER. Put your most eloquent penman on the job and let him write a booster story for our South Slavic Branch."

The writer of this column has found the "eloquent penman"—in Comrade Owens. And the accomplishment speaks for itself in such glowing terms that even real eloquence does not do full justice to these comrades. Here is ACTION—and results for our branches to envy.

But the story does not end here. The following day's mail brings this letter from the Daily Worker agent of South Slavic Branch No. 17:

"Please send me 25 copies of the DAILY WORKER everyday for selling in our colony. Fraternally yours, JOE KRAINA."

No more simply this brief note. These comrades are actually TOO BUSY TO WRITE.

This would have been a happy ending to the story of the South Slavic branch of Detroit—if we were not dealing with a Communist branch. So we must change our ending somewhat to conform with facts. The day following, the branch agent DOUBLED his order for a period of two weeks to cover a Croatian convention.

* * * * *

As we uncover some of the POWER that drives the DAILY WORKER, the following letter arrives to make this issue of the POWER COLUMN completely a South Slavic Edition:

"West Allis, Wisconsin.

"Dear Comrades: Enclosed you will find a check for $14.00 which is for the following purpose. Our branch has made a collection among the members and the money collected is for subscriptions to the following names. There are 14 names and we ask you to send them the DAILY WORKER followed by a letter in which they should be urged to subscribe to OUR paper. We think we will get some of them if not all. Please notify us how long you can send them the DAILY WORKER for one dollar so we may VISIT THEM ALSO on this matter. S. POPOVICH, Sec'y So. Slavic Br. No. 63 of West Allis."

Words won't do justice to these accomplishments of our South Slavic comrades. But at this point—to other Party units we repeat with Comrade Owens:

"NOW READ THAT AND WEEP!"

WALT CARMON, Circulation Manager.

AID TO ELECTION CAMPAIGN GIVEN BY FEDERATIONS

Foreign comrades organized into federations connected with the Workers Party are not allowing an imperfect knowledge of the language to hinder them in their work for the Communist candidates, but are stepping into line with the English-speaking comrades and swinging into action in the campaign.

Work of the federations is being carried on in connection with the work of the English comrades. The DAILY WORKER is being sold in connection with foreign language party papers, and Russian, Polish and Slavic comrades co-operate with speakers from the party in conducting street meetings.

Circulation Increases.

The circulation of "Nowy Mir," organ of the Russian federation, of Radnik, organ of the South Slavs, and of the Polish paper "Trybuna Ribotnicza" have all increased since the beginning of the campaign.

In the districts in which a great proportion of the population is composed of foreigners, a federation comrade usually accompanies an American comrade in going from door to door and getting signatures. Nearly the full quota of signatures which the federations have been ordered to obtain has already been placed on the petitions.

Military Gang in Chile Speak.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The military junta, which has assumed control of the government of Chile, has issued a proclamation denying any intention of establishing a permanent military regime, the state department was advised today in a despatch from Ambassador Collier at Santiago.

Vienna's Metal Workers Out.

VIENNA, Sept. 15.—A strike of about 120,000 metal workers began today in Vienna. Altho the manufacturers attempted to negotiate with the workers, they did not yield to the metal workers' demands and the workers quit.

NEW YORK CITY PARTY ACTIVITIES

OPEN AIR MEETINGS.

Wednesday, Sept. 17.

Norfolk and Grand St.—H. M. Winitsky and Jewish speakers.

110th St. and 5th Ave.—J. Codkind, J. Zack, A. Chorover.

115th St. and Madison Avenue—J. S. Poynts and Spanish speakers.

Prospect and Fox St.—Joe Padgug and D. Benjamin.

Thursday, Sept. 18.

Houston and Clinton St.—H. M. Winitsky and Landy.

7th St. and Avenue A—C. Brodsky, Spanish and Ukrainian speakers.

25th St. and 8th Ave.—M. Hartman, D. Benjamin.

106th St. and 5th Ave.—Wm. Weinstone and Jewish speaker.

Intervale and Wilkins Ave.—R. Grecht, and Jewish speaker.

Bakeries Unfair to Union Labor Cannot Get Ads in Yearbook

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Protests by the state organization of bakery workers are responsible for the cancellation of unfair bread advertisements that have hitherto appeared in the yearbook of the New York State Federation of Labor. The ads were obtained from the United Bakeries corporation, the Certified Bread concern and the Freihofer Baking Co., all of them unfair to union bakers. The money paid for these ads was refunded to the concerns with the notice that hereafter only union bakeries will be allowed to advertise in the yearbook.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
73 W. VanBuren St.
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

RUSSIAN MISSION IN DENMARK HITS HIGH TRADE SPOT

Soviets Beat U. S. for First Place

(Special to Daily Worker).

MOSCOW, Sept. 15.—During its existence of nearly one year in Denmark, the apparatus of the Soviet Trade Mission has been greatly consolidated, and today it stands on a firm footing, states Mr. Hoyn, plenipotentiary representative and trade representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics at Copenhagen. This organization, he says, consists of several departments, export, import, transport, financial and special corn-trading.

Soviets Take First Place.

The first period of the Mission's work was mainly devoted to a thoro study of the market and the restoration of the former commercial bonds. The Soviet exports consisted chiefly of cereals and fodder, the operations in this branch being quite successful: America, Rumania and France were ousted as importing countries and over 18 million poods of the above-mentioned Soviet produce (mostly oil-cakes) were disposed of in the Danish market. This result considerably surpassed the original plan.

During the same period, the U. S. S. R. chartered over 50 Danish steamers and also purchased over three million roubles' worth of Danish industrial products. The machinery ordered in Denmark was, for the greater part, for the equipment of dairy, butter and vegetable oil industries as well as cement and refrigerating works. Moreover, large deals were made in the Siberian butter import trade in Denmark and the purchase of Danish tractors.

It may thus be safely advanced that on the whole Soviet-Danish trade has progressed, fairly rapidly during this last year or so, and the business bonds have been considerably strengthened between the official and public Danish circles and—thru the Soviet Trade Mission—the state and co-operative economic organization of the Union of Soviet Republics.

Case Is Dismissed.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Sept. 15.—An indictment against City Manager C. E. Carr, charging violation of an Iowa statute which forbids city managers from participating in a municipal election, has been automatically dismissed following the filing of a demurrer by Carr. The court held the law unconstitutional.

NO USE TRYING TO TEACH U. S. RULERS DIPLOMATIC MANNERS; PULLED BONER IN RUSS DISPUTE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PEKING (By Mail).—In a conversation he had with a representative of the Russian Embassy, the correspondent of the DAILY WORKER had the following statement made to him.

The note which was returned to Mr. Yoshizawa by Mr. Karakhan was written by the former at the request of the American minister. Mr. Karakhan has no doubt that if Mr. Yoshizawa, who is now engaged in negotiations with the government of the Union, had the right to refuse he would have declined to undertake the ungrateful task of representing American interests before the Soviet Government.

The idiosyncrasy of the American diplomacy has up till now been forcing and still forces it today to act foolishly and incorrectly vis-a-vis the government of the Union. In this respect American diplomacy differs widely from the American people which is endowed with common sense favorably distinguishing them even from other nations. As for American diplomacy, it is so afraid and has such a hatred of the Soviet Union that in an official document presented to the Soviet representative it cannot refrain from discourteous formula.

Absolutely No Use.

It would be an ungrateful task to teach good manners and politeness to the representatives of the present American government, it being, however, not so much a question of politeness or courtesy as one of bitter hatred which some of the elements now ruling in America feel towards the Soviet government. No wonder that in China the American diplomacy is particularly sensitive with regard to the Soviet Union, for it is here in China that America has more strongly and acutely than other Power felt the blow which was dealt to her policy by the sincere and straight-forward policy of the Soviet government. Indeed the hypocrisy and christian bigotry in which the Americans enveloped their policy in China, have now been fully exposed in the eyes of the Chinese people. Much lustre has been taken off from good words about the respect for and the rights of the Chinese people since the Lincheng Note, the threatening speeches of the American Minister at Harbin, and the appearance in that military action of American warships in Chinese home waters.

How's This For Answer?

Of course the Americans who have made Mr. Yoshizawa write the note which was returned to-day, could be told: You do not wish to recognize the regime existing in the Soviet Union? Well, you may be at ease: the Soviet Government does not at all intend compelling you to do it. And they could also be told that the American people will force them be recognize the Government of the Union without any reservations. Then the present rulers of America could also be told that the day relations will be restored between America and the Union it will not in any way mean that the Government of the Union will have to recognize the regime which at present holds away in America—if of course this regime will still be existing at the time. The regime of violence in China, the infringement of the sovereignty of the Chinese people; the regime of the strangling of the Philippines; the regime of the most unashamed interference with the affairs of the American Republics; the regime which has made of a Negro a dog whom anyone may safely kill; the regime, lastly, which but quite recently has revealed itself in an unutterably monstrous form of corruption, decay, pillaging of state property—in which all take part, whether senators, ministers or judges; a regime under which the President has had to use many an effort and much time to find an honest judge to investigate the oil scandal, for every judge on whom his choice fell happened himself to be involved in the scandal and the robbing of state property.

Recognition Coming Soon

It is to be hoped at least that the American Minister does not mean to say that the Powers which recognize the Washington Government have also recognized all the above enumerated brilliant aspects of the American regime. And we certainly hope that when we are going to resume relations with the American government the later is not going to insist upon the recognition of this regime on our part. For there can be no doubt as to the fact that the best part of the American people, that is its huge majority are against the policy of the present American government with regard to the Soviet Union, nor do we have any doubts that today's rulers of America know that their days are numbered and that those who will come in their place will—whoever they may be—either by compulsion or of their own free will correct the mistakes made with regard to the Soviet Union, and would we express the hope not only in regard to the Soviet Union, but also to other peoples, and in particular the Chinese nation.

FASCIST RAG IS ENRAGED AT RED GREET TO BLACK

Yelps at N. Y. Reception to Locatelli

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

MILAN, Sept. 15. — "Il Popolo d'Italia," one of the many fascist newspapers, publishes a bitter editorial denouncing the New York Communists who greeted the fascist flyer, Locatelli, with hoots and jeers when he landed in the United States for a reception at the hands of American society leaders.

Peddle Piffle.

"The dastardly scoundrels in New York have dared to mock at our friend, Locatelli, should be punished without mercy," is the comment of the editors. "What rebels would not undertake here, a handful of rascals in New York have done with impunity. That they will receive the same treatment from the American authorities that they would receive here is our only hope."

"Il Popolo" is edited by Arnaldo, brother of Mussolini. It is a matter of general knowledge that Arnaldo cannot write his name.

Yes, Barnum Was Right.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Wm. H. Johnston of the Machinists, in charge of raising funds for the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign, is promoting a "LaFollette Army" of a possible enrollment of 500,000 persons, to "pull every doorbell in the country" to solicit dollars and votes for the move ment.

Eleven Killed in Tokio Smash.

TOKIO, Sept. 15.—Eleven persons were killed and fifty injured today when an express train from Shimonoseki struck a landslide caused by rains near Hiroshima. The train overturned and several cars collapsed.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A VERY ATTRACTIVE DRESS FOR THE GROWING GIRL

4879. Checked gingham and linene are here combined. This is also a good model for plaid suiting and wool crepe, or for printed and plain crepe or voile. The sleeve may be short as in the large view, or finished with the "bell" shaped long portion.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. A 12 year size requires 1½ yard of plain material and 2 yards of checked material it made as illustrated in the large view. With long sleeves 2⅝ yards of checked material are required. If made of one material with long sleeves 3¼ yards of material will be required 32 inches wide.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

A DAINTY NIGHT "DRESS."

4738. Tuck effects are among the "newest" for lingerie. The style here portrayed will be suitable for batiste cloth, nainsook, batiste, silk or cotton crepe, and for crepe de chine or washable satin. The drop yoke forms tiny sleeve caps.

The Pattern is cut in four Sizes: Small, 34-36; Medium, 38-40; Large, 42-44; Extra Large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A Medium size requires 3½ yards of 36 inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE SPRING & SUMMER 1924 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN ILL. Ills.—The patterns being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. Do not become impatient if your pattern is

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
645 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1431 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

LOCAL CALLS FOR CLOSER UNITY IN AMALGAMATED

Demand Wage Slices for Over-Paid Officials

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Calling upon the officials of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers to take various steps towards solidifying the strength of the union, local 54, of the A. C. W. of A. at its last meeting passed the following resolution:

Whereas, in the capitalist system the employers have a united front against the working class in order to oppress and exploit the workers; and

Whereas, it is very easy for them to accomplish their purpose when the workers are divided among various crafts and are very often fighting each other; and

Whereas, such a division also exists in the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, which hinders the progress of the union, and

Whereas, various boards and their officials spend an enormous amount of money of our organization needlessly, and

Whereas, the financial situation of the New York organization, especially, is in very bad shape, therefore, be it resolved that we demand

1—That necessary steps should be taken immediately for uniting all the New York Joint Boards into one Joint Board.

2—That the Joint Boards, Board of Directors and the General Office, do everything in their power to immediately accomplish such a unity.

3—That business agents be divided according to the various districts.

4—That the number of employees of the Joint Board should be reduced, and

5—That the wages of each of the employees of the Joint Board, Business Agents, Clerks, Managers and their assistants be reduced by $10.00 weekly.

A. C. W. of A. Local 54,
Chairman, J. Buivydas,
Secretary, J. Massilie.

Clothing Workers in Angel City to Conduct Big Drive

(Special to THE DAILY WORKER.)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 15.—Workers in the men's clothing industry in this city are preparing for a large-scale organization campaign to completely unionize the industry. Local 278 of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, have been carrying on a stubborn struggle against the efforts of the employers to break the union by discriminations, and by flooding the market with unorganized and unemployed. They have finally succeeded in obtaining the assistance of the national organization, which is sending Frank Rosenblum to Los Angeles for the contemplated organization drive.

Altho it is well-known that the left wing militants are among the foremost fighters for the organization of the Los Angeles market, and that Rosenblum, general organizer and executive board member of the A. C. W. of A., is one of the conservative right wingers, yet the entire organization in Los Angeles is determined that this organization drive shall not be interrupted by any efforts at shoving the left wing workers out of the most active participation in the work. The whole-hearted co-operation that is being offered Rosenblum in the drive by all elements, it is felt, should result in making the drive a great success.

Judge Is Wisdom Itself.

DANVILLE, Ill., Sept. 15.—If Paul Harmon is able to find papers which show that he purchased the automobile found in his possession in November before the end of two weeks, a fine of $200 and a sentence of three months in jail imposed for the crime will be revoked and he will be allowed his freedom. This was the ruling of Judge Lindley who heard the case.

REPUBLICANS URGE BUYING COAL TO MAKE MINERS THINK THAT ALL IS PROSPERITY AND CAL IS O. K.

By LELAND OLDS
(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

"For Gawd's sake, buy some coal and give those darned union miners some temporary work until after election," appears to be the word passed out to the big industries by the republican national committee, to judge from the report of Paul Wooton, Washington correspondent of Coal Age. Wooton says both old parties fear that unless employment can be increased in the union fields many coal miners will fail to vote the old party tickets. So the republicans are giving the big industrialists a tip to increase Coolidge's chances of success by buying coal for storage at this time.

How About Wage Cut?

When the party politicians first tackled this problem, says Wooton, they figured the way to get the union miners started was to secure a reduction in the union scale sufficient to compete with the nonunion fields. When told that this would not increase employment because a cut in wages would result in a corresponding cut in the nonunion fields they turned to the idea that early buying of coal would help the party and could be advocated as good business.

It is even insinuated, according to Wooton, that Hoover's recent statement urging the buying of coal to avoid congestion later was not entirely the unbiased advice of a nonpartisan secretary of commerce.

Buying Bargain Mines.

In an earlier article Wooten called attention to the rate at which the stronger coal companies, public utilities and manufacturing interests are quietly buying up high-cost mines at bargain prices. This silent annexation is likely to prove an important part of the consolidation movement in the industry as the actual mergers which get into the papers.

"It is known," says Wooton, "that the number of captive mines (owned by consumer) has increased greatly. The aggregate of their output is thot to be approaching 200,000,000 tons, more than one-third of the annual production. Before the end of the year it is predicted enough mines will have been acquired in this manner to give a new degree of stability to the entire bituminous industry. Normal requirements will be furnished by the low cost mines. The less efficient mines will be held in reserve to be called into production to supply peak periods of demand."

Foster's Pamphlet On Russia in 1924 Issued by T. U. E. L.

Russia in 1924, Wm. Z. Foster's account of his recent visit to Russia, is being issued as a 10c pamphlet by the Trade Union Educational League, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago.

"Living conditions are still difficult." Foster says in his summary of the Russian situation, "but the important fact is that they are a tremendous improvement over the frightful conditions which prevailed a few years ago. It is this improvement which shows the progress of the Russian revolution to success and which encourages the workers to still greater efforts. Bad off as the workers still are, all they have to do is to think back to the civil war, famine, plague and starvation that marked the early stages of their death struggle with capitalism, and then their present evils seem light in comparison. The Russian revolution unquestionably still has many great battles to fight. But the revolution will live and as it establishes and fortifies itself, it will be an ever greater stimulus and inspiration for the international working class."

Beauty Workers' Union Formed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—A movement to organize a union for manicurists and hair dressers was started today when five men and women working in beauty parlors applied to Supreme Court Justice Donohue for incorporation papers under the name of the Independent Beauty Parlor Workers of New York, Inc. The petitioners stated that they intended to admit manicurists, hair weavers, and hair dressers to membership. Later application will be made for membership in the American Federation of Labor.

TEXTILE UNION BEGINS WAGE CUT FIGHT IN MASS.

Nothing Doing on Wage Cut Is Message to Mills

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Officials of the United Textile Workers' Union say the resolution their convention has just adopted against the acceptance of wage cuts puts the issue up to those employers who have declared for reductions. The first battle front looming on the horizon is in the mills of the Manville-Jenckes company, a $37,000,000 corporation that extends from Rhode Island to North Carolina.

Over 800,000 to Quit.

The Manville-Jenckes firm controls almost 700,000 spindles of the 3,500,000 under power in the United States. The more than 818,000 workers in the company received word that there would be a wage cut of 5 per cent while they were at their looms.

It is the opinion of the officials of the Textile Workers' Union that the move for reduction in wages will most likely be followed by many hundreds of other large plants in New England. This fight against the cut while centered in the Manville-Jenckes company must be fought for the entire textile industry.

Mill Workers Behind Fight.

Thomas F. McMahon, president of the union, says an organization campaign is now being conducted in the company's plants at Woonsocket, R. I., in the Globe, Social and Nourse mills; at Pawtucket, in Tamarack mills Nos. 1 and 2 and in the Jenckes Annex mill; in the Manville mill at Manville and in the mills at Gastonia, North Carolina. President Gompers of the A. F. of L. and Michael O'Donnell, president of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor, have also pledged assistance.

Your Union Meeting

Third Tuesday, Sept. 16, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting.
21	Bricklayers, 512 W. Monroe St.
58	Carpenters, Diversey and Sheffield.
141	Carpenters, 1023 E. 75th St.
272	Carpenters, Moose Hall, Chicago Heights.
1786	Carpenters, Springfield and 26th.
402	Engineers, 180 W. Washington St.
95	Firemen and Enginemen, 9438 S. Halsted St.
542	Federal Employes, Great Northern Hotel.
	Glove Workers' Joint Council, 1710 N. Winchester Ave. 5130 p. m.
5	Hod Carriers, 225 E. 15th St., Chicago Heights, Ill.
6	Hod Carriers, 814 W. Harrison St.
81	Ladies' Garment Workers, 328 W. Van Buren St.
	Marine Fire and Oilers, 357 N. Clark.
147	Painters, 20 W. Randolph St.
180	Painters, N. E. cor. California and Madison.
184	Painters, 6414 S. Halsted St.
191	Painters, N. W. cor. State and 35th.
275	Painters, 220 W. Oak St.
521	Painters, Trumbull and Ogden Ave.
502	Plasterers, Monroe and Perlo Sts.
2	Printers and Die Stampers, 19 W. Adams St.
724	Railway Carmen, 75th and Drexel Ave.
1047	Railway Clerks, 9 S. Clinton St.
2219	Railway Clerks, 566 W. Washington.
703	Teamsters, 159 N. State St.
7	Waiters, 234 W. Randolph St.
111	Upholsterers Union, 180, W. Washington St.
39	Amalgamated Clothing Workers, Kedzie and Ogden.
152	Amalgamated Clothing Workers, 1534 N. Robey St.

(Note: Unless otherwise stated, all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

Herriot Patted on Back.

RAMBOUILLET, France, Sept. 15.—With President Doumergue presiding, the premier cabinet today met and approved Premier Herriot's program at the Geneva league of nations' meeting including his speeches.

AMBASSADOR OF SOVIET TO CHINA IN REPLY TO JAP

Karakhan Hits Back at U. S. Position

(Rosta News.)

PEKING.—The following note having been handed by the Japanese Minister, Mr. Yoshizawa, to Mr. Karakhan, under date of August 10, 1924:

"Mr. Ambassador:

"With reference to my note of even date on the subject of the Russian Legation, I have the honor to inform Your Excellency that I am desired by my American Colleague to notify you that his action in acquiescing in the understanding embodied in the note above referred to in no wise constitutes or implies recognition on the part of the government of the United States of the regime known as the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

"I avail myself of this opportunity to renew to Your Excellency, Mr. Ambassador, the assurance of my highest consideration.

(Signed) K. Yoshizawa."

—the Soviet ambassador forwarded his reply as follows:

"August 19, 1924.

"Mr. Minister:

"I have the honor to inform Your Excellency that I do not consider possible to accept the note under date of August 18, 1924, which you presented me at the request of the American Minister.

"I really regret very much that you could not decline this American commission at a time when Japan is herself engaged in negotiations whose object is to restore normal relations between the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the government of Japan. I hope, however, that if and when the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics recognizes the government of Japan, while Japan recognizes the government of the Union—this will not be interpreted in the sense that the government of the Union will have recognized the bourgeois capitalistic regime of Japan, nor will it be taken to mean the recognition by Japan of the socialist regime of the dictatorship of the proletariat. I may likewise express the hope that you have no doubt as to the fact that the negotiations we are carrying on with you at present are being conducted not between two regimes, but between the governments of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and of Japan. This understanding may make it easier for your Excellency, as it seems to me, to explain to your American Colleague the limits of courtesy beyond which his fear might lead him.

"It should also be added for the information of Your Excellency's American Colleague and, for that matter, of your other Colleagues who may not have had time yet, like the American Minister, to formulate their anxiety, that there does not exist in international law and practice a method of restoration of diplomatic relations between the two governments by way of returning to one of them a legation belonging to the latter government and situated in the capital of a third power by the other of those two governments, which but accidentally and without the consent of the real owner has in its hands the keys from the buildings of such a legation.

"Herewith I beg to return the above-mentioned note of August 18, 1924.

"I avail of this opportunity to renew to You, Mr. Minister, the assurances of my highest consideration.

(Signed) L. Karakhan."

EARN YOUR COMMUNIST MERIT STAMP BY GETTING A NEW MEMBER FOR THE PARTY AND ANOTHER READER AND SUBSCRIBER TO THE DAILY WORKER.

Young woman or man to share cozy apartment. Convenient to L and Bus. Opposite Park.—Reasonable rent. Call Jacobson, Dearborn 3861.

Vote Communist This Time!

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

Yes! Yes! I'm coming! Not so loud!
DON'T SHOUT TOUCH THEM DRESS THE BUTTON
Git-Zoo-Ga
Git-Zoo-Ga
Git-Zoo-Ga

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year $3.50...6 months $2.00...3 months

By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year $4.50...6 months $2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE ..... Editors
MORITZ J. LOEB ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application

The Coming British Elections

Lloyd George, who once played a role in British politics similar to that now played by Robert Marion LaFollette in the United States, has announced with a fanfare of trumpests that the Liberals will march into the opposition lobby with the Tories on the question of the Anglo-Soviet treaty when the British parliament opens next month.

The sincerity of Lloyd George's opposition to the treaty can be measured in the light of his readiness to enter the fray against the MacDonald government, in the event of the Anglo-Russian conference breaking up without reaching an agreement. He had a long speech written, denouncing MacDonald for failure to negotiate a treaty. The Welsh wizard is the champion political crook of this generation.

The Labor Party is willing to risk a general election on the Russian treaty issue. Besides the treaty, the Tories have another bone to pick with the Labor government: the Irish boundary question. The Tories will rally to the aid of the hard pressed Orange reactionaries, strongest bulwark of British rule in Ireland.

Have the British capitalist class decided that they have gotten as much out of the Labor Party government as possible for the moment? Have they reached the conclusion that MacDonald has now pulled their most desirable chestnuts out of the fire and that the time has arrived to hand over the management of the Empire to their older and more trusted, tho perhaps not more loyal servants? Or is it because the old politicians in the Tory and Liberal parties are tired playing the role of audience and desire to be the actors on the stage? It would appear that the Labor Party has been serving the master class well and outside of trivial concessions to the latent spirit of revolt among the masses, they have not rocked the imperialist boat even gently.

But after all it must be a distressing sight for the capitalist descendants of the bold pirates of the Elisabethan reign, who laid the foundations of the modern Empire to see a party, no matter how conservative, with the hated name of "Labor" at the Empire's throttle. It gives the workers a sense of power. They begin to believe they are "it." And when MacDonald's "Christian socialist" tactics prove more futile, they will try sterner methods.

It is not likely that whatever British government succeeds the present one, will refuse to negotiate a treaty with Soviet Russia. While the bankers and business elements of Britain may not like some features of the present treaty, they certainly desired one, for the sake of business. It is possible they do not object to the treaty so much as they do to the manner in which the agreement was reached after all hope was lost and negotiations broken off. The appearance of the leaders of the British left wing—which is not so very left at that —in the private study of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, carrying a club representing the entire British trade movement and their ultimatum that the British Labor government must sign the treaty with the Workers' Republic, is a dangerous precedent and no doubt sent a shiver of dread down the spines of the British capitalists.

The British capitalists fear the rising left wing sentiment in the British trade union movement. They fear that the workers may get tired of fooling with the capitalist parliamentary machine which only exists for the purpose of keeping them in subjection, and will build their own government organ as their comrades in Russia did. Some day the British workers will follow the example of their Russian brothers.

They Cannot Take Sides

Another little incident appears in the news from Great Britain that shows what a farce the so-called Labor government of that country is proving itself to be, and how little it deserves the name of "Labor." J. R. Clynes, who has long been a trade union leader, and who is now Lord Privy Seal, Member of Parliament, and a few other things in the "Labor" government (all of which carry salaries, by the way), was invited by a group of building trades workers to confer with them about the fight which was on a few weeks ago. Mr. Clynes declined to interest himself in the matter.

But the interesting point is not that Mr. Clynes would not confer with strikers, but rather the reasons which he gave for this attitude. "An understanding has been arrived at," said Mr. Clynes, "by the members of the government that its trade union members will keep to politics only, and not take sides in industrial disputes." The "Labor" government has, in short, withdrawn itself from the labor movement. It is neutral in the struggles between the workers and the employers (officially, that is), just the same as Lloyd George and Stanley Baldwin kept their governments neutral.

Every worker knows just what such neutrality is worth. There is no such thing as neutrality, anyway, in a great social struggle, and even if these fake "Labor" men wanted to be "neutral," they would find it impossible. But actually they have no interest in neutrality. They are interested only in continuing the traditions of government handed down to them by the other capitalist governments that preceded them. They are "little brothers to the rich," anxiously waiting to be drafted into the ranks of the capitalists, into the ruling class, into the circles of fancy-dress court receptions, of dividends, of imperialist banquets. They have but one use for the "Labor" government, and that is, as a means to serve their ambitions. They are but another brand of servants of capitalism.

A Modern Taylor System

The approval given to the "B. & O. Plan" by a speaker before the Taylor Society of efficiency engineers, reported yesterday in the DAILY WORKER, is but another warning signal to the convention of the International Association of Machinists now in session in Detroit.

Organized labor knows from bitter experience what the Taylor System means. It is a scientific system of slave-driving. It pits the fastest workers against the slowest, sets the standard by the highest possible production, and then, step by step, not only forces all the workers to speed up to that high notch, but even drives the speeders themselves to new frenzies of haste. The result upon the workers is exhaustion, break-down, and speedy scrapping to be replaced by new machine-fodder.

Robert G. Valentine, the speaker before the Taylor Society, said that Wm. H. Johnstone's scheme of collaboration with the employers, generally known as the "B. & O. Plan," is for the employers an improvement on the Taylor System. In the place of the foremen, hired by the boss, to drive the workers to continuously higher speed, the "B. & O. Plan" places the union of the workers itself in the position of slave-driver over its members. The "B. & O. Plan" even goes so far, that it makes the union a machinery for weeding out and blacklisting workers who do not come up to the efficiency standard. It destroys the very basis of unionism, sets worker against worker, and concerns itself almost entirely with increasing the profits of the boss—without so much as the slightest guarantee that even a little percentage of the gains should accrue to the workers.

The machinists are facing a crisis in their organization on this question of the "B. & O. Plan." If they allow their designing and ambitious "leaders" to put this disguised Taylor System over on them, then the machinists are in for a black period in the future. If the union is to be saved as an organization of struggle for the interests of its members, then the "B. & O. Plan" must be defeated.

The Comedy of War Guilt

The former allies have been engaged in fixing the blame for the late war for the last seven years. They thought they had it fastened on Germany, but somehow it did not stick. It was like the proverbial "bomb" in the movies, each side throwing the thing into the other fellow's camp, but it never explodes and does no one any harm.

It has been comedy, pure and simple, for which, however, the toiling masses of the world have been compelled to pay a heavy price. We are still paying, and will continue to pay (the Dawes plan makes sure that we do) so long as capitalism remains in the saddle.

Something happened just the other day to add hilarity to the imperialist game, and some ten million dollars to be extracted additionally from the workers of Germany, France, England and America. A cable from Berlin, dated September 14, says in effect: "Bankers offer Germany ten million dollars to withhold note denying war blame."

You know what it means. Germany was about to throw the blame-bomb back into the yard of the allied imperialists. So the papers were saying. The German government has been preparing a note to that effect, apparently under pressure from the Nationalists. We surmise that this guilt-denying note was to be sent by the Marx-Stresemann cabinet in part payment for the Nationalists' support to the Dawes plan in the German Reichstag.

Here stepped in the bankers. The bankers, you know, are quite anxious about the success of their world-enslaving scheme called the Dawes plan, particularly the American bankers. They have figured the thing out, and quite correctly, that a German note denying war-guilt, coming at this time, would act as a monkey wrench in the newly set up machinery of that plan.

That would not do, of course. It has got to be prevented. So here is what the bankers did. They told Germany in very plain language, we understand, that they will concede to her one-half of one per cent in the interest rate on the forthcoming $200,000,000 loan, which will mean a present of about $10,000,000 to Germany if she consents to withhold the threatened note.

We are not familiar yet with Germany's reaction to this offer by the bankers. She may accept it and she may not. The thing, however, that we are most concerned with is, who is going to pay the bill?

More groans from Oswald Garrison Villard! United States troops are shooting Filipino laborers in the Hawaii islands. "This will not happen when LaFollette is in the White House." Mr. Villard may manage to say between groans. Perhaps not and perhaps he may go one better by taking Ramsay MacDonald's example and dropping bombs on them. Robert was never half the pacifist that Ramsay is—was.

Send in that new "sub" today!

AS WE SEE IT - -

By T. J. O'Flaherty

(Continued from Page 1)

touch. You are a credit to the British Empire, but honestly I don't know how long you can stand it, as I hear you have to ride in the subway coming to and from work. I have not been told that you carry a dinner pail and take your lunch to work with you in the morning wrapped up in somebody else's copy of the Daily Herald, but if I were in your place and trying to live on four miserable salaries that is what I would have to do. It is terrible, how negligent the country is; how it neglects its best servants.

* * *

"NOW take my own position dear Ramsay. During the war, I purchased war bonds, produced cracks for the army and navy and forfeited my right to go to the front because I was of more service at the rear. I gave a valuable library to Scotland and the only thing I wish for is a wee little title, yet there isn't a thing to my name that would distinguish it from that a dog catcher. Not of course, that has nothing to do with the case and what I intend doing for you Ramsay—if I can break down your resistance—stands on its own feet as a friendly act and nothing else. Whether you speak to the king or not in behalf of what I suggested by way of a title—other premiers have done it—will not make the slightest difference to me. I'll love you just the same.

* * *

"THEREFORE to come to the point, this is my suggestion. You are not in very good health. The subway air is bad for you. You are a thrifty soul and the thot of not being in a position to save a pound would eat you like cancer. I propose to give you a handsome automobile — please don't strike me, my intentions are good—." We feel that at this moment Alexander was in danger of losing his life, but he managed to convince the premier that his object was not seduction. So MacDonald withdrew the theatened blow, but debated the question of keeping a handsome limousine on his miserable four salaries. The biscuit millionaire saw the point and after considerable difficulty broke down MacDonald's opposition to keep the auto in fuel and manpower, in other words he would pay for the gas and the chauffeur. This looked like bribery to MacDonald, who remembered what happened to Lloyd George over the Marconi scandal, but when his friend Alexander Grant informed him that it required only an investment of $150,000 in his cracker factory to keep the automobile in running condition, and that Alexander himself and none other would make the necessary investment, MacDonald's opposition broke down and he submitted, assuring his friend that he was one of the three men in existence at whose hands he would allow himself to be treated with such generosity.

* * *

